

PERSONAL.—Major James Grant Wilson, is making a brief sojourn in our village, after the exhausting campaign which ended so gloriously, in the capture of Vicksburg. The Major is from the army of the West, and is getting well again after a severe attack of fever. Like many in the land, the Major laid aside the pen to take the sword, and is proving that a graceful writer can also become a brave and skillful soldier.— He speaks most hopefully of affairs in the South-west, and it is right cheering to hear his patriotic words.

He has several trophies of war, among which is the last issue of the rebel paper at Vicksburg printed on wall paper, and proving that the rebels were literally “driven to the wall,” by Grant and his noble army. The Major returns to his command in a few days, and hopes to be present at the capture of Mobile. May success, health and happiness attend him.

During his stay in our village, Major Wilson is the guest of Henry VanDerLyn Esq.

Hon. Daniel S. Dickinson at Oxford.

The Hon. D. S. DICKINSON addressed an abolition meeting at Oxford, on Friday evening, the 7th inst., and was particularly harsh and severe upon his former Democratic friends. An “old-fashioned JEFFERSONIAN Democrat” of that town writes us on the subject as follows :

OXFORD, Aug. 8, 1863.

* * * * * When such men as DANIEL S. DICKINSON, who has, as he says, from his youth up to “hoary hairs of three score and ten been honored by high governmental stations,” carrying with them enormous salaries bestowed upon him by those he in former days hypocritically styled his “Democratic friends,” shall disgrace those honors conferred, stations bestowed, and friends who bestowed them, by traversing this already distracted country, and preaching discord, strife, malice, envy, civil war, &c.,—when such men shall proclaim, in stentorian voices, at the highest key, from their speaking stands,—“Hang ‘em—hang ‘em—hang higher than Haman every Democrat in the land”—when they shall preach to anxious multitudes that “Constitutions don’t make Governments—that Constitutions are like our public roads, to be followed when the pathway is smooth and easy, and to be departed from when it is rough,”—it is then high time for the people to awake from their lethargy, and look upon these men as standing upon a powder magazine of vast dimensions, and filled to its utmost capacity, brandishing fire brands over their heads, the least spark from which may ignite a single kernel and set the whole mass in flames, producing such horrors as in comparison with which the present unhappy and deplorable civil war is but a pleasing pastime.

Differences of opinion as well in the management of national affairs as in other things do exist, always have existed, and always will exist, and will be expressed so long as this is claimed a free Government. Do away with that right, and let their edict, "Hang 'em higher than Haman," be put in execution, as is recommended by the present reigning dynastic orators, and you establish civil war and a despotism unknown for brutality in the darkest ages of heathen barbarism under the Kings and rulers of the most benighted pagan nations.

Any sane man or reflecting mind that will take one candid, dispassionate, cool, sober look into the past political history of this nation, cannot fail to discover that in the inflammatory speeches and false teachings of political demagogues and fanatics, both North and South, lies the seed of discord which has germinated into this ungodly rebellion and desolating civil war, and which has caused the public mind to become so highly excited that it is perfectly apparent to the eye of any careful observer, that a little further urging on by bad and inflammatory counsels, that excitement will burst into a flame on the one side, producing a counter flame on the other which water alone cannot quench.

Yours,
An Old-Fashioned
JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRAT.

ANOTHER SOLDIER AT REST.—Rev. Wm.

L. GILLMAN, formerly a native of Greene, in this county, and well known by many of our citizens, recently died near Gettysburg. He graduated at Canton, in the class of 1862, and soon enlisted as a private in the 32d Massachusetts Volunteers. At the battle of Gettysburg, while lying on the ground with his Regiment, he was struck near his left knee with a minnie ball which passed through the limb and would have entered his breast had it not come in contact with a Testament which he had in his pocket. The limb was amputated and for several days bade fair to heal successfully, but a hemorrhage set in which closed his career.

Thus has the life of another christian and patriot been sacrificed on the altar of our common country. He proved himself willing to support by his works, what he taught with his lips, and in defence of those principles he has given his life.

His memory will be sacred to all who knew him, especially to his brethren in the ministry. A christian, a soldier, and a patriot, has gone to rest. The Ruler of the nations of the earth has granted him a furlough from all earthly duty, and permitted him to enter into that rest which the bugle notes of war can never disturb.

A Screw Loose.

The following is from the Hamilton Republican. It shows that there is a large sized screw loose in the Republican organization for this Senatorial District; but of course it is no concern of ours:

We have received a call from Mr. Fisher of the Chenango American calling the Senatorial Convention for Sept. 24th. From his letter it appears the Senatorial Committee have not been consulted. We therefore regard the call unauthorized and do not publish it. It belongs to the Senatorial Committee, and not the newspapers to call this Convention; besides it has not been customary to publish this call until after the State Convention, where there is an opportunity for such of the Committee and others from counties composing the District to consult together as to the most convenient time to call it.

THAT $300.—We learn that Mr. G. W. ERNST, U. S. Collector for this District, is in town, and will remain for a few days, for the purpose of relieving conscripts who have it to pay of that "little $300" each. His fees are $12 in every case, and it is estimated that he will receive from twelve to fifteen thousand dollars for his services during the next few weeks.
