Since my last report all of the equipment for Batteries D and F, 1st Field Artillery, and Battery A, 2nd Battalion, F. A., has been received and issued to the organizations.

The signal flags and flag kits referred to in my last report have been received and issued to the infantry organizations of the National Guard.

During the past year 241 escort wagons have been drawn from the War Department and issued to the National Guard. The total number of U. S. escort wagons now in the possession of the State is 325. This number is believed to be sufficient transportation for the National Guard on field service although each infantry regiment has only 14 wagons, while the Field Service Regulations give the allowance as 18.

The necessary harness has been issued for all of these wagons except 135, and requisition has been made upon the War Department for sufficient harness for these 135 wagons.

During the year 1912, the following publications were obtained for issue to the National Guard:

- 300 U. S. Army Regulations.
- 335 Subsistence Manuals.
- 275 Paymaster's Manuals.
- 280 Signal Corps Manuals, No. 6.
- 275 Manuals for Court-Martial.
- 25 Manuals for Army Cooks.
- 50 Drill Regulations, Field Artillery.
- 50 Drill Regulations, Cavalry.
- 100 Drill Regulations, Hospital Corps.
- 20 Manuals for the Medical Department.
- 50 Mess Sergeant's Handbook.
- 1,200 copies "Military Policy of the United States."
- 25 Small Arms Firing Manuals.
- 58 copies "Sherrill's Military Topography."
- 100 Organized Militia Regulations.
- 260 Applied Minor Tactics and Wall Maps.

In order that all concerned may have a knowledge of forms to be used in the event of the National Guard entering the service, of the United States, sets of model blank forms for company and larger units such as are used in the Regular Army have been issued to the National Guard of this State.

During the year 1912 eight organizations have been supplied with complete sets of horse equipment for mounted detachments of regiments of infantry, authorized by G. O. No. 69, N. Y. S. M., 1912.

The following reports are submitted herewith as appendices:

- A. Report of the Major General commanding the Division, National Guard.
- B. Report of the Commodore commanding the Naval Militia.
- * C. Annual return of military and naval property and account of issues and losses of same.
- * D. Report of the Militia Council.
- * E. Report of the Armory Commission.
- F. Register of the land and naval forces.
- *† G. General Orders issued from The Adjutant General's Office, Headquarters Division, National Guard and Headquarters Naval Militia.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM VERBECK,

The Adjutant General.

* Not reprinted here.

† General Orders have been printed and published separately in sequence during the year.

COURTS MARTIAL.

General Courts Martial were convened during the year ending September 30, 1912, for the trial of Captain William B. Stacom, Sixty-ninth Infantry; Private H. Carroll Porter, Company B, First Infantry, and Privates Charles Newman and William Thee, both of Company H, Forty-seventh Infantry, N. G., N. Y.

SERVICE IN AID OF CIVIL AUTHORITY.

One officer and 11 enlisted men of Company A, Third Infantry, were called out January 10, 1912, by the Sheriff of Monroe county, and proceeded to the town of Wheatland, near Scottsville, to aid in the capture of William Twiman, a negro murderer, who had barricaded himself in his house and, using firearms, resisted arrest. The company detachment was relieved the same day, the murderer having surrendered to the civil authorities before firing by the detachment became necessary.

Five companies (A, B, G, H and M) and part of the field and staff officers and N. C. S. of the First Infantry were on duty in aid of civil authority from April 4 to April 29, 1912, at New York Mills, Oneida, during the strike of the mill operators at that place. Each company or part thereof was on duty for 13 days. Extracts from the report of Major Henry J. Cookinham, Jr., First Infantry, who commanded the detachment, are attached hereto as Appendix 6. This report is a model in many respects.

FIELD SERVICE.

The following organizations participated in combined maneuvers with the regular army and militia of other States in Connecticut, from August 9th to 19th. The exercises were known as the "Connecticut Maneuver Campaign." Headquarters, Division, First and Second Companies Signal Corps, Corps of Engineers, First and Second Regiments of Cavalry, First and Second Regiments Field Artillery, First and Second Field Hospitals, First and Second Ambulance Companies, Headquarters First Brigade, First Brigade Infantry, Headquarters Second Brigade, Second Brigade Infantry. A detachment of Sanitary Troops was assigned to each army as a Forwarding Hospital for the evacuation of seriously sick or injured men of New York organizations. A detachment of officers was detailed from the Third Brigade to be attached to the Second Brigade as observers, and a similar detachment was detalled from the Fourth Brigade to be attached to the First Brigade as observers. The Headquarters of the Division, N. G., N. Y., was attached to the Headquarters of the Commanding General of the Maneuver Campaign, namely, Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, Commanding the Department of the East.

APPENDIX A.

The Major General Commanding the National Guard had no tactical functions in the campaign. The brigades and auxiliary troops of this State were divided between the opposing armies so that there was no appropriate command for a Major General in the New York forces on either side. The reason given for this plan when it was proposed was that the division of the troops between the opposing forces would lessen the possibility of actual physical fighting between opposing commands, due to an excess of combatant zeal based on State pride. The plan proposed met my approval, though not for the reason referred to. National Guard troops in recent years have participated so frequently in maneuver exercises; the object of such exercises is so well understood by the enlisted men, and the discipline which at present obtains is of such character, that the possibility of physical encounter between units tactically opposed is extremely remote. In any event the possibility of actual physical encounter between organizations from different States for no other reason than that they are tactically opposed is more remote than an encounter between organizations from the same State and in the same brigade, based on some real or fancied regimental differences. The plan proposed, however, permitted the Major General and a corps of assistants made up of the Division Staff and of officers detalled from organizations, to minutely observe and study and report upon every phase of the work of our troops on either side, wholly undisturbed by tactical and supply responsibility. No attempt was made to study the tactical developments of the campaign as it progressed. All efforts were concentrated by the entire corps of assistants on a study of our own troops with a view to developing and later correcting their shortcomings. This study covered entraining and detraining, embarking and debarking, hygiene, sanitation, clothing, diet, cooking, discipline, administration, supply, transportation, horsemanship, care of animals, property accountability and castramentation. Every New York organization was observed each day by one or more of these assistants, and the reports made by them, together with special reports received from organization commanders and supply officers are now the subject of exhaustive study and will constitute a guide for future instruction. The work of these field inspectors was greatly aided by the use of automobiles. The theatre of operations covered an extended territory, and necessitated long runs at high speed. The distance covered by a number of the inspectors frequently exceeded one hundred miles in a day. The officers serving with the Major-General in the capacity referred to were the following:

Colonel Charles H. Hitchcock, First Infantry, N. G., N. Y.
 Lieutenant Colonel R. Foster Walton, Adjutant General, Division.
 Lieutenant Colonel William H. Chapin, Inspector General, Division.
 Lieutenant Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt, Inspector General, Division.
 Lieutenant Colonel Arthur F. Townsend, Chief Quartermaster, Division.
 Lieutenant Colonel Henry S. Sternberger, Chief Commissary, Division.
 Lieutenant Colonel Eugene W. Van C. Lucas, Chief Engineer, Division.
 Lieutenant Colonel Frederick T. Leigh, Chief Signal Officer, Division.
 Lieutenant Colonel James S. Boyer, First Infantry, N. G., N. Y.
 Major John F. Fairchild, C. E., Third Brigade, N. G., N. Y.
 Captain J. Van Beuren Mitchell, Ninth Artillery District, N. G., N. Y.
 Captain William F. Wheelock, Tenth Infantry, N. G., N. Y.
 Captain Edward Olmsted, Aide.
 First Lieutenant James L. Kincaid, First Cavalry, Aide.

The service rendered by these officers was most satisfactory.

At the request of the Chief Quartermaster, Eastern Division, the Chief Quartermaster of the Division, N. G., Lieutenant Colonel Arthur F. Townsend, transported all New York troops to and from the maneuvers and also arranged for the employment of the necessary wagon transportation and saddle horses. The transportation and movement of our troops were most expeditiously handled by Colonel Townsend, and his work generally was the subject of frequent favorable comment.

APPENDIX A.

The Division Commissary informally assisted the Commissary Officer of the army in the supply of the New York troops. Upon the request of supply officers of the army the quartermasters and commissaries of the New York Brigades were assigned to the Regular Depot Commissaries as assistants. The reports received from the Depot Supply officers in regard to these officers show that they performed their duties in a satisfactory manner.

From the result of observations and from a study of reports received, the tactical handling of New York troops by the various commanders of the units composing them, was creditable. It was the first occasion of field service when the infantry commands of this State had their own escort wagons and harness. No opportunity was had prior to the maneuvers for the instruction of the drivers of wagons in the combat trains and in the regimental trains, in the feeding, grooming, care and driving of animals, with the result that in the case of infantry commands, with some exceptions, the treatment which the animals received was not only bad but in some instances bordered on cruelty. The result was a large list of injured, broken down and dead animals for which the State is now paying. The results of the study of the work of the New York troops will be made known to the organization commanders in part by lectures and papers and in part by confidential memoranda. In all that pertains to the Supply Departments, conferences have been arranged for with the Commanding General, Eastern Division, with a view to improving details of the system of supply. In a general way it may be said, with reference to the work of the New York troops in the Connecticut Maneuver Campaign, that the intelligence and zeal displayed by all participating was commendable, but there are grave shortcomings to be corrected. The shortcomings are the result largely of the haphazard system of instruction and field training which have obtained up to the present time. This criticism is general throughout our service. It reflects on no individual, but appears to have been incident to our military evolution. Commands have frequently been ordered into service in maneuvers which have not had the benefit of detailed instruction at Pine Camp in Battalion and Regimental exercises. Others have been ordered to perform similar advanced work, whose officers and men have not had the necessary theoretical instruction upon which to base the practical work demanded in a maneuver campaign. An effort is being made here, in conjunction with officers of the War Department, to establish principles for the government of future practical training of the New York troops in joint maneuvers and camps.

Troop H, First Cavalry, were designated for field service at the farm of Troop D, First Cavalry, Syracuse, from July 14th to 20th. Troop L, First Cavalry, at farm of Troop D, First Cavalry, July 21st to 27th. Troop F, at Squadron C farm, Huntington, L. I., August 28th to September 3rd. Troop G, Second Cavalry, at Huntington, L. I., September 15th to 22nd. Captain Lincoln C. Andrews, U. S. Army, Inspector-Instructor, Cavalry, on duty with the State, had charge of the instruction, and from the reports received the results were satisfactory. These organizations were recently organized, and were not considered ready for the character of work required for the cavalry in the maneuver campaign.

CAMP OF INSTRUCTION FOR MEDICAL OFFICERS AT PEEKSKILL, N. Y.

The Medical Officers of the State were ordered to Peekskill for a camp of instruction from June 22nd to 29th, inclusive. Four medical officers of the army were detailed as Inspector-Instructors. The reports made by these officers and by the Chief Surgeon, Division, show that the work accomplished was most satisfactory. There is a common belief in the public mind that the Medical Department should necessarily be the most efficient branch of our National Guard service, for the reason that the officers, being practicing physicians and surgeons, accept their commissions fully instructed in the professional work which they are to perform. I believe that this view is held by physicians and surgeons who are not in the military service. The School of Instruction at Peekskill taught our medical officers that it is as necessary for the medical officer as for any other officer to correctly read military maps, to have a knowledge of military law, to possess a practical knowledge of horsemanship, to understand the principles of draft and traction and the care of draft animals, the care of the soldiers' feet on the march and the cooking and diet not only of their own sanitary units but of the organizations with which they may be serving.

APPENDIX A.

SCHOOL OF FIRE AT FORT SILL, OKLAHOMA.

Captain Herbert M. Paul, First Field Artillery, was designated to take the advanced course provided for Field Artillery Officers at the School of Fire at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Captain Paul completed the course satisfactorily, and was awarded the certificate of proficiency provided for those officers who successfully completed the course.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION FOR FIELD ARTILLERY OFFICERS.

Upon the invitation of the Secretary of War, 30 officers were designated to attend the School of Instruction for Field Artillery Officers from July 6th to 20th, both dates inclusive. The reports received from the Inspector-Instructors of the Regular Army on the conduct of these officers, show that the officers were attentive, with the exception of one officer, who was reported inattentive.

The names of the officers who completed this course of instruction at Fort Riley, are the following:

Lieutenant Colonel Frank H. Hines,
 Captain Joseph I. Berry,
 Captain Charles R. Seymour,
 Captain Prentice Strong,
 Captain Theron R. Strong,
 Captain Guido F. Verbeck,
 First Lieutenant Arthur S. Douglass,
 First Lieutenant Kenneth S. Ferguson,
 First Lieutenant Harold L. Jones,
 First Lieutenant Louis F. Kuntz,
 Second Lieutenant Charles G. Blakeslee,
 Second Lieutenant Thomas E. Hitchcock.

COAST ARTILLERY CORPS.

The training of the thirty-one companies of Coast Artillery has been divided into two classes: the theoretical and practical training at their home stations, and the practical training at the camp of instruction at Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y.

Class I, consisted of:

Coast Artillery Instruction,
 Infantry Drill,
 Guard Duty,
 Small Arms Firing,
 First Aid,
 Signalling.

Class II, consisted of:

Artillery Drill,
 Subcaliber Practice,
 Service Practice,
 Guard Duty,
 Infantry Drill,
 First Aid.

The theoretical instruction of officers and enlisted men is progressive through the following grades, as called for in G. O. 166, W. D., 1911:

Enlisted men:

First and Second Class Gunners,
 Rated Men,
 Enlisted Specialists.

APPENDIX A.

Officers :

Basic Course,
Emplacement Officer's Course,
Range and Communication Officer's Course,
Battery Commander's Course,
Searchlight Officer's Course,
Fire and Battle Commanders' Course.

Examinations in the above course are held twice each year.

The number of gunners qualified in the Corps has been very satisfactory, while the number of rated men and enlisted specialists has not been so good. The severity, however, of the examinations for the latter two classes of men must be taken into consideration.

The examinations for officers have been held twice, and some 135 examinations have been passed successfully by the officers of the Corps, some officers having passed as many as six courses. While the majority of the officers are interested in the work, it is to be regretted that a certain number have not been successful in the examinations. This state of affairs calls for a renewed interest on the part of these officers.

Owing to the work of installation of the dummy armament in the armories of the Ninth and Thirteenth Districts, it has not been possible to carry out a progressive course of instruction in the branches named above with prominence given to the coast artillery drill. When the 10-inch guns and 12-inch mortars and the fire control stations are completed in these armories, such a program will be placed in operation. Dummy armament for the Eighth District has not as yet been provided for, but Congress has been asked to appropriate funds for the work in this district as well as for several other States.

The tour of duty of the three artillery districts at Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y., from July 6th to August 17th, was most satisfactory, as shown by the results of target practice with the 6-inch, 10-inch and 12-inch guns and 12-inch mortars.

The predominant idea of this camp was to have the officers assume as far as practicable the responsibility for the target practice, and not depend upon the instructors. The scheme worked admirably and will be carried out more completely at the next camp.

CORPS OF ENGINEERS.

The Corps of Engineers consists of the officers and enlisted men of the Twenty-second Regiment, Engineers, the Chief Engineer of the Division and the Four Brigade Engineers. The Twenty-second Regiment, Engineers, is by far the most important part of the Corps, and as a military organization it ranks among the best of the State.

Its record during the Connecticut Maneuvers was excellent. The duties of supply, both Quartermaster and Commissary, were well performed. The camps were well policed. The discipline and morale of the officers and enlisted were good. Valuable training in field engineering was given for about four days. The regiment served as Infantry on the last day. Its rifles were well cared for. This comment can be made with respect to few other organizations.

The Corps especially needs opportunities for outdoor training in field engineering in subjects that cannot be satisfactorily covered in armory drills. It would also be of advantage to the officers and men to perform in a combined maneuver the duties that would fall to Engineers when serving with other troops.

As Military Engineers the regiment is making appreciable progress and particularly at the present time due to the systematizing of the work by the Inspector-Instructor, Captain W. D. A. Anderson, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army. In preparation for field duties special attention is given to engineer training. A progressive series of drills is being followed which should show practical results by the end of the year. A school course for theoretical instruction is carried on, comprising two classes for officers and one for non-commissioned officers. Both officers and men are interested and working hard to master the details of their work. This engineer instruction necessarily takes up the greater part of the time available for training. In reporting on the organization it is important that it should be rated primarily on its engineer work.

APPENDIX A.

There is some active and progressive work in progress by the Brigade Engineers, notably in the Third Brigade, and it is expected that within the next year the work of instruction in Field Engineering for the organizations of the Infantry Brigades will be well started.

CAVALRY.

The interest in and development of the Cavalry arm in the State has been marked. New troops have been organized in Buffalo, Rochester, Utica and Staten Island and one additional troop in each of the Squadrons in New York and Brooklyn. Each of these new troops had one week's experience in camp by itself, mounted on trained horses from the older organizations, where uninterrupted instruction was given by Captain Andrews, as stated elsewhere in this report, and rapid progress was made toward attaining proficiency as an organization. The officers and non-commissioned officers were selected in each case after the camp experience and as a result of capabilities for leadership shown therein. These troops are loyally supported in their home towns, are nearly all recruited to full strength and are to-day creditable units in the Guard of the State.

There being sixteen troops in the Guard, they have been organized into two regiments; Squadron A of New York being the nucleus of the First Regiment, and Squadron C of Brooklyn of the Second. This organization provided accommodation for war increases, and training for suitable field officers for the command of two regiments in time of war. It permits the departure of one regiment with the Division in war service, while leaving the other at home stations available for State service, thus not denuding the State of an arm of the service impossible of hasty organization for efficient use, yet particularly adapted for the suppression of civil disorders.

The year's theoretical instruction of the older organizations culminated in their field work in the Connecticut Maneuver Campaign, where the two regiments were brigaded under command of Colonel James Parker of the regular army. Without other association with regulars, they did the Cavalry work of the defending army, opposed by the Tenth U. S. Regulars. Fortunate in their commanding general, they were given every opportunity for arduous cavalry service, and performed this with such appreciation of its spirit—duties and opportunities for accomplishment—as to elicit many favorable comments from the army observers. Their performance of the service of information was particularly commended, while the brilliant achievements of the brigade in the field reflected credit on their leader.

Meantime the experience showed the troops lacking in a practical knowledge of many of the homely details of the care of men and horses in campaign. To the study of these this year is being largely devoted. This study will culminate this summer in taking into the field a model troop at war strength made up of detachments of picked men and horses from each of the sixteen troops. This troop will be perfectly equipped and will be given concentrated attention and instruction in everything from making camp and loading wagons up to Mounted Combat exercises and field firing problems, and the representatives from each troop should take back much valuable information for the benefit of their organizations.

The serious problem of suitable mounts always confronts the troops. It is hoped that the federal government will see fit to provide at least forage for all suitable mounts kept for military purposes. No State Guard has done as much as New York toward solving this problem. Several of the organizations own their own farms which are worked as providers of forage, as well as furnishing drill and maneuver grounds for their own use. At the maneuver the entire Second Regiment were mounted on horses owned by the organization. This comment applies also to Troop D of Syracuse. While this adds greatly to the efficiency of the organization, it is done only at a financial sacrifice on the part of members that no government ought to expect or accept.

FIELD ARTILLERY.

The most serious problem to be solved with respect to the mobile army at the present time is that of Field Artillery. In the event of war it will be necessary to call into the service of the Federal Government all State troops at once to form the first line. This first line will not be complete unless accompanied by an adequate and efficient force of Field Artillery. New York State has at the present time a complete division with the exception of three Batteries of Field Artillery, some sanitary troops and auxiliary detachments.

The Field Artillery of this State has passed through a strenuous year, due to the several reorganizations that have taken place, but at the end of one year should begin to show rapid progress.

The Batteries of New York have each a number of horses for instruction purposes. The Federal Government supply all the necessary material to equip a Battery without charge to the State, and every effort should be made to obtain from the Federal Government an allowance of forage in order that Batteries be not required by force of circumstances to both buy the horses, and feed them.

There has been maintained at Fort Riley, Kansas, a school for Militia Field Artillery Officers but it has been found that too much time has been spent in travel. An effort is being made at this time to establish an Instruction Camp in the near vicinity.

The school of fire for field artillery at Fort Sill is an advanced course which all field artillery officers should attend after taking the course at a camp of instruction.

The course of instruction pursued at this time in all field artillery officers' schools is preliminary with a view to preparing them for the summer work and any possible field service.

Owing to the rapid expansion of this arm in our State it is at present in a state of transition.

INFANTRY.

The infantry is the most important part of our National Guard. This is true, not only from the standpoint of numbers, but for availability for State service. The infantry is in fact the army—the other arms are auxiliary. It is important, therefore, that the backbone of our military force should be maintained in the highest state of efficiency practicable. While there are some commands in our infantry which are exceptionally efficient there are others which are not efficient, and radical measures may be necessary to relieve the service of criticisms based upon the state of such commands and to which the service should not be subjected. Compared with some of the auxiliary arms of the service the mean standard of efficiency of the infantry does not show the standard of progressiveness, produce the amount and character of work and possess the discipline, which are characteristic of the auxiliary arms. This may be due to several causes, not the least of which is the fact for a number of years the special schools in the army for field artillery, cavalry and signal officers, have been open to the officers of the organized militia and the officers of our State serving in these arms have largely availed themselves of the courses of instruction provided therein. The influence exerted by these schools has in consequence, during the past few years, manifested itself among the commissioned officers of the auxiliary arms, and has influenced materially the ideals, thought and military endeavors of the personnel of the commands affected. During this period, however, this character of instruction has not been available for the officers of our infantry. To correct this in part, a school of application will be established in June at Peekskill for student officers of infantry, who will work with a model company of infantry at war strength. The course will be an advanced course so far as the work of the company of infantry is concerned, and will be almost exclusively devoted during the drill hours to field firing and combat exercises. It is planned to make the company a model one in every phase of its work, and the attention and supervision of the officers of these Headquarters, including the Inspector-Instructors, will be concentrated during the period of the course, upon the student officers and the personnel of the company, with a view to eliminating, so far as may be desirable, non-essentials, and with respect to essentials exacting the highest standards of discipline and a correct performance of details.

Criticism is constantly made at joint maneuvers, that the average infantry officer is unfamiliar with the routine of life in the field, and the fact is frequently cited that such officers have difficulty in obtaining rations for their commands. Much criticism on the other hand has been made concerning the failure of depot commissaries and other distributing agents to furnish the commands with rations. For the purpose of ascertaining definitely whether our company commanders were sufficiently familiar with the making out of ration returns, an order was issued to each State inspector, to require a number of company commanders in each regiment to make out and submit two ration returns on the regulation form, the same being based on an assumed state of facts. These returns are now being received at this office, and thus far show that practically all the officers who submitted them possess little or no knowledge of the subject. This incident will serve to show the necessity for the work of supervision and instruction now being carried on to correct such deficiencies — deficiencies readily corrected in any one instance, but constituting a work of some magnitude when covering the entire military service of the State, and which, if not corrected will continue to involve our enlisted men in much unnecessary hardship and discomfort when in the field.

The indoor training of the infantry has in the past been largely limited to drill and minor tactics, owing to the fact that armories in their construction and appointments have not been modified and kept abreast of the times. The same authority which requires the mounted commands to have their personnel trained in horsemanship, loading of wagons, pitching of tents, intrenching, individual cooking of the ration, requires the infantry to have its personnel trained in like manner. The drill floors of the armories of mounted commands being composed of earth, clay, tan bark or other similar substances, makes this character of training practicable, and the mounted commands have had extensive training in this important work during their post drill and instruction season. This training is not possible on board floors. The ball room floor as a drill plain is as much out of place in an infantry armory as it would be in a cavalry or field artillery armory. The first command to adopt the change proposed by these Headquarters was the 47th Infantry, commanded by Colonel Henry C. Barthman. Appropriation was obtained from the Armory Commission for the substitution of an earth, sand and clay drill plain in the place of the conventional board floor, and bids are now being advertised for to carry the plan into practical effect. It is believed that after this new indoor drill plain is provided and in use the benefits derived therefrom will be such as will make it obvious that the board floor makes impossible a standard of efficiency which may be obtained by the use of the new type of indoor drill plain.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The Medical Department during 1912 made steady progress in education. The Medical Corps attended a school at Peekskill to which four officers of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., were detailed as Instructors, and the course of instruction was designed to give a broad view of the medical work performed by the Sanitary Troops of a division. Special attention was given to hygiene and field sanitation, map reading and the tactics of sanitary troops.

Two ambulance companies, two field hospitals and several regimental detachments of sanitary troops had field service at the Connecticut maneuvers.

The average strength of the Medical Department in 1912 was 48 greater than in 1911. The number of officers is less by an average of 18. The strength of the sanitary units averages 190, as against 59. On the other hand, the enlisted strength of regimental and other detachments averages 65 less than in 1911. The service in detachments is less attractive than with units and the losses are principally outside of the 3rd and 4th Brigades and mounted troops, namely, in the detachments located in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

A factor in these losses is the relatively excessive amount of time which the Medical Department gives to the examination of candidates for enlistment and re-enlistment, and the frequent lack of interest on the part of commanding officers in training and preparing the sanitary troops for field duty.

Some form of financial compensation should be provided for the services rendered in making medical examinations, as the services are distinctly medical rather than military, and are of the same nature as the daily work by which medical officers earn their living. The amount of time given by any Medical Officer to examinations of recruits should not interfere with his training in the military subjects of care of troops, tactics of sanitary troops, instruction of the line officers in care of troops, field sanitation and first aid to the injured, and the drill, instruction and administration of hospital corps detachment. Service with the Hospital Corps will be more attractive when instruction in riding and driving is given them.

APPENDIX A.

The great value of a well trained hospital corps to a command in the field must be admitted. By it, not only will individual valuable men be saved, but the psychological effect on every fighting man of knowing that prompt, trained, intelligent and devoted assistance awaits him when he becomes ill or is injured in the performance of his duty, will add largely to the fighting efficiency of the command.

SIGNAL CORPS.

The most important happening to the Signal Corps during the past year has been the equipping of the companies as field companies. Although the Military Law of the State has not yet been changed to meet the requirements of the changes made in the Regulations for the Organized Militia for Signal Corps, and the Field Service Regulations which provide for a battalion organization, requisitions were promptly made for the necessary property and equipment to fulfill the requirements, and all but some minor articles of property and equipment have been received, so that the companies of Signal Corps are now properly equipped with material to permit an efficient service of field lines and the establishment of wireless communication for a division of a mobile army.

In addition thereto the equipment is sufficient to permit the Signal Corps to erect and operate such camp lines of telegraph and telephone systems as may be required by the State, under such circumstances, as may be reasonably expected. Recommendations to have the Military Law conform to the Federal Regulations are now before the Legislature.

The instruction of the Signal Corps has been consistent with their duties, and it is believed that, measured by a proper standard, the Signal troops of the State may be considered efficient.

An interest in military aeronautical work has developed among certain of our citizens who are competent aviators, and if legislation and appropriations are provided, the Signal Corps will be able to engage in this particular phase of its duties which recent results have shown to be of such great importance in the operations of an armed force.

The quarters or armories of the Signal companies are not appropriate for field companies. The Signal Corps should be housed in a building adequate for the care of the reel carts, instrument wagons and other kinds of transportation with which it is equipped, and providing for the care of horses and mules required by the regulations. As soon as the legislation recommended may be passed, application will be made for appropriate armory accommodation.

SMALL ARMS PRACTICE AND TRAINING.

Rifle practice during the season of 1912 was held under a system recommended by a Regular Army Board, for uniform practice of the Regular Army and Organized Militia. The report of the Board was not approved as a whole by the War Department, and the State of New York obtained permission to use the course recommended as the State's record course for 1912. It was received with great favor and the State was complimented by the War Department upon the results obtained. The course for the organized militia, which will be substantially a new course, contains slow fire and timed fire, and will be promulgated by the War Department for the use of the organized militia approximately on the 1st of February next. Until this course has been promulgated and tested it is impossible to say whether it will meet with the satisfaction which the experimental course did last year. It will, however, during the coming season, be given a thorough practical test by all the troops in this State, and its success or adaptability, so far as this State is concerned, will be reported in the next annual report.

If our infantry, or in fact any infantry, is to seriously prepare for efficient fire action in combat, it is essential, in my opinion, that such courses of rifle practice as are from time to time recommended or prescribed by the War Department be regarded not as the ultimate fire training but rather as necessary preparation for field firing in combat exercises. Firing at conventional targets, over a level green, at known distances, aided by the use of the extensive paraphernalia usually seen at rifle ranges, has constituted for years a military sport which, while it has served to foster rifle practice in the service and among the people generally, has developed among its devotees an esprit and loyalty toward target practice methods which have heretofore operated against progressiveness in the development of infantry fire training. Any man who has witnessed an infantry command in a field firing problem for the first time, advancing over a broken terrain, under cover of its own fire in an advance against an actual intrenchment occupied by dummy defenders at unknown distance and so screened that little or nothing is presented in the way of targets, should be impressed with the crudity and ineffectiveness of the performance. The effect is not apparently modified by either the presence or the absence of expert riflemen in the command. The picture presented is that of a machine gone wrong—a motor with loose bearings, a bad mixture and teeth missing from the timing gears. Yet the conditions imposed are those which military organizations are created to meet in actual war. Expend, however, a reasonable fraction of the thought, time, money and enthusiasm devoted to target practice, in developing the training of that command in field firing of the character referred to, and the improvement readily to be observed will furnish ample return. The collection of uniformed individuals becomes a fighting infantry machine; squad, section and platoon team work is in evidence, silent visual signals produce immediate intelligent action, the fire sectors assigned to subdivisions are continuously sprayed, and all the while the line is relentlessly and cunningly gaining ground. This character of infantry training is not only necessary for our infantry and cavalry from the viewpoint of their efficiency, but once introduced will prove immensely popular. Field firing problems are planned for selected commands during the coming summer, under the supervision of Lieutenant Colonel N. B. Thurston, Chief Ordnance Officer.

APPENDIX A.

THEORETICAL INSTRUCTION.

During the past few years a distinct advance has been made in the standard of general education, particularly among those commissioned in the service for the first time. This has been due to the energy and progressiveness of the Regimental Commanders and to the work of the Examining Boards, pursuant to Regulations recommended by my predecessor, Major General Charles F. Roe. The military education of a theoretical nature above referred to is being systematized, pursuant to an order from these Headquarters, issued in September, establishing a school similar to the State Board of Regents, known as the "School of the Line and Staff." The work of the school is to be carried on under the direction and supervision of an Academic Board, consisting of the Major General, one Brigadier General, two Supply Officers, two Field Officers of Infantry, one Field Officer of Cavalry, and the Inspector-Instructors, U. S. Army, on duty with the State. Provision for the work of the Academic Board has been considered and approved by the Governor, and the four years' course of study provided for by G. O. 23, D. 1912, will be carried out under its supervision. It is believed that the influence of this Board, which the Governor has authorized, and the system of military education which it is to govern and supervise, will, within the next few years, produce better and greater results toward increasing the professional capacity and fitness of officers than any other influence which has heretofore obtained in the service.

The character of this instruction had in view the preparation of the State forces for the camp during the summer. The beneficial result has been most apparent and the officers and enlisted men are more thoroughly instructed for field work as a result of this work. The present plan of instruction as outlined in General Orders from this office, divides the indoor work into two classes: First the post drill and instruction season. This is further divided into practical and theoretical work. The practical work is outlined in General Orders 21 of these Headquarters, and the theoretical work in General Orders 23 of these Headquarters. Second, field training season. The object of the first period is to prepare the troops for the work to be done during the field training season. There are now on duty with the State two officers of Coast Artillery, U. S. Army; two Field Artillery, U. S. Army; two

APPENDIX A.

Cavalry, U. S. Army; one officer of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army; and two of Infantry. These officers are assigned to duty with the troops as Inspector-Instructors to assist in all military work. The limitation of time that can be taken from the business pursuits by officers and men will always be considered and proper consideration be made to limit the work as far as possible. The scheme of instruction prescribed in General Orders is for four years' course, each academic year covering the dull season, written examination being held at the end of the academic year. The plan also provides that new officers coming into the service will start at the beginning of the four years' course. The course of work is progressive and is so arranged that with systematic study, an officer may equip himself for the position he holds. Most of the officers of the State completed the first year's course during 1911, and this year these officers are taking up the course of work prescribed for the second year.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS.

The appointive system of selecting officers has been adopted by the 3rd Infantry during the year and also by the 1st and 2nd Regiment of Field Artillery. The system is working in a satisfactory manner, and it is hoped that it may be generally adopted by the National Guard.

MATÉRIEL AND EQUIPMENT.

Owing to the increase of the Federal appropriation for the Organized Militia, this State has been enabled, during the past two years, to draw from the Federal Government a great amount of property without expense to the State. This comment has particular reference to wagons, harness, field artillery matériel, tentage and equipment. In this manner many deficiencies in property preparedness have been eliminated. While it will take several years more to fully equip the National Guard of the State, its preparedness in the matter of military property is immeasurably superior to what it has ever been heretofore.

HOUSING.

The armories provided by the State and by the counties under the provision of State enactments, are in most instances ample in point of size and stability, and frequently are objects of local pride from an architectural point of view. There is, however, a lack of system in planning such buildings, which has resulted in unnecessary expense, the inclusion in some instances of ornateness and fittings not necessary or even desirable from the military point of view and the omission of other facilities necessary and desirable from the standpoint of efficiency. It is planned by these Headquarters and by the State Board of Armory Commissioners, with the co-operation of Post Commanders and the Armory Board of the City of New York to provide the necessary system and supervision.

Work upon the Armory of the 8th Artillery District has been carried out during this year. The expansion of the 1st Cavalry renders the armory of the old Squadron A inadequate, and it is desirable that the present building of the 8th Artillery District be modified for the use of the Cavalry. The new Armory of the 22nd Engineers is almost completed. The expansion of the Field Artillery has made the present armory occupied by the 1st Field Artillery inadequate. The Sanitary units should be given the armory at present occupied by the 1st Field Artillery, and the 1st Field Artillery should be provided with suitable quarters elsewhere. The plan for providing Troop B, 1st Cavalry at Albany, with an armory, should be carried out. The following companies of Infantry occupy buildings that are inadequate for armories: Newburgh, Olean, Auburn, Malone, Mt. Vernon, Jamestown and Yonkers. The 47th Infantry Armory is inadequate and a new administration building should be constructed in connection with the present drill hall.

TRANSPORTATION.

The latest military tests of mechanical traction, some of them most extended, and entered upon with the utmost optimism, show conclusively not only that the horse and the mule are still important factors in military operations, but that, so far as we may be permitted to see ahead, they will remain so. Mechanically driven vehicles in the supply columns and on the lines of communication will relieve many animals from service in rear of the combatant troops, but the cavalry horse, artillery horse, the officers' mount, the pack and combat train animals are as indispensable as ever. They have also become more expensive. The efficiency of military animals depends not only upon their training but upon the care and knowledge displayed in their use. To acquire this knowledge it is essential that the National Guard possess a nucleus of military animals to be used for drill and instruction. It is important in the infantry that a nucleus of animals, for instruction of mounted scouts and orderlies and drivers of the regimental train, be obtained. I have heretofore recommended the purchase of a sufficient number of animals to constitute such nucleus and to be assigned to Brigades, quartered in the armories of mounted commands and moved about for such infantry instruction. The initial cost would be small and the use of these animals by the State at Peekskill and at all Camps of Instruction, marches and field service, thus eliminating the hire of an equal number of relatively inefficient and untrained animals, would save the State a sum sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance of such nucleus of animals. In the Connecticut Maneuver Campaign in August, 1912, the loss of mules by the New York troops was 10 per cent. dead — this in a peacetime maneuver, lasting but nine days. It is a commentary on the need in our infantry, of instruction and training, in all that relates to the horse and mule and their use and care. The value of these lost animals will be paid by the State. If the amount of this loss had, prior to the maneuvers, been expended for the purchase of animals, and the necessary course of instruction in hippology, shoeing, feeding, grooming, care, harnessing, driving and loading, the State would not only have avoided the criticism attached to the loss referred to, but the infantry commands would have been very much better instructed and more efficient in this part of their work. So far as the needs of the State are concerned with respect to mechanical transportation, two motor vehicles are now owned by the State and used at the State Arsenal for transportation of property to and from the State Arsenal. These should be augmented by a limited number of motor vehicles for the use of Division and Brigade Headquarters. In view of the many occasions throughout the year when some one or more commands of the Guard are on target ranges or otherwise in the field, such additional motor vehicles, in connection with the nucleus of animals proposed, would furnish a great amount of transportation throughout the year and would warrant the investment. The particular type of motor vehicles desired is not yet determined upon, but it is proposed as a result of experience with the Provisional Regiment, U. S. Infantry at Sparta, Wisconsin, to confer with The Adjutant General of the State in the near future and make recommendations on this subject.

APPENDIX A.

PROPOSED FIELD TRAINING FOR THE COMING FIELD TRAINING SEASON.

Maneuvers are not contemplated for the coming outdoor season. The plan which I am at present considering in consultation with The Adjutant General of the State, is to place the 3rd and 4th Brigades in Brigade Camps of Instruction at some point convenient to their home stations, so as to cut down the cost of railroad transportation, which is always a large item, and to provide at Peekskill Officers' Camps of Instruction for the Corps of Engineers, the Field Artillery, the Cavalry, the Signal Corps, the Medical Corps and the 1st and 2nd Brigades of Infantry, such school in each instance to cover advanced work and to use for purposes of instruction and application a Provisional Company or Detachment administered as a model command. The plan contemplates the utilization of such small unit along the lines of the Provisional Regiment of Infantry organized by the War Department last summer at Dubuque, Iowa, and the results of which are so well known throughout the service. By this plan a large number of officers throughout the infantry and the auxiliary arms will receive most exacting and advanced training and instruction along practical lines without the great cost of transportation and maintenance of large organizations and of troops, which were in service last summer and which will probably again take the field next year.

APPENDIX A.

DIVISION HEADQUARTERS.

The Division headquarters and the Armory Commission occupy rented rooms at 174 State street, Albany, N. Y. The office of the Division Headquarters in the city of New York is located in rented quarters at 280 Broadway, New York city, N. Y., which have been extended in area in order to accommodate the Inspector-Instructors who are provided with desks and facilities for aiding in the work of the Division Headquarters. These officers by order are members of the Academic Board of the School of the Line and Staff.

Through the courtesy of the mayor of the City of New York, quarters have been assigned to the Division Headquarters on the eighth floor of the new Municipal Building in the city of New York, where better facilities for work will be available. The appropriation for the Division Headquarters has not been increased for a long period of years, although the amount of work has vastly increased, particularly within the last year. The Inspector-Instructors and the various Departmental heads are handicapped for lack of clerical assistants, particularly stenographers. It is the plan at Division Headquarters with respect to methods of instruction, inspections, investigations, reports and all military matters to attempt to perform all the drudgery and detailed work at such Headquarters in order to eliminate so much thereof as may be possible from the work imposed upon the officers throughout the service who cannot be expected to devote more than a reasonable amount of their time to the performance of their military duties.

APPENDIX B.

HEADQUARTERS, NAVAL MILITIA, N. Y.

U. S. S. GRANITE STATE

FOOT 97TH ST., NORTH RIVER,

NEW YORK, December 16, 1912.

From: Commodore, Commanding Naval Militia, N. Y.

To: The Adjutant General, S. N. Y.

Subject: Annual Report.

I have the honor to submit the following report concerning the operations and condition of the Naval Militia, N. Y., for the year ending September 30, 1912:

1. On November 22, 1911, these Headquarters received Special Order 00, A. G. O., directing the Commanding Officer, Naval Militia, New York, to theoretically mobilize the entire Naval Militia of the State at Fort Pond Bay, L. I. All papers relating to this mobilization are on file at your office.

2. A physical mobilization of the First Battalion was held on December 16, 1911. Report of same is on file at your office.

3. Upon receipt of General Orders No. 42, dated June 26, 1912, A. G. O., the First and Second Battalions were ordered to participate in the exercises outlined by Naval Militia Circular Letter No. 17 and the following number of officers and men embarked on July 13, 1912, on board the U. S. S. Iowa and U. S. S. Gloucester:

FIRST BATTALION.
Officers	22
Men	232
		254
SECOND BATTALION.
Officers	18
Men	244
		262
		516

Owing to lack of funds, the number of officers and men attending was limited by orders. Reports of Commanders Raynor and Martin are forwarded herewith, marked Appendices I and II, respectively.

The Third Battalion, under the same Orders, made cruises on the U. S. S. Sandoval and U. S. S. Hawk, reports of which are attached hereto, marked Appendices III and IV, respectively.

4. In addition to these Tours of Duty, weekly practice cruises were held on the U. S. S. Wasp, U. S. S. Gloucester, U. S. S. Sandoval and U. S. S. Hawk. The total distance covered by these vessels during the season is as follows:

U. S. S. Wasp	638 miles
U. S. S. Gloucester	4,351 miles
U. S. S. Sandoval	2,093 miles
U. S. S. Hawk	2,851 miles
	10,033 miles

5. The Naval Militia, New York, was requested by the Navy Department to participate in the mobilization of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet at New York, N. Y., October 12 to 15, 1912, both dates inclusive and 521 officers and men were furnished for this duty. Detachments from the First, Second and Third Battalions were sent aboard the U. S. S. Florida, U. S. S. Utah, U. S. S. Delaware, U. S. S. Washington and U. S. S. Missouri; a detachment was kept on duty on the U. S. S. Granite State, and in addition the U. S. S. Wasp and U. S. S. Gloucester were completely manned. Including the U. S. S. Gloucester and U. S. S. Wasp, a Naval Militia Division of six ships was attached to the Fleet under command of the Commodore, Commanding Naval Militia, N. Y.

APPENDIX B.

6. The regular annual inspection of the organizations of the Naval Militia were held as follows:

First Battalion, September 21, 1912.

Second Battalion, September 28 and October 1, 1912.

Third Battalion, October 4, 5 and 6, 1912.

7. The usual Small Arms Practice returns are attached, marked Appendix V. The Figure of Merit Prizes for the Naval Militia were won by the Third, Second and Fifth Divisions of the First Battalion.

The Inter-Battalion Secondary Battery Match was shot from the U. S. S. Gloucester and U. S. S. Iowa at Tangiers Sound during the ordered "Tour of Duty" and the returns thereof are embodied in the cruise report attached hereto. This match was won by the Second Battalion.

8. Through the courtesy of the Navy Department, the privilege of embarking on vessels of the United States Navy for sea duty, or as a witness at target practice, was granted to Naval Militia Officers providing ample notice is given to the Department in order to make provision for accommodations. This privilege will be of great benefit to the Naval Militia.

9. The strength of the Naval Militia was increased during the year by the muster-in of three new line divisions, the 7th Division, First Battalion, at New Rochelle on January 23, 1912; the 8th Division, First Battalion, at Ossining on May 29, 1912; and the 1st Division, Third Battalion, at Dunkirk on June 1, 1912.

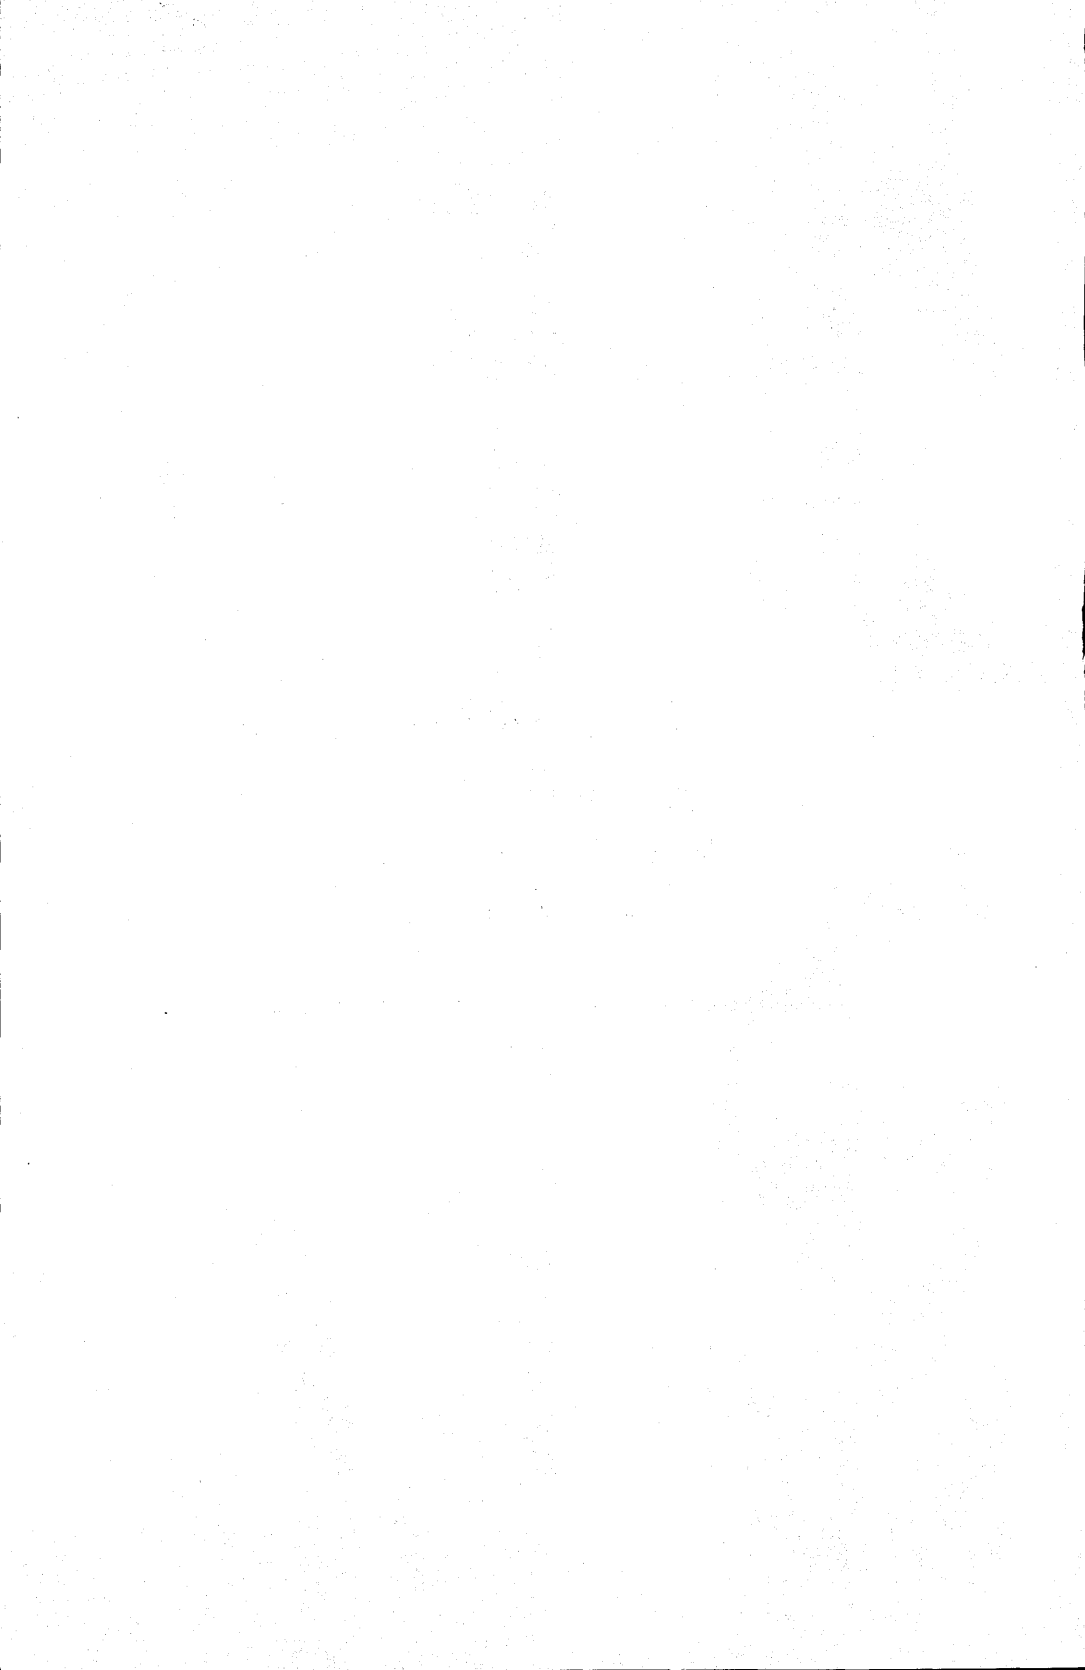

10. The aggregate strength of this command on September 30, 1911, was 846, and on September 30, 1912, it was 1,140, an increase of 296.

11. The Annual Reports of the Commanding Officers of the First, Second and Third Battalions are attached hereto, marked Appendices VI, VII and VIII, respectively.

12. In view of the increase in the strength of the Naval Militia of this State during the last year of approximately 35 per cent., the urgent necessity of a larger appropriation for the maintenance and support of the Naval Militia is apparent, and it is urgently requested that efforts be made to obtain for the Naval Militia the estimates contained in my letter of October 12, 1912.

SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT.

(Ten Companies.)

(First Brigade.)

Armory, 68 Lewington Avenue, New York City.

On October 12, 1851, a number of independent, uniformed military companies in the City of New York were organized into a regiment under the command of INFANTRY — (Continued).

Colonel Charles S. Roe, and designated in General Orders No. 489, A. G. O., dated November 1, 1861, as the 69th Regiment, New York State Militia. In 1858 the regiment was reorganized as a regiment of artillery doing duty as infantry.

The regiment was mustered in the United States service on May 9, 1861, at Washington, D. C., for three months, during which service it participated in the battles of Blackburn's Ford and Bull Run, and was mustered out on August 3, 1861.

Immediately after its muster out and return practically the whole regiment, including the officers and enlisted men who had served in the three months' campaign, volunteered for three years, or the war, and the offer was accepted by the War Department in a letter to the commanding officer of the regiment under date of August 30, 1861, the regiment being mustered in the United States service on November 8, 1861, as the 69th Regiment, New York Volunteers. Its appellation of "militia" was changed to "volunteers" for the reason that the term for which the regiment volunteered exceeded the period of time established by the State of New York for which its militia regiments, to be recognized as such, could serve without the State. But its numerical designation, however, was, by authority of the State, retained in order to preserve and maintain the regiment's identity with the militia organization. During this service the regiment was attached to the Army of the Potomac, forming part of the Irish Brigade (2d Brigade — 1st Division — 2d Corps). It was recruited in 1863 and again in 1864 and finally mustered out of the United States service at New York on June 30, 1865.

The militia organization, having in the fall of 1861 been again reorganized and recruited, re-entered the United States service for three months on September 3, 1862, and on its return from this service the major part thereof entered the service of the United States for three years, being mustered in on November 17, 1862, as the 69th Regiment, New York National Guard Artillery, which designation was, to avoid confusion, changed on March 19, 1864, to the 182d New York Volunteers and mustered out of the United States service under that designation on July 15, 1865. During its term of service this organization was one of the units in the brigade of New York regiments known as the "Irish Legion," officially designated as the 4th Brigade (afterwards 2d Brigade), 2d Division, 2d Corps, Army of the Potomac.

The militia regiment having been again reorganized, was mustered in the service of the United States on June 25, 1863, for thirty days and was mustered out on July 25, 1863. Again for the fourth time, the militia organization was, on July 6, 1864, mustered in the United States service for three months and was mustered out on October 6, 1864.

The regiment has rendered service to the State during the quarantine riots in 1858; the draft riots, 1863, and the quarantine disturbances in 1892. It was reduced December 6, 1893, to a battalion of five companies, A, C, D, I and K. The battalion was on duty at Brooklyn during the motormen's strike in January, 1895. New companies were organized for the battalion as follows: Co. B, June 5, 1894; Co. G, June 10, 1895; Co. E, June 11, 1895, and Co. F, September 7, 1900. The battalion was reconstituted a regiment September 4, 1895. April 28, 1898, the regiment received authority to organize as a twelve-company regiment, preparatory to its entry in the United States service, in which service it was mustered May 19, 1898, as the 69th Regiment, N. Y. Infantry, and mustered out January 31, 1899. The regiment formally re-entered the service of the State on March 15, 1899. Companies L and M were disbanded April 12, 1899; Co. F, February 8, 1900, and Co. B, March 5, 1900. Co. F was reorganized and mustered in May 31, 1900. New Co. B was organized January 4, 1906. New Co. L was mustered in July 14, 1911.

The regiment has received authority to place silver rings on the lances of its colors, engraved as follows:

This Battalion was organized and mustered in July 6, 1897, as the Second Naval Battalion. The designation was changed to Second Battalion, Naval Militia, on October 16, 1900. Signal Division was mustered out December 1, 1912.

The Battalion performed duty for the State during the Spanish-American War on coast signal service, guarding mine fields at Willet's Point and on patrol duty in New York harbor aboard various vessels.

It performed duty for the United States during the Spanish-American War in the U. S. Navy aboard the "Jason," and other vessels, and in the U. S. Auxiliary Naval Force aboard the "Alleen," "Elfrida," "Enquirer," "Huntress," "Kanawha," "New Hampshire," "Restless," and "Sylvia."

The Battalion has received authority to place silver rings on the lance of its National Color, engraved as follows: "Spanish-American War, 1898," "Havana, August 11, 1898."
