

and then to go through the hospitals and see the wounded, and limbs, amputated, lying in heaps for burial. In some you would see the dead that had just drawn their last breath—there they lay, dead and dying together—rebels and Union men—those that had fought to preserve, and those that had fought to sever the Union lay dead, dying and wounded together, in negro pens, log houses and barns.

The sight was sickening in the extreme. I never want to witness the like again, but if the enemy make a stand at Richmond, if we live and escape the dangers of war, I suppose that the sight will be still worse, for then there will be two mighty armies in the field. It will be the death struggle of rebellion. Our cavalry is now within a few miles of Richmond, and I think you will soon hear of some heavy work from the Army of the Potomac. While I sit in the woods now, writing, I can hear the booming of heavy guns on the York or James river, which is probably from our gun boats, feeling their way up towards Richmond. The weather is very warm here and getting more so daily.

Yours,
W. C. R.

The Late Capt. Wilson.

We have received a detailed account of the meeting held by the officers of the Ninety-third regiment, in camp near Brandy Station, March 24th, 1864, on the announcement of Capt. Wilson's death in New York. Major McConihe called the meeting to order, and after announcing the sad intelligence paid the following tribute to the deceased Captain:

"Noble, kind and generous in his nature, sympathizing and benevolent, he was a true friend and brother to us all. To his company he was a father. So warm-hearted and genial was he, such a friend to us all, that all who knew him loved him and no enemies had he. The lonely and weary wayfarer, robless and homeless, always found a bed in Capt. Wilson's tent, a seat at Capt. Wilson's table. His heart was open to the private soldier as well as to the officer, for he had no feeling of caste. He was a true and practical philanthropist and humanitarian, a modest, unassuming, self-abnegating man, a true patriot, a brave soldier, an efficient and capable officer. My brother officers, we all lament and deplore his loss. We shall mourn him ever and for aye, and his name we shall ever dearly enshrine in our hearts. Never shall we forget him; ever shall we remember him, and our love for him shall never die!"

The following preamble and resolutions were subsequently adopted:

"Whereas, We have this day received the mournful intelligence of the death of Hiram S. Wilson, Captain Ninety-third New York volunteer infantry, which occurred on the night of the 3d inst.; therefore,

"Resolved, That we deeply deplore the loss to our regiment and to the army occasioned by the decease of our brother-in-arms, Capt. Hiram S. Wilson. By his death, this regiment has sustained an irreparable loss, his brother officers see a warm-hearted, generous and honorable friend and genial companion, and our country, a brave and chivalric officer.

"Resolved, That the commissioned officers of the regiment wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and that the regimental colors be draped in mourning for the same length of time.

"Resolved, That we sincerely sympathize with the family of the deceased in their great affliction, and forward a copy of these resolutions to them as an expression of our sympathy; and that a copy be forwarded to the leading newspapers for publication."

Remarks were subsequently made by Capt. Johnson and Barnes, who feelingly testified to the high moral character and kind nature of the deceased soldier. Col. Crocker said:

"I have known Capt. Wilson well for some fifteen or twenty years, longer and perhaps better than any of you. I know the pure and noble sentiments that actuated his life. I know what warm and generous impulses ever stirred his manly heart, that now, alas, lies cold and motionless in death; his high and lofty patriotism, and strong and holy integrity of purpose. He was one of the few we meet in our life-journey, whose heart and right hand of fellowship extended to each and all, high or low, rich or poor. With you I mourn him most deeply, most sadly, for he loved us all, every one of us. I know it well and truly. Identified as he was with this regiment from its organization, his heart was bound up with it, as well as it could be with any one thing. He cherished its honor and its fame as his own. Never would he admit that it had its equal in the service. His high moral nature rebelled at anything wrong or unjust. While in Washington at one time, we took with him a number of his soldiers to entertain them at one of the leading hotels. Some objections were made to the presence of common soldiers in that aristocratic locality. But Capt. Wilson's generous nature rebelled at such unjust treatment of the nation's defenders, and indignantly declaring that what was too good for his men was too good for him, we compelled these shameless would-be aristocrats to evince an appearance at least of common justice and politeness. God bless such Nature's noblemen who have in their very souls that great knowledge 'that all men are born free and equal.'"

Lieut. William L. Bramhall, Acting Adjutant of the regiment, then said:

"The stranger whom he might meet, however cold and repulsive he might be, was immediately warmed into new life by the cheerful and kindly countenance or the warm and soul-stirring shake of the hand of Captain Wilson. He was one of those few and singularly constituted men who had not an enemy and who was the friend of all. A little incident came to my notice about a year ago, which well illustrates his character. I casually met a friend of mine, a Lieutenant whom I had not seen for several years. In the course of the conversation, he told me that toward the close of the seven days' battles he threw himself down under a tree by the roadside, wasted by fever and nearly dead from his sufferings and fatigue. He was taken up by Captain Wilson, a perfect stranger to him, who took him to his own quarters, placed him upon his own bed, and nursed and nourished his worn-out frame until so far recovered that he returned to his regiment. My friend told me, and I doubt not, that Captain Wilson saved his life."

On motion, it was unanimously

"Resolved, That a committee be appointed to confer with the widow of the deceased for the erection of a suitably-inscribed monument to the memory of the late Capt. Hiram S. Wilson, by the officers of this regiment."

Col. Crocker appointed Captains D. E. Barnes, Edson Fitch, Henry C. Newton, Nathan J. Johnson and John Bailey, to constitute such committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

COMMON COUNCIL, May 17.—PRESENT—

Mayor Ferry, Recorder Faddock and a quorum.

After roll call, the Mayor said:

GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMON COUNCIL—The sad events of this war have taken from our midst another brave, devoted and gallant soldier, whom we were wont to meet in fraternal relations.

It has pleased God in His mysterious providence to remove by death our much esteemed fellow-citizen, Col. JOHN WILSON, of the Forty-third Regiment, New York State Volunteers, who died from the effects of wounds received at a recent battle in Virginia, while gallantly charging in the late battle of the Wilderness, thus adding another name to the already long list of Albany's noble sons who have laid their lives a voluntary sacrifice upon the altar of our country; therefore,

"Resolved, That we recognize in Col. WILSON a young man of the rarest excellence of character, whose gentlemanly deportment, unassuming manners and social virtues endeared him to all who shared his acquaintances, and who, although surrounded by all the disadvantages of the most pleasant home, hesitated not when his country called, to sacrifice every personal interest, sever every endearing tie, and exchange the comforts of a happy home for the hardships of the tented field.

"Resolved, That he was no ordinary sacrifice. That those who knew his circumstances and relations in life best, cannot but appreciate the pure, unselfish, devoted patriotism that prompted him to enter a career where, personally, he had everything to lose and nothing to gain.

"Resolved, That in his death our country has lost one of her most earnest, faithful defenders, our city one of its brightest ornaments, its widowed mother a most dutiful son, and his weeping sisters a loving brother.

"Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved family in their severe affliction, and while we share with them the sorrow, we may also share the abiding consolation that the loss to us of one so noble, pure and virtuous, cannot be other than his eternal gain."

Resolved, That to his remains and memory are eminent-ly due the highest respect that a city can pay to one of her most valiant sons.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to make all necessary arrangements for the funeral of the lamented Col. Wilson, on the day to be appointed after the arrival of his remains, and that the members of the Common Council will attend his funeral in a body, and wear the usual badge of mourning.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be signed by the Mayor and Clerk, and sent to the family of the deceased.

The resolutions were adopted, and Ald. Amsdell, John-son, Tracey, Judson and Bancroft, were appointed the Committee of Arrangements.

Ald. JOHNSON moved the appointment of a committee to draft suitable resolutions on the death of General Rice and Major Wallace, to report at the next meeting; also, that the Board attend the funeral of General Rice in a body. [Adopted, and Alds. Johnson, Bancroft and Kennedy were appointed such committee.

Col. JOHN WILSON.—The report that the brave commandant of the 43d Regiment was wounded, caused considerable regret among our citizens. He was among the first of our citizens to move when the rebellion first broke out, and as Captain and Major of the gallant 43d, was in every battle on the Peninsula, displaying the greatest courage and bravery. Subsequently he was made Colonel, and the recent fight was the first into which he led his men since he became their head and front. He never received a scratch before, and the earnest prayer of all is, that if wounded, he may soon recover.

The remains of Colonel Wilson arrived this morning, and the funeral will take place Sunday afternoon. Due notice will be given.

L. G. BANCROFT,
Sec. of Com. of Arrangements.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE COLONEL JOHN WILSON.—Funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon (Saturday) at the residence of the mother of the late Col. John Wilson, after which the remains will be taken by a detachment of the Burgess Corps to the Capitol, where they will remain until Sunday noon, guarded by the Corps. The remains will be brought from the Capitol at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon by the Corps and taken to the Pearl Street Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member. The public services at the Church will be conducted by the Pastor. After this the remains will be taken to the Cemetery under escort of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, Col. Church, and interred in the family grounds.

FUNERAL OF COL. WILSON.—A meeting of the committee of the Common Council appointed to make arrangements for the reception and burial of the remains of Col. Wilson, was held in the Mayor's Office, City Hall, Monday evening, Ald. Amsdell in the chair, and Ald. Bancroft acting as secretary. Representatives from the several fire companies, 25th Regiment and Burgess Corps were present.

The Board of Foremen met last evening to take action with reference to a parade of the Fire Department on the occasion of the funeral.

Col. W. S. Church was selected as Grand Marshal.

At a Regular Meeting of Clinton Lodge, No. 7, I. O. of O. F., held at their rooms in Cooper's Building, Thursday Evening, May 26th, 1871, the following pro-ceedings and resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

Whereas, It has pleased the Almighty Maker of the Universe to take to himself our beloved companion and Brother, Col. JOHN WILSON, who fell with his face to the enemy while nobly fighting for his Country; be it therefore,

Resolved, That while we bow with submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well, we can never forget the many virtues which characterized the noble nature of our true patriot, a brave soldier, and a loving son—his blood upon our Country's altar—

"Green be the sod o'er the young hero's grave."

Resolved, That our heartfelt sympathies be offered to the family of our deceased Brother, and may they receive consolation from a Divine Providence.

Resolved, That we attend the funeral of our deeply lamented Brother, and that a copy of the above be published and transmitted to the family of the deceased.

J. E. WEAVER, Secy. R. H. COZZENS, M. C. MAY 27 11

FUNERAL OF COLONEL JOHN WILSON

A meeting of the Committee of the Common Council appointed to make arrangements for the reception and burial of the remains of Col. John Wilson, was held in the Mayor's Office, City Hall, last evening, Alderman Amsdell in the Chair, and Alderman Bancroft acting as Secretary. Representatives from the several fire companies, Twenty-fifth Regiment and Burgess Corps were present.

The Board of Foremen decided to call meetings of their respective companies this (Tuesday) evening, to take action in regard to a parade by the Department.

A committee was appointed to consult with the family of deceased as to the propriety of having the body deposited in the Receiving Vault for the present.

Col. Church was selected as Grand Marshal.

Col. Baker, who visited the battle field of the Wilderness in quest of the body of our gallant and lamented townsman, Col. John Wilson, of the Forty-third Regiment, succeeded in his mission, and it was stated at the meeting that he left Washington on Sunday morning with the body of the deceased. It was expected here this morning, but a delay occurred on the route, and it is probable that the remains will not reach this city until to-morrow morning.

The time has not yet been fixed upon for the funeral, but it will probably take place either on Thursday or Friday afternoon.

Mr. Dyer's REMIND.—At the

The Late Col. John Wilson.

Capt. Terrell, of the 43d Regiment, who went to Washington with expectation of being permitted to go forward in search of the body of the late Col. John Wilson, of this city, returned home Saturday afternoon, having failed to accomplish the object of his visit. He ascertained from the wounded members of the 43d in the hospital, that the Colonel was shot in the leg and suffered greatly from the loss of blood before amputation was performed. He was so much weakened by the excessive bleeding of his wound that death soon ensued. Shortly after an order was received directing the regiment to push forward without delay; but two of the members remained behind to inter his body. They dug a grave and buried him in his overcoat. They placed a board at his head to denote where he was placed, and then hurried forward to join the regiment. This was in the Wilderness, and as many more of our brave heroes were buried there, it was deemed impracticable to proceed there; but Col. Baker, formerly in command of the regiment, obtained a pass to go forward, and it is fervently hoped he will be able to accomplish the purpose in view. He will, undoubtedly, encounter many difficulties in the performance of his duty, and may not succeed in his mission.

ARRIVAL OF THE REMAINS OF COL. JOHN WILSON.

The remains of the gallant and heroic Col. John Wilson arrived yesterday morning in the steamer Hendrik Hudson, and were taken in charge by a detachment of the Burgess Corps. They were taken in the afternoon to the late residence of the deceased, where they will remain until Sunday noon, when they will be brought down to the Pearl street Baptist Church, where the funeral services will take place in the afternoon.

The funeral escort will consist of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, under the command of Col. Church. The Burgess Corps, of which the deceased was a member, will act as a guard of honor. The funeral will be under the direction of the Committee of the Common Council. It is expected that the entire Fire Department will unite with the military in paying funeral honors to one of our late and noblest citizens.

Col. Baker, who arrived here in charge of the remains of Col. Wilson, says the delay in getting the body arose from some technical difficulty with regard to the flag of truce. He experienced no difficulty in finding the grave. He learned that the very best of care had been taken of the deceased from the time he was wounded until his death. He suffered greatly from his injuries, but all that could be done to alleviate his sufferings was done.

ENLISTED AS A PRIVATE.—Among those enlisted yesterday by Captain Terrell, of the 43d Regiment, was William N. Middlebrook. Middlebrook was formerly a member of the Police Department. He served under Captain Conway, in the 4th precinct, at a time when there were about twenty burglaries committed in a week in that district. Finally, the perpetrator of these crimes was "copped to rights" through the vigilance of Middlebrook. The burglar was subsequently tried, convicted and sentenced to prison for five years. We allude to this circumstance in order to show that Middlebrook was a shrewd and efficient officer, and that he should have been retained on the force. But his politics or something of the kind went against him, and when the present law went into effect he was decapitated, as were many other worthy fellows.

Well, about two years ago the subject of this article went off as a commissioned officer in the 43d Regiment. He served faithfully for several months, and was finally rewarded for his bravery by receiving a commission as a Lieutenant. A short time since he obtained a leave of absence for fifteen days, to visit his family in this city. He remained here a few days over his time, never suspecting that he was committing any grave military offence. But it turned out that he was mistaken. A couple of days ago he received a Washington paper containing a list of officers dismissed the service for absence without leave—among which he found his own name recorded. Instead of stopping to inquire into the ways and wherefores for being thus unceremoniously relieved of his shoulder straps, Middlebrook was determined on serving his country in her time of need, and, to prove his loyalty and good faith, enlisted, as the caption of this paragraph denotes, as a private in the 43d Regiment, under his old commander, Col. John Wilson, of this city. Whether as a private in the front rank, or as a commissioned officer, Middlebrook is bound to make his mark on the flank of the enemy. May success attend such a soldier, say we.

THE LATE WILLIAM E. ORR.—At a special meeting of the Directors of the "Kutcherbocker Base Ball Club," held June 4th, 1864, the following preamble and resolutions were presented by Mr. R. V. De Witt, Jr., and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom, has taken from the world William E. Orr, one of the founders of our Club, and has pronounced his work finished, when to us it seemed that his career of usefulness had just commenced; and

Whereas, "his Club has lost one of its most prominent members, and each of us as members a valued comrade and friend; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we recognize the truth that each of us must die and return to dust, we rejoice that man is capable of noble sacrifice, and that individual death may minister to a nation's life.

Resolved, That in the death of our comrade, we acknowledge the afflictive hand of God; but we rejoice that one of our number has so faithfully acted the part of a patriot and soldier, while we mourn that his life has been a necessary sacrifice for the defence of our afflicted country.

Resolved, That we tender our sympathies to the relatives of our deceased friend in their deep affliction.

M. V. B. WINNE, President.
N. D. WENDELL, GEO. P. WATKINS, Secretaries.

ALBANY REPUBLICAN ARTILLERY.

To the Memory of Lieut. Col. Fryer, 43d Regiment N. Y. S. V.

At a meeting held on Monday evening, May 16, the following preamble and resolution were adopted:—

Again we are called to mourn the loss of a brother member; one who has endeared himself to us by ties of friendship; who, when the first battle cry was raised, joined with us in the true spirit of patriotism in saving our National Capitol. He it was who, in our first advance on Arlington Heights, leading the van, ordered the first rebel met on that dark night to surrender, thereby showing he was truly in earnest. When, on the return of our regiment, after a three months' service, he went out with the 43d Regiment, Col. Vinton, shouldering his musket (although qualified to command), it was not a selfish ambition, but true love of country, that led him on, from the ranks to Lieutenant, from thence to Major, and finally to Lieut. Colonel, in each and every position of which he won the love of the rank and file, the confidence and esteem of the officers. After the lamented Wilson fell, he led them on, and when pierced with the bullets of the enemy and lying on the bloody field, he still encouraged his men to advance. He died a soldier, and while we offer our sympathy to the family for their only boy, we feel that he has gone to a better and brighter world. May God sustain them in their affliction.

Resolved, That the Company will unite with the villagers of Greenbush to pay the last sad tribute of respect to the remains of the deceased, and that a copy of this preamble and resolution be sent to the family of our late comrade.

Capt. J. S. POCHIN,
Lieut. W. V. COLKUSE,
Sergt. M. V. B. MOORE,
Sergt. C. T. HEALEY,
S. B. DIAMOND,
Committee.

P. S.—Such members of the 43d as are in the city are invited to join with us in attending the funeral of the deceased. They will please meet at the armory to-day (Friday), at 1 P. M., at the room of Company A.
J. POCHIN, Captain.

MAJOR FRYER HEARD FROM.—It was reported that Major Fryer, of the Forty-third, had been killed in the battle of "the Wilderness;" but it will be seen by the following letter, written by him on the 19th, that he was wounded, but is doing well:

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., May 10.

Dear Father—I take this, the first opportunity to inform you that in the action of last Friday I received three wounds—one through the right shoulder, the neck and the right arm. They are not considered dangerous, and I am doing well. We are now in Fredericksburgh, and will probably be sent to Washington as soon as possible. Lieutenant Cavanagh has lost his left leg. John Alendorf is shot through both thighs. Col. Wilson received a wound from which he has since died.

Maj. JOHN FRYER, 43d Vol.
Per S. H. LINCOLN, Adjutant.

REMAINS OF COL. WILSON.—Col. BAKER who arrived here this morning in charge of the remains of Col. WILSON, informs us that the delay in getting the body across from some technical difficulty with regard to the flag of truce. He experienced no difficulty in finding the grave. He learned that the very best of care had been taken of the deceased from the time he was wounded until his death. He suffered greatly from his injuries, but all that could be done to alleviate his sufferings was done.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE COLONEL JOHN WILSON.—Funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon (Saturday) at the residence of the mother of the late Col. John Wilson, after which the remains will be taken by a detachment of the Burgess Corps to the Capitol, where they will remain until Sunday noon, guarded by the Corps. The remains will be brought from the Capitol at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon by the Corps and taken to the Pearl Street Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a member. The public services at the Church will be conducted by the Pastor. After this the remains will be taken to the Cemetery under escort of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, Col. Church, and interred in the family grounds.

CAPT. WILSON'S FUNERAL.—The imposing military and civic display, added to the immense concourse of friends and spectators present at the funeral of the late Capt. Wilson yesterday afternoon, have not been equalled on any similar occasion for a long time past. The body, which had lain in state at the Common Council room since Saturday morning, was removed to the Third street Baptist church about 8 o'clock. That spacious edifice was literally packed. In the central pews were the mourners, officers and soldiers from the Albany barracks, the Troy City Artillery, officers of the Twenty-fourth regiment, Col. Levin Crandell and Major Hyde, of the One hundred and twenty-fifth regiment, Colonel John McConihe, Capts. Vaughn, Snyder and Tarbell, and Lieuts. W. H. Merriam and Clark Smith, Adjutant of the One hundred and sixty-ninth regiment, several officers, representatives of the old Second regiment, Mayor Thorn and several other prominent city officers, and the Masonic Fraternity, represented by Apollo, King Solomon's and Mount Zion Lodges, who turned out in large numbers. The side pews and galleries were filled with spectators. Dr. Baldwin's remarks were exceedingly brief, but admirably adapted to the occasion. He dwelt with particular impressiveness upon the suddenness of the decease. Only a week ago he had met the lamented soldier at the wedding of a friend in Troy, and he never had appeared so stalwart, so strong, so healthy, as at that time. In five days afterwards he was a corpse. Dr. B. also adverted to the fact that while we all know that death must come to us sooner or later, none of us are aware of the exact time and place when the blow will fall. This gallant soldier had anticipated death on the battle-field; he had braved the dangers of swamp and bullet, and had fallen far from scenes of danger, at a time when he least expected it. Dr. B. paid a generous tribute to the character of the deceased, as a citizen, a soldier, a husband and a father. After a hymn by the choir—Mr. Huntington presiding at the organ—the friends were afforded an opportunity to inspect the features of the corpse, as it laid in front of the pulpit. About an hour was occupied in this ceremony, and it was past five o'clock before the procession started for Oakwood cemetery, preceded by Doring's Band. A shower of rain came up—driving away the hundreds of men and women who had assembled in front of the church and along the route of the procession. At Oakwood, the usual volleys were fired over the grave, (at the receiving vault,) and the impressive ceremonies of the Masonic Order were fully carried out. Dr. Baldwin also performed religious services.

—The suddenness of Capt. Wilson's attack and death were alluded to by Dr. Baldwin, yesterday. The New York Herald says that the deceased was poisoned by the bite of a rat. On Tuesday, he discovered a slight pimple on one of his fingers, which was thought to be a mere trifle at first, but which soon caused Capt. Wilson the most painful suffering. His whole arm became black, and from the symptoms presented, it is supposed he was poisoned by the bite of a rat, dog, or some other animal of that character. Hart's Island is said to be infested with rats of the most daring and venomous character, and hence it is deemed probable that Capt. Wilson has been the victim of a rat bite. Several doctors were called in; but, notwithstanding all the efforts made to save him, Capt. Wilson expired on Wednesday morning while sitting in a chair and perfectly conscious. The affair caused the most profound sorrow among all the officers on Hart's Island, as Capt. Wilson was much beloved and esteemed for his good qualities as an officer and a man. Gen. Jackson, the commandant of the post, considered the deceased as one of his best and most efficient officers. The commissioned officers on Hart's Island held a meeting on Thursday, and adopted appropriate resolutions.

W. S. CHURCH,
Grand Marshal

THE LATE LIEUT. COL. FRYER—2

meeting of the citizens of the village of Greenbush, held at the Boston House, May 17th, to make the necessary arrangements for the funeral of the late Lieut. Col. FRYER, on motion, Hon. Martin Miller was appointed Chairman, and S. P. Diamond, Secretary of the meeting.

The Chairman, after stating the purpose of the meeting, paid, in a few well-timed and appropriate remarks, a glowing tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased.

Mr. Fairchild offered the following preamble and resolutions, which were adopted:—

Whereas, We have heard with feelings of profound regret of the death of our worthy and esteemed young friend and fellow-citizen, Joan Fryer, who was wounded while gallantly leading his men at the battle of the "Wilderness," on the 6th day of May inst., as Lieutenant Colonel of the Forty-third Regiment New York State Volunteers, with the Army of the Potomac; and

Whereas, Although we recognize in this dispensation of an All-Wise and Omnipotent Creator the sorrowful and affliction, still we can point with pleasure and admiration to the career of this noble and self-sacrificing young man. Upon the first call of the President for troops to put down this accursed rebellion, which is now covering the land like a vulture over our beloved country, he joined the Twenty-fifth Regiment, N. Y. S. M., volunteering as a private in the Albany Republican Artillery, on which he was an honored member, serving a period of three months, gaining for himself in that short time an enviable reputation as a man and a soldier.

On the expiration of his term of service he returned home, and immediately proceeded to raise a company to be attached to the Forty-third Regiment, with the expectation that, in the event of his success, he would be Captain in the War Department was then placed for men, an order was received by the Regiment to proceed at once to the seat of war, thus depriving Col. Fryer of sufficient time to get the requisite number of recruits to enable him to the captaincy. Nothing daunted, however, but with a zeal and patriotic ardor of emulation, he joined the ranks and went to the front, a second time shouldering a musket; and in the very company which he had helped to recruit, where, by his correct deportment and sterling military qualifications, he was speedily promoted to a Lieutenancy. Through the recommendation of his superiors, he was again promoted to the rank of Captain, and, lastly to that of Lieutenant Colonel of the Regiment in which he deserved with such distinguished ability for nearly three years, being attached during all that time to the Army of the Potomac, enjoying all its honors, and necessarily engaged in all its battles. He had steadily pursued the course of an earnest and devoted advocate of his country's cause. A person of undaunted courage he was ever ready and willing to encounter danger when duty called, as is shown by the heroic manner of his death. Therefor be it

Resolved, That in his death his parents are called upon to mourn the loss of a dutiful son, his sisters an affectionate brother, his friends a worthy companion, and his country a tried and true defender.

Resolved, That we earnestly and sincerely sympathize with the family and friends of the deceased in this their hour of adversity, not doubting that the who controlled the destinies of all created beings will restore peace to their troubled minds.

Resolved, That the citizens of Greenbush are respectfully requested to attend the funeral of our lamented friend, and would recommend the closing of their places of business during the passage of the cortege through the village, as a lasting tribute of respect to his memory.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions, suitably expressed and signed by the Chairman and Secretary, be transmitted to the family of the deceased.

On motion, a committee of seven were appointed to make arrangements for the funeral, consisting of the following gentlemen:—James Whiting, S. P. Diamond, Hiram Drum, George Benedict, James H. Miller, William Van O'Linda and Martin Miller.

On motion, adjourned. S. P. DIAMOND, Secretary.

The funeral of Lieut. Col. Fryer will take place on Friday, 20th instant, at 2 o'clock p. m., from the residence of his father (Bell Road House,) East Albany.

DEATH OF MAJOR WILLIAM WALLACE, OF THE FORTY-THIRD REGIMENT N. Y. V.—At the first regular meeting of Albany Typographical Union No. 4 held since the sad intelligence was received, the following were unanimously adopted:—

Whereas, We have learned, with deep sorrow, of the death of our former President, Major WILLIAM WALLACE, who was killed, whilst in the performance of his duty, during the recent brilliant movements of the Army of the Potomac; therefore,

Resolved, That the lamented deceased was endeared to us by the purity and gentleness of his character, respected for his unobtrusive talents, and admired for his unselfish patriotism.

Resolved, That by his death our country has lost an ardent defender—our city a public-spirited and honorable citizen; and our Society an energetic and useful member.

Resolved, That we sincerely sympathize with the widow and relatives of our deceased friend in their great affliction—trusting that the nobleness of his death, in defence of his country, may, in a measure, alleviate their sorrow.

Resolved, That the charter of this Union be draped in mourning for the usual period; and that these resolutions be transmitted to the family of the deceased, and duly spread upon the minutes.

GEO. W. QUACKENBUSH, President.
JAMES O'SULLIVAN, Recording Secretary.

Death of Col. Visscher.

Another hero has fallen. Col. JAMES D. VISSCHER, of the Forty-third New York State Volunteers, is reported killed in the recent fight before the Northern defences of Washington.

Col. VISSCHER was every inch a soldier. He loved the profession for its own sake and for the sake of the noble cause to which it was dedicated. He was accustomed to the rigors of the drill-room from boyhood, and was master of all the details of military rules and evolutions long before he had attained his majority. At the outbreak of the war he was employed as Bookbinder in the establishment of WEED, PARSONS & Co., and went out as Second Sergeant in Capt. KINGSLEY'S Company (Burgess) which followed the Twenty-fifth regiment. The term of that regiment having expired, he returned home and resumed his situation, which he held until the following Summer, when he re-entered the service as Captain in the Forty-third regiment. Since that time he was continually in the service, and participated in many of the severest engagements of the war. He rose to the rank of Major; subsequently to that of Lieutenant Colonel; and, on the death of Col. WILSON, became Commander of the regiment. But whether as Sergeant or Colonel, he was everywhere and at all times the undaunted Soldier and the unselfish Patriot. He was conspicuous for his gallantry where every man was a hero, and extorted praise from his superiors for his courage and coolness in the moment of supreme danger.

Col. VISSCHER was not only a brave soldier but a chivalrous and high-toned gentleman. He had a noble scorn of everything mean and selfish, and embodied in his daily life and practices the best elements of manhood. His death will carry sorrow to many hearts beyond the circle of his family; for he had the qualities of head and heart which endeared him to all who came in contact with him.

Funeral Obsequies of the late Lieut. Col. Visscher,

To take place on SUNDAY, July 24th, 1864, at 2 o'clock p. m., from the North Pearl street Baptist Church.

HEADQUARTERS 25TH REGIMENT N. G. S. N. Y., ALBANY, July 23d, 1864.

General Orders, No. 12.

The 25th Regiment N. G. S. N. Y. is hereby ordered to assemble on Sunday, July 24th, at 1 o'clock p. m., fully armed and equipped, at the Regimental Armory, to escort the remains of the late Lieut. Col. VISSCHER to the Cemetery.

By order of Lieut. Col. CASSIDY, commanding.

J. M. KIMBALL, Adjutant.

MILITARY FUNERAL—The funeral of the late Colonel James D. Visscher, of the Forty-third regiment, N. Y. Vols., who was killed while nobly leading his regiment into battle near Washington, took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. On Saturday afternoon the remains were escorted to the Capitol by a detachment of the Burgesses Corps, where they remained in state until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when they were escorted to the Pearl street Baptist Church. The funeral services in the church were of a most solemn and imposing character. At the conclusion of the services in the church, the body was brought out, placed upon an open catafalque, drawn by six grey horses plumed, and the funeral cortege moved in the manner laid down in the order of arrangements. The bearers were Col. Harcourt, Col. Johnson, Col. Friedlander, Col. Ainsworth, Col. Chamberlain and Col. Woodhall. The Governor and staff, Mayor and Common Council were in carriages. The Twenty-fifth regiment, under command of Lieut. Col. Cassidy, turned out in goodly numbers and presented a fine appearance. The same may be said of the Burgesses Corps. Tivoli Hose, of which deceased was a former member, also attended in a body, wearing their uniforms. A special train was provided on the Northern railroad, which conveyed the military and firemen to the Cemetery.

Report

FUNERAL OF COL. VISSCHER.—The funeral of the late Col. James D. Visscher, 43rd regiment, took place yesterday afternoon. The body remained in state at the Capitol until 2 o'clock, when it was escorted by a detachment of the Burgesses Corps to the Pearl street Baptist Church, where the funeral exercises took place. The services in the church were of a solemn and impressive character. At the conclusion of the ceremonies in the church, the funeral procession was formed and moved through Pearl street, Clinton avenue, Broadway and Spencer street to the Northern Railroad, where a special train was in waiting to convey the participants to the Cemetery. The bearers were Col. Chamberlain, Col. Ainsworth, Lieut. Col. Woodhall, Col. Harcourt, Col. Friedlander and Col. Johnson. The 43rd Regiment turned out strong, as also the Burgesses Corps and Tivoli Hose Company, of which companies the deceased was formerly a prominent member.

FUNERAL OF COL. VISSCHER.—The funeral of the late Col. James D. Visscher, of the Forty-third regiment, New York Volunteers, who was killed while nobly leading his regiment into battle near Washington, took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. On Saturday afternoon the remains were escorted to the Capitol by a detachment of the Burgesses Corps, where they remained in state until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They were escorted to the Pearl Street Baptist Church. The funeral services in the church were of a most solemn and imposing character. The address by Rev. Mr. Bridgman was marked with depth of thought, and was such as the times and the occasion demanded. At the conclusion of the services in the church, the body was brought out, placed upon an open catafalque, drawn by six grey horses plumed, and the funeral cortege moved in the manner laid down in the order of arrangements. The bearers were Col. Harcourt, Col. Johnson, Col. Friedlander, Col. Ainsworth, Col. Chamberlain and Col. Woodhall. The Governor and staff, Mayor and Common Council were in carriages. The Twenty-fifth Regiment, under command of Lieut. Col. Cassidy, turned out in good numbers and presented a fine appearance. The same may be said of the Burgesses Corps. Tivoli Hose, of which deceased was a former member, also attended in a body, wearing their uniforms. A special train was provided on the Northern Railroad, which conveyed the military and firemen to the Cemetery.

In Memoriam.

At a special meeting of Tivoli Hose Co., held at their Carriage House on Saturday evening, July 16th, 1894, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, In the inscrutable providence of God, this Company has again been called upon to mourn the loss of one of its members, 11th Co., James D. Visscher, who gave his life while nobly battling for our Nation's Capital,

Whereas, In the death of James D. Visscher the ties that bound us together have now been severed; a sincere friend and a true patriot, one who has laid his life down on his country's altar, has we trust, there been the light of an everlasting crown of never fading brightness "in the mansions of the skies";

Resolved, That while contemplating with admiration and pride the example furnished by the deceased, of conscientious devotion to the Union, we deeply lament the too early death of a whose cultivated mind and pure character gave promise of so many usefulness and distinction. Among his fellow citizens his daily life was eminent for uprightness and manly bearing. Knowing the magnitude of the sacrifice at which he entered upon the career of a man, we venerate the heroism and consistency of one who was capable, when his country demanded his services, of exchanging the delights of a home, where he has ever been an object of the tenderest affections, for the hardships, the perils and the sufferings of the camp and the field.

Resolved, That we tender to the parents and friends of the deceased our heartfelt sympathies in the affliction which this melancholy event has brought upon them, and that we invoke the aid of the consolation which enabled our departed brother to meet it with Christian fortitude and resignation.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and that they be published in the papers of the city.

ALAN F. HILL, Secretary.

At a meeting of the members of Co. F, 8d Infantry N. Y. Vols., held in the entrenchments near Petersburg, Va., the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the Almighty Ruler of the Universe to remove by the hand of death our esteemed and beloved comrade CHARLES GARDNER; and

Whereas, We have always found him during his stay a sincere friend and true patriot, as well as a brave and gallant soldier; therefore

Resolved, That in the death of CHARLES GARDNER we are called upon to mourn the loss of a dear friend and brother soldier, one who has always commended our admiration for his abilities and integrity as a soldier, and our esteem as a gentleman; for the uniform courtesy which marked his intercourse with all.

Resolved, That while we deeply deplore his early death we sympathize sincerely with his bereaved family, and we shall cherish the fond recollections of his many acts of kindness when living.

Resolved, That the above preamble and resolutions be published in the ALBANY MORNING EXAMINER, and that a copy be transmitted to the family of the deceased.

JESSIE W. KENTERS, WILLIAM HOUSTON, GEORGE SUTTER, PATRICK COSTIGAN, FREDRICK VAN NESS, Secretary.

COL. VISSCHER.—In speaking of the death of the gallant and lamented Col. James D. Visscher, 43d regiment, the Journal of last evening says:

List of Killed and Wounded in the 43d Regiment.

The following letter from Capt. Wm. H. Terry of the 43d Regiment, which contains a list of the killed and wounded of the 43d Regiment, will prove interesting to many of our readers. The old regiment sustained its previous reputation, but, in its gallant charge, lost their valiant leader, Col. Vischer. Capt. Van Patten, being the senior captain of the regiment, is now no doubt in command:

CAMP NEAR WASHINGTON, July 13, 1864.

DEAR KNICK—Here we are again, a few miles from Washington, fighting the "rebs" at the very doorstep of the city. A few days ago we were tugging at them before Petersburg. What a change! Last evening our Brigade, the 3d, was sent out to take the place of the citizens; and it was soon noised around that we were to make a charge—and charge we did. We went outside the breastworks, and in the afternoon, and soon the conflict began. As soon as the "rebs" saw us coming, they did all that was possible to stop us, but it was of no use. Nobly did our boys rush forward on the charge, driving them before us. Cheer after cheer arose from the hundreds of anxious men and women that thronged the line of fortifications as we drove them before us. The President and his wife stood on the fort as the charge was made, and no doubt were anxious spectators, to see the old Flag succeed. We fought until midnight; and many a poor fellow has fought his last fight. Our brave Colonel Visscher fell, nobly doing his duty. I stood by him as his eyes closed in death; he did not suffer, for the bullet had done its work sure.— He gave me one look, and saying, "My poor mother, God help her," his spirit fled to his father. Beneath you will find a list of the killed and wounded:

KILLED.

Lieut. Colonel James D. Visscher.
Co. G—Sergt. Richard Casita; George W. Murray.
Co. F—John Davidson.
Co. A—Matthew G. De Graff, Adam Ludorf.
Co. E—Corp. E. C. Barrett.

WOUNDED.

Co. A—Sergt. T. Fallon, John Harmon, Ed. Jesmer.
Co. B—Hugh Osborn.
Co. E—Sergt. John M. Blackstock, Corp. J. Hill, Wm. Beckbee, J. H. Fratio, Jas. Donahue, Matthew Dun, Thos. Lee, George Jones, Wm. Fitzgerald, Daniel Kearns, T. Martzle.
Co. F—Martin Fiyus.
Co. G—Sergt. C. H. Davis, Wm. Stone, John D. Gupper, William Lagrange, Alonzo Wright, Charles Berry.
Co. H—D. C. Frazier.
Co. I—Sergt. E. Seaman, George Permen, Wm. Birmingham.
Co. K—Sergt. Wm. Middlebrook, Wm. T. Middlebrook.

Respectfully, yours,

Capt. WM. H. TERRELL.

Letter from Col. John H. ...
HEADQUARTERS 4th BATTALION,
1st DIVISION, 2d ARMY CORPS,
Opposite Petersburg, July 18, 1864.

DEAR BROTHER—In my last letter I stated that we were about four miles above this place. On Wednesday last we fell back. The 2d corps is now in the reserve, on the right of the 6th and left of the 9th corps. On Saturday evening, when the 6th corps was ordered to Washington, the 2d corps had to extend its lines and fill up the vacancies which the departure of the 6th had made. This weakened our line, and laid us open to attack at any moment. Deserters from the enemy reported Hill's corps moving for an attack. Orders were accordingly issued to repel the same. All breastworks in our front, over which much hard labor had been spent by the 6th corps in building, were destroyed. A cavalry force in our front, however, had destroyed a principal bridge, which prevented the advances of the enemy, and no fight took place. Capt. Tremain, of Gen. Davis's staff, paid me a flying visit to day. He looked well and seemed to be enjoying good health. Our position, and the army here now, are stronger than it was four weeks ago. We have got the heaviest kind of earthworks on our flank and front, which makes us almost impregnable here now. The soldiers are gaining in strength bodily and also in numbers every day. Till within the last few days the heat has been almost insufferable. Now we are enjoying a good cooling breeze every day. Since the army has laid here much improvement has been effected. The hundreds and thousands of men that had been separated from their commands by straggling or otherwise have been gathered up and returned to them. Regiments and brigades have been consolidated and re-assigned, and there is also much better feeling than when we first arrived here, both in men and officers.— When this army set down in front of this place it was about used up in numbers and exhaustion; but all this has been remedied, and everything now looks bright and cheerful. The Army of the Potomac has never fought more gallantly, nor labored more faithfully and energetically than in the battles and movements since the 4th of May. It is true a large, lamentably large, part of this brave and devoted body has been wasted away under the dire destruction of life and limb in half a dozen general actions and innumerable affairs and skirmishes. But its losses have all been made up by additions of old and new troops, and those in the North who are watching its fortunes with truly patriotic anxiety may rest assured that the host now stretching in long, deep intrenched lines in front of Petersburg, will, when occasion comes, battle again as valiantly as ever. According to the reports of deserters Longstreet's corps was to make an attack, last night or this morning, on the right of the 5th corps or the left of the 9th. The consequence was the troops were under arms all night, waiting for the music to commence, and at half-past 4 the troops were dismissed and ordered to their different quarters. Probably the rebels thought better. Still it is best to be vigilant. To show you how the army is fed, I enclose you a copy of an order I received yesterday. No army in the world is fed like it:

While the army occupies its present position, Corps and other independent Commanders will cause their Commissaries to issue at least four (4) days fresh potatoes and three (3) days fresh onions per week to the troops of their commands. Green cabbages will be issued from two (2) to three (3) times per week, in lieu of the money value of some component part of the rations, and at the ratio of 3 lb. per man.— Fresh beets, or fresh turnips, or fresh carrots, or whichever one of these articles that can be most readily furnished, will be issued from (2) two to three (3) times per week, in lieu of beans, peas, rice or hominy, and at the ratio prescribed by Regulations, viz: "thirty pounds per (100) hundred rations." If the articles above mentioned cannot be obtained from the Depots of Supplies, the Commanders aforesaid will require their Commissaries to present to them a statement signed by the officer in charge of the Depot, to the effect that the articles required by the Commissary could not be furnished him for issue at that depot.

Truly yours,

JOHN...

FUNERAL OBSEQUIES OF COL. JAMES D. VISSCHER.—The funeral obsequies over the remains of the late Col. James D. Visscher, of this city, took place yesterday, and were very imposing. A detachment of the Baggasse Corps on Saturday escorted the body to the Capitol, where it lay in state until 1 P. M. yesterday. The body being embalmed and exposed to view, was visited by a large number of our citizens. Yesterday afternoon it was again taken in charge by a detachment of the Corps and escorted to the North Pearl street Baptist church, where appropriate religious services were performed. This being gone through with, the 25th Regiment, under Lieut. Col. Cassidy, received the body with appropriate military honors, when it was placed upon a castrafalio drawn by six grey horses, and the line of march was taken up in the following order: 25th Regiment as escort, hearse flanked by Burgesses Corps and followed by Tivoli Hose Company as mourners, relatives and friends of deceased, Gov. Seymour's staff and Mayor and Common Council in carriages. The body was taken to the Cemetery where it was deposited.

he troops went on. I presume they will fetch up in Philadelphia or near there. The men are munched to death for nothing, and the whole thing is played out. By George, Sam, don't you come back now, unless you bring several pair of extra legs. Yours, very truly,

MILLER W. GOODYEAR,
Q. M. S. 433 N. Y. V.

During the terrible battle of the Wilderness, when our bleeding and suffering wounded soldiers were thronging Fredericksburgh in untold numbers, the Ladies' Soldiers' Relief Association "Drew a bow at a venture," and sent a small box, directed to Assistant Surgeon Elting, who was reported to be at Fredericksburgh, or to some other Federal surgeon. After patient waiting, there came the subjoined acknowledgement:

CAMP 43d REG'T, N. Y. S. VOLS.,
MONROE, Aug. 5, 1864.

LADIES:—I have the honor to acknowledge the reception, by my regiment, of the box sent by you to my care, some three months ago. We only received it however after two months delay.

The contents were distributed by Doctor Vaghan to the most needy, and were received with many expressions of gratitude by the dusty and ragged soldiers. The handkerchiefs, towels and shirts were especially appreciated.

The men of the 5th Corps have suffered much, while performing the arduous duties to which they have been assigned in this State. The exceeding dryness of the season, and the excessive heat of these long summer days, have broken down many a strong constitution during the long and weary marches which the Corps has made. The bloody battles of the last three months have decimated our ranks, but, still our soldiers are ready to meet our country's foe. Again expressing our thanks to the Ladies of the Society, I have the honor to remain

Your most obt servant,
V. V. ELTING,
Assistant Surgeon, 43d Reg't.

Letter from the 43d Regiment.
SANDY HOOK, Aug. 2, 1864.

Dear Friend—I have but a moment to devote to replying to your letter, for we are on the skeddaddle all the time, taking hardly time to eat or sleep. We left Washington on the 13th of July and marched up through Maryland, crossed the Potomac at White's Ford, followed close behind the Rebels till we crossed the Blue Ridge at Snicker's Gap, where the Rebels made a stand on the south side of the Shenandoah. We looked at them a couple of days, and then we heard that Mrs. Snicker was going to move the gap, so we had to get on the other side and then put for Washington. Arrived there the 43d got paid off and equipped, and the whole Corps went on a bum. On the 24th we all got ready to ship for City Point, but a farmer came and said a "Confederacy" had made his appearance at the Potomac and threw his knapsack across, and would probably make a raid. So on the 26th we pulled up, and leaving two-thirds of the Corps spilled along the road, we started for Harper's Ferry, passed the Rebels, and reached Harper's Ferry on the 29th, went up the Shenandoah a little distance and camped. On the 30th, found that the Rebels were 20 miles in our rear, in Maryland. So up we got and ran back. The train stopped at Sandy Hook and Forty-Third Regiment.—We learn through a letter from Capt. Samuel Davidson, of the 43d, that the regiment is now stationed in the Valley, about 18 miles from Harper's Ferry, where it is engaged in throwing up breastworks. The Captain allows that every man in the 43d is an engineer at that business, from the fact that they have done so much of it. He further says: "Our corps is rather small at present, as we only number about 7,000 fighting men, and when we left Brandy Station in May it numbered 26,000 men for duty. Our regiment has about 150 men for duty. The number present and absent is about 450 men, and out of that number about 100 will be going home about the 10th of this month, so they will be in Albany on the 22d to be mustered out, their three years having expired. It is expected that the remains of the gay and gallant 43d will be consolidated into a battalion of five companies, to be commanded by the Major, so in that case the
