ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

ADJUTANT-GENERAL OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

STATE OF NEW YORK:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, February 6, 1874. }

To the Legislature:

I have the honor to transmit herewith the annual report of the Adjutant-General of the National Guard of the State of New York.

JOHN A. DIX.

REPORT.

STATE OF NEW YORK:

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
ALBANY, January 15th, 1874. }

To His Excellency JOHN A. DIX,

Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

GOVERNOR— I have the honor to present the following report of this department for the year ending December 31, 1873:

ORGANIZATION.

The National Guard consists of eight divisions and twenty brigades; one regiment, one battalion and nine separate troops of cavalry; twelve batteries of artillery; thirty-one regiments, twelve battalions and three detached companies of infantry. The grand aggregate of the force is twenty-three thousand three hundred and sixty (23,360) officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates. During the year two regiments of infantry have been disbanded, six regiments of infantry reduced to battalions, and one regiment reorganized.

INSPECTIONS.

During the past year the Inspector-General has made a rigid and thorough inspection of all the organizations in the state, and the effect of his visitation has been very noticeable in the improved condition of the troops, both in discipline and in the character of the men composing the various organizations; the names of persons borne on the rolls, but who had performed no duty for a long time, have been dropped and their places filled with active energetic men, and both officers and men are more fully alive to their duties than has been the case before for many years.

ACCOUNTABILITY FOR STATE PROPERTY.

In accordance with your Excellency's instructions, the Chief of Ordnance has caused inventories to be taken, and inspections made of all the property in the arsenals of the state, and also of that in possession of the several organizations of the National Guard.

A system of accountability has been instituted which it is believed will insure in the future the proper care and safe keeping of the property of the state. The Chief of Ordnance has collected a large number of muskets and other military property to the amount of nearly $10,000, for which no one appeared to be responsible. Unserviceable military property has been sold during the past year, realizing $7,283.90, and a large amount still remains to be disposed of.

ARSENALS AND ARMORIES.

Since the date of the last report the state armories at Ballston, Westport, Ogdensburgh, Corning and Dunkirk, and the arsenal lot at Malone, have been sold, producing in the aggregate $25,550. By this sale the salaries of the keepers and the cost of keeping the buildings in repair will be saved annually. In the appendix will be found a statement giving the date and terms of sale, and the sum paid for each armory respectively.

BREECH-LOADING ARMS.

By chapter 643 laws of 1873, the legislature authorized the purchase, under the direction of the governor, of 6,000 breech-loading rifles to complete the arming of the National Guard, and appropriated for that purpose the sum of $96,000. By the same law $12,000 was appropriated for the purchase of two batteries of Gatling guns. On the 21st of August last a contract was made with the Messrs. Remington for the manufacture and delivery of 4,500 improved breech-loading rifles with bayonets, at the rate of sixteen dollars ($16) for each rifle, and 1,500 rifled breech-loading carbines, at a cost of fifteen dollars ($15) for each carbine.

An inspector from the United States armory at Springfield, Mass., has been detailed by orders from the War Department, and will proceed to Ilion in a few days and commence the examination of these arms, all of which must pass his inspection before they will be accepted by the state. The two batteries of Gatling guns are now being manufactured at Hartford, Conn.; the carriages and caissons will, by permission of the Secretary of War, be made at the Watervliet arsenal under the direction of Gen. Hagner, U. S. A.

WAR CLAIMS.

During the last year there has been received from the United States on account of war claims the sum of $300,148.39, leaving an apparent unsettled balance in favor of the state of $1,209,286.11; in this amount, however, is included the sum of $131,188.02 interest on comptroller's bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of the tax of $3,000,000, imposed by chapter 277, laws of 1861, and which cannot, under the existing regulations of the treasury department, be paid without further legislative action, and also $341,580.10 the amount of the last installment presented in December last, and not yet examined. The remainder $736,507.99 is made up of disallowed and suspended items of which probably not more than one-third will be allowed. For more detailed information on this subject, reference is made to the report of Col. J. B. Stonehouse, which will be found in the appendix.

RIFLE PRACTICE.

Since the substitution of breech-loading rifles for the old muzzle-loaders lately in use, it has become a matter of vital importance that the National Guard should be familiarized with these improved weapons, and that they should give the subject of rifle practice their earnest attention. The establishment of the National Rifle Association, and the laying out and equipment of the Creedmoor range, have provided a means by which the National Guard of the first and second divisions may improve themselves in marksmanship, and by devoting a portion of their unemployed time to this exercise become experts in the use of the rifle.

The annual meeting at Creedmoor, held in October last, brought together a large number connected with the National Guard of this state, and the contest for the prizes given by the state, as well as for those offered by the Adjutant-General, by the commanding officers of the first and second divisions and the association, was quite spirited. No teams from the regiments outside of the first and second divisions were present on this occasion, with one exception, that of the 19th battalion. In order that these organizations may be able to compare favorably with the metropolitan regiments, immediate steps should be taken to establish ranges in every brigade district, that the grounds may be put in condition for use early in the summer.

The State having appropriated $25,000 toward the purchase of the site at Creedmoor, and provided for the purchase of prizes and distribution of ammunition annually, some steps should, in my opinion, be taken either by legislative action or otherwise, to give the state authorities such a controlling interest in the management of the association, as will be a guaranty of its permanency, and an assurance that the property will not be diverted from the purpose for which it was originally intended.

CONCLUSION.

As a whole, I think it will be found that the National Guard of New York was never in a better condition than at the present time. It is well uniformed and equipped and armed with a weapon which has no superior in the world. The officers and men evince great pride in the organization and display an efficiency of drill and discipline which is worthy of all commendation. In all the attributes of an effective force I am warranted in saying it is unequalled in any other state.

Probably the National Guard of Massachusetts most nearly approaches it; but with an organization much smaller than ours, more money is expended than for a similar purpose in this state. In Canada, with a force less than a third larger than ours, the sum asked for its maintenance is six times as great as we appropriate.

In view of such comparisons it might justly be urged that the appropriation asked for at the hands of the legislature for the support of our National Guard is equally moderate and reasonable. It is still lamentably true, however, that it frequently encounters strenuous objection, impelled no doubt in large degree by a misconception of the real efficacy of the object to which it is applied. It is too often regarded as an expenditure of so much public money upon mere display and glitter. The military organization is treated as a showy but useless appendage of the state. Those who are not brought into immediate contact with it or in whose section it neither exists nor seems a present necessity, are apt to estimate it simply as a medium for pomp and parade. There could not be a greater mistake. However we might have been lulled into a delusive sense of security and indifference by the long period of public peace, the experience of our more recent times should lead to a juster appreciation of the importance and value of an efficient militia. It was the National Guard of New York, ill-organized, ill-armed and ill-prepared as it then was, that saved the national capital at Washington at the outbreak of the rebellion. It was the same force, in co-operation with the similar bodies of other states, that aided to rescue the soil of Pennsylvania from the rebel invasion in 1863. In the sudden and critical emergencies of war the value of such a disciplined force is incalculable.

But this is not its only or even its chief utility. It is not merely in meeting unexpected emergencies as an improvised army, but in its constant moral force as an armed police that its vital necessity is seen. The moral effect of the known presence of such an organization in a large city, ready upon a moment's notice to quell any outbreak on the part of disorderly elements cannot easily be estimated. It strengthens the whole civil arm of the state. It exercises substantially the same conservative and political influence as if it actually were on duty all the time. It practically adds this large body to the police force at a comparatively small part of the expense. In preventing disturbances and riots, it undoubtedly saves much more than the whole sum appropriated to its maintenance. Upon this ground, the state of Illinois, which embraces within its borders a large metropolis with restless and dangerous forces among its population, recognizes the urgent need of an effective military organization, and is adopting legislative action to secure such a protection. It has, thus far, neglected this precaution, but now finds it a matter equally of economy and wisdom to provide it. If there are any in our state who doubt the necessity of such a force or question the propriety of the annual appropriation, they should give heed to such considerations.

Indeed, when the patriotic spirit and liberality of the members of the National Guard are remembered, the state can, in common fairness and justice, do no less than it has been doing. In addition to the time freely devoted to drills and parades, every non-commissioned officer and private pays in money to sustain his organization, at least double his proportion of the amount contributed by the state, while the expenses of the commissioned officers are much greater. The National Guard is a volunteer organization. It is designed for the protection of the Commonwealth. Under such circumstances, the state cannot reasonably object to paying less than a third of the cost of its support, and the part which it is asked to bear it should cheerfully render. The force is now well organized, well equipped and well uniformed, except as to overcoats. These should be issued to the several commands, and for this purpose an appropriation of $75,000 will be necessary. I commend this need, as well as the general claims of the Guard, to your attention.

In concluding my report, I take pleasure in acknowledging the able services of Col. John B. Stonehouse, Assistant Adjutant-General, and the fidelity and intelligence with which Major Alfred H. Taylor, chief clerk, and the other employees of the department have performed their respective duties.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General.

Reports of Division and Brigade Commandants.

HEAD-QUARTERS FIRST DIVISION, N. G., S. N. Y. }
NEW YORK, December 22, 1873. }

GENERAL—In conformity with paragraph 528, General Regulations, I have the honor to report the following parades and meetings held during the year ending with the 1st instant:

June 3—Parade for review by his excellency the commander-in-chief.

July 4—Parade in celebration of the anniversary of the independence of the United States, and for review by his honor the mayor.

November 28—Meeting of officers for theoretical instruction, pursuant to the provisions of paragraph 534, General Regulations.

The Third brigade was inspected and reviewed by me at Tompkins Square on the 3d of June, and Batteries "B" and "K" at the place of their encampment, at East New York, on the 24th of September.

The hope expressed in my last report that the armories then, and for a long time prior thereto, in need of repairs, would be put in suitable condition before the commencement of the present drill season, has not been entirely realized, and many of them remain in a condition that is disgraceful to the country and most disastrous in its effects on the commands. The excessively economical policy pursued in respect to the armories, will inevitably result in the necessity for much greater expenditure in the future than would otherwise have been required. A single prominent illustration of this is to be found in the "City Armory," occupied by or rather assigned to the batteries of this division. It is now in a condition utterly unfit for occupancy, and though attention has been frequently invited to it, the authorities have to this time failed to act. The law creating a commission authorized to acquire land and build armories, remains on the statute book, a dead letter, notwithstanding that if carried out in accordance with its true intent, it would ultimately save the municipality much annual expense, and furnish infinitely better accommodations to the troops. A policy so short-sighted can be defined by no milder term than false economy, and during its continuance, the effect will be noticed in a steady decrease in the efficiency and strength of the organizations which are unhappily liable to its influence.

For no better apparent reason, the parade ground provided for under chap. 628, of the Laws of 1871, remains in nearly the same condition in which it was a year ago. The site as then reported has been selected, and application made to the supreme court for the appointment of commissioners of estimate and assessment, and at this point the matter rests with some indications of further progress.

The opening of the range at Creedmoor, took place under the auspices of the National Rifle Association in June last, and was participated in by the members of this command to an extent which gave promise of a greater interest in it in the future. At the fall meeting teams from a number of the organizations of this division contested for the prizes, and the fact that the organization which had systematically drilled and practiced target-shooting carried off nearly all the honors, is another proof of the correctness of the old maxim that "practice makes perfect." The effect of that very successful meeting will be to stimulate those who contested to renewed effort, and I confidently look for a representation from every organization in the division on the next occasion. Of its great practical benefit it is hardly necessary to say anything. The men will acquire a familiarity with their arms hardly otherwise attainable, the importance of which in case of actual service cannot be over-estimated.

The annual inspections show a slight falling off in the aggregate of the division since last inspection.

Very respectfully,

ALEXANDER SHALER,

Major-General.

HEAD-QUARTERS SECOND DIVISION N. G., S. N. Y. }
 BROOKLYN, Nov. 17, 1873. }

GENERAL—In compliance with section 153 of the Code, I have the honor to report a review of the Second division N. G., S. N. Y., at Brooklyn, Kings county, on the 4th day of June, 1873, said review being held by his Excellency John A. Dix, governor, and commander-in-chief.

I have the honor to further report a parade and review of the Fifth brigade, Second division N. G., S. N. Y., under command of Brg.-Gen'l Thos. S. Dakin, on the 29th day of September, 1873, said review being held by Major-General John B. Woodward, commanding Second division N. G., S. N. Y., accompanied by his full staff.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

HENRY T. CHAPMAN, JR.,

Colonel and Inspector Second Division N. G., S. N. Y.

To Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General, S. N. Y.

Maj.-Gen. JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., Albany, N. Y.

GENERAL — In accordance with the requirements of paragraph 528, General Regulations, I have the honor to report the movements of troops of my command, during the year ending with above date.

The troops of the different brigades have paraded during the year as follows:

NINTH BRIGADE.

January 1, 1873 — As escort to his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief on the occasion of his inauguration as Governor of the State.

June 17, 1873 — Inspection by Brevet Maj.-Gen. W. H. Morris.

July 4, 1873 — In honor of our National Independence.

October 24, 1873 — Inspection, muster and review.

TENTH BRIGADE.

June 18, 1873 — Inspection by Brevet Maj.-Gen. W. H. Morris.

October 24, 1873 — Inspection, muster and review.

THIRTEENTH BRIGADE.

June 19, 1873 — Inspection by Brevet Maj.-Gen. W. H. Morris.

September 23 and 24, 1873 — Inspection, muster and review.

October 23, 1873 — Accompanied by the division staff, I inspected and reviewed the Tenth brigade, Brig.-Gen'l Alonzo Alden, commanding. The Twenty-fourth regiment of this command made a very discreditable appearance, some of the non-commissioned officers being totally ignorant of their duties. I found it necessary to require the brigade to pass in review three times, the third time in passing they made a fair appearance.

Battery B appeared well. It is a fine organization and composed of excellent material.

October 24, 1873 — Accompanied by my staff, I reviewed the troops of the Ninth brigade, Brig.-Gen'l D. M. Woodhall, commanding. I find it entirely unnecessary to refer to any particular organization of this command, but can only speak in terms of the highest praise of the entire brigade. The uniforms, arms and equipments appeared to be in perfect order, the discipline and marching good, and the passing in review almost without an error.

A general court-martial convened at the State armory in the city of Troy, September 2, 1873, by virtue of Special Orders, No. 3, from these head-quarters, for the trial of Col. George T. Steenbergh, commanding Twenty-fourth regiment, a full report of the proceedings of which was duly forwarded to General Head-quarters.

Courts-martial for the trial of delinquents have also been held in the Ninth and Tenth brigades.

In consequence of the difficulty of obtaining transportation and the expense attending the mustering of my entire division in a body, I did not assemble them during the year.

I am General, very respectfully,

J. B. CARR,

Major-General.

Adjutant-General RATHBONE:

DEAR SIR — I would report that during the year 1873, Major-Gen'l James W. Husted, commanding Fifth division, N. G., S. N. Y., reviewed the Twenty-seventh regiment at Mount Vernon, Westchester county, on Tuesday December 2, 1873. No inspection was held, as the day was very severe, both cold and rainy. Division staff were present and in full uniform. This is all I have to report for year 1873.

I am, General,

Your obedient servant,

JAMES H. BLAUVELT,

Inspector Fifth Division, N. G., S. N. Y.

HEAD-QUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, FIRST DIVISION, N. G., S. N. Y., }

NEW YORK, December 10, 1873. }

GENERAL — Pursuant to paragraph 527, General Regulations, I have the honor to make the following report of the evolutions performed in my brigade during the year ending December 1, 1873.

On the 3d day of June, 1873, the brigade paraded and was reviewed as a part of the First division, N. G., S. N. Y., by His Excellency, John A. Dix, commander-in-chief, and on the 4th day of July, by his honor Mayor Havemeyer.

The several regiments of the brigade were reviewed, inspected and mustered on Tompkins Square, at 2 o'clock p. m., as follows:

69th	"	"	15.	1st Batt. Cav.,	"

and report of the same made and forwarded by Major Hall, brigade inspector.

The parades for battalion drill of the several regiments comprising the brigade, were superintended by myself and staff, during the drill season, commencing December 1, 1872, and ending May 1, 1873. Also each regiment was separately reviewed and inspected at the close of the drill season; much improvement was manifested in the manual of arms and marchings.

On the opening of the grounds at Creedmoor, rifle practice was commenced with much zeal by the infantry commands in the brigade.

The Twelfth and Sixty-ninth regiments and detachments from the Seventy-first and Seventy-ninth using the range during the season, while the Twenty-second regiment repaired to their range at Clifton, N. J.

At the June (opening) contest, at Creedmoor, the principal prizes were won by the team of the Twenty-second regiment, and at the October (formal) contest, all the team prizes were won by the Twenty-second, Twelfth and Seventy-ninth regiments. as well as a very large number of the prizes awarded by the N. R. A., to the best individual scores.

I append the scores of the winning teams at the October meeting, viz.:

HEAD-QUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE,
FIRST DIVISION N. G., S. N. Y. }
NEW YORK, December 1, 1873. }

Major-Gen'l JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General S. N. Y.

GENERAL—In compliance with paragraph 527, General Regulations, I have the honor to forward herewith the reports of the commandants of regiments in this brigade, of manœuvres and exercises practiced in their commands, and also report the following parades, etc., of this brigade.

On June 3d the brigade paraded with the First division for review by his excellency Governor John A. Dix, in New York city.

On July 4th the brigade again paraded with the First division, in celebration of the ninety-seventh anniversary of American independence.

On September 18th, in accordance with orders previously issued, this brigade proceeded to Prospect Park, Brooklyn, for the purpose of a field day and brigade drill.

The forenoon was devoted entirely to regimental drills, according to Upton's tactics. When the assembly was sounded for brigade formation, a difficulty arising in the Eleventh regiment, commanded by Col. Frederick Vilmar, full particulars of which I have already reported, reduced the brigade to three regiments, which compelled me to change the movements I had already laid down.

On the 9th, 10th, 22d, 23d and 31st days of October, the Third regiment cavalry, Fifth, Eighty-fourth, Ninety-sixth and Sixth regiments infantry were inspected and mustered by the brigade inspector, to which I gave my personal attention.

On November 17th, in pursuance of Special Orders No. 121, c. s., general head-quarters, the Eleventh regiment infantry was inspected and mustered at the state arsenal.

By direction of Major-Gen'l Alexander Shaler, commanding First division, Major William C. Dickel, of my staff, attended the inspection and muster of the regiment. I would respectfully refer you to his report.

Respectfully submitted,
AUGUSTUS FUNK,
Brigadier-General Commanding.

OFFICE OF THE BRIGADE INSPECTOR,
SECOND BRIGADE, N. G., S. N. Y., 441 FIFTH AVENUE, }
NEW YORK, December 18, 1873. }

To Major-Gen'l JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General S. N. Y.

GENERAL—I have the honor to submit the following report of inspection and reviews made by me, in compliance with instructions from your department, and in accordance with orders from brigade head-quarters:

THIRD REGIMENT CAVALRY.

Reviewed and inspected this command at Tompkins Square, in the city of New York, on the 9th of October, 1873.

The passing in review was fair, and the salutes fairly rendered. This command exhibited some improvement in appearance and discipline, but need great improvement in drill and horsemanship. It is earnestly recommended that this command be ordered to drill in squads at the armory in Thirteenth street, to which is attached a ring for exercises and improvement in horsemanship, the riding of the majority of this command is a sad commentary upon a cavalry soldier.

The armory referred to was leased by the board of supervisors of this county, for the purposes of drill and exercise for mounted soldiers, i. e., cavalry, and some active steps should be taken at general headquarters to compel the cavalry to drill at that armory, so that an improvement of the cavalry soldier might be visible.

The arms and accoutrements appeared to be all in good condition, save some of the saddles and saddle-girths.

The armory of this command is situated in the Bowery, and is an unfit place for this command, or any other military organization.

The books and papers of this command are all well kept and carefully written up.

FIFTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

Reviewed and inspected this command at Tompkins Square, on the 10th of October, 1873.

The command came upon the field over half an hour beyond the time directed by brigade orders.

The marching in review was fair, and the salutes well given. Some improvement was noticeable in appearance and drill since last inspection. The arms and accoutrements appeared to be in good condition, and well cared for.

The armory of this command is located in a bad neighborhood, and is unfit for a military organization, and the surroundings subversive of discipline and good order.

This command is entitled to a more suitable armory.

The books and papers are correctly kept and well written up.

SIXTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

This command, under General Orders No. 12, from brigade headquarters, was ordered to parade for inspection and review at Tompkins Square, on October 21st, 1873, but the orders were subsequently countermanded, and the command ordered to report for inspection and review at their armory in "Nilsson Hall," in this city, on October 30th, 1873, at 8 o'clock P. M. Notwithstanding the contracted space in the armory, the command made a commendable appearance in review, the salutes were indifferently given, and in drill and discipline exhibited no improvement since last inspection.

The arms and accoutrements appear to be in good condition; the armory is also in a good condition but not supplied with racks or the necessary receptacles for the arms, and they stand around the room, much to the injury of the State property.

The regimental books are carefully written up, and are an ornament to the regiment.

The commandants of companies only presented their descriptive books, which were properly written up, but company "K" had no books present, or any papers connected with the company.

This company should be consolidated or disbanded, and the commandant dismissed the service as an unfit person to hold a commission in the National guard.

ELEVENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

Under Special Orders No. 21, issued from the head-quarters of the First division, and also in accordance with Special Orders No. 62, issued from brigade head-quarters, this command was reviewed and inspected by Brevet Major-General William H. Morris, inspector-general, assisted by me, at the State arsenal, on November 17th, at 8 o'clock P. M. The review was fair and the command made a good appearance. I regret that I cannot make a favorable report as to their drill and discipline. This command has recently been under charges of insubordination of the gravest character, and, although but recently released from arrest, nevertheless showed an ambition to keep the command together. The material of this command is good, and the officers should be held to the strictest accountability for the want of discipline and drill.

The arms and accoutrements are all in good order and well cared for.

Company "G," of this command, should be disbanded or consolidated without delay.

The armory of this command is wholly unfit for the purposes intended, and some other place should be selected for them.

The regimental books and papers are correctly kept, also all the company books.

EIGHTY-FOURTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

Reviewed and inspected this command at Tompkins Square, on the 22d day of October, 1873. The command was promptly upon the field.

The review and salutes were well rendered. They made a good appearance, and exhibited marked improvement in drill and discipline since last inspection.

The arms and accoutrements are all in good condition and well cared for.

The armory is well located and in perfect order and repair.

The regimental and company books are all correctly kept and written up.

NINETY-SIXTH REGIMENT INFANTRY.

Reviewed and inspected this command at Tompkins Square, on the 23d of October, 1873.

The marching in review by companies and divisions was good, and the salutes well given with but few exceptions.

The command exhibited some improvement in drill and discipline since last inspection.

The arms and accoutrements appear to be in good condition.

The regimental as well as company books were all correctly kept and written up.

The armory of this command should be condemned; it is an unfit rendezvous. The rooms are all dark, damp and without ventilation. Over the drill room is a drinking saloon, and often leaks so badly that it is almost impossible for the command to drill in that room, and it is with difficulty that the arms are kept free from rust, on account of the dampness in the room. It is earnestly recommended that this command have a more suitable armory. This armory has heretofore been condemned by all my predecessors.

Inspected and mustered Brigadier-General Augustus Funk, commanding this brigade, and staff, at Tompkins Square, on the 9th of October, 1873. They presented a creditable appearance. Their uniforms and equipments are in good condition, and accord with the regulations.

The brigade commander and staff were present at each day's inspection, except the days upon which the Eleventh and Eighty-fourth infantry were inspected and reviewed.

I failed to discover in any of the armories inspected by me, a compliance with the General Regulations, requiring an accurate statement in writing of all the arms, equipments and property of the State issued to the regiments or companies, kept therein, posted in a conspicuous position, so that the same might be examined by the inspecting officer.

In closing this report, I should cheerfully state that I am indebted to many of the officers of this brigade for the valuable aid rendered me in the performance of my duties.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

I am, General,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WILLIAM C. DICKEL,

Brigade Inspector, Second Brigade.

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General S. N. Y.:

GENERAL — I have not practiced the Tenth brigade in the evolutions of the line during the past year, except in manœuvres required in the ceremony of inspection and review. The constitution of this brigade is incomplete, even as a minimum organization, there being but one infantry and an artillery organization, and hence incompetent for brigade manœuvres.

I transmit herewith the return of battery B, artillery, as provided in section 527, general regulations.

I have no returns from the Twenty-fourth regiment. Special orders requiring such returns to be made have been issued, but not complied with, and I have reported Col. Steenburgh, commanding Twenty-fourth regiment, to division head-quarters for disobedience of orders.

Very respectfully,

GENERAL—In accordance with paragraph No. 527, I have the honor to report that my command has made ten (10) parades, seven of which were mounted. At the mounted drills, among other maneuvers, the battery was instructed in loading and firing, forming line column of sections and piece, forming battery from line, and also once in target practice at a range of half a mile. At the dismounted drills the men were exercised in the manual of the sabre and in the general principles of the dismounted drill for artillery.

HEAD-QUARTERS THIRTEENTH BRIGADE,
THIRD DIVISION N. G., S. N. Y.

To Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General S. N. Y.:

GENERAL—In pursuance of par. 527, general regulations, and in the absence of any report yet received from my subordinates, I have the honor to report so much of the command as came under my own observation and in pursuance of my orders.

On the 19th of June the brigade officers and Eighty-third regiment, Col. Robert Furman commanding, were ordered to parade for review, muster and inspection of uniforms, equipments, books and papers, by Maj.-Gen. Wm. H. Morris, Inspector-General S. N. Y., and were so inspected; after which, by orders of Maj.-Gen. Morris, the command was exercised by the colonel commanding in such manœuvres as were agreeable to him, and which terminated by the command passing in review before Gen. Morris. The thermometer marking 97° Fah. in the shade the movements of the troops were sluggish and constrained, and not as satisfactory as the general commanding anticipated.

Decoration day and the 4th of July the commandant of brigade was not out with the Eighty-third regiment, and must await reports from his subordinate officer.

On the 23d September the command was again ordered out for two days for the annual muster and inspection. It proving rainy the command was mustered and inspected in the arsenal hall, after which they were exercised in the manual, and in marchings and wheelings, and in a hall review, under the general commanding. The exercises were as creditable as well could be for the size of the hall.

On the 24th, the weather still unpropitious, the Eighty-third regiment was marched to the parade ground, where the colonel commanding was directed to drill his men under the eye of the commandant of brigade, which was thoroughly done, until orders were issued for him to desist. The colonel was left the selection of his own movements, and drilled his men on forming divisions on right and on left, and doubling on the center, forming squares, marchings, wheelings, and making into companies by the head of the column by company, take distance, and many other movements of his own choice, but not yet reported officially.

All of which is most respectfully reported.

Your obedient servant,

ELIAS A. BROWN,

Brig.-Gen. Com'd'g Thirteenth Brigade.

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General, S. N. Y.:

GENERAL — In pursuance with paragraph 527, General Regulations, I have the honor to report that this brigade has paraded pursuant to division and brigade orders, twice during the year, once for review by the Commander-in-Chief, and once in celebration of our National Independence. Owing to the many parades and drills made by the regiments, I deemed it expedient to omit the annual brigade drill. The annual inspections were held as follows, full returns of which have been forwarded to your department by the Brigade Inspector :

Washington Gray troop, Monday, October 27, 1873.

First regiment, Monday, October 27, 1873.

Seventh regiment, Tuesday, October 28, 1873.

Ninth regiment, Wednesday, October 29, 1873.

Eighth regiment, Wednesday, October 29, 1873.

Fifty-fifth regiment, Thursday, October 30, 1873.

I take great pleasure in saying, that the regiments composing this brigade are in an efficient state of drill and discipline.

Brig.-Gen'l, Commanding Third Brigade, N. G., S. N. Y.

HEAD-QUARTERS ELEVENTH BRIGADE, N. G., S. N. Y., }
 BROOKLYN, November 25, 1873. }

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General :

GENERAL — Pursuant to instructions, I have the honor to submit the following report of the annual muster and inspections of this brigade for 1873.

The Howitzer Battery was inspected October 27, 1873, two o'clock p. m., at the State Arsenal (owing to the inclemency of the weather), with the following result : Forty-five men total — twenty men present and twenty-five men absent — showing an increase of fourteen men in absentees over last year, and two men loss in totals.

The Twenty-third regiment, Colonel Rodney C. Ward commanding, was mustered and inspected at their new armory, for reasons herebefore mentioned, with the following result : Four hundred and fifty-eight men present, eighty-three absent and five hundred forty-one men total, which shows a loss of two men in the present and seventeen men in the totals, compared with last year. This inspection took place October 27, 1873, at three o'clock p. m., and still retains its usual standard in every respect, and bids fair to be the best regiment of the State.

The Separate Troop Cavalry was inspected October 28, 1873, at two o'clock p. m., with the following result : Forty-two men present, sixteen absent and fifty-eight men in totals, and, compared with last year, shows a loss in present of eleven men and seven men in totals. This loss is accounted for by the expiration of term of service of some of the men.

The Thirty-second regiment, Colonel Henry E. Roehr commanding, was mustered and inspected same date, three o'clock p. m., at the Union ball grounds, with the following result : Three hundred and thirty-one men present, sixty-five men absent and three hundred and ninety-six men in totals, showing a gain of five men in the present and eleven men in the totals, as compared with last year.

The Forty-seventh regiment, Colonel David E. Austin commanding, was mustered and inspected October 29, 1873, at three o'clock p. m., at the Union ball grounds, with the following result : Three hundred and forty-three men present, one hundred and fourteen men absent and four hundred and fifty-seven men in totals, which shows a loss of fifty-three men in present and a total loss of forty-one men, as compared with last year's muster. This loss is accounted for by a large lot of dead material being dropped from the rolls.

The general appearance and condition of arms, equipments and clothing, belonging to the several organizations at this inspection, was very creditable; also the inspection of books and papers very satisfactory.

The Eleventh brigade shows a loss in total strength of forty-six men and a loss of seventy-seven men, as compared with last year's muster.

Attached please find recapitulation by organizations and brigade.

I have this day forwarded, per American Express, muster rolls of the several organizations herein mentioned.

Very respectfully yours,

THEO. LININGTON,

Major and Inspector Eleventh Brigade.

Major-General JNO. F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General S. N. G. :

GENERAL—In compliance with section 153, article 10 of the Military Code, I have the honor to report, that the battalions and battery composing this brigade, were ordered to parade for inspection, muster and review; the Forty-fourth battalion and Battery A, at Binghamton, New York, on the 15th of October, 1873, and the Fiftieth battalion and Ithaca section of battery, at Ithaca on the 28th of October, 1873.

I inspected and mustered the Forty-fourth battalion and Battery A on the day above mentioned, the Forty-fourth battalion made a creditable appearance, but only about half of the men whose names appeared on the rolls were present at inspection.

Battery A paraded mounted and made a fine appearance, but only few of the men were absent from muster.

The Fiftieth battalion and Ithaca section of battery were inspected and mustered on the 28th of October.

The Fiftieth battalion in their new uniforms made a very fine appearance, their discipline was good, and the ranks full.

The section of battery paraded mounted with their pieces, and also made a fine appearance.

Brig.-General H. D. Barte on account of indisposition, was unable to be present on either occasion, but Colonel Chas. F. Blood, Assistant Adjutant-General of the brigade, with most of the brigade staff were present on both occasions.

Col. John Demong, chief of artillery of the Sixth Division N. G., S. N. Y., was present on the 28th of October, and reviewed the Fiftieth battalion of infantry and sections of artillery.

COLONEL J. B. STONEHOUSE, ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL, AS TO THE CONDITION OF THE CLAIMS OF THE STATE OF
NEW YORK AGAINST THE UNITED STATES FOR WAR EX-PENDITURES.

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK, }
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
ALBANY, Dec. 31, 1873. }

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General, S. N. Y.:

GENERAL— I have the honor to report the following, showing the condition of the accounts of this State against the United States for war expenditures:

Since the date of my last report there has been received from the United States and paid into the Treasury of the State, the sum of $107,498.08. Another installment of accounts has been presented to the Treasury Department at Washington, amounting to $341,580.10. At this date there is an apparent balance due the State of $1,209,286.11. This amount, however, includes $131,188.02, interest on Comptroller's bonds, which cannot be paid without congressional action, and also the last installment ($341, 580.10), not yet examined. The remainder, $736,507.99, is made up of disallowed and suspended items of which probably not more than one-third will be obtained.

I am General,

Very respectfully,

J. B. STONEHOUSE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

REPORT OF MISS L. DEMPSEY,

IN

CHARGE OF BUREAU OF MILITARY STATISTICS

BUREAU OF MILITARY STATISTICS, }
 ALBANY, January 1, 1874. }

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General:

GENERAL — I have the honor to submit for your information the following statement, briefly presenting the transactions of the bureau, for the year 1873.

Very respectfully,

LIZZIE DEMPSEY,

In charge of Bureau of Military Statistics.

FLAGS DEPOSITED IN THE BUREAU.

Four flags of the One hundred and forty-seventh New York State Volunteers, namely, one national, one State, and two guidons.

These war worn flags were transmitted to the State archives by Lieutenant-Colonel B. F. Gott, and Captain George H. Suydam, at the request of deserving officers of the One hundred and forty-seventh volunteer regiment.

Donations for the library of the bureau, have been received and acknowledged, from the following sources:

Bureau of Statistics, Washington, D. C.

Cowell, Thomas, Albany, N. Y.

Kellogg, Rowland C., Essex, N. Y.

Stowilts, Geo. H., Buffalo, N. Y.

Taylor, A. H., Albany, N. Y.

Townsend, Thos. S., New York City.

Quartermaster-General's Department, Washington, D. C.

Palmer, Lieutenant L. T., New York City.

There have also been acknowledged various contributions to the museum and protrait-gallery, from the following individuals:

Alton, H. K. Washington, D. C.
 Amington, Dan'l., New York City.
 Ballard, Horatio, Cortland, N. Y.
 Baldwin, J., Albany, N. Y.
 Bates, Delevan, Worcester, N. Y.
 Bristol, Rev. D. W., Ithaca, N. Y.
 Buckley, James, New York City.
 Bush, Mrs. Walter, Albany, N. Y.
 Cadley, Edward B., Brooklyn, N. Y.
 Chaffee, L. L., Warsaw, N. Y.
 Conkling, Geo., Albany N. Y.
 De Forest, J. J., Duaneburgh, N. Y.
 Elliott, Nelson, Geneva, N. Y.
 Ellsworth, E. D., Mechanicville, N. Y.
 Farr, Alfred, Canastota, N. Y.
 Fisk, Fred. C., Canastota, N. Y.
 Harp, Allen, Albany, N. Y.
 Hewitt, J. W., North Hebron, N. Y.
 Huguenin, L., Orangeville, N. Y.
 Robinson, L. M., Albany, N. Y.
 Shaver, Wm. M., Albany, N. Y.

There have also been received general orders from the military department of the United States, and county papers from a few of the counties of New York.

The contributions to the library during the past year, consist mostly of statistics, of greater or less value as reference papers.

Among the war trophies or relics for the museum, we have those bearing date of revolutionary times, as well as many interesting mementoes of the late civil strife.

To our collection of photographs, paintings, etc., there have been added portraits of those heroes whose generous sacrifices for the glory of our land — has gilded with new lustre the honor of New York State, let their military rank be that of the private soldier, or reaching that of brigadier-general.

From the contents of our library, its various reports, statistics, manuscript, history, etc., there has been carefully copied for the use of the historian, or compiled for town and county officers, much valuable information, while the labor cannot be estimated in the search for evidence as to the soldier's personal service.

The number of visitors to the bureau for the year 1873, we would estimate at about 20,000, number registered 9,900.

As, in previous years, they have come from foreign lands, as well as from all parts of the United States, yet one of the interesting features of the past year is, the increase of visitors from the south. Southerners who have been officers and privates in the confederate service, have examined with interest our collection of war memorials.

These mementoes — which speak of the brave deeds of New York's noble sons, may prove obnoxious to some, yet the true patriot of the north, or south, can only read in the battle-scarred banners of New York State, a nation's triumph, over a nation's evil.

GENERAL ORDERS, {
No. 2.

The Commander-in-Chief has had under consideration the appeal of Captain Thomas Barnes, from the proceedings, findings and sentence of a General Court Martial, convened by General Orders No. 4, of September 24, 1872, Head-quarters Seventh Division, N. G., of which Col. Henry Brinker, Fifty-fourth Regiment, was President, and for the reasons set forth in the following report and opinion of the Judge Advocate-General, the said proceedings, findings and sentence are hereby disapproved and set aside.

OFFICE OF JUDGE ADVOCATE-GENERAL, {
ALBANY, January 17, 1873. }

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General S. N. Y.

GENERAL :— I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt on the 6th instant of your reference for my examination and report of the papers in the case of the appeal of Captain Thomas Barnes, from the finding and sentence of a General Court Martial, of which Col. Henry Brinker was President.

I have examined the voluminous record, as also the several alleged grounds of appeal, with that care which the gravity of the charges and the severity of the sentence demanded, and I respectfully submit the following report, in the making of which I have held in view paragraph 229 of General Regulations, which directs that "the officer hearing an appeal from a decision of a Court Martial shall, in all cases, determine the same according to the law and justice of the case, without regarding formal or technical omissions, or any errors or defects in the proceedings before the court, which could not effect the merits."

And, on the other hand, I have purposely refrained from discussing some of the questions raised by demurrer and in the appeal, but have selected those which, in my judgment, present ample grounds for the disposition of this case.

From the record of the proceedings of the court the following facts appear: The court convened at the Head-quarters of the Fifty-fourth Regiment of Infantry, N. G., S. N. Y., in the city of Rochester, on the 7th day of October, 1872, in pursuance of General Order No. 4, dated September 24, 1872, issued by Major-General John Williams, commanding Seventh Division, and proceeded to the trial of Captain Thomas Barnes, who was arraigned on two charges, viz.: First — Conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline. Second — Inciting to insubordination.

The first charge contained three specifications, the second contained four. All of the specifications relate to certain advice and instructions alleged to have been given by the accused to the officers and men of his command in relation to General Order No. 8, issued from General Head-quarters, series of 1872, or to certain declarations and assertions in relation to said General Order, openly and publicly made by the accused. None of the specifications contain any statement of place where the alleged offenses were committed.

To all of the charges and specifications the accused pleaded not guilty. He also pleaded to the jurisdiction of the court, and demurred to the charges and specifications on four separate grounds. The demurrer was overruled by the court, whereupon it proceeded to the trial of the accused, adjourning from time to time as convenience demanded, and on the 2d day of December, 1872, the finding and sentence of the court was approved by the officer who ordered the same, which sentence was, that the accused be cashiered, and pay a fine of fifty dollars. From the findings and sentence, the accused now appeals to the Commander-in-Chief.

The accused pleaded to the jurisdiction of the court as follows:

"That the offence with which the accused is charged is not by law cognizable by the court, and that he is not subject by law to be tried by Court Martial."

In support of which he argues, that by the effect of General Order No. 8, and General Order No. 4, issued by General Clark, on the receipt by him of said General Order No. 8, he (the accused) is rendered supernumerary that by section 24 of the Military Code, he cannot be assigned to duty excepting on the proviso therein contained, and that by paragraph 145 of General Regulations, officers are only amenable to be Court Martialed while on duty.

In my judgment the court was correct in overruling this plea, for—

1st. Neither the Code nor the regulations attempt to define all the offenses of which courts-martial will take cognizance, but leaves it to the courts to decide whether the offense is one recognized by military law, and the usage of military courts (General Regulations 180). The offense charged is one which has been frequently recognized as such an offense. (General Order No. 6. War Department, June 21, 1858.)

2d. By section 24 of the Military Code, the effect of General Order No. 8, and General Order No. 4, Capt. Barnes, was rendered supernumerary, and was rendered exempt from military duty, provided he shall within one year from the date of being rendered supernumerary report himself to the Adjutant-General. A year has not yet expired from the date of General Order No. 8, and even if he has already so reported himself that matter might perhaps be received as evidence for the defense, but is not available on this plea. Further, even had Capt. Barnes so reported himself and no assignment of him to active duty been made by the commander-in-chief as provided by section 24 of the Code, in my judgment he would still, under paragraph 146 of General Regulations, have been amenable to the Military Courts. That paragraph provides that "commissioned officers will also be amenable to the military courts, upon charges for un-officer like conduct, when such conduct has reference to or connection with the military duties in the discharge of which the accused, or the accuser may be, or may have been engaged.

No limitation or reservation is made in this section in favor of officers rendered supernumerary. Its provisions are cumulative and additional to those of the preceding section. By General Order No.

8, and General Order No. 4, certain military duties devolved upon both the accused and accuser.

Further, an officer rendered supernumerary is not thereby discharged from the service, and while in the service I can see no reason why he should not be amenable to properly constituted courts-martial for military offenses committed by him.

I pass over the several alleged grounds of demurrer, for the reason that a discussion of them in this case is not material to its disposition, there being more important questions to be considered, and so far as I can learn, from a careful examination, the demurrer presents no questions which may be considered new. I am, however, of the opinion (the point having been raised in the demurrer), that General Order No. 8 should have been set forth in the specifications. The accused could not be supposed to know its full contents, it not having been addressed to him. Benet, on military law and courts-martials, p. 65, says: "Written instruments, when they form a part of the gist of the offense charged, must be set out verbatim."

The specifications were also defective in not stating the place where the alleged offense was committed. Paragraph 144, General Regulations, directs that "time and place must be stated in each specification, etc." (also Benet, p. 67). The court also erred in the admission of so much of the testimony in regard to the furniture or ornaments in the armory of Battery "A," whether such furniture, etc., belonged to the State or to the company, as related to the disposition of it by the accused. There was no specification in regard to furniture or property of any kind. Had that testimony been confined to disposition made of property belonging to the State by the officers and men of the accused's command, it might possibly have been admissible as evidence under the specifications in the second charge, had such disposition been shown to be the result of the advice of the accused. But the accused cannot be tried for offenses not mentioned in the charges and specifications. Moreover, the Code, in section 258, points out the remedy against any person who shall purchase, retain, or have in his custody or possession, without right, any military property belonging to the State. That remedy is not by court-martial at all although it does not necessarily follow that an offense committed by an officer, in relation to military property of the State, would not be triable before a court-martial.

In my judgment, however, the most serious error in these proceedings, coming in conflict as it does with an important and well-known law of the State, was that of the refusal by the court to allow the accused to testify in his own behalf. At the conclusion of the testimony for the prosecution, the accused offered himself as a witness, and desired to be sworn, which request was refused, and his testimony excluded on the ground of his incompetency. Within the past few years the law of this State in relation to the competency of a person accused of crimes or offenses to testify in his own behalf at his trial, have undergone a sweeping and radical change. This change applies to courts-martial to the same extent as to criminal courts. Chapter 678 of the Laws of 1869, section one, enacts, that, "in the trial of all indictments, complaints and other proceedings against persons charged with the commission of crimes or offenses, and in all proceedings in the nature of criminal proceedings in any and all courts, and before any and all officers and persons acting judicially the person so charged shall, at his own request, but not otherwise, be deemed a competent witness; but the neglect or refusal of any such person to testify shall not create any presumption against him."

To hold that this statute does not apply to courts-martial, is among other things to deny their existence as courts under the constitution of the State, is a denial that officers constituting such courts are "officers or persons acting judicially" for the trial of persons charged with the commission of crimes or offenses, and a denial that proceedings before them are in the nature of criminal proceedings, denials which would involve an absurdity, besides being suicidal in their nature. That proceedings before them are in the nature of criminal proceedings, is a fact continually recognized in the elementary books which treat of these courts in their citations of authorities relied on by them. That they are courts (if their existence as such has ever been seriously questioned), is fully established by the decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of "The People ex rel. Edward Underwood, appellants, vs. S. Daniell, Major, etc., respondent," a case which involves the constitutionality of the courts-martial established by the Military Code. The opinion in that case, delivered by Justice Peckham, was recently made known in General Order No. 23, series of 1872, in which opinion occurs the following language, "I believe no court has ever yet questioned the right of these tribunals to exist, and to exercise their authority within its proper limits."

This statute of 1869, and the decision of the Court of Appeals, made known in General Order No. 23, series of 1872, are matters of which the court should have taken judicial notice.

The evidence of the accused should have been received, leaving it to the court to determine how much reliance should have been placed upon it in their deliberations as to their findings.

The charges and specifications related in the main to advice and instructions alleged to have been given by the accused to the officers and men of his command.

The evidence of Gen. Clark and Major Erbeling, the principal witnesses for the prosecution, was chiefly in regard to conversations between them individually and the accused, which conversations were held in the presence of the officers and men of the accused's command, or a portion of them. After the court had received their version of these conversations (which took place a considerable time before the trial), it was the right of the accused, under the law of 1869, to give his version and to show, so far as his own testimony could show to the court, what his advice and instructions were.

I have not thought it necessary to recapitulate the evidence. If the charges were fully sustained by the evidence, the sentence was, in my judgment, just. The evidence, however, was not overwhelming, and officers should not allow their zeal to punish offenses, however great the offenses may be, to infringe upon the rights which the law has thrown around the accused to insure him an impartial trial.

And the charges cannot be said to be properly made out when improper testimony was received which may have influenced the court in their findings, or evidence excluded which the law permits and directs to be received.

Instances are becoming more and more frequent of parties tried before courts-martial, taking the proceedings of these courts into the civil courts for review, on account of alleged irregularities.

The proceedings of a court-martial recently held in the Eighty-third Regiment have been called up for review by writ of certiorari, issued from the General Term of the Supreme Court of this Department, by reason of alleged error of the court-martial in regard to the reception of evidence under this same statute of 1869. Aside from the annoyance to the officers and the expense to the State entailed by these proceedings in the civil courts, I am forced in view of the above considerations, to coincide with the views expressed by John McPherson Berrien, Attorney-General of United States in his opinion reviewing the proceedings of a court-martial for the trial of John H. Clark, who had appealed from its findings and sentence to the President (which opinion is reported in "Opinions Att'y Gen. of U. S.," Vol. 1, p. 808), where he says, "It seems to me to be much more important to secure the correct administration of public justice than to enforce punishment in any particular case."

It is my opinion, therefore, that the appeal should be allowed, and the proceedings and sentence of the court-martial disapproved. I herewith return the papers, etc., and remain

Very respectfully yours,

J. HAMPDEN WOOD,
Judge Advocate General, S. N. N.

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS—STATE OF NEW YORK.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
ALBANY, March 1, 1873. }

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 7. }

I. To secure uniformity in keeping the record books recently furnished by this office, the instructions contained in the following extract from an order issued by Major-General John B. Woodward, to the 2d Division, are hereby adopted for the guidance of the National Guard:

"1. ENLISTMENT ROLL.— This book should contain the signatures of all the members of the company; each new member signing immediately after his election or admission, giving name in full, and present residence.

Commandants are requested to secure, at once, the signing of this Roll by all the present members of their companies.

The heading will be filled out as follows (properly altered for troops or batteries):

ENLISTMENT ROLL

OF "A" COMPANY, FORTY-SEVENTH REGIMENT, INFANTRY, ELEVENTH BRIGADE, SECOND DIVISION, N. G. S. N. Y.

We, the undersigned, having enlisted in the National Guard of the State of New York, and having joined this "A" Company, Forty-seventh Regiment, Infantry, Eleventh Brigade, Second Division, do hereby agree to faithfully discharge all the duties required by the laws governing the Military Forces of this State, and the By-Laws, Rules and Regulations of this Corps.

2. ORDER BOOK.— This book will contain only copies of the orders issued by the commandant.

Each order copied must be signed in the Order Book by the officer who issued it, in his own handwriting; a regimental order, by the Adjutant; a company order, by the First Sergeant; unless the order was issued under the signature of the commandant alone.

In regimental and battalion Order Books, General Orders will begin at page 1, and it will be well to begin Special Orders, say at page 250. Each general and special order will be numbered, in separate series, beginning and ending with the current year.

All orders received will be filed, but not copied into this book, except when promulgated by the commandant as his own order, or part of it. In the latter case the entry will be made in this form:

“—” COMPANY, — REGIMENT, INFANTRY, N. G. S. N. Y. }
BROOKLYN, ——— —, 1873. }

COMPANY ORDERS, {
No. —.

The following order from Regimental Head-quarters is promulgated for the information of this Company:

HEAD-QUARTERS, — REGIMENT, INFANTRY, N. G. S. N. Y. }
BROOKLYN, ——— —, 1873. }

GENERAL ORDERS, {
No. —.

(Here give the order in full, or in part, as may be necessary.)

By order of Colonel ——— ———,

————— ———,

First Lieutenant and Adjutant.

By order of Captain ——— ———,

————— ———,

First Sergeant.

When additional matter is added by the commandant, this portion of the order will be numbered as paragraph I., and the matter added will be numbered in additional paragraphs.

The same form, with the necessary verbal alterations, will apply to the promulgation of brigade orders from regimental head-quarters, etc.

3. LETTER BOOK.— This book will contain a copy of every letter written upon official business: In regiments and battalions, by the commandant, or any staff officer; in companies, by either commissioned officer. Each copy will be signed by the officer who signed the original.

All letters received will be filed, and not copied.

Letters to superior authority will always be signed personally by the commandant; to subordinates they may be written by a staff officer, in the name, or at direction of the commandant.

Every letter copied in this book will be numbered (in red ink, in upper left hand corner), the series beginning and ending with the year; and each letter will be followed by three blank lines (and not more), a red ink dividing line being drawn upon the center one.

The address of all letters, when copied in this book, should be at the top, the surname boldly written in the margin, being followed by the official title and christian name, in the following manner:

MASON,	1. HEAD-QUARTERS, 13TH REGT., INF., N. G., S. N. Y. } BROOKLYN, February 24, 1873. } Brevet Colonel F. A. Ass't Adjutant-Gen., 5th Brig., N. G. S. N. Y. COLONEL: I have the honor to state, etc. * * * * Very respectfully, Your obedient servant, JAMES JOURDAN, Colonel.
VAN INGEN,	2. HEAD-QUARTERS, 23D REGT., INF., N. G., S. N. Y. } BROOKLYN, February 24, 1873. } Captain, D. W. Com'd'g "A" Co., 23d Regt., Inf., N. G., S. N. Y. CAPTAIN: I am directed by the Colonel commanding, to inform you, etc. * * * * I have the honor to be, Very respectfully, Your obedient servant, CHAS. H. HUNTER, First Lieutenant and Adjutant.
SCHMIDT,	3. "F" Co., 32D REGT., INF., N. G., S. N. Y. } BROOKLYN, February 24, 1873. } Esq., AUGUST. SIR:—In reply to your letter of the 20th inst., I have the honor to say, etc. * * * * Very respectfully, Your obedient servant, CASPER KNAUT, Captain.

If the letter was forwarded through some other officer, or intervening head-quarters, let that fact be noted in the margin, in red ink.

All official letters, except those of merely formal transmittal, must be copied into this book; the copy made by copying press (if any), not being a sufficient record.

All official circulars, returns and reports will be copied into the Letter Book.

4. DESCRIPTIVE BOOK. — In this book must be entered the names of all present members of the company, and of all who may subsequently join. The several columns will be filled up in the manner shown on pages 6 and 7 of this order. (This record is, of course, entirely imaginary, but shows the manner in which the various entries should be made.)

In the column headed "Remarks," will be recorded all items and facts bearing upon the members' merits, character and services.

In entering the name of the organization on the title pages, let the arm of the service be always added, as "B" Company, Fourteenth Regiment, Infantry," "Separate Troop Cavalry," "Battery 'A,' Artillery," etc.

The four pages for commissioned officers, will be divided as follows:

One page for Captains.

One page for First Lieutenants.

One page for Second Lieutenants.

In case of Batteries, one page for Junior Second Lieutenants.

The names of commissioned and non-commissioned officers will be entered as ordinarily written, viz: Alfred H. Williams. The names of privates will be entered with the surname first, viz.: Dutton, George R. In all cases the first christian name must be written out in full.

The columns on pages devoted to commissioned officers need but little explanation: Those headed "Corps," need not be filed; those headed "Muster," will be filed by giving "time," "place" and "by whom" of original muster upon the officer's entrance into service; and under "Post-office" will be entered street and number of residence.

There are fifty pages of the book devoted to records concerning enlisted men, which will be used as follows:

One page for First and Quartermaster Sergeants.

One page for Commissary Sergeant and Vet. Surgeon (if any.)

One page blank.

One page for Duty Sergeants. One blank line after each name.

One page blank.

One page for Corporals. One blank line after each name.

Two pages blank.

Thirty-one pages for Privates, being one for each letter and five additional, which can be given to the five letters requiring most space.

One page for died.

Three pages for Discharged.

One page for Transferred.

One page for Promoted.

Two pages for Dropped from Roll.

One page for Removed from District.

One page for Expelled.

One page for Deserted.

Let all entries be written out in full, and not by "do" or "ditto."

Under "Post Office," give street and number of residence when enlisted; under "Enlisted," give date of signing enlistment papers, place where original enlistment was made, and name of officer in command of the company at date of enlistment. Under "Term," enter seven years, until some change, if any, shall be made in the law. Under "Remarks," record every important item to the credit or discredit of the soldier.

In making up the subsequent records, as Died, Discharged, etc., all the columns of the descriptive list will be filled out as in the original entries.

Under column of "Remarks," enter as follows :

"Died." — Give place and date of death; and cause, if known.

"Discharged." — Give reason for discharge, and number and date of regimental order.

"Transferred." — Enter names only of members transferred from the company, giving particulars, order, etc.

"Promoted." — Enter names only of members promoted from the company, giving particulars.

"Dropped from Roll." — Give date and reason.

"Removed from District." — Give date, and place to which removed.

"Expelled." — Give date, manner, and number of regimental order.

"Deserted." — Give date of last performance of duty.

In entering names of privates, allow four lines to each name, to give sufficient space for "remarks."

The PROPERTY RECORD at the end of the book explains itself. The record should be very carefully kept, and each signature must be witnessed by a commissioned officer or the company Quartermaster-Sergeant. When articles are issued other than those named in the printed heading, let the names be written in the spaces now blank.

II. Where the commandant is not a skillful penman, it will be well to appoint a competent non-commissioned officer, or private, as Company Clerk, who shall keep the records of the company under the direction of the commandant. Such Clerk can be relieved from detail in equalization at drill and parade, or from some other duty.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General.

No. 16. }

1. Before a General Court Martial which convened at Rochester, New York, Tuesday, April 22d, 1873, pursuant to Special Orders No. 22, General Head-quarters, State of New York, Adjutant-General's Office, Albany, April 9th 1873, and of which Major General Henry A. Barnum, Sixth Division, N. G., is president, was arraigned and tried, Brigadier Charles H. Clark, 25th Brigade, 7th Division, National Guard, State of New York.

CHARGE — “Conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.”

FINDING — “Guilty.”

SENTENCE — “And the Court do therefore sentence him, the said Brigadier-General Charles H. Clark, of the 25th Brigade, 7th Division, N. G. S. N. Y., to be dismissed the service.”

The charge of which Brigadier-General Clark has been convicted, is of having, without any authority whatever, furnished certificates in his official character for the purpose of procuring from the treasury of the State the payment of a fraudulent account of furniture for the arsenal at Rochester, much of which was unnecessary, some of which had been paid for before, some of which had not been delivered, and all of which was charged at the most extortionate prices. Yet these prices amounting in the aggregate to more than $10,000, were certified by him as reasonable and proper, while Mr. Hunn, a member of the firm of Hunn, Smith & Spencer, by whom the articles were furnished, testifies, with commendable frankness, that their value did not exceed $4,300, and that the charges were made without his knowledge. General Clark also certified that they had been delivered, and were necessary and proper. The whole transaction, with which he voluntarily identified himself, is of the most disgraceful character. The proceedings of the Court of Inquiry, on which the charges and specifications against him were founded, were withheld from the public, in order that he might have a fair and unprejudiced trial. They will now be published, and it will be seen that an appropriation of $18,000 made by the Legislature in May, 1872, for the purpose of constructing a fence to enclose the grounds of the arsenal, and to repay sums necessarily expended in fitting up and furnishing the rooms, was attempted to be procured by false representations in order to pay for furniture, altogether unsuited to the purposes of such a building, and charged at fraudulent and exorbitant rates; thus absorbing nearly the whole amount appropriated, and leaving only about $1,000 for the fence, which was the chief object of the appropriation. Brigadier-General Clark has been found guilty, after a fair and impartial trial, not only of having lent himself to this scheme of public plunder, but of having overstepped the limits of his official authority, for the purpose of carrying it into effect. The Court have pronounced him unfit to be associated with the honorable men, who hold commissions in the National Guard of New York, and their judgment is confirmed by the Commander-in-Chief. He ceases from this day to be a member of the military organization, which he has dishonored.

II. The General Court Martial of which Major-General Henry A. Barnum is President, is hereby dissolved.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JNO. F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General.

The Commander-in-Chief has had under consideration the appeal of Second Lieutenant Charles Rost, Battery "B," First Division, National Guard, from the proceedings, findings and sentence of a General Court-Martial, convened by Special Orders, No. 11, dated Head-Quarters, First Division, October 19, 1872, and has dismissed the same for the reasons set forth in the following opinion of the Judge Advocate-General:

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE, Adjutant-General S. N. Y.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt on the 20th day of April, 1873, of the appeal of Second Lieutenant Charles Rost, Battery B, First Division, N. G., S. N. Y., from the proceedings, findings and sentence of a General Court-Martial, held in the city of New York, pursuant to General Orders, No. 11, series of 1872, from Head-Quarters First Division, N. G. S. N. Y., and General Orders, No. 13, same series, from said head-quarters, for my examination and report, and also the receipt on the 10th day of July, 1873, of the record of said court-martial, and respectfully report thereon as follows:

Lieutenant Rost was charged before said court-martial with drunkenness while in uniform and upon duty to such an extent as to render him unfit to discharge his duties as an officer, and thereby bringing disgrace upon the officers and members of his battery and the National Guard. After a protracted trial, he was found guilty and sentenced to be cashiered.

From the proceedings, findings and sentence he appeals to the Commander-in-Chief, alleging ten specific and one general ground of appeal. I have carefully examined the record of the Court, and from such examination I am led to the conclusion that the several alleged grounds of appeal, with one exception, are frivolous, and that none of them present sufficient reason for disturbing the findings and sentence of the Court. The exception referred to is the sixth ground of appeal, in which the accused claimed the right to give testimony in his own behalf.

In my report, dated January 17, 1873, on the appeal of Captain Thomas Barnes from the proceedings, findings and sentence of a general court-martial, I stated my reasons for holding that Chapter 678 of the Laws of 1869, which confers the right to testify in their own behalf upon persons charged with the commission of crimes or other offenses in all trials in all courts, and in all proceedings before all officers and persons acting judicially, applied to courts-martial. I am still of the same opinion. The question therefore arises, whether on this single ground the proceedings of this Court should be reversed.

In the case of Captain Barnes, the proceedings of the Court were reversed on account of this and other numerous irregularities. The charges and specifications in that case related to language used by the accused. Testimony for the prosecution was admitted as to the understanding and recollection of the witnesses of the words used, and on such testimony the accused was convicted. Much of the matter constituting the defense was peculiarly within the knowledge of the accused. In the present case the witnesses for the prosecution, six in number, have made out a gross case of drunkenness and a disgraceful breach of discipline and soldiery conduct. The accused is represented by these witnesses as having been so intoxicated that he was unable to sit upright in his saddle; as swaying from side to side, and sometimes falling forward upon his horse's neck; as asking private soldiers to drink with him from a bottle which he produced, an invitation which they accepted (and some of the parties are among the witnesses), and also at a public bar; and all this on an occasion of review and parade. His condition is also represented as provoking the laughter and derision, not only of spectators, but also of his command. He has called but two witnesses for the defense. By neither of these does he attempt to disprove the charge or refute the testimony of the prosecution; but by these, his own witnesses, he is shown to be in bad repute among the officers and men of the battery with which he was connected. His written statement, which was read to the court and which forms part of the record, offers no explanation of his conduct on the occasion referred to, but simply attempts to ridicule the character of the testimony offered, and to weaken it by vague allegations of spite and ill-will toward himself on the part of his captain and fellow officers.

While I am of the opinion that it was an error in the court to refuse the accused the privilege of testifying in his own behalf, I do not think his case was prejudiced by such refusal, nor that the sentence of the court should be set aside in the present instance for this irregularity.

I am, therefore, of the opinion that the appeal should be disallowed and the sentence of the Court approved.

Very respectfully,

J. H. WOOD,
Judge Advocate-General, S. N. Y.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JNO. F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS }
NO. 21. }

I. To secure a more thorough and direct accountability for public property issued to the several organizations of the National Guard, and to provide for the safety and proper care of the same, it is hereby ordered :

1. That property necessary for the equipment of the National Guard shall be issued only to commanding officers of regiments, battalions, batteries, and separate troops.

2. That such commanding officers shall execute a bond with two sureties, to be approved by the Commander-in-Chief, for the safe keeping of all arms and accoutrements issued to their respective commands, the value of each rifle or other arm, and of each set of accoutrements, for the safe keeping of which security is by law required, shall be fixed by the Commander-in-Chief. A similar bond in the penal sum of $3,000 for each regiment and battalion and $1,000 for each battery of artillery and separate troop of cavalry shall also be executed by the commanding officers thereof for all property issued to them other than that herein specially provided for. Commanding officers of brigades and divisions will report as to the sufficiency of the security, for the information of the Commander-in-Chief.

3. All requisitions for military property for the use of the National Guard shall be transmitted to the Chief of Ordnance through the brigade and division commanders, who will indorse their approval or disapproval thereon, together with their reasons for so doing. The Chief of Ordnance will forward the same to the Adjutant-General, with his indorsement, stating whether the property required is on hand for issue, and such other remarks as he may deem proper. If the requisition be for property to replace that which has been either lost, destroyed, expended or for any reason become unserviceable, the brigade or division commander shall direct his inspector to make a personal examination, and report the condition of the property to be replaced, and the necessity for a new issue; and will also, in the case of property lost or destroyed, report how much thereof has resulted from negligence or carelessness of the officer responsible. Such report will accompany the requisition.

4. The Chief of Ordnance will, as soon as practicable, cause inventories to be made of property of every description in the possession of the several organizations of the National Guard, respectively; he will compare the same with the charges against them on the books of his department, and require that the deficiency, if any, be properly accounted for, or an equitable adjustment of such differences made, and prepare a statement of property remaining chargeable to each several organization after such accounting or adjustment, to be taken up and accounted for on the next annual return to his office.

5. An inspection, under the direction of the Chief of Ordnance, who will furnish the necessary instructions and blanks for the purpose, will be made semi-annually by the ordnance officers of all property in the possession of the several organizations of their respective divisions and brigades; they will make a detailed report of such inspection and forward one copy thereof to the Chief of Ordnance and one to the commanding officer of the division or brigade, with his certificate that the inspection was by actual examination and count attached thereto. If it shall appear by such report that any portion of such property has been lost or destroyed either by the neglect or carelessness of the officer responsible, the Chief of Ordnance shall require him to replace the same or pay over the money value of such property so lost or destroyed; and if said officer shall neglect or refuse within a reasonable time to replace or pay over the money value, then the Chief of Ordnance shall report that fact to the Adjutant-General who will cause the bond of said officer to be prosecuted for the amount due and unpaid.

II. Hereafter all official correspondence with these Head-quarters will be transmitted through the intermediate commanders.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
NO. 25. }

The following opinion of Brigadier-General J. Hampden Wood, Judge Advocate-General of the State, in relation to the exemptions of supernumerary officers, is published for the information of all concerned:

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK, }
JUDGE ADVOCATE-GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT, }
ALBANY, August 30, 1873. }

Maj.-Gen. JOHN F. RATHBONE, Adjutant-General, S. N. Y.:

GENERAL:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt, for my opinion, of the letter of States Barton, Esq., and others, assessors of the town of New Rochelle, inquiring whether commissioned officers of the National Guard, who have been rendered supernumerary by the disbandment of their regiments, are entitled to the deduction from the assessed valuation of their real and personal property mentioned in the Military Code, and respectfully report thereon as follows:

Section 253 of the Military Code only entitles every commissioned officer, musician and private of the National Guard to a deduction from the assessed valuation of his real and personal property, to the amount of $1,000, "during the time he shall perform military duty."

By subdivision 3 of section 1 of the Military Code, all supernumerary commissioned officers who have complied with the provisions of section 24 of that act—i. e., have, within one year from the date of being rendered supernumerary, reported themselves as such to the Adjutant-General, are exempt from military duty.

And under the provisions of the same section (24) the Commander-in-Chief may assign supernumerary officers, who have so reported to active duty, "and when on such active duty, they shall enjoy all the privileges, emoluments and immunities to which commissioned officers of the same grade in the National Guard, on active duty are entitled." Hence, in my opinion, it is beyond question that commissioned officers, rendered supernumerary by the disbandment of their regiments, or by other lawful means, and who, having reported themselves, as provided in section 24, have not been assigned to active duty, are not entitled to the deduction mentioned in section 253; for such officers cannot reasonably be considered as coming within the condition mentioned in that section, which entitles them to the exemption.

From a consideration of the above mentioned, and other sections of the Military Code, it is apparent that a commissioned officer may be lawfully rendered supernumerary, and may not report himself as such to the Adjutant-General within one year from the date of being rendered supernumerary, it not being obligatory on him so to do; such officer is plainly not exempt from military duty, as are those who have so reported, by virtue of subdivision 3 of section 1. But, in my judgment, such an officer cannot be considered as in the performance of military duty in the sense intended by the Code as entitling him to the deduction from the assessed valuation of his real and personal property mentioned in section 253. He is spoken of in other portions of the Code as an officer who may be assigned to duty, as in section 70, which permits him to be elected or appointed to office in a regiment, battalion, troop, battery or company, and allows him to be re-commissioned, with rank to date from his previous commission, and also provides that he may be appointed upon the staff of a major-general or brigadier-general, who requests the same.

From the above considerations, it is my opinion that supernumerary commissioned officers who have not been regularly assigned to active duty, are not entitled to the deduction from the assessed valuation of their real and personal property, mentioned in section 253 of the Military Code.

Very respectfully,

J. HAMPDEN WOOD,

Judge Advocate-General, S. N. Y.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

GENERAL ORDERS }
NO. 26. }

The following opinion of Brigadier-General J. Hampden Wood, Judge Advocate-General of the State, is published for the information of all concerned :

COL. J. B. STONEHOUSE, Assistant Adjutant-General S. N. Y. :

COLONEL.—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, in which you request my opinion as to “whether members of the National Guard who have served as such for the term of seven years, as provided by law, must be discharged and re-enlist for the same period, in order to have continued to them the exemptions granted in section 253, Military Code, to officers and members during the time they perform military duty,” and respectfully submit the following as my opinion thereon :

The question is one of considerable importance, and not without difficulty in determining. Section 253, after fixing seven years as the legal time during which non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates may be held to duty in the National Guard, provides, among other things, that “every commissioned officer, and every non-commissioned officer, musician and private of the National Guard shall be exempt from jury duty, and shall be entitled to a deduction from the assessed valuation of his real and personal property to the amount of $1,000 during the time he shall perform military duty ; and every such person who shall have so served seven years and been honorably discharged, shall forever after be exempt from jury duty.”

The last clause, relating to the exemption from jury duty on a regular discharge after seven years' service, is too plain to admit of question. The question to be determined is, whether commissioned and non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, who, having already served seven years, choose, and are allowed to continue in the service, and in the performance of military duty without having received or applied for a discharge, without having been mustered out and re-enlisted, are still entitled to the exemptions which they received during the first seven years of their service.

From a careful examination of the report of the courts, it appears that this question has not as yet been judicially determined. The case of The People v. Roper, 35 N. Y. Rep'ts, 629, involved the right of the Legislature to repeal so much of the militia law of 1854 as gave a perpetual right to a deduction of $500 from the assessed valuation of the property of those persons who had served seven years in the militia and been honorably discharged therefrom.

The question proposed in your letter does not involve the constitutional right to enact or repeal an act granting the exemptions, but simply the construction of the act known as the Military Code.

It is evident that the Legislature, in enacting the Military Code, have fixed seven years as the term of enlistment and militia service for non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates; and that as an inducement to enlist, and as a partial compensation for their services, have granted to them, and also to commissioned officers, a deduction from the assessed valuation of their real and personal property, and an exemption from jury duty. Both the deduction and exemption extend during the time they shall perform military duty, and the exemption from jury duty is made perpetual on an honorable discharge, after seven years' service, subject, of course, to the power the Legislature may have to take away this exemption, under the decision in The People v. Roper, above referred to.

On the affirmative side of your question — and by the affirmative I mean the view of it which would maintain that the officer or soldier must be discharged and re-enlist after seven years of service in order to continue to himself the immunities and exemptions mentioned in the Code — it may be urged that the Legislature intended to fix seven years as the duration of his military service to the State for the following reasons:

1. The first portion of section 253 of the Code declares that every non-commissioned officer, musician and private of the National Guard shall be held to duty therein for the term of seven years, unless incapacitated by reason of disability, etc.

2. The second sentence in section 253, which, after granting to the above-mentioned persons, and also to commissioned officers the deduction from taxation and exemption from jury duty during the performance of military duty, concludes as follows: "And every such person who shall have so served seven years and been honorably discharged, shall forever after be exempt from jury duty," and by this use of the words, "so served seven years," the Legislature might be considered to have limited the expression "during the performance of military duty" (which occurs in the preceding part of the sentence) to that period of time (seven years).

3. Section 254 entitles every non-commissioned officer, musician and private, who has actually performed seven years of service, according to the provisions of the Code, to a certificate of discharge on application therefor, and renders it obligatory on his commanding officer to grant such discharge. Hence, the non-commissioned officer, musician or private, who, having served seven years, voluntarily remains in the service without applying for his discharge, and without being mustered out, may, at any time, and at his own convenience, demand his discharge and leave the service, which is not the kind of a soldier to whom the Legislature would reasonably be supposed to have extended the exemptions in question.

These, in my judgment, are the principal considerations which may be urged upon this side of the question. And this can not be considered as an unreasonable construction of the intention of the Legislature.

On the other hand, however, and notwithstanding the safe rule, that to get at the true meaning of a statute, or a section of a statute, the whole of it should be considered together, it is to be noticed that it is only the second clause or sentence of this section (253) which treats of this deduction from the assessed valuation of property and exemption from jury duty. And the first noticeable point is that, whereas the seven years' term of service mentioned in the first sentence of the section applies to every non-commissioned officer, musician and private, these exemptions spoken of in the second sentence are conferred not only upon those persons, but also upon commissioned officers, whose terms of service are not limited by statute to any prescribed number of years.

And the second point is, that by the plain words of this part of the section, which alone treats of these exemptions, they are conferred upon all the persons therein mentioned "during the time they (he) shall perform military duty," and the expression, "who shall have so served seven years," which occurs in the concluding clause of the sentence, in my judgment, has relation back to the first portion of the section.

This last clause confers upon a certain class, viz.: those who have served seven years and been honorably discharged, a privilege or immunity additional to those previously mentioned, to wit: the perpetual exemption from jury duty.

As to the objection, that a soldier who has served his term of enlistment and yet, choosing to remain, may at any time demand his discharge, and this to the detriment of good discipline, it may be urged, and I think with conclusive weight: First. That although his continued service is optional with him, yet so long as he remains of his own volition in the National Guard he is liable to the pains and penalties attached to military service; and, in support of this view, I refer to the Digest of Opinions of the Judge Advocate-General of the U. S. Army, p. 210, par. 2, wherein he says: "Officers and soldiers of volunteers remain liable to trial and punishment for military offenses, although their terms of service have expired, if they have not yet been mustered out." And also to p. 145, par. 6, same volume, when in speaking of a compulsory retention in the service, he says: "The necessities of the service will sometimes require that a soldier be held without discharge for a short period after the end of his term, and it has never been considered that during that period he shall be exempt from military discipline. A soldier, whose term is expired, is not necessarily absolved from a compliance with the orders of his superior. The exigencies of the service may render it proper that he shall be called upon to perform the ordinary soldier's duties; and it is not for him to decide that he will not perform them, or, if so deciding, to claim immunity. His duty clearly is to obey orders, while at the same time he may, in a proper manner, apply for his discharge, or may seek other appropriate redress." And if this be true, when a soldier is forced to remain in the service beyond the time of his enlistment, it should have great weight when he remains in the service from choice. Second. Inasmuch as the State, through its Legislature, has granted to a member of the National Guard a deduction from the assessed valuation of his real and personal property, and an exemption from jury duty "during the time he shall perform military duty," as a compensation for his services, or as an inducement to perform military duty, the Legislature should have expressed themselves beyond a reasonable doubt of their intention, if they designed to limit the duration of the performance of such duty to a prescribed number of years. Third. That while one of the objects of conferring these immunities was to fill the ranks of the National Guard, the Code also confers the necessary power to muster out of the service, disband or consolidate its various organizations, and nowhere declares that an officer or soldier who has served seven years shall for that reason be discharged, or no longer be considered as a member of the National Guard. But while it holds him to duty for seven years, after that term has expired it grants him a discharge "on application," a term which certainly conveys some idea of option on the part of some one, and, as I think, the option is that of the officer or soldier who has served the seven years.

I am, therefore, of the opinion that members of the National Guard who have served as such for the term of seven years, as provided by law, are not required to be discharged and re-enlisted for the same period in order to have continued to them the exemption granted in section 253 of the Military Code to officers and members during the time they perform military duty.

I remain, Colonel,

Very respectfully yours,

J. HAMPDEN WOOD,

Judge Advocate-General, S. N. Y.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 30. }

The advantages of a thorough system of instruction in the principles of Rifle Practice are so well established, that it is deemed proper to call the special attention of commanding officers of the National Guard throughout the State to the subject, and direct a course of instruction therein during the winter months. It is therefore ordered:

I. That regimental and company commanders of infantry and of cavalry armed with carbines, at once familiarize themselves with the system of instruction prescribed in "Wingate's Manual," and from and after the first day of January next, make the sighting, position and aiming drill a part of the weekly drills of their companies. Regimental commanders will assemble their field and company officers at least twice in each of the months of January and February next for the study and practice of Articles 1-6 of the manual referred to. When the progress made by the men in sighting, position and aiming drill warrants it, they will be instructed in candle practice. During the month of March twenty rounds per man will be expended in this practice. Requisitions for shells charged with a cap of fulminate only, for candle practice, may be made during the month of February.

On the first of April next a detailed report, in duplicate, will be made by each company commander, one copy forwarded to these Head-Quarters, and the other retained at Regimental Head-Quarters, showing, First. The number of target practice drills held during the previous three months, in compliance with this order. Second. A roster of the company, showing the members present and absent at each drill. Third. The score in detail made by the company in the use of the twenty rounds during the month of March.

II. In regimental and brigade districts where rifle ranges have been established, as well as to those organizations within a reasonable distance from Creedmoor Range, a supply of ball cartridges for target practice will be furnished where the reports show sufficient proficiency in sighting, position and aiming drill and candle practice, to warrant the issue.

III. Division and brigade commanders should familiarize themselves with the principles and formula of rifle practice, and so far as lies in their power, contribute toward the attainment of a high order of marksmanship among the National Guard of the State. Regimental and company officers will supervise the instruction of companies and squads within their respective commands, and by their example encourage their subordinates to become proficient in the use of the rifle.

IV. Commandants of companies will see that all empty shells are carefully collected and preserved for reloading, turning them in to the Chief of Ordnance, in such quantities and at such times as he may direct.

V. The practice prevailing to a great extent in the National Guard of expending annually a large amount of ammunition, on what are commonly known as "Target Excursions," should be discouraged by all who have the interest of the National Guard at heart, as being perfectly valueless as a means of imparting instruction in the use of the rifle, and subversive of good order and military discipline. The use of cartridges issued by the State on any such occasion is therefore strictly prohibited.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JNO. F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDERS }
NO. 31. }

I. By the report of the Court of Inquiry, appointed by Special Orders No. 115, c. s., from these Head-quarters, "for the purpose of inquiring into the mutinous conduct of the enlisted men and officers of the 11th Regiment, on the occasion of the late Field Day of the 2d Brigade (Sept. 18), at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, ascertain the causes thereof, and inquire into the affairs and management of the said 11th Regiment, generally," and to "report the evidence adduced and a statement of facts bearing upon the matters inquired into." It appears—

First—That the alleged mutinous conduct was confined to a portion of the enlisted men of Co. "I," and that they were properly arrested and placed under guard.

Second—That the hasty arrest and march to New York, under a guard, of the whole regiment, by orders of the Brigade Commander, "was without good and sufficient reasons and uncalled for," and "their confinement over night illegal."

Third—That a feeling of dissatisfaction with the Field Officers, prejudicial to good order and military discipline, has without sufficient cause pervaded a portion of the regiment, and that such feeling has been fostered and encouraged by persons inimical to the Colonel, among them certain ex-officers who were dismissed the service or otherwise punished for disobedience of orders.

Fourth—That the Brigade Commander committed gross improprieties by holding private conferences with some of the company officers of the regiment, and expressed his desire and intention of getting rid of the Colonel because he had not rendered him personal pecuniary aid, and by instigating a newspaper report tending to injure the standing in the community of the Colonel and destroy his influence with the command.

Fifth—That the charge against the Colonel of the use of funds belonging to the regiment, for private purposes, is entirely without foundation and utterly untrue. That on the contrary, sums to the amount of thousands of dollars of his private means have been expended in liquidating the debts of the regiment.

II. In perusing the volume of testimony taken by the court, the conclusion is irresistable, that had the affair of September 18th been treated by the Brigade Commander with that coolness of judgment and freedom from personal feelings which are expected from officers holding high positions in the National Guard service, subsequent troubles would not have arisen.

III. The men of the 11th Regiment while thus exonerated, as a regiment, from any intention to do wrong, are reminded that the conduct of those shown to be insubordinate will not be overlooked. The case of all officers referred to in the report of the Court of Inquiry, and whose conduct is disapproved of, will hereafter receive the attention of these Head-quarters.

IV. The Court of Inquiry appointed by Special Orders No. 115, c. s., is hereby dissolved.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

DIED.

On the 15th inst., at Trumansburgh, N. Y., Brigadier-General HENRY D. BARTO, in command of the Twenty-eighth Brigade, N. G., S. N. Y.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JOHN F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General.

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS—STATE OF NEW YORK.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
ALBANY, April 4, 1873. }

CIRCULAR.

The attention of officers of the National Guard is called to the following communication from the Inspector-General. The instructions contained therein should receive careful consideration, and the irregularities be immediately corrected.

JNO. F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR-GENERAL, STATE OF NEW YORK, }
33 EAST 17TH STREET, NEW YORK, }
March 26, 1873. }

MAJOR-GENERAL JOHN F. RATHBONE,
Adjutant-General S. N. Y.:

GENERAL.—During my reviews and inspections I have observed some irregularities which should be corrected, as follows:

While passing in review, officers should cast their eyes toward the reviewing officer while saluting, in accordance with paragraph 382, General Regulations.

When a company, platoon or section, while passing in review, is commanded by a non-commissioned officer, it is the custom in the United States Army for him to salute the reviewing officer in the manner prescribed for the non-commissioned officers. This rule should therefore be general in the National Guard.

The color bearer should carry his color-lance supported at the right hip, as prescribed in paragraph 1655, General Regulations.

When the reviewing officer passes along the line, the colors should not be lowered in salute, which is forbidden in paragraph 376, General Regulations.

The face to the left about is unknown to tactics.

First sergeants when returning to their posts in line, after reporting at dress parade, should pass through the front rank one pace, face about, and dress up to their places.

The cartridge box should be hung two inches below the waist belt, and when shoulder belts are worn, they should be crossed below the second button from the top of the centre row.

When regiments are armed with the breech-loader, the cap pouches are not required, and should be turned in to the regimental quartermaster.

The cap should be worn straight, and not on the back of the head or sideways.

At ordered arms, the right thumb should be in rear of the piece and not in front of it.

While at attention, the men should keep the heels together, the eyes to the front, the hands down, and should be silent.

At the close of a parade the men should stand at attention while the officers are at the front and centre.

Commands should be given in a distinct and deliberate manner, especially within doors, where reverberation often makes rapidly pronounced words difficult to understand, and thus lead to mistakes which seem to indicate ignorance on the part of the subordinates, when the fault is with the commanding officer.

The introduction of the breech-loader makes the springing of the rammer unnecessary for inspection, besides being injurious to the piece; it should therefore be omitted.

At the close of a dress parade, officers should return their swords before closing on the centre, and no officer should salute an inferior with his sword.

Bayonets should be fixed for reviews and dress parades.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM H. MORRIS,
Inspector-General.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR-GENERAL.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS — STATE OF NEW YORK,
INSPECTOR-GENERAL'S OFFICE, ALBANY, December 31, 1873. }

Major-General JOHN F. RATHBONE,

Adjutant-General of the State of New York :

GENERAL. — I have the honor to make the following, my annual report, to His Excellency, the Commander-in-Chief :

During the past year, in compliance with section 42, of the Military Code, I visited the regimental and battalion districts of the State, and examined the armories, arsenals, military storehouses, and books of the division, brigade, regimental and battalion headquarters, and also the books of the companies, batteries, and troops of the National Guard. For the purpose of exercising the greatest scrutiny, I inspected regiments, battalions, batteries and troops separately. I was accompanied through the State by Assistant Inspector-General B. W. Blanchard, and Assistant Adjutant-General J. B. Stonehouse, who aided me in my inspections and rendered valuable service. It gives me pleasure to state that most of the organizations of the National Guard are in an excellent condition of drill and discipline. There is a marked improvement in the care and method of keeping the records of the several organizations. The military taste is increasing among our best citizens, and the higher the character of a regiment for military merit and morality, the more readily are recruits obtained. The natural result of reducing the number of the National Guard has been to make the service more select; and, as efficiency should increase as numbers decrease, I respectfully recommend that all organizations be armed and equipped in the best manner known to the military service. I also recommend that all negligent, weak, ignorant and insubordinate organizations be at once disbanded as useless incumbrances, and as occupying places which could be filled with troops deserving of confidence and support.

The regiments in Brooklyn, and in many of our larger towns, have been supplied recently with good armories and ample drill rooms; and the beneficial results are evident in the improved condition of the commands generally, and in their admirable execution of battalion movements. Some of our most deserving New York regiments, however, feel the want of suitable drill rooms to that extent, that they are unable to execute battalion movements except in the most bungling manner, although their company movements are accurate. The 22d Infantry is the only one in New York which is properly provided with a drill room of sufficient size upon the ground floor; and the precision with which this regiment executes battalion movements at the double time, sufficiently exemplifies the importance of suitable facilities for drill. If a large ground floor room could be built in a convenient, location, to be used in common by the regiments of the first division for battalion drills, a great want would be supplied; and, with the opportunities it would afford, they would soon perfect themselves in the school of the battalion; for they have the necessary perseverance and ambition to attain the highest condition of drill.

No rule having been established in the National Guard for the uniform to be worn by officers holding brevet rank, such officers, in some instances, are wearing that of their highest rank; this has been prohibited in the regular service, and for good reasons. This misrepresentation of rank sometimes leads to unpleasant mistakes; and certainly nothing seems more absurd than to see officers marching in column entirely out of place, to all appearances; an officer, for example, in the uniform of a colonel, commanding a company, while a lieutenant-colonel or major commands the battalion; or a general officer, apparently, acting as a field officer, and unaccompanied by a staff, orderlies or escort. The brevet officer should not appear in a false position, and therefore I recommend that all officers be required to wear the uniform of their actual rank; but, as the brevet rank, which is among the highest honors an officer can receive, should be distinguished by some mark on the uniform, I recommend that brevet officers be authorized to wear the insignia of the brevet rank upon the collar of the coat.

In order to follow the example of the regular service, I recommend that officers be not required to wear the sash, and that sergeants, other than those of the non-commissioned staff, be allowed to discard the sword, but that they be required to carry the rifle always when under arms. Epaulets and shoulder straps having been prescribed for the purpose of distinguishing the rank of commissioned officers, it is manifestly improper for drum-majors, bandsmen and orderlies to wear them; and as there are a few instances where such persons have disregarded military propriety by doing so, I recommend that their use be forbidden except for the proper officers.

A few of the country regiments allow their companies to wear different uniforms; they should, of course, be uniformed alike.

Where regiments have been armed with breach-loaders, but still use equipments previously issued, I recommend that the cartridge-boxes be supplied with white-wood blocks, bored to receive metallic ammunition. In future issues of equipments for infantry, I recommend that shoulder-belts for cartridge-boxes be supplied, in order that the weight of the box may be borne by the shoulder, and not be allowed to press injuriously upon the bowels, which it does when carried on the waist belt. I recommend leather girths for cavalry and artillery instead of those made of webbing, which become unsafe after a little use. Also, that pads of felt be issued to cavalry and artillery instead of saddle blankets, as being better suited for our State service. Also, that the Birchmeyer sponge-heads be issued exclusively, as being safer than those of the ordinary kind.

The want of a convenient, accessible brigade drill ground is much felt by the first division. Tompkins Square answers well enough for the movements of a regiment, but is inadequate for a brigade.

I would be glad to recommend encampments, but the expense attending them would draw too heavily upon the usual military appropriation to be feasible.

While our troops may now be regarded as well armed and equipped, yet, if called upon for service, they would not be able to endure the cold of winter, or even the rains of summer, for the want of overcoats. A few of the organizations have purchased them at their own expense, but the rest have none. I recommend that the necessity for a supply of overcoats be especially considered.

In accordance with the provisions of section 45, of the Military Code, I have the honor to report:

There have been no encampments of the National Guard reported at this office.

The notices and returns required by sections 144 and 152, of the Military Code, have been rendered as therein provided.

The following is an abstract of the notices of parades and encampments received at this office pursuant to section 144, Military Code:
