STATE OF NEW YORK:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, January 9, 1901.

To the Legislature:

I have the honor to transmit herewith the Annual Report of the Adjutant-General of the State of New York, the same being for the year 1900.

B. B. ODELL, JR.

REPORT.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
ALBANY, December 31, 1900.

HONORABLE THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Governor and Commander-in-Chief, State of New York:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit herewith my annual report as Adjutant-General of the State for the year 1900.

The National Guard now consists of fourteen (14) regiments, five (5) battalions and one (1) separate company of infantry; of these, two (2) regiments and four (4) battalions are composed of separate companies; four (4) troops of cavalry, three (3) of which are organized into a squadron; one (1) regiment of heavy and four (4) batteries of light artillery, and four (4) mounted signal corps. All these are organized into five (5) brigades, each commanded by a brigadier-general and the whole under the command of a major-general. The Thirteenth Regiment of infantry has been reorganized during the year into a regiment of heavy artillery, with the same numerical designation.

The Naval Militia consists of two (2) battalions and one (1) separate division, all under the command of a captain.

All organizations of the National Guard and Naval Militia are now well equipped for active service with the exception of the hospital corps of the various commands, and the supplying of this important branch of the service with the best obtainable equipment is being rapidly advanced.

The transferring of the Thirteenth Regiment from the infantry to the heavy artillery service, has necessitated a large expenditure to equip it with the necessary guns and instruments for instruction purposes. Much has been accomplished in this direction, but considerable yet remains to be done. Earnest effort is being put forth to meet their needs fully, and the aid of the War Department has been invoked and received in this direction.

The board appointed to determine the best available field-piece or machine-gun for the new armament of the Third Battery, has not yet reported.

The present Military Code has been found in general to meet satisfactorily the needs of the State forces, but a few modifications seem to be desirable to improve its operation. The board of officers which originally prepared the code has been convened to consider and report upon such amendments to it as are deemed advisable to present to the Legislature for its consideration.

The board appointed to prepare regulations for the government of the National Guard and Naval Militia has reported, and the regulations have been published and distributed. The board is now at work upon part II of the regulations and promise an early report.

The State forces have done more practical work in the field and on cruises and have achieved higher proficiency in artillery and small arms practice during the past year than ever before. The full details of this work are set forth in the various reports annexed hereto, and I desire to call especial attention to the reports of the commanding officer, National Guard, and of the Naval Militia on these points. All the duty performed and instruction imparted seems to have been of the most practical nature, and to have accomplished its expected results. The recommendations contained in the report of the major-general commanding, setting forth the necessity of increased appropriations for the National Guard, are heartily approved, the object being that the practical instruction may be further extended.

In the report of the Armory Commission, annexed hereto, is set forth all the work done in the way of repairs, betterments and new construction of the armories, camp grounds, and rifle ranges of the State, and I desire to call especial attention to the recommendation of the Commission that the appropriation for repairs and betterments of armories be increased. The reason for this will be apparent when it is considered that the increase in age of the armories makes the cost of repairs greater year by year. It is also desirable that the Commission should have its funds appropriated in a lump sum in order that they may be expended on those armories most needing the repairs. As a rule the armories and arsenals, camp grounds, etc., are well cared for by those immediately in charge, and the interests of the State looked after thoroughly.

Annexed hereto I submit the following appendices to accompany and form part of this report:

Appendix "A."—Annual Report of the Commanding Officer of the National Guard.

Appendix "B."—Annual Report of the Commanding Officer of the Naval Militia.

Appendix "C."—Report of Chief of War Records Bureau.

Appendix "D."—Report of Hon. Richard Crowley, State Agent for Collection of War Claims against the United States.

Appendix "E."—Report of Armory Commission.

Appendix "F."—Statement of disbursements by the Adjutant-General for the year 1900.

Appendix "G."—Annual Return of property.

Appendix "H."—General Orders issued during the year 1900.

Appendix "I."—Official Register of the organized land and naval forces of the State.

Appendix "K."—Register of the Volunteer Regiments in the Civil War completed during the year, Thirty-third to Forty-ninth Regiments of Infantry, inclusive.

Appendix "L."—Register of New York Volunteers in Spanish-American War.

Respectfully,

EDWARD M. HOFFMAN,

Adjutant-General.

APPENDIX A.

Report of the Commanding Officer of the National Guard.

HEADQUARTERS NATIONAL GUARD, STATE OF NEW YORK,
ASSISTANT ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
CAPITOL POST OFFICE,
ALBANY, December 30, 1900.

Adjutant-General, State of New York.

Sir:—I have the honor to submit for the information of the Governor the following report on the National Guard for the year 1900:

CHANGES IN ORGANIZATIONS.

In accordance with the directions of the Governor the following changes took place, since my last report, in the organizations of the National Guard:

DISBANDED.

Company "F," Sixty-ninth Regiment, February 8, 1900.

Company "B," Sixty-ninth Regiment, March 5, 1900.

ORGANIZED.

Company "F," Sixty-ninth Regiment, New York city, September 7, 1900.

Nineteenth Separate Company, Gloversville, attached to Second Regiment as Company "G," October 26 and November 9, 1900.

TRANSFERRED.

Thirteenth Regiment, Infantry, Brooklyn, transferred to artillery and constituted the Thirteenth Regiment, Heavy Artillery, February 8, 1900.

Thirty-first Separate Company, Mohawk, Company "G," Second Regiment, transferred to Fourth Battalion as Company "G," November 9, 1900.

STRENGTH OF NATIONAL GUARD.

According to the reports received by me from the commanding officers of the brigades, the strength of the National Guard on September 30, 1900, the date of the last official report on that subject, was then 852 commissioned officers and 13,341 enlisted men; total, 14,193; to these numbers must be added Company "G" (Nineteenth Separate Company), Second Regiment, organized since my last report, 3 commissioned officers and 55 enlisted men, mustered in October 26, 1900, making the aggregate strength of the Guard 14,251.

On September 30, 1899, the reports received, made the aggregate strength of the Guard to be then 14,234.

This shows but little difference in numbers, but a large change has taken place in the members of the National Guard, at least five thousand having been discharged and dropped and replaced by new men since the report for September 30, 1899.

Of the 14,251 men there were

General and Staff Officers.....	72; see Table "A."
Signal Corps	148; see Table "B."
Cavalry	365; see Table "C."
Artillery.....	1,107; see Table "D."
Infantry	12,501; see Table "E."
Add Nineteenth Separate Company.....	58;
Total	14,251

The strength of headquarters and of each brigade is set forth in the annexed table "F."

SERVICE DURING THE YEAR.

By authority of the Governor the following organizations were duly detailed for service this season, namely:

The First, Second, Third and Fourth Signal Corps;

The Second, Eighth, Ninth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Twenty-second, Forty-seventh, Sixty-fifth, Sixty-ninth and Seventy-first Regiments;

The First, Second, Third and Tenth Battalions.

Of these organizations there were assigned to DUTY AT THE CAMP OF INSTRUCTION.

From June 3d to 9th, the Twenty-second and Sixty-ninth Regiments;

From June 9th to 16th, the Ninth and Twelfth Regiments;

From June 16th to 23d, the First and Second Signal Corps, the Eighth and Seventy-first Regiments;

From June 23d to 30th, the Forty-seventh and Fourteenth Regiments.

It will be noticed that each week there were two regiments on duty at this camp; of which the senior regiment would leave the camp for a practice march and field service on Monday forenoon and return on Wednesday forenoon, on which day after dinner the junior regiment left the camp for similar duty, returning on Friday forenoon.

Near Lake Mohegan, about seven miles from the Camp of Instruction, ground was rented for camping and drilling purposes, and it is to this point that the regiments marched and where, on arrival, they pitched their camp. While on duty at this temporary camp they cooked their meals, uncooked rations having been provided for them for this purpose at the Camp of Instruction, and they were instructed principally in guard duty and extended order. On the march the duties of advance and rear guard were illustrated as well as the nature of the terrain permitted. The wagons used are the property of the State, so were also the incinerators which certainly are proving their usefulness.

The marches and camping out proved successful and it is encouraging to see the interest taken by officers and men in this advance in the course of instruction.

This is the only practical way to prepare officers and men for active service and to instruct the officers in taking care of their men.

The attached tables show the attendance of the organizations serving at the Camp of Instruction.

The First and Second Signal Corps, were while at the camp, engaged in establishing stations and keeping up communication between the Camp of Instruction and the camp near Lake Mohegan by signals and by telephonic connection.

FIELD SERVICE.

The Third and Fourth Signal Corps, the Second and Sixty-fifth Regiments, and the First, Second, Third and Tenth Battalions were assigned to field service to be performed under the immediate direction and supervision of their respective brigade commanders.

In accordance with these directions, the commanding officer of the Fourth Brigade, ordered the Fourth Signal Corps and Sixty-fifth Regiment on duty from August 3d to 11th, 1900;

First Battalion from July 21st to 28th, 1900;

Second Battalion from August 4th to 11th, 1900;

Third Battalion from July 21st to 28th, 1900; and the commanding officer of the Third Brigade issued orders placing the Third Signal Corps, Second Regiment and Tenth Battalion on field service, under the immediate command of Colonel James H. Lloyd, Second Regiment, from August 18th to 25th, 1900.

For the details of this duty attention is called to the attached reports of the respective commanding officers.

From the reports of inspectors, who were with all these organizations, it appears, however, that the duty as a rule was very well performed, reflecting credit on the officers and men, whose conduct was soldierly and therefore gentlemanly.

The attendance of the organizations on this duty is shown by the attached tables:

The service at the Camp of Instruction and the regular field service of the other organizations, making due allowance for lack of experience of many officers and a very large number of the enlisted men, has proven very satisfactory and encouraging.

The following table shows the attendance at these duties of each organization as a whole; the average attendance of the infantry is especially gratifying.

IN AID OF CIVIL AUTHORITY.

Learning that the sheriff of Westchester county called on the commanding officers of the Fourth and Eleventh Separate Companies, April 14, 1900, to assist him in maintaining the law at the new Croton dam, where a strike of the laborers had taken place, and anticipating that more troops would be needed or should be used to assure the best effect, I communicated at once with the Governor and received authority to employ whatever troops might be required to restore and preserve order. Under this authority I ordered out, besides the companies mentioned above, Squadron "A," Troop "C" and the Seventh Regiment. On the subject of the work done by the troops while on this duty, I made, May 15, 1900, a special report, which I should be pleased to have attached to this, my annual report. April 19th Companies "A" (Fourth Separate Company) and "B" (Eleventh Separate Company) First Regiment, were relieved and ordered to their home stations. The Seventh Regiment, two troops of Squadron "A" and a detachment of Troop "C" were relieved from duty April 24th, and on the 26th the remaining troops of Squadron "A" and the detachment of Troop "C" were ordered to their home stations. The troops behaved well and performed their onerous duties with great spirit. I regret to say, however, that Sergeant Robert L. Douglas of the Eleventh Separate Company was killed, presumably by a striker, April 16, 1900.

June 15th the commanding officer of the Third Brigade informed me that the sheriff of Columbia county had called upon the commanding officer of the Twenty-third Separate Company, at Hudson, to assist him to enforce quarantine against smallpox among brickyard employees near Stockport. The commanding officer of the company was at once notified to demand the call of the sheriff in writing; then to obey it, and to take every precaution to prevent his own men from being infected. At the same time I notified the Governor of the situation and asked for authority to employ more troops if necessary; this authority was received, but more troops were not required. On the 18th of June the commanding officer of the company reported that the quarantine was raised that day at noon, and that he, with his command, had returned to his home station.

SMALL ARMS PRACTICE.

The following tables show the result of the season's small arms practice, a grand total of 10,045 officers, enlisted men and seamen that qualified in general and supplementary practice, the same being 83.74 per cent. of the number practicing. The Inspector of Small Arms Practice of the National Guard, having been placed by the Governor in charge of the small arms practice of the Naval Militia, the result of such practice is included in this report.

Governor's Match.

The seventh competition for this trophy was held at Creedmoor on September 14th, and was participated in by eighty representatives of organizations in the First, Second, Fourth and Fifth Brigades, and won by Sergeant Alexander Stevens, Company "F," Seventh Regiment, with a score of 92 out of a possible 100.

Adjutant-General's Match.

The fifth competition for this trophy was held at Creedmoor on September 14th. Twenty-three teams representing organizations in the First, Second, Fourth and Fifth Brigades entered, and the trophy was won by the team of Company "G," Seventh Regiment, with a score of 160 out of a possible 210. This score is the highest that has been made for the trophy under the conditions.

State Team.

The I. S. A. P. National Guard was authorized to select and prepare a rifle team to represent the State of New York during the annual meeting of the National Rifle Association held at Sea Girt, N. J., in September, 1900, to compete in the interstate and Hilton trophy matches at an expense not to exceed $1,000, and instituted competition for places on this team. This competition was held at Creedmoor for representatives of the First, Second, Third and Fifth Brigades on July 17th, 18th and 19th, and at Tonawanda for the representatives of the Fourth Brigade on July 23d, 24th and 25th. The competition at Creedmoor was under his supervision, and at Tonawanda under the supervision of Major W. M. Kirby, the conditions being precisely similar. As the result of the competition, the fifteen officers and enlisted men making the highest aggregate score in the competition were selected to form the team of twelve with three substitutes, in addition to a captain, adjutant and coaches. The composition of the team which represented the State was as follows:

Captain, Lieut.-Col. N. B. Thurston, I. S. A. P. & O. O., N. G. N. Y.

Assistant, Major W. M. Kirby, I. S. A. P. & O. O., N. G. N. Y.

Adjutant, Captain William H. Palmer, I. S. A. P. Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y.

Head Coach, Sergeant Alexander Stevens, Company "F," Seventh Regiment

Assistant Coach, Private K. K. Casey, Company "B," Seventy-first Regiment.

Team and Substitutes.

First Lieutenant T. C. Wiswall, Company "F," Seventh Regiment.

First Sergeant B. B. McAlpin, Company "I," Seventh Regiment.

- Ordnance Sergeant John Corrie, N. C. S., Twelfth Regiment.
First Sergeant C. M. Smith, Company "B," Twelfth Regiment.
Sergeant W. S. Lamb, Company "E," Twelfth Regiment.
Private F. M. Dardingkiller, Company "E," Twelfth Regiment.
Private A. B. Van Heusen, Company "B," Twelfth Regiment.
Captain J. P. Fowler, Company "G," Sixty-fifth Regiment.
Captain L. L. Clarke, adjutant, Seventy-first Regiment.
First Lieutenant Robert Byars, Company "E," Seventy-first Regiment.
Sergeant George H. Doyle, Company "H," Seventy-first Regiment.
Corporal Herman Daube, Company "B," Seventy-first Regiment.
First Sergeant W. F. Leushner, Company "B," Seventy-fourth Regiment.
Private H. J. Westwood, Company "F," Seventy-fourth Regiment.
First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon Laban Hazeltine, Thirteenth Separate Company.

This team having been selected, as described above, practiced during the month of August at Creedmoor and Tonawanda twice each week, and proceeded to Sea Girt, N. J., on Sunday afternoon, September 2d, and was quartered at the Beach House, near the range at Sea Girt. They competed in the Hilton trophy match on Wednesday, September 5th, and in the Interstate match on Thursday, September 6th, and were unsuccessful in both matches, being defeated by the team from New Jersey, which were armed with the 30-calibre United States magazine rifle, model 1898, in the Hilton trophy match, and by the team from Washington, D. C., using Peters' semi-smokeless special ammunition, in the Interstate match. The teams from New Jersey and Washington, D. C., are composed of men who have for many years retained their places on the team, whereas the team representing this State were comparatively new. Although defeated, I am of the opinion that the impartial selection of the team has awakened an interest in team shooting which shall be of inestimable value in the future if authority is granted to again compete for the above trophies. The entire expense of this team amounted to $867.54.

ARTILLERY PRACTICE.

The annual practice of the light batteries, except the Third, took place this season at the Camp of Instruction; that of the First Battery, June 15th; that of the Second Battery, June 19th, and of the Sixth Battery, June 20, 1900.

The conditions were the same as heretofore, namely each battery to fire ten shrapnels and ten shells, using two pieces only; the distance was, however, increased from 1,000 to 3,000 yards.

The result was as follows: •

First Battery, shell fire, 10 hits; shrapnel fire, 31 hits; total.....	41
Second Battery, shell fire, 10 hits; shrapnel fire, 187 hits; total.....	197
Sixth Battery, shell fire, 70 hits; shrapnel fire, 115 hits; total.....	185

The "Flanagan Trophy" awarded last year to the Second Battery remained as the result of the practice with that battery.

CONDITION OF THE NATIONAL GUARD.

The condition of the guard is much improved since the last report—with the exception of a few organizations. The attention paid to the detailed work, books and internal discipline is marked. The change of having the inspections and musters in the fall of the year only a month preceding the report to the Governor as to the condition of the guard is believed to be much more satisfactory as it shows the actual condition of the guard at that time and after a period of vacation. The performance of field service and practice marches by the organizations in camp this year was very satisfactory. Every officer and enlisted man of each organization entered into the spirit of it, and although some did better than others there was an evident intention on the part of all to learn and do their best. That this practice is a good thing and should be continued is fully demonstrated by the manner in which the organizations at the Croton dam strike last April, got into the field and were capable of taking care of themselves and performing the practical duties of a soldier with the knowledge born of experience.

I desire to call special attention to the fine showing of the guard in small arms practice; the figures show a decided improvement over last year. As an experiment there was required this year of each company practice by a skirmish team; this experiment worked well and will now be adopted as part of the regular small arms practice. Great credit is due to the Inspector of Small Arms Practice of the National Guard and his assistants for the admirable manner in which everything in their line of duty has been carried out in the whole State.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The instruction of the Guard has now progressed so far that more outdoor instruction in the shape of practical field service is very desirable and should be extended from regiments to brigades—in order to allow the brigade commanders an opportunity to handle their brigades and give practice to the brigade staffs in their various duties. The present appropriation is inadequate as only one-half of the Guard can be ordered for field service in each year. A man may enlist in the Guard, serve five years and only have field service twice. I therefore most urgently recommend that the appropriation be sufficiently increased to warrant ordering the whole of the Guard for field service each year, which will eventually prove to be good economic policy and of great benefit to the State and nation, as it will materially increase the efficiency of the Guard.

It is earnestly recommended that steps be taken to acquire land in rear of the long range targets at Creedmoor, this being absolutely necessary to make the range safe. The land required is estimated to be about thirty-five (35) acres, the cost of which should not exceed from $7,500 to $10,000. It is further recommended that the State house on the range at Creedmoor be enlarged sufficiently to double the seating capacity at mess; so that commanding officers of organizations will be able to feed their men on the range and keep them constantly under their supervision and control.

HEADQUARTERS NATIONAL GUARD, NEW YORK,
STEWART BUILDING, 280 BROADWAY,
NEW YORK CITY, May 15, 1900.

Adjutant-General, State of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report relative to the strike at the New Croton Dam, Saturday, April 14th.

Learning that the sheriff of Westchester county had notified the Fourth Separate Company of Yonkers and the Eleventh Separate Company of Mt. Vernon, both of the First Regiment, that their services would be required to assist him in maintaining the law at the New Croton Dam, I sent the following telegram to the Governor, dated April 14th:

“GOVERNOR THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

The sheriff of Westchester county has called for Fourth Separate Company, Yonkers, and Eleventh Separate Company, Mount Vernon, to assist him against the strikers at Croton Dam. They go to-morrow, to be on hand Monday morning. I will be in touch with the situation and request authority to send more troops from here if sheriff makes requisition. Answer 35 East Thirty-seventh street.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General.”

Received this telegram in reply:

“CHAS. F. ROE, Major-General National Guard, 35 East Thirty-seventh street, New York:

I hereby authorize you instantly to order out whatever troops are required to restore and preserve order.

(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.”

Also sent telegram to Sheriff Malloy:

“April 14, 1900.

Sheriff W. V. MALLOY, White Plains, N. Y.:

Where can you be seen to-night or to-morrow morning? Answer 35 East Thirty-seventh street, New York city.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General, Commanding National Guard.”

Answer:

“Major-General CHAS. F. ROE, 35 East Thirty-seventh Street, New York:

Will meet you at Grand Union Hotel, 7.15 to-night.

(Signed) WM. V. MALLOY, Sheriff.”

Later received this telegram from the Governor:

“General CHAS. F. ROE, 35 East Thirty-seventh Street:

Take no chances but call out sufficient number of troops to overawe rioters at once if there is the slightest need.

(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.”

Saturday evening, April 14th, met the sheriff at the Grand Union Hotel, New York, who had with him Mr. Coleman, one of the contractors of the new dam—they had been in consultation with the Italian consul—whom I did not see. The sheriff stated that the consul had guaranteed that perfect quiet would be maintained over Sunday, and the sheriff said that he would not call out the two separate companies at that time. Mr. Coleman stated that he was to have the Italian consul call at his house on the next day, Sunday, April 15th, for consultation, and that he would request the sheriff and myself to meet him at 6 p. m., Sunday, April 15th.

Sent this telegram:

“April 14, 1900—9 P. M.

Governor THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

. Have just had interview with sheriff Westchester county and the contractor. They believe that the matter can be settled amicably through Italian consul, whom they have already seen and will see again to-morrow. Therefore, will not call for any troops at present. The Westchester county companies have been notified to hold themselves in readiness.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General.”

Sunday night, April 15th, met Mr. Coleman at his house, 38 East Sixty-ninth street, where found various members of the firm and the sheriff. Mr. Coleman stated that the Italian Consul and the firm had not been able to come to any agreement. The sheriff stated that in his opinion it was necessary to have more troops than the two companies at the scene of the disorder, to maintain the peace and enable the men to go to work who desired to do so, and gave me the formal requisition, to wit:

" SHERIFF'S OFFICE,
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 15, 1900.

To the Governor of the State of New York:

There being serious trouble with the strikers at the New Croton Dam, Westchester county, I have called upon the two companies of the National Guard, in the county, to proceed to the place of the trouble on Monday.

That force not being deemed sufficient, I hereby make request that further troops be sent from other counties to the New Croton Dam in Westchester county, to arrive not later than Tuesday, April 17, 1900, to assist me in maintaining the laws, protecting property and preventing injury to life and limb.

(Signed) WILLIAM V. MALLOY,
Sheriff of Westchester County."

Went to the telephone and notified the two separate companies, Fourth and Eleventh, and Major Denike to command, to obey the written requisition of the sheriff of Westchester county and to proceed by the New York Central to Croton Station. The verbal order confirmed by this order below sent later.

Special Orders, No. 47.

The verbal instructions to Major Denike to proceed with two companies of the First Regiment to the New Croton Dam on Monday (16th inst.) via the N. Y. C. R. R. to Croton Station, are hereby confirmed. Major Denike is authorized to take with him such officers of the staff of the First Regiment as he may desire.

By command of Major-General Roe.

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General."

Also sent for Major Bridgman, Squadron "A," who reported about 8 p. m., and Captain DeBevoise, Troop "C," who reported at 9 p. m.; gave them instructions to mobilize their respective commands and march next morning, Monday, to vicinity of Ardsley, go into camp and to proceed on Tuesday to the New Croton Dam. Said verbal instructions confirmed by the order below.

"HEADQUARTERS NATIONAL GUARD, NEW YORK,
STEWART BUILDING, 280 BROADWAY,
NEW YORK CITY, April 16, 1900.

Special Orders, No. 47 "A."

By order of the Governor, the commanding officer, Second Brigade, will detail Troop "C" for service as follows, and the commanding officers Squadron "A" and Troop "C" are hereby directed to proceed with their commands to the neighborhood of the New Croton Aqueduct in Westchester county to aid the sheriff to preserve the peace and protect the lives and property of the peaceful residents of the county. The verbal orders heretofore given to the commanding officers of Squadron "A" and Troop "C" to assemble their commands equipped for field service are confirmed.

By command of Major-General Roe.

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

April 16th. Believing that further troops were necessary and owing to the extent of country to be covered and the peculiar value of the property to be guarded, telephoned at 3.30 p. m. to commanding officer Seventh Regiment to mobilize his regiment and send one battalion at once to the Old Croton Dam—and the remainder of his regiment to proceed the next day, Wednesday—said verbal instructions confirmed by order below.

HEADQUARTERS NATIONAL GUARD, NEW YORK,
STEWART BUILDING, 280 BROADWAY,
NEW YORK CITY, April 16, 1900.

Special Orders, No. 47 "D."

You will take train at Grand Central Depot on New York and Northern and proceed to Croton-Lake Station where you will dis-embark from cars and go in camp in vicinity of what is known as Old Croton Dam, one-half mile or more west of station. Take every precaution to prevent anybody from interfering with dam on either side of river and its entire length and see that no one interferes in any way. Notify people in charge of dam that you are there to protect and prevent it being destroyed in any part. To-morrow morning communicate down river by detail with Major Denike who will be found in camp there with two separate companies and keep up this touch with him until further orders. The other battalion of your regiment will arrive some time to-morrow forenoon. Have your quartermaster make arrangements for wood. The whole regiment will establish camp in that vicinity.

By command of Major-General Roe.

(Signed)

STEPHEN H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General."

A battalion of Seventh under Major Abrams left Grand Central Station at 9 p. m., and reached Old Croton Dam at midnight.

Sent telegram as follows:

"April 16, 1900, 8 p. m.

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

To prevent any possible attempt at Croton water system I have sent one battalion of Seventh Regiment off to-night—their destination will not be made public till to-morrow morning. Remainder of Seventh goes to-morrow morning. I leave for the scene to-morrow at ten.

(Signed)

ROE,
Major-General."

Sergeant Robert Douglass, Eleventh Separate Company, Mount Vernon, was killed. See report of Major Denike, and of Captain Pruyn herewith, marked "A" and "B" as to details.

The following information furnished by contractors:

April 11, 1900, about 8.30 a. m., a mob of over 100 men, armed with sticks and stones, made their appearance at quarry reaching there via adjoining property of Mr. Clarke.

They stoned the workmen who had gathered there to go to work and drove them off the work.

April 11, 1900, a mob of over 100 men, armed with sticks and stones made an attack on all workmen engaged at the dam and drove them off the work. This was the same mob which attacked the workmen at the quarry.

On April 12, 1900, sub-contractor Canney's teams engaged in hauling cement were forcibly denied the use of the roads by a mob. His drivers were threatened with death if they persisted in driving the teams. Some of the drivers were stoned off the wagons.

April 13, 1900, a mob of over 100 men forcibly drove all workmen off the works. The firemen at the various boilers were forced to leave their posts thereby greatly endangering life and property.

About 4 p. m. under-sheriff Breese, in command of 100 deputies attempted to bring three wagon loads of cement on to the work, but owing to the size of the mob he felt unable to do so without causing much bloodshed, the rioters having taken a stand in front of the teams and declaring that the teams should not proceed except over their dead bodies.

April 14, 1900, a large mob appeared on the works early in the morning. All appeared to be armed. Many carried rifles or shot guns and revolvers.

Two men approached within seven paces of locomotive engineer Charles Jacoby, pointed revolvers at him and threatened to kill him if he did not leave the cab of the locomotive. They also threatened the life of under-sheriff Breese and his deputies.

CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 17, 1900.

General Roe, Colonel Olin, Lieutenant-Colonels Holly, Hurry, and Thurston, Majors Greer and Holland boarded the 10.45 a. m. train at Grand Central depot for Croton Landing where they arrived at 12.05 p. m. taking carriage for New Croton Dam—arriving at 12.45 and found the Fourth and Eleventh Separate Companies—commanded by Major Denike in camp. At 2.30 p. m. Squadron "A" commanded by Captain Badgley and Troop "C" commanded by Captain DeBevoise reported—Squadron "A" went into camp on the southerly side of the Croton river—Troop "C" on the northerly side of same river.

Headquarters were established in the contractor's office.

Major Greer rode over to Major Abram's camp with orders, returning to headquarters 5.30 p. m.

Memo. to commanding officer First Battalion to allow workmen to pass through the lines when whistle blows Wednesday a. m.

7.45 p. m.—Sentinel on south side of river fired his carbine.

Colonel N. H. Henry reported.

8.10 p. m.—Letter to Major Denike to send officer and 20 men with first train going to the quarry in the morning.

10 p. m.—Sentinel fired his carbine.

April 17, 1900.

Commanding Officer, Battalion, First Regiment:

Sir.—General Roe wishes you to send an officer and 20 men from the guard company on the first train which goes to the quarries to-morrow morning. In case of interference with the train the officer will arrest all who join in it. He will use his discretion whether to return with the train or to remain at any point to guard the track.

(Signed) S. H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General."

"April 17, 1900.

Commanding Officer, Troop "C":

Sir.—General Roe directs me to say that he wishes the patrol near the Bowery bridge, to move up and down through the village between six and seven o'clock to-morrow morning, so that the men who desire to go to work may be protected.

(Signed) S. H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General."

"April 17, 1900.

Commanding Officer, Squadron "A":

Sir.—General Roe desires me to say that he wishes you to send a patrol to the boarding house of Petro Rosello near the wire mill bridge at 6 o'clock to-morrow morning. The purpose is to protect any of his boarders who desire to go to work, and to protect the house from injury. The guide who is to report to you in the morning will point out the house.

(Signed) S. H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General."

Verbal instructions were given commanding officer Squadron "A," to send one troop of cavalry to quarries six miles distant at 5.30 a. m., April 18, to be there when work begins at 7 a. m., and to return when relieved by battalion of Seventh Regiment in the evening.

"CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 18, 1900.

Adjutant Touissant, Seventh Regiment, reported arrival of balance of regiment at Croton Dam.

Seven o'clock the work whistle blew and some 200 workmen responded. The work was started for the first time since April first.

Lieutenant Nugent in command of detachment which guarded train of workmen to quarry reported arrival and everything quiet, 8.55.

General Roe telegraphed to Governor Roosevelt.

"Troops all in the field. The place thoroughly guarded and patrolled. We are masters of the situation—four shots during the night by sentinels but no trouble. Have had all branches of the work started this morning which are possible under bad weather conditions, and large numbers of men are returning to the work.

Steps have been taken to try and catch the murderers. I have two companies of the Seventh at "Old Dam," four miles away and move the remainder of regiment here. Our whole camp is named "Camp Roosevelt."

Report received that 60 men commenced work at the quarry—(usual number 150).

General Roe telegraphed to Western Union Telegraph Company, requesting construction of wire to headquarters from Croton.

Telegram received by General Roe from J. N. Francolini, President Italian Savings Bank, urging a thorough investigation of the assassination of Sergeant Douglass to be made to clear the Italian name of such a foul deed.

Reply.—“Everything possible is being done.”

Received telegram from Governor Roosevelt.

“Thanks for your telegram—Have implicit confidence in your judgment. Please keep me informed of situation.”

Mr. Coleman (contractor), called and had conference with General Roe.

2 p. m.—Sheriff Malloy called and conferred with General Roe.

2.55.—Colonel Appleton reported with his command.

C. H. Envin, Assistant Superintendent Western Union Telegraph Company, telegraphed to General Roe. “It will take about two days to put up wire. Can you give any idea how long camp will remain there.”

Reply.—“Replying to your telegram cannot state positively as to length of time. May know more definitely to-morrow.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General.”

"CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON, N. Y., April 18, 1900.

Orders No. 1:

I. The camp on and near the Croton river will be known as Camp Roosevelt.

II. Commanding officers will send reports of attendance, medical reports, and brief statements of occurrences, each morning at eight o'clock to these headquarters.

III. The chief commissary will attend daily at eight o'clock a. m. at the commissary store near the guard tent of Major Denike's command to issue supplies.

By command of Major-General Roe.

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,

Assistant Adjutant-General."

Orders No. 2:

Guards will be posted and patrols sent out as follows: By the commanding officer Squadron "A," the same as yesterday, and in addition three men at the power house on the hill.

The detachment to the quarries need not be made.

The mounted orderlies will be on duty at the headquarters early in the morning.

Commanding officers of Companies "A" and "B," First Regiment, and Company "E," Seventh Regiment, the same as yesterday, except that they need post no guard at the power house on the hill, and should post a stronger guard at the Bowery bridge.

By the commanding officer Troop "C," the same as yesterday, except that he need post no sentry at these headquarters.

By the commanding officer Seventh Regiment, a sentry at these headquarters, an outpost on the hill at the Anchorage and such other posts as he sees fit.

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,

Assistant Adjutant-General."

It being reported that the men were prevented from returning to work after 1 p. m. from "Little Italy," verbal orders were sent to commanding officer Squadron "A" to send an officer and fifty dismounted and ten mounted men to accompany the sheriff to the town and notify every man that if he desires to return to work he will be protected. Colonel Olin went to represent me. A house to house visit was made and the information conveyed to the inhabitants through an interpreter.

General Roe telegraphed to Governor Roosevelt as follows:

"April 18, 1900.

Governor ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

Some two hundred men have worked all day. Everything looks very propitious. Seventh Regiment all in camp. Health of command excellent.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General."

"CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 19, 1900.

General Roe conferred with Colonel Appleton, Major Denike, Captain Badgley, Captain DeBevoise and Captain Fiske at headquarters 6.30 a. m. and orders were verbally given for all the commands to move exactly at eight o'clock and form a cordon around the entire district, allowing anyone to come in, but no one to go out until the lines were withdrawn. At 8.25 a. m. a cordon, consisting of Seventh Regiment, Major Denike's command, Squadron "A" and Troop "C," was formed around the entire works and settlements and Sheriff Malloy with a posse of deputies visited with Company "D" Seventh Regiment, the settlements, Little Italy and New Bowery, searched the houses for leaders, instigators, arms, etc. The result is shown in the telegram to Governor Roosevelt from General Roe:

"April 19, 1900.

Governor ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

No trouble last night. Work resumed this morning with increased force. Formed a cordon of troops five miles in circumference at 8.30. Then sent sheriff and deputies with military escort to serve warrants, and make arrests. Everything worked smoothly and we have arrested twenty-six men, some of them leaders, who were either instigators or took part in the riots and prevented other men from working. I will send all the prisoners to the jail at White Plains under a heavy guard this evening.

May make further arrests this afternoon. All the troops have worked in the most business-like and praiseworthy manner. Health of command excellent.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General."

The following was sent to the officer of the guard.

"You are ordered to release Samuel Petticcate who will be recognized by Deputy Sheriff Jarvis the bearer of this order. Petticcate was supposed to be another man by the sheriff."

Telegram from Colonel Austen, Thirteenth Regiment: "Permission requested to send commissary to Seventh camp at own expense to become familiar with use of plant and ration issued."

Reply: "Permission granted."

Companies "A" and "B", First Regiment, Major Denike commanding, are hereby ordered to return to their home stations, escorting the prisoners to the White Plains jail, thence to Mount Vernon. Upon arrival at their home stations they will report by wire to these headquarters for further orders. The quartermaster will furnish the necessary transportation.

These companies are authorized to attend the funeral of Sergeant Douglass at Mount Vernon on Friday, the 20th instant.

The major-general commanding desires to express his thanks and appreciation to the officers and enlisted men for the efficient manner in which all duty has been performed.

By command of Major-General Roe.

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General."

At 6.30 p. m. the command started for Croton landing, where it was to take train.

General Hoffman, Adjutant-General, telegraphed General Roe as follows:

"The Governor sends his compliments and congratulations upon the good work performed to-day."

"CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 20, 1900.

More workmen reported for work this morning than yesterday.

Captain Lydecker and command ordered from "The Shales" to Bowery bridge, to take place of the two companies First Regiment ordered home Thursday night, where Company "D", Captain Fiske is stationed."

General Roe telegraphed the Governor as follows:

"Have not made any more arrests. Ordered the two separate companies, (Major Denike commanding) guarding prisoners to White Plains jail last night with permission to attend funeral of Sergeant Douglass at Mount Vernon to-day, thence to their armories. Will not need them again. Work going on without interference, but force about two-thirds less than normal on whole plant. The force at quarry when trouble began within one-third of normal. Some strikers have returned to work but not many. Superintendent informs me that company will have several hundred new men here on Monday. Think best to keep troops longer. Prisoners were fed and treated kindly. No intimidation of the people has taken place.

(Signed)

CHAS. F. ROE,

Major-General."

General Roe and staff invited by Mr. Breuchaud of firm of contractors to visit the quarry about six miles distant. Accepted and special train conveyed them.

Everything quiet.

"CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 21, 1900.

With the blowing of the whistle summoning to work, it was satisfactory to learn that more workmen responded to the call than did on the previous day.

By General Roe's command, Colonel Olin telegraphed to Major Denike relieving from duty the detachment of the First Regiment, Companies "A" and "B". Telegrams were sent to the respective commanding officers of the two separate companies to the same effect.

General Roe telegraphed to Governor Roosevelt as follows: "One more man arrested. Three hundred and ten men at work yesterday, and more this morning, many of them strikers. Have allowed affairs to return to normal conditions and permitted people to go anywhere without question since yesterday. Think best to keep troops a few days longer."

General Roe telegraphed to Governor Roosevelt, New York, as follows: "Happy to report that twenty of the twenty-one prisoners sent to White Plains have been held by Judge Lent to await action of grand jury. All quiet.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General."

"CAMP ROOSEVELT, April 21, 1900.

Orders No. 4.

Board of examination for such officers on the Seventh Regiment as may be ordered before it will convene at these headquarters, April 21, 1900, 7.30 p. m.

Board will consist of: Lieut.-Col. N. B. Thurston, I. S. A. P. and O. O. N. G. N. Y.; Captain Francis G. Landon; Lieutenant J. Wray Cleveland.

For the examination of Harlow Brooks, M. D., appointed assistant surgeon. Colonel Nelson H. Henry is detailed as a member of the board for that purpose.

By command of Major-General Roe.

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General."

CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 22, 1900.

Everything quiet.

The following letter was sent by General Roe to commanding officer Seventh Regiment:

"Commanding Officer, Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to inform you that the Governor has signed the commissions conferring upon the following officers "brevet" rank for continuous and meritorious service of over twenty-five years.

Lieutenant-Colonel Wm. H. Kipp, to be colonel by brevet.

Major J. C. Abrams, to be lieutenant-colonel by brevet.

Major A. W. Conover, to be lieutenant-colonel by brevet.

Captain C. E. Lydecker, to be major by brevet.

Captain W. C. Fish, to be major by brevet.

Captain W. G. Schuyler, to be major by brevet.

Captain J. W. McDougall, to be major by brevet.

First Lieutenant H. C. Duval, to be captain by brevet.

These commissions were received by me on April 14th, and it was the intention to present them at the review tendered to General Smith on April 17th. Please make the announcement to your command.

Respectfully,

(Signed)

CHAS. F. ROE,

Major-General."

At 4 o'clock the troops were formed for review at "the bench," Colonel Daniel Appleton in command. The reviewing officer was Major-General Roe. After the review the Seventh Regiment had evening parade at which the letter announcing the brevet commissions was read.

CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 23, 1900.

Five hundred and ten men responded to the "whistle" at 7 a. m. to-day and commenced work. Everything quiet and peaceful. Decided to consult with the sheriff as to the advisability of sending a portion of the troops home, and telegraphed to Sheriff Malloy as follows:

"Sheriff MALLOY, White Plains, N. Y.:

Everything seems to be quiet. I would like to see you.

(Signed)

CHAS. F. ROE,

Major-General."

Sent the following telegram to Governor Roosevelt:

"Governor ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

Laborers paid on Saturday but did not misbehave in any way. A very decided increase of force went to work this morning. Have sent for sheriff to consult about sending troops home. Health of command continues excellent.

(Signed)

CHAS. F. ROE,

Major-General."

General Roe held consultation with Captains Badgley and De Bevoise.

Sheriff Malloy arrived 6 p. m. and had conference with General Roe. The result of the interview is explained in the following telegram to Governor Roosevelt. and Orders No. 5.

“Governor ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

Five hundred and ten men at work to-day. After consultation with sheriff have ordered home to-morrow all the troops except two troops of cavalry—they will remain for a few days longer. Everything very quiet. Will send full report of Douglass matter soon as possible.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,
Major-General.”

“CAMP ROOSEVELT, CROTON, N. Y., April 24, 1900.
Orders No. 5.

I. The Seventh Regiment will proceed to-day to its home station, and on arrival at its armory will be relieved from duty in aid of the civil authorities.

II. The commanding officer Squadron “A” will detach two troops to proceed with a detachment of Troop “C” to their home station when on arrival at their armories they will be relieved from duty. The commanding officer Squadron “A” will remain at Camp Roosevelt with one troop until further orders.

III. The commanding officer Troop “C” will send a detachment to their home station, reporting at 5 a. m. to-day at the Camp of Squadron “A.” Troop “C” will remain at Camp Roosevelt until further orders.

IV. Pay-rolls and vouchers of expenditures in triplicate duly receipted must be sent to the Headquarters of the National Guard, 280 Broadway, as soon as possible.

V. The major-general commanding desires to thank the officers and enlisted men of the Seventh Regiment, Squadron “A” and Troop “C” for their efficient and soldierly performance of duty and for the order and discipline which have been maintained.

By command of Major-General Roe,

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.”

Sent following telegram to Governor Roosevelt:

“Governor ROOSEVELT, Albany, N. Y.:

Troops have left for home stations. Myself and staff return to New York this afternoon. Captain Badgley in command of two troops cavalry remaining.

(Signed) CHAS. F. ROE,

Left with staff for New York at 2 p. m., Captain Badgley, Squadron “A”, being left in command.

April 25th, Captain Badgley reported as follows:

“Major-General CHAS. F. ROE, 280 Broadway, N. Y.:

Everything absolutely quiet here and at quarries.

(Signed) HOWARD G. BADGLEY,
Captain Commanding.”

April 26th, accompanied by my aide, Majors Greer and Holland, I visited Camp Roosevelt, where found everything quiet and satisfactory, and after consulting with Sheriff Malloy, issued the following Order No. 6:

“CAMP ROOSEVELT,
CROTON-ON-HUDSON, April 26, 1900.

Orders No. 6.

I. The commanding officers of the detachment of Squadron “A” and of Troop “C” will proceed to their home stations on Friday, April 27th, and upon arrival at their respective armories will be relieved from duty.

II. The commanding officer and commanding officers of detachments will report their arrival home to the headquarters National Guard, 280 Broadway, N. Y.

By command of Major-General Roe,

(Signed) STEPHEN H. OLIN,
Assistant Adjutant-General.”

In closing this report, I desire to call attention to the effective condition of the whole National Guard of the State as exemplified by the organizations called upon for duty at the Croton strike. Every organization is provided with field equipment and can take the field on equally short notice. The officers and enlisted men of Squadron "A", of Troop "C" of the Seventh Regiment, of the Battalion of the First Regiment, composed of the Fourth and Eleventh Separate Companies, under Major Denike, performed every duty in the most business like and soldierly manner. The self-restraint exercised by Major Denike and his battalion after the killing of Sergeant Douglass is deserving of the highest praise. I fully concur in the special mention which Major Denike makes in his report of Corporal J. P. McDowell of Company "B" (Eleventh Separate Company) and of Corporal John J. Murphy of Company "A" (Fourth Separate Company) and of the relief who were with Sergeant Douglass when he was killed, for their soldierly behavior. I also desire to express my appreciation of the quick, soldierly, intelligent way in which all commanding officers of various camps and detachments carried out their orders, but especially worthy of notice is the splendid way in which Colonel Appleton, Major Denike, Captain Lydecker, Captain Badgley, Captain McLean, Captain Landon and Captain DeBevoise moved their commands on the morning of April 19th at exactly 8 o'clock without trumpet call, drum beat or any noise, and at 8.30 had formed and completed a cordon around the entire district, of about five miles. Further to be commended on that day is Captain Fiske and his company for the very efficient way in which assistance was rendered the sheriff in making arrests, and for the very soldierly way in which the prisoners were guarded and turned over to the guard at the guard tent.

The discipline of the entire command was most excellent, and the behavior of each and every man is deserving of the highest praise. There was not a single instance of disorder or misbehavior during the whole tour of duty.

Respectfully,

CHAS. F. ROE,

Major-General, N. G. N. Y.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION,
FIRST REGIMENT INFANTRY, N. G., N. Y.,
ARMORY, FIFTH AVENUE AND NORTH STREET,
MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 23, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report the duties performed by Companies A (Fourth Separate) and B (Eleventh Separate), of the First Battalion, First Regiment, N. G., N. Y., while on strike duty at Camp Roosevelt (Camp Douglas), Croton Dam, N. Y., from April 16th to 21st, inclusive.

On Saturday, April 14th, the sheriff of Westchester county notified the commanding officers of Companies A at Yonkers, and B of Mt. Vernon, that they would be required for service at the Dam; and would start on Sunday the 15th inst., at 10 a. m., the company officers notified me, and I reached Headquarters, Mt. Vernon, at 8 p. m., and learned that the sheriff had revoked his call, but that they were to hold themselves in readiness for another call.

On Sunday, April 15th, at about 11 p. m., I received word from Colonel Austin, Acting Adjutant, First Regiment, that the companies had received a written call from the sheriff, and were to march on Monday, April 16th, and entrain for Croton, at 11.22 a. m., and that General Roe had ordered me to command them.

At that late hour, I could not reach Headquarters except by telephone, and using the same, I ordered the preparations for the march, at 8 a. m. of the 16th, I arrived at headquarters and got things in readiness to move, I then went to Yonkers, Company B following, arriving at about 9.30 a. m., the baggage having been forwarded to the station under a suitable guard in charge of the quartermaster. At 10.30 a. m. the detachment was formed, the adjutant's report showing 11 staff and line officers, 139 enlisted men, and 1 headquarter-servant, making a total of 151. At 10.45 the detachment marched to the depot, on the arrival of the 11.22 train, our cars which had been loaded were attached, and we arrived at Croton at 12.20 p. m.; I reported my arrival to General Roe as ordered, and received instructions by telephone, to furnish transportation for himself, staff and baggage for the 12 m. train of the 17th inst.; I notified him that there was no means of communication between Croton and the Dam.

My command moved forward with an advance guard under Captain Pruyn of A, the main column and baggage, and the rear guard under Lieutenant Grover of B, the sheriff's carriage between the advance and main column, arrived at the Dam at about 2 p. m. everything being very quiet.

I left a heavy guard under Lieutenant Glover at the Bowery bridge; I then placed Captain Pruyn in command, and with Superintendent Goldsborough, inspected the ground I was to protect; I found that the important points to be covered were very much detached, one point being one and one-half miles away; I also looked over the several camping grounds, and at last selected a terrace about 15 feet above the road, as being the best position for the needs of the duty I was to perform.

This terrace was of gravel excavated from the foundation of the dam, was level and a place on which water would not stand, it was also convenient to the river, and commanded the Bowery bridge, was also far enough from the base of the heights, on which was Little Italy, to prevent their throwing anything upon me. I here established my camp, making arrangements with Superintendent Goldsborough to supply me with wood, straw, and a water wagon which his men kept filled for our use, our tents were ditched, and although it rained most of the time from Monday night, to Thursday morning, my camp was always dry, and we had absolutely no sickness.

I saw and talked with the strikers, and convinced myself that they would not attempt any rioting while the troops were on duty.

Our camp being pitched, we had a late lunch, and supper call sounded at 6 p. m.

Our guards were posted at the bridge, powder-house, stables, a heavy line of pickets on the aqueduct on the heights above my camp, at the southerly end of camp, and along the road to the bridge, also at the foot of the road leading to the heights, all on the east side of the Croton river, as I looked over the large number of posts that had to be maintained, I wished very much for my other two companies.

I had to use the deputies to help me out, sending six to the powder-house, as a reinforcement to my men posted there, and 16 armed with long night sticks and revolvers to the power-house on the heights where the anchorage to the cable was located, and which it was feared they would use dynamite on, as this cable supported all the derricks on the dam; my line of pickets was in touch with this force of deputies, and I felt that it was secure.

Placed deputies at the anchorage on the west side, which was much easier to defend. Having made this disposition of my forces, my camp settled down for the night, and the men were enjoying themselves in singing, etc., when at about 9 p. m., I heard a dull report, I sprang out of my tent, and as I gained the outside heard about a dozen reports in rapid succession which I knew by the sound to be Springfields. There was a call for the guard, and then for the ambulance corps, and both responded promptly, Captain Pruyn officer of the day and Lieutenant Glover with his guard arrived on the scene of the shooting together, closely followed by Surgeon Smith.

The battalion turned out, consisting of two small platoons of "A" and "B," ordered Lieutenant Nugent of "A" to guard the camp from attack, and sent Captain Schneider with "B" to the foot of the hill road to support the guard.

Regarding the killing of Sergeant Douglass of "B," sergeant of the guard, I enclose the report of the officer of the day and officer of the guard, and as to the cause of death, to the report of Surgeon Smith.

It was reported to me that the deputies at the power-house saw a man run past after the shooting, and go off the bluff down into the works, a thing which could have been done by digging the heels into the gravel of which the bluff was composed; the deputies became panic stricken, and rushed into the power-house and locked the door, instead of rushing to the bluff, and firing a volley down, which would have been pretty sure to have found his body.

It being very dark and rainy, and fearing the assassination of more of my guards on the aqueduct, I removed them to the terrace above our camp, it being about 15 feet higher than the camp, and as the deputies had by this time deserted the powerhouse which commanded the anchorage, I sent Lieutenant Nugent of "A" with a strong force to occupy said point.

There were several shots fired after this up to 12 m., but the shooting was done by the guards, who would challenge and not receiving a reply would fire in the direction of the noise; it had now commenced to rain very heavily, and the camp remained perfectly quiet until morning. The ground was thoroughly examined, and no evidence of the murderer could be found, the only thing found, was the shells fired by the guard.

On the morning of the 17th, the coroner was notified, and held his inquest, the body of Sergeant Douglas was removed by an undertaker from Croton Landing to the train, and sent to Mt. Vernon, accompanied by Adjutant Carmody, Lieutenant Fish, quartermaster, and two enlisted men; as the remains passed out, the guard paraded and presented arms, and the bugler sounded taps as the remains passed over the bridge. The officers and men after delivering the remains at Mt. Vernon, returned to duty.

At about 10 a. m. Adjutant Toussaint of Major Abrams Battalion of the Seventh Regiment reported to me in order to establish communications between the Seventh Camp at the old dam and my command, his coming being the first intimation to me that there were other troops ordered to the dam.

General Roe arrived and relieved me from the command of the post, between 12 and 1 p. m., and requested me to accompany him over the ground to select suitable camping ground for the squadron and Troop "C" which arrived while he was making his selection.

The arrival of the troopers increased our force by between three and four hundred men, and I felt that we would be free from annoyance by the strikers; there were, however, several shots fired the night of the 17th, one by the squadron, one by one of my sentinels, and several by the deputies at the western anchorage.

At about noon of the 18th, eight companies of the Seventh arrived under General Appleton, and I was ordered to find them ground for a bivouac, which I did by selecting the terrace above my camp; here they had dinner, and were then distributed to their several camps on the west side of the Croton.

Company "D," Seventh Regiment, Captain Fisk, was left to reinforce my battalion, and I encamped him on the upper terrace, saw that he was supplied with straw, wood, water, etc., and made generally comfortable. Captain Fisk's command ran the picket on the aqueduct and I placed a heavy guard on the Bowery bridge; the night was very wet, but nothing of importance occurred.

The morning of the 19th, at 6 a. m., I received an order to report at Headquarters at 6.30 a. m., arriving on time, received orders with the other commanding officers present, as to the post my battalion was to take in the general round up of the Italian settlements, for the arrest of the leaders in the strike.

I was ordered to move at 8 a. m. with one company to the south of the Bowery road, on the east side of the Croton, and throw out a line connecting with the squadron to the east, and Troop "C" on the west. I made said connections, and allowed all persons to come in, and none to go out.

My picket line was called in about 3.30 p. m., and had dinner which was awaiting them.

The companies of my battalion were used in the above movement as follows: Company "A" camp guard, "B" on the picket line, "D" of the Seventh to support the sheriff in making the arrests.

At about 4 p. m. received an order from headquarters, to break camp and prepare to conduct the prisoners arrested to White Plains jail in Westchester county, and there to deliver said prisoners to the sheriff.

At 5 p. m. with advance guard, main column in square formation with prisoners in the centre, baggage train and rear guard, I was in the road awaiting orders to march.

The order to march did not arrive until nearly dark, owing to a delay in receiving eight prisoners to the 19 I already had; I was finally ordered to march without the eight prisoners. It was dark when I entrained at Croton Landing, reached Tarrytown at about 9 p. m., sent my baggage to Yonkers with a detail and had it delivered at the several armories of my command.

Taking the trolley at Tarrytown for White Plains, arrived at the jail and delivered and got receipt for 19 prisoners, marched to depot and entrained for Mt. Vernon, and arrived at home station about 11 p. m., fed and quartered my command in armory, and reported by wire to Headquarters at Camp Roosevelt as per orders.

On Friday the 20th, the battalion under orders No. 3, escorted the remains the Sergeant Douglass (killed on the night of the 16th while posting the relief at Camp Roosevelt, Croton Dam), to Woodlawn cemetery, and there buried that brave soldier with military honors.

Returned to Mt. Vernon and sent the companies to their home stations, there to hold themselves awaiting orders.

On Saturday the 21st, at about 4 p. m., received on order by telegraph from Headquarters at Camp Roosevelt, Croton Dam, relieving my command from further duty.

I desire to make special mention of corporals J. P. McDowell of Company "B," (Eleventh Separate), and John J. Murphy of Company "A," (Fourth Separate), and of the relief who were with Sergeant Douglas when he was killed, for their soldierly behavior on that occasion. There was no disorder, but prompt obedience to the orders of the sergeant, whose last words were fire, and the orders of the corporals who deployed them, ordered them to lie down, and afterwards posted them.

My whole command, officers and enlisted men, behaved like veterans during the whole campaign, and I am more than proud of them.

Respectfully,

C. A. DENIKE,

Major Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION,
FIRST REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,
ARMORY, CORNER FIFTH AVENUE AND NORTH STREET,
MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 26, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir:—I have the honor to submit a supplementary report to the one already submitted.

At the time of the shooting of Sergeant Douglas, at Camp Roosevelt, Croton Dam, N. Y., the guard who were with him claimed that they did not hear the shot fired which killed him.

That might be as the air was very heavy, and they were under the cliff; but I heard it distinctly at the camp, as did others who were there.

The shot was fired as the relief turned from the hill road to the aqueduct, which was 15 or 20 feet below the crest; he at the time must have been just on the turn, and the person who fired the shot some distance back; because if on the bank overhead the shot would surely have been heard and the flash seen; the shot was probably fired from a 30.30 Winchester, and was a nickel ball; as there are no marks of the lead on the leaves of his roll-book, which was in his belt, and was struck on the top edge, this deflected the ball which struck him in the abdomen, causing a large wound, I should say about three inches in diameter. He was probably inclining forward in climbing the hill, the ball passing out at the crotch, causing death in a very few moments. He was carried directly to our hospital tent and Surgeon Smith, in answer to my question, replied that there was no pulsation and that he was dead. The surgeon afterwards made a thorough examination of the wound.

I enclose the roll book, in the pocket of which will be found the roll of the second and third reliefs, the first relief was evidently posted without making a list.

I respectfully request that the roll book and list be returned to me after examination as his family desire to retain them.

Respectfully,

C. A. DENIKE,

Major, Commanding First Regiment.

COMPANY "A" (FOURTH SEPARATE COMPANY),
FIRST REGIMENT, THIRD BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.,
YONKERS, N. Y., April 21, 1900.

Commanding Officer First Battalion, First Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir:—I have the honor to report that on April 16, 1900, on or about 9 p. m., Sergeant Robert L. Douglas, Company "B" (Eleventh Separate Company), First Regiment, N. G., N. Y., while in the performance of his duty as sergeant of the guard was shot and almost instantly killed at Post No. 10 by some unknown party or parties. He went out with the second relief, which was under the command of Corporal J. P. McDowell, Company "B" (Eleventh Separate Company), accompanied by Corporal John J. Murphy of Company "A" (Fourth Separate Company), who had charge of the old relief. Nothing unusual had transpired from the time the relief left the guard house until it reached Post No. 10, which was at the junction of the road and aqueduct. As they turned from the road to the aqueduct the relief was halted, and the corporals were relieving the sentry, Sergeant Douglas was heard to say, "I'm shot." "Load," "fire." Corporal Murphy gave the command "lie down," when a volley was fired by the relief in the direction they supposed the shot came from which had hit Sergeant Douglas. A call was instantly sent in for the guard and ambulance, which was quickly responded to. Upon my arrival at Post 10 I found Sergeant Douglas lying on his back. I saw at once the wound was fatal and ordered four of the relief to carry him to hospital. They had just started with him when Surgeon Smith and the ambulance corps took charge of him. At the time the first shot was fired, I was standing on a bluff in rear of the guard house. I called out "guard," which was promptly responded to by Lieutenant Ralph M. Glover who was on duty at the guard house, and quickly proceeded to Post No. 10 and did excellent work towards maintaining discipline.

JOHN I. PRUYN,
Captain.

Officer of the Day, April 16.

RALPH M. GLOVER,
Officer of the Guard.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTH REGIMENT,
NATIONAL GUARD, N. Y.NEW YORK, May 12, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, N. G., N. Y., 280 Broadway, N. Y.:

Sir.—Pursuant to O. H. N. G., N. Y., I have the honor to submit the following report of duty performed by this regiment at Croton Dam, N. Y., April 16th to 24th inclusive:

In compliance with verbal orders from the Major General commanding the National Guard, received over the telephone at 3.35 p. m., on April 16th, and afterwards confirmed in writing and by the Brigadier General commanding the Fifth Brigade in person and in writing, the regiment assembled for active duty at its armory, and at 8 o'clock p. m., after a hot supper, was prepared to leave in full field service uniform, twenty rounds of ammunition, a suitable travel ration, three days commissary stores in bulk, and its camp equipage. Orders having been received to detach a battalion to be sent immediately under orders of the C. O., N. G., a battalion composed of Companies "H," "D" and "B," Major J. C. Abrams commanding, was detached and entrained at the Grand Central Station at 9.55 p. m., after loading three days stores in bulk and camp equipage. (For the movements of this battalion until again connected with the regiment see report of Major J. C. Abrams herewith enclosed.)

April 17th. In accordance with orders the regiment left the armory at 9.35 a. m., entrained at the Grand Central Depot at 9.55 a. m., after loading three days commissary stores, camp equipage, and twelve horses for the field and staff (ambulance sent over the road) and started for the Old Croton Dam. At High Bridge the train was switched on to the Putnam division of the New York Central and arrived at Ardsley at 2.05. A wreck caused by a collision between an engine running wild, preceding the regimental train, and a freight train, prevented further progress. The engineer of the former was badly hurt and was attended by the regimental surgeon and sent by special train to New York under the care of two members of the hospital corps. Later two Italian laborers were severely crushed and received similar attention. After a delay of twelve hours the train finally arrived at Croton Lake Landing, and at 5 a. m. the regiment detrained, and after a mile and a half march over very muddy roads, and under disagreeable weather conditions, arrived at the dam with its stores and camp equipage transported in farm wagons impressed by the quartrmaster, where it went into a temporary camp prepared by Major Abrams' battalion. The mess call for breakfast sounded at 8.30, and in compliance with orders from Major-General Roe, the regiment started for his headquarters, Camp Roosevelt, at 10.50 o'clock a. m., leaving Companies "C" and "F" under command of Major James C. Abrams to take charge of the valuable property and important posts at the old Croton Dam. After a three and a half mile march, with advance and rear guards, flankers and train, the command arrived as directed at 12.30 o'clock, and the Major-General directed it to go into temporary camp on the "Bench" near the battalion of the First Regiment commanded by Major Denike.

I desire to acknowledge the many courtesies extended by Major Denike and the officers of his battalion in arranging for wood and water, and in many other ways making the stay of the regiment near his headquarters most agreeable.

Immediately after the arrival of the regiment the Assistant Adjutant-General in person, gave me directions to make the following disposition of the regiment—the first battalion starting at 2.50 o'clock p. m.—Companies "K" and "I" to the road in the rear of the general headquarters, where regimental headquarters were also established. Companies "H" and "G" under the command of Captain Lydecker to the Shales, and Companies "A," "B" and "E" to the mill quarry camp, Major Conover, commanding. Company "D," Captain Fisk, remained at the "Benches" and reported to Major Denike.

Your attention is respectfully asked to the report of the several battalion commanders herewith enclosed, for duty performed by the several detachments.

April 19th. In response to written orders I reported to the Major-General commanding, at 6.30 o'clock a. m., and was directed in conjunction with the commanding officers of Squadron "A," Troop "C," and a battalion of the First Regiment, to form a cordon for the purpose of keeping all the people within the village or reservation, but allowing those seeking access to enter. Company "K" was sent to cover the ground back of headquarters, and to connect with Troop "C." Company "I" was sent through the Bowery to form on the right of Troop "C" and to connect with the battalion of the First Regiment. Dispositions were made at 8.25 and so reported at headquarters. Company "D" was detailed by the Major-General commanding, for special duty in connection with the sheriff. (Report of Captain Fisk enclosed herewith.) At noon the cordon was withdrawn and detachments were returned to quarters. In the evening four squads of Companies "K" and "I" were sent to the "Benches" to relieve the outposts of Company "D."

April 20th. Nothing important occurred. Captain Lydecker's detachment was directed to break camp at the Shales and join Company "D" at the "Bench," where Captain Lydecker assumed command of the battalion.

April 21st. An election was held by Company "K" to fill the vacancy of second lieutenant. First Sergeant J. Augustus Barnard was elected. Private H. H. Brooks, Company "F," was appointed assistant surgeon. Second Lieutenant Wiswell, Company "F," was elected first lieutenant. First Sergeant Dalzell, Company "E," was elected second lieutenant. All passed the board of examination ordered under special orders from the National Guard headquarters. In the evening of the 21st, by invitation of Squadron "A," a large delegation from all the companies of the regiment stationed at the new dam, and several officers from regimental headquarters, arrived at the camp of Squadron "A" where they were most hospitably entertained. Returning to quarters Captain Lydecker who was reading his command cautiously owing to the extreme darkness, slipped over the side of the unprotected bridge, and falling some five feet fractured a small bone in the leg. He was carried to camp and his leg promptly set.

April 22d. Captain Lydecker having been rendered unfit for duty on account of his accident, was ordered to return home. Captain McLane who came to camp suffering with rheumatism, was also ordered to return home as his condition had become serious. A review of all the troops composed of the battalion of the Seventh, Squadron "A," and Troop "C," under the command of Colonel Appleton, was held by General Roe at 3.55 p. m. at the "Bench." The companies were exercised in several ways.

April 23d. Nothing of importance occurred during the day. In the evening orders were issued from general headquarters to assemble the regiment at 11 o'clock on the following morning at the "Bench," and after dinner to proceed to New York city entraining at Croton Landing at 3 o'clock p. m.

April 24th. The regiment assembled according to orders at 11 o'clock. The battalion under Major Abrams marching in from the old dam; the battalion of Major Conover coming in by train of flat cars, and at 12 o'clock mess call sounded, and at 1.43 o'clock the regiment assembled and started for Croton Landing, arriving at 2.40 o'clock after a three mile march. The first train started at 3 o'clock and arrived in New York at 3.58, and the entire regiment reached the armory at 4.35 p. m., and their arrival at the home station was reported to the Adjutant-General. All camp equipage and baggage in armory before dark.

Quartermaster.—This department worked satisfactorily under the able administration of Captain Walter G. Schuyler and his assistants. All the camp equipage was found to be in excellent condition and ample for the purposes of the regiment. Wagons were obtained promptly when required for transportation.

Commissary.—Under the admirable system devised by Captain J. W. Myers there was no delay in issuing the commissary stores, and the amount brought from New York was ample for the indicated period. He succeeded in supplying the several camps without unreasonable delay. He also had prepared and ready for one thousand men a supper before the regiment left the armory on the evening they assembled. The company cooking was done by volunteer details from the several companies, and the regulation referring to the hiring of cooks was not availed of. The enlisted men when questioned expressed themselves as satisfied.

Medical.—Surgeons for the several camps were easily supplied by the surgeon, Major Colles, detailing several privates who had obtained their degrees of M. D. The lack of a hospital corps was for a moment a cause of anxiety, but the details from the several companies soon became sufficiently efficient so that no complaint was received of any lack of attention. The health of the men was excellent. No serious sickness, accidents or wounds, except in the case of outsiders who came to the surgeons for advice and attention. I inspected the several camps from time to time and found them always in perfect condition as to the sanitary arrangements. The camps were well policed, the cook shacks properly placed, and the regulations complied with in every particular.

In General.—A duty which in former times would at first, have given some anxiety owing to the obsolete methods which then prevailed, was attended in this case with most satisfactory results from the start, and the men took hold with spirit and confidence, feeling that they had a thorough knowledge of the duties required of them. Marches were made in accordance with regulations. Camps were pitched promptly and correctly and the meals served on time. Some of the men were obliged to remain in their wet clothes for many hours, and were compelled, owing to the exigencies of the situation, to march several miles over a hilly country, but all duty was performed cheerfully, carefully and well. No breach of discipline was brought to my attention, and where all, from the veteran Lieutenant-Colonel to the last recruit, performed their duty well. I can single no one officer out for special mention. Such ceremonies as could be performed were observed, and military courtesy was excellent. Signal stations were established where needed. Many well instructed men were available for this duty.

I desire to express my appreciation of the prompt and satisfactory services rendered the regiment by all National Guard staff officers. I also desire to note the satisfaction of the regiment in their service with the noted organizations it was brigaded with. Their soldierly bearing and efficiency was everywhere in evidence, and our association with them will long be remembered. I respectfully beg to express the intense satisfaction of all concerned in the concise and positive orders invariably received.

In closing my report I beg respectfully to state that in my opinion the present military code, and the wise method of military instruction now pursued, are both largely responsible for the successful issue of the affair at Croton Dam.

Very respectfully,

DANIEL APPLETON,

Colonel.

NEW YORK CITY, May 1, A. D. 1900.

Col. DANIEL APPLETON, Commanding Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit my report of a military service rendered by verbal order of Major-General Roe, together with written instructions, as follows:

“You will take train at Grand Central depot, New York and Northern and proceed to Croton Lake station, where you will disembark from cars and go in camp in vicinity of what is known as old Croton dam, one-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) mile or more west of station. Take every precaution to prevent anybody from interfering with dam on either side of river and its entire length, and see no one interferes in any way. Notify people in charge of dam that you are there to protect and prevent it being destroyed in any part. To-morrow morning communicate down river by detail with Major Denike, who will be found in camp there with two (2) separate companies, and keep up this touch with him until further orders. The other battalion of your regiment will arrive sometime to-morrow forenoon. Have your quartermaster make arrangements for wood. The whole regiment will establish camp in that vicinity.”

At a conference of field officers, called at General Roe's residence, there were present General Roe, Colonel Appleton, Major Abrams, Major Conover and Major Greer.

After fully conferring with the Major-General as to the object of the call for troops, which was to suppress riot and bloodshed incident to a strike of the Italians employed on the New Croton dam, we proceeded at once to the armory to prepare to start. The conference took place about 4 o'clock p. m. of April 16th, and at 8 o'clock p. m., about four (4) hours later, Companies B, Captain Schuyler, D, Captain Fisk, and H, Captain Lydecker, were prepared to march, fully equipped for field service, and with full ranks. I had the honor of being detailed to command this detachment.

We left the armory at 9.15 p. m. and marched to Grand Central depot, via Lexington avenue, boarded two special trains in waiting and pulled out of depot at 9.55 p. m. We arrived at Croton Lake station at 11.25 p. m., and the night being stormy, I ordered the men to stay in the cars until the canvas and quartermaster's stores, etc., were unloaded.

Leaving Company "B" to guard the stores, I proceeded with Companies "D" and "H" in column of fours to the dam about a mile and a half, taking the usual precaution to detach from each company an advance and rear guard, both under command of a commissioned officer, arriving at the dam at 12.50 a. m.

Temporary quarters were obtained in out-buildings and sheds and the men made fairly comfortable for the rest of the night. The greatest difficulty was experienced by Quartermaster Folsom, who had been detailed with this command to procure at this time of night teamsters, to haul our baggage, etc., but I take this opportunity to compliment him on the energy and firmness he displayed, not only securing enough to move our stores, etc., to camp, but also holding them in his service until the arrival of the rest of the regiment which was expected the next day, but on account of an accident to preceding train which blocked the tracks, did not arrive until the morning of the following day.

The last load of baggage arrived at 4.30 a. m. Camp ground was selected in the morning and staked out for the entire regiment by Lieutenant Towle of Company "D," and the detachment under my command went into camp awaiting the arrival of the regiment.

Outposts and camp guards were at once established, and all the property and works at the Old Croton dam kept constantly guarded.

Major Greer rode into camp in the afternoon with orders from Major-General Roe for Colonel Appleton to send eight (8) companies the following morning to the new dam, leaving Companies "C," Captain McDougal, and Company "F," Captain Steele, to guard the old dam.

After the departure of the regiment from the old dam, I deemed it expedient to change location of camp nearer to the dam and on better ground, which was done the following morning. This proved to be both a welcome and delightful change for the men, and they named the camp after its Commanding Officer, "Camp Abrams." Here we remained without any special incident occurring until ordered to join the regiment at the new dam to march for our home station. Camp was broken at 9.10 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, April 24th, and the march to the new dam was taken up, reaching there at 10.58 o'clock a. m.

I desire to express my entire satisfaction of the manner in which the members of these two companies deported themselves as soldiers, and would make especial mention of the valuable aid rendered by Quartermaster and Commissary Folsom, Adjutant Carnochan and Sergeant-Major Bostwick, who were detailed to this post for duty with me.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES C. ABRAMS,

Major.

SEVENTH REGIMENT ARMORY,

NEW YORK CITY, May 7, 1900.

Colonel DANIEL APPLETON, Commanding Seventh Regiment Infantry, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—In compliance with your directions, I have the honor to submit the following report of the battalion of this regiment composed of Companies B, A and E, while under my command April 18 to April 24, 1900.

The battalion left Croton Dam on two trains of flat cars at about 4 o'clock p. m. on the 18th and arrived at the Mill Stone quarry, the first train at 5.10, the second 5.30.

Upon arrival I was met at office of contractors by Lieutenant Huntington, commanding a detachment of Squadron A, on guard at this point, who immediately escorted me over the ground informing me of disposition of his sentinels and the condition of affairs at this post. During this trip I selected site for camp and decided upon guard necessary.

Before leaving Croton Dam I had detailed as guard Captain Schuyler, Company B, officer of the day; Lieutenant Schastey, Company A, and Lieutenant Beach, Company B, as officers of the guard; two sergeants, three corporals and twenty-four privates in case of immediate emergency upon arriving at the quarry; this guard was at once increased by one sergeant, three corporals and twenty-four privates, and again after the work of preparing camp was completed, by another detail of three corporals and twenty-four privates.

The camp site being contiguous to the line of railroad, the two trains pulled up, the men, camp equipment and stores were detrained, and the work of making camp immediately undertaken. As the weather conditions were extremely bad and darkness was coming on, I deemed it best to get under cover, have the fires started and see that the evening meal was served at the earliest moment possible. To that end everything was hastened, having only consideration for the present comfort and welfare of the outfit.

Changes were made on the 19th and 20th in arrangement of officers' tents and cook shacks, but the company streets were left as originally pitched.

The first tent was pitched at 6.15 p. m.

All tents up at 7 p. m.

Fires were lighted at 6.10 p. m.

Supper was served at 8.15 p. m.

The guard-house was first established at the office of the contractors, but later, about midnight, because of inadequacy of quarters, I transferred the main post to the camp ground, leaving an outpost at the office from which sentinels were posted at the powder-house, engine room, spring and picket post over the quarry.

Two conical tents not in use by companies were appropriated and erected for the use of the guard in the camp ground.

There was no tattoo as drums were too wet.

Taps, 10 p. m.

April 19th.

Hours of service were ordered as follows:

Reveille, 6 a. m.
 Sick call, 6.15 a. m.
 Mess call, 6.55 a. m.
 Breakfast, 7 a. m.
 Assembly of guard details, 8.20 a. m.
 Adjutant's call, 8.30 a. m.
 Mess call, 12.55 p. m.
 Dinner, 1 p. m.
 Police, 2.30 p. m.
 Mess call, 5.55 p. m.
 Supper, 6 p. m.
 Retreat, 6.50 p. m.
 Tattoo, 9.30 p. m.
 Taps, 10 p. m.

GUARD.

Captain J. Henry Townsend, officer of the day.

Lieutenant Austin E. Pressinger, Sergeant Wm. M. Halsted, officers of the guard.

Three sergeants, eight corporals, sixty privates.

The guard as first established was found to be unnecessarily large, and was therefore reduced as above.

Instructions to sentinels were that no one was to be allowed to pass. Early in the day, however, to do away with the necessity of keeping corporals continually on the go, certain employees of the contractors were given permission to pass men to and from the quarry and along the line of the railroad. This did not apply to the camp ground and no one was allowed in or out except by direction of the commander of the post.

Captain and Assistant Surgeon Huddleston, detailed for temporary duty with the battalion, returned to Croton Dam at 9.30 a. m.

Private H. A. Brooks, Company "F", reported at 1.35 p. m. for duty as acting assistant surgeon.

A message was received by telephone from Headquarters N. G., N. Y., that the quarry would be visited by Sheriff Malloy to search for men for whom warrants had been issued, and orders were received at the same time to permit no one to leave the quarry until this search had been completed, and also to render the sheriff such aid as he might require in serving warrants or searching boarding houses in the vicinity.

The lines of the guard were immediately extended, additional posts were established and sentinels were directed to stand at points where they could best observe the movements of the workmen.

The sheriff and his deputies arrived at 4.30 p. m. A special detail of twenty files, under Captain Davidson, Company "E", was prepared as an escort for the sheriff if he desired to continue his search outside of the post.

After investigation the sheriff reported that there were no men on the grounds for whom he had warrants, and that it would be unnecessary to search the boarding houses. Upon receiving this information extra sentinels were taken up, old guard line restored, and special detail dismissed.

At 4.50 Colonel Appleton and Lieutenant-Colonel Kipp visited the camp, departing at 5.45.

Perfect peace and quietness during the night.

Friday, April 20th.

Hours of service same, except as follows:

Reveille, 5.30 a. m.

Breakfast, 6.30 a. m.

Dinner, 12.30 p. m.

GUARD.

Captain Davidson, Company " F ", officer of the day.

Lieutenant Black Company " B ", Lieutenant Jordan, Company " A ", officers of the guard.

Three sergeants, nine corporals, sixty-one privates.

At 2.45 p. m. the commanding officer of the National Guard of New York visited the post and after inspection of same departed at 3.45 p. m.

Saturday, April 21st.

Hours of service same as 20th.

GUARD.

Captain Schuyler, Company " B ", officer of the day.

Lieutenant Schastey, Company " A ", Lieutenant Beach, Company " B ", officers of guard.

Detail of enlisted men as before.

In the morning a detail from Company " K ", Seventh Regiment, entered camp as escort to paymaster of contractors.

Early in the afternoon a rearrangement of officers' tents and company cook shacks was ordered. A large headquarters' tent was erected and adjutant's and company officers' tents placed on same line with it. The cook shacks were moved to the west flank of the camp onto a field of granite chips. The new position for that of Company " B " was an inclined plane covered with granite chips. This was cleared and leveled and a wall built some four feet high on the lower side, of stones, logs and dirt. In making the changes Companies " A " and " E " had troubles of their own to contend with, but their positions being more level their work was not so difficult. Although it might appear that those changes were devised merely to improve the appearance of the camp, still the comfort of all was increased materially, and the commanding officer, when ordering them was influenced more than all by a desire to employ as many men as possible in work that would be interesting. With nothing to do but police and guard duty, time hung heavily upon their hands. The evident enjoyment with which every man entered into the work, and the delight with which its completion was hailed were sufficient evidences that the plan had proved successful.

Sunday, April 22d.

Hours of service same as 20th.

GUARD.

Captain Townsend, Company "A", officer of the day.

Lieutenant Black, Company "B", Sergeant Halsted, Company "B", officers of guard.

Detail of enlisted men as before.

By invitation of Colonel Appleton, the commanding officer, accompanied by all officers at the post not on duty, visited Croton Dam to witness a brigade review. They arrived too late for review, but were greatly pleased to be present at the evening parade of a battalion of the Seventh Regiment, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Wm. H. Kipp.

At an election for second lieutenant in Company "B", First Sergeant Hugh Dalzell, Jr., was elected.

Monday, April 23d.

Hours of service same as 20th.

GUARD.

Captain Davidson, Company "E", officer of the day.

Lieutenant Jordan, Company "A", Sergeant Bernard, Company "E", officers of guard.

Two sergeants, six corporals, thirty-seven privates.

By permission of the commanding officer, N. G., N. Y., the commanding officer of the post left camp at 7.40 a. m., returning at 5 p. m.

At about 5.30 p. m. the commanding officer and officers of the post not on duty visited Regimental Headquarters and were there entertained at dinner, returning to the post at 10.15 p. m. While at Headquarters information was received that camp would be broken on the following morning. Arrangements were made with Superintendent Goldsborough of the contracting company for transportation.

Tuesday, April 24th.

First call fore reveille, 4.55 a. m.

Reveille, 5 a. m.

Mess call, 5.55 a. m.

Breakfast, 6 a. m.

Immediately after breakfast work necessary to striking tents and leaving camp was proceeded with. Tents, with exception of Headquarters tent and supply tent, which was left standing for protection of stores, were struck at whistle signal at 7.50 a. m. First train, under command of Lieutenant Black, containing quartermasters' and commissary stores, cook and quartermasters' details, tentage, etc., was ready to move at 8.15 a. m., but because of line not being open was delayed until 9 a. m. It arrived at Croton Dam at 10.20 a. m., and there detrained, stores, etc., being transported to Croton station by order of Colonel Appleton.

The second train with the remainder of battalion, left the camp at 9.46, but because of several delays on line did not arrive at the Bench until 11.15, when the commanding officer of this battalion reported to the commanding officer of the Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

Under orders from commanding officer of the Seventh Regiment April 18, 1900, I was directed to take command of Companies "B", "A" and "E" of this regiment, and proceed to station at Mill Stone quarry, some six miles from Croton Dam. This post was to be reached by means of a narrow-gauge railroad equipped with flat cars ordinarily used by the contractors building Croton dam for the transportation of granite for its construction. The battalion immediately proceeded to the terminus of the road at the dam, but there found that not enough cars had been provided. I directed that tents, Buzzacotts, etc., be loaded on cars waiting, and meanwhile seized another train loaded with dirt boxes, and several other cars standing near. The dirt boxes were thrown off and two trains were made up, the one in charge of Captain Schuyler carrying a portion of the detachment, guard, camp equipage, etc.; the other with the remainder of the detachment under my personal command. The trains proceeded on their way, the men standing and sitting as best they might, fully two-thirds of the detachment, officers and all, sitting on the muddy platforms, with their legs hanging over the edges. In places along the road it was necessary to warn the men of the danger of striking their feet on projecting rocks. Without accident, the two trains arrived at the quarry as noted earlier in my report.

I desire to call attention to the uniform cheerfulness and alertness of the officers and men of this battalion, under the trying circumstances of the first days of duty, and I extend to them my heartfelt thanks for their assistance in making our camp at the station in the Mill Stone quarry a bright landmark and a happy episode in the history of the regiment.

And now, sir, it is my pleasure and it becomes my duty to desire you to convey to Captain William H. Palmer, I. S. A. P., detailed to this battalion as acting quartermaster and commissary, my personal thanks and the thanks of every individual officer and man in the battalion for his thoughtfulness and care, for to him is due in great measure the comfort enjoyed. On Thursday night he sprained his ankle, but notwithstanding the extreme pain resulting therefrom continued to perform the manifold duties pertaining to the position to which we had been detailed.

To the contractors and their employees I also desire to convey my thanks for their courtesy and willingness to do anything that was asked of them.

Respectfully,

A. W. CONOVER,

Major Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

COMPANY H, SEVENTH REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.

NEW YORK, May 4, 1900.

Colonel DANIEL APPLETON, Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements and conduct of the Eighth company of your command during the operations incident to the strike of Italian laborers at Croton, N. Y.:

On Monday, April 16, 1900, at a few minutes before 4 o'clock p. m., your telephone message to me gave the first notice that the regiment was ordered out, and that I was to assemble my command at once.

Within twenty minutes nearly all the warning non-commissioned officers were at work, and I went to the armory, where you gave me the special orders, to prepare to leave at once as part of a battalion under the command of Major Abrams. The company accordingly as part of the battalion moved out, with ammunition, and full camp equipage including day's rations, seventy-six men in ranks.

The march to Croton Lake, by rail, the advance of Companies "H" and "D" to the dam, followed by Company "B" with the baggage, as soon as transportation could be obtained, will be embodied in the report of the Major commanding. At the dam each company maintained its own guard at the point where it bivouacked, covering the vicinity of the dam. Lieutenant Wotherspoon was officer of the day, and supervised the guards, and in the morning the site for a regimental camp having been selected, and the camp staked out, the battalion occupied it and pitched their tents, in their respective regimental positions and proceeded to prepare the camp for the expected arrival of the other seven companies of the regiment; a sufficient guard being maintained at the dam. The guard later in the day was extended to compass the camp site, and throughout the day and night the detained part of the regiment was awaited. When they arrived preparation had been made to feed Companies "C" and "E," and part of "G."

Wednesday the march to Cornell dam was made, the Eighth company forming the advance guard, and after the noon-day bivouac on the benches, Companies "H" and "G" were detached and under my command were taken to camp on the Point of Shales, some roadmaking being necessary to get there. This rocky terrace is north of the dam opposite the railroad bridge, and commands the valley and Italian settlements to the north for some distance. The companies quickly shook themselves down and smoothed off the rough surface of the shelf and had a comfortable night's rest. The guard established that night covered the cliff from the anchorage to the railroad bridge; the usual calls were sounded, and the men were rejoiced to see the sunshine once more the next day.

Thursday was devoted to extending the cordon about the country north of our station, and aiding in executing the search warrants and orders of arrest upon the ring leaders. The territory was so large over which my two companies had to maintain an embargo, that it was necessary to divide it into four detachments, viz., twenty files under command of Captain Underwood, covered the Johnson farm valley, and the road to the quarry north to the railroad thence connecting with the bridge at the dug out; sixteen files under command of Lieutenant Crall, covered the railroad, bridge and the road along the river to the bridge mentioned; twenty-four files under command of Lieutenant Wotherspoon, covered the road to Peekskill, and the villages to the northwest of our station; the balance of the command with the guard remained in camp ready to act with either detachment as occasion might require, under Lieutenant Joscelyn.

The thorough and intelligent manner in which these officers and men discharged their several duties deserves high commendation. Many arrests or interceptions were made, but the best temper was maintained and the sheriff was enabled to do as he pleased. That night my command, called the Cliff Dwellers, exchanged friendly greetings of song with the men of Squadron "A," camped across the valley.

Shortly after reveille on Friday morning I received orders to break camp, after breakfast, and establish camp on the benches, where the Fourth company was encamped, at this time, and to assume command of the three companies "H," "D" and "G," and by direction of the Regimental Commanding Officer I accompanied him to the benches, notified the commissioned officers of the Fourth company of the orders, and by the aid of Lieutenant Towle, as engineer officer, the location of the new camp was fixed. By noon the change was made, a little delay occurring because of lack of transportation, and the rest of the day was occupied in clearing up the camp and the place for a color line. During the afternoon the signal squad of Company "H," under Corporal J. H. Ford, opened communication with headquarters by the aid of signal men of Company "I" on the hill. That evening guard mount was had with a march in review over the cleared ground. That evening also I visited headquarters by invitation of the regimental commanding officer and received at his hands, the flag at headquarters then being replaced by a handsomer flag furnished by Colonel Appleton. The flag was brought to camp escorted by Lieutenants McLeer and Cameron of Troop "C." The next day, Saturday, after guard mount the battalion artificer, private H. H. Wotherspoon, Company "H," with a volunteer detail, cut a tall flagstaff and after trimming it, set it up on the color line with halliards purchased by Adjutant Toussaint reeved, and the flag was hoisted by the officer of the day, Lieutenant Nesbit.

Prior to evening parade, the battalion went through a battalion review, and the colors fell at evening parade, to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" played by the fifes and drums. The Squadron having extended an invitation to the members of the regiment to visit their camp this night, I deemed it wise to march the men over in a body, and about one hundred and fifty men went over, and were very agreeably entertained around a huge camp fire. The command returned about 10 o'clock. While conducting the column single file, at its head and understanding the direction of a trooper with a lantern, who stepped aside pointing down a path I stepped on a bridge with my left foot, and stepped off with my right foot into space, falling about five feet, but doubling my left leg as it caught on the bridge. The surgeons pronounced the injury a broken leg and I was ordered home, leaving Captain Willard C. Fisk, next senior, in command. I left in ambulance Sunday, April 22d, 11 a. m.

Any particular commendation of officers would be invidious, but it is proper to speak of the work of Battalion Adjutant C. Otto Toussaint which was in all respects faithfully and well performed at the point of shales and at the benches.

Annexed hereto is the report of the commanding officer Company "H" subsequent to my leave.

Respectfully,

CHARLES E. LYDECKER,
Captain Company "H," Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

COMPANY H, SEVENTH REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 24, 1900.

Colonel DANIEL APPLETON, Commanding Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y., Sixty-seventh Street and Park Avenue New York City:

Sir.—I have the honor to report that the command of Company "H," Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y., devolved upon me through the disability of Capt. Charles E. Lydecker, acting major of battalion, consisting of Companies "D," "G" and "H," at camp situated on "the bench," near new Croton dam, N. Y.

On the morning of April 22, 1900, this company detailed for guard duty one sergeant, three corporals and eighteen privates composing the camp guard; Lieut. Joscelyn being officer of the day. At 4.15 p. m., on the same day, this company formed for, and took part in, the brigade review, holding, through the courtesy of the commanding officer, the right of line at the review and evening parade, and retaining this position until the company was dismissed at the armory on the afternoon of the 24th instant.

On Monday, April 23d, this company performed its various regular camp duties; detailing camp guard for the night consisting of two sergeants, three corporals and thirty privates, and a detached stable guard of one corporal and three privates; Lieutenant Joscelyn being officer of the day.

At 8 o'clock a. m. on the 24th instant, under orders of Captain Fiske, acting major of battalion consisting of Companies "D," "G" and "H," this company was exercised in packing packs, striking and packing tents, and all camp equipage except Buzacotts, implements and stores necessary for preparing rations for the men. This company promptly and without confusion carried out these orders, striking tents simultaneously with the other companies of the battalion at the last note of the general, and packed all equipage but the implements and stores already excepted in wagons furnished by the regimental quartermaster.

Company "F" having marched in the camp "the bench," an invitation was extended by Company "H," and accepted by the recipients, to consolidate the respective company cooks of Companies "F" and "H," preparing the midday mess on Company "H's" cooking apparatus and fire. Shortly after this our portion of the camp was thoroughly policed by Companies "F" and "H."

The assembly having sounded about 1 o'clock, this company formed and marched off as part of the regiment.

Respectfully,

JAMES WOTHERSPOON,

First Lieutenant, Commanding Company "H."

SEVENTH REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,

NEW YORK, April 30, 1900.

The Commanding Officer, Seventh Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir:—I have the honor to submit a report of the detachment of the regiment encamped at "the bench," new Croton Dam, Westchester county, New York, April 18 to 24, 1900, in connection with the service of the regiment in that vicinity in aid of the civil authority.

Wednesday, April 18th.

Eight companies of the regiment arrived at the new Croton Dam shortly after noon and went into bivouac for dinner. I was directed to camp my command (Company "D") on "the bench" below the new dam on the south side of Croton river and near the detachment of the First Regiment, N. G., N. Y., consisting of the Fourth and Eleventh Separate Companies, under command of Major Charles A. Denike, and to report to that officer for orders.

I proceeded to the place indicated and made camp as directed, reporting to Major Denike. Canvas was sent, consisting of seven conical tents for the enlisted men, one wall tent for the first and quartermaster sergeants, one wall tent for the officers and a hospital tent fly for a cook shack. Sinks and a garbage trench were dug and a camp guard of one non-commissioned officer and two posts established. The camp guard as first established was a "running guard," the sentinels being on post two hours and the non-commissioned officer on duty four hours, and this method was continued until the departure of the First Regiment detachment. Hours for service were established as follows:

Reveille, 5.30 a. m.

Breakfast, 6.30 a. m.

Inspection quarters, 11.30 a. m.

Dinner, 12.30 p. m.

Supper, 6 p. m.

Retreat, 6.30 p. m.

Tattoo, 9.30 p. m.

Taps, 10 p. m.

Dr. Thomas N. Disbrow, private Company "I," was detailed and reported as medical officer, together with three hospital corps privates. No medical supplies were furnished; this being made known to Major Denike, he kindly arranged to supply the deficiency from the medical stores of the First Regiment detachment.

On arrival, the First Regiment detachment had a guard around their camp and on the bridge over the Croton river leading to the "Bowery," with a chain of sentinels along the aqueduct which ran parallel to the river and half way up the abrupt hills immediately south of the camp. These sentinels joined near the new dam and dismounted sentinels posted by Squadron "A."

Major Denike explained that pickets had been established each night on the hills above the aqueduct, and it was arranged that my command should furnish these night pickets, as well as a day guard on the aqueduct, while the First Regiment detachment should guard the Bowery bridge both day and night. Accordingly, at 6.30 p. m., the night picket, consisting of thirty privates and two non-commissioned officers under command of Lieutenant Mazet was posted on the hills midway between the aqueduct and the summit, in the direction of the settlement known as "Little Italy." Ten posts were established of two sentinels each, extending from below the camp up to the posts of Squadron "A" near the new dam, with a picket post of ten men on the aqueduct near the center of the chain of sentinels. One post covered the location where Sergeant Douglass, Fourth Separate Company, was killed on the preceding Monday night. The men went on duty with loaded pieces and were instructed to halt and challenge all who might approach. On failure to halt after due warning they were instructed to fire. No lights of any kind were allowed, either at the picket post or to the officer and non-commissioned officers in visiting the sentinels. Rain was falling as the posts were established and later a heavy down pour set in, lasting through the night, making the duty trying and difficult. The nature of the ground and the weather conditions precluded the possibility of relieving the sentinels on post until morning, and the same causes prevented one sentinel from resting while the other kept guard. The men were obliged to stand post for over twelve hours, wet through and chilled. Many of them had been without sleep since Sunday night. However, the work was cheerfully performed and I am glad to report that no ill effects were observed to follow this unusually arduous duty. The night passed without incident. In addition to the pickets thus established, a guard of one corporal and four privates was sent for the night to Croton Landing to guard the stables of the contractor hauling material for the new dam. They returned at breakfast call, being furnished wagon transportation each way.

Thursday, April 19th.

The night pickets were withdrawn at 6.30 a. m. and a day guard of five posts established along the aqueduct. Soon after reveille I received a written order to report in person to the Major-General Commanding at 6.30 a. m. at Headquarters, and so reported. I was then verbally ordered to take half my command and report at 8.30 a. m. at the end of the Bowery bridge to accompany, assist and protect the sheriff of the county in serving warrants for the arrest of alleged rioters. Accordingly I reported at the hour and place named with twenty-four files and a full complement of officers and non-commissioned officers, pieces loaded. I was further instructed to turn over all prisoners to the guard of the First Regiment detachment.

I left the camp in charge of the first sergeant and the sergeant commanding the guard. The sheriff and his deputies joined us at the bridge and proceeded to make arrests and search certain houses in the Bowery. The troops were disposed as follows: One squad, under the command of Lieutenant Mazet, was sent some distance ahead, and deployed across the road from the river to the side of the steep hills, to prevent escape to the east; one squad, under command of Sergeant Golsh, was detailed to accompany the sheriff; two squads, under command of Lieutenant Towle, were deployed on each side of the street to watch the houses; the remaining two squads, under command of Sergeant Kipp, were held as a reserve and to take charge of prisoners. Several houses were searched and six prisoners taken into custody; these were at once taken to the bridge and turned over to the First Regiment guard. The company was assembled, and at the request of the sheriff, proceeded to the settlement known as "Little Italy," on the hills south of the new dam. Arriving there, one squad was detailed to accompany the sheriff; one squad to remain with the commanding officer and take charge of prisoners, and the remainder of the company was deployed with the lines successively encircling groups of buildings, while the sheriff searched and made arrests. Adult males found in the streets were not permitted to enter the houses until after the sheriff had examined them. Many houses were searched and seventeen persons arrested. The sheriff having finished, the company assembly and the prisoners were marched back to camp and delivered to the officer of the guard, First Regiment detachment from whom a written receipt for the prisoners was obtained, countersigned by the sheriff.

I was then, at 12.30 p. m., ordered by a staff officer of the Major-General commanding to return to camp, mess the men and report at 2 p. m. with the same number of men to accompany the sheriff on the same class of duty. I was also directed to send a detail of one sergeant and ten men at 2 p. m. to the First Regiment detachment guard house to escort nine prisoners to the jail at Croton Landing. Sergeant Kipp and ten privates were sent on this duty.

At 2 p. m. I assembled twenty-four files, Lieutenant Mazet remaining in camp and the first sergeant joining the detachment. The company was marched to the quarry railroad, loaded on stone cars and joining the sheriff near Headquarters, proceeded by rail to the vicinity of the camp commanded by Brevet Major Lydecker and detained. Major Lydecker stated that his understanding of the orders was that I was to escort the sheriff to that point and that a detail from his (Major Lydecker's) command would from there support the sheriff in his duties.

While my conception of the orders I had received was different, in view of Major Lydecker's seniority and his willingness to assume responsibility for the result, I entrained my command and returned to camp, reporting in person to the Major-General commanding, by whom I was then relieved from further special duty with the sheriff.

The detail consisting of Sergeant Kipp and ten privates reported as directed at the First Regiment guard house at 2 p. m. and received nine prisoners, with directions to deliver them at the jail at Croton Landing. They took the prisoners there, but could find no one with authority to receive them, so they mounted guard over them until after 11 o'clock at night when they were relieved of responsibility for the prisoners and returned to camp, being absent on this detail over ten hours.

At 4.30 p. m. I received a written order from the Major-General commanding giving notice that the First Regiment detachment was about to break camp and leave and that my command should, until further orders, furnish the day guard on the aqueduct and on the Bowery bridge, and the night pickets above the aqueduct on the bridge, and the night guard at the stables at Croton Landing. The guard of the First Regiment at the bridge was immediately relieved by a guard from my command, and the First Regiment detachment struck camp and marched away at 5.45 p. m. This left Company "D" the only force on "the bench," or in the vicinity of the bridge and the Bowery.

My entire command having been on almost continuous duty for thirty-six hours, arrangements were made with Regimental Headquarters to relieve the company from duty during the night. A detachment, consisting of details from Companies "I" and "K," under command of Brevet Captain DuVal, arrived at 6.45 p. m. and undertook for the night the picket duty on the hills, the guard duty at the bridge and around the camp and stable guard at Croton Landing. This permitted all the men of my command save Sergeant Kipp's detail sent with prisoners to Croton Landing, to have a full night's rest under canvas. During the forenoon the weather cleared.

The night passed without incident.

Friday, April 20th.

The night guard and picket were relieved shortly after reveille by a day guard from Company "D." During the forenoon the commanding officer of the regiment, accompanied by Brevet Major Lydecker, visited camp, and I was notified that Company "H," Major Lydecker, and Company "G," Captain Underwood, would be moved from their position above the new dam to the position occupied by my command.

Lieutenant Towle and a detail from Company "D" staked out the camp in anticipation of the arrival of these two companies. The companies arrived shortly after dinner call and proceeded to make camp. Major Lydecker assumed command of the three companies and the camp; Battalion Adjutant C. Otto Touissaint acted as adjutant; Ordnance Sergeant Robert M. Kalloch acted as sergeant-major; Quartermaster-Sergeant Joseph Williams, Company "H," was detailed as acting commissary; Dr. Robert N. Disbrow, Company "I," was relieved from duty as medical officer and ordered to report to his company. Dr. Lee M. Hurd, private Company "H," was detailed as medical officer. The field music and hospital details of the three companies were each consolidated. It was arranged that the guard and picket duty, including the guard at the stables at Croton Landing, should be performed by details furnished from each company in succession; a junior officer of the company on guard to act as officer of the day, with a sergeant commanding the camp guard and a sergeant commanding the night picket. The night picket was changed to five cossack posts of three men each. Guard mounting was fixed for 7.30 a. m. and 5 p. m. daily, Company "H" relieved Company "D" on guard at 5 p. m. Evening parade was held at 6.30 p. m. under command of Captain Fisk, Company "D"; Major Lydecker being temporarily absent from camp.

Saturday, April 21st.

Company "G" relieved Company "H" at morning guard mounting. During the forenoon a detail cut and erected on the parade ground a flag staff, on which the National flag was hoisted.

Captain John H. Huddleston, assistant surgeon, reported for duty with the detachment, relieving Private Hurd, Company "H," as medical officer. Company "D" relieved Company "G" at evening guard mounting. Evening parade at 6.30 p. m., under command of Major Lydecker, preceded by practice in the ceremonies of review. Following the parade, those of the detachment not on duty, by invitation and under command of Major Lydecker proceeded without arms to the camp of Squadron "A" on a social visit. They were cordially received and handsomely entertained, returning to camp about 10 p. m. On the return march, owing to the darkness and the unguarded condition of a small bridge over a gully in the road, Major Lydecker was so unfortunate as to miss his footing, and falling a considerable distance, sustained a severe injury to his left ankle. He was borne back to camp by his own men and the injury examined by Assistant-Surgeon Huddleston, assisted by Dr. Hurd, Company "H," when it was ascertained that the bones of the ankle had been fractured. Everything possible was done for his comfort, and although suffering severe pain, Major Lydecker with great courage, continued to exercise the duties of commanding officer and to direct the work of the detachment until his departure the next day.

On this day a signal station was established by a detail from Company "H," in connection with a station established at Regimental Headquarters by a detail from Company "I." Improvised flags were used by day and the ordinary camp lanterns by night.

The night proved rainy, making guard and picket duty unpleasant.

Sunday, April 22d.

Company "H" relieved Company "D" at morning guard mounting. At 11 a. m. Major Lydecker left camp in the regimental ambulance to return home. He was escorted by the entire detachment to the limits of the guard lines at the Bowery bridge, and by a special detail from Company "H," and the assistant surgeon, to the train at Croton Landing. Upon his departure I assumed command of the camp.

At 4 p. m. the detachment equalized into three companies of twenty-four files, joined by Companies "I" and "K," forming a battalion of five companies, under command of Brevet Colonel Kipp, participated in a review by the Major-General commanding, forming part of a provisional brigade with Squadron "A" and Troop "C," under command of Brevet Brigadier-General Appleton.

The review was followed by evening parade of the Seventh Regiment Battalion.

Company "G" relieved Company "H" at evening guard mounting.

Instructions were received to remove the day guard from the Bowery bridge, which was done.

Monday, April 23d.

Company "D" relieved Company "G" at morning guard mounting.

On invitation of the commanding officer of the regiment, the officers of the detachment visited Regimental Headquarters and were courteously entertained at dinner. At 2.30 p. m. the detachment was formed as a battalion of three companies equalized with twenty-four files, for an exercise march. The battalion proceeded to the vicinity of Regimental Headquarters, stacked arms and dismissed for three-quarters of an hour, during which time the men visited the camp of Companies "I" and "K" and the camp of Troop "C."

At assembly a review in line, followed by a march past in column of fours was tendered to and accepted by the commanding officer of the regiment, after which the battalion returned to camp.

Company "H" relieved Company "D" at evening guard mounting.

Tuesday, April 24th.

Company "G" relieved Company "H" at morning guard mounting. I received verbal instruction from the commanding officer of the regiment to pack up and strike camp during the forenoon preparatory to returning with the regiment to its home station. At 10.30 a. m. tents were struck at the last note of "the general." Tents and baggage, except cooking outfit, were packed on wagons and sent with a detail to Croton Landing. After dinner was served the cooking outfit was packed and sent to Croton Landing. Garbage and sink trenches were filled with earth, the camp grounds thoroughly policed and all refuse, including the structures over the sinks burned. The guard was withdrawn and at 1.30 p. m. assembly sounded. The several companies of the detachment were directed to report to their respective regimental battalions.

The cooking for the detachment was done in company kitchen by details exclusively from the ranks. The food was well prepared and promptly served and gave general satisfaction.

Particular attention was paid to the sanitary condition of the camp. Daily inspections were made at 11.30 a. m. by the officer of the day, who was invariably accompanied by the commanding officer and the medical officer. The condition of the cook shacks and cooking utensils, the location and condition of garbage trenches and sinks was specially noted. All suggestions of the medical officer were promptly carried out. Notwithstanding the inclement weather and the severe duty required the health of the detachment was excellent, and save the unfortunate accident to Major Lydecker, no officer or man suffered from injury or ill health sufficient to incapacitate him from duty.

The water used for drinking and cooking was supplied from a water cart used at first jointly by the First Regiment detachment and Company "D," and later by the Seventh Regiment detachment alone. The water cart was filled by contract and did not always furnish a sufficient supply. Cord wood for fires was furnished. Hay was supplied for use in the tents. The cooking outfit of Company "D" particularly was found deficient in utensils, especially knives and pans.

It is desired to make acknowledgment of the assistance rendered by Major Denike, First Regiment, N. G., N. Y., on the occasion of Company "D" first making camp on "the bench." He personally attended to procuring wood, hay and water, and provided necessary medical stores.

Attention is called to the valuable services of Dr. Thomas N. Disbrow, private Company "I," detailed to Company "D" as medical officer. His professional skill and soldierly qualities were fully appreciated.

The services rendered by the volunteer signal detail from Company "H" illustrated the value to the regiment of this important work and suggests the desirability of some method of instruction extending to volunteers from all the companies.

Observation during the entire tour of duty failed to show any instance in which the work in hand was not cheerfully, earnestly and properly done by the officer or enlisted man to whom it was committed.

From experience gained on this service it is respectfully recommended:

First. That some kind of case be provided to hold the fork, knife and spoon of each man.

Second. That a uniform garment in the nature of overalls, to be put on over the regular uniform, be provided for company cooking details.

Third. That the supply of knives, pans, boilers and other utensils be renewed in each cooking outfit and kept constantly on hand in condition for use.

Fourth. That the stock in the company tool chests be renewed and extended to include saw, hammer, a few nails and other useful articles.

Fifth. That company officers be supplied with a field chest to contain three portable cots, three chairs and one table; also a lantern and an adequate mess kit.

Respectfully,

WILLARD C. FISK,

Captain, Seventh Regiment.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON "A," N. G., N. Y.,

MADISON AVENUE AND NINETY-FOURTH STREET,

NEW YORK, May 4, 1900.

To Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report, that pursuant to orders received from Headquarters, National Guard, on Sunday, April 15th, at 8 p. m., Squadron "A" was assembled at 8 a. m., Monday, April 16th, ready for field service.

Under further orders, the squadron consisting of sixteen (16) officers and 222 men, commanded by Major Oliver B. Bridgman, left the armory at Madison avenue and Ninety-fourth street at 12 o'clock of that day, and proceeded, via Fifth avenue, One Hundred and Twentieth street, Seventh avenue, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, St. Nicholas avenue and Broadway through the upper part of Manhattan Island, Yonkers, Hastings and Dobbs Ferry, to Ardsley, where camp was made at 5.40 p. m., covering a distance of about eighteen (18) miles.

At the junction of Broadway and Dykeman street near Kingsbridge, Major Bridgman had the misfortune to have his horse fall upon him and break his left leg in three places. This deplorable accident occurred while he was in pursuit of a riderless horse, which had become detached from the column. The assistant surgeon, Lieutenant Bellamy, assisted by a hospital corps, transferred Major Bridgman from the place of accident to the J. Hood Wright Hospital where his injuries were attended to, and later attended him to his home in New York city.

The command having devolved upon me, I communicated with Major-General Roe and received orders to proceed as above. At Ardsley, Troop "C," N. G., N. Y., with 96 men and five (5) officers under command of Captain Charles I. Debevoise reported to me, and were made a part of the squadron.

On April 17th, camp was broken at 7 a. m., and at 8 o'clock the march was taken up to Croton Dam, via Broadway through Tarrytown and Sing Sing, where I reported as directed, to sheriff of Westchester county, William V. Malloy. By direction of the sheriff the march was continued over a road known as the Hill road, to a position to the east of, and overlooking the works at Cornell Dam, where I reported to Major-General Roe in person at about 12.45 p. m. A camp site was selected on a plateau somewhat nearer the works and between the dam and a settlement known as "Little Italy."

Troop "C," was detached at this point, and moved across the Croton river where they made camp. As soon as camp was established, guards were posted on the flanks, and in addition a line of sentries placed on the bluff overlooking the works, and between them and the settlement. Also two sentries at the anchorages of cables which span the river and which supported hoisting machinery. These sentries had orders to halt all persons, and to allow only those to pass who had business that was entirely satisfactory, and not to allow any loitering or threatening of the men employed on the works.

During the night two shots were fired by different sentries, at objects or persons who did not halt at the challenge, but as far as learned no one was injured.

Mounted patrols, consisting of four men and an officer, were sent through the streets of the settlement during the night at frequent intervals.

On Wednesday, April 18th, pursuant to verbal orders from Major-General Roe, Troop "2" was sent to the granite quarry situated about six miles from the camp, to guard the works, and guarantee protection to the men who desired to return to work. There was also a patrol of five men and a sergeant sent to a small settlement of boarding houses about three miles from camp, to notify all laborers who desired to return to work that they would be protected and also to protect the property where they resided. This patrol found no disposition on the part of the laborers to return on that day, and were withdrawn at about 2 o'clock.

The troop detailed to the quarry left camp at 6 a. m., and arrived at their destination at 7.30. During the day I personally visited both of these localities and desire to especially commend the disposition of his force made by Lieutenant Huntington, commanding the troop. There was no disturbance reported, and at 5.30 p. m., the troop was relieved by a detachment from the Seventh Regiment, and returned to camp at 7 p. m. The works at the dam were guarded and the patrols were sent out the same as the preceeding day.

On Thursday, April 19th, verbal orders were received from Major-General Roe to deploy a line of sentinels on the easterly and southerly sides of an enclosure which would take in all the works and the two Italian settlements, with instructions to permit no one to pass through from the inside of such enclosure. Also to surround with patrols three detached houses which were at some distance from the main settlement.

This order was obeyed promptly. Troops Two and Three and a portion of Troop One were deployed at 8 o'clock, and at 8.30 communication was made with the infantry forming the westerly side of the enclosure. A number of persons who attempted to pass through the lines were turned back.

At about 1 p. m. the sentinels were withdrawn upon receipt of orders. Guards were posted the same as on preceeding days.

Friday, April 20th, Saturday, April 21st, there was no special duty performed, but the details from the different troops were sent out for exercise, and the guards posted as usual.

Sunday, April 22d, at 4 p. m., the squadron joined with the Seventh Regiment and Troop "C" in a review as part of a provisional brigade.

On Monday, April 23d, orders were received to form detachments from the three troops, consisting of about the strength of one troop, which was to remain in camp. The balance of the squadron were to proceed under the senior captain to their home station and be dismissed. The detachment consisted of four officers and 79 enlisted men, selected in equal proportions from each troop. This detachment with a detachment of about four officers and 60 men of Troop "C," remaining at the works under my command.

On Tuesday the balance of the squadron proceeded to their armory in New York under command of Captain Wm. C. Camman, arriving there at 7.10 p. m. The details of this march are contained in the report of Captain Camman, herewith attached.

The detachments left in camp during the following three days, posted the guards for their respective camps and at night put out sentries for the cable anchorages only, and sent the patrols through the settlements once each night. There was no disturbance of any kind reported.

On Thursday, April 26th, orders were received for these detachments to proceed on Friday morning to their home stations and be dismissed. The detachment from Troop "C" broke camp at 5.30 a. m., April 27th. The detachment from the squadron broke camp at 6.30, and at 7 o'clock under my command, commenced its march, proceeding via Hill road and Broadway, through Sing Sing, Tarrytown, Irvington and Ardsley, to Dobbs Ferry, which was reached at 11.20 a. m., and a halt made until 2 p. m. The horses were unsaddled and fed, and the men had mess. At 2 o'clock the detachment proceeded via Broadway through Hastings, Yonkers and Kingsbridge, to the armory at Ninety-fourth street and Madison avenue, arriving at 6.40 p. m. with the horses in good condition and the men in cheerful spirits. The distance covered about 33 miles. The detachment was immediately dismissed.

I attach herewith a report from Lieutenant Phelps, of the work of the detachment of Squadron "A," from Tuesday, April 24th, to Thursday, April 27th.

During this tour of duty the health of the men has been most excellent, and I desire to commend the work of the Hospital Corps of the squadron, under the charge of Assistant Surgeon Lieutenant Russell Bellamy, who was present every day and who gave great attention to the sanitary conditions of the camp, as well as examining the men personally. I also wish to mention the services of the veterinary surgeon, Lieutenant Howard Davison, who paid close attention to the condition of the horses, with the result that we had almost no trouble of any kind.

In concluding my report I wish to call attention to the prompt and cheerful obedience of all orders by the men, and their evident desire to do all duty asked of them in the most soldierly and business-like way, and to state that my responsibilities as commanding officer were very much lightened by the manner in which all orders were executed by the officers of the line and staff in their various departments.

Very respectfully,

HOWARD G. BADGLEY,

Captain, Commanding.

SQUADRON "A," NATIONAL GUARD, N. Y.,

MADISON AVENUE AND NINETY-FOURTH STREET,

NEW YORK, April 25, 1900.

Captain HOWARD G. BADGLEY, Camp Roosevelt, Croton, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report that I cabled you last night of the arrival of the squadron at the armory at 7.10 p. m.

After leaving the camp at Croton and watering the squadron, I proceeded at 7.25 to Sing Sing and arrived at Tarrytown at 10 a. m., where I rested for 10 minutes; proceeded thence to Dobbs Ferry, arriving at 11 a. m., and made camp in an orchard just this side of the village of Dobbs and a few yards to the right of Broadway. I found it to be an excellent place for the purpose.

I was unable to ascertain that any order had been received at Dobbs Ferry for feed, and therefore purchased 20 bushels of grain for $7.20, the bill for which I delivered to the Commissary.

I endeavored to water the horses before breaking camp at this place, but was able to water but one troop on account of the scarcity of the water at that place, and was obliged to proceed about one mile beyond the village and opposite St. Vincent's School to a trough on the road side. The water was abundant and good, but by reason of the size of the trough I was able to water only two horses at a time. It was therefore 3 p. m. before I was able to continue the march.

I arrived at Yonkers at 4 p. m. and rested at a place a little below the town for 10 minutes, proceeding again at 4.30 and marching by Broadway to Van Courtlandt Park, and thence by Sedgwick avenue over the new McCoombs Dam Bridge and down Seventh avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street and thence by Fifth avenue to the armory. The horses and men were all in good condition and did not seem to show any more than the ordinary fatigues of the march, which was in every way satisfactory covering, as we did, 35 miles in less than eight hours actual time on the road.

Before dismissing the squadron I instructed the troop commanders to have the arms placed in their proper racks without withdrawing the ammunition therefrom; to place the horse equipment in the proper places in the stables; and the overcoats and ponchos and saddle bags in the respective troop quarters.

I announced that there would be no further drills this year without further notice; that the squadron would go to Creedmoor on May 5th, as already ordered; and that the date of the Church parade would be hereafter announced.

Respectfully,
 (Signed) WM. C. CAMMAN,
Captain, Commanding.

SQUADRON "A," NATIONAL GUARD, N. Y.,
 MADISON AVENUE AND NINETY-FOURTH STREET,
 NEW YORK, April 28, 1900.

Captain HOWARD G. BADGLEY:

Sir.—I beg to submit the following report covering the time I was Lieutenant, commanding the Provisional Troop from Squadron "A" from Tuesday morning, April 24th, to Friday morning, April 27th.

The squadron left for New York on the morning of the 24th, leaving the Provisional Troop in camp. The tents and picket line were re-arranged to suit the new conditions. The guard was now reduced to two posts about the camp during the day, and four at night, with two outposts to guard the cable anchorages. A mounted patrol of six men in charge of the Officer of the Guard went through Little Italy each evening between 8 and 9 p. m. Nothing of a suspicious nature was seen. On the evening of the 24th, at about 6.30 p. m., two shots were heard, apparently from pistols, in the direction of the Bowery, though much nearer, but the cause of them was never ascertained. A few other shots were heard at various times during the succeeding nights.

The troop was taken out each afternoon for drill and exercise.

On Friday morning, April 27th, the troop broke camp about 6.30, and marched to New York, arriving at the armory at 6.45 p. m.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) • STOWE PHELPS,

Lieutenant Commanding Provisional Troop.

TROOP "C," NATIONAL GUARD, NEW YORK,
ARMORY, NORTH PORTLAND AVENUE, NEAR MYRTLE,
BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 30, 1900.

The Assistant Adjutant-General, N. G., N. Y., 280 Broadway, New York City:

Sir.—I have the honor to herewith submit report of tour of duty performed by Troop "C" in connection with riots at Croton Dam, N. Y.

In pursuance of verbal orders from Major-General Roe, received on Sunday, April 15th, at 9 p. m., this troop assembled at the armory at 8 a. m., April 16th, fully equipped for the field, with two (2) days' rations and forage. The troop left its station at 8.45 a. m., with 6 officers, 75 men, 3 wagons and 78 horses. One sergeant and 17 men were left at the Armory to await the arrival of extra horses, with orders to follow the troop as soon as the horses should arrive. The troop marched to Ardsley, arriving there at 3.45 p. m., and went into camp; the detachment of sergeant and 17 men, left at the armory, arrived in camp at Ardsley at 7.45 p. m., with 21 horses.

Broke camp at Ardsley, April 17, at 8 a. m., and marched with Squadron "A," Captain Badgley commanding, to Croton Dam, arriving there at 1 p. m. Reported to Major-General Roe, who assigned us camping ground on bluff at north side of river. While there furnished orderlies, guards and patrols from time to time as directed. On Thursday, the 19th inst., the entire troop assembled at 8 a. m. to patrol roads and form cordon from in rear of our camp and "Bowery" to Croton road and from there to river, while arrests of rioters were being made. On April 19th, Second Brigade ambulance and 11 troop horses arrived in camp at 8 p. m. Returned 3 unserviceable horses to the armory on April 20th at 2 p. m. On Sunday, April 22d, the troop participated in review by Major-General Roe, at 4 p. m.

On Tuesday, April 24th, pursuant to Orders No. 5, Headquarters, Camp Roosevelt, a detachment of 34 men, with 37 horses, under command of Lieutenant Grout, were returned to armory and relieved from duty; Lieutenant Grout's report of the march home attached hereto.

On April 25th, 2 unserviceable horses were returned to armory by boat.

Pursuant to Orders No. 6, Headquarters, Camp Roosevelt, the remainder of the troop left Camp Roosevelt at 4.45 a. m., April 27th; marched via Quaker bridge road to river road and along Hudson river. Camped on the outskirts of Yonkers from 9 a. m. to 11.15 a. m., where horses were unsaddled, watered and fed and dinner served to men. March continued at 11.15 a. m., arriving at armory at 4.10 p. m., when troop was dismissed.

and Eleventh avenue, and telephone instructions sent to armory to call for this horse, but he was unfit to be removed and is still there. It will be necessary to send ambulance to remove him. During the night of the 16th inst., while on picket line at Ardsley, one horse sustained a fracture of one of the pelvic bones. This horse was left at Kinderwater's stable at Irvington. He was put in slings and has been attended by our veterinary sergeant and also by a veterinary from Sing Sing. In all probability it will be impossible to move the horse for about six weeks, and I should respectfully request instructions as to disposition of same. On the march home of Lieutenant Grout's detachment one horse was found to be suffering from an acute attack of congestion of the lungs, which developed after leaving Camp Roosevelt. This horse was left at Sing Sing in Dr. Jenks' veterinary hospital, but is convalescent and can probably be removed in about a week. On April 27th, at about 5.30 a. m., after having travelled about one-half mile beyond Quaker bridge (which was about three-fourths mile from our camp), the off lead horse of the troop wagon fell dead in the road. Our veterinary sergeant was on the spot immediately and made a through investigation. He reports the heart ruptured, owing to a chronic cardiac weakness. Affidavits of the death of this horse will be submitted. These disabled horses are all receiving regular attention from our veterinary sergeant.

Respectfully,

CHAS. I. DEBEVOISE,

Captain.

TROOP "C", NATIONAL GUARD, NEW YORK,
ARMORY, NORTH PORTLAND AVENUE, NEAR MYRTLE,
BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 30, 1900.

Captain CHAS I. DEBEVOISE, Troop "C", N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report that I left camp at Croton Dam on April 24, 1900, at 6.05 a. m., with thirty-four men and one wagon. One horse gave out and was left at Sing Sing in charge of a veterinary. Arrived outside of Yonkers at 11 a. m., fed and watered horses and had lunch, leaving there at 2 p. m., and arrived at the armory at 7.45 p. m.

Respectfully,

PAUL GROUT,

Second Lieutenant, Troop "C".

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.,

HALL OF RECORDS,

BOROUGH OF BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 15, 1900.

The Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report as brigade commander for the past year.

I am pleased to say that the several organizations of this brigade are in good condition as to drill, discipline and numbers.

By reference to the recent inspection and muster you will find the average present for duty to be about 96 per cent. of the total strength of the brigade. Renewed interest in rifle practice during the past year shows a considerable increase in the number of marksmen, aggregating for the brigade exceeding 2,100. The only parade of the brigade, as a whole, during the year was on Decoration Day. This annual parade with the Grand Army of the Republic, appears to be pleasing to our citizens, and is always by request of the G. A. R. committee, thus showing that the survivors of the great war for the Union desire to have associated with them in this annual tribute of respect and affectionate remembrance of the nation's dead, our National Guard organizations.

The Fourteenth and Forty-seventh Regiments and the Second Signal Corps were the only organizations from this brigade ordered to the camp at Peekskill during the year.

Practice marches were made by the Third Battery to New Suffolk, L. I., July 13th to 22d; Second Signal Corps to Creedmoor, L. I., May 4th to 6th; Seventeenth Separate Company to Success Lake, L. I., July 20th to 22d; Company "A", Twenty-third Regiment to Sayville, L. I., July 12th to 15th; Company "K", Twenty-third Regiment, to Amityville, L. I., July 20th to 22d.

Detailed reports of the commanding officers thereof covering each days work are respectfully forwarded herewith. This practical work is of great benefit to the Guard, and the experience and instruction consequent upon a tour of such duty, however brief, adds materially to the education of a soldier in the more serious duties incident to active service in the field in time of emergency.

In addition to the practice march now required of organizations in the camp at Peekskill, I submit that it would be well to encourage, by financial aid towards necessary expenses, any and all organizations of the Guard disposed to make such marches as herein referred to, provided however, that the proposed march and details of daily work be first submitted to the brigade commander for his approval.

The special service of Troop "C" in the past year was at Croton during the strike of the workmen on the dam. Orders for this service were received on Sunday night, April 15th, and the troop was on the march early the following morning fully equipped for field service. A detailed report of the commanding officer of the troop covering this tour of duty is submitted herewith.

Respectfully,

JAS. MCLEER,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS FORTY-SEVENTH INFANTRY, N. G., N. Y.,
BROOKLYN, October 19, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Brigade, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report as follows respecting the tour of camp duty of this regiment from June 23d to June 30th:

The regiment left this armory on Saturday at 7.30 o'clock a. m., with officers and men, taking the Marcy avenue cars to Broadway and Twenty-third street ferry, and then marched to the New York Central depot at Eleventh avenue and Thirty-fifth street. All camp equipage and baggage preceded the regiment and was loaded in the train by the fatigue party detailed for that purpose, so that no time was lost at the depot, and the train left at 9 a. m.

Upon arrival at Roa Hook, the regiment marched to State Camp and was assigned to quarters in Battery Hill. Camp was here established and tents pitched, and by noon the quarters were in good order.

The only ceremony on Saturday was the evening parade, which was held on the main drill ground, preceding the official parade. Ceremonies on Sunday consisted of guard mount and evening parade.

The officers attended a lecture at 2 o'clock, given by Captain Lyon, on march outs and camping; also care of men in the field. This lecture was very instructive. Monday morning, after reveille camp was broken and all camp equipage and baggage, with two days' rations, were packed on the wagons, and at 8.30 o'clock a. m., the march was taken up for Lake Mohegan. A halt was ordered at Annsville in order to wait for the baggage train, and to send out an advance guard. Company "I" was detailed for the advance guard, and Company "E" for the rear guard, and performed their duties in a very intelligent manner.

On account of the extreme heat—the average temperature being 87 degrees—the march was made slowly, with halts of ten and fifteen minutes duration.

Camp Roe was reached at 1 o'clock p. m., and tents pitched and lunch served. Owing to the heat and the fatigue, an undress parade was held. Tuesday the ceremonies were guard mounting and evening parade. In the morning the drill consisted of the battalion in extended order with blank ammunition.

Reveille was ordered for 4 o'clock a. m. on Wednesday, so that the march back to Peekskill might be made in the early morning, and thus escape the heat. The regiment left Camp Roe at 6 o'clock and by slow and easy stages arrived at Peekskill at 9 o'clock, when it took possession of the permanent camp. The balance of the week was devoted to the regular schedule, and drills being only held in the extended order with blank ammunition.

Saturday the regiment formed on the parade ground, at noon, while a salute was fired and camp closed, and left on the train at 3 o'clock, and arrived at the armory at 6 o'clock p. m.

The average attendance during the week was 482, and the health of the command very good. The incinerators used at Camp Roe are a very great improvement on the sinks and latrines formerly used, and would be of great service to a regiment on the march, and I strongly recommend their adoption.

I would also recommend that the blue flannel shirt be made a part of the State uniform, and issued to the men, as it adds a great deal to their comfort in hot weather. The march out, pitching and breaking camp, and cooking their own rations, was very much enjoyed by officers and men, and was very instructive to the command. The system of throwing each command on its own resources tends to develop officers and men, and show whether they are competent or not.

The State inspectors of the drills and march outs were very courteous, and did all they could to assist the regiment and make its tour of duty a success. I remain,

Respectfully,

JOHN G. EDDY,

Colonel, Forty-seventh Infantry, N. G., N. Y.

THIRD BATTERY N. G. N. Y.

ARMORY, 165-179 CLERMONT AVENUE.

BROOKLYN, October 1, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Brigade, N. G. N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report on the field practice march through Long Island by a detachment of this command, from Friday, July 13, to Sunday, July 22, 1900:

Four officers and thirty-five enlisted men of the command, of whom thirteen were men who had enlisted in the organization since the last march to camp, in June, 1899, were ordered to assemble at the armory on Friday, July 13, 1900, at 10 o'clock p. m. The officers and men detailed reported as directed, together with one cook and one teamster, hired for the occasion. The quartermaster's and commissary stores were loaded on wagons, a guard was posted and taps sounded at 11 o'clock p. m. First Lieutenant Chauncey Matlock was placed in command and directed to publish the routine on the march to the members during their tour of duty. Second lieutenants Lorenzo M. Nickerson and Alfred T. Ives and Assistant Surgeon Crawford D. Beasley, M. D., were the other officers detailed; and in order that the junior lieutenants should have the experience of commanding, I directed that Lieutenant Matlock should detail the line officers to assume command at Reveille of such days to be designated by him and retain command and be responsible for the march during that day, the senior officers having consented to act as chiefs of platoons under their juniors, which plan was carried out.

Captain James T. Ashley, Battery "G," Thirteenth Regiment Heavy Artillery, N. G. N. Y., accompanied the command as a guest of the officers.

The outfit consisted of four Howitzer guns, two battery wagons (one large and one small) and forty-nine horses. The baggage wagons contained four conical tents, three wall tents and one hospital fly, the Buzzacott cooking outfit, surgeon's and veterinary surgeon's stores, and commissary and minor battery stores.

Saturday, July 14th.

Reveille was sounded at 4 a. m., mess at 4.15 a. m., and stables at 5 a. m. The command left the armory at 6.25 a. m., with Freeport as its destination, a distance of twenty-four miles. The command started from the armory with four pieces, two battery wagons and forty-nine horses, and proceeded by the shortest route through the city to Jamaica plank road. The first halt was made at 6 a. m., at Jamaica, when horses were watered and inspected. The command rested here for thirty-five minutes, and then proceeded by the Merrick road to Freeport, arriving there at 1.30 p. m., with horses and command in good condition. Camp was pitched on Mr. Rhoads' property, close to the Merrick road and adjacent to a running stream. The battery was parked, guard posted and camp pitched in thirty-five minutes. Mess was served at 2.30 p. m. No further duty was performed until stables at 4 p. m., at which time the horses were inspected and found in good condition, the farrier securing and replacing shoes where necessary. Mess was served at 6.30 p. m. Retreat was sounded at 7.15 p. m., tattoo at 9.30 p. m., quarters at 9.45 p. m., and taps at 10 p. m.

The ground upon which the command camped at Freeport was selected for the advantages it afforded in permitting the camp to be laid out as prescribed by the regulations and in conformity with the second method described in Dyer's handbook of field artillery, as well as for its close location to water and its proximity to the town, the latter being easy of access and offering ready facilities for the procurement of fresh meat and forage.

The camp was named "Camp Allyn K. Capron."

Sunday, July 15th.

Lieutenant Alfred T. Ives assumed command at reveille, which was sounded at 4 a. m. Mess was sounded at 4.05 a. m., stables at 4.45 a. m. Camp was struck at 5.30 a. m., and the command proceeded on the march, by way of the Merrick road, at 6.25 a. m., for Amityville (distance, eleven miles), camping on Mr. Knoble's property, where the command arrived at 9.30 a. m. The battery was parked, guard posted and camp pitched in thirty minutes. Horses were inspected and found in good condition. Mess was served at 12 m. The horses were watered at 1.30 p. m. Stables were sounded at 4 p. m., and the horses again examined, and, with the exception of the trouble caused by the irritating influence of the green flies, from which they were protected as far as possible by the canvass horsecovers, were reported in good condition. Mess was served at 6 p. m. Retreat was sounded at 7.15 p. m., tattoo at 9.30 p. m., quarters at 9.45 p. m., and taps at 10 p. m.

The camp was named "Camp McLeer."

Monday, July 16th.

Reveille was sounded at 4 a. m., mess at 4.05, stables at 4.45, and camp struck at 5.30 a. m. The command proceeded on the march at 6.20 a. m. for Patchogue (distance, twenty-nine miles).

The first halt was made at Babylon, where the horses were watered and the command rested. The second halt was made at Oakdale, at 1.15 p. m., where mess was served and horses examined and watered, and, with the exception of a few saddle-galls, found in good condition. The command proceeded at 2.15 p. m., by the Merrick road, to Patchogue, where the battery camped overnight on the property of Mr. Pasco, ex-lieutenant Second Battery, N. G. N. Y. The command arrived at Patchogue at 5.55 p. m. The battery was parked, guard posted and camp pitched in thirty-five minutes. Mess was served at 6.30 p. m. Retreat was sounded at 7.15 p. m., tattoo at 9.30 p. m., quarters at 9.45 p. m., and taps at 10 p. m.

The camp was named "Camp Roe."

Tuesday, July 17th.

Lieutenant Chauncey Matlock assumed command at reveille, which was sounded at 4 a. m. Mess was served at 4.05 a. m. Stable call was sounded at 4.45 a. m. Camp was struck at 5.30 a. m., and the command proceeded at 6.15 a. m. on the march from Patchogue (where it had arrived the previous day under command of Lieutenant Ives), by way of the South Country road, for Riverhead, a distance of thirty miles. Owing to the intense heat, it was found necessary to rest three miles outside of Patchogue and shift the tents from the Quartermaster's wagon to the limbers of the pieces, securing same by means of sections of the picket line. An hour was consumed in making the necessary change.

At 11.55 a. m. the command reached Moriches, where mess was served and the horses watered and fed, and upon examination found to be in serviceable condition. It was here found necessary to add an additional horse to the large wagon, to enable the latter to keep with the command.

The command reached Eastport at 4.25 p. m., where the horses were watered and examined and found to be in good condition. The command was here directed to fill canteens with water. The road to Riverhead was examined and found to be exceedingly heavy and fully eighteen inches too narrow to permit the wagon containing the Quartermaster's stores to proceed with the command. All additional camp equipage, except the four tents with the necessary poles and pins, and commissary outfit were shifted to the light wagon. The large wagon was provided with a suitable guard under the command of the Quartermaster and directed to proceed by way of West Hampton, a distance of fourteen miles to the Riverhead Fair Grounds, while the command proceeded by the first-mentioned road, a distance of nine miles, to camp at the Riverhead Fair Grounds, where it arrived at 9.15 p. m. The battery was parked, horses placed in the stables, located on the fair grounds, mess served at 10 p. m., immediately following which the command bivouacked for the night.

The use of the fair grounds as a camping site was obtained through the courtesy of the company owning the same, and among other advantages offered easy access to water and afforded room sufficient to permit of following general instructions in camping the command. Owing to the fact that the water was shut off from the fair grounds at the time the command arrived, and a lack of knowledge as to the location of wells, and also the darkness of the night, it was found impossible to water the horses until 12.20 a. m. Provision had been made for the proper watering of the horses, but through an oversight on the part of the proprietors of the grounds water could not be procured until this hour.

The road to Riverhead from Eastport was exceedingly heavy and narrow, hedged in on both sides with a thick growth of underbrush, and so heavy in places as to require an additional horse to the team of each piece as well as to each wagon, the tires in each case being narrow and sinking deeply in the sand. Taking up the suggestion of one of the acting non-commissioned officers, a Dutch collar was rigged by means of a girth, halter-strap and sections of a picket, whereby the march of the command through this particular section of the road was further facilitated.

Wednesday, July 18th.

Lieutenant Lorenzo M. Nickerson assumed command at reveille, which was sounded at 5 a. m. Mess was served at 5.30, stables at 6 a. m., when the horses were examined and found to be somewhat fatigued from the heavy roads and the distance travelled the previous day, but no horse found unserviceable for continuing the march. Owing to the intense heat, however (thermometer registering 98 degrees in the shade at 8 a. m.), it was decided by the officers to rest the command and not proceed on the march until morning. Mess was served at 1 p. m., camp pitched at 1.30 p. m., immediately following the arrival of the large truck, which had been directed to remain at West Hampton over the previous night, owing to the heavy roads encountered. Stables were sounded at 4 p. m., mess at 6.30 p. m., retreat at 7.15 p. m., tattoo at 9.30 p. m., quarters at 9.45 p. m., and taps at 10 p. m.

This camp was named "Camp Ashley."

I arrived at the camp at Riverhead at about 6 o'clock and made a personal inspection of the camp, and found everything connected therewith in good order and the camp laid out (taking into consideration the formation of the grounds) according to regulation. The horses were picketed among large shade-trees, and were all in good condition.

I remained at the camp over night, without assuming command, and accompanied the battery to the next camping ground, viz., New Suffolk.

Thursday, July 19th.

Reveille was sounded at 4 a. m., mess at 4.05, stables at 4.45, and camp struck at 5.30 a. m. The command proceeded at 6.25 a. m. on the march to its point of destination, New Suffolk, a distance of thirteen miles. The command halted at Mattituck at 9 a. m., where it rested for fifteen minutes, after which it resumed its march to New Suffolk, arriving there at 10.15 a. m. Camp was pitched on the property of Mr. De Vinney, close to the seashore, and conveniently situated for watering horses. The battery was parked, guard posted and camp pitched in twenty-five minutes. The horses were watered and fed hay, and the command inspected and found in serviceable condition. Mess was served at 12 m., and the horses watered at 12.30 p. m. Stables were sounded at 4 p. m., mess at 6 p. m., retreat at 7.15 p. m., tattoo at 9.30 p. m., quarters at 9.45 p. m., and taps at 10 p. m.

The camp, which was named "Camp Rasquin", was pitched upon a lot about three hundred feet square, close to the shores of Peconic Bay, with excellent facilities for bathing, which was greatly appreciated by the members of the command after the tiresome and hot march completed by them. The horses were also led into the water and given a swim, which had the effect of giving them new vigor and life. I left the camp immediately after mess, at 6.30 p. m.

Friday, July 20th, 1900.

Reveille was sounded at 4.55 a. m., mess at 5.15 a. m., and stables at 5.45 a. m. Immediately following stables, the command was directed to wash, clean and polish equipments and pieces, and such repairs as were found necessary to same were made. Mess was sounded at 12 m. The horses were watered and fed hay at 12.30 p. m. Stables were sounded at 4 p. m., at which time the horses were again given a bath in the salt water. Mess was sounded at 6 p. m., retreat at 7.15 p. m., tattoo at 9.30 p. m., quarters at 9.45 p. m., and taps at 10 p. m.

Saturday, July 21st.

IN CAMP AT NEW SUFFOLK.

Lieutenant Chauncey Matlock assumed command at reveille, which was sounded at 5 a. m. Mess was sounded at 5.15 a. m., and stables at 5.45 a. m. At 6.15 a. m. the entire command, except the guard, was mounted and proceeded to the property of Mr. Fields at Cutchogue, for drill and instruction in movements that could not be executed in the armory. After the drill, at 9 a. m., the command returned to camp, when equipments were repaired and cleaned. Mess was served at 12 m., after which the horses were watered, fed and examined, and found to be in good condition, with the exception of one battery horse, slightly injured on the right foreleg during the morning drill. With the exception of the guard, the command was again mounted at 3.30 p. m., and again proceeded to Mr. Fields' property for drill and instruction. The command returned to camp at 5.30 p. m. Stable call was sounded at 6 p. m., mess at 6.30 p. m., retreat at 7.15 p. m., tattoo at 9.30 p. m., quarters at 9.45 p. m., and taps at 10 p. m.

Sunday, July 22nd.

Lieutenant Alfred T. Ives assumed command at reveille, with orders to proceed with the battery to the home station.

Reveille was sounded at 4 a. m., mess at 4.15 a. m., stables at 4.45 a. m. Camp was struck at 6. 30 a. m., and wagons loaded and property occupied by the command policed at 8.25 a. m. The command proceeded to the railroad station at Cutchogue, a distance of three miles, where it arrived at 9.15 a. m.; battery was parked, horses unsaddled and examined, travel rations prepared, and command awaited the arrival of the train upon which they were to proceed to Brooklyn. Immediately following the arrival of the train, the battery wagons were loaded on the flat car; the large wagon having been found to exceed the maximum height by six inches, it became necessary to unload same and remove the wheels to bring it within the limit required by the Long Island railroad. There was no suitable equipment here for loading the command, or proper ventilation furnished by the railroad company in cars for horses. It was necessary to secure material to suitably enclose door openings of cars, provide runway from platform to cars, and to shore up skids to load same. Forty-seven horses were placed in four cars, equipment on the flat car, and the members of the command in a passenger coach. The command left Cutchogue station at 12.55 p. m. for Brooklyn, a distance of eighty-five miles by railroad, where same arrived at 4.22 p. m. The train was unloaded by the command, and the command proceeded to the armory at 5.25 p. m., arriving there at 5.45 p. m.

I was present at the armory upon the arrival of and inspected the command, and found men and horses in good condition and the men very enthusiastic over the result of the work performed by them.

The distance covered by the command was one hundred and ten miles on the march and eighty-five miles by rail.

During the march its progress was greatly hampered by the necessity of using wagons whose weight greatly exceeded that necessary to carry the loads, the tires, being narrow, sinking deeply in the soft roads, which clearly proved the necessity of lighter wagons with wide tires on the wheels, similar to those used in the United States army. The trip was made during an exceedingly hot spell of weather, the average daily temperature exceeding ninety degrees, which further impeded rapidity of movement and prevented additional instruction that might have been imparted.

On the trip one man was assigned each day to ride a bicycle, for the purpose of communicating with owners of property which we had secured the use of, locating in advance of the command suitable points to rest and water, making arrangements for and procuring such parts of the commissary stores and forage as it was impossible to carry on the trip, etc.

There was some difficulty experienced with the iron hooks and chains used in securing the apex of the conical wall-tents to the poles. The hooks were small and very weak, and, while every precaution was taken, in several instances the hooks pulled out straight, and in two cases tents collapsed after the attachment of these hooks and the raising of the tents.

The officers and non-commissioned officers—all but two of the latter being privates detailed as acting non-commissioned officers—made every effort to further the interests of the command and to secure the maximum result from the advantages offered on the trip, and to assist the officers in every way during the tour of duty; and I desire here to express my appreciation of their services. Those acting as non-commissioned officers clearly proved their efficiency in being able to perform the duty assigned to them.

During the march rations were cooked in the field, and forage, straw for tents and wood were purchased en route. During the entire march but one man was excused from duty on account of sickness. The discipline was excellent, with not an occasion for a reprimand. Officers and men seemed to have anticipated the hardships and inconveniences to be experienced, and all performed their duties in such a manner that the work was very much lightened.

The march from a military standpoint was an unqualified success, the men receiving the necessary practical instruction, which they could not obtain in any other manner.

The wear and tear upon the uniforms on a march out of this kind is many times greater than in ordinary armory work, especially so with regard to trowsers and leggings, and many of those used by the men on this march have been rendered unserviceable.

The expense of the march has been paid out of the battery treasury and from donations by members and others, the principal expense being that of horse hire, which, by special arrangement with the contractor who furnishes horses to the battery throughout the year, was made at a very low figure. Thirty-four horses were hired, eleven are owned by the command, and four were loaned to the battery for the occasion.

The items of expenditures are as follows:

For commissary stores, including ice	$179 61
Total number of officers and men, including teamster and cook.....	42
Total number of rations served.....	364
Cost per ration, including ice.....	$0 49 1-3
Cost per man for trip.....	4 27
	<hr/>
Services of cook and teamster	25 00
For medical supplies	10 00
Veterinary supplies	12 34
Forage for horses, including straw for tents.....	153 37
Horse hire	667 00
	<hr/>
	$1,047 32
	<hr/>
Cost of special train for transportation of command to home station	$198 00
	<hr/>

DONATIONS.

The two wagons used, namely one large and one small wagon, estimated at	$90 00
Four horses	72 00
		$162 00

I enclose herewith copies of the reports of Lieutenants Matlock, Nickerson and Ives, of the respective days on which they were in command, and to whose untiring efforts, as well as those of Assistant Surgeon Crawford D. Beasley, the success of the march is wholly due; it having been the means of giving the lieutenants the experience and responsibility of commanding the organization in field work. I cannot praise their work too highly for the manner in which it was performed by them respectively.

HENRY S. RASQUIN,

Captain.

SECOND SIGNAL CORPS, N. G., N. Y.,

ARMORY, 801 DEAN STREET,

BROOKLYN, May 21, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Brigade, N. G., N. Y., Hall of Records, Brooklyn, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of field service of this Corps.

Having on April 30th obtained permission from the brigade commander for this Corps to be absent from its station from May 4th to 6th inclusive, the following orders were issued:

BROOKLYN, April 24, 1900.

General orders, }
No. 2. } B.

I. Pursuant to G. O. No. 1, c. s., 2B, this Corps will assemble at the armory, on Friday, May 4, 1900, at 7 o'clock a. m., and proceed to Creedmoor for pistol practice.

Uniform.—Fatigue with campaign hats, blue shirts, blouses, riding breeches, leggings, gauntlets, belts with holsters, message pouches, haversacks, canteens and mess kits, overcoats rolled with ponchos outside.

II. Pursuant to G. O. No. 4, c. s., Hq. N. G., par. V., all men who have previously qualified as marksmen will wear their State decorations, as the officer in charge of the range has been instructed to issue them then and there to those qualifying for the first time the marksman's decoration, and in the case of those who are in possession of the State decoration, to change the numbers indicating qualifications.

III. Upon leaving Creedmoor a camp of instruction will be established in that vicinity and maintained until Sunday, May 6, 1900, when the command will return to Brooklyn.

IV. Upon application the quartermaster-sergeant will issue to each man a barrack bag, bearing his number, in which he will pack his boots, blanket, spurs and personal effects, including a change of underclothing, socks, towels, soap and toothbrush; the barrack bag, packed, must be returned to the quartermaster-sergeant at the armory, on Thursday evening, May 3d, not later than 8.30 o'clock. The commissioned officers will turn in to the quartermaster-sergeant at the same time and place, their personal effects, properly packed.

V. No malt or spirituous liquors will be used in camp except upon the prescription of the medical officer.

CHAS. B. BALDWIN,
Captain.

Last Printed Order No. 1, A.

SECOND SIGNAL CORPS N. G., N. Y.,
ARMORY, 801 DEAN STREET,

BROOKLYN, April 28, 1900.

Orders }
No. 3. } C.

The corps will assemble at the armory on Thursday, May 3, 1900, at 8 o'clock p. m., for inspection by the commanding officer.

Uniform.—Fatigue with campaign hats, blue shirts, blouses, riding breeches, leggings, gauntlets, belts with holsters, message pouches, haversacks, canteens, mess kits, overcoats, rolled with ponchos outside.

CHAS. B. BALDWIN,
Captain.

Last Printed Order No. 2, B.

I then visited Creedmoor and vicinity and selected a suitable site for the camp and obtained permission for its use.

Two wagons were hired for the transportation of tentage, signal property, commissary stores, etc., also twelve horses for use on wagons and to mount officers and men as desired.

At the assembly May 4, 1900, at 7 a. m., three officers and twenty-eight men reported for duty, also two servants and a cook. One sergeant, one corporal and three privates were detailed to drive the wagons and lead the horses; the corps with the exception of this detail, left the armory at 7.30 a. m., marched to the Flatbush avenue station, L. I. Railroad, and boarded the train provided by the quartermaster department and proceeded to Creedmoor; one man joined on the arrival of the train at Jamaica.

On arrival at the range pistol practice was had.

The baggage detail left the armory at 8.15 a. m., four horses being hitched to each wagon, and proceeded via Eastern Parkway and Jamaica turnpike to the range, where it arrived at 11.45 a. m.

At noon dinner was had at the restaurant on the range, after which pistol practice was continued until 4 p. m., all having an opportunity to qualify. Two men were then excused and returned to Brooklyn by the train.

At 4 o'clock p. m. the corps proceeded to Douglaston and established Camp Baldwin, on the site previously selected, about one mile north of the Creedmoor range, on private property belonging to Mr. Fred. W. Buhrman, who permitted its use without compensation and who subsequently visited the camp and expressed his gratification that his property had been selected for the purpose.

Some difficulty was experienced in getting the wagons up a rather steep, narrow road which led to the site, but it was finally accomplished by hitching on an extra team of horses.

Immediately upon arrival two non-coms and four privates were detailed for guard duty and were divided into two reliefs, patrolling two posts; this guard was maintained during the three days, being relieved every twelve hours.

The camp was pitched according to the manner prescribed for a troop when the squadron is in line (cavalry drill regulations), the following tentage (all issued to this command) being used, viz., two A-tents for officers, four conical wall tents for the men and a hospital tent fly for the kitchen; the property was stored in the tent with the first and quartermaster-sergeants and the wagons, one stationed at either end of the picket line, were used as a guard tent and servants quarters respectively.

The medical officer, Lieutenant William Francis Campbell, superintended the construction of the kitchen and sinks and passed upon the purity of the water and quality and quantity of food.

The following calls were observed:

First call for reveille, 5.25 a. m.

Reveille, 5.30 a. m.

Sick call, 5.45 a. m.

Mess call, 6 a. m.

Stable call, 6.30 a. m.

Guard mount, 8 a. m.

Mess call, 12 m.

Mess call, 5.30 p. m.

Stable call, 6 p. m.

Retreat, 6.55 p. m.

Tattoo, 10 p. m.

Call to quarters, 10.15 p. m.

Taps, 11 p. m.

Details for fatigue duties were made so that every man received instruction and practice in each and also had some mounted duty.

The camp was policed and inspected each morning immediately after breakfast, Lieutenants Brock and Campbell accompanying me during the inspection.

On Saturday, May 5th, practice was had in signalling. At 9 a. m. two details were made, one equipped with visual apparatus (flags and heliographs), consisting of nine men under command of Lieutenant Brock and the other with telegraph apparatus, consisting of five men under command of myself, left camp simultaneously and proceeded in the direction of the Douglaston Railroad station, first establishing a visual and a telegraph station at camp. Visual stations were established along the route at as great an interval between as the topography of the country permitted; at the same time the telegraph line was run along near the road, an insulated wire being used, and laid on the ground except where it was necessary to cross roads when it was strung on trees. A mile of wire was run out in this way in one hour and a ground having been made an instrument was connected and after some delay on account of poor ground connection and a defective instrument, communication was had with the camp. Owing to the topography of the country, four visual stations were necessary to cover the same distance. These stations were maintained until 3 p. m., signal practice being had with all the apparatus.

Camp was broken at the general call on Sunday morning at 9.30 o'clock, the tents coming down with the last note of the call.

The sinks and all other excavations were filled in and the ground policed. The corps then marched to Queens, where all except those detailed for duty with the wagon train under command of Lieutenant Brock, took the trolley car to Brooklyn and arrived at the armory at noon and was dismissed; the wagon train of which I took command proceeded to Jamaica, where dinner was had, and the march resumed at 1.30 p. m., arriving at the armory at 3.30 p. m. when it was dismissed.

During the tour there was no sickness either in the men or horses although the temperature averaged 45 degrees Fahr. and it rained on the first night. No property was lost.

The tentage issued to this command is adequate; the same can be said of the cooking outfit except that two small Buzzacott outfits would be better than the one which was issued, for the reason that a signal corps is liable to be divided and stationed at different posts.

The State regulations regarding rations was adhered to and found to be ample.

Quartermaster-Sergeant Ambrose H. Davison also acted as commissary and discharged both duties with great credit to himself and in such a satisfactory way to all concerned that he deserves commendation.

Respectfully,

CHAS. B. BALDWIN,
Captain, Second Signal Corps.

SEVENTEENTH SEPARATE COMPANY, N. G., N. Y.

FLUSHING, N. Y., July 22, 1900.

The Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Brigade:

Sir.—I have the honor to report return of this command at 8.45 on evening of above date after most satisfactory tour of duty. I left Flushing with thirty-five men in heavy marching order on afternoon of July 20, at 4.30 o'clock; arriving at Success Lake two hours and fifteen minutes later in first class condition; distance is about eight miles and actual marching time was one hour forty-eight minutes; two halts were made on the march. Truck containing camp equipment, tentage and provisions had been sent out one hour ahead accompanied by quartermaster and detail and guard. Upon my arrival I found officers, guard and mess tents up in good shape and supper well under way. Camp regulations were followed as closely as possible. Reveille 4.55, fatigue; setting up exercises 5.30 to 6.30, breakfast 7; guard mount 8.30. Forenoon drill one and a half hours in Cossack guard and outpost work. Dinner 12.30; extended order 3 to 4.30 p. m.; supper 5.30; parade 7.10; tattoo 10; taps, 11. On evening of 22d I left Camp McLeer with entire outfit at 6.30, arriving at armory at 8.45. The entire tour was most satisfactory to myself, other officers and enlisted men of the company.

Respectfully,

JOHN H. KLEIN,
Captain.

COMPANY "A," TWENTY-THIRD REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.

BROOKLYN, October 15, 1900.

Adjutant, Twenty-Third Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—Pursuant to R. O. 146 c. s., I have the honor to make the following report of march-out of my command from July 12th to 15th:

An advance party under Lieut. C. G. Rasmus, consisting of quartermaster-sergeant and three files, left the armory on early train via Long Island Railroad and proceeded to Smithtown on July 12th. Said party took all quartermaster and ordnance stores with them; company stores having preceded the detachment by express. The detachment pitched camp about a quarter of a mile from village and near race course. Water close at hand.

The main body left the armory at 5.36 p. m. by train, in heavy rain, and arrived at camp at 8 p. m. and found hot supper awaiting them.

On July 13th, broke camp at about 6.30 a. m. and marched to Lake Ronkonkoma, distance about 9 miles, arriving there about 11.30 a. m. Shady roads for about 3 miles, then rocky and hilly roads for 3 miles; balance of way, good and shady. Camp was pitched in grove on shores of lake. Very good water and refreshing bathing. Company team played ball in the afternoon with Lake Ronkonkoma team and was defeated. Entertained entire village in the evening.

On July 14th, broke camp at 6 a. m. and marched about 9 miles to Sayville on Great South Bay. Very hot march over shadeless road through scrub-oaks. Camp pitched immediately on shore of bay and dinner served by 1 p. m. Camp visited by Brig-Gen. Geo. M. Smith, commanding Fifth Brigade, N. G., N. Y. C. O. invited him to witness drill after retreat in evening. Same was witnessed that evening by about 1,000 people.

On Sunday morning, July 15th, broke camp at 8 a. m. and marched with all impedimenta to special car at Sayville station. Baggage was placed therein and guard left and company then marched to pier to take sloop for Cherry Grove for shore dinner. Command left Sayville at 6 p. m. and arrived at home station at 8 p. m.

In submitting my report, I cannot speak too highly of the benefit gained by all who participated in the march-out. The enthusiasm displayed by the men in this kind of work was most commendable. The work was of the hardest but enjoyed by all. No packs were taken, but the blanket roll used instead, and I am more convinced than ever of the superiority of it, to the Merriam pack. The lack of suitable wagon for this kind of work is keenly felt, and I would heartily recommend the purchase by the regiment of a regulation army wagon.

The State ration was used and found amply sufficient.

My thanks are due to Major Cochran and his H. C. man, also the pleasure of Captain Wingate's company and his topographical work with Lieut. Weld was much appreciated. All officers and men heartily co-operated to make the march-out a success.

The report book shows record of daily attendance.

Respectfully,

LOUIS J. PRAEGER,

Captain.

COMPANY "K," TWENTY-THIRD REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,

1322 BEDFORD AVENUE, BROOKLYN, October 13, 1900.

Adjutant:

Sir.—I have the honor to report as follows on the marchout made by this company, July 20 to 22, 1900.

A detail consisting of Q. M. Sergeant Walker, Ord. Sgt. Bryant and ten men proceeded by train to Amityville and pitched tents on a site already selected. The company took train at Bedford station at 8.20 p. m. arriving at Amityville at 9.30 p. m., no supper was prepared that night as the citizens of the town had provided a substantial supper and entertained us royally. A guard was established immediately upon our arrival at the camp and properly maintained until the close of the tour. Saturday a. m., held a physical drill at 6.15 a. m. Guard mount at 8.30 a. m. and an extended order drill over the country in the neighborhood of the camp from 9.30 a. m. until 11.30 a. m.; blank ammunition was used, and the drill conducted as nearly as possible in accordance with actual conditions of choosing cover and making an attack on an imaginary enemy. At 7.15 p. m. parade was ordered to conform as nearly to a battalion parade as possible with a small company.

Sunday a physical drill in the early morning, a guard mount and parade were all the military duties ordered. Left Amityville at 6.15 p. m. arrived at the home station at 7.30 p. m. The tour was for the purpose of instruction and actual conditions of taking a company away from its home station and taking care of it in camp were strictly observed. Cooks were hired and rations bought according to regulations and in quantities allowed, with the addition of a few things not articles of the regular ration. All meals were cooked and eaten in the camp, and prepared on the regulation Buzzacott outfit No. 2. Tentage, etc., was drawn by regular requisition and returned in the same way. Transportation and commissary arrangements were made and carried out in a way that should show actual conditions, and the whole tour was made to conform to that idea.

Respectfully,

CHAS. G. TODD,

Captain.

ARMORY, TROOP "C," N. G., N. Y.,
NORTH PORTLAND AVENUE, NEAR MYRTLE,
BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 30, 1900.

The Assistant Adjutant-General, Second Brigade, N. G., N. Y., Brooklyn, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit herewith report of tour of duty performed by Troop "C" in connection with riots at Croton Dam, N. Y.:

In pursuance of verbal orders from Major-General Roe, received on Sunday, April 15th, at 9 p. m., this troop assembled at the armory at 8 a. m., April 16th, fully equipped for the field, with two (2) days' rations and forage. The troop left its station at 8.45 a. m., with six officers, seventy-five men, three wagons and seventy-eight horses. One sergeant and seventeen men were left at the armory to await the arrival of extra horses, with orders to follow the troop as soon as the horses should arrive. The troop marched to Ardsley, arriving there at 3.45 p. m., and went into camp; the detachment of sergeant and seventeen men, left at the armory, arrived in camp at Ardsley at 7.45 p. m., with twenty-one horses.

Broke camp at Ardsley April 17th, at 8 a. m., and marched with Squadron "A," Captain Badgley commanding, to Croton Dam, arriving there at 1 p. m. Reported to Major-General Roe, who assigned us camping ground on bluff at north side of river. While there furnished orderlies, guards and patrols from time to time, as directed. On Thursday, the 19th inst., the entire troop assembled at 8 a. m. to patrol roads and form cordon from in rear of our camp and "Bowery" to Croton road and from there to river, while arrests of rioters were being made. On April 19th Second Brigade ambulance and eleven troop horses arrived in camp at 8 p. m. Returned three unserviceable horses to the armory on April 20th, at 2 p. m. Sunday, April 22d, the troop participated in review by Major-General Roe, at 4 p. m.

On Tuesday, April 24th, pursuant to Orders No. 5, Headquarters Camp Roosevelt, a detachment of thirty-four men, with thirty-seven horses, under command of Lieutenant Grout, were returned to armory and relieved from duty; Lieutenant Grout's report of the march home attached hereto.

On April 25th two unserviceable horses were returned to armory by boat.

Pursuant to Orders No. 6, Headquarters, Camp Roosevelt, the remainder of the troop left Camp Roosevelt at 4.45 a. m., April 27th; marched via Quaker Bridge road to River road and along Hudson river. Camped on the outskirts of Yonkers from 9 a. m. to 11.15 a. m., where horses were unsaddled, watered and fed and dinner served to men. March continued at 11.15 a. m., arriving at armory at 4.10 p. m., when troop was dismissed.

On April 16th, while opposite Fort George, one horse was kicked above the knee in the left foreleg and disabled and was left at Zenener's stable, One Hundred and Ninety-fourth street and Eleventh avenue, and telephone instructions sent to armory to call for this horse, but he was unfit to be removed and is still there. It will be necessary to send ambulance to remove him. During the night of the 16th inst., while on picket line at Ardsley, one horse sustained a fracture of one of the pelvic bones. This horse was left at Kinderwater's stable, at Irvington. He was put in slings and has been attended by our veterinary sergeant, and also by a veterinary from Sing Sing. In all probability it will be impossible to remove the horse for about six weeks, and I should respectfully request instructions as to disposition of same. On the march home of Lieutenant Grout's detachment, one horse was found to be suffering from an acute attack of congestion of the lungs, which developed after leaving Camp Roosevelt. This horse was left at Sing Sing in Dr. Jenks' Veterinary Hospital, but is convalescent and can probably be removed in about a week. On April 27th, at about 5.30 a. m., after having traveled about a half mile beyond Quaker Bridge road (which was about three-quarters of a mile from our camp), the off-lead horse of the troop wagon fell dead in the road. Our veterinary sergeant was on the spot immediately and made a thorough investigation. He reports the heart ruptured, owing to a chronic cardiac weakness. Affidavits of the death of this horse will be submitted. These disabled horses are all receiving regular attention from our veterinary sergeant.

Respectfully,

CHAS. I. DEBEVOISE,

Captain.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., September 30, 1900.

The Assistant Adjutant-General National Guard:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit herewith the annual report of the Third Brigade.

On April 14th, the sheriff of Westchester county called on the commanding officers of companies "A" (fourth separate company) and "B" (eleventh separate company), First Regiment, stationed at Yonkers and Mt. Vernon respectively, for support in preserving the peace at the New Croton dam, where a strike of the laborers and disturbances of the peace had taken place. The major-general commanding the National Guard assumed command of all the troops assembled on this occasion and commanding officers rendered their reports to him. The two organizations did creditable service under command of Major Charles A. Denike, First Regiment, and were specially commended therefor.

April 19th, the companies were relieved and ordered to return to their respective home stations. On June 15th the sheriff of Columbia county called on the commanding officer of Company "D" (Twenty-third Separate Company), First Regiment, stationed at Hudson, for assistance to enforce quarantine against smallpox in brick yards at Stockport. The command moved promptly in compliance with the request of the sheriff, and went into camp completely equipped.

The difficult and delicate duty was admirably performed under command of Captain R. C. Payne, First Regiment. On June 18th, the company was relieved by the sheriff and returned to its home station.

Under the provisions of paragraph IV, General Orders No. 7, c. s. Headquarters National Guard, the necessary directions were issued to place the Third Signal Corps, Second Regiment and Tenth Battalion on field service.

These organizations were ordered to leave their respective home stations on August 18th and to rendezvous on August 19th at Sand Lake, making and breaking camp at least three times en route and on return; and remaining at Sand Lake camp until August 24th and then to commence their return marches to their respective home stations. Colonel James H. Lloyd, Second Regiment, was assigned to the command of all the troops and directed to plan and carry out all necessary details of concentration, marches and camps.

The brigade commander and staff visited the various commands on the march and established camp at Sand Lake near to the main camp of the troops. He was present at all drills and ceremonies and inspected the outpost duty work and all details of camp generally; and members of the brigade staff carefully inspected and reported on the following details of the tour of duty.

Lieutenant-Colonel Cushman, assistant adjutant-general, on papers and reports, Lieutenant-Colonel Bendell, brigade surgeon, on sanitation and hygiene of camp, Major Young, quartermaster, on transportation, etc., Major Clemjshaw, commissary, on subsistence and general plan of feeding and supplies, and Captain Treanor, assistant inspector, and Captain Deeley, A. I. S. A. P., on guard duty, ceremonies, police, etc.

The field service was on the whole very satisfactory, and a remarkable exhibition of ability on the part of the commanding officer and staff when it is to be remembered that the various companies were assembled in regimental formation for the first time and yet were transported, fed and camped, completely equipped, without appreciable friction or serious mistakes.

While many details could have been improved the service as a whole was a most creditable effort, every officer and enlisted man evidently thoroughly interested and intent on learning all that could be imparted of the innumerable details of military knowledge in so short a period. The attendance was very large and the health of the command excellent, the men well fed and the cost of subsistence was inside the regular allowance, much to the credit of the officers in charge. Discipline was good; instruction was fair, except on guard duty and outpost work, and the wagon trains were complete and well managed. The work performed by the Third Signal Corps was especially good and great progress made in its general efficiency.

For further reports of the field service attention is invited to the reports of the commanding officers of the Second Regiment, Tenth Battalion, and Third Signal Corps. The strength of the Brigade at this time is 174 officers, 2,932 enlisted men; total, 3,106.

As to the general condition of the brigade, it is a pleasure to report that it is fully armed and equipped, that it has steadily improved during the last year (with the exception of several companies), and that its condition is generally satisfactory.

It is respectfully recommended that shelter tents be furnished to the command, and that the blanket roll with bag of clothing, etc., be substituted for the present clumsy, heavy and unwieldy pack which has proven to be too great a tax on the strength of such untrained men as members of the National Guard must of necessity be by reason of their civil occupations.

The system of inspections ordered and the schools of instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers, if thoroughly carried out with frequent field service, will do much to improve the command.

It is to be hoped that the means available may enable the major-general commanding to authorize the concentration, next year, of the entire brigade for field service.

Respectfully,

ROBERT SHAW OLIVER,
Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.,
BUFFALO, N. Y., October 29, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, N. G., N. Y., Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following as my annual report for 1900.

Although numerous labor strikes have occurred at points in this brigade, during the past year, yet the civil authorities have had no trouble in controlling the situations, and the brigade has not been called upon for assistance.

All the organizations in this brigade, with the exception of the Seventy-fourth Regiment, which performed similar duty last year, were ordered for a tour of field service of eight days (S. O. No. 29 c. s., Fourth Brigade, copy enclosed). The Sixty-fifth Regiment performed similar service in 1895 and 1897. The separate companies comprising First, Second and Third Battalions, have never had service of this character.

The Fourth Signal Corps was attached to the Sixty-fifth Regiment, as it was believed that this would afford the corps a better opportunity for practice in its special work.

The results of these tours of service, have convinced me more strongly than ever, of their value to the Guard, both officers and enlisted men. Although the work from causes unavoidable in the conditions as they were, was far from perfect, yet much of the experience gained will be invaluable in the future, and will tend to great improvement in any duty they may be called upon to perform.

They also fully demonstrated that the position taken by me in 1895 was correct, and that organizations commanded by officers who have had training at the State Camp, received much more benefit from field service, and at very much less expense to the State. I trust that so far as this brigade is concerned, this service may be continued, and that as the saving in expense is so material, that organizations be hereafter either ordered annually, or if ordered biennially, that they be given increased time if they request it.

Reports in detail of this service by the commanding and inspecting officers, have been forwarded.

The strength of the brigade on September 30, 1900, was 143 officers, 2,033 enlisted men, aggregate, 2,176.

Respectfully,

PETER C. DOYLE,

Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.,

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 30, 1900.

Special Orders }
No. 29. }

1. Pursuant to G. O. No. 7, c. s. Headquarters National Guard, the following organizations of this brigade are hereby detailed for field service as follows:

Sixty-fifth Regiment, beginning on August 4th and ending on August 11th.

Fourth Signal Corps, beginning on August 4th and ending on August 11th.

First Battalion, beginning on July 21st and ending on July 28th.

Second Battalion, beginning on August 4th and ending on August 11th.

Third Battalion, beginning on July 21st and ending on July 28th.

2. Pay and rations will be allowed for eight days.

3. The surgeon of the Fourth Brigade is hereby directed to deliver to the surgeon of the Sixty-fifth Regiment, upon his order and receipt, the brigade ambulance.

4. The commanding officers of the organizations ordered for field service will make all arrangements for the duty ordered, and are authorized and directed to procure all necessary wagon, boat and rail transportation; to make purchases and expenditures necessary to provide rations, straw, wood and forage for the care and subsistence of their several commands.

The commanding officer of the Sixty-fifth Regiment is also authorized and directed to provide for, and supply to the Fourth Signal Corps, upon the requisition of its commanding officer, rations, straw, wood and forage for the care and subsistence of that organization.

5. The Fourth Signal Corps is hereby attached to the Sixty-fifth Regiment during this tour of duty, and its commanding officer will report at once to the commanding officer of the Sixty-fifth Regiment for instructions.

6. The routes of march and locations of camps will be in accordance with plans submitted and approved.

7. Officers and enlisted men will wear and turn out in field uniform and equipment as prescribed in G. O. No. 11, A. G. O., series 1894, including haversacks, but omitting fixed ammunition. Each command will move from its armory with all its camp equipage.

8. The hours of service and routine duties will be as prescribed in regulations, subject to such changes as may be deemed necessary by the commanding officers.

9. Drills will be principally in extended order, by platoon, company, battalion and regiment, and attention is called to the rules laid down for advance and rear guards.

All officers are enjoined to make themselves thoroughly familiar with R. part 1, 553 to 629, and attention is especially called to R. 568.

10. Commanding officers will make a detailed report, accompanied by field map, of the tour of duty of their commands, to these headquarters, within two weeks after return to their home station.

11. The following officers are hereby detailed to accompany the above organizations, and to report on their tour of duty:

Lieutenant-Colonel Lauren W. Pettebone, A. A. G., Fourth Brigade, with the First Battalion.

Major Charles M. Ransom, Inspector Fourth Brigade, with the Sixty-fifth Regiment and Fourth Signal Corps.

Major Henry C. Wadsworth, Commissary, Fourth Brigade, with the Second Battalion.

Captain Theodore B. Sheldon, Assistant I. S. A. P., Fourth Brigade, with the Third Battalion.

By command of Brigadier-General Boyle.

LAUREN W. PETTEBONE,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.,
PARK AVENUE AND THIRTY-FOURTH STREET,
NEW YORK, September 30, 1900.

The Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit my annual report as follows:

Under the provisions of paragraph 2, Special Orders, No. 9, Adjutant-General's Office, February 8, 1900, Company "F," Sixty-ninth Regiment was mustered out of the service of the State and disbanded on February 15, and Company "B," same regiment, on March 15th, under the provisions of paragraph 1, Special Orders, No. 13, Adjutant-General's Office, March 5, 1900.

Pursuant to Special Orders, No. 60, current series, Headquarters N. G., N. Y., the organizations of this brigade took part in the memorial ceremonies in New York city on May 30th.

In compliance with General Orders, No. 7, Headquarters N. G., N. Y., May 7, 1900, the Eighth, Sixty-ninth and Seventy-first Regiments, during the month of June proceeded to the State Camp at Peekskill, N. Y., for a week's tour of camp duty.

The Second Battery, under authority from the Headquarters N. G., N. Y., took part in the exercises at Troy, N. Y., July 3d to 5th.

Under authority from the Adjutant-General's Office, the Second Battery and two companies of each, the Eighth and Seventy-first Regiments, participated in the military exercises at Long Branch, N. J., August 24th to 26th.

The officers and men had been mustered into the service of the State on May 31, were organized as Company "F," Sixty-ninth Regiment, by Special Orders, No. 54, Adjutant-General's Office, September 7th.

A platoon of the Second Battery, Lieutenant Flannagan commanding, under authority from the Adjutant-General's Office, proceeded to Morristown, N. J., to participate in the exercises at that place, October 11th to 14th.

The strength of the brigade at this date is 167 officers and 2,949 men—aggregate, 3,116.

Respectfully,

GEORGE MOORE SMITH,

Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,

PARK AVENUE AND NINETY-FOURTH STREET,

NEW YORK CITY, MANHATTAN, July 6, 1900.

Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., Albany, New York:

Sir.—In compliance with G. O. No. 7, c. s. Headquarters National Guard, New York, I have the honor to report that this regiment left its armory on the morning of June 16, 1900, at 8.15 o'clock, marched to Grand Central Depot and took train in two sections on the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad for Roa Hook, leaving Forty-second street at 9.05 and detrained at 10.30 a. m. The regiment with baggage arrived on its camp ground, north of Battery Hill, Camp of Instruction, at 11 a. m. Column of companies was formed, arms stacked, and preparations immediately made to pitch camp, which was completed during the early part of the afternoon; evening parade was held same day.

Sunday, June 17, guard mounting and evening parade were the only military exercises of the day. School of instruction for officers, however, being held by Captain H. G. Lyon, U. S. A., at 2 p. m.

Monday, June 18th, reveille was sounded at 4 a. m.; the camp having been struck and wagons packed, the regiment left camp for the practice march to Lake Mohegan, the start being made at 8.20 a. m., Company "I" acting as advance guard, and the camp guard, mounted that morning, as the rear guard. The regiment was halted about one mile from entrance to camp, awaiting wagon train, which caused considerable delay, due I am told to one of the teams having to be replaced, one of the horses becoming disabled at the start. Frequent short halts were made on the route, except upon arriving on the top of two steep grades where the halts were of longer duration, owing to the delay in hauling the wagons, as at these places it was necessary to double up the teams. The regiment arrived in good condition at Camp Roe, Lake Mohegan, at 12.25 p. m., the train arrived at 1.15 p. m. The advance guard had previously, in obedience to instructions, established outposts in the vicinity of the camp, these outposts being drawn in and men relieved after the camp guard was established. Mess call was sounded at 2.55 p. m., and the camp practically completed by 4.30 p. m. Evening parade concluded the military exercises of the day.

Tuesday, June 19th, immediately after reveille, hot coffee and bread was issued, and early morning drills by companies were held. Guard mounting followed after breakfast and during forenoon the two battalions were moved out under command of their majors, two companies of each being sent out in different directions upon the main roads to practice advance and rear guard duty, the other three companies being drilled in extended order, using blank cartridges. Evening parade closed the exercises of the day.

Wednesday, June 20th, reveille was sounded at 4.30 a. m., and preparations made for the return march; a guard was mounted which relieved the old guard, the camp was struck, wagons loaded, and camp grounds policed, after which the regiment started for Camp of Instruction at 8.30 a. m., Company "K" acting as advance guard and the camp guard as the rear guard. The regiment arrived at Camp of Instruction about 11.20 a. m. and took possession of the permanent camp. With the exceptions noted the hours of service were as prescribed in Regulations. Evening parade was held at usual hour.

Thursday, June 21st, early morning and forenoon drills took place, the former by company, and the latter by battalion, in extended order; guard mounting and evening parade was also made.

Friday, June 22d, early morning and forenoon drills, company and battalion, guard mounting and evening parade.

On Saturday early morning drill and guard mounting practically completed the military exercises of the week at the Camp of Instruction. The camp was then inspected by the C. O. and field officers, and found in satisfactory condition as to policing, and the regiment left at about 2 p. m. for the railroad station at Roa Hook, embarked and took the train for New York city at 3.50 p. m., arriving at Forty-second street that city, at 5 p. m., and marched to the armory which was reached about 5.40 p. m.

I am gratified to report that the behavior of the command during the entire tour, with but two or three exceptions, was excellent, and I am satisfied that the tour was of great benefit to the regiment. Notwithstanding that there was a large percentage of recruits in the ranks it was evident the work was agreeable and pleasant and was performed with reasonable ease and very little friction.

The affairs of the Quartermaster, Commissary and Medical Departments were conducted with intelligence and great credit to all connected with those departments.

The plan of this year's tour at the Camp of Instruction, so far as I have observed, has been of an agreeable nature to all of the members of this command, and with very satisfactory results in teaching some of the practical duties of a soldier not obtainable at their home stations, nor under the system as heretofore conducted.

On behalf of the regiment I desire to express my thanks to Lieutenant-Colonel William E. Chapin, Inspector, N. G., N. Y., and Captain Henry G. Lyon, U. S. A., for their valuable and kindly advice and criticisms during the week and which were of great benefit and profit.

The health of the command was uniformly good, the surgeons showing but one case of illness and excuse from duty. Enclosed herewith are road sketch of route from Camp of Instruction to Camp Roe, and R. O. No. 61, relating to tour of duty, marked respectively A and B.

Respectfully,

J. M. JARVIS,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, N. G., N. Y.,
PARK AVENUE AND NINETY-FOURTH STREET,

NEW YORK, June 6, 1900.

Orders No. 61.

I. In compliance with G. O. No. 7 c. s. Headquarters National Guard, New York, this regiment is ordered to assemble at the armory on June 16, 1900, for a tour of duty at the Camp of Instruction and for field service. First call 7.20 a. m.

Assembly 7.30 a. m.

II. Field uniform and equipment as prescribed in G. O. No. 11, A. G. O., series 1894, including haversacks, but omitting fixed ammunition, will be worn, viz: for officers, campaign hat, undress coat (buttoned blouse) and leggings. (Field and staff riding boots.)

For enlisted men, campaign hat, undress-coat and leggings. Men will carry haversacks and packs with overcoats, ponchos, blankets, canteens and tin-cups, adjusted as prescribed in G. O. No. 11, A. G. O., series 1894.

III. Each officer will be allowed one small trunk which must be plainly marked and delivered to the Quartermaster at the armory not later than 9 p. m. June 15, 1900; no baggage will be received by the Quartermaster on Saturday morning. The regiment will leave the armory with all its camp equipage.

IV. Each man will provide himself with the necessary changes of underclothing, blue flannel shirt, two towels, comb and brush, soap and extra pair of shoes, and three pairs of white gloves.

V. Transportation and subsistence is allowed for three servants for the regiment, one for each battalion, and one for each company.

VI. First sergeant, the sergeant of the Hospital Corps and of the field music will take the following books to camp:

Report Book.

Descriptive Book.

Drill Regulations.

Military Code and Regulations, Part I and II.

Pay rolls will be fully written up and signed in triplicate and turned into these Headquarters, as prescribed in Circular No. 8 c. s.

VII. Attention is particularly called to Regulations 561, which provides that servants will not be allowed to wear any portion of the State uniform, but will be clothed uniformly as designated by the commanding officer.

VIII. The hours of service and routine duties of the troops ordered on above duty will be as prescribed in the Regulations, subject to such changes as may be deemed necessary by the commanding officer. All officers are enjoined to make themselves thoroughly familiar with R. part I, 553 to 620, and attention is especially called to R. 568.

IX. A guard will be mounted, consisting of one First Lieutenant, three Sergeants, two musicians, five Corporals, and 48-privates.

First call for guard mount 7 a. m.

Assembly for guard mount 7.05 a. m.

X. Eben E. Acker, having been commissioned First Lieutenant as Battalion Adjutant with rank from May 17, 1900, and Second Lieutenant John J. Egan and Irving W. Quereau, First Lieutenants with rank from May 17, 1900, will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of Colonel Jarvis.

AMBROSE M. LOCK,
Regimental Adjutant.

Official,

HEADQUARTERS NINTH REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,
NEW YORK, June 26, 1900.

Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., Albany, N. Y.:

Sir:—I have the honor to submit herewith report of the tour of duty of the Ninth Regiment, N. G., N. Y., at the camp of instruction.

Pursuant to General Orders No. 7, Headquarters National Guard, copy of which is herewith attached, I issued Regimental Order No. 97, of which a copy is also furnished.

The regiment assembled at the armory on Saturday morning, June 9th, in compliance with said order. Prior to starting I sent the Major-General commanding the following telegram: "Ninth Regiment leaves for Peekskill, 498 men; 28 officers; 27 servants." The regiment left the armory at 8.15 a. m., and proceeded to Thirty-third street and Eleventh avenue, there they entrained, starting at 9 a. m. The regiment arrived at Peekskill at 10.30 a. m., and marched at once to the camp grounds, where they proceeded to pitch their camp on the north parade ground, concluding about 2 p. m. In consequence of our chaplain not being present in camp no divine services were held in the Ninth Regiment camp on Sunday, although many of the men attended those of the Twelfth Regiment through the kind invitation of Chaplain Bader. Evening parade was held on the east parade ground, as per orders, at 6. p. m.

Reveille was sounded Monday morning at 4 o'clock and the work of striking camp was promptly begun. The start for Camp Roe was made at 8.45 a. m. The first halt, at 9.15 a. m., lasted thirty (30) minutes. The next halt was made at 10.35 and lasted fifteen (15) minutes. The next at 11.20 lasted one hour and five minutes. The regiment arrived at Camp Roe at 12.50 p. m., where a guard was immediately placed over the spring, as per orders, and camp promptly pitched. Evening parade was held at 7 p. m.

On Tuesday morning, early morning drill was that of the company in extended order. The forenoon drill was by battalions in extended order. At 3 p. m. two (2) companies were directed to establish outposts. Evening parade was held at 7 p. m.

One Wednesday reveille was sounded at 4 a. m., camp was again struck, the general sounding at 6.45 a. m. After breakfast wagons were loaded and camp thoroughly policed. At 7.45 Companies "G" and "D," under command of Major Lorigan, left camp with instructions to proceed along the road toward Camp Townsend, and after selecting a favorable position attack the main body on its return journey. The start of the main body was made at 8.15 a. m., or thirty (30) minutes later. The first halt was made at 9 a. m. and lasted fifteen (15) minutes. The second halt was made at 9.30 and lasted but five (5) minutes (this halt was made owing to the breaking down of one of the baggage wagons). The third halt at 10 o'clock lasted seven (7) minutes. Shortly before 11 o'clock the scouts of the advance party reported that they had come upon the scouts of the enemy. The road at this point branched off in two directions, that to the left going toward camp. The following disposition of the enemy's forces had been made: Company "G" took the left road, hiding itself behind the brow of a hill. Company "D" had left the main road shortly before they reached the fork, and had taken position in a field behind a wall. The plan of attack was that the regiment was to be permitted to pass Company "D," after which they were to attack them in the rear, cutting off the baggage train, at the same moment that an attack was made in front at the head of the column by Company "G." I suspected, from information received by flankers of the advance guard, that this was the plan that they had formulated, and consequently had taken the precaution to place my baggage train between the battalions. Company "D," after permitting the first battalion to pass, made the mistake of supposing that the entire regiment had gone by and promptly attacked the rear, inserting themselves between the first battalion and the wagon train, whereupon the second battalion closed upon them, capturing the command. While it is always difficult to form any estimate of the result of a sham battle, yet I feel confident that had the action been real instead of simulated, the larger body would have been victorious.

I desire to respectfully suggest that hereafter in all movements of this kind a larger supply of ammunition than that of ten (10) rounds per man be issued, as this quantity is completely exhausted before an opportunity is given to either body to show any military movement that is of practical benefit to the enlisted man. This was best demonstrated by the fact that the engagement terminated at 11.20, or in other words about twenty-five (25) minutes after the scouts first reported the scouts of the attacking party. At 11.20 the entire command was halted and assembled, the halt lasting for seventeen (17) minutes. We arrived in camp at 12.15 p. m., when I immediately reported my arrival to the Assistant Adjutant-General, whereupon we proceeded to occupy the permanent camp left vacant by the Twelfth regiment.

On Wednesday, evening parade was held at the customary hour, and during the balance of the week the drills and duties as called for in the regulations were strictly adhered to, with the exception of Thursday morning, when drills were omitted in consequence of heavy rain, as well as the fact that on Friday morning the forenoon drill was delayed about one hour in consequence of the artillery practice of the First Battery, which also necessitated both battalions drilling on the East parade ground, and the drill consequently was not satisfactory owing to the congested condition existing.

On Saturday morning preparations were made to leave camp, the formation being at 1.30 p. m., in compliance with orders. The start was made at 1.45 p. m., and the regiment proceeded to Roa Hook, where we waited for some time for the arrival of the Seventy-first regiment. We were further delayed by the fact that it took some time to unload their baggage from the cars, so that it was 4.05 p. m. when the train left for New York city. We arrived at Thirty-third street and Eleventh avenue, New York city, at 5.45 p. m., and proceeded at once to our home station, arriving at the armory at 6.30 p. m.

I desire to call the attention of the authorities to the fact that on two occasions the beef served at the mess hall in the permanent camp was unfit for eating, being tainted. This fact was reported to the post commissary. In other respects the food was abundant and of good quality. The food furnished for the marching out was ample and of excellent quality, and all that could be desired.

The barrels furnished for the transportation of drinking water from the spring at Camp Roe were useless for the purpose for which they were intended, and necessitated the purchase of barrels by the regiment for use thereat.

The health of the men in the main was good; the exception being a few cases of sore feet, and one case of diphtheria was developed at Camp Roe, which was promptly treated and sent out of camp, the patient being afterwards removed to Peekskill hospital, from which he has since been discharged.

It is respectfully suggested that on the practice marches hereafter it might be as well for the men to carry shelter tents instead of taking along large conical tents, which would result in a material saving in transportation, as well as saving the men the work of erecting the large tents, which as I understand it, are intended only for permanent camps.

I desire to respectfully suggest that in my estimation, the efficiency of the guard would be largely enhanced if the entire eight (8) days could be devoted to practice marches, with sufficient ammunition to permit of a series of sham battles, where the extended order might be demonstrated as in active service.

I further desire to respectfully urge that, if possible, canvas working suits be furnished the men, as their use would result in a great saving of wear and tear to the uniforms, which, taking into consideration that the State provides only one (1) uniform for five (5) years' enlistment, a tour at camp materially effects its appearance for drills and ceremonies at the armories.

I desire to express my grateful appreciation of the helpful suggestions and healthful criticisms of the various camp inspectors and attaches, particularly those of Captain Henry G. Lyon, Twenty-second Infantry, U. S. A.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM F. MORRIS,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, N. G., N. Y.,
ARMORY, SIXTY-SECOND STREET AND COLUMBUS AVENUE,
NEW YORK, July 9, 1900.

Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to make the following report on the tour of duty of this command at the State Camp of Instruction, from July 9 to 16, 1900:

This command left New York city, foot of West Fifty-ninth street, at 1.06 p. m., and arrived at Roa Hook at 3.05 p. m., occupying the permanent camp. Drills by squad, section, company, battalion and regiment were held on Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday proceeded in heavy marching order, at 1.45 p. m., with advance and rear guards, wagon train, etc., to Camp Roe, Lake Mohegan, arriving at 5.50 p. m. Camp was pitched and fires lighted. Owing to a heavy rain, no drills were held. On Friday, at the sound of the "General," tents were properly lowered, folded and placed on the wagons, and the regiment took up its march to Camp Townsend via Roa Hook, arriving at 11.50 a. m., pitching its camp on the North parade. The regiment entrained for New York on Saturday morning, arriving in New York, foot of Thirty-third street, and proceeded via Thirty-third street and Eighth avenue to its home station, where the men were paid off and dismissed.

In conclusion, I would suggest that when two regiments are in camp the one occupying the North parade should be issued rations and the men fed as though in a temporary camp, as at least two hundred men were held back from mess, at each meal, owing to the size of the mess-hall, thereby forcing each regiment to lose the above number from evening parade.

Respectfully,

GEORGE R. DYER,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS TWENTY-SECOND INFANTRY, N. G., N. Y.,
BROADWAY AND SIXTY-EIGHTH STREET,
NEW YORK, N. Y., June 14, 1900.

Adjutant-General, State of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—In compliance with paragraph 604, Regulations, part I, I have the honor to forward herewith a report of tour of duty and field service of this command, June 2 to 9, 1900, both dates inclusive.

Respectfully,

FRANKLIN BARTLETT,

Colonel.

One enclosure.

REPORT OF TOUR OF CAMP DUTY AND FIELD SERVICE
OF TWENTY-SECOND REGIMENT INFANTRY, N. G.,
N. Y., JUNE 2-9, 1900.

Pursuant to G. O. No. 7, H. Q., N. G., N. Y., the regiment left its home station at 8.10 a. m. with all its camp equipage, officers and men in field uniform and equipment, leaving by train from Grand Central station at 9.15 a. m., arriving at Camp of Instruction at 10.45 a. m. Proceeded to make camp on North parade ground at 11 a. m. All tents were pitched and the camp in order by 3 p. m. (three-quarters of an hour of this time was consumed by the men at mess). No drills. Evening parade at the usual hour.

Sunday, June 3d.—The regular tour of camp duty was performed.

Monday, June 4th.—The regiment left the Camp of Instruction at 8.40 a. m. for a march to Lake Mohegan. Reveille at 5 a. m., tents struck at 5.45 a. m. Baggage packed and the regiment ready to move at 7.05 a. m., excepting two loads, the transportation for which was not provided for until 8.30 a. m. Assembly at 8.30 a. m. Left Camp of Instruction at 8.40 a. m. with Captain Lilliendahl in command of the advance guard and Captain Dayton in command of the rear guard. The march of seven and one-half miles was accomplished without incident or delay. Arrived at Lake Mohegan, "Camp Roe," at 12.20 p. m., regiment well closed up and no stragglers. Only three men fell out during the march, slightly overcome by the heat. They were quickly revived and continued the march. No ambulance cases. On arrival of the advance guard, Cossack posts and camp guards were established.

The head of the baggage train arrived with the rear of the main body, the two wagons left behind having caught up with the train. Rear guard arrived at 1.10 p. m., slight delay caused near the camp, owing to the doubling up of the teams in the baggage train on some of the heaviest grades. Company fires were started in the Buzzacott ovens at 12.40 p. m. and dinner served at 2.30 p. m., the regiment being then all under canvas. The same hours of service and camp duties were followed as observed at the Camp of Instruction.

Tuesday, June 5th.—The usual camp duties were observed. At the early morning drill the several companies were drilled in the setting up exercises and Butt's manual. At 9.30 the companies were drilled in extended order. At 2 p. m. practical instruction in the formation of Cossack posts and out-post duties, under the supervision of the commanding officer. At 3 p. m. a battalion formed from the whole regiment was drilled in extended order by the commanding officer.

Wednesday, June 6th. The regiment left "Camp Roe" to return to the Camp of Instruction at 7 a. m. preceded by the advance guard which left at 6.50 a. m. under the command of Captain Haubold. Co. "H" left camp under the command of Captain Dyett at 6.40 a. m. for the purpose of attacking the column at some point in the line of march. The rear guard was under the command of Captain Stott. There were no ambulance cases, and the regiment was well closed up and no stragglers. The baggage train arrived at the Camp of Instruction with the rear of the regiment.

The regiment reached the out-post of the Camp of Instruction at 10.05. At a point about two miles from the Camp of Instruction the advance guard was attacked by Co. "H," and by using the advantage of cover and the better of positions, showed its capability of defending the main body and the baggage train. The regiment was under canvas in the permanent camp at 10.40 a. m.

Thursday, June 7th. Regular routine of camp duties was performed.

Friday, June 8th. Regular routine of camp duties was performed.

Saturday, June 9th. Camp duties were performed until noon. The regiment left the Camp of Instruction for home station, being relieved by the Twelfth Regiment Infantry, N. G., N. Y., at 3.30 p. m., arriving at destination at 6 p. m. Average attendance, officers 39, men 443. Aggregate strength, 613.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANKLIN BARTLETT,

Colonel.

To the Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., through military channel.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTY-FIRST REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,
PARK AVENUE AND THIRTY-FOURTH STREET,

NEW YORK, July 3, 1900.

Adjutant-General, State of New York:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of the tour of field service performed by my command June 16 to June 23, 1900.

The regiment assembled at the armory at 11.30 a. m., and entrained at Thirty-second street and Eleventh avenue at 1.18. Sufficient cars were not provided for transportation and every car except two contained from four to eight men more than required by the regulations. The regiment arrived at Roa Hook at 2.40; arrived in camp at 3.20, and took possession of the permanent camp, finding it absolutely deserted, and my guard was at once posted, the posts being in the direction of the commanding officer of the guard, as my guard found no guard to relieve.

I reported the arrival of the regiment to the Assistant-Adjutant General immediately upon arrival. At 4.45 the posts of the guard were changed and placed under my direction, where they remained during stay in the permanent camp. The usual camp routine prescribed by the regulations was followed and all calls were promptly sounded.

On Sunday morning I made an inspection of the camp and found it very clean and the tents uniformly dressed in each street, but not strictly in accordance with the regulations. This was remedied on Monday morning.

Captain Lyon gave a most interesting talk on Sunday afternoon to the officers of the command. The Rev. F. B. Richards, at my invitation, held divine service in the Y. M. C. A. tent on Sunday morning.

On Monday and Tuesday mornings the early morning drill consisted of close order for 15 or 20 minutes and the balance of the drill in extended order. On Monday by squads and section and on Tuesday by company. The battalion drills on Monday and Tuesday mornings started with from 30 to 40 minutes in close order and the balance of the drill in extended order, the movements in close order being as far as possible those that could not be executed in the armory.

On Wednesday morning during the early drill a very interesting experiment was tried in constructing shelter trenches with an entrenching tool which is now being tried. The first man was covered in two minutes and thirty-five seconds and the entire squad in fourteen minutes and ten seconds.

On Wednesday morning the regiment left the permanent camp, the assembly sounding at 11 o'clock; stacked arms on the east parade and at 1.30 left for Camp Roe. The march was as if in the enemy's country, the advance guard, consisting of Company "B," under command of Captain Beekman. The work of the advance guard was most satisfactorily performed in every way, as was that of the rear guard under Captain Bleeker.

The regiment reached Camp Roe at 4.51; the wagon train arrived shortly afterward. Supper was served to the men in from one hour to one hour and twenty minutes after the arrival of the wagon train and the men were under canvass in two hours after the wagon train arrived. I personally inspected the kitchens and the food served for supper. The food was well cooked, abundant in quantity and of excellent quality. Undress parade was held at 8.10.

On Thursday morning the early morning drill was in extended order by companies. The men were taught the use of cover. Battalion drill was divided into two parts. During the first hour I gave the three east fields to Captain Linson, commanding the First Battalion, instructing him to work out some problem in minor tactics. He selected the problem of a column advancing to the north, with the right flank protected by a river, the enemy being outlined. The drill was very instructive and was admirably performed, the work of Lieutenant Gallagher, in command of the outlined enemy, being especially worthy of note.

During the second hour the same fields were given to Captain Wells of the Second Battalion, who worked out a problem of a force advancing toward the east, trying to gain control of the shore of the lake, but being prevented by the enemy, who had already secured the shore. The battalion advanced with advance guard and the enemy was discovered by the flankers, the point having been enveloped by the enemy. The battalion was then formed in line of battle and the possession of the shore of the lake finally captured. This was also excellently done and proved very instructive.

On Friday morning reveille was sounded at 5 o'clock; breakfast was served at 5.30; the general was sounded at 6.15 and the regiment left Camp Roe at 8.15. The march was in easy stages, a rest of 40 minutes being made at the water works to enable the wagon train to overtake the regiment. Owing to the very stringent orders relative to the use of private property, I did not consider it practicable or advisable to attempt any field maneuvers on the march. The advance guard, Company "I," under the command of Captain Williams, lost touch with the regiment and travelled faster than it should have done, otherwise the advance guard was satisfactorily performed. The rear guard on the return march was composed of Company "F," commanded by Lieutenant Boynton. The work was very satisfactorily performed. The camp was reached at 11.40; camp was at once pitched and at 2 o'clock the men were under canvass.

On both of the marches a company was detailed to guard the train, Company "K," Captain Hough, on the march out, and Company "C," Captain Robertson on the return. This work was also well done, no members of the convoy putting their rolls or rifles on the wagons.

On Saturday morning the general was sounded at 8.15 and the regiment left the camp at 9.35, waited at Roa Hook for the Forty-seventh Regiment, boarded the train and arrived at its home station at 2.20, when the command was dismissed. An extra car was provided on the way down and the men were much more comfortable than on the trip up.

As to the work of the regiment in camp, I would state as follows:

The general work was excellent. There were a number of minor mistakes and these were corrected as far as possible as soon as they were discovered. The officers and men were very willing and anxious to learn and the regiment showed great improvement during the week. Guard duty was fairly well performed during the entire tour. On every guard there were a number of well instructed men, but also a number of men who needed considerable instruction. Under my direction, the junior officers, non-commissioned officers and enlisted men were put on guard, which resulted in much valuable instruction and probably not as efficient guard duty as would have been done if the older men had been mingled with the newer men.

Health.—The health of the command was excellent throughout the week. Owing to the cool weather, the number of prescriptions put up by the surgeon was much less than at any previous camp of the regiment. But one serious accident occurred; Lieutenant Blauvelt of Company "K" fell, in climbing a stone wall, and severely injured his knee. On the march out three men arrived in camp in the ambulance, but immediately rejoined their companies on reaching camp. On the return march three men entered the ambulance at the foot of the hill going into camp, but immediately joined their commands on reaching the north parade. The men arrived at Camp Roe and at Camp of Instruction in good condition and able to go into action at once if it had been necessary.

Food.—The food served in the mess hall was of excellent quality and much better cooked and of greater variety than heretofore. The addition of eggs to the bill of fare was very greatly appreciated. The food at Camp Roe was of excellent quality, sufficient quantity and well cooked. The use of civilian cooks proved of great benefit to the command.

Policing.—The camps were thoroughly policed, up to the high standard required in years past.

Discipline.—The discipline was excellent during the entire week. No insubordination of any kind occurred and but two men were in the guard house and those only for a few hours. I cannot speak too highly of the cheerfulness and willingness of the officers and men in performing all duties required of them and of the alacrity and quietness with which all work was performed.

The command made the march out with blanket rolls and it was the universal opinion of the men that they were preferable to the packs, as the men carry the weight much easier and the roll, by being shifted, enables the men to ease themselves to a very great extent.

I would respectfully recommend:

1st. That the troops be kept in the permanent camp as short a time as possible and that more time be spent in a camp pitched by the regiment where the food is cooked by the men.

2d. That the regiment, if practicable, be sent to camp every year.

3d. That, if troops are to be camped near Battery Hill, incinerators or sinks be provided in the vicinity of the camp. The sinks of the permanent camp are a long distance off and render much extra walking necessary, which is a hardship to the men, particularly to those suffering from disorders of the stomach.

Where all the officers of the regiment did such satisfactory work, it is difficult to single out any special officer for commendation, but I wish to speak of the work of Captain Wells, who was detailed to command the Second Battalion, and Captain Linson, who was detailed to command the First Battalion. Both of these officers showed marked ability in the exercise of their commands and proved that they were thoroughly capable of handling and commanding the battalions to which they were detailed.

I also want to commend very highly the work of my Adjutant, Captain Lewis L. Clark, Quartermaster W. H. Whittal and Commissary Clarence F. True. These officers were thoroughly adequate to their duties and through their intelligence and efficient work my work was rendered much less and the comfort of the men was greatly increased.

In closing this report, I wish to speak of the uniform courtesy and kindness shown to me and to my command by all of the officers on duty at Headquarters and to express my great gratification at the discretion given to regimental commanders. To my mind it is a long step in the right direction, for the commanding officers of regiments should be placed in command of their regiments and held strictly accountable for their efficiency, as was done at the present encampment.

Respectfully,

W. G. BATES,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS SEVENTY-FIRST REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,

NEW YORK, July 10, 1900.

Adjutant-General, State of New York:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following additional report of the march out of this command, June 20-22, 1900.

I detailed Lieutenant Hunter of Company "H" as engineer officer; Lieutenant Hunter has had experience in making maps and was assistant to Major Austin, engineer officer, Fifth Brigade, when the first topographical map of the Camp of Instruction was made. Lieutenant Hunter made a field map of the route traversed by the regiment from notes taken by himself during the march. I have great pleasure in submitting the map made by Lieutenant Hunter and wish to commend him very highly for the ability and intelligence indicated by it and the care and accuracy shown in its preparation.

Respectfully,

W. G. BATES,

Colonel.

BUFFALO, N. Y., September 22, 1900.

To the Commanding Officer of the Sixty-fifth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to make the following report of tour of field duty made by the Fourth Signal Corps, August 3 to August 11, 1900, inclusive:

In accordance with G. O. No. 7, C. S. Headquarters, New York, and S O. No. 29, Headquarters 4 B., the corps was attached to the Sixty-fifth Regiment for that time. On the evening of August

2, in accordance with company order No. 13, July 28, 1900, the inspection of the corps in field uniform with saddles and equipment was held, after which the quartermaster's wagon was loaded with quartermaster's and commissary's supplies, and signal corps' wagon was loaded with signal property consisting of four signal kits, two complete for day and night signalling, and two without flash lanterns. They were then taken to the Sixty-fifth Regiment armory to be in readiness for the march on August 3. The men were dismissed to report to armory assembly 7.45 a. m., August 3, boots and saddles at 7.55 a. m., and company formed. I then with my command reported to Col. S. M. Welch, Jr., at the armory of the Sixty-fifth Regiment, at 8.15 a. m., as ready to march, and was assigned to the right of the wagon train. At 10 a. m. the march was begun, leaving the armory marched up Broadway to Main street, down Main street to Perry street, to Louisiana street, to Ohio street, over Ohio street swinging bridge to Hamburg turnpike. Here the first stop was made to water horses. March was resumed immediately and arrived at Woodlawn at 12.55 p. m., distance travelled 9.75 miles. Here a halt was made, horses watered and fed and mess eaten by the men. At 2.20 p. m., march was resumed, roads very dusty, weather clear and hot, no casualties or events. Hotel Mortimer was reached at 5.10 p. m., distance travelled 19.75 miles. Horses watered and march resumed at 5.20 p. m., men and horses being in good condition. At 6.45 p. m., Angola was reached, where corps halted for arrival of wagon train. On arrival of wagon train Camp S. M. Welch, Jr., was pitched and mess prepared. After mess the necessary guard was mounted, consisting of two corporals and four men. Horses watered, fed and picketed. Taps, 11 p. m. Distance travelled 24.45 miles.

Camp S. M. Welch, Jr., August 4, 1900. Reveille 5 a. m. Corral cleaned by stable guard and left in good condition. Mess was prepared. After mess camp was struck, wagons loaded, march resumed at 8.35 a. m., and reached camping ground at Farnham, N. Y., at 10 a. m. Distance travelled 29.80 miles. Horses were picketed in the woods, while awaiting the arrival of the Sixty-fifth Regiment by train from Buffalo. Chief signal officer arrived soon after with the Sixty-fifth Regiment.

Camp Theodore Roosevelt was laid out. Lieutenant Russell, Hospital Corps private, reported to surgeon-major as per order No. 38, Headquarters Sixty-fifth Regiment, July 21, 1900. Tents were pitched. Quartermaster's and signal wagons unloaded. Picket lines put up near the lake for horses in accordance with orders from commanding officer. At 4 p. m., a detail of one corporal and three privates constructed a telephone line from the adjutant's tent to the quartermaster's tent. Used the box telephone with reels attached, furnished by the State, the line passing over cook shacks, and one pole cut from woods 20 feet high was set. Work completed at 5.15 p. m. Men reported for other duty. Tents were ditched and streets policed. After mess call for supper men were relieved until tattoo. The stable guard was mounted.

Camp Roosevelt, August 5, 1900. Stable call 6 a. m. At 9 a. m., a detail of four men, commanded by Lieutenant Daggett, constructed a telephone line, using the box portable telephone purchased by me out of the military fund, and the two-conductor cable furnished by the State, connecting the adjutant's tent with the guard tent. A ditch of about 40 feet was dug from the guard tent and the cable buried, then carried along a fence about 400 yards, then another ditch was dug and about 20 feet were buried, then carried along the fence again to the adjutant's tent, where it was again buried for about 20 feet. The telephones were attached and worked well. The work was completed at 11.55 a. m. This being Sunday and the men having been kept at work steadily, they were excused until stable call. At 4.30 p. m., trouble was reported on the telephone line connecting the adjutant's and quartermaster's tent. A detail of one corporal and three privates was sent to find the trouble and repair it. They found that the wire had come in contact with one of the incinerator's chimneys and had been burned off. The cable was repaired and a pole cut from the woods and set up, the cable placed upon it to keep it from getting into the same trouble again. Work was completed at 6.30 p. m. Stable call, horses fed, watered and cleaned. After mess call for supper men were excused until tattoo. At taps everything was quiet.

Camp Roosevelt, August 6, 1900. At sick call one private ordered to quarters, camp policed and tents dressed. Stable call, horses watered, fed and cleaned. At drill call 13 men reported. At 9.50 orders were received to bury 50 feet of the telephone cable connecting the adjutant's tent with the guard tent owing to the opening of a new road into camp, which was necessary to prevent injury to it. This work was completed at 10.10 a. m. At 10.30 a. m., further trouble was reported on the telephone line from adjutant's and quartermaster's tent. A detail of one corporal and two privates was sent out and they found the cable broken near the adjutant's tent and repaired it. The detail had only just reported back to camp when a further report was received of further trouble and the same detail found the cable broken in another place near the same spot. This cable was so light that it would not stand the wind pressure. I therefore, at 11.10 a. m., sent a detail of two corporals and four privates who took down the light cable and disconnected it from the telephone sets and ran a two-conductor cable the same as that used for the guard tent and dug a ditch from the adjutant's tent to the fence, about 20 feet, then through the trees about 300 feet, and then another ditch about 30 feet to the quartermaster's tent. This work was completed at 3.15 p. m., and gave no trouble after it. Stable call, horses watered and fed. At the request of the adjutant of the Sixty-fifth Regiment I instructed Lieutenant Daggett to arrange signal detail for firing of the retreat gun as the parade grounds were such a distance away that the bugle could not be heard. This he did by taking charge of a station near the gun with one private with a signal flag, and sending one corporal and one private to the parade grounds with instructions to send a letter E, and begin sending with the beginning of the last note of the retreat. This was carried out successfully, as the sound of the gun was in time with the last note.

Camp Roosevelt, August 7, 1900. At sick call one sergeant reported sick and was ordered to quarters. One private still sick in quarters, one private on leave. Stable call, horses watered, fed, cleaned and corral cleaned. At 2.10 p. m. a detail of one corporal and three privates had to change cable at guard tent, as the tent was changed to another location near by, and ditched the cable again. This work was completed at 5.20. Four men were engaged in straightening out the two reels of small cable that were snarled up, owing to the flanges that hold the wire on coming off, they being fastened on with six screws only three-eighths of an inch long, the length of wire being about one mile. Stable call, horses fed and watered. Men excused until tattoo. At 10 p. m. a detail of six men, under my command, removed telephone cable connecting Adjutant and Quartermaster's tent, work completed at 10.45 p. m. At the same time a detail of seven men in command of Lieutenant Daggett removed the telephones and cable connecting the Adjutant's and the guard tent. Work was completed at 11.00 p. m. Above details then packed signal wagon preparatory to moving camp next morning.

Camp Roosevelt, August 8, 1900. Reveille at 55 minutes earlier than routine, by reason of moving camp. One sergeant and one private reported from sick in quarters, to duty. Stable call 6.40, horses fed and watered, corral cleaned and the accumulated manure and old bedding left in four piles as per orders of commanding officer, Sixty-fifth Regiment. Officers and men packed personal equipment as per cavalry regulation. At the sound of the general, camp was struck, wagons packed and horses saddled and bridled, and the march begun with the Sixty-fifth Regiment at 9 a. m., this corps having the right of wagon train. Halted at 10.45 a. m., at Bennett's Farm, Angola, N. Y. Horses watered and men given a rest. Day was very warm and hot. No casualties among officers or men in this command. March resumed at 12 o'clock. Halted at 12.59 p. m. March resumed at 1.10 p. m., arrived at Camp Charles F. Roe, at Derby, N. Y., at 1.35 p. m. Horses placed on picket line. Camp was pitched, tents dressed, horses watered, fed and cleaned. After mess men were relieved until 9 p. m., at which time men were ordered to clean equipment and repair uniforms.

Camp Charles F. Roe, August 9, 1900. At sick call no sick reported. Equipment packed, camp policed, corral cleaned, horses fed and watered. No bedding or straw was used here. General sounded at 7 a. m. Wagon trains packed, horses saddled and bridled, and march begun at 8.57 a. m. Halted at 9.20 a. m., march resumed at 9.35 a. m., halted at 10.07 a. m., march resumed at 10.21 a. m. Camp Albert J. Myer was reached at 10.58 a. m. Horses fed, camp was pitched and tents dressed. Drill call sounded at 1.20 p. m. Nine men reported sick and were excused until 5.30 p. m., by order of Captain H. Mead, Assistant Surgeon, Sixty-fifth Regiment; 5.30 eight men reported back from sick. Stable call, horses were watered, fed and cleaned, Corporal Ward was reduced to ranks for disobedience of orders to company order No. 16. Signal stations were again arranged for retreat. The parade grounds being at such a distance and over a hill, it was necessary to have a private climb a telegraph pole to send signal, as heretofore described, and was successfully performed.

Camp Albert J. Myer, August 10, 1900. At sick call one sergeant and one corporal ordered sick to quarters. Stable call, horses watered and fed, and corral cleaned. Orders issued to have a signal detail of four men in command of Lieutenant Daggett with signal wagon and driver, two-third ration each and feed for three horses to proceed up the lake shore and open a signal station at 2 p. m., and communicate with camp. Detail left at 10.05 a. m., with complete kit of signal equipment and rations. In the meantime a detail of one corporal with five men at camp was to run a field telephone line to a high bluff one-half mile from the camp, where it established a lookout station, thence down to the signal officer's tent, which was completed by 1.15 p. m. At 2.05 p. m. signal party was discovered some two miles up the lake calling the home station with heliograph. Upon being answered the following message was received: "Camp Idlewood, August 10th. To Captain Charles Plumb, Camp Myer:

We have through communication with Buffalo. (Signed) Lieutenant Daggett." Upon being asked by what means, Lieutenant Daggett reported he had established a station near a Bell long distance telephone, and was prepared to transmit messages from camp through to any points on the Bell line. Practice messages were sent until 6.30 p. m., when stations were closed temporarily for supper. At 8.30 practice was again begun with flash lantern, continuing until 10 p. m., when home station was closed and telephone line taken up. Lieutenant Daggett and detail reported in at 12 o'clock.

Camp Myer, August 11, 1900. At sick call, one sergeant, one corporal, two privates reported sick in quarters. At stable call the corps corral was carefully cleaned, and old bedding and manure left in piles to the left of the middle of the corral. Horses watered, fed and cleaned. Equipments were packed and camp prepared to leave. General sounded at 1.30 p. m. Wagons packed, horses saddled and bridled. Mounted inspection was then held until 2.30 p. m., equipment, haversacks and canteens thoroughly examined. No losses or contraband articles found. Lieutenant Russell, Assistant Surgeon with Hospital Corps, private, reported back from Sixty-fifth Regiment, this making three officers and fifteen enlisted men with two wagons, four enlisted men being sick and ordered to ride on train with Sixty-fifth Regiment. At 4.20 p. m. order was given to march, with Signal Corps on right of wagon train. Stop was made at Bay View to water horses, and at Blasdell to eat cold rations, supper previously provided. Buffalo was reached at 6 o'clock. Wagon train ordered to report at Sixty-fifth Arsenal. Mounted troops rode to New York Central and Hudson River Railroad depot at Exchange street, waited the arrival of the regiment. Upon its arrival I reported to the commanding officer and escorted them to the arsenal, after which corps took their wagons and went to their quarters, where horses were unsaddled and given over to the stable men, equipment being taken up to the armory. After roll-call wagons were unloaded, men were then paid off and dismissed. Orders No. 38, No. 45 and No. 41 of the Sixty-fifth Regiment, also memorandum of field service, orders No. 13, No. 14, No. 15 and No. 16 of Signal Corps, N. G., N. Y., and details are herewith attached.

Experience in this tour of duty has shown that the field telephones issued by the State, with the cable and reel attached, are unfit for aerial line construction, the cable being so light that the ordinary wind pressure is sufficient to break it, and therefore making continual interruption and repairs necessary. Another disadvantage in using apparatus of this class, it makes a multiplicity of stations at the central office or headquarters, when by having a central station switchboard, with drop and clearing-out switches, with accommodations for ten or twenty lines and as many local stations as may be desired, you have direct communication with headquarters and through headquarters to any other stations. There are cases, however, where individual telephones can be used, and that is where camping or bivouacking for one night, or where only two stations are necessary, but even in that case it would be much better to have the wire and reel independent of the telephone station proper. The telegraph batteries sent upon requisition were not used on this tour of duty, as some of the jars were broken.

Attached is a map showing the signal stations and camps, and also a blue print of a signal detachment near Idlewood.

I wish to say that the men throughout behaved themselves very well indeed. There were no depredations of any kind. Most of the men, it being their first time of doing such duty and the hard riding on the first day, accounts for the amount of sickness that was had.

I am of the opinion that another tour of duty would do much to improve this branch of the service, but to make it more efficient in signal work I would suggest that only a few horses be taken.

In conclusion I desire to express my gratitude to the Chief Signal Officer for much valuable information given me, also to commend the quartermaster-sergeant for the efficient manner in which he performed his arduous duties, and while the work done by the men of this corps was not all it should be, I feel that the experience gained in this duty would be greatly improved upon should we be allowed to continue these practice marches.

Respectfully,

CHARLES PLUMB,
Captain.

HEADQUARTERS, SIXTY-FIFTH REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,
BUFFALO, September 22, 1900.

The Assistant Adjutant-General, Fourth Brigade, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of the tour of field service performed by this regiment pursuant to G. O., No. 7, c. s., Headquarters, N. G., N. Y., and S. O., No. 29, c. s., 4'B.

For the reasons stated in my report of a similar tour of duty, performed in 1897, and in the report of plan for field service submitted July 11, 1900, the territory selected and route of march adopted were the same used and taken in 1897.

The wagon train, consisting of eighteen wagons loaned by the Adjutant-General, one ambulance, loaned by the C. O. Fourth Brigade, and two incinerators, in charge of Battalion and Acting Regimental Quartermaster Bixby, with a guard of twenty-nine enlisted men, commanded by Lieutenant Walter E. Pagan, and accompanied by the Fourth Signal Corps, Captain Charles Plumb, attached to the regiment for this tour of duty, per S. O. 29, 4'B., left the armory at 10 a. m., Friday, August 3, 1900, and proceeded to the village of Angola, 24 45-100 miles from home station, which was reached at 7 p. m. The train was parked, and the troops encamped for the night. The train, with guard and Signal Corps, left Angola at 8.35 a. m., August 4th, and reached Camp Theodore Roosevelt, at Farnham, 5 35-100 miles, at 10 a. m., and awaited the arrival of the regiment.

The regiment assembled for inspection, uniformed and equipped as prescribed in R. O. No. 38, herewith transmitted, at 8.25 p. m.,

August 3d, and reassembled in same uniform and equipment at 8.15 a. m., August 4th.

Total present: Officers, 33; enlisted men, 436.

Absent: Officers, 4; enlisted men, 57.

The regimental band of 35 pieces accompanied the command. Leaving the armory at 8.54 a. m., the regiment marched via Elliott, Chippewa, Main and Exchange streets, to the New York Central depot, arriving at 9.31 a. m. The first battalion was loaded at 9.33, and the second at 9.34 a. m.

The train left at 9.35 a. m., via Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway, arriving at Farnham station at 10.19 a. m. The first battalion detrained in three, and the second in three and a half minutes. Company "D" was detailed for advance, and Company "F" for rear guard. The regiment moved at 10.53 a. m., and marched directly to the Kelderhouse farm on the lake shore, arriving at 11.50 a. m.; the distance being but three miles, and the day cool, no halts were made.

The camp site was in a level meadow, about five hundred feet wide and one-half mile long, running from the lake shore to the main road. The regiment formed column, stacked arms, pitched tents on the alignment of the stacks, the company kitchens on the right and officers tents on the left of the column, field and staff tents at the head of the column on the edge of a bluff overlooking the lake shore. The guard, which had been mounted at the armory on the 3d, was immediately posted. No drills were ordered. Regimental parade and guard mount at the hours specified in R. O. No. 41.

Sunday, August 5th, drills were dispensed with. Company inspection in uniform specified in R. O. No. 38, at 8 a. m.; divine service at 10.30 a. m. Officers' school, conducted by the commanding officer, and guard school by the regimental adjutant, at 2 p. m. These schools were conducted daily throughout the tour, except August 8th and 11th. Schools for instruction in field sketching, map making and reconnaissance, conducted by Major Charles E. P. Babcock, were also held. Regimental parade and guard mounting concluded the day's work.

August 6th: Morning drill, the companies in close order. Afternoon drill, battalions in close order. Regimental parade and guard mounting.

August 7th: Morning drill, squad and section in extended order; in the afternoon, companies in extended order. Regimental parade and guard mounting.

August 8th: The general sounded at 7.06 a. m. Company "I" was detailed as advance guard for the first half, and Company "H" for the second half of the march; Company "A" for the first half, and Company "B" for the second half, as rear guard. The regiment moved at 8.58 a. m., halting at 9.30 a. m., for fourteen minutes, then marching until 10.35 a. m. The day was hot and the roads dusty, but little breeze. During this march a number of men were slightly overcome by the heat, in a majority of the cases this condition was contributed to by an excessive use of water. The object lesson was of value, and the water habit was much less pronounced during the remainder of the tour. In order to allow the men to recuperate the command was halted until 11.52 a. m., marched until 12.16 p. m., again halting for eleven minutes, marched until 12.52, halting for ten minutes, and arriving at the site of Camp Charles F. Roe on the Ingersoll farm, near Derby, at 1.30 p. m., the rear guard at 1.45 p. m. The tents were again pitched in column on the alignment of the stacks, company officers, and the field and staff on the right, company kitchens on the left. Guard mounting as usual. No drills or evening parade.

August 9th: Reveille at 5 a. m., general at 7 a. m. Company "G" as advance guard moved at 8.40 a. m., and the regiment at 8.57 a. m. The weather being exceedingly sultry and the roads very dusty, halts of ten minutes were made half-hourly. The regiment arrived at the site of Camp Albert J. Myer, on the farm of Colonel Albert J. Myer, at 10.40 a. m. Company "C", detailed as rear guard, arriving at 10.50 a. m.

Inspection by companies in prescribed uniform at 2 p. m. No drills. Regimental parade and guard mounting as usual.

August 10th: Morning drill, companies in extended order; afternoon, battalions in extended order; both drills with blank ammunition. Regimental parade and guard mounting as usual.

August 11th: Morning drill, companies in extended order, with blank ammunition. Camp was broken after the noon mess, general sounding at 1.30 p. m. The wagon train was loaded and started for Buffalo at 2.45 p. m., with guard, and accompanied by the Fourth Signal Corps. Packs and equipments were left in company streets, and at 3.30 p. m. the last drill of the tour was held, being by battalions in extended order, with blank ammunition. Mess call was sounded at 5.15 p. m., the command was furnished with a cold supper and hot coffee. Regimental parade was held at 5.45 p. m., in uniform prescribed in R. O. No. 38, and at the conclusion thereof the regiment moved directly to Lakeview station, arriving at 6.40 p. m., left for Buffalo via Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway at 7.10 p. m., arriving at Buffalo 7.35 p. m. The regiment detrained in two minutes, and at 7.40 p. m., moved out of the station and marched to the armory via Washington, Exchange, Main, Chippewa and Ellicott streets, and Broadway, arriving at 8.08 p. m.

The pay-checks had been previously delivered to the commanding officer by Colonel Chauncey P. Williams, Assistant Adjutant-General, and were delivered to the members of the regiment after the property had been accounted for, after which the regiment was dismissed.

The water supply on former tours of field service, while sufficient in amount if used carefully, was never satisfactory. For this tour a special apparatus was devised consisting of a rotary pump, an engine with gasoline vaporizer and Edison-Lalande automobile cells; engine and pump were bolted to a wood frame, to which was also bolted a hand pump for a relay, and the whole bolted to the floor of a spring wagon, 12 feet of suction hose, 125 feet of iron pipe with foot valve supported on a stand, 100 feet 1½-inch four-ply delivery hose, and a portable tank of 277 gallons capacity, mounted on a low, broad-wheeled farm truck. The apparatus preceded the regiment, the wagon carrying hose, pipe, tools, all necessary supplies, and towing the empty tank, which on arrival at the camp site was placed on the bluff, the height above water level at the three camps being 33, 20 and 49 feet respectively. Water was pumped directly into the tank and delivered to the companies as often as needed. The average amount pumped per day was 4,000 gallons, furnishing an ample supply of the best quality. Help required, one engineer, two helpers, one driver and team.

Two incinerators were furnished the regiment. Each was drawn by two teams, one assigned to each battalion, and placed on the flank of the camp, well in rear of company kitchens. Their use saved the labor of digging company or battalion sinks, and they accomplished the work for which they were built in a most satisfactory manner; the number allowed was insufficient by at least one-half. For details concerning incinerators, I refer to the report of Major Albert H. Briggs, Surgeon, herewith transmitted. My observation of the incinerators convinces me that they are a success, and I recommend their use in all camps of instruction, and on all tours of field service where it is practical to transport them.

In 1897 I reported as follows: "The affairs of the Quartermaster, Commissary and Medical Departments were well conducted, and I am satisfied that with the experience gained, the officers in charge of these departments are prepared for any ordinary emergency." The experience of the regiment in 1898 proved that this statement was correct. I am pleased to be able to reiterate it.

The behavior of the command was, as heretofore, excellent. But one man was confined in the guard house for a short time for a minor offense, which proved to be entirely due to a misunderstanding of orders. Personal expressions of residents of the country through which we marched justify me in saying that the regiment will be heartily welcomed if the same route is again chosen. My opinion, expressed in previous reports, as to the benefit of field service, is strengthened by the result of this year's work. Until such time as this command shall lose such a proportion of its rank and file as to make a reorganization necessary, it will be a waste of time and money to send it to the State Camp for duty. I repeat the recommendation made in previous reports, that if the regiment is again ordered for field service, the time be increased to at least ten days.

I enclose reports of Captain Charles Plumb, Fourth Signal Corps, marked "A"; Albert H. Briggs, Major and Surgeon, "B"; orders and memoranda for field service, "C", "D", "E"; reconnaissance maps, "F", "G", "H".

Respectfully,

SAMUEL M. WELCH, JR.,

Colonel.

were stacked. Command marched to State Park Hotel and messed at 1.35 p. m.

Thirteenth Separate Company left Jamestown, via. N. Y. C. & H. R. Ry., at 9.30 a. m., with four officers, 70 enlisted men, and two cooks, arriving at Niagara Falls at 2.10 p. m. Command assembled and marched to Prospect Park, where arms were stacked and command marched to State Park Hotel and messed at 2.20 p. m.

Forty-second Separate Company left their armory at 1.30 p. m., with four officers, 66 enlisted men, two cooks and one servant, and marched to Prospect Park, where arms were stacked and command dismissed.

Forty-third Separate Company left Olean, via. Erie Ry., at 9 a. m., with three officers, 71 enlisted men, two cooks and one servant, arriving at Niagara Falls at 2.20 p. m., marched to Prospect Park, where arms were stacked and command marched to Tower Hotel and messed at 2.35 p. m.

Battalion assembled at 3.30 p. m. for parade. Upon the conclusion of a short street parade, a battalion parade was held upon the State reservation. The battalion marched to the foot of Falls street, where it was halted and boarded Gorge route cars for Youngstown at 5 p. m., arriving at Youngstown at 6 p. m.

The battalion formed column of companies and stacked arms and the work of pitching camp began at once. Upon the completion of pitching tents the battalion messed at 8.10 p. m., and taps sounded at 10.30 p. m.

July 22, companies were assembled at 10 a. m. for company inspection, supervised by the commanding officer. Afternoon drill was omitted. Guard mount was held at 5.15 p. m., and evening parade at 6.15 p. m.

July 23, companies assembled at 7.50 a. m., and drilled in close order.

Battalion assembled at 1.30 p. m., and drilled in extended order. Evening parade was held at 5.15 p. m. Guard mount at 6.15 p. m.

July 24, reveille sounded at 4.30 a. m. Mess call for breakfast at 5.20 a. m.; immediately after mess the general was sounded and camp struck, wagons were loaded immediately. Battalion formed on the parade at Camp Niagara. The advance guard under command of Captain Ross, Company "F," left Camp Niagara at 7.46 a. m., followed by main column at 7.53. The rear guard was under command of Captain Franchot, Company "I," and followed the main column. The battalion marched east along the lake road, and was halted at 8.15 and a 10-minute rest given. The march was resumed at 8.25, and a rest was given at 8.55 for 14 minutes. Command moved forward at 9.09, was halted at 9.45 and a rest of 6 minutes was given. The march was resumed at 9.51 and the Akin Farm was reached at 10.25, where second camp (Camp Hoffman) was established. Wagons were unloaded immediately and camp pitched. Upon the completion of pitching tents, mess call for dinner was sounded at 12.25. Afternoon drill was omitted. Evening parade was held at 5.15 p. m., and guard mount at 6.15 p. m.

July 25, on account of rain, morning drill was omitted.

Battalion was consolidated into three companies at 2.10 p. m., and drilled in extended order. Evening parade was held at 5.15, guard mount at 6.15 p. m.

July 26, reveille sounded at 4.30 a. m. Mess call for breakfast sounded at 5.15 a. m. The general was sounded at 6.11, camp struck and wagons loaded immediately. Battalion assembled at 7.04 a. m. The advance guard under command of Captain Fenton, Company "N," left Camp Hoffman (Akin Farm) at 7.12, followed by main column at 7.19. The rear guard, under command of Captain Shepard, followed main column. Command moved east along lake road and was halted at 7.44, and a 6-minute rest was given. Column moved forward at 7.50, and was halted at 8.24, when a 14-minute rest was given. Column moved at 8.38, and was halted at 9.06 and a 15-minute rest was given. Column moved at 9.21, and was halted at 9.29, and a 4-minute rest was given. Column moved at 9.33 and was halted at ferry at Wilson at 9.40. The battalion was ferried across the creek to Lake Island Park on a large wooden scow. The time consumed in ferrying battalion and wagons across the creek was two hours and forty-five minutes.

Wagons were unpacked at 12.25, and the pitching of third camp (Camp Wilson) began. Upon the completion of pitching camp, the battalion messed at 2 p. m. Afternoon drill was omitted. Evening parade was held at 5.15 and guard mount at 6.15 p. m.

July 27, reveille sounded at 5.45 a. m. Companies assembled for drill at 8 a. m., and drilled in close order. Manual of arms, loadings and firings with blank cartridges.

Battalion assembled at 1.30 p. m., and drilled in close order, followed by loadings and firings with blank cartridges.

Battalion assembled for parade at 5.15, and guard mount was held at 6.15 p. m.

July 28th, reveille sounded at 5.45 a. m., and mess call for breakfast at 6.45 a. m. The general sounded at 7.39, and wagons were packed immediately and ferried across the creek. The time consumed in ferrying wagons across was two hours and twenty-five minutes. The battalion formed at 10.04, and moved to ferry, leaving ferry for Wilson station at 10.47, arriving at Wilson station at 11.28. Baggage wagons and ambulance were not loaded, but sent by teams to Buffalo and delivered to commanding officer, Sixty-fifth Regiment, N. G., N. Y. Battalion entrained at 11.35. A delay of 50 minutes was caused on account of having to switch extra cars on troop train. Train left Wilson station at 12.25 p. m., arriving at Niagara Falls at 1.15 p. m., where battalion was dismissed and companies returned to their home stations.

Twenty-ninth Separate Company left Niagara Falls, via N. Y. C. & H. R. Ry., at 1.45 p. m., arriving at Medina at 3.15 p. m.

Twenty-fifth Separate Company left Niagara Falls at 2.10 p. m., via N. Y. C. & H. R. Ry., arriving at Tonawanda at 2.35 p. m.

Thirteenth Separate Company left Niagara Falls at 2.10 p. m., via N. Y. C. & H. R. Ry., arriving at Jamestown at 6.30 p. m.

Forty-third Separate Company left Niagara Falls at 3.10 p. m., via Erie Ry., and arrived at Olean at 9.30 p. m.

Forty-second Separate Company left N. Y. C. station at 1.30 p. m., and arrived at their armory at 2 p. m.

Respectfully,

MIGHELLS B. BUTLER,

Majr.

GENEVA, N. Y., August 20, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fourth Brigade, N. G., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Sir.—In compliance with orders I have the honor to submit the following report of the tour of field service of the Second Battalion, from August 4th to August 11th. Copies of orders relating to same are attached. Also field map.

The companies did not reach Lakeville at 9. a. m. on the 4th as planned, owing to defective railroad service. The first company to arrive was on the ground at 8.30, and the last not until nearly 10.30. Coffee was made and a meal was served to the companies. At 11 a. m. the column started on its march arriving at camp Wm. M. Kirby, at Long Point about five and one-half miles south of Lakeville, on the west shore of Conesus lake about 1 p. m. Several short rests were made on this march, the weather being very hot and the roads extremely dusty.

The time occupied in making this camp showed that both officers and men needed instruction and practice in properly loading baggage and laying out and pitching camp. Supper was served on time and the battalion formed for parade at the prescribed hour.

On the 5th, being Sunday, the only military duty required was guard mounting, Sunday morning inspection of the battalion and evening parade. The early morning drill on the 6th was devoted to the platoon and the company in extended order. The forenoon drill to various movements in the school of the battalion. The object aimed at particularly in the drills of this day being to ascertain, so far as possible, the exact proficiency in each company, in order to arrange the work for the following days, so as to accomplish the best results.

On Tuesday the programme was carried out as ordered. Camp was struck in a satisfactory manner. Baggage was loaded systematically and expeditiously. At 8 a. m. the march was taken up toward the south. The weather even at this early hour was excessively hot and more frequent rests were made than I should have deemed necessary or advisable in ordinary moderate weather. Right here I will say, that on none of the marches was a man allowed to fall out or to leave the column, and on none was a man brought in on the ambulance, excepting in the case of one man, who by the direction of the surgeon, made the entire third march in the ambulance.

About 9 a. m. the column arrived at Camp Horace Webster, at Cottonwood Point, two and one-half miles south. The making of this camp was very much more satisfactory. One company had its street complete in thirty-five minutes. Had not one wagon met with an accident, the camp would have been made complete in 45 minutes, as it was, the time was about one hour.

At this time and place I decided to make a change in my plans and to remain in this camp until Tuesday p. m. A great majority of the men were recruits. One company having only six men who had been in the United States volunteer service and twelve who had been at Peekskill. The other companies being nearly as strong in their proportion of recruits. I decided that what the battalion needed most, was a course of hard thorough systematic drill, very similar to what used to be prescribed at Peekskill. For this reason I gave up work in the battalion extension and a march and a reconnaissance, coupled with drills in the battalion extension, in light marching order which I had planned and in which the men were to carry two-thirds uncooked ration and cook same with mess kits. This work was omitted with regret and not because its importance and value were not appreciated, but because a few of many things could only be done and the choice had to be made as to what was best adapted to the present needs of the battalion.

This camp was an ideal location for work in the company and battalion drill, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, careful and hard work was done on drill. The extremely hot weather, in my opinion, made it unsafe to have extra afternoon drills, but no regular drills were omitted. While everything desired was not accomplished, I feel that creditable and satisfactory results were obtained.

On Thursday, the battalion was reviewed by Major Wm. M. Kirby. The march past in review, especially in double time, was in my opinion highly creditable and showed that considerable had been accomplished.

On Friday p. m. camp was broken and about 2.30 the battalion marched three and one-half miles north to Camp Henry C. Wadsworth, at Eagle Point. Although the heat was excessive and this march followed a hard forenoon drill, not a man fell out. The wagons were loaded in much better shape than ever before. The column reached the new camp about 4 p. m. In less than 24 minutes, one company was fully settled and had its supper cooking. This camp was made in a most satisfactory manner and in about 45 minutes was fully completed. All suppers were served promptly on time at 5.30.

As some of the companies would have long and tedious railroad journeys I decided to march to Lakeville Saturday morning. Camp was broken and the column put in march at 9 a. m. On this march advance and rear guards were formed in a satisfactory manner. Dinner was cooked and served at Lakeville at 1.30 p. m., after which the men gave their time to field sports. At 3.50 p. m. the assembly sounded and at 4 p. m. the first train to leave was ready.

I cannot speak too highly of the satisfactory manner in which Second Lieutenant Geo. E. Gasper of the Thirty-fourth Separate Company performed his duties as Commissary of Subsistence. The men were well fed with an abundance of the best food. To the wise selection of rations, I attribute to a large extent the healthfulness of the command. In this connection I wish to note that not one meal was even one minute late during the tour of duty.

The detail for guard was open to the criticism of being large, but in my opinion instruction in this duty is very important and for this reason a large guard in proportion to the strength of the battalion was ordered.

The policing of the various camps were good. All refuse of every kind was burned and the camps were kept absolutely clean.

While no long marches were made, the men learned how to march. They learned what baggage to take, how to pack it, how to make and break camp, how to keep a camp clean and healthful; and further, that absolute discipline could be maintained under such conditions. In addition to the above points peculiar to such a march in comparison with a tour of duty at Peekskill, I believe that the progress in drill alone, was such as to compensate for the expense of mobilizing the battalion.

Respectfully,

WM. WILSON,

Major.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD BATTALION INFANTRY, N. G., N. Y.,

OSWEGO, N. Y., August 11, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, Fourth Brigade, N. G., N. Y., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have to report as follows concerning the tour of field service of this command, performed pursuant to General Orders No. 7 c. s. Headquarters National Guard, and S. O. 29 Headquarters Fourth Brigade, July 21 to July 28, inclusive:

Upon receipt of information from headquarters National Guard that such service would be required, I proceeded to carefully consider a line of march, and dates for the tour of service, after advising with company commanders. The route selected and approved, as offering the most advantageous features, was along the shore of Lake Ontario, west from Oswego, to North Fair Haven, distance about 16 miles. It would seem difficult to find a territory better suited to this service, because (1) it afforded the minimum cost of transportation to the point of mobilization, and (2) it permitted all preparations to go forward under the personal supervision of the battalion commander; (3) the route afforded excellent bathing facilities at each camp, the purest water supply and an accessible basis of supplies; (4) every opportunity was afforded for the evolutions of the battalion in close or extended order, without damage to property, and with the consent of the property owners, without cost to the State; (5) the location of the camp at North Fair Haven afforded opportunity to return the various companies to their home stations by two direct rail routes.

The schedule arranged contemplated that the battalion should mobilize at the post of the Forty-eighth Separate Company, Oswego, N. Y., at 12.30 p. m. on Saturday, July 21, the Thirtieth Separate Company to leave home station via the Lehigh Valley railroad July 21 (train 321), at 6.50 a. m., arriving at Auburn at 10.20 a. m., where the Second Separate Company was to join the train, which was then to proceed via the N. Y. C. & H. R. railroad to Syracuse, arriving at 11.25 a. m. At Syracuse the Forty-first Separate Company was to join the train, which was to leave for Oswego, via N. Y. C. & H. R. railroad at 11.30, arriving at Oswego at 12.30 p. m.

Arrangements for the entire transportation were made with the N. Y. C. & H. R. railroad. The train to which the cars of the Thirtieth Separate Company were attached, was delayed at various points en route to Auburn, and it did not arrive at Oswego, with the Second Separate Company and the Forty-first Separate Company until nearly 3 p. m., more than two hours late. The troops detrained at the Oswego armory and wagons were immediately loaded.

The wagon train consisted of eight wagons and one ambulance. The wagons and boxes were all alike, painted the same color, with the letters "S. N. Y." on the side, equipped with bows for canvas covers, chains for use as brakes or for doubling up teams over hills, water pails, feed bags, etc. All were obtained in Oswego, and equipped and arranged under the supervision of the battalion commander. They were almost a counterpart of government wagons. The wagons, harnesses and teams were inspected at noon on July 21, before the start, and not one break or accident to either, beyond the shifting of a load, occurred on the march.

The route selected contemplated a march from the Oswego armory, on Saturday, July 21, to a point on the lake shore, three miles west from Oswego, where station was taken until Monday, July 23; thence west to the Woodworth farm, where the command was to go into camp for one night; thence west to North Fair Haven.

Owing to the unfortunate delay on the railroad, the start from Oswego was delayed until 4 p. m. The wagons were reported loaded at 3.58 and the battalion moved at 4 p. m. Camp "Nathaniel B. Thurston" was reached, without incident, at 5.25 p. m. There were four halts of five minutes each on the way. After clearing the thickly settled portion of the city, advance and rear guards were thrown out. On arrival at Camp Thurston, the advance guard was sent out via three different roads to the west and south on outpost duty and the rear guard acted in the same capacity to the east and south, until camp was pitched, when they were called in. It required something more than an hour to pitch the first camp. Three days' rations had been issued to each company before leaving Oswego, and the menu prescribed for each meal. Evening parade was omitted, owing to the delay above referred to, but supper was cooked and served but little beyond the prescribed hour. The camp was pitched as prescribed in regulations.

The command remained at Camp Thurston until Monday, July 23. No restrictions were placed on the men and, much to the gratification of the commanding officer, not one unseemly act was reported and there were no patients in the hospital. The camp was at the terminus of a trolley line connecting with the city of Oswego and thousands of persons visited the camp on Sunday to witness the evening parade, which was reviewed by the senior captain, Captain John G. Butler, of the Forty-first Separate Company of Syracuse. The camp guard consisted of one officer of the day, one officer of the guard, one sergeant of the guard, three corporals and twelve men.

On the morning of July 23, struck camp at 7.05. The wagons were reported ready at 8, and assembly was sounded at 8.02. The start for Camp "Edward M. Hoffman," at Nine Mile creek, was made at 8.15. Advance and rear guards were thrown out, as on previous march, but flankers had to be frequently called in on account of growing crops of grain. Camp Hoffman, located on the Woodworth farm, was reached at 10.45, after a long rest at 10 a. m. to enable the teams to double over a heavy hill. The camp was one-half mile from the road, in a 100-acre field, on the shore of the lake. The battalion was formed in close column of companies, arms stacked and wagons unloaded on the left flank. The entire train was on the ground within five minutes after the arrival of the column. Camp was pitched in much better order and time than at the previous camp. Wood and straw had been provided and water was obtained from the wells on the Woodworth farm, the proprietor of which extended every possible privilege and courtesy. Dinner and supper were provided at the prescribed hours and evening parade was received by Captain John T. Sadler, Thirtieth Separate Company. No sick.

On July 24 camp was struck at 6.55 a. m. Wagons were reported ready at 7.30, assembly was at 7.35 and the start for Camp "Frank A. Eldridge" was made at 7.43. This was the hardest stage of the march.

The distance was about ten miles and the road good, but hilly, it being necessary to double over five hills. Extra teams were procured for this purpose. Frequent halts were made, two of 45 minutes duration each, while the wagon train was being brought into place. Companies were notified to carry a third of a ration of liquid coffee. Owing to the delay in getting the wagon train along, Camp Eldridge was not reached until 2.12 p. m. Acting Adjutant Thurber A. Brown, with a detachment from the advance guard, had staked the ground. All the wagons were on the ground two minutes after the column and in 59 minutes the entire camp was pitched and the wagons, with the exception of the water wagon, parked.

This camp was in an ideal spot, on a high plateau, with water on three sides, with a fine sand beach to the north, on Lake Ontario, affording excellent bathing facilities. The camp was pitched strictly in accordance with regulations. A fine drill field, large enough to accommodate the battalion, was available on the south, with two other large fields, suitable for extended order work on the east. Here the camp guard was increased to 16 enlisted men, with an outpost at the bathing beach, kept on duty from reveille until taps. All men bathing were required to wear bathing trunks. On the night of the 24th and nearly all day of the 25th, there was a heavy rainfall. Evening parade was omitted. On the afternoon of the 25th battalion drill in close order was had and the weather cleared for evening parade. Work began in earnest the next morning. Early morning drills were held, with morning and afternoon drills by battalion. The regular program was followed on the 27th, with extended order drill by companies and close order by battalion. On the afternoon of the 27th Adjutant-General Edward M. Hoffman, with Major W. M. Kirby, A. I. S. A. P., with Major William Wilson visited the camp. The battalion was reviewed by Lieutenant-Colonel N. B. Thurston, I. S. A. P., who was detailed as inspector from General Headquarters.

The battalion athletic contests followed.

The regular scheduled drills were had on Saturday, July 28, and camp was struck at 1 p. m. The Second and Thirtieth Separate Companies left camp at 2.38 p. m. for home stations via special train on the Lehigh Valley railroad, and four wagons were started for Oswego. The Forty-first and Forty-eighth companies left camp at 5 p. m. and proceeded via Lehigh Valley and Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg railroads to Oswego, the Forty-first Company continuing to Syracuse at 9 p. m. The remaining four wagons and the ambulance left camp at 5 p. m., for Oswego, arriving at 9.35 p. m.

The commanding officer is gratified to report that the behavior of the command during the entire tour was excellent in every respect. Not one complaint of unseemly conduct reached these headquarters from any source, and the guard reports show only one man in the guard house, a musician, for a trifling offense. During the march there was not one straggler. The column was kept well closed up at all times. Assurances were given by people living along the route and at Fair Haven, that should the battalion return another season it would receive a hearty welcome. I am satisfied that the tour was of great benefit to all. Very satisfactory improvement was noted in drill and I consider that, in view of the fact that there were many recruits in the ranks of all companies, the guard duty was very well performed.

It is gratifying to note that the health of the command was excellent throughout. Only one serious case of illness occurred during the tour, that of Private Inlay, of the Forty-eighth Separate Company, who was threatened with typhoid fever, and who, it appears, had been indisposed before leaving Oswego. He was returned to Oswego by boat and was cared for at the Oswego Hospital, from which institution he was soon discharged.

I desire to commend most heartily, First Lieutenant Thurber A. Brown, Thirtieth Separate Company, Acting Adjutant; First Lieutenant William Verbeck, Forty-first Separate Company, Acting Commissary; First Lieutenant Edgar S. Jennings, Second Separate Company, Acting Quartermaster, and Captain and Assistant Surgeon Henry Clay Baum, for the very efficient manner in which they conducted the affairs of their various departments. The thoroughness and care with which they performed their duties contributed in no small degree to the success of the tour. All commissary and quartermaster supplies were delivered promptly at the various camps and issued without delay. Clean straw was provided for the tents at all camps. The cost of the rations was within the prescribed limit, thirty-three cents per man per day, and, as will be seen by the menu prescribed in orders, hereto annexed, the ration was ample.

The commanding officer is indebted in no small degree to Lieutenant-Colonel Nathaniel B. Thurston, I. S. A. P., detailed by General Headquarters to accompany the command, and to Captain Theodore B. Sheldon, Assistant I. S. A. P., Fourth Brigade, who was detailed from Brigade Headquarters. These officers were at all times courteous and helpful, and their kindly advice was of the utmost value.

Second Lieutenant Clarence S. Wright, Thirty-ninth Separate Company, was detailed for duty during the tour with the Forty-eighth Separate Company, and performed all duties assigned him with credit to himself and his company.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of many courtesies from Mr. Carey Woodworth, Frank A. Eldridge and the officials and residents of Fair Haven and North Fair Haven, all of whom did many things to contribute to the convenience and pleasure of officers and men.

I am decidedly of the opinion that service of this kind is much more practical and beneficial, more interesting and pleasing to the men and more economical to the State than duty at the State Camp of Instruction. Copies of orders issued concerning this tour and a map of the line of march are herewith forwarded.

Respectfully,

A. M. HALL,
Major.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.

TROY, N. Y., September 24, 1900.

Assistant Adjutant-General, Third Brigade, N. G., N. Y., Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to respectfully submit the following report of the tour of field service of the several organizations under my command as per S. O. No. 21, C. S., Headquarters Third Brigade, consisting of the Second Regiment, Tenth Battalion and Third Signal Corps. The time selected for such service was from August 18th to 25th, inclusive, and the several camps and forms of service fully enumerated in R. O. No. 241 (copy hereto annexed.)

The Second Regiment assembled at Troy, Saturday, August 18th. The column was to start at 9.30 a. m., but owing to the special train bearing the first battalion, consisting of Companies "E" and "F" of Schenectady, "G" of Mohawk and "H" of Amsterdam, being one hour and five minutes late, it did not start until 10.30 a. m. Previous to the start the canteens were filled with pure spring water from the Mammoth Springs. The column was headed by Dorings band and regimental field music. The wagon train in rear followed by the rear guard under Captain Vunk, proceeded via Spring avenue road (the only available one), which was between a range of high hills. Very little air was stirring. The weather was quite warm. At 11.15 a. m. a halt of ten minutes was made. On arriving at the top of the hill at 11.35 a. m., a halt was made in the shade. At 11.50 a. m. Company "D," Twenty-first Separate Company, under command of Captain Galbraith, preceded the column to Albia, having been instructed to form the advance guard from that point. The main column resumed the march at 12.03 p. m. Arrived at village of Wynantskill at 12.45, where officers call was sounded and additional instructions given. March was again resumed at 12.55; arriving at Snyders Corners. The regiment was massed in a grove called Willow Glen, where a halt was made for one hour and ten minutes for dinner. An abundant supply of pure water was furnished by the Flint Spring Co. Many took advantage of the large creek running through the grove and refreshed themselves in its cooling waters. At 2.55 p. m., Company "C," Twelfth Separate Company, Captain Baker started and formed the advance guard. At 3 p. m., the main body started, arriving at West Sandlake at 3.50 p. m., proceeded to the fair grounds and the regiment formed in column of companies at reduced intervals, arms stacked, and in a very short time tents were up and camp established. The Third Signal Corps reported at 3.55, and immediately went into camp. At 5.40 p. m., evening parade was held in line, after which the regiment passed in review on the race track in column of platoons. The parade and review was finely executed and greatly admired by a large concourse of people who had gathered in the grand stand. Supper was served immediately after. Nothing of special interest occurred during the evening. Taps were sounded at 11 p. m., and quiet prevailed.

August 19th, reveille was sounded at 5.30 a. m., sick call 5.45, mess call at 6.10, assembly immediately after as per orders 307, hereto annexed. The general was sounded at 8 a. m., inspection at 8.40. Advance guard, Company "K," Eighteenth Separate Company, under Captain Mott, started at 8.57. Column moved at 9.06. Weather delightfully cool. Halted for 15 minutes' rest at 9.40. Arrived at Averill Park at 11 o'clock, where camp was established preparatory to remaining until the following Friday. After the lines were established the camp was quickly made.

The Tenth Battalion arrived and reported at 12.25 p. m., and immediately went into camp, adjoining the regiment. The camp of the Third Signal Corps was established some distance from the main camp. At 4.30 p. m. the entire detachment was massed on the color line and a beautiful ceremony of raising the flag was held and the camp formally dedicated, Camp Oliver. Evening parade in line of masses was held shortly after and was a splendid ceremony.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the regular duties prescribed in orders No. 241 were taken up and carried out as per schedule. The drills by battalion in close order were good. In the extended order not as satisfactory as could be desired, and showed the necessity of more thorough instruction during drill seasons in armories. One battalion being on outpost duty each day gave me three battalions for regimental drill each forenoon, and they were very satisfactory. Evening parade was held each day and were of a high order. The minor mistakes were corrected in each succeeding ceremony in the endeavor to approach the perfect. Outpost duty was fairly well performed. In some instances the commanding officers did not display a thorough knowledge of that important branch. Instruction in that work will be taken up in the schools during the coming drill season.

The Hospital Corps was reorganized on a very substantial basis with full numbers, and under the very able instruction of Major Houston and his assistants, attained a high degree of perfection. A very important and valuable innovation was established by Major Houston by the introduction of practical demonstration in cooking for invalids by an expert (nurse) in that line, and proved very instructive. A case of diphtheria was diagnosed, the patient immediately isolated, and so easily and without any demonstration was the patient taken care of, by the time the week's service was ended he was practically well, and at no time were any others exposed to any danger of contagion.

The field music was consolidated and made rapid progress under Instructors Coogan and Baker. Thursday afternoon the entire detachment was formed into two regiments, and with the signal corps formed into a brigade for review. As it was reviewed by yourself and staff it is unnecessary for me to give any further description of same.

Friday, August 24th, camp at Averill Park was broken. Mess call at 7.30 a. m. General sounded at 9 a. m. The Tenth Battalion was detached and proceeded at 9.40 to its home station, stopping at Mammoth Springs over night. At 10 a. m., the Second Battalion, under Major Dunspaugh, started (as per instructions in orders No. 314) to defend the village of Poestenkill. Twenty rounds of blank ammunition per man having been previously issued, the advance guard, Company "E," Thirty-sixth Separate Company, Captain Andrews, started at 10.40. Main column at 10.50. Stopped for short rest at 11.25. Advance guard met advance skirmishers of the enemy at 12.10. The attacking party being under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Lester. Myself and staff were treated as non-combatants. We took an advantageous spot on a high hill which enabled us to observe the entire attack and defense, which was most admirably conducted, and proved very instructive. Firing ceased at 1.40 p. m. The village of Poestenkill was entered at 1.55 p. m., where a rest of 40 minutes was given. The band played several selections. The villagers were very hospitable. Left Poestenkill at 2.35 p. m., arrived at Springer farm at 3.40, where camp was established in an incredibly short time. Evening parade at 5.25, was a beautiful ceremony. Supper was served immediately after. The men being tired after a hard day's work retired early.

Saturday morning, August 25th, reveille sounded at 5.30 a. m. No drills were held. It being the last day of the tour preparations for the march homeward were made. Breakfast at 6.45. The Third Signal Corps was detached and proceeded to its home station. The site of the camp was a most ideal one. A portion of the Springer farm was excellent for a practical demonstration (on a reduced scale) of outpost work, which could have been easily observed by the entire camp. It was my intention to have two companies posted exemplifying the Cossack and other systems of outposts, and assembling the regiment about me point out the main points and objects of the same, which would, in my judgment, have been a most valuable object lesson; but the weather becoming very sultry and the heat so oppressive I concluded it would be inadvisable to do so, as the men had a hot march before them. At 9.05 the general was sounded. It being evident before starting that extra precaution should be taken for the proper care of those who might be overcome by the effects of the intense heat and sultriness, the surgeons were instructed to procure conveyances for carrying any who might show signs of exhaustion. The column started at 10.18 a. m. At 10.48 halted for about 15 minutes. At 11.43 halted one hour for dinner. The heat was terrific and discipline was in a measure relaxed. As the contents of canteens had been exhausted by the men in pouring on their heads and endeavoring to keep them cool, the men were permitted to get water at wells and creek adjacent to the road whenever the column halted. During the hour for dinner a number of men asked and were given permission to precede the main column at a leisurely pace, as they were not able to keep up with the main body, and desired to press forward and rest at frequent intervals, and not get behind the column. At 12.48 p. m., the march was resumed. There being no air stirring, the thermometer nearly 100 degrees in the shade and humidity very great it was necessary to proceed with caution. Frequent rests were given. Arriving at the boundary line of the city of Troy a halt was made for fifteen minutes. March was resumed. Companies "A," "C" and "D" of Troy, were detached at the nearest point and marched to the armory. The balance of the regiment proceeded to the Union Railroad station, arriving at 2.30 p. m. The first battalion left Troy by special train at 3.05 p. m., four minutes behind schedule time. The third battalion at 3.25, time scheduled. Arriving at their respective home stations without incident. During the march to the city a number of men (upwards of fifty) were obliged to fall out, being more or less overcome by heat exhaustion, but all sufficiently recovered to be able to leave with their respective companies except one man from Company "G" (Thirty-first Separate Company), who was ordered to be taken to the Troy Hospital for treatment. He recovered sufficiently so as to be able to leave for his home the following afternoon. It was learned that he was subject to heatstroke, having been prostrated before from same cause on different occasions. He will be discharged from the guard.

The tour of service was in my opinion a success, officers and men alike expressing themselves as greatly benefited and pleased with the work. At Camp Oliver schools were held daily. On Thursday afternoon the officers and non-commissioned officers were assembled and given practical instruction by Lieutenant-Colonel Chapin, Assistant Inspector, National Guard, in the manner of throwing up hasty intrenchments.

Guard duty was fairly well performed. The regiment contained a large percentage of recruits, and nearly all of the men detailed for guard duty were men who had never had any experience in that duty, which necessitated considerable work instructing them in their duties, and was performed in a more or less satisfactory manner. The ceremony of guard mounting was very well conducted, and errors immediately corrected.

The water at the several camps was of excellent quality. Samples of same having been thoroughly tested by Major Houston before camp sites were selected.

The food was abundant and of fine quality. Frequent inquiries were made by me of the officers and men in the different companies as to quality, quantity and variety, and in every instance there was nothing but praise. The regimental commissary, Captain Green, acting as post commissary issued to the commissary of the Tenth Battalion, and to the quartermasters of each company in the regiment and Third Signal Corps. His duties were arduous, but performed in a prompt and very satisfactory manner. The regimental quartermaster, Captain Alden, acted as post quartermaster, and performed his duties very intelligently, as did Captain Phelan, who performed the duties of post and regimental adjutant. Each and every member of the staff did their utmost to carry to a successful completion the work assigned to them.

United States mail service was established, and mail was received and departed direct by special service twice daily.

The work of the Third Signal Corps was not as complete as I had designed and had hoped would be carried out, owing to the time being occupied by stable duties, which interfered somewhat with the program. The work as far as carried out was well done.

The officers and men were equipped with the uniform (blue) shirt, which proved of great value and utility, and were greatly appreciated by all. It is a valuable addition to the field uniform.

As field service is probably an established fact and a great advance toward the practical education of the soldier, a canvas working suit should be issued as part of the equipment, which would prove a great saving in the wear of the regular uniform, and be more serviceable and economical.

If field service is to be ordered on the plan of service at State Camp, viz.: every other year, a man serving a five year enlistment would have, not to exceed three tours of such service of eight days each, and in some instances only twice, which is a very small time to teach him one of the most important and essential duties of a soldier, "how to take care of himself". The term of field work is too short, as about the time a man begins to learn how to do so, the tour ends, and he has no further instruction in that line for two years. An innovation which in my judgment would be a very acceptable and very instructive to the men, and which I think might be feasible, would be to request a detail of competent and practical non-commissioned officers by the United States government to accompany the several organizations ordered for field service each year. They would be able with their thorough knowledge of such work to suggest and impart valuable instruction to the men, which would be more readily received and acted upon than if given by a commissioned officer (detailed for such purpose), as by their constant association with the men, they could by example and closer relations as enlisted men be of much valuable assistance. There should be at least one good non-commissioned with each company. Some provision in the code should be made whereby hucksters should be prohibited from establishing themselves within a certain limit of a camp, as is already provided in prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors. As in case a camp should be established and the adjoining property be owned by another party than that occupied by such camp, he could not be allowed to permit them to occupy land close to the camp, as they frequently offer for sale articles of food, drink and fruits (more or less decayed), which is detrimental to the health of the men, and the commanding officer (as far as I can learn) has no authority to prohibit such offering for sale or the occupying of land closely adjoining the camp.

While the tour was very satisfactory to me it was also very instructive, and enabled me to observe any defects, and suggested opportunities for even better work on other like duties.

Accompanying herewith are the report of Surgeon Houston, Major Hyatt of the Tenth Battalion, and others; also maps of the route taken and camps established and outpost work; also photographs of Camp Oliver and at Springer farm, and others which I hope will prove of interest.

Respectfully,

JAMES H. LLQYD,

Colonel Second Regiment, Commanding Detachment.

SECOND REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,

85-89 WARREN STREET,

GLENS FALLS, September 17, 1900.

Adjutant, Second Regiment:

Sir.—August 22, 1900, at 9 o'clock a. m., I left Camp Oliver with the Third Battalion with instructions to post outposts to guard the territory shown on the enclosed map, made by Captain Harry C. Baum, acting quartermaster of the battalion. On arriving at the point marked one, K and L companies, went out to post the chain of sentinels, and were relieved by M and I companies after 12. Twelve pickets, each with three sentinels, covered the ground from road 1 in an approximately circular line to road 4. The map shows their disposition in the afternoon when posted for day duty. Both morning and afternoon, the two companies out were posted for day and night duty. The night posts were a little farther out, consisted of two sentinels at each point instead of one, and were farther apart, some apparently inaccessible points being unguarded at night. At 4 p. m. the battalion was formed and returned to camp. I also enclose a sheet of topographical notes made by Captain Baum.

Respectfully,

LOYAL L. DAVIS,

Major.

REPORT.

1. Roadbed.—Good, hard, generally narrow. Fit for passage of artillery.
2. Bridges.—Wood, rather frail, easily strengthened for guns or heavy wagons. Usually shallow and short. Forging not practical on account of mud bottoms and steep banks.
3. Marching.—Rapid, except at steep hills.
4. Settlements.—No villages after leaving Averill park. Houses scattered, and a number of mills on one road.
5. Country.—Hilly, some wooded tracts. All accessible to all arms, though only by detours at places. Mostly cultivated, fair crops and some orchards.
5. Water.—A sluggish creek becomes tumultuous on descending in region of mills. Unfit for drink save after boiling, account of marshy bottoms traversed.
7. Camp sites.—Abundant, good soil, but inconvenient on account of the water supply. Available for short halts. Wood and grass plenty.
8. Strategic positions.—Excellent for defensive work, many commanding points.
9. Lateral communications for the most part good.
10. No railroad nor telegraph lines in territory.
11. Opportunities for outposting excellent.
12. Flankers would be separated by stream from column on road 3, but frequent opportunities to recross by small infantry party on dams, bridges and fording at shallow points.

THIRD SIGNAL CORPS, N. G., N. Y.,
STATE ARMORY, LARK AND ELK STREETS,
TOUR OF FIELD SERVICE, August 18-25, 1900.

The Third Signal Corps left its armory August 18th, taking two officers, one first sergeant, three sergeants, five corporals and seventeen privates. One sergeant was assigned to act as quartermaster-sergeant, and to each corporal were assigned three privates to constitute squads for the tour.

This command arrived at West Sand Lake at 4.15 p. m., and was halted in the village until the Second Regiment should have entered the fair grounds.

At this camp the horses were placed in stalls or shelters found on the grounds, at the other camps they were on picket line.

As the camp ground occupied by the corps was not included in bounds covered by the guard of the Second Regiment, it was found necessary to put on guard two corporal squads under a sergeant.

On August 19th, the command proceeded to Averill Park and Camp Oliver. Three squads, by direction of the commanding officer of the Second Regiment, were sent with the advance guard of the regiment during this march.

At Camp Oliver the position assigned to the corps was again outside of sentinel lines and all guard and police duties were performed by the Signal Corps for its own camp. This was also the case at the last encampment near Poestenkill.

With the exceptions of August 18th and August 20th, the corps was required and took part in each evening parade.

Stable duty was performed by the men during the entire tour.

There was one mounted drill.

In signal work, no messages were transmitted on either August 18th or 19th. On August 20th signal work was performed by two squads, eleven messages being sent and received. Of these eight were by heliograph, one by flag, and two by torch. On August 21st one squad worked with field telephone. August 22d, three squads at work, one acting as a relay station. Five messages were sent and received by flag. August 23d, two squads working, five messages were sent by heliograph. No further signal work was performed. One squad had no signal practice during the tour, except the work on the field telephone.

On August 24th Camp Oliver was left and march resumed to next camp site beyond Poestenkill.

On August 25th the Signal Corps was detached, and at 8.30 a. m. proceeded via Eagle Mills, Troy and Watervliet to Albany, the command with baggage arriving at its armory at 1 p. m.

EDWARD J. WHEELER,
Captain.

HEADQUARTERS TENTH BATTALION, N. G., N. Y.,
STATE ARMORY, COR. WASHINGTON AVENUE AND LARK STREET.
ALBANY, September 24, 1900.

The Adjutant, Second Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report that pursuant to Orders No. 241 c. s., Second Regiment, the battalion assembled at 8 o'clock a. m. August 18th, and left the armory at 8.40; arriving at the Bath ferry at 9.25, crossed the river, and left Bath at 10.05 o'clock. One mile beyond DeFreestville a halt was made for luncheon at 11.10 a. m. The march was resumed at 12.30 p. m., arriving at the Mammoth Spring at 1.35 p. m., where Camp Palmer was made.

Camp was broken at 9.45 a. m., August 19th, and the battalion proceeded to Averill Park, where I reported on arrival at Camp Oliver at 12.25 p. m.

August 23d the battalion left camp for outpost duty at 10.05 a. m., arriving at the designated point at 10.25. The outposts were withdrawn at 2.55 p. m., and Camp Oliver was reached at 3.15.

August 24th the battalion left Camp Oliver at 9.45 a. m. and reached Camp Palmer at 12.15 p. m., and on the following day broke camp at 1.34 p. m. and arrived at the home station at 6.12 p. m.

Respectfully,

JAMES L. HYATT,
Major.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTY-FIFTH REGIMENT, N. G., N. Y.,
BUFFALO, N. Y., August 20, 1900.

The Adjutant, Sixty-fifth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report that I made a careful study of the incinerators and their work during the field service of the Sixty-fifth Regiment, N. G., N. Y., August 4-11, 1900, and beg to submit the following in reference to their efficiency:

First. The machines completely destroyed by heat all the excrement of about five hundred men, thereby removing all danger of contagion from this prolific source.

Second. The incinerators when used simply as "sinks" were a great improvement on the old method of digging them, being convenient to use, easy of access, and nearly free from odor.

Third. When used as urinals, as was done for the first two days, the contents would boil over and extinguish the fires. After urinals were constructed to the rear of the incinerators, this trouble was avoided.

Fourth. The odor from the incinerators when in use was not perceptible to any very great extent. When the fires were first built there was some odor on the windward side, but was not of long duration, say fifteen or twenty minutes.

It was evident from the frequent need of "firing" or "burning out" that there were not enough incinerators for the command, double the number would not have been too many.

In conclusion, permit me to say, that the destruction by heat is the only perfectly sanitary method that can be used to properly and completely destroy the excrement in a military camp, and certainly prevent the infection of the command with such disease as typhoid fever, cholera, etc. The odor that is given off during the burning is but a slight objection, when we consider the great benefit derived.

The machines can, and doubtless will be, somewhat improved in the detail of their construction, rendering them lighter and more portable. I would most earnestly recommend their use in the future in all camps of mobilization and instruction, and for all marching troops, if the nature of the country and other conditions are favorable.

Respectfully,

ALBERT H. BRIGGS,

Major and Surgeon, Sixty-fifth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

October 13, 1900.

COL. NELSON H. HENRY, Surgeon, National Guard:

Sir.—As sanitary officer and inspector of “march outs” from Camp of Instruction, during the season of 1900, I have the honor to submit the following report:

Additional information obtained from further investigation into the New York State method of incineration is also included.

The organizations which participated in these tours of field duty were the Eighth, Ninth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Twenty-second, Forty-seventh, Sixty-ninth and Seventy-first Regiments.

The “March Out” camp was established near Lake Mohegan.

The fifteen incinerators constructed by the State and used for experimental purposes in the disposal of excrement were in service, together with one new wagon (cuts and specifications of which are given) containing eight additional incinerators of a smaller design.

The use of this number of incinerators allowed the collection of 145 gallons of excrement before it was necessary to begin the destructive process and afforded opportunities for 23 persons to occupy the sinks at any one time.

This represented a seating capacity of a little over four per cent. of the average strength of the commands present. As the seating capacity should represent at least eight per cent. in accordance with usual army custom, it can be understood that the working of the incinerators was crowded to the utmost.

Some difficulty was experienced with the larger organizations in preventing the men from committing nuisances in the immediate vicinity of camp. Incineration was accomplished daily during a period of one month, and during the majority of the time little or no odor was noticeable during the destructive process.

In several instances, however, particularly during the encampments of the Twelfth, Twenty-second and Seventy-first Regiments, considerable odor was noticed, lasting in the longest instance a period of 32 minutes (Twelfth Regiment) after the starting of the fires.

Failure of the incinerators to consume the odors in these instances was due to the fact that sufficient draught was not obtained (Twenty-second Regiment) with fuel used to produce a live enough flame to carbonize the gases (indol, skatol and Marsh gas series) as they repassed through the fire-pit. This factor was materially lessened by moving the incinerators to a higher elevation.

No considerable trouble was experienced after this time notwithstanding the fact that the wood used as fuel during entire encampment was unseasoned and not of the variety to make it possible to obtain a quick live fire.

Following heavy rains some difficulty was experienced in getting fuel sufficiently dry. The odor at such times, in the opinions of Colonel Chapin, Captain Lyon and many other officers of experience, was not sufficient to offer any material objection to the use of the incinerators. The odor was not to be compared with that experienced during the maintenance of earth sinks of many of the regiments in the Southern camps during the Spanish-American War.

The incinerators on the wagon worked equally satisfactorily. The specifications according to which the wagons were built are as follows:

BODY.

Length of body, $15\frac{1}{2}$ feet.

Width at ends of body, $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet.

Width at center of body, 6 feet.

Height of body, $6\frac{1}{2}$ feet.

Sills and frame of body to be constructed of iron. Sills, $2\frac{1}{2}$ -inch angle iron; frame, $1\frac{1}{2} \times \frac{3}{8}$ -inch.

Floor of wagon to be "skeleton" structure, of sheet iron. Floor iron stringers, $2 \times \frac{1}{2}$ -inch.

EXTERIOR VIEW OF WAGON.

INTERIOR VIEW OF WAGON, SHOWING ONE SIDE.

Sides, ends and top of body to be 16-inch gauge, best quality sheet steel.

Rear end of body to have a neatly finished door, 6 x 2 feet 10 inches.

The forward end of body to have a neatly finished window.

GEAR.

Platform gear, with platform springs front and back.

Springs, 2 inches wide; 8 plates, 40 inches long.

AXLES.

Concord axles, $1\frac{5}{8}$ x 10 inches.

WHEELS.

Sarven wheels.

Front wheels to be 3 feet high; $2\frac{1}{8}$ -inch spoke, 10-inch hub, $1\frac{1}{4}$ -rims, 3-inch tread.

Hind wheels to be four feet high; other material same as front wheels.

Tire, 3 inches wide by 7-16 inch thick.

Painting of body and gear to be of light gray dressing, with asbestos fire-proof paint.

Workmanship of wagon to be of the best quality.

Height of wagon, over all, above ground not to exceed $8\frac{1}{2}$ feet.

Weight of wagon, with load, not to exceed 3,500 pounds.

Track of wagon to be 5 feet.

Pole of wagon to be constructed of best quality of ash, as also the whiffle-trees and cross-trees.

Forward end of pole to have hook attachment, with chains.

Wagon to be constructed with serve of brakes for rear wheels, to be operated from driver's seat.

Interior of wagon to contain box on either side of entrance, neatly constructed, for transportation of fuel.

Front partition of body of wagon to be constructed at such a distance as to allow of a driver's seat; same to be of such structure to permit of transportation of small tentage, etc.

The wagons were built by the Harvey Carriage Co., of Buffalo, and although not ideal as at present constructed, many points requiring alteration, the principle involved received words of the highest commendation. For a regiment of 600 men at least 4 wagons are required. This affords a seating capacity for 32 persons at the same time. During the tour of field service of the Sixty-fifth Regiment, N. G., N. Y., 2 wagons each having 8 incinerators were used, and Major Albert H. Briggs, surgeon of the regiment, submits the following opinion:

(Copy.)

Statement from Albert H. Briggs, Major and Surgeon, Sixty-fifth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "marchouts" of the Sixty-fifth Regiment during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The complete destruction of all excrement by heat is the only method that is certain to destroy disease germs.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?
 1. In vicinity of incinerators, slight.
 2. In vicinity of earth-sinks, considerable.
3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

No.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The odor from the incinerators was not great at any time, being noticed soon after the fires were started, and then only on the windward side.

4. In your judgment, would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

It is my opinion it is the only proper way to dispose of excrement in camps. I think it would suppress, if present, and prevent the outbreak of typhoid fever, cholera, etc.

The views of Major Briggs may be considered of greatest value in this connection, owing to his vast practical experience in sanitary work, not only as a national guardsman but as health commissioner of Buffalo for a number of years, and during the Spanish-American war in 1898 as sanitary inspector of the Second Army Corps. An amusing incident occurred during the use of the wagons by the Sixty-fifth Regiment in that on several occasions "hangers about camp" slept in them during the night. This would indicate that the odor present during the time of the collection of the excrement was not great. In order to ascertain the views of the surgeons of the regiments and the opinions of the inspectors during the tour of field duty from the camp of instruction, blank forms for reports were mailed to each organization, replies to which are herewith attached, with such notations as would seem pertinent.

The following report was received from the United States Army detail:

ARMY AND NAVY CLUB OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Major WM. G. BISSELL, Seventy-fourth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.:

Sir.—Before completing my tour of duty with the National Guard of New York, I desire to express to you, as sanitary officer of the Camp of Instruction at Peekskill, and the sub-camp near Lake Mohegan, N. Y., my unqualified approval of the incinerators used by you to dispose of the fecal matter at the latter camp. It is not necessary for me to state here in detail all of the advantages of this method of disposing of fecal matter. It is enough to say that I believe your method would be an excellent plan to adopt, especially for large or permanent camps or camps of mobilization.

I want also to state that I observed the operation of your incinerator, both stationary and movable, under nearly every imaginable condition, and that their work was satisfactory.

Very respectfully,

HENRY G. LYON,

Captain Twenty-second U. S. Infantry.

Army detail "State Camp of Instruction, 1900."

Statement from William H. Chapin, Inspector N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

I consider their use a decided improvement.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion:

They save the time and labor of digging sinks.

They are ready for immediate use on entry into camp.

They are less offensive in use, in appearance and smell.

They do the work of incinerating fully and well.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?

In vicinity of earth-sinks.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection? I do not.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion:

The odor is harmless and is not noticeable unless wind blows toward the camp site.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

It is my firm belief, with only the information of a layman that it would.

(Copy.)

Statement from J. Wray Cleveland, First Lieutenant Seventh Regiment and A. D. C., N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion:

The excrement is destroyed each day and there is practically no opportunity for disease being carried by it.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?
In vicinity of earth-sinks.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

No.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion:

As I understand it, odors are not a menace to health, besides I believe they occur but rarely and then only for a short time.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Not being a physician cannot express a judgment of much value, but should think it would.

(Copy.)

Statement from Lewis K. Neff, Major and Surgeon Eighth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion:

The incinerators used properly completely destroy any possibility of dissemination of disease (germs) from the effluvia of the troops.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?

1. In vicinity of incinerators, little odor.

2. In vicinity of earth-sinks, much odor.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

No.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

Because of the choice of evils (odor), that from the incinerators is preferable to that of sinks as well they are not unhealthy.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever? Yes, if used from the beginning.

(Copy.)

Statement from S. Dana Hubbard, Md., Surgeon, Ninth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State Camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

I most assuredly do. As much as the improvement in traveling by railroad over stage coaches.

- (b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

Soiled papers are not blown about the grounds. No open holes to hold or overflow and spread infected rain water over surface of ground. Method of cleaning is easier and no cause for odor by improper covering as was experienced at Chickamauga. Exposed area of feces is limited and gives an area easier controlled thereby preventing infection from flies.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?

1. In vicinity of incinerators.
2. In vicinity of earth-sinks.

Decidedly the most near a sink. No matter how much straw is burned in a sink there will still remain some odor.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

I do not.

- (b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

When wind is away from camp there is no perceptible odor, and when even a strong wind is toward camp and atmosphere is full of moisture there was no odor as unpleasant as an ordinary open sink would be after a few hours use.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

I am satisfied from my experience at the Division Hospital at Chickamauga, that if these methods of incineration had been used there would have been at least 50 per cent. less.

(Copy.)

Statement from Geo. G. Ward, Jr., Major and Surgeon, Twelfth Regiment Infantry, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State Camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

1st. Prevention of contamination of the camp by the absolute and quick destruction of all poisonous matter.

2d. Great labor saving.

3d. The receivers being enclosed there is not the danger of the carrying of infection by flies during collection as in open sinks.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?

1. In vicinity of incinerators.

The same as in freshly dug sinks.

2. In vicinity of earth-sinks.

Yes, in old sinks, not in new ones.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The odor during burning with green or wet wood (otherwise a "slow fire") is decidedly objectionable, but not detrimental to the health of the camp. It is often difficult to obtain dry or seasoned wood or fuel in the field, and I believe that if they could be so constructed as to use oil as well as wood fuel, the above objections would be obviated.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Undoubtedly it would.

(Copy.)

Statement from John L. Macumber, Major and Surgeon, Fourteenth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State Camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

- (b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The incineration was complete; the disposal of all noxious and offensive matter was final and in the most rapid and easy manner, and in the least offensive way. The drudgery of digging sinks is done away with. In my opinion on one year's experience in camps in Southern States and Cuba during the Spanish-American war.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?

1. In vicinity of incinerators less odor.
2. In vicinity of earth-sinks more odor.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

No.

- (b) Please state reason for your opinion.

At no time was offensive odor sufficient to nauseate the men; slight offensive odor could be avoided by moving incinerators a greater distance from camp or to leeward during incineration.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Yes and other camp diseases too.

(Copy.)

Statement from Bennett S. Beach, Surgeon, Twenty-second Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State Camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

First.—The destruction of facial matter destroys contagious material that may be in it.

Second.—New method less unpleasant and more sightly.

Third.—More comfortable.

Fourth.—Requires less labor, outside transportation.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?

2. In vicinity of earth-sinks.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

No.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The odor is certainly unpleasant, but there is the satisfaction of knowing that all contagion has been destroyed, and of course the odor does not carry disease in its train.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Yes, water is less liable to be contaminated and flies less liable to get at offal and from that contaminate food.

(Copy.)

Statement from Henry L. Cochran, Major and Surgeon, Twenty-third Regiment, N. G., N. Y

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" of the Twenty-third Regiment at State Camp during 1899, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

A very great improvement.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

1. No unpleasant odor when in use, and during incineration odor is only objectionable in near vicinity when carried by the wind.

2. For sanitary reasons.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor:

1. In vicinity of incinerators?

2. In vicinity of earth-sinks? Yes.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

No.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The odor is not specially objectionable and lasts but a short time.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Most decidedly.

(Copy)

Statement from Henry T. Hotchkiss, Captain and Assistant Acting Surgeon, Forty-seventh Infantry, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State Camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The use of incinerator absolutely destroys both odor and all germ life which might be developed and find its way into some water supply or drainage.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor:

1. In vicinity of incinerators?

2. In vicinity of earth-sinks?

See note below.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

No.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

The odor might arise during time of actual use.

After use the odor is gone.

I cannot see how it can be very offensive.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Yes.

NOTE.—The above opinions are derived from an inspection of the incinerator. I did not see it in actual use, being elsewhere at time of "march-out."

(Copy.)

Statement from G. Morgan Muren, Assistant Surgeon, Forty-seventh Infantry, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State Camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Decidedly, yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

Have had no experience with the earth-sink method and my opinion is based on what I saw of the incinerator at the State Camp, and what is commonly known of the other methods of disposing of excrement.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor:
1. In vicinity of incinerators?
 2. In vicinity of earth-sinks?

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

I believe that any objections that can be made to the incinerators are far out-weighted by their advantages.

4. In your judgment would the complete incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Yes.

(Copy.)

Statement from J. D. Emmet, Surgeon, Sixty-ninth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators, such as operated during the "march-outs" at State Camp during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

Because the excrement in this way is destroyed and does not remain in the ground as a menace, through surface drainage, to the water supply; also, by avoiding animal decomposition over a large area, a few feet below the surface as is the case with "earth-sinks," it probably obviates the spread of many infectious diseases.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor:
1. In vicinity of incinerators?
 2. In vicinity of earth-sinks? Worse.
3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a decided objection?

Yes; though not a prohibitive one

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

I consider that this odor is very objectionable because the incinerators must necessarily, as at present constructed, be placed very near the sentry line and should be for convenience, within it. I consider the present form of incineration objectionable principally because it is part of the "sinks."

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Unquestionably.

(Copy.)

Statement from Major E. T. T. Marsh, Surgeon, Seventy-first Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

1. (a) Do you consider the use of incinerators such as operated during the "march-outs" at State camp, during 1900, an improvement over the old earth-sink method for the disposal of excrement?

Yes. (I have a very poor opinion of those in use at Camp Roe, during the tour of duty of the Seventy-first Regiment, N. G., N. Y.)

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion.

Earth pollution is done away with; the danger to the water supply, that would exist were earth sinks used, is avoided. The carrying of infected matter by flies and pollution of water and food thereby avoided.

2. During collection, in which instance is there the more odor?

1. In vicinity of incinerators.

2. In vicinity of earth-sinks.

I have had no opportunity of comparing odors from the two as no earth-sinks were in use; the odors arising from the incinerators between firings were so bad that I was compelled to have chloride of lime used freely to disinfect them. Earth-sinks were in use during Buffalo strike and there were no odors as they were well cared for, disinfected and earth covered.

3. (a) Do you consider the odors that arise occasionally under certain conditions during burning of incinerators a objection?

Yes.

(b) Please state reasons for your opinion:

I am uninformed as to whether there are any disease germs in the odors, vapors or smoke arising during incineration of excrement, but I know that there was a most intolerable stench prevalent over the camp during incineration, and the eyes and air passages of many of the men were very much irritated in consequence. The odors from evaporating urine and burning foeces are far from pleasant.

4. In your judgment would the complete daily incineration of all the excrement in camps of mobilization have a marked influence in preventing typhoid fever?

Yes: I consider that incinerators would be valuable adjuncts to camps of instruction and mobilization.

Owing to the fact that Major Marsh did not state the reasons for his "poor opinion of the incinerators used at Camp Roe," he was communicated with and the following reply received:

P. O. Box 25, HUNTINGTON, L. I., August 20, 1900.

Major WM. G. BISSELL, Buffalo, N. Y.:

My Dear Major:—Yours of August 14th was forwarded to me a few days ago.

The reasons for my "poor opinion" of the incinerators in use while the Seventy-first was at Camp Roe are the following:

Inconvenient height—the men having to climb up to the seat and their legs dangling in the air. Unnecessary exposure—there being no screens of any kind to shield the men from public gaze. Faulty construction of the incinerators, at least of the furnaces—the latter should have smoke or vapor consuming attachment, which would no doubt do away with the stench accompanying incineration. Length of time for incineration is too long and men suffered in consequence. Length of time for cooling is too long. Lack of opportunities for the men caused men to wander off to convenient places to relieve themselves.

You no doubt understand that I am not attacking the principle involved in incineration but the methods employed at Camp Roe while I was on duty.

Yours truly,

E. T. T. MARSH,

Surgeon, Seventy-first Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

As regards these statements it seems apparent that too great comparison with the ideal has been made. I am at loss to understand the failure of the other surgeons and myself to notice the stench spoken of between the burnings. The gases which arise during the heating of excrement are absolutely non-irritating and it must have been either the wood smoke itself or some other agent which produced the irritation of the eyes and air passages.

The explanatory objections in the second communication of August 20th inst. refer more particularly to the manner of the use of the incinerators which details can be easily regulated, particularly those pertaining to height, unnecessary exposure and lack of opportunities.

As regards the construction it was not the fault of the incinerators that odor occurred during the burning, but the fault of the fuel, which points have received notation.

Length of time of incineration and subsequent cooling should not cause discomfort to the men because sufficient incinerators should be kept in obedience to permit of their use during this time.

This is a factor that can never be changed, and when it is taken into consideration that 150 gallons of excrement was completely destroyed daily and the machines ready for use in about two hours the objection does not seem tenable.

In conclusion it appears to be the prevailing opinion that the use of incinerators in camps of mobilization are far less objectionable as regards labor, odor, etc., than the use of the earth-sinks, and would certainly lessen camp pollution and the occurrence of typhoid fever to the minimum.

As regards the method at present in use by the United States Army, that of depositing the excrement in zinc lined troughs, containing supposedly milk of lime, and the subsequent stirring up of the mixture and carting to be deposited in the earth there seems little chance for comparison.

The only efficient means by which excrement can be completely consumed without possible opportunities for failure and the chance for subsequent transmission of infection is by the use of heat, and up to the present time I am unacquainted with any better means than that devised by the military authorities of the State of New York.

(WILLIAM G. BISSELL),

Surgeon, Seventy-fourth Regiment, N. G., N. Y.

APPENDIX B.

Report of the Commanding Officers, Naval Militia.

HEADQUARTERS NAVAL MILITIA, N. Y., U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE," FOOT EAST TWENTY-EIGHTH STREET,
NEW YORK, October 10, 1900.

The Adjutant-General, General Headquarters, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report upon the operations and condition of the Naval Militia, New York, for the year ending September 30, 1900.

2. On the 13th of October, 1899, Lieutenant F. B. Anderson, signal officer on the staff of the captain, felt compelled to resign his commission on account of pressing business. His record in the various rates and ranks which he has filled since 1892 was most excellent. The development of the signal work of the Naval Militias in all the States was greatly due to his theoretical, as well as practical, endeavor. Prior to the war the Navy Department honored him with a position on the "Naval Signal Board," and later showed its confidence in his ability by giving him a specially important duty during the summer of 1898.

3. During the past year, the regulations relating to the uniform of the Naval Militia, have been approved by the Governor, and published for the information and guidance of all concerned. The general regulations of the Naval Militia are still in course of preparation, and, it is hoped, will shortly be completed.

4. The launches of the Naval Militia were all laid up for the winter, and proper arrangements made for their immediate use in case of need.

5. On November 25, 1899, the U. S. S. "Aileen" was detailed for the secondary battery practice of the First and Second Battalions, (as per G. O. No. 9, N. M., N. Y., dated July 1, 1899), and I append a copy of the scores made on that occasion; also the report of the gunnery officer present. (Appendix A.) The arrangements made for this practice have been improved this year. (See Appendix B.) In order to further encourage the members of the battalions to excel in marksmanship it has been decided to offer an additional prize from these Headquarters to the battalion making the highest scores during the official practices.

6. Under order from the Navy Department, the U. S. S. "Aileen" was inspected by the commanding officer of the U. S. S. "Prairie" on July 24, 1900. This vessel was docked, and the bottom cleaned and painted by the government.

7. On September 20, 1899, the Navy Department requested the inspection of one of the launches built for the Naval Militia by the State, with a view to the Department's paying therefor. The inspection has, I understand, been satisfactory, but the transaction has not yet been completed; and I would respectfully ask that this be settled as soon as possible.

8. At the beginning of 1900, Commander William Butler Duncan resigned, and on January 10th I wrote you: "In acknowledging your communication of the 9th instant enclosing the full and honorable discharge of Commander W. B. Duncan, jr., First Naval Battalion, I wish to bear especial testimony to his long and patriotic services to the State and to the country. Commander Duncan was one of the group of Naval Academy graduates who originally assisted in the organization of the Naval Militia in 1891. Since that date he has done as much as any one to make it a success; before the outbreak of the war he volunteered to bring the monitor 'Nahant' from Philadelphia to protect the waters and harbor of New York. While accomplishing this with prompt energy, he was called upon to organize a crew for the U. S. S. 'Yankee.' This duty he also performed quickly and well. He afterwards served with distinction on board the 'Yankee,' receiving the unqualified praise of the commander of that ship for his military and sailor-like abilities. It was through his tact and good judgment that none of the troubles which occurred, during the war, to certain other organizations, happened on board the 'Yankee.' Since his return from the war, he successfully brought the First Battalion through the critical period which always follows a declaration of peace. He leaves the battalion in excellent condition, with the respect and good will of all his officers and men, to which I would add my official and personal regrets at losing such a capable and efficient officer."

9. On January 8, 1900, Lieutenant-Commander S. Dana Greene, chief of staff, N. M., N. Y., was drowned at Schenectady, N. Y., and the following is a copy of the General Orders issued by me in connection therewith:

"In announcing the sudden death of Lieutenant Commander Samuel Dana Greene, the Commanding Officer desires to draw attention to the record of a life worthy of its ancestry, and one which should serve as an example to all members of the Naval Militia.

Lieutenant-Commander Greene graduated first in his class at the Naval Academy, and with the highest honors at the Torpedo school. He was among the founders of the Naval Militia; and as divisional, gunnery officer, navigator, and engineer officer, and as chief of staff, he held eminently the respect and esteem of both officers and men, and his intelligent services were constantly devoted to its efficiency.

At the outbreak of the war, when chief of staff, he accepted at three days' notice subordinate rank, in order to be with his old command, and served with distinction on board the U. S. S. Yankee. The commanding officer of that vessel especially commended his professional qualities, and his coolness in battle.

At the close of the war, the Governor, in token of a faultless record, appointed him on his staff to represent the Naval Militia.

The service has lost one of its finest officers and the country one of its most patriotic and unselfish citizens.

The armories and vessels of the naval militia will display their ensigns at half-mast until after the funeral. Officers will wear the usual badge of mourning. A detail will be designated from this command to attend the funeral."

10. On February 16, 1900, the review of the First Battalion was held, and prizes and decorations awarded. Attached is a list of the awards. (Appendix C.) In addition to this review the annual inspection and muster of this battalion was held on April 3, 1900, and the regular report and rolls duly forwarded to your office.

11. In my last report reference was made to the necessity for an armory for the Brooklyn Battalion. The endeavor to obtain a State armory for that organization during the last session of the Legislature was unsuccessful, but I am now happy to state that the city of New York has decided to construct an armory on the Brooklyn water front at the foot of Forty-third street.

The plans for this armory are now being considered by the city authorities, and I understand that a portion of the building will be erected during the coming winter.

12. With some reluctance, and after full consideration, and with the approval of the Governor, it was deemed advisable this summer to forego the tour of duty on the vessel provided by the Navy Department for the exercises of the Naval Militia of the various States, and to give our men instruction in home waters under their own officers. I accordingly issued cruise orders as per copy attached. (Appendix D.) The U. S. S. New Hampshire was moored off Whitestone, L. I., and the launches of the Naval Militia commissioned and utilized for very beneficial exercises and cruises preparatory to the regular work to be done later. A system of weekly voluntary drills was instituted, of which logs have been kept. Appendix E is a specimen of what has been done under this head.

13. The report of the commanding officer of the First Battalion is attached (Appendix F), and is a concise history of the operations of that organization.

14. The work of the Second Battalion is given in the report of Commander R. P. Forshew, attached. (Appendix G.) The annual inspection and muster of this battalion took place at its camp, Centre Island, Long Island Sound, on August 3, 1900, and the report thereof has been duly transmitted.

15. The U. S. S. "Aileen" rendered valuable service to both battalions in carrying out the arrangements for the summer work of the Naval Militia.

16. The vessels now in the service of the Naval Militia of this State are:

U. S. S. "New Hampshire," used as an armory.

U. S. S. "Aileen," one gun.

Steam launch "Mohican," one gun.

Steam launch "Mohawk," one gun.

Steam launch "Oneida," one gun.

Steam launch "Seneca," one gun.

Steam launch (2d Battalion) one gun.

17. The annual rifle practice of the Naval Militia was held, as customary, at Creedmoor, and at Rochester; and Appendix H is the record thereof. The prizes for general figure of merit this year have been awarded as under:

First prize—First Division, First Battalion.

Second prize—Second Division, First Battalion.

Third prize—Fourth Division, Second Battalion.

The brigade prize has been won by the Second Battalion.

18. The inspection and muster of the Second Separate Division took place at Rochester on the 11th of June, as per report already forwarded.

Respectfully,

J. W. MILLER,

Captain, Naval Militia, New York.

APPENDIX (a.)

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION,

U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"

NEW YORK, December 11, 1899.

To the Commanding Officer, First Naval Battalion, New York:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of secondary battery practice for this battalion, held under Par. 5, G. O. No. 9, N. M., N. Y.:

By invitation of Commander ForsheW, Second Naval Battalion, the details from this battalion proceeded to sea on U. S. S. "Aileen" on November 25, 1899. We left the armory of the Second Naval Battalion, Bay Ridge, N. Y., at 9 a. m., and steamed down to about three miles to the southeast of Scotland lightship. Here a regulation target was anchored and a base line established as per G. O. No. 9; the men were then exercised with sub-calibre cartridge. After each detail had had sufficient practice the service charge firing began, the conditions being: (1) That each man was to have six shots, to be fired within a time limit of one minute, any shot over that time to be forfeited; (2) Only hits on the target to count, and the team having the greatest number of hits to win. At the beginning of the practice there was no sea, a light wind and an overcast sky.

The Third Division fired first and scored no hits.

The Fourth Division fired second and scored two hits. Gun-captain, first class, Carter, and Seaman Sturdevant making one each. It was found, while this division was shooting, that the target was drifting to leeward quite rapidly. The "Aileen" remained on the base line, consequently the range rapidly increased.

The First Division then fired and scored one hit; Seaman Buz-zini making it.

As this division was firing, a long tow from the southward approached, making it necessary to cease firing for upwards of three-quarters of an hour. During this intermission a bright sun came out and a strong breeze from the northwest sprang up. The target continued to drift, and it was then decided by Lieutenant Vanderbilt to run up to within approximately 1,000 yards and complete the practice. This was done, he stating when the ship was at the required distance.

The divisions of this battalion alternated with those of the Second Battalion in firing, the forward gun being alone used. The practice was under the direction of Lieutenant Vanderbilt, ordnance officer on the staff of the captain N. M., N. Y.

The general accuracy of the shots fired was very good, the shooting of the following being especially so: Dekay, Crawford, Buzzini and Carter—all of his shots, with the exception of his hit, being very near the target.

I append a chart showing the approximate position of all shots fired. The total number of hits for the First Battalion was ten, against eleven hits for the Second Battalion. Eleven men competed for this battalion, against twelve from the Second.

The shooting was all done down the wind. The extreme height at which sight bar was set was 2,700 yards, when Gun-captain, first class, Carter, fired. The distance, as near as it could be ascertained, was given to each team before they commenced firing.

Respectfully,

RUSSEL RAYNOR,

Gunnery and Torpedo Officer.

APPENDIX (b.)

HEADQUARTERS NAVAL MILITIA, NEW YORK,

U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"

FOOT EAST TWENTY-EIGHTH STREET,

NEW YORK, October 20, 1900.

General Orders No. 11.

Referring to Par. 5, G. O. No. 9, dated October 3d, 1900, from Headquarters, N. M. N. Y., the following regulations are issued for guidance in connection with the competition for prizes for proficiency with light guns, known in the Navy as "Secondary Battery."

1. Date. The match shall be contested on November 3d, 1900 (Saturday).

2. Time. The "Aileen" will leave 2d battalion headquarters, foot 55th Street, Brooklyn, at 9.00 A. M. on the day of the match, and proceed at once to the target ground and the firing commence as promptly as possible after arrival.

3. Place. The firing will be done from the "Aileen" under way as prescribed in the "Regulations for Division Secondary Battery Match," off the south shore of Long Island, as near New York as practicable, but in case of heavy weather, may on agreement be held in the lower bay.

4. Guns. Two of the four-1-pdrs. used by the 2d battalion.

5. Teams. There shall be five (5) teams from each battalion. Four of these teams shall be those competing for the division secondary battery prize, being composed of three (3) enlisted men from each line division, and the fifth shall be chosen from the battalion at large by the C. O. No one shall, however, shoot on two teams.

6. Order of Firing. After the marking boat has pushed off, the gunnery officers shall draw for choice of guns, and the one chosen shall be used by that battalion throughout the match, unless it becomes disabled. In that case, the battalions will use the same gun alternately. The target being ready and the markers in position, the battalion having the choice of guns shall fire first. The order in which the teams of the same battalion fire shall be determined by the gunnery officer thereof. The first team having fired its three strings of five shots, firing shall cease until the number of hits made has been reported. The first team of the other battalion, using the other gun, shall then fire and so on alternately.

7. Time of Firing. The officer conducting the match shall order "load and stand by," and when the gun is loaded and pointed in the direction of the target give the signal to commence firing by whistle or other signal audible fore and aft and note the exact time of the first note. The five shots must be fired within the succeeding minute, except in case of a misfire. If a cartridge misfires, the breech shall be kept closed at least thirty seconds. The remainder of the string shall be fired as if commencing a new one. As the time element is regarded as important, it shall be carefully observed, and any shot fired after the signal to "cease firing" given in the same manner as "commence firing" shall deduct one from the number of hits made by the team firing it, whether it is obviously a miss or not. If no hits are made by the team, it shall not count against the battalion.

8. Broken shell. If the projectile shall break up so soon after leaving the gun as, in the judgment of the officer conducting the match, to have been caused by shock of discharge, he shall allow as many additional shots as broke to the man firing, to be fired as if commencing a string, and twelve (12) seconds per shot allowed from "commence firing."

9. Gun crew. No. 2 and No. 3 at the gun must be members of the battalion using same, but not necessarily members of the teams.

As a precautionary measure, and to avoid crowding at the guns, no enlisted men except those serving the piece, and the team shooting, will be allowed forward of the bridge, nor abaft the officers' companionway, without permission of the gunnery officer.

10. Scoring. Each team shall be given a consecutive number in the order of firing, irrespective of battalion or division. This number of the naval numeral shall be hoisted at the signal yard while the corresponding team is firing and being marked. When the marking boat leaves the target, the next number shall be hoisted. The team number shall be repeated by the marking boat in reporting the number and location of hits. The marking boat is to be kept in ignorance, as far as possible, of the identity of teams. When ready to commence firing, the powder flag shall be hoisted at the mast head, and shall be a signal to the marking boat to keep away from the target. On completion of a team's shooting, it shall be lowered as a signal to the boat, which shall then approach the target, count, record, and report the number and location of the hits. If it is obvious that no hits have been made, and both battalion gunnery officers consent, the flag shall be kept up, the team flag changed, and the boat shall not approach the target. Also if the officers aboard the marking boat agree that no hits have been made, they may so report aboard the "Aileen" and keep clear.

11. Target. The target shall be of canvas, having on it a rectangle outlined in black paint, twenty (20) feet long and six (6) feet high, which shall nearly occupy the entire canvas. A shot within this rectangle or cutting the bounding line shall count a hit. A shot anywhere else shall count a miss.

For convenience in marking, and not as an essential part of the target, the rectangle shall be divided in foot squares, by vertical and horizontal lines, as shown in the diagram.

2								×
3									×
4															×

All horizontal lines shall be black and the vertical ones also, except those between the spaces DE, HI and LM, and PQ. These four lines shall be of a different color, dividing the target into five equal parts. In case of a tie, a hit on the center section shall, for the purpose of deciding the tie, count three (3), on either intermediate section as two (2), and on either outer section as one (1). If a shot cuts the red line it shall be counted and reported as being in the vertical space nearer the center. The cutting of the line must be made by the projectile and not a tear of the canvas extending from the point of impact.

12. Marking. The marking boat shall contain at least one commissioned officer from each battalion. Each officer shall have a score card ruled and lettered similar to the target. When the team has finished firing and the powder flag is lowered, the boat shall approach the target, and one officer shall call off the hits and their location, checked by the other officer, and both shall mark on their diagrams the location of the hits as accurately as may be, compare their cards and agree before leaving the target. The result will be reported aboard the "Aileen" by wigwag as follows: "As third team, three hits, G2, I3, N4," (see diagram, the I3 being on the section line is given as the higher value). A pot of paint and a brush lashed to a pole will be on board, and if the hits become too numerous to allow new ones to be readily observed, old hits may be painted out at intervals. In case of failure to agree on the value of hits, the "Aileen" will be signalled and the dispute be settled as the officer directing the match shall determine.

13. Speed. All shots shall be fired while the "Aileen" is going ahead at four (4) knots per hour as near as may be, and, if possible, a team's entire firing shall be done while going between the steaming buoys at the base of the triangle once. The succeeding string should be fired on the return trip, but if the conditions are such as, in the judgment of the officer conducting the match, to give one battalion an unfair advantage, all firing shall be done while going the same way. Turns shall be made far enough away from the buoys so that speed will be uniform after passing the first one.

14. Final. The intent of these arrangements is that each man shall have as fair an opportunity to fire and hit as the conditions will permit, and the officer conducting is authorized to interpret these conditions as liberally as may be necessary to prevent obvious hardship due to conditions not under control of the competitors, such as shifts of the wind altering the way the target faces, displacement of buoys, interference of passing vessels, etc.

The gunnery officer and inspector of gun practice, N. M., N. Y., will be present to conduct the firing under these regulations.

By command of Captain Miller.

AARON VANDERBILT,

Lieutenant and Gunnery Officer and Inspector of Gun Practice, N. M., N. Y.

APPENDIX (d.)

HEADQUARTERS NAVAL MILITIA, N. Y.,

U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"

FOOT EAST TWENTY-EIGHTH STREET,

NEW YORK, May 12, 1900.

General orders No. 7.

1. The summer tour of duty of the Naval Militia, N. Y., for 1900 shall be as follows:

FIRST BATTALION.

On or about June 15, 1900, the U. S. S. "New Hampshire" will be towed to a berth to be selected by the Commanding Officer of the First Battalion, near Whitestone, Long Island, and there after that ship shall be the station from which exercises of the First Battalion, hereafter prescribed, will be executed.

2. Beginning June 15th, the First Division, First Battalion, N. M., N. Y., shall report on board the "New Hampshire" for two days' duty; and each week thereafter the other divisions of the Battalion shall report until each division has had at least two consecutive days' instruction afloat. Such divisional instruction shall end not later than July 22.

3. On Monday, August 13, all Divisions of the First Battalion shall report on board the U. S. S. "New Hampshire" in all respects equipped and prepared for six days' tour of duty; details of which will be arranged by the Commanding Officer of the First Battalion with the approval of these headquarters.

4. For this tour the Commanding Officer of the Second Battalion is ordered to transfer the U. S. S. "Aileen," one steam launch and two cutters (with the necessary sails and equipment), to the Commanding Officer of the First Battalion, the details of such temporary transfer to be arranged between the two officers named. The permanent enlisted men and petty officers now assigned the "Aileen" and No. 1 steam launch of the Second Battalion will report with their respective vessels.

5. Each of the two days' consecutive duty performed, ordered under par. 2, shall be considered independent as far as pay and traveling rations are concerned. Divisional reports shall be rendered as per regulations, but no pay or rations shall be allowed except for officers and men serving the two consecutive days in any drill of their divisions. No individual officer nor man shall, however, receive more than two days' pay or rations for duty, under this paragraph.

6. For the tour of duty as a battalion, ordered under par. 3, six days' pay and rations shall be allowed, but in no case shall any officer or man of the First Battalion receive in the aggregate more than eight days' pay and rations for all duty prescribed in this order.

7. Battalion reports of this cruise shall be rendered as required by regulations, and a special report in detail, giving all data concerning the nature of instructions and drill, how given, and where performed, shall be made by the Commanding Officer of the First Battalion.

SECOND BATTALION.

8. On July 28th the divisions comprising the Second Battalion, N. M., N. Y., shall report to their Commanding Officer, prepared in all respects for an eight-day tour of duty, to consist of a cruise up Long Island sound or elsewhere as the Commanding Officer of the Second Battalion may determine, subject to the approval of these headquarters. For this tour of duty the Commanding Officer, First Battalion, is ordered to transfer to the Commanding Officer, Second Battalion, three steam launches and four cutters (with the necessary sails and equipments). The Commanding Officers of the First and Second Battalions will arrange details of this temporary transfer, and the steam launches shall be accompanied by the permanent enlisted men of the First Battalion assigned to the same. The Chief-of-Staff is authorized, for this tour of duty, to transfer to the Commanding Officer of the Second Battalion the Headquarters' launch "Mohican," which shall also be accompanied by the present permanent enlisted men attached to that vessel.

9. Eight days' pay and rations, and no more, will be allowed officers and men of the Second Battalion for this tour of duty.

10. Battalion reports of this cruise shall be rendered as required by regulations, and a special report in detail, giving all data concerning the nature of instructions and drill, how given, and where performed, shall be made by the Commanding Officer of the Second Battalion.

11. The Commanding Officer of the Second Battalion is authorized to expend an amount not to exceed $250, for hire of such tugs and lighters as may be necessary for the transportation of pulling boats, equipage, etc.

SECOND SEPARATE DIVISION.

12. Crews comprising the Second Separate Division, N. M., N. Y., shall, during the months of July and August, perform not exceeding eight days' duty on Lake Ontario or adjacent waters; the nature of this duty to be prescribed by the Commanding Officer of that Division, subject to the approval of these Headquarters.

13. The Commanding Officer of the Second Separate Division may expend not exceeding $250 for such tug hire as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this order.

14. Pay and rations shall be allowed only for eight days, and no individual officer or man shall receive more than eight days' pay or rations.

15. The object of the tour of duty undertaken this year is to continue the education of the Naval Militia in practical 'long-shore work under steam, sail, and oars, navigation, reconnaissance, signaling, pilotage, use of small arms and secondary batteries when range has to be found and determined, supply of commands, and care of men, boats and gear, under conditions obtaining in actual service.

16. Commanding Officers will exercise the greatest possible care in maintaining in good condition all vessels, boats, arms, clothing and stores committed to their charge; and will be held to strict accountability for same.

17. The Chief-of-Staff, N. M., N. Y., shall arrange with the Commanding Officers of the First and Second Battalions, and the Commanding Officer of the Second Separate Division, all details regarding transportation, equipment and exercises, not definitely prescribed by this order.

CAPTAIN AND STAFF, N. M.

18. The Commanding Officer, Naval Militia, and his staff are authorized to perform not exceeding eight days' duty, under pay, with rations, in connection with the cruises and exercises prescribed by this order. The dates on which the Staff Officers are required to perform this duty shall be fixed by the Commanding Officer, Naval Militia, who will issue the necessary special instructions concerning this paragraph hereafter.

By command of Captain Miller.

ALFRED BROOKS FRY,
Chief-of-Staff.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION, NAVAL MILITIA, N. Y.,

U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"

FOOT EAST TWENTY-EIGHTH STREET,

NEW YORK, October 9, 1900.

Commanding Officer, Naval Militia, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to make the following report of the work done by this organization for the year ending September 30, 1900.

The regular drill season began on October 30, 1899, and ended on April 28th, in conformity with the order hereto attached marked "A."

It was possible, thanks to the courtesy of Major David Wilson, to obtain the use of the Second Battery Armory. Several battalion drills were held there at dates differing slightly from those in the order, which were of great benefit to the battalion.

On February 16th, the Battalion was reviewed by the Adjutant-General of the State of New York, Brigadier Edward M. Hoffman, at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory which was placed at the disposal of the Battalion by the courtesy of Colonel William G. Bates, and the marksmen's, sharpshooters, and 100 per cent. medals were distributed. The State Brigade prize won by this Battalion, State Figure of Merit, and Secondary Battery Practice prizes were also distributed.

The work aboard the U. S. S. "New Hampshire" during the winter consisted mainly in instruction in seamanship, navigation, ordnance, signaling, and of exercise in infantry, artillery, bayonet exercise, single stick, knotting and splicing, arming and equipping for distant service and fire quarters.

At the end of the drill season the Battalion was offered by the Navy Department a cruise on the U. S. S. "Prairie" similar to that made in the summer of 1899. The terms of a number of enlisted men had expired during the year, their places being taken by recruits who were untrained in small boat work. It was decided that the most important work the Battalion could accomplish was to instruct these new men and render the older men more proficient in the handling of small boats under sail and steam, as the the Naval Militia's place is properly in the second line of defense, consequently the offer of the Navy Department was declined, and the summer course of instruction on the "New Hampshire" was decided upon instead.

On May 23d, the Battalion performed the annual target practice at Creedmoor, as per order attached, marked "b." This order also covers the summer tour of duty, which was carried on as per attached order marked "c."

On June 2d, the U. S. S. "New Hampshire" was moved to an anchorage off Whitestone, L. I. The regular ship's routine was observed as closely as possibly, which I attach hereto, marked "d."

The U. S. S. "Aileen," which was placed at the disposal of the First Battalion by the kindness of Commander R. P. Forshaw, was very ably commanded by Lieutenant J. H. Barnard, the navigator of the First Battalion. The instruction on board of this vessel was a particular interest and value.

Next in importance to this exercise on the "Aileen" comes that on the launches. Each man was instructed as far as the time allowed, in the actual handling of the launch, and shown the action of the helm and rudder in backing, stopping and going ahead. The working of the different parts of the machinery was explained to them. Instruction was also given in steering by compass, and in laying off courses, allowing for tides and currents, running on bearing, heaving the lead, and the general points of inland navigation.

The practice in cutters was of the same general nature, particular attention being paid to the handling under sail.

The division leaving the ship for camp was armed and equipped for distant service in every particular. The camp was maintained independently of the ship, the provisions being taken from the ship when the division left, and the cooking being done by the division cook on shore. Tents were pitched and a strict guard established. Considerable rivalry existed between the various divisions, and several attacks on the camp were made by parties from the ship on different nights, but every attack was repulsed by the camping party.

Commander W. H. H. Southerland, U. S. Navy, who was detailed by the Secretary of the Navy to inspect the Battalion, arrived on board the U. S. S. "New Hampshire" on Friday morning, and inspected the work then actually in progress, remaining with the Battalion until noon on Saturday.

On Friday afternoon the Battalion was landed as a Battalion of Infantry, and exercised in extended order.

The Naval War College submitted a problem and rules which are appended hereto, marked "e," and "f." Captain William R. Hamilton, of the Seventh Artillery, U. S. Army, to whom in a great measure the success of the cruise is due, continued his many courtesies by allowing the members of his Battery, under Second Lieutenant Hamilton, to undertake the execution of the army portion of the problem. Major Knight of the Engineer Corps, U. S. Army, acted as umpire. On Saturday morning the attack was made in accordance with the orders appended to this report, marked "g," "h," "i," "j." The landing was made and the army driven back to a sunken wall which the umpire decided was held by the army and could not be carried by our force according to the conditions of the problem.

The reports of the Division Commanders are appended to this report, showing the work done by each division.

Respectfully,

W. B. FRANKLIN,

Commander.

Orders, No. 19.

1. The First Naval Battalion, will assemble on board this vessel on Wednesday, May 23d, at 7 a. m., for the annual target practice at Creedmoor.

Each officer and man will wear the State decorations for marksmanship which he holds at present. As soon as any man qualifies as a marksman he will have the numeral changed by the proper officer on the range.

Further dates assigned for target practice are, marksman and sharpshooter class, August 4th, 11th, 18th; September 3d, 22d; October 6th, 13th, 20th.

Expert class only August 25th; September 29; October 27th and 31st. Marksmen, sharpshooters and expert numbers will be changed on the range on these dates as provided above.

2. As soon as possible after that date this vessel will be moved to an anchorage off Throgg's Neck for the summer. A regular boat service will be established between the ship and Whitestone Landing, the schedule for which will be furnished later.

3. Divisions will report on board for two days divisional drills as follows:

First Division, Friday, June 15th, at 8 p. m.

Second Division, Friday, June 22d, at 8 p. m.

Third Division, Friday, June 29th, at 8 p. m.

Fourth Division, Friday, July 6th, at 8 p. m.

Fifth Division and Hospital Corps, Friday, July 13th, at 8 p. m.

The Chief Quartermaster will perform this tour of duty in such manner as the Signal Officer may direct.

Quartermasters will report with divisions to which they have been assigned.

The Paymaster's Yeoman will report with the First Division.

The Chief Gunners's Mate will report with the Second Division.

The Chief Boatswain's Mate will report with the Third Division.

The Master-at-arms will report with the Fourth Division.

The Hospital Steward will report with the Hospital Corps.

If for any reason a member of the Battalion cannot perform the tour of duty with his division, he will inform the commanding officer of his division who will then arrange to have him instructed for two days prior to August 13th, in the same work performed by his division.

Pay and rations for two days will be allowed to all men performing this tour of duty.

4. The Battalion will assemble on board this vessel on Monday, August 13, at 8 a. m., for six a days tour of duty, which will terminate on Saturday, August 18th, at 8 p. m.

Six days' pay and rations will be allowed to each man performing this tour of duty.

In no case, even if unforeseen circumstances or stress of weather occur, shall more than eight days' pay be allowed to any member of the Battalion.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST NAVAL BATTALION, N. Y.,

U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"

NEW YORK, June 1, 1900.

The following drills and instruction will be carried out during the six days' tour of duty ordered by Par. 4, B. O. 19, April 28, 1900.

The battalion will assemble at 8 a. m., on Monday, August 13th.

The forenoon will be spent in getting all gear straightened out. Divisions ordered to the "Aileen" will see their hammocks ready and any gear in them they may desire to take. Divisions ordered to camp will pack haversacks and get boat gear ready.

	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.
First Division.....	Aileen.....	Launches.....	Camp.....	Cutters.
Second Division.....	Cutters.....	Aileen.....	Launches.....	Camp.
Third Division.....	Camp.....	Cutters.....	Aileen.....	Launches.
Fourth Division.....	Launches.....	Camp.....	Cutters.....	Aileen.
Fifth Division.....	Aileen.....	Aileen.....	Aileen.....	Aileen.

Quartermasters will report for duty with divisions.

At 1 p. m. each day the division ordered for duty on the "Aileen" will report on board that vessel and will proceed on a 23-hour cruise, reporting to the "New Hampshire" at noon on the next day.

Regular sea routine will be observed and watch, quarter and station bills made out prior to the drill period by division officer.

The navigator will be assigned to the command of the "Aileen" during this period and will be responsible for the safe conduct and navigation of the vessel. The divisional commanders will take entire charge of the drills and see that the routine and exercises are properly carried out and the men instructed in steering, heaving the lead, reading the log, the rudiments of chart work, etc., etc. In the afternoon, if possible, or in the morning, a target will be laid out and target practice will be had by both first and second gun captains. The anchor must be dropped at least once during the trip and the ground tackle and hoisting gear thoroughly explained to the men.

The instruction in cutters will consist in boats under sail during the afternoon and under oars in the morning, or vice versa; every member of the crew taking his trick at the helm and being instructed in the general principles of handling a boat, going alongside docks, turning buoys, tacking, wearing, landing guns from boats, hauling up on beach, etc.

The division detailed for camp duty will leave the ship at 1 p. m. with a steam launch and one or more cutters as may be necessary, armed and equipped for distant service. They will then proceed to a spot selected for camp, pitch their tents and be instructed in sentry duty, guard mounting, and in extended order drills. It is optional with the Commanding Officer of the division to make a night attack on the ship at any time after sundown in any manner he may desire. The division will break camp next morning and arrange to reach the ship by noon.

Launch drill will consist in the afternoon in instruction in the mechanism of engines, etc., in handling the launch alongside floats, turning buoys, backing, rules of the road, etc. In the forenoon, guns will be mounted, target practice will be held and the fleet exercised in squadron evolutions by using the Navy Code.

On Friday afternoon the battalion will land as a battalion of infantry for exercise in extended order used in battle and riot drills.

On Saturday morning the battalion will leave the ship equipped as a landing party, the Third Division going as artillery and the remaining divisions as infantry. Landing will be made on a beach where landing may be opposed. In the afternoon, the enemy will be outlined and a sham battle will take place.

Problem in the Art of War.

Representing the landing of an advance guard of a naval brigade of 1,500 men from the fleet, represented by the "New Hampshire."

This advance guard actually consists of about 150 men, and will force a landing in the face of opposition, with the object of advancing along the road to Fort Schuyler, to develop the infantry support holding that line, and to entrench on the line of Bailiss dock and cottage while awaiting reinforcements.

One hundred and fifty men will be used in the attack, against 50 men for the defense.

Rules for Kriegspiel.

1. Three men per yard in entrenchments will hold it against any attacking force.

2. Only actual artillery will be counted for the attack; for the defense the proper proportion may be allowed and indicated by yellow flags.

3. Fleet will move to the support of the attack; "New Hampshire" must be placed to cover landing. The effective aid given and the position chosen to be criticised by the referee.

4. The referee will have three assistants, who will familiarize themselves with problem and all necessary information.

5. Entrenchments of the defense must be indicated on a map and given to the referee before the exercises; these will not, of course, be known to the attack. Entrenchments of the latter will be indicated by flags (black).

6. The referee and assistants should be mounted and use megaphones and red, white, and blue flags, thus:

Megaphone (preferable).

Red flag, body indicated may advance.

White flag, body indicated must halt.

Blue flag, body indicated must retreat.

Particolored flag (red, white and blue), body indicated is captured.

7. In action the referee will designate the number of wounded (5 per cent. suggested), and these must be cared for in retreat.

8. The fixed guns for defense, if there be any, may be captured only in flank.

9. The referee's bugle call for attention must be promptly obeyed, and all movement or firing must immediately cease until the signal to "carry on."

10. Sketch of successive positions to be occupied by the defense should be given to referee beforehand.

11. A well served line of entrenchments requires an attacking force of 8 to 1 to be carried.

12. Guns in pits are able to defend themselves from front attack.

13. A compact mass, if exposed to concentrated machine or shrapnel fire for 15 minutes, is annihilated.

14. The referee, or one of his assistants, to accompany each detached party, will, from his knowledge of the defense and the positions of the entrenched, decide whether the attack is successful, checked, or forced to retreat.

15. The decisions of the referee or any of his associates must be accepted at once without parley, and upon this one point will largely hinge the success of the maneuvers.

16. The commanders of the defense and attack will submit clear, concise, and full plans beforehand to the referee, with written orders as issued at the moment of attack.

Problem for Red.

An advance squadron of 3 A, 6 B, accompanied by countermining and auxiliary vessels and supplies, is directed to make a sudden attack upon Fort Schuyler, land and naval brigade of 1,500 men, and to capture and hold that work.

The commander-in-chief of red directs that attack by the fleet be made at — a. m., August —, to be followed immediately by the landing of the advance force of the naval brigade—the landing to be effected under cover of the guns of the fleet.

Problem for Blue.

The commanding officer of Fort Schuyler receives reliable information that a hostile squadron is approaching, with the immediate intention of attacking the work, landing the naval brigade and capturing it if possible, from landward.

Fort Schuyler is fully garrisoned and contains an infantry support of 250 men. The naval brigade of the attacking force is estimated to be about 1,500 men.

The hostile squadron having arrived out of range of the guns of the fort, information is received by the commanding officer of Fort Schuyler, confirming the report of the intended attack and landing from the red fleet, and placing the time for the advance at——

The attack by the center and left column will be made with a view of obtaining a foot-hold on the shore, and holding it, the landing place being marked on accompanying sketch. The right column will be used to feint towards the objective, with the intention of drawing enemy from houses and stables about White-head Place. This feint is to be carried home if possible, but to be abandoned if enemy are holding position in force, and the right column will land at second landing place.

The line marked 2nd line is to be held if feint is not successful, until the arrival of the right column, at which time the infantry of the left column will advance under cover of stone wall and flank enemy's position. The infantry of the right column will advance along the beach and flank enemy's position and the artillery of both wing columns and infantry of center column will attack in front; if enemy falls back center column will drive home the attack.

NEW YORK, August 16, 1900.

Lieutenant IRVING BLOUNT, First Battalion, N. M., N. Y.:

Sir.—You will have command of the center column, consisting of the First and Fifth Divisions. The First Division will man the First Division cutter and the Fifth Division one Brooklyn cutter, equipped as infantry and be ready to shove off from the "New Hampshire" at 8 a. m., August 18th. The "Mohawk," with one long 1-pounder will tow your boats, two men from your division manning her gun. Seamen Leahy and Twomey will report to you as boat keepers. Upon order to advance you will proceed towards landing place and shell beach. I will go in "Mohawk." After landing the First Division will hold the road to left of landing, from landing place to junction of road to Fort Schuyler. The Fifth Division must be used to strengthen your right, and advanced down the road to the right. After the artillery has shelled the Whitehead mansion, you will advance your division and endeavor to force enemy back, and hold line just in rear of Whitehead mansion, your right touching the beach, your left touching the left column, and await further orders.

Respectfully,

NEW YORK, August 16, 1900.

Lieutenant MACDONOUGH CRAVEN, First Battation, N. M., N. Y.:

Sir.—You will command the left column, consisting of the Third Division and First Artillery section of the Second Division.

The Third Division equipped as infantry in their cutter, and the first section of the Second Division equipped as artillery and in their cutter, will be ready to leave the "New Hampshire" at 8 a. m., August 18th, and will be taken in tow by the "Oneida." Seamen Halvoisen and Bjurstrom will report to you as boat keepers. Upon order you will advance towards landing place and shell beach. After the center column has landed, under Lieutenant Blount, you will land your artillery and hold it in position on road to right, ready to assist in covering landing. Then your infantry will be disembarked and will proceed by road to left in rear of center column and advance a portion of your infantry as skirmishers, the remainder in reserve; when you have advanced to junction of roads to village and fort, signal me at landing. Your artillery is to advance to gate on right and shell outbuildings on Whitehead estate; when relieved it will join you as soon as possible. As the center column advances you will advance your column, keeping touch with the left of center column until you are on the line of the Whitehead house and bathing house; you will halt and await further orders.

Respectfully,

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION, NAVAL MILITIA, N. Y.,
U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"

NEW YORK, October 9, 1900.

Commanding Officer, First Battalion, Naval Militia, New York:

Sir.—In compliance with your order of October 5, 1900, I have the honor to report the following work performed under my direction during the past year.

The six cutters belonging to this Battalion were thoroughly overhauled, painted, etc., by the regular force of the ship and put overboard on April 14th. Between then and the date of the summer tour there has hardly been a Sunday when two or more were not utilized by volunteer parties familiarizing themselves with their handling under sails and oars and with the local waters.

Under the auspices of the Inter-State Naval Militia Association a race between five organizations was sailed in the four similar ones of these cutters. In the first race this Battalion won over Rhode Island and Pennsylvania, and as winners of this met the Second Battalion of this State and the Battalion of the east of New Jersey, both of whom they also defeated.

Owing to the steam launches of this Battalion being beached above a large steam yacht, and to difficulties in obtaining first the estimates and then the repairs, great delay was experienced in having them made ready for the season. This resulted in getting but one at a time, and overworking that before another could be obtained to share the service. This added materially to the cost of maintenance. This year competitive bids are being obtained on the repair work for next year, which will include the cost of wintering. The specifications provide that all except the finishing work be done on one launch at a time, and that all be completed prior to January 1, 1900, also that they be so stored that all except the launch being overhauled can be put in the water on ten hours notice. This arrangement allows the work to be done when the yards are least busy, and secures a great reduction in the cost of the work.

In addition to the amount that these launches have done under volunteer parties learning the local waters, they have been in constant employment in making the ship accessible to members of the Battalion, have been able to afford a return to the officers and men of Fort Schuyler for their courtesy and efforts towards forwarding the work of our organization, and they accompanied the Second Battalion for their week's tour of duty. For another such season, however, our allotment of coal and water for this service should be raised from $300 to $600.

During the summer tour of duty the U. S. S. "Aileen," under my command, left Throggs Neck at 1.30 p. m., August 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th, on 22-hour trips to the eastward, having on board the Fifth Division in charge of the machinery, and taking each of the other four divisions in turn for duty afloat.

In accordance with a general plan the senior officer of each division prepared watch quarter and station bills, and, acting as the executive officer, conducted the drill and instruction of his men. Each division came aboard promptly and readily fell into the duties of the ship's company. As soon as the anchor was secured they were mustered at quarters, which was followed by fire quarters, and which in its turn was followed by mustering life boat crews and stations for abandoning ship. Further in connection with target practice and other work the life boat crews were called away and exercised.

On arriving off Hempstead or Huntington harbors a small target was put over and all hands exercised in sub-calibre practice. Having bad weather the first night an anchorage was made in Huntington harbor under the lee of Lloyds Neck.

The second night an entrance was made into Oyster bay to pick up a petty officer not previously able to join his division. The ship was brought out after 9 o'clock, when standing to the eastward we kept under way all night. The third and fourth nights the "Aileen" was taken into Northport harbor.

Each morning as soon as it was light the ship was headed for the black and red spar buoy off Lloyds Neck, and the targets and buoys placed for target practice, which was begun between 8.30 and 9 a. m. After each division had fired its allotted 25 shots the targets, buoys and boat were picked up and the run back to Throggs Neck was begun, and where she arrived each run on time. During each of these runs the divisional officers handled the vessel as much as their duties with their divisions would allow, as many of the enlisted men as possible were employed at the wheel, and other instruction, such as the use of the ship log, hand lead, searchlight, etc., was given as opportunities allowed.

On the return to Throggs Neck at noon on August 17th, the Fifth Division was returned to the "New Hampshire" for participation in the landing of the Battalion.

On Saturday, August 18th, with a small detail and under command of Lieutenant Robinson, she was used as part to the fleet covering the landing of the Battalion in attack on Throggs Neck, on Sunday, August 19th, under my command she was returned to the Second Battalion anchorage off Fifty-fifth street, South Brooklyn, when Lieutenant Braine, who received her for his commanding officer, was kind enough to comment favorably upon the condition in which she was surrendered.

In accounting for the successful outcome of the "Aileen's" part of the week's tour the greater part of the credit is due Engineer Lieutenant H. N. Fletcher, and the petty officers and men of the Fifth Division by whom the machinery was splendidly handled. The balance to the co-operation I received from the divisional officers and to Lieutenant Russel Raynor in charge of the gunnery practice, and Dr. H. H. Forbes in his watchfulness over the food and care of the health of all hands.

Since the summer tour the work in my department has been chiefly confined to Saturday and Sunday work in the cutters, the condition of which after the year's work is thoroughly satisfactory.

As, under the circumstances of your serving as Commanding Officer in addition to your duties of executive officer, the charge of the paid force of the ship has been assigned to me, I desire to commend in particular the services of A. A. Walz, mate in charge. His earnestness and ability have made themselves everywhere felt, and the condition of the ship and of the State property under his care has never been better.

Respectfully,

JOHN H. BARNARD,

Lieutenant and Navigator, First Battalion, N. M., N. Y.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION, NAVAL MILITIA, N. Y.,
U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"
FOOT EAST TWENTY-EIGHTH STREET,

NEW YORK, October 5, 1900.

Commander W. B. FRANKLIN, First Battalion, Naval Militia, N. Y.:

Sir.—Pursuant to your orders of the 4th instant, have the honor to submit the following report of duty performed by the Medical Department of the First Battalion during the drill season of 1900. Of the complement of this division we have a surgeon and assistant surgeon and five seamen, of whom one is acting apothecary, and every member of which is either a medical student or a graduate in medicine. During the drill season two lectures a month on subjects relating to first aid to the injured and litter drill have been given by Doctor Forbes, the assistant surgeon, the result of which was seen in the efficient manner in which the baymen looked after the medical matters in camp ashore and aboard the "Aileen" during the summer cruise. Acting Apothecary Schneidenbach, Baymen Wilson, Stettin, each did a tour of duty ashore in camp with the different details assigned to that duty, and on inspection proved their efficiency in every way. On two nights of the cruise the weather was unusually severe, especially on those assigned to duty in camp and aboard the "Aileen," yet there were but thirty of the crew who sought medical or surgical relief during the cruise. It was found that their infirmities consisted of slight injuries incident to service, digestive disturbances which might be expected in consequence of the change in the mode of living were conspicuous in their absence, establishing beyond a doubt the superior physical condition of the men, and perfect hygienic condition of the ship and camp, and the judicious selection of food furnished by the pay-department. During the cruise each division received instruction in the applications of tourniquet and control of hemorrhages, temporary treatment of fracture and transportation of the wounded, rescuing and resuscitation of the drowned, including artificial respiration and the use of the first aid packet.

During the year sixty-eight recruits were physically examined, of whom thirty-four were accepted.

In conclusion it is but just to make mention of the efficient and conscientious manner in which Dr. Forbes, the assistant surgeon, and members of the corps, have discharged their respective duties.

Respectfully,

JOHN P. MCGOWAN,

Surgeon, First Battalion, Naval Militia, N. Y.:

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION, NAVAL MILITIA, N. Y.,
U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE,"

NEW YORK, October 6, 1900.

Commanding Officer, First Battalion, New York:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of the work performed in the ordnance department, and under my direction, for the year ending September 30, 1900.

Pistol Practice.

The pistol range in the hold of this vessel was open to the different divisions on their respective drill nights throughout the drill season 1899-1900, or at the request of a commissioned officer; and, although the range is at present very crude the men evinced great interest in the shooting, and improved individually very materially. Competition amongst the men in some of the divisions being exceedingly keen.

In March, Squadron "A" was challenged, and the match was shot on two dates, the first aboard this vessel, on March 17th at 13 yards at a two-inch bull; and the second on March 24th at the Armory of the Squadron at 30 yards range at a four-inch bull.

Considering the lack of practice that the men of your organization have had, the score shot by the First Battalion team (while not winning the prize) was satisfactory, as will be seen from the following table:

March 17, 1900. U. S. S. "New Hampshire" range.

Grand total 380

The Squadron therefore won the trophy by 33 points.

I would respectfully recommend, that in order to stimulate competition between the men of this Battalion, you challenge Squadron "A" to another match to be shot under similar conditions in the latter part of this drill season ensuing.

Rifle Practice.

Through the courtesy of Colonel W. G. Bates, the rifle range of the Seventy-first Regiment Armory was placed at the disposal of this command on Saturday afternoons. The First and Third Divisions began on January 6th, and the Second and Fourth Divisions on the following Saturday; then they alternated throughout the season, two divisions shooting each week.

The members of the Fifth Division Hospital Corps, and C. P. O. Staff, shot as suited their personal convenience; each man being expected to shoot at least once a month during the season.

Commencing March 17th, the annual competition for the Josephthal trophy was started and continued as per orders, for six weeks. I give the results in the following table by divisions:

	1st day.	2nd day.	3rd day	Total.
First Division	425	381	297	1,103
Second Division	444	479	513	1,436
Third Division	430	383	415	1,228
Fourth Division	458	354	438	1,250

The Second Division won by 186 points over the Fourth.

On April 28th, a volley match was shot under Order No. 14, teams of 18 men from each division competing in squads of 6 each. The following table shows results:

First Division	238
Second Division	267
Third Division	226
Fourth Division	225

The Second winning by 29 points over the First.

Divisional Competition.

The Second and Fourth Divisions during the season held divisional matches on both the revolver and rifle ranges, under rules similar to those required at Creedmoor, and awarding prizes for the same.

The Creedmoor Season.

The following table will show the total qualifications as marksmen, sharpshooters, and experts at Creedmoor during the season.

Staff	15 M.	1 S. S.	0 E.
First Division	45	1	0
Second Division	58	12	3
Third Division	39	1	0
Fourth Division	41	1	0
Fifth Division	12	1	0
Totals	210	17	3

Seventy per cent. of the men of the command are qualified as marksmen, and a fair percentage as sharpshooters and experts. I do not think that it is setting too high a standard for this battalion to require every man in it to qualify as a marksman; and, I earnestly request that the divisional officers be urged to do all in their power to bring that about in 1901, and following seasons.

Respectfully,

RUSSELL RAYNOR,

Lieutenant (J. G.), and Gunnery Officer.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., October 8, 1900.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND NAVAL BATTALION,

Captain J. W. MILLER, Commanding Naval Militia, N. Y., U. S. S.
"New Hampshire," Foot East Twenty-eighth street, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to make the following report concerning the work done and duty performed by the Second Battalion, N. M., N. Y., during the past year.

The only drill hall provided by the city consists of a two and a half story frame boat house built upon piling over the water. It has no heating apparatus and its construction is such as to prohibit the installation of any. Theoretical lectures were given for a time in the only other available space, viz., a small room, 20 by 30 feet in the building used as officers' headquarters.

It was not until the latter part of January that any place could be had for practical drills, when, through the courtesy of Colonel B. T. Clayton, the Fourteenth Regiment armory floor was placed at my disposal for one night of each week. As artillery could not be used on this floor, and there was no equipment of a naval order, the drills were of a necessity confined mostly to infantry and signals.

It is to be regretted that the opportunity was not to be had for practical instruction in the branches distinctly related to the work of the Naval Militia. The drill season at the Fourteenth Regiment armory closed on April 2d.

As soon as the weather conditions were favorable the various gun captains took their men out in the cutters and whale boats for instructions under sails and oars. Nearly every Saturday and Sunday parties were out, frequently remaining from Saturday until Sunday night in charge of a petty officer with permission to land and camp. Cruises in small boats were made as follows:

	Cruises.	Officers.	P. O.	Men
May	4	..	5	32
June	7	2	18	66
July	2	1	4	9
August	5	1	12	45
September	8	2	20	36
October	8	4	13	50

During the summer a commissioned officer was on duty at headquarters every Saturday and Sunday to give instructions and facilitate the getting out of boat parties.

The U. S. S. "Aileen" was placed in commission the first of June, and weekly cruises were made whenever opportunity permitted. At such times division officers were in charge with crews of their respective divisions, and naval routine was maintained. These cruises generally included Saturday and Sunday, and during them practice was given to the officers in piloting along the Sound and environments of New York city. The men were instructed in seamanship, piloting, coastwise navigation, the handling of boats, and in gunnery practice. The latter included sub-calibre and service charges for one-pounder guns. Each division was allowed a certain amount of ammunition to be expended under general orders by division officers according to their best judgment.

Upon recommendation of gunnery officer, Lieutenant Martin, a system was introduced by which each division officer drew his ammunition upon checks signed by him exactly in the same manner as money is drawn from a bank. Unexpended ammunition was returnable and redeposited in the same manner as money is deposited in a bank. The system worked admirably. In all there were sixteen cruises made by the "Aileen" in open water during the summer.

The battalion was ordered out and paraded on Decoration day as a naval brigade. As an object lesson in transporting men and guns, and as the point of assembly was about three miles from our armory, the battalion was transported over the lines of the Brooklyn City railroad, the artillery being loaded on flat cars.

On account of the large number of recruits it seemed best to devote the regular week's tour of duty during the summer to exercises other than those to be had on a naval cruiser at sea, and a camp was established on Center island, Oyster bay. The site was chosen on account of its healthful surroundings, the unusual facilities afforded by the chain of bays formed by Oyster bay and Cold Spring harbor, and its proximity to New York city. The anchorage for small boats was excellent, and there was ample depth of water for anchoring the "Aileen" near shore. At the same time it required less than an hour's steaming to the open waters of the Sound. Camp was pitched on the sloping side of pasture land surrounded by woodland and yet affording ample parade ground. The soil was sandy and porous. In order to have the maximum amount of drill periods during the week, arrangement was made to avoid the long passage from and to Brooklyn in small boats, during which time little practice other than in towing could be derived. The commanding officer of the naval militia placed at my disposal the headquarters steam launch, and the commanding officer of the first battalion, three steam launches, three cutters and four tents. Ensign Chas. H. Hall was directed to proceed with our steam launch at daylight on July 28th and join Ensign Geo. H. Petit in charge of the launches and cutters loaned to us at the "New Hampshire" off Whitestone landing. Ensign Petit reported by telephone at 9 a. m., July 28th, that the flotilla was completed and thoroughly equipped, and was ordered to proceed to the entrance of Oyster bay and await the arrival of the battalion. The wrecking steamer "Chapman" was chartered to assist the "Aileen" in transporting the battalion and equipments, and the boats of the battalion were hoisted on her deck. The equipments consisted of the personal gear of the men, Springfield rifles, four pieces of artillery (one-pounder heavy) with field and deck mounts, two heliographs, wig-wag flags, navy numerals, boat boxes, nineteen conical tents, ammunition, medical supplies, stoves, mess gear, and all the necessary implements of camp.

Every article carried on the cruise was assigned to a particular boat and tagged, and upon coming up with the flotilla in Oyster bay was placed where assigned. The fleet of boats then formed in column and maneuvered to a point opposite the camp. Lieut. C. C. B. Reid effected a landing with the third division, and in extended order examined the locality. Immediately afterwards landing was made by the other divisions simultaneously, so that with the exception of the long passage the conditions were the same as if the battalion had embarked with its gear in the small boats at Brooklyn. The start was made from the armory at 11 a. m., July 28th, the tents were pitched, and supper, including fresh provisions, were served hot at 8 p. m. Guards were established immediately and maintained throughout the week. In order to save time in embarking and disembarking for drills at low tide, Lieutenant Orlopp and Lieutenant Martin with a detail of men constructed a float with a landing stage about one hundred feet long and three feet wide.

Divine services were conducted by the Rev. L. M. Hardy on Sunday, and on Monday the drills commenced. There were three regular drill periods, one of one hour before breakfast, one of two hours during the forenoon, and one of two hours during the afternoon. Dress parade at sunset. The drills included gun practice from the "Aileen" with sub-calibre and service charges from the one-pounders. Each division reported in turn on board immediately after coffee (5.30 a. m.); breakfast was served on board at 7 a. m., and the first two periods were devoted to the exercises, the "Aileen" returning just before dinner. The other drills consisted of small boats, under sails and oars, fleet tactics under steam and oars, extended order, signalling, aid to the injured and apparently drowned, breaking camp, embarking, landing, and an attack from the bay, followed by landing and extended order.

The camp was well policed and all garbage burned. There were very few men on the sick list, though the officers and men were frequently wet. The camp was visited, and inspected by Governor Roosevelt, Commander-in-Chief, and Captain Miller, commanding the Naval Militia. Camp was struck at 8 a. m. on Saturday, August 4th, and the battalion and all its equipments landed at headquarters, the men paid off, and dismissed at 5.30 p. m.

(Daily routine of Cruise, see Appendix "A.")

The battalion was ordered to Creedmoor on May 22d, and during the season qualified 191 marksmen, 22 sharpshooters, and 5 experts.

The various prizes won by the battalion at Creedmoor, and in secondary battery practice on the "Aileen" under way, are as follows:

Naval Militia match.....	State prize.
Battalion secondary battery....	Headquarters N. M., prize.
Division secondary battery.....	State prize, (won by First Division).
Loving cup, Stayton figure of merit cup	Won by Fourth Division.
Third prize, State figure of merit cup	Won by the Fourth Division.
Stayton sharpshooters trophy, silver punch bowl.....	Won by First Division.
Gunnery officers, prize, navy revolver	Won by gun captain A. T. Southard, first crew, First Division.
Battalion individual proficiency prize	Tie between Lieut. (J. G.) K. L. Martin, and Chief Machinist N. A. Winquist.

Champion Marksmen.

First Division	Seaman Mulkins.
Second Division	Seaman Thomas.
Third Division	Seaman Frost.
Fourth Division	Seaman Hills.
Fifth Division	Chief Machinist Winquist.

The battalion had made more substantial progress in the handling and use of small arms and rapid-fire guns than ever before in its history. This is largely due to the interest incited by the valuable prizes offered by Ex-Commander W. H. Stayton, and by the Naval Militia headquarters, and the untiring work of gunnery officer, Lieut. (J. G.) K. L. Martin.

While the battalion has never had a suitable or permanent home of its own, the officers and men have shown much perseverance and a determination to make the most of what was available. It is hoped that with an established home, even though small at first, the efforts of all concerned will be productive of greater results than have been possible without it.

Respectfully,

R. P. FORSHEW,

Commander Second Battalion, N. M., N. Y.

APPENDIX C.

Report of Chief of War Record Bureau.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK.
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
BUREAU OF RECORDS OF THE WAR OF THE REBELLION,
ALBANY, December 31, 1900.

Adjutant-General, S. N. Y.:

Sir:—I have the honor to report:

First. On the first of January this year the whole clerical force of this bureau was engaged in compiling and transcribing the records of the organizations that served from this State in the Spanish-American war. This work has been completed, is now in the hands of the printer and will be delivered by him within a few weeks as part of your report for this year. The work has been named "New York in the Spanish-American War," and is published in three volumes as part of the Adjutant-General's report for the year 1900.

Second. Upon the completion of the records of the New York Volunteers, Spanish-American war, the compiling of the records of New York Volunteers, War of the Rebellion, was resumed and the records of the members of the Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, Forty-first, Forty-second, Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth regiments of infantry have been completed and are ready for the printer, as part of the report of the Adjutant-General of the State for the current year.

Third. To the collection of relics—now suitably displayed in a prominent and easily accessible locality in the Capitol—have been added five pieces of artillery, captured by the United States Navy and troops in the Spanish-American war.

The show cases containing the relics are of a nature that will permit their being broken or crushed very easily, and, therefore, a constant source of expense. I respectfully suggest that a different kind of case, cases which will not permit any one to rest upon them be obtained, thus saving expense for repairs and also affording a better method to display the relics. It would require an appropriation of about two thousand (2,000) dollars.

Respectfully,

FRED PHISTERER,

Chief of Bureau.

APPENDIX D.

Report of Hon. Richard Crowley, State Agent for Collection of War Claims Against the United States.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., January 5, 1901.

EDWARD M. HOFFMAN, Adjutant-General, Albany, N. Y.

Sir:—Agreeably to your letter of December 26, 1900, and our verbal conversation at Albany last week relative to work done during the past year in connection with the claims of our State against the United States, I respectfully submit:

Under date of December 14, 1899, I reported fully the conditions of the claims of our State against the United States up to that date, and I respectfully refer you to that report to be read in connection with this report.

As you are aware, just prior to and in anticipation of the war between our government and Spain, and subsequent to the declaration of such war in April, 1898, our State Legislature passed two acts appropriating in the aggregate one and one-half millions of dollars to defray the expenses incurred by our State in raising and equipping troops for the war with Spain.

That sum was to be expended under the direction of the Governor of our State and the Adjutant-General. Subsequently the Congress of the United States by an act approved July 8, 1898, and by a subsequent act approved in March, 1899, and amending the act of July, 1898, provided for repayment by the United States to the States, the expenses and reasonable costs, made and incurred by the States in aiding the United States to raise the army in that war and which was also to include the subsistence, clothing, supplying, equipping, paying, and transporting men accepted into the volunteer army of the United States for the various States.

Since the declaration of that war and its subsequent ending in August or September, 1898, the auditing officers at Washington have not taken up any of the old Civil War claims, but have devoted their entire attention to the settlement of such claims growing out of the Spanish war.

Since the breaking out of the war with Spain your department has transmitted to me at various times claims against the United States, containing charges and expenses incurred by our State in assisting to raise the volunteer army of the United States and for which we claimed repayment by the United States under the said act of Congress.

I have prepared these claims, putting them in shape as required by the rules and regulations of the auditing officers at Washington, and filed the same with the said auditing officers of the Treasury Department, as follows:

FIRST INSTALLMENT.

The first installment of the Spanish war claims amounted to the sum of $309,290.38, and was filed with the auditor for the War Department in October, 1898. That consisted of various claims, and your Department has a copy of such first installment. In April, 1899, the auditor for the War Department rendered a decision on said first installment, allowing to our State thereon the sum of $191,372.14, and issued a settlement certificate therefor, payable to the order of the Governor of our State, and in May, 1899, the auditor transmitted to me a statement of differences of suspensions amounting to the sum of $117,918.24, and asked for additional information and explanations concerning such suspensions.

After receiving such statement of differences and suspensions, in connection with your office. and at Albany and New York, I prepared the necessary explanations and information as best we could and filed the same with the auditor at Washington in August, 1899. Since that time he has called for additional information and explanations, and we have from time to time prepared and filed the same with him; the last being filed with him in December, 1900, and relating principally to the expenditures of the naval militia in New York harbor, which amounted to upwards of $20,000. There is also some additional information called for and to be supplied relating to the transportation of troops by the Long Island Railroad Company and from Colonel Welch, relative to the Sixty-fifth Regiment transportation from Buffalo.

I believe that when the auditor takes up these explanations, which he promises to do in a few days, we will recover most of said sum of $117,918.24, suspended as aforesaid.

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

In January, 1899, I filed with the auditor for the War Department at Washington the second installment of the Spanish war claims, amounting to the sum of $325,625.69, which consisted almost entirely of clothing and quartermasters property furnished to the volunteer organizations from our State under the first call of the President.

The auditor has had this installment under consideration since that time without taking definite action thereon. He transmitted the same to the Quartermaster-General of the United States army at Washington for information and for his opinion as to the value of the clothing and prices charged therefor by our State. In March, 1900, the Quartermaster-General rendered his opinion to the auditor, and you will remember our various conversations concerning this installment and our visit to Washington in December, 1900, and our conversations with the auditor concerning the same.

On December 5, 1900, you addressed me a letter under that date, authorizing me to make settlement of the clothing account of this installment upon the terms stated in your said letter.

Such settlement, as I understand it, would give to the State in the aggregate about 50 per cent., for new and old clothing, of its cost to our State. I have not yet filed that letter with the auditor for the reason that after you left Washington I learned that negotiations were pending between the auditor's office and the State of Ohio and another State which was likely to result in the settlement of the clothing accounts of those States at about the sum of 75 per cent. of the cost price of their clothing and that the matter would soon be decided, and I concluded it was best to defer filing your letter with the auditor until such decision for the reason that if the Department allows those States that sum in settlement of their clothing accounts, there is no reason known to me why our State should not receive at least an equal amount.

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

In January, 1899, I filed with the auditor at Washington the third installment of the Spanish war claims, aggregating $49,581.26. This claim is for ordnance property furnished to the volunteer organizations of our State under the first call of the President. This claim has been substantially settled by your Department with the Secretary of War, as you have informed me and as also stated in copies of correspondence transmitted by your office to me, and there is substantially nothing left to be done by me under this installment.

FOURTH INSTALLMENT.

In January, 1899, I filed with the said auditor at Washington the fourth installment of Spanish war claims, amounting to the sum of $5,627.25. This is for medical property furnished to the volunteer organizations of our State under the first call of the President. The auditor transmitted this installment to the Surgeon-General's office at Washington for information concerning the same, and the Surgeon-General has rendered to the auditor his opinion thereon. Upon receiving the same the auditor called upon me for additional information concerning such medical property. His letter was dated March 20, 1900, and I transmitted a copy of the same to your office March 22, 1900, asking for such aid and information as you could give me. Mr. Howard, of your Department, informed me last week, at Albany, that he has about completed the information called for and will transmit me the same in the course of a few days. Upon its receipt I will call up this installment for action by the auditor.

FIFTH INSTALLMENT.

In March, 1899, I filed with the auditor the fifth installment of our claims, growing out of the Spanish war, amounting to $6,848.84. This is for sundry expenses paid to individuals and firms and officers by your Department, and no final action has yet been taken upon it by the auditor at Washington.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT.

In May, 1899, I filed with the auditor the sixth installment of our Spanish war claims, amounting to $16,444.93. This is for sundry expenses paid to individuals, firms, and officers of your Department, and also by the ordnance department. No final action has been taken thereon by the auditor, but under decision made by the first Comptroller of the Treasury, favorable action is expected to be had thereon when the matter is finally disposed of by the auditor.

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT.

In July, 1899, I filed with the auditor the seventh installment of our Spanish war claims, amounting to $163,944.01, being for the payment of troops during the late war with Spain. The auditor in December, 1899, audited and allowed upon this installment to our State the sum of $152,480.12, and suspended the balance for additional information, except a small part of which balance was disallowed for reasons which I have already transmitted to you. We have been engaged in preparing the information called for relative to the suspensions, and Mr. Howard informs me that the same will be furnished me within a short time.

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT.

In November, 1899, I filed with the auditor the eighth installment of our Spanish war claims, amounting to $50,317.30. This is for the payment of officers and enlisted men, etc., of the National Guard. No final action or decision has yet been had concerning this installment by the auditor at Washington. He has asked for information concerning some of the items from time to time and we have furnished the same to the extent of our ability.

NINTH INSTALLMENT.

In May, 1900, I filed with the auditor at Washington our ninth installment of the Spanish war claims, aggregating $2,436. This is for pay of officers Handy, Phisterer and Story, and no action has yet been taken upon this installment by the auditor.

TENTH INSTALLMENT.

During the closing days of December, 1900, I received from your office the tenth installment of Spanish war claims, amounting to $8,686.28. I have put the same in proper shape and the Governor has duly certified the same, and I have transmitted the same to the auditor at Washington, January 5, 1901. Of course no action has yet been taken upon this claim.

This embraces all the claims thus far transmitted to me growing out of the war with Spain and aggregating the sum of $938,801.94. There has been paid thereon on the first installment the sum of $191,372.14, and upon the seventh installment the sum of $152,480.12; there was also paid upon the first installment the claim paid by our State to H. C. Duncan & Company, of Newburgh, for $9,186.03, in May, 1900. I have furnished your Department with correspondence relative to this particular claim. The third installment has been adjusted as hereinbefore stated. The payments aggregate the sum of $353,038.29. To this should be added the settlement of the third installment of $49,581.26.

I have been busy from time to time supplying the information asked for by the auditor at Washington, visiting Albany, New York and Washington from time to time as necessity required, and I leave to-night or to-morrow for Washington to press these matters for settlement upon the auditor. Some days ago the late auditor, Frank H. Morris, was assassinated in his office at Washington, as you may remember, and a new auditor has been appointed. You know, in a general way, what has been done from time to time and the situation of these suspended war claims; the summary before given you states their present condition.

I have the honor to be,

Yours respectfully,

RICHARD CROWLEY,

State Agent, War Claim.

CONCLUSION.

During the year the Seventy-fourth Regiment, Schenectady and Whitehall armories were accepted by the Commission and placed in charge of officers commanding troops quartered therein.

All work was progressed rapidly under the careful supervision of the State architect, Inspector Passage and resident inspectors.

The site selected by the board of supervisors of Erie county on which to erect an armory for the Sixty-fifth Regiment was approved by the Armory Commission, and it is expected work will be commenced on this building early next spring.

The appropriation which it has been customary for the Legislature to make annually for a number of years—with the exception of 1899, when no appropriation was made—for repairs, improvements and betterments generally to armories, camp grounds and rifle ranges throughout the state, is entirely inadequate to enable the Armory Commission to carry out fully the provisions of the Code, section 17, which directs the Commission to keep in good repair the arsenals, armories, quarters, camp grounds and rifle ranges in its charge.

The fact that during the past fifteen years the number of State armories has steadily increased and that as time goes on all buildings are becoming older and need more extensive repairs seems to be lost sight of when appropriations for repairs and improvements to these buildings are made. As stated in report of the Commission for 1899, reports are received almost every day from commanding officers of the forty-one State armories on needed repairs of some sort—a leak in roof or gutters, damages to ceiling and walls as a result of such leak, plumbing, heating and lighting systems out of order, etc. In addition to these the reports of the inspector show that in many instances very extensive repairs are required to save the building and properly protect the property therein. The State has many thousand dollars worth of property deposited in these armories, and it would seem to be its duty to provide means for properly preserving and protecting same.

It is urgently recommended that the Legislature appropriate an amount sufficient to enable the Commission to do what is required in the way of repairs to buildings, grounds, ranges, etc., in a lump sum, instead of making special appropriations for particular armories. Estimates prepared by Mr. Passage, inspector for the Commission, who during the year made a careful study of what is desired in this direction, show that $200,781.06 is needed to accomplish this.

With regard to the Syracuse armory, which is now not only entirely disproportionate—it having been built originally for the housing of a regiment—but in need of such extensive repairs that it is believed it will be economy to dispose of it and erect a new building more suitable to the times and military needs of a separate company. A little added to the large amount required—$39,000—to place the present building in safe condition would build a new armory, whereas if it was expended for improvements the State would still have an old building which at the most will be habitable only a few years; favorable action by the Legislature in this direction is also recommended.

For two years past the Armory Commission has recommended a special appropriation for enlarging and repairing the Troy armory. The headquarters of a regiment and three companies are quartered in this building, and it is desired to have a drill-room where "instruction in the school of the battalion" can be imparted by practical demonstration. It is understood that the board of supervisors of Rensselaer county are ready to purchase the necessary land on which to extend the drill shed, provided the State will pay the cost of construction. It is hoped that the Legislature will provide the necessary means for making this improvement at its next session.

Respectfully,

F. A. McNEELY,

Secretary.

General Orders No. 3.

I. The War Department having decided that the Seventy-first Regiment Infantry, N. Y. Vols., cannot be considered to have been sufficiently near to the place of actual conflict to be entitled to credit for the action at La Guasimas, so much of Section II of General Orders No. 20, A. G. O., series 1899, as relates to the Seventy-first Regiment is amended to read as follows:

Seventy-first Regiment, four rings as follows: "Spanish-American War, 1898," "Cuba, June, July and August, 1898," "San Juan Hill, July 1, 1898," "Siege of Santiago de Cuba, July 2 to 17, 1898."

II. Section V of General Orders No. 26, A. G. O., series of 1899, is hereby amended to read as follows:

The State uniform allowed for every man who enlists for five years in the National Guard consists of one helmet, cap, campaign hat, dress coat, blouse, and pair of trousers; and in the Naval Militia, one cap, watch cap, blue shirt, undershirt, neckerchief, blue trousers, working suit (trousers and jumper), and knife lanyard.

For chief petty officers, dress coats (chevrons excepted) and dress trousers (Paragraphs 44 and 48 N. M. Uniform Regulations) will be allowed as a commutation for allowance for uniforms on new enlistments in lieu of the watch cap, blue shirt, under shirt, neckerchief and blue trousers.

Overcoats, leggings and ponchos, are also issued for enlisted men; and whenever the enlisted strength of the organization exceeds the number of any of those articles on hand, additional issues will be made, requisitions for which should be made on Form 19, through the channel.

III. The fifth paragraph of Special Orders No. 7, A. G. O., c. s., amending Paragraph 68 of the Regulations relating to the Uniform of the National Guard, 1899, is hereby revoked.

General Orders No. 7.

The following amendments to the Military Code are published for the information and guidance of all concerned :

CHAPTER 746.

AN ACT to amend the Military Code, in relation to hospital corps and military pharmacists.

Became a law May 3, 1900, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section twenty-five of chapter two hundred and twelve of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety eight, entitled "An act in relation to the militia, constituting chapter sixteen of the general laws," is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 25. Regiments.—A regiment shall consist of not less than eight nor more than twelve companies, troops or batteries, and of one colonel ; one lieutenant-colonel ; two majors, (three, if the regiment consists of more than ten companies); one surgeon, of the grade of major ; two assistant surgeons, each of the grade of captain ; one captain, as adjutant of the regiment ; two first lieutenants as adjutants of battalions, (three, if the regiment is of more than ten companies); one captain, as quartermaster of the regiment ; two first lieutenants, as quartermasters of battalions, (three, if the regiment is of more than ten companies); one captain, as commissary of subsistence ; one captain as inspector of small arms practice ; one first lieutenant, as assistant inspector of small arms practice ; one chaplain ; one military pharmacist, of the grade of first lieutenant ; one sergeant-major of the regiment ; two sergeant-majors of battalions, (three, if the regiment is of more than ten companies), one regimental quartermaster-sergeant ; two quartermaster-sergeants of battalions, (three, if the regiment is of more than ten companies); one commissary sergeant of the regiment ; one ordnance sergeant ;

two hospital stewards, (three, if the regiment is of more than ten companies); one bandmaster; one drum major or chief trumpeter; two color bearers, one of the grade of sergeant; a hospital corps not to exceed twenty-five men, of whom one may be a sergeant and five may be corporals. To a regiment of cavalry or artillery there shall be allowed also one veterinary surgeon of the grade of first lieutenant.

§ 2. Section twenty-six of said chapter as amended by chapter five hundred and eight of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 26. Battalions.—A battalion of infantry not part of a regiment, shall consist of not less than three nor more than seven companies, and of one major; one assistant surgeon, of the grade of captain; one assistant surgeon, of the grade of first lieutenant; one first lieutenant, as battalion adjutant; one first lieutenant, as battalion quartermaster; one first lieutenant as battalion commissary of subsistence; one first lieutenant, as inspector of small arm practice; one chaplain; one sergeant-major; one quartermaster-sergeant; one commissary sergeant; one ordnance sergeant; two hospital stewards; one bandmaster; one drum-major or chief trumpeter; two color bearers of the grade of sergeant; a hospital corps not to exceed nine men of whom one may be appointed sergeant and two corporals. A squadron of cavalry and a battalion of artillery shall consist of not less than two nor more than four troops or batteries, the field staff and non-commissioned staff officers and hospital corps allowed to a battalion of infantry and the following: One veterinary surgeon, of the grade of first lieutenant; one veterinary sergeant; one signal sergeant.

§ 3. Section fifty-two of said chapter is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 52. Eligibility required to receive a commission.—Commissioned officers must be citizens of the United States and of the age of eighteen years and upwards. No person who has been expelled or dishonorably discharged from any military or naval organization of the state shall be commissioned unless he first re-enlists as provided in this chapter. No person shall be commissioned unless he shall possess the additional requirements herein prescribed for the particular office to which he is to be commissioned. A major-general, at the time of his appointment, must be an officer, in active service in the national guard of this state of the grade of brigadier-general, or field officer, and for seven successive years immediately preceding his appointment, he must have been in active service in said national guard as a commissioned officer.

A brigadier-general, at the time of his appointment must be an officer in active service in the national guard of this state of the grade of field officer, and for five successive years immediately preceding his appointment, he must have been in active service in said national guard as a commissioned officer.

A commodore shall have been in the active service of a state as an officer of the naval militia, or in the service of the United States as an officer of the navy or in all combined for at least ten years.

A captain of the naval militia, at the time of his appointment shall have performed the same services for at least five years.

A commander or lieutenant-commander for at least three years.

A colonel of a regiment, at the time of his appointment, must either be an officer in active service in the national guard of this state; and for three successive years immediately preceding his appointment, he must have been in active service in said national guard as a commissioned officer; or if not in active service at the time of his appointment he must have had prior service of at least six years in the national guard of this state, or in the army of the United States, or in both combined as a commissioned officer.

A lieutenant-colonel and major of the line, at the time of his appointment, must either be an officer in the active service, and for two successive years immediately preceding his appointment, he must have been in active service in the national guard of this State, as a commissioned officer, or if not in active service at the time of appointment, he must have had prior service of at least six years in the national guard of this State, or in the army of the United States, or in both combined, as a commissioned officer.

Staff officers or officers below the grade of brigadier-general, except judge-advocates, medical officers, veterinary surgeons, chaplains and military pharmacists, must have served one year preceding their appointments, in the national guard or naval militia of this State as the case may be, except that those in the naval militia may be credited with service in the United States navy or revenue marine.

Staff officers of the major-general, brigadier-generals and commodore, except judge-advocates, surgeons and engineers must be selected from the commissioned officers in active service in the national guard or naval militia of this State, who for one year immediately preceding their appointments, have been in active service in such national guard or naval militia as commissioned officers.

A judge-advocate must be a counsellor-at-law of the supreme court of this State of at least ten years standing if of the grade of lieutenant-colonel, of at least five years standing if of the grade of major or lieutenant-commander; and of at least three years standing if of the grade of lieutenant of the naval militia.

Surgeons and assistant surgeons must be graduates of an incorporated school of medicine and of at least fifteen years practice if of the grade of colonel, of at least ten years practice if the grade of lieutenant-colonel*; of at least five years practice if of the grade of major or lieutenant-commander; of at least three years practice if of the grade of captain or naval lieutenant; and of at least two years practice if of the grade of first-lieutenant or lieutenant junior grade.

An engineer officer of the national guard must have been educated as a military or civil engineer.

An engineer lieutenant-commander shall have been a commissioned marine engineer in the service of the United States, or shall hold a United States marine license not below the grade of chief engineer of ocean steamers of at least one thousand tons burthen.

An engineer lieutenant and engineer lieutenant junior grade shall have been a commissioned marine engineer in the service of the United States, or shall hold a United States marine license not below the grade of chief engineer of inland steamers of at least two hundred and fifty and one hundred tons burthen respectively.

An engineer ensign shall be a recognized engineer or machinist of at least three years standing.

A signal officer must have a knowledge of signaling, telegraphy, topography and map making.

* So in the original. It should read "of at least ten years practice if of the grade of lieutenant-colonel."

A veterinary surgeon must be a graduate of an incorporated school of veterinary science.

A chaplain must be a regularly ordained minister of some religious denomination.

A military pharmacist must be a registered pharmacist.

§ 4. Section fifty-three of said chapter is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 53. Examination.—Before being commissioned every officer must have passed a satisfactory examination before a board as to his knowledge of military or naval affairs and general knowledge and fitness for the service, and any one failing to pass such examination shall not be eligible for an office in the militia of the State for the period of one year from the date of such failure. Judge-advocates, medical officers, veterinary surgeons and military pharmacists shall be examined as to their general and professional knowledge and fitness for the service only. The following are exempt from examination: general officers, the commodore or captain of the naval militia; officers who immediately on the expiration of their term of office or resignation, are reappointed to the position they previously held; chaplains and those mentioned in section seventy-eight of this chapter.

§ 5 Section fifty-five of said chapter is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 55. Appointed officers.—The major-general of the national guard shall be appointed by the governor with the consent of the senate; during the time that the senate is not in session, the governor may make such appointment, subject to subsequent confirmation by the senate. The commodore or captain of the naval militia shall be appointed by the governor. The officers on the staff of the major-general commanding the national guard, of the brigadier-generals, and of the officer commanding the naval militia, officers of the signal corps, the extra officers allowed to regiments, battalions and squadrons for staff duty, surgeons and assistant surgeons of regiments, battalions and squadrons not part of regiments, assistant surgeons of separate troops, batteries, separate companies, and divisions, veterinary surgeons, chaplains, and military pharmacists, shall be appointed by the governor upon the recommendation of their immediate commanding officers. When the governor desires to create new organizations, he shall have the power in the first instance to appoint all the officers necessary to commence and complete such organizations.

§ 6. Section seventy-five of said chapter is hereby amended so as to read as follows :

§ 75. Non-commissioned staff and chief petty officers ; non-commissioned and petty officers.—Commanding officers of regiments and of battalions and squadrons not part of regiments, shall appoint and warrant the non-commissioned staff and chief petty officers of their respective regiments, battalions or squadrons and they shall, in their discretion, warrant the non-commissioned and petty officers of the troops, batteries, companies and divisions of their respective regiments, battalions and squadrons, from the members thereof, upon the written nomination of the commanding officers of the troops, batteries, companies and divisions respectively. In troops, batteries and companies, not part of a regiment, battalion or squadron, and in signal corps, the non-commissioned officers shall be warranted by the commanding officer of the brigade, in his discretion, from the members thereof, upon the written nomination of the commanding officer of the troop, battery, company or signal corps. Petty officers of separate divisions shall be warranted in like manner by the commanding officer of the naval militia. No enlisted man shall be warranted as a non-commissioned officer unless he shall have passed a satisfactory examination before a board of examiners to be appointed by the officer authorized to issue such warrant.

To be eligible for appointment as hospital steward, a candidate must be a registered pharmacist.

The officer warranting a non-commissioned or petty officer shall have power to reduce to the ranks, for good and sufficient reasons, the non-commissioned or petty officers named in this section ; but such as were enlisted as non-commissioned or petty officers shall be discharged. Non-commissioned or petty officers who shall be dropped vacate their positions.

§ 7. This act shall take effect immediately.

By command of the Governor :

EDWARD M. HOFFMAN,
Adjutant-General.

 ALBANY, May 26, 1900.

General Orders No. 8.

1. Before a General Court Martial, convened in accordance with S. O. No. 35, c. s., Headquarters National Guard, there was arraigned and tried:

Captain A. J. Griffin, National Guard, Supernumerary, on the following charges and specifications: •

CHARGE I.

Disobedience of orders.

Specification 1. In this, that Captain A. J. Griffin, having been ordered to cause Company F, Sixty-ninth Regiment, N. G. N. Y., to be assembled at the Armory of the Sixty-ninth Regiment on Monday evening, February 19, 1900, at 8 p. m., to be mustered out of the State service, did fail to appear himself, and did fail to send any excuse for his absence.

Specification 2. In this, that Captain A. J. Griffin, having been ordered to have duplicate muster-out rolls of Company F, 69th Regiment, prepared, and to have discharges for the enlisted men of the company made out and ready to be delivered to the mustering-out officer on Monday evening, February 19, 1900, did fail entirely so to do.

Specification 3. In this, that Captain A. J. Griffin, having been sent a copy of the following order, did fail to carry out any of its provisions, and did also fail to obey Special Orders 19 c. s. Headquarters National Guard:

HEADQUARTERS 69TH REGIMENT, N. G. N. Y.,
February 13, 1900.

R. O. No. 10.

In accordance with Special Orders No. 19 c. s. Headquarters National Guard, Company F will be mustered out of the State service at 8 o'clock p. m. on February 19, 1900. The Commanding Officer of Company F will cause the company to be assembled at this armory at that time. "He will have duplicate muster-out rolls of the company prepared and discharges for the enlisted men will be made out and handed to the mustering-out officer." All other provisions of Special Orders No. 19 c. s. Headquarters National Guard will be strictly carried out.

By order of Colonel Duffy :

GRENVILLE T. EMMET,
Acting Adjutant.

CHARGE II.

Unmilitary and unofficer-like conduct.

Specification 1. In this, that Captain A. J. Griffin, having been sent a copy of R. O. No. 10. c. s., did fail absolutely to obey the same.

CHARGE III.

Conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline.

Specification 1. In this, that Captain A. J. Griffin, having been sent a copy of R. O. No. 10 c. s., did wilfully disobey the same.

This at the armory of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, N. G. N. Y., in New York City in the State of New York, on the 23d day of February, 1900.

Witnesses: Major P. B. Strong, Inspector Fifth Brigade, N. G. N. Y.; Second Lieutenant G. T. Emmet, Acting Adjutant Sixty-ninth Regiment; P. S. McDwyer, Sergeant, Company L, Sixty-ninth Regiment, N. G. N. Y.; Charles A. Flanagan, Company F, Sixty-ninth Regiment.

[Signed]

EDWARD DUFFY,
Colonel Sixty-ninth Regiment, N. G. N. Y.

To which the accused pleaded as follows :

To first specification, first charge, not guilty.

To second specification, first charge, not guilty.

To third specification, first charge, not guilty.

To the first charge, not guilty.

To first specification, second charge, not guilty.

To the second charge, not guilty.

To first specification, third charge, not guilty.

To third charge, not guilty.

After mature consideration the court finds the accused :

Of the first specification, first charge, guilty.

Of the second specification, first charge, guilty.

Of the third specification, first charge, guilty.

Of the first charge, guilty.

Of the first specification, second charge, guilty.

Of the second charge, guilty.

Of the first specification, third charge, guilty.

Of the third charge, guilty.

And sentences him "to be reprimanded and to be discharged from the service."

II. The commanding officer of the National Guard, by whom, pursuant to the orders of the Governor, the court was convened, referred its proceedings to the judge-advocate of the National Guard for examination and recommends that the proceedings, findings and sentence of the court be disapproved, basing this recommendation upon the report of his judge-advocate, in which he concurs and of which the following extracts are published for the information of all concerned and the guidance of future court martial:

* * * * *

"On arraignment the accused moved to dismiss the charges upon two grounds, one that there was no jurisdiction as to the person, and the other a lack of jurisdiction as to the subject matter (p. 15).

The first ground for the motion was based on the statement that the charges were preferred against "Captain A. J. Griffin, Supernumerary, late captain Sixty-ninth Regiment, N. G., N. Y." Whereas it was claimed that Company F, Sixty-ninth Regiment had never been legally mustered out and, therefore, Captain Griffin was not a supernumerary officer and that there was a misnomer in the charges (pp. 16, 17).

The court overruled the motion based on this ground (p. 21). This action, in my opinion, was entirely proper. There was no question whatever but the accused was the identical person against whom the charges and specifications had been preferred and there was no such misnomer as prejudiced him at any time in a subsequent proceeding. Moreover, the entire foundation for the motion was the assertion that Company F, Sixty-ninth Regiment had not been legally disbanded, which is directly contrary to evidence set out in the record.

The other ground for the motion to dismiss was withdrawn by the accused (p. 27).

The facts in the case as they appear in the records are as follows: On February 10th, 1900, the Commanding Officer, National Guard, issued S. O. No. 19, c. s. reciting that "the Governor having disbanded Company F, Sixty-ninth Regiment, it will be mustered out of the State service at the armory of the regiment at 8 o'clock on the 19th instant," and the Commanding Officer of the Fifth Brigade was ordered to direct his Inspector to muster out the company at that time and place and the Commanding Officer Sixty-ninth Regiment was ordered to see that duplicate muster-out rolls and discharges were prepared and handed to the mustering out officer and to issue the necessary orders for the assembly of the company at the time and place mentioned for mustering out (pp. 32, 33).

Thereupon the Commanding Officer Sixty-ninth Regiment issued S. O. No. 10 c. s. Headquarters Sixty-ninth Regiment, reciting the fact that Company F of that Regiment would be mustered out of the State service on February 19th pursuant to the orders just set out and continuing further "The Commanding Officer of Company F will cause the company to be assembled at this armory at that time. He will have duplicate muster-out rolls of the company prepared and discharges for the enlisted men will be made out and handed to the mustering out officer. All other provisions of S. O. No. 19 c. s. Headquarters National Guard will be strictly carried out" (p. 35).

Copies of both these orders were sent to the accused and it is admitted of record that he received them (p. 42).

The record shows that he received the copy orders at the armory, on Wednesday, February 14th, at which time he had a company drill, and that he read the regimental orders to the company at that time (pp. 36, 145, 153).

The fact is not disputed that the accused did not appear on February 19th at the time and place specified for the muster out of his command, nor did he cause to be prepared any muster-out rolls or any discharges for the enlisted men as required by the terms of the orders served on him. He sent no message to the mustering out officer but told a private of his company whom he met in the afternoon of February 19th that "he would not be there (at the armory) in the evening and told him (me) to tell whoever was in charge that he had another appointment to attend to" (p. 57). At the same time he told this private that "he did not have the mustering out rolls and discharges" (p. 58).

The mustering out officer, Major Strong, Inspector, Fifth Brigade, testified that he attended the armory of the Sixty-ninth Regiment at 8 o'clock on February 19th; that he waited until about twenty minutes past 8 in the room of the commanding officer of the regiment and then went to the room of Company F, where he found about nineteen men "not in uniform and not assembled in any way" (p. 44). He took the names and addresses of these men and told them they would receive an honorable discharge and left the armory (p. 54).

The accused took the stand as a witness in his own behalf. He admitted that he did not prepare the muster-out rolls and discharges. The excuse he gave was that he "did not receive any to prepare" (p. 83).

When asked why he was not present on February 19th his answer was "I had discovered in the order disbanding the company certain irregularities and certain defects in form which I saw would make a good test case in court as to how far the Governor's authority extended toward the disbandment of companies in the National Guard without a judicial examination of the reasons which were advanced for that disbandment. The order disbanding the company I believed, as it alleged that it was issued upon certain representations which I knew to be false, would be rescinded" (pp. 86, 87), and he continued in this belief. He first sought the Governor, going to Albany and laying the facts before him, and on further examination he said "the gist of my reason was that I believed in the first place that the order would be rescinded or suspended in its operations by Monday night by the Governor (pp. 89, 90); * * * in the second place I never positively got any discharge or any muster-out rolls to make out, and I had no opportunity whatever to make them out" (p. 91).

On cross examination he stated that he stayed away because he "had another engagement" and because he believed "the order would never be carried into effect" (p. 94). On being asked by the Judge Advocate what the engagement was (p. 101), his reply was "All I have to say in regard to that is that it was a personal engagement of a nature which I do not care to disclose to the court" (p. 103).

In reply to the question by the President "Was it not your duty to prepare the necessary muster-out rolls and discharges and have them ready on the date of the muster-out," he replied "It was if I had or could get them," and the question being repeated he replied "Of course, yes; certainly" (pp. 116, 117).

It is shown by the evidence beyond any controversy that the accused received personally copies of S. O. No. 19 c. s. Headquarters National Guard and R. O. No. 10 c. s. Headquarters Sixty-ninth Regiment, five days prior to the date fixed therein for the mustering out of his command. The regimental order in the clearest language directed him to cause his company to be assembled in the armory on February 19th at eight o'clock and to have duplicate muster-out rolls and discharges of enlisted men prepared. Beyond reading these orders to the company on the evening he received them, the accused did absolutely nothing towards complying with them. He did not attend at the armory on February 19th himself and the pretense of his counsel that he was not required to do so by the terms of the order is too trivial to be worthy of notice. An order to a commanding officer to assemble his command at a time and place specified, includes the assembling of the entire organization, and the commanding officer himself is as much a part of that organization as the youngest private.

The excuses offered for his absence are remarkable. First, he states that it was because he believed the order of disbandment to be illegal and desired by staying away to make a proper case to test its validity in the civil courts. On this point it is sufficient to say that as far back as the year 1891 in the case of People ex rel. Leo vs. Hill, 126 N. Y., 497, it was decided that the right to disband a company was vested in the sound discretion of the Governor and was not reviewable by the civil courts. As the accused is a member of the Bar, it is reasonable to suppose that he was aware of this decision.

The second excuse offered is that the accused believed that the Governor would revoke the order. It is sufficient to say that it is the duty of every military officer to obey an order up to the moment it is revoked, and his imagination or belief that the order might be or would be revoked is no justification for his total and absolute failure to take any steps towards obeying it.

The third reason advanced by the accused for his conduct was that he had another engagement on the evening of February 19th, but he wholly failed to show when that engagement was entered into, or what its nature was, nor does it appear that it was of any such character that it could not have been broken without serious loss or damage to him personally, assuming that such a showing might go in mitigation of the gravity of his offence.

The excuse that his failure to prepare any muster-out rolls or discharges was because the necessary blanks were not sent to him, is too absolutely puerile to call for remark.

His statement that he did not have sufficient time between February 14th and February 19th in which to cause the necessary papers to be prepared is equally remarkable in view of the fact that he was able within that period of time to go to Albany and consult with the Governor and make an application to have the order of disbandment withdrawn.

These are the facts as presented in the record and if they were all the facts material to the case there would be no doubt of the correctness and justness of the findings and sentence of the court.

But it is to be noted that the accused was tried on three charges. The first, "Disobedience of orders," "constitutes one of the most serious offences known to military law" (Davis M. L., 360). The third charge, "Conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline," is of a minor degree, and the second charge, "Unmilitary and unofficer-like conduct," is an offense of a still lower degree.

In his summing up to the court and in his argument on questions arising on rulings the Judge-Advocate insisted that the facts showed "a deliberate case of disobedience to an order" (p. 163).

The counsel for the accused insisted in his closing argument that the case did not make out so serious an offense (pp. 140, 151).

In his direct examination the accused said "I first sought the Governor by going to Albany, making an appointment and going up there to see him, and I laid the facts before the Governor" (p. 87). To this the Judge-Advocate objected and the court struck out the words I have quoted (p. 87). The counsel for the accused protested against this ruling and said "is it not possible, Mr. President and gentlemen of the Court, that in the interview with the Governor which the accused has reference to some matters may have been brought up which would have given the accused the right to believe that the muster out of that company would never take place?" (pp. 88, 89). Again the counsel pressed the question and said "His testimony will go to show why he was not there and it will be time enough to strike that out if it should not appear that he made the statement showing his excuse" (p. 89).

Then the accused stated that he "believed" the order would be "rescinded or suspended by Monday night by the Governor" (p. 90). This was as far as the accused was permitted to go and the President promptly asked "Is a belief a legitimate excuse for an evasion of an order" (p. 90).

Again, at the second session of the court the accused was recalled and was permitted, on the examination of his counsel, to testify that he had an interview with the Governor prior to the date for mustering out his company, but when he was asked "And what was said on that occasion" the Judge-Advocate objected and the Court excluded the question (pp. 109, 110, 111), and the accused excepted (p. 112).

The Judge-Advocate in urging this action said "If the Governor had any conversation with Captain Griffin and we erroneously exclude any such conversation this all goes to the Governor for revision and he is perfectly qualified to say it is improper 'because I gave him the assurance that the Company would not be disbanded,' if he did any such thing" (pp. 110, 111). The difficulty with this argument is that it completely loses sight of the fact that the guilt or innocence of the accused of the crimes charged against him is to be determined not by the Governor but by a court martial. It puts the Governor in the position of a witness testifying outside the record, not subject to cross-examination and not in the presence of the accused. In addition the accused stated that an Assistant Adjutant-General was present during his conversation with the Governor and he was available as a witness assuming it was necessary to meet the accused's testimony.

Here, then, is an accused charged with the serious offense of disobedience of orders, in failing to attend a muster-out and failing to prepare muster-out blanks and discharges, whose action or failure to act is charged by the prosecution to be wilful and deliberate, yet he is prevented from showing that the Commander-in-Chief made statements to him which justified his belief that the muster-out would not take place on the date originally fixed. Suppose it had appeared that the Governor had said he would direct the muster-out to be postponed to a later date. That clearly would have had a material bearing on the failure of the accused to have the muster-out rolls and discharges prepared by the 19th, especially as it appears he did have them made out about the 21st.

There is a manifest distinction between a wilful and deliberate disobedience of an order and a disobedience due to mere neglect, to misapprehension or to an assurance given by competent authority that additional time to comply with its terms would be granted.

In this case the accused was prosecuted and his conviction asked for on the ground that he wilfully disobeyed an order, yet he was refused the opportunity of showing that his failure to act was justified by a conversation had by him with the Governor. This, in my opinion, was substantial error, and calls for a disapproval of the proceedings and sentence of the Court. It is the same as if an accused were indicted for murder and refused the opportunity to show that the killing was justifiable or excusable.

“As the record stands the excuses advanced by the accused appear as the merest quibbles inconsistent with the most rudimentary principles of discipline, but it is impossible to submit this as a final opinion on the merits in the absence of testimony as to what took place between the accused and the Commander-in-Chief.

“It is unfortunate for the administration of military justice that the record should appear in its present condition.”

III. The Governor concurs in the opinion of the Judge-Advocate and the recommendation of the commanding officer of the National Guard and, the error of the Court being of such a vital nature that it cannot be cured by any legal means, regrets to be compelled to disapprove the proceedings, findings and sentence of the Court and that thus an officer of the military service of the State should escape punishment fully deserved by him.

IV. The General Court-Martial convened in S. O. No. 35 c. s. Headquarters National Guard and of which Colonel George R. Dyer, Twelfth Regiment, is president, is hereby dissolved.

General Orders, No. 10.

I. Officers who are required by the regulations to render returns of property to the Adjutant-General on June 30, 1900, will this year, in place of forwarding them direct to this office, forward them through the proper channel in order that the property books at the headquarters of brigades and the National Guard may be compared with the returns and if necessary corrected.

II. Commanding officers of regiments, battalions not parts of regiments, squadrons, signal corps, separate troops, batteries, separate companies and divisions are authorized to enlist cooks, not to exceed the number specified in the M. C. in addition to the strength of the organizations fixed by law; or they may, instead of enlisting, employ cooks whenever cooked rations are not issued; or in place of the foregoing they may detail enlisted men as cooks, when the M. C. contemplates the use of the latter. Enlisted men detailed as cooks are entitled to the pay of cooks for the time that they perform such duties.

III. The number of cooks authorized to be employed at the headquarters of the Naval Militia or of a brigade is fixed at one, and at the headquarters of the National Guard at two.

Circular No. 1.

1. The following communication from the Attorney-General of the State is published for the information of all concerned :

STATE OF NEW YORK,
 ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 ALBANY, April 12, 1900.

HON. EDWARD M. HOFFMAN, Adjutant-General, Albany, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR.—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 10th instant asking for my opinion as to whether or not the funds provided for by section 159 of the Military Code may be expended by the respective commanding officers under the approval of the Adjutant-General as stated in the last sentence of that section, for printing that may be required at these various headquarters.

You state that the headquarters are situated in all parts of the State of New York, and that to have the printing for all these various headquarters done by the state printer at Albany would entail a great amount of delay in the getting out of the necessary orders, circulars, letters, etc., to such a degree that in most cases the printing would not be completed until the occasion for which it was required had passed, and therefore the printing would be of no value.

After specifying the amounts for which the Comptroller should annually draw his warrant on the Treasurer on the certificate of the Adjutant-General, section 159 of the Military Code provides that: "The funds thus allowed shall only be expended by the respective commanding officers on the approval of the Adjutant-General."

Under section 72 of the Executive Law, the public printing payable by the State, other than legislative printing, is required to be done by a contractor with the State as therein provided, and includes printing to be done for the public offices or any portion thereof. Under the State contract with the public printer under said section 72 of the Executive Law, we find the following provision :

“ It is expressly understood and agreed by and on the part of said party of the first part (the State) that all printing and other work required by said act to be done by contract for the State officers above specified, their several offices and departments, shall be given to and ordered of and from the said party of the second part during the continuance of this agreement or contract. * * * ”

This printing is paid for by the State and is for public offices or departments of the State and is other than legislative printing.

I am therefore of the opinion that all of this printing should be done by the person designated in the contract with the State for public printing other than legislative printing.

Yours very truly,

(signed) J. C. DAVIES,

Attorney-General.

II. The Brandow Printing Company of this city by special agreement with this office will waive their right to all printing in small quantities not exceeding items of $50 for separate companies, batteries, separate troops, separate divisions, signal corps, squadrons, battalions, regiments and brigades, and relieve the State from all claims for profits on such work for the organizations named during during the unexpired term of their contract for public printing expiring on January 20, 1901.

III. Items for printing from military organizations exceeding $50 cannot be audited by this office unless the work is done by firm designated in the contract with the State.

By command of the Governor.

EDWARD M. HOFFMAN,

Adjutant-General.

NATIONAL GUARD.

The National Guard of the State consists of four signal corps, one squadron of three troops, one separate troop, four batteries, fifteen regiments, five battalions and forty-four separate companies; forty-three of which constitute the first and second regiments, first, second, third and fourth battalions.

The National Guard is commanded, under the orders of the Governor, by one Major-General, assisted by a suitable staff, and it is divided into five brigades, each commanded by a Brigadier-General, assisted by a suitable staff.

The 1st Signal Corps and Squadron A are attached to the headquarters of the National Guard and under the direct orders of the Major-General.

Headquarters are located at Albany, at the Capitol, with an office in New York City, at 280 Broadway.

THIRTEENTH REGIMENT.

(Twelve Companies.)

(Second Brigade.)

Armory, corner Sumner and Jefferson avenues, Brooklyn.

This regiment was organized July 5, 1847; there were changes in the organization a few years later, again in April, 1859, and in 1860. It was disbanded May 7, 1898, except one battalion of four companies which had volunteered to enter the United States service, and authority was given to reorganize it May 15, 1898. Nov. 28, 1898, such portion of the regiment as had been organized was disbanded, and authority was given to re-establish the regiment, the battalion which was in the United States service forming the nucleus of the new organization. Co's. L and M were organized March 11, 1899; Feb. 8, 1900, it was constituted a regiment of heavy artillery and designated 13th Regiment of Heavy Artillery of the National Guard, New York. The regiment was in the service of the United States for three months from April 23, 1861, and was mustered out Aug. 6, 1861; again from May 28 to Sept. 12, 1862, and for the third time from June 20 to July 20, 1863, for thirty days; it was in the State service during the Draft riots in July and Aug., 1863; the Orange riots, July 12, 1871; the Railroad riots, July, 1877; the Switchmen's strike at Buffalo, Aug., 1892; the Quarantine disturbances at Fire Island, Sept., 1892, and the Motormen's strike at Brooklyn, Jan., 1895. The battalion which volunteered to enter the United States service as part of the 22d Regt., N. Y. Vol. Infantry, in the war with Spain, was mustered into such service May 24, 1898, and was mustered out Nov. 23, 1898.

The regiment has received authority to place a silver ring on the lances of its National Color, engraved as follows: Spanish-American War, 1898.

SECOND REGIMENT.

(Third Brigade.)

Headquarters, State Armory, corner River and Ferry streets, Troy.

April 27, 1898, the Governor directed the commanding officer of the Third Brigade to organize two regiments of such portions of his command as desired to volunteer, for service in the United States Volunteer army. The second of these regiments was accordingly organized and was composed of the 6th, 7th, 9th, 12th, 18th, 21st, 22d, 31st, 32d, 36th, 37th and 46th Separate Companies, the companies receiving the letters A, B, I, C, K, D, L, G, M, E, F and H, respectively. It entered the service of the United States May 16 and 17, 1898, and was mustered out of such service: Co's. A, B, C and D on Oct. 25, Co. M on Oct. 26, Co. L on Oct. 27, Co. I on Oct. 28, Co. K on Oct. 29, Co's. E and F on Oct. 31, Co's. G and H on Nov. 1, and the field and staff on Oct. 31, 1898. On its re-entry into the State service it was on Nov. 19, 1898, continued as a twelve-company regiment, composed as in the volunteer service as stated above. The 31st Separate Company was detached from this Regiment on Nov. 9, 1900, and assigned to the 4th Battalion. The 19th Separate Company was organized Nov. 9, 1900, at Gloversville, N. Y., and assigned to this Regiment as Co. G.

The Regiment has received authority to place a silver ring on the lance of its National Color, engraved as follows: Spanish-American War, 1898.

SEVENTH REGIMENT.

(Ten Companies.)

(Fifth Brigade.)

Armory, Park avenue and Sixty-seventh street, New York city.

Companies A, B, C and D were organized during the excitement created by the firing of British at American vessels off Sandy Hook in April, 1806, as the first, second, third and fourth companies, and June 25th they were officially reorganized by the State as part of the uniformed militia of the State, and attached to the battalion of artillery commanded by Major Andrew Sitcher. April 5, 1807, the battalion, in the organization of the 3d Regt. of New York Artillery, became its 2d Battalion. When the war with England became imminent in 1807, these four companies, with other volunteers, were temporarily organized as a regiment, commanded by Colonel Peter Curtenius, and remained thus detached until April 20, 1809. In 1812 the 3d became the 11th Regt. of Artillery, the four companies remaining the 2d Battalion. Aug. 25, 1824, the battalion was named "Battalion of National Guards" (its distinctive name until, in 1862, the Legislature appropriated it for the uniformed militia), and in Dec., 1824, the fifth company was organized, and Captain Stevens' company, of the 11th New York Artillery, transferred to it as the sixth company. In Jan., 1825, the battalion was transferred to the 2d New York Artillery. Oct. 1, 1825, the battalion was detached and organized as a separate and independent battalion, and during the month the seventh company was organized. May 4, 1826, the organization of the eighth company was completed, and May 6th the battalion was organized into a regiment, the 27th Artillery. April 17, 1838, a troop of cavalry was admitted to the regiment, which, in 1861, became the ninth company. In 1843 the State furnished the regiment with arms, it having heretofore provided them itself. July 27th the designation of the regiment was changed to 7th Regt. In April, 1849, an engineer corps was organized, which, in 1861, became the tenth company. The regiment was frequently ordered to hold itself ready for service, and did active service for the United States, the State and New York city, as follows: In United States service from Sept. 15 to Dec. 15, 1812; from Sept. 2 to Dec. 2, 1814; from April 19 to June 3, 1861; from May 26 to Dec. 5, 1862; from June 17 to July 21, 1863. In support of State or municipal authority: Execution of James Reynolds, Nov. 19, 1825; at the Election riots, April 10, 1834; Abolition riot, July 11 to 12, 1834; Great conflagration in New York city, Dec. 17, 1835; Stevedore riot, Feb. 24, 1836; Flour riots, Feb. 6 and March 6, 1837; Anti-rent war, Dec. 9 to 10, 1839; Croton water riot, April 22 to 23, 1840; fire in New York city, July 19 to 21, 1845; Astor Place riot, May 10, 12 and 14, 1849; Police riot, June 16, 1857; Dead Rabbit riot, July 5, 1857; Quarantine war, Jan. 3, 1859; preserving order at camp of Spinola Brigade, Sept. 12 to 19, 1862; Draft riots, July, 1863; Orange riots, July, 1871; Labor riots, July, 1877; Motormen's strike, Brooklyn, Jan., 1895; and at strike, Croton dam, April, 1900.

EIGHTH REGIMENT.

(Ten Companies.)

(Fifth Brigade.)

Armory, Park avenue and Ninety-fourth street, New York city.

On the 4th of April, 1786, the 1st Brigade, 1st Division, was formed in New York city into a brigade of artillery, and was to consist of the 1st and 2d Regts. and a battalion. In April, 1807, the 3d Regt. of New York Artillery was organized of this battalion and other troops. July 27, 1847, the designation of the regiment was changed to the 8th Regt. In Dec., 1893, it was reduced to a battalion of four companies. It was reorganized as a regiment, Feb. 14, 1896. New companies were organized for the battalion, as follows: On July 8, 1895, Co. A; on Oct. 30, 1895, Co. E; on Jan. 27, 1896, Co. H, and on Feb. 14, 1896, Co. G, when it was reorganized as a regiment. April 28, 1898, it was authorized to be organized as a twelve company regiment to enter the service of the United States. It was in the service of the United States from Sept. 15 to Dec. 15, 1812; from April 23 to August 2, 1861; from May 29 to Sept. 9, 1862; and from June 17 to July 23, 1863. It was mustered in the United States service as the 8th Regt. Infantry, New York Volunteers, May 14, 17 and 19, 1898, and mustered out of such service, Nov. 3, 1898. Co's. L and M were disbanded Dec. 22, 1898.

The regiment has received authority to place silver rings on the lances of its colors, engraved as follows:

On the National Color.—Fort Gansevoort, 1812; Fort Greene, 1812; Washington, April, 1861; Bull Run, July 21, 1861; Yorktown, 1862; Gettysburg campaign, 1863; Spanish-American War, 1898.

NINTH REGIMENT.

(Ten Companies.)

(First Brigade.)

Armory, 125 West Fourteenth street, New York city.

This regiment was organized in June, 1859. It entered the United States service for three years, being known in such service as the Ninth New York State Militia, and also as the Eighty-third New York Volunteers; it was mustered in at Washington, D. C., June 8, 1861, and mustered out at New York city, June 23, 1864. April 28, 1898, it was authorized to be organized into a twelve-company regiment, preparatory to entry into the United States service, in which it was mustered in as the "Ninth Regiment, Infantry, New York Volunteers," May 17, 19 and 20, 1898, and mustered out, Nov. 15, 1898. TWENTY-SECOND REGIMENT.

(Ten Companies.)

(First Brigade.)

Armory, Broadway and Sixty-seventh street, New York city.

This regiment was organized in April, 1861; it entered the United States service May 28, 1862, for three months, and was mustered out Sept. 5, 1862, having been stationed at Washington, D. C., and later forming part of the garrison at Harper's Ferry, Va. June 18, 1863, it was again mustered in the service of the United States for thirty days, and was mustered out July 24, 1863. In 1867 the regiment took up rifle practice as part of its drill and in 1871 it established for itself a rifle range and system of practice which was in 1873 adopted by the National Rifle Association. Co. G was disbanded March 22, 1878, and new Co. G organized April 30, 1879. Co. F was disbanded Oct. 10, 1890, and new Co. F organized Jan. 8, 1891. Co. I was disbanded Oct. 10, 1890, and new Co. I organized Oct. 6, 1892. May 7, 1898, it was authorized to be temporarily consolidated into eight companies, and four companies of the 13th Regt. were attached to it, preparatory to entry into the United States service, in which it was mustered on May 24, 1898, as the 22d Regt., Infantry, N. Y. Vols., and it was mustered out Nov. 23, 1898.

The regiment has received authority to place silver rings on the launces of its colors, engraved as follows:

On the National Color.—Harper's Ferry, 1862; Gettysburg Campaign, 1863; Sporting Hill, Pa., June 30, 1863; Carlisle, Pa., July 1, 1863; Spanish-American War, 1898.

On the State Color.—Draft riots, 1863; Orange riots, 1871; Buffalo, 1892; Brooklyn, 1895.

SIXTY-FIFTH REGIMENT.

(Fourth Brigade.)

Armory, State Arsenal, Broadway, Buffalo.

The regiment was organized in 1848. Co's. K and I were disbanded, the latter in 1875. A new Co. I was organized in 1879, and Co. E was consolidated with Co. H the same year. In 1880 Co. B was consolidated with Co. A, and Troop L, Cavalry, Eighth Division, was re-organized as a company of infantry and attached to the regiment as Co. E. In 1881 Co's. D and E were disbanded. A new Co. B and a new Co. D were organized in 1885. It entered the service of the United States June 19, 1863, and was mustered out July 30, 1863. In Oct., 1864, practically the whole of this regiment, as part of the 187th Regt., N. Y. Vols., was again mustered in the United States service for one year and mustered out July 1, 1865. April 28, 1898, the regiment received authority to organize as a twelve-company regiment, preparatory to entry into the United States service, the 13th Separate Company becoming for the time one of the additional companies. It was mustered in the United States service May 17, 1898, as the 65th Regt., N. Y. Vol. Inf., and mustered out of such service Nov. 17, 1898. Co's. K, L and M were ordered disbanded May 31, 1899.

The regiment has received authority to place silver rings on the lances of its colors, engraved as follows:

On the National Color.—Gettysburg campaign, 1863; Before Petersburg, Va., Oct. 20, 1864, to April 2, 1865; Hatcher's Run, Va., Oct. 27-28, 1864; Hicksford Raid, Va., Dec. 6-11, 1864; Hatcher's Run, Va., Feb. 5-7, 1865; Appomattox Campaign, Va., March 28 to April 9, 1864; White Oak Ridge, March 29-31, 1865; Five Forks, April 1, 1865; Fall of Petersburg, April 2, 1865; Appomattox Court House, April 9, 1865; Spanish-American War, 1898.

On the State Color.—Canal riot, Buffalo, 1849; Draft riots, New York, 1863; Railroad strike, Buffalo, 1877; Railroad strike, Buffalo, 1892; Lumbermen's strike, Tonawanda, 1893.

SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT.

(Nine Companies.)

(Fifth Brigade.)

Armory, Third avenue and Seventh street, New York city.

The 69th Regt. was organized Oct. 12, 1851. In 1858 it was reorganized as an artillery regiment, doing duty as infantry. It was mustered in the United States service May 9, 1861, at Washington, D. C., to serve three months, and mustered out Aug. 3, 1861, during which service it took part in the actions at Blackburn's Ford and Bull Run. In Aug., 1861, about 800 men of this regiment joined the 69th N. Y. Vols., to serve three years. The regiment was again recruited and re-entered the service of the United States May 26, 1862, to serve three months; it was mustered out of service Sept. 3, 1862. On the return from this service, again the major part of the regiment entered the service of the United States for three years as the 69th National Guard Artillery or 182d N. Y. Vols. The regiment having been re-organized was mustered in the service of the United States for thirty days from June 25 to July 25, 1863. July 6, 1864, it was again mustered in the United States service for three months, and mustered out Oct. 6, 1864. The regiment has rendered the State service during the Quarantine riots in 1858, the Draft riots, 1863, and the Quarantine disturbances in 1892. It was reduced, Dec. 6, 1893, to a battalion of five companies, A, C, D, I and K. The battalion was on duty at Brooklyn during the Motormen's strike in Jan., 1895. New companies were organized for the battalion as follows: Co. B, June 5, 1894; Co. G, June 10, 1895; Co. E, June 11, 1895, and Co. F, Sept. 7, 1900. The battalion was reconstituted a regiment Sept. 4, 1895. April 28, 1898, the regiment received authority to organize as a twelve-company regiment, preparatory to its entry in the United States service, in which service it was mustered May 19, 1898, as the 69th Regt., N. Y. Vol. Inf., and mustered out Jan. 31, 1899. Cos. L and M were disbanded April 12, 1899; Co. F, Feb. 8, 1900, and Co. B, March 5, 1890.

The regiment has received authority to place a silver ring on the lance of its National Color, engraved as follows: Spanish-American War, 1898.

SEVENTY-FIRST REGIMENT.

(Ten Companies.)

(Fifth Brigade.)

Armory, Thirty-fourth street and Park avenue, New York city.

The regiment was organized in Aug., 1852. The American Rifles, a battalion of four companies, formed the nucleus of the regiment. Sept. 21, 1870, the 37th Regt. was consolidated with the 71st Regt., Cos. E, D, H, A, G, K and B of the 37th Regt. being consolidated with Cos. A, C, D, E, F, G and K of the 71st Regt., respectively. In 1861 it entered the United States service for three months, from April 21 to July 30; in 1862 it re-entered the same service May 29th for three months, at the expiration of which it volunteered to remain, and remained until Sept. 1; in 1863 it was mustered in the United States service for thirty days, and served from June 17 to July 22. April 28, 1898, it received authority to organize as a twelve-company regiment, preparatory to its entry into the United States service, in which it was mustered May 10, 1898, as the 71st Regt., N. Y. Vol. Inf., and mustered out Nov. 15, 1898. Dec. 8, 1898, it was re-organized as a National Guard regiment, composed of ten companies, Companies L and M being disbanded.

The regiment has received authority to place silver rings on the lances of its colors, engraved as follows:

On the National Color.—Alexandria, Va., May 24, 1861; Aquia Creek, Va., May 31, 1861; Matthias Point, Va., June 27, 1861; Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861; Tenallytown, D. C., 1862; Washington, D. C., 1862; Gettysburg Campaign, 1863; Kingston, Pa., June 26, 1863; Near Harrisburg, Pa., June 29, 1863; Spanish-American War, 1898; Cuba, June, July and August, 1898; San Juan Hill, July 1, 1898; Siege of Santiago de Cuba, July 2 to 17, 1898.

On the State Color.—Dead rabbit riot, 1857; Quarantine riots, 1858; Draft riots, 1863; Orange riots, 1871; Railroad riots, 1877; Buffalo, 1892; Brooklyn, 1896.

SEVENTY-FOURTH REGIMENT.

(Fourth Brigade.)

Armory, Connecticut, Niagara and Vermont streets and Prospect avenue, Buffalo.

In June, 1854, the organization of the regiment commenced, Co. D of the 65th Regt. forming the nucleus. Co. B was organized in August and Cos. C and E in Sept. 1854; Co. A was formed in May, 1855, and these five companies constituted the regiment until Feb., 1858, when two companies, one of cavalry (R) and one of rifles (L), were organized and attached to it. In 1860 Cos. F, G, H and I were organized, and the designation of Co. L was, in 1865, changed to Co. K. Company R was disbanded in 1865, Co. H in 1868; Co. I was consolidated with Co. B in 1870, and in 1882 Cos. E and K were disbanded. Co. E was re-organized in 1886 and Co. H in 1891. In May, 1861, nearly the whole of Cos. B, C, D and F joined and formed four companies of the 21st N. Y. Vols. June 19, 1863, the regiment was mustered in the service of the United States for thirty days, and mustered out Aug. 3, 1863; it was remustered in the United States service Nov. 16, 1863, for thirty days, and mustered out Dec. 16, 1863. During the War of the Rebellion the regiment furnished to the country nearly 300 officers and over 1,000 men, who received their first military instruction while members of it.

The regiment has received authority to place silver rings on the lances of its colors, engraved as follows:

On the National Color.—Gettysburg Campaign, 1863; Buffalo, Nov. and Dec., 1863.

On the State Color.—Draft riots, 1863; Negro riot, 1864; Fenian invasion of Canada, 1866; Hornellsville, 1877; Buffalo, 1892.

FIRST BATTALION, NAVAL MILITIA.

Naval Militia Ship "New Hampshire," foot East Twenty-eighth street, New York city.

The Battalion performed duty for the State during the quarantine troubles in Sept. 1892, and during the Spanish-American War on coast signal service, guarding mine fields at Willetts Point and on patrol duty in New York harbor.

It performed duty for the United States during the Spanish-American War in the U. S. Navy aboard the "Yankee," "Nahant," and other vessels, and in the U. S. Auxiliary Naval Force aboard various vessels.

The Battalion has received authority to place silver rings on the lance of its National Color, engraved as follows: "Spanish-American War, 1898," "Santiago de Cuba, June 6, 1898," Cienfuegos, June 13, 1898," "Casilda Harbor, June 20, 1898," "Guantanamo, June 7, 1898."

* The pay of a man who has ever reenlisted under the Act of August 4, 1854, and who reenters the service more than three months after discharge, commences with amount stated in this column.

† Enlisted men of this corps are entitled to increased pay for length of service, the same as other enlisted men. Hospital Stewards rank with Ordnance Sergeants and are entitled to all the allowances of that grade; Acting Hospital Stewards to be detailed from privates of the Hospital Corps; privates of the Hospital Corps are entitled to the allowances of a Corporal of the arm of service with which they are on duty.—[Act March 1, 1887; G. O. 29, A. G. O., 1887.]

‡ Two veterinarians to each cavalry regiment. One (senior) to have the pay and allowances of a Second Lieutenant of Cavalry, and one (junior) to have $75 per month and the allowances of a Sergeant Major.—[Act March 2, 1899.] Junior Veterinarians to be allowed $3.71 per month with their pay, in lieu of the clothing allowance of Sergeant Major.—[Act May 26, 1900.]

§ CLOTHING.—Will be settled six months after the date of enlistment, and thereafter on June 30 and December 31, of each year.—[General Orders, No. 42, Adjutant General's Office, series of 1896.] Balances found due United States to be charged soldier on muster rolls of these dates. Balances due soldier to be carried forward on company books credited to his current clothing account; any balance remaining due him at discharge to be credited on final statement.—[Section 1302, Revised Statutes.]

The enlisted force of the Signal Corps shall hereafter consist of fifty Sergeants, of whom ten shall be of the first class, with the pay of Hospital Steward, —[Act October 1, 1890; G. O. No. 124, series of 1899.] The remaining forty Sergeants have the pay of Engineer Sergeants.—[Act June 20, 1878; G. O. No. 41, series of 1878.]

Enlisted men (retired) are entitled to three-fourths of the monthly pay allowed by law to them in the grade they held when retired, with commutation of clothing and rations.—[Act February 14, 1885; G. O. 53, A. G. O., 1885.] Rations and clothing commuted at $9.50 per month.—[Act March 16, 1896.] Not entitled to traveling allowances on retirement, but to transportation in kind by the Quartermaster's Department.

A certificate of merit entitles a soldier to $2 per month additional pay, commencing on the date of rendering "distinguished service" and continuing through all subsequent service as an enlisted man.—[Sections 1216 and 1283, Revised Statutes and Act of February 9, 1891.] The Court of Claims decided May 29, 1893, that the Act of February 9, 1891, is retroactive and entitles to pay from date of the service, not merely from the date of the act.

The period within which soldiers may reenlist with the benefits conferred by sections 1281 and 1282, Revised Statutes, is extended to three months.—[Act August 1, 1894.]

Hereafter every enlisted man in the Army shall be entitled to all the benefits conferred by sections 1281 and 1282, Revised Statutes.—[Act August 1, 1894.]

Hereafter all enlistments in the Army shall be for the term of three years.—[Act August 1, 1894.]

Traveling allowances are forfeited when soldier is discharged, by order of the Secretary of War, for disability caused by his own misconduct.—[Act March 16, 1896.]

Twenty per cent increase on pay proper of all enlisted men is allowed in time of war.—[Act April 22, 1898.]

Traveling allowances for officers and enlisted men, honorably discharged, shall be 4 cents per mile, provided that for sea travel on discharge, to, from, or between our island possessions actual expenses only shall be paid to officers and transportation and subsistence only shall be furnished to enlisted men.—[Act May 26, 1900.]

NOTE.—Class 3 is the term used to designate pay of men who have ever received re-enlisted pay under the act of August 4, 1854, but have allowed a longer period than one month to elapse before again enlisting. The amount is the same as that received by a man serving in the fifth year of a first enlistment.

Twenty cents per month will continue to be deducted from the above rates, as usual, for the Navy Hospital Fund.

Members of the Marine Band are allowed $4 per month, in addition to rates of pay as given above, for playing at the White House and Public Grounds, under the provisions of the act of Congress of August 18, 1856.

STATE PAY.

151. DUTY PAY.—Each officer and enlisted man ordered for duty by the governor, or under his authority by the commanding officer of the national guard or the commanding officer of the naval militia, shall receive the duty pay herein specified for every day actually on duty, except when so ordered for inspection, muster or rifle practice, or parade or review or field service not extending beyond one day; a musician or private, one dollar and twenty-five cents; a first sergeant or sergeant-major, or non-commissioned officer acting as such, two dollars; any other non-commissioned officer, or private acting as such, one dollar and fifty cents; each enlisted man who has served a full term of enlistment shall be entitled to additional pay at the rate of twenty-five cents per day during the second five years of his service and a further addition of twenty-five cents per day for each succeeding five years of service; a lieutenant, two dollars and fifty cents; a captain or company commander, three dollars; a major and a lieutenant-colonel, four dollars per day; a colonel or commanding officer of a regiment, or of a battalion or squadron not part of a regiment, five dollars; a brigadier-general, six dollars; a major-general, eight dollars; staff officers, the pay of officers of the line of equal grade; chaplains, the pay of captains. Officers and men of the naval militia shall be paid according to their assimilated grade with those of the land forces herein set forth. When on duty or assembled therefor in case of riot, tumult, breach of the peace, insurrection or invasion, or whenever called in aid of the civil authorities, commissioned officers shall be entitled to and shall receive the same pay and allowances as commissioned officers of the army or navy of the United States, of equal grade and term of service as the case may be. Each officer and enlisted man, mounted and equipped, shall be paid a reasonable compensation per day for each horse actually used by him.

152. PAY WHEN AIDING THE CIVIL AUTHORITY.—All officers and enlisted men while on duty or assembled therefor, pursuant to the orders of a judge of the supreme court, sheriff of a county or mayor of a city, or any other civil officer authorized by law to make such a demand on the military or naval forces of the State, in case of riot, tumult, breach of the peace, resistance to process, or whenever called upon in aid of civil authorities, shall receive the pay set forth in section one hundred and fifty-one of this chapter; and such compensation and the necessary expenses incurred in quartering, caring for, warning for duty and transporting and subsisting the troops, as well as the expense incurred for pay, care, and subsistence of officers and enlisted men temporarily disabled in the line of duty, while on such duty, as set forth in section one hundred and sixty-five of this chapter, shall be paid by the county where such service is rendered. The county treasurer of such county shall, upon presentation to him of vouchers and pay rolls for such expenses and compensation, certified by the officers commanding such forces, and approved by the commanding officer of the brigade or of the naval militia to which they were attached, forthwith execute in behalf of and in the name of such county, a certificate or certificates of indebtedness for the money required to pay such vouchers and pay rolls; such certificate shall bear interest at the rate of not to exceed six per centum per annum, and shall be made payable on the first day of February following the expiration of two months from their issue, and the amount thereof shall be raised in the next tax budget of said county succeeding their issue, and applied to the payment of such certificates. Said county treasurer shall sell such certificates at public or private sale, and apply the proceeds thereof to the payment of such expenses and compensation. In the city of New York the duties hereby imposed upon a county treasurer shall be performed by the comptroller of said city, who shall raise the money necessary to comply with the provisions of this section by the issue and sale of revenue bonds of said city; the sum necessary to pay said bonds shall be included by the municipal assembly and board of estimate and apportionment of said city in its final estimates for expenses of said city for the year succeeding that in which said bonds were issued. Any county treasurer or public officer, who shall neglect or refuse to perform any of the duties required by this section, shall be personally charged with the cost and all necessary disbursements of any action or proceeding brought to compel such performance, together with a reasonable additional allowance to the plaintiff or relator in such action or proceeding, to be fixed by the court.

§ 35. Upon the application of the commanding officer of a regiment, battalion not a part of a regiment, squadron, signal corps, separate troop, battery or company, the governor may authorize the enlistment of cooks in addition to the strength of organizations fixed in this article not exceeding two for a company, troop or battery, one for the field and staff of a regiment, battalion or squadron not part of a regiment, one for the hospital corps of a regiment, one for the field music of a regiment and one for a signal corps. A cook when on duty for which pay is allowed under the provisions of this chapter shall receive the duty pay of a corporal. The governor may authorize the employment of cooks in number as hereinbefore provided, in organizations in which their enlistment has not been authorized, when such organizations are on duty under his orders or are called upon in aid of the civil authorities and cooked rations are not issued. The governor, under like circumstances, may authorize the employment and prescribe the number of cooks for the headquarters of the national guard or of a brigade. A cook so employed shall receive as compensation for his services, while so employed, the duty pay of a corporal to be paid in the manner that the officers and enlisted men with whom he serves are paid, and during such employment shall be subject to all the laws and regulations for the government of the national guard.

§ 47. The governor may authorize the employment of cooks by troops on duty under his orders or called out in aid of the civil authority, when such troops do not receive cooked rations, and such cooks shall receive as compensation for their services the pay of gun captains, second class, while thus employed, paid in the manner that the officers and enlisted men with whom they are serving are paid. The number of cooks that may thus be employed shall not exceed two to a division. For the headquarters of the naval militia and of a battalion the governor may prescribe the number of cooks that may be employed. And these cooks shall be subject while thus employed to the military code, the articles of war and the regulations as if they were regularly enlisted men of the naval militia.
