GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
ALBANY, December 31, 1896. }

HON. LEVI P. MORTON, Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR.— I have the honor to submit herewith my report for the current year of the military department of the State, with such sub-reports as have been received.

MILITIA.

In my report for the year 1895, I estimated the number of men residing in this State, subject to enrollment for military service, as 800,000, of whom probably 560,000 would be fit for such service. Although the population of the State has no doubt increased during this year, I consider the above figures still applicable.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

On the 30th day of September, this year, the National Guard consisted of 851 commissioned officers and 12,556 enlisted men; aggregate, 13,407. The maximum is by law limited to 15,000 enlisted men.

In the course of the year there have been added to the organizations in existence on January 1st, two companies to the 8th Battalion, raising the latter to the footing of a regiment, and one troop to Squadron "A," making this organization consist of three troops. The Hospital Corps has been reorganized and enlarged. Otherwise the organization of the National Guard remains the same as stated in my last report. I desire to call your attention to the recommendation made in my last report regarding the organization of a regiment of heavy artillery..

THE NAVAL MILITIA.

No changes in the organization of this portion of the State forces have taken place this year.

ARMAMENT, EQUIPMENT AND UNIFORMS.

The National Guard and Naval Militia are still armed and equipped as described in my last report.

Blouses, trousers and overcoats have been supplied as liberally as the means at my disposal permitted, but there is still great need for further extra issues of blouses and trousers.

I respectfully recommend that service shoes and flannel shirts be made part of the uniforms furnished and issued by the State.

The medical department is now in possession of ambulances, medical chests, litters and hospital corps knives, which practically completes the equipment of that department.

A more complete cooking outfit for companies is needed and should be obtained; the cost will probably be about $15,000.

CAMP SERVICE.

The Camp of Instruction opened this season, June 27th, and closed August 15th, and the troops on duty at the Camp during that time were:

From June 27th to July 4th, Squadron "A," the Eighth Regiment and a provisional battalion composed of the Second, Twenty-fifth, Forty-second and Forty-fourth Separate Companies.

From July 4th to 11th, the Thirteenth Regiment and a provisional battalion composed of the First, Thirtieth, Forty-third and Forty-eighth Separate Companies.

From July 11th to 18th, the Twenty-third Regiment and a provisional battalion composed of the Twenty-ninth, Thirty-fourth, Forty-first and Forty-sixth Separate Companies.

From July 18th to 25th, the Ninth Regiment and a provisional battalion composed of the Fifth, Tenth, Twenty-fourth and Thirty-seventh Separate Companies.

From July 25th to August 1st, the First, Second and Third Signal Corps, the Fourteenth Regiment and a provisional battalion composed of the Eighth, Twelfth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Separate Companies.

From August 1st to 8th, Troop "C," the Sixty-ninth Regiment and a provisional battalion composed of the Third, Ninth, Thirty-third and Thirty-ninth Separate Companies.

From August 8th to 15th, the First, Second, Third and Sixth Batteries.

The course of instruction was on the principles heretofore adopted and observed.

The last two weeks Troop "F," Third United States Cavalry, was also on duty at the Camp, serving as an object-lesson and doing great good to the State troops in Camp then, especially to Troop "C."

With the State batteries served also Light Battery "K," First United States Artillery, whose example was of great service to the former.

The batteries marched from New York city to the Camp; the other organizations arrived by railroad transportation; all the organizations, except the regular battery, returned to their respective stations by rail.

The work performed by the troops was satisfactory to me in every respect, and their officers and men, as well as the officers serving on my staff, and Colonel Robert H. Hall and Captain J. B. Burbank, United States Army, on duty at the Camp, deserve great credit and commendation for their work.

The Honorable Secretary of War deserves the thanks of the State for the detail of the two organizations of the Regular Army serving with the State troops at the Camp as set forth above.

The following table will show the attendance at Camp in detail:

It will be observed from the foregoing that the average of the attendance at Camp this season is 88 per cent.; that 6,015 officers and enlisted men were paid for their service in Camp. Including the officers and enlisted men serving at post headquarters, the artillery detachments and the band, there were on duty at the Camp during the season altogether about 6,200 officers and men.

There was considerable sickness — malaria — developed in Camp this season, especially among those who served there longer than one week; as the tides were generally very low, there is no doubt this was caused by sewage, and it is, therefore, imperative that this should be corrected before another Camp season. The eastern parade ground requires grading; it is in very poor condition.

SERVICE AFLOAT AND ASHORE.

In view of the fact that the Naval Militia has had a tour of duty, equivalent to the Camp duty of the National Guard, every year since its organization, and as furthermore it appears very doubtful if United States vessels of war could be obtained for work at sea, it was decided that the longshore, signal and information work should be continued this year by volunteers, not by the organization as a whole.

The number of volunteers allowed to the First Naval Battalion was limited to 56 officers and men, but so many more volunteering than had been expected, the number was increased to 100. The operations of these detachments extended over the months of June, July and August.

The Second Separate Naval Division had its tour of service from July 19th to the 27th, and the duty was arranged especially with reference to gathering information of the waters of Lake Ontario at its eastern end.

For detailed account of the work undertaken and its result I refer to the reports of the United States naval officers and those of the commanding officers of the State naval organizations.

SERVICE IN AID OF THE CIVIL AUTHORITY.

No call has been made this year on the armed force of the State to assist in preserving the peace, rights and property of the State, and that there has been no cause for such aid must be very gratifying to every good citizen of the State.

In another place I have spoken of wants yet to be supplied to perfect the equipment of the military forces of the State for duty of this kind.

It is proper to say here, that had troops been called for by the United States government as rumored about a year ago, the organizations which had had field service last year would have been found fully equipped and fitted out, and would have had the experience for campaigning only to be derived from actual service of that nature.

ARMORIES.

The State has provided armories, or such are in course of construction at the expense of the State:

At Albany for the Third Signal Corps and Tenth Battalion.

At Auburn for the Second Separate Company.

NEW YORK COUNTY.

At New York city the First Signal Corps, Squadron "A," Second Battery, the Eighth, Ninth, Twelfth, Twenty-second and Seventy-first Regiments; the First Battery and Sixty-ninth Regiment, for whom new armories will shortly be constructed; the Seventh Regiment built its own armory on ground obtained from the county.

KINGS COUNTY.

At Brooklyn, for the Second Signal Corps, Troop "C," Third Battery, and the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Regiments.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

ORLEANS COUNTY.

At Medina, rents an armory for the Twenty-ninth Separate Company.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

At Whitehall, rents an armory for the Ninth Separate Company.

The United States Government has provided as an armory at New York city, for the First Naval Battalion, the United States Steamship New Hampshire.

All the organizations of the National Guard and Naval Militia, including headquarters of brigades are now provided with quarters, with the exception of the Fourth Signal Corps, and headquarters of the Fourth Brigade, but the quarters occupied by the

THIRTY-SIXTH AND THIRTY-SEVENTH SEPARATE COMPANIES
At Schenectady are unsafe and entirely inadequate.

TWENTY-NINTH SEPARATE COMPANY
At Medina, are insufficient and not answering the purpose.

NINTH SEPARATE COMPANY
At Whitehall, are totally unsuitable for any military purpose, further than storage of property.

Armories are needed for these organizations, they are urgently needed. It is expected, however, that the county of Erie will provide for the Fourth Signal Corps and Fourth Brigade headquarters at an early date.

Many of the armories have facilities for indoor rifle practice; those that have not should be provided with such for gallery practice at as early a date as possible.

PENSIONS AND PAY AND CARE FOR THOSE INJURED OR DISABLED IN SERVICE.

The pensions allowed and paid under chapter 611, Laws of 1887, amended by chapters 329, Laws of 1888, 396, Laws of 1889, and 468, Laws of 1892, are as follows:

MILITARY ROAD FROM THE STATE CAMP TO NEAR HIGHLAND STATION.

The first section, about half of this road, is now completed; the completion of the remainder depends on the action of the Legislature, the available means being about exhausted.

BUREAU OF RECORDS OF THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

The regular work of the Bureau, responses to letters received, furnishing records and information as to the service of soldiers of the State, in the War of the Rebellion, continues and seems not to be diminished.

The work commenced three years ago, of transcribing, collecting and correcting the records of New York Volunteers, binding the same in substantial manner for safe keeping and reference, and filing the old records for preservation, has been continued this year, and the records of the men who served in the first six regiments of artillery, and the first 20 independent batteries have been compiled and completed.

The Bureau of Military Relics retains the interest taken in it by the public.

WAR CLAIMS.

Judge John Woodward, in charge of the prosecution of war claims of the State against the United States, resigned this position January 9, 1896, and the Governor appointed in his stead the Hon. Richard Crowley, of Lockport, who has the matter well in hand, and gives it his best attention.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE N. G., N. Y.,
PARK AVENUE AND THIRTY-FOURTH STREET.
NEW YORK, September 30, 1896.

To the Adjutant-General, State of New York:

Sir.— In accordance with O. D. 19, I have the honor to submit the following report of the condition of the First Brigade.

There has been no general movement of the brigade since the last annual report.

The following organizations of the brigade were present at the State Camp for Instruction, in accordance with G. O. 6, A. G. O. c. s.

The Eighth, Ninth and Sixty-Ninth Regiments; Squadron A; First Signal Corps; First and Second Batteries.

The reorganization of the Eighth Battalion and its formation into a regiment took effect February 14, 1896, S. O. 26, A. G. O. c. s., Major Henry Chauncey, Jr., was commissioned colonel with rank from February 24, 1896, and assigned to command the regiment by S. O. 18, c. s., from these headquarters.

The aggregate strength of the brigade as shown by the semi-annual return dated September 30, 1895, was four thousand nine hundred and eighty-three (4,983). The strength by the corresponding return this year was five thousand two hundred and six (5,206), showing a gain of two hundred and twenty-three (223).

The condition of the brigade is excellent.

The Brigade Commander again invites the attention of the Commander-in-Chief to his report of November 30, 1888, and of November 30, 1891, in relation to the subject of heavy artillery, and referring to the recent recommendations of the Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, respectfully urges that authority be given to raise a regiment of heavy artillery, which, while subject to the other usual military duties, shall be specially charged with a knowledge of and practice in the use of heavy guns in the defensive fortifications.

Respectfully,

LOUIS FITZGERALD,

Brigadier-General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.,
ALBANY, N. Y., December 1, 1896.

To the Adjutant-General, State of New York:

Sir.—I have the honor to report, in accordance with the regulations, that during the current year the Third Signal Corps, Sixth Battery, Third, Fifth, Ninth, Tenth, Twelfth, Eighteenth, Twenty-fourth, Thirty-third, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-ninth, Forty-fourth and Forty-sixth Separate Companies of my brigade performed a tour of service at the Camp of Instruction; that no call was made on any portion of the brigade for aid by the civil authorities; that the organizations of the brigade are generally in good condition, with possibly the exception of two, which there is reason to expect will recover and return to their former efficiency in the course of the coming year.

The strength of the brigade September 30, 1895, was 2,856 officers and enlisted men; on the 30th September, 1896, it was 2,942 officers and enlisted men.

Respectfully,

ROBERT SHAW OLIVER,
Brigadier-General.

Annual Report, Fourth Brigade, by Commanding Officer.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH BRIGADE, N. G., N. Y.,
BUFFALO, N. Y., September 30, 1896.

Adjutant-General, State of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit herewith my annual report.

The past year has been spent by the commands of this brigade in routine duty, none of them having been called upon to aid the civil authorities.

The discipline and efficiency of the brigade, with slight exceptions, show steady gain, as does the numerical strength—2,293 March 31, 1896—compared with 2,185 at same date in 1895.

The increased supply of ammunition issued has resulted in renewed interest in rifle practice, as shown by the large number of marksmen, sharpshooters and experts for the last season.

In my judgment the supply of ammunition should be still further increased. A sufficient supply should be issued to enable a command when on the range to employ all of the time in practice, giving particular attention to the men least expert.

By so doing the number of men proficient in the most important of a soldier's duties—ability to use their arms effectively—will be still further augmented.

I would renew my recommendation of last year, that the National Guard of this State be reorganized as a division under the command of a Major-General.

Respectfully,

PETER C. DOYLE,

Brigadier General.

When organized pursuant to the order referred to its strength will be additional to the force above given.

3. Number, Organization and Stations of Brigades, Regiments, Battalions and Separate Companies.

There are no division organizations in the National Guard.

There are four (4) brigade organizations, as follows: First Brigade, General Louis Fitzgerald, headquarters New York city.

Second Brigade, General James McLeer, headquarters Brooklyn, N. Y.

Third Brigade, General R. S. Oliver, headquarters Albany, N. Y.

Fourth Brigade, General Peter C. Doyle, headquarters Buffalo, N. Y.

The Fourth Brigade, General Peter C. Doyle, headquarters at Buffalo, N. Y., consists of the Fourth Signal Corps, one battery of Light Artillery (Fifth) at Syracuse, N. Y., Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth Regiments of Infantry at Buffalo, N. Y., and 14 Separate Companies of Infantry, stationed as follows:

First and Eighth, Rochester, N. Y.; Forty-eighth, Oswego, N. Y.; Forty-first, Syracuse, N. Y.; Second, Auburn, N. Y.; Thirty-fourth, Geneva, N. Y.; Twenty-sixth and Thirtieth, Elmira, N. Y.; Forty-seventh, Hornellsville, N. Y.; Twenty-ninth, Medina, N. Y.; Forty-third, Olean, N. Y.; Thirteenth, Jamestown, N. Y.; Twenty-fifth, Tonawanda, N. Y.; Forty-second, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; aggregate about 2,293. (Map on file in military information division to indicate locations of organizations as given above.)

The present regiments are organizations of 10 companies each, divided into two battalions of five companies each. Infantry companies consist of one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, one First Sergeant, one Quartermaster-Sergeant, four Sergeants, eight Corporals, two Musicians, and with the minimum number of 31 and maximum of 84 privates. The separate companies of infantry are allowed by law an additional Second Lieutenant, and have also each an Assistant Surgeon with rank of First Lieutenant.

A separate troop of cavalry or light battery consists of one Captain, two First Lieutenants, two Second Lieutenants, one First Sergeant, one Quartermaster Sergeant, one Veterinary Sergeant, one Guidon Sergeant, four Sergeants, eight Corporals, four Artificers, two Trumpeters, and 48 minimum or 84 maximum privates, with an Assistant Surgeon, rank of First Lieutenant. The State Code authorizes the Governor to modify organizations to conform to any methods adopted in the Regular Army, now or hereafter and to make all necessary changes to that end; also to increase the State forces beyond the standing strength of 15,000 "in case of war, insurrection, invasion or imminent danger thereof."

The Military Code of the State of New York as amended states that, no commission shall be issued to any officer in the National Guard, save to general officers, until the officer elected or appointed shall have passed a satisfactory examination before a board, as to his knowledge of military affairs proportionate to the office to be held, his general knowledge and his fitness for the service.

General officers and commanding officers of regiments, and battalions not a part of a regiment, may nominate candidates to fill vacancies in the staffs and signal corps of their respective brigades, regiments or battalions.

To each brigade there shall be one Assistant Adjutant-General of the grade of Lieutenant-Colonel, who shall be the Chief of the Brigade Staff, one Inspector, one Engineer, one Judge-Advocate, one Surgeon, one Ordnance Officer, one Quartermaster, one Commissary of Subsistence and one Inspector of Rifle Practice, each of the grade of Major; and, as the personal staff of the Brigadier-General, two Aides-de-Camp of the grade of Captain.

Field and staff officers of a regiment are: One Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, and one Major to each battalion, one Surgeon-Major, two Assistant Surgeons of the grade of Captain, one Regimental Adjutant, one Regimental Quartermaster, each of the grade of Captain, one Commissary of Subsistence, two Battalion Adjutants and two Battalion Quartermasters, each of the grade of First Lieutenant, one Inspector of Rifle Practice of the grade of Captain, one Chaplain of the grade of Captain, one Regimental and two Battalion Sergeant-Majors, one Regimental and two Battalion Quartermaster-Sergeants, one Commissary Sergeant, one Ordnance Sergeant, one Hospital Steward and one Assistant Hospital Steward for each battalion, one Band Leader or Trumpeter and one Drum-Major and two Color-Bearers, each of the grade of Sergeant.

Should regiments be increased to 12 companies, the requisite number of additional officers of like grade will be appointed.

4. General Officers—Number and Manner of Appointment.

Four Brigadier-Generals. Should Major-Generals be appointed the consent of the Senate is necessary. Brigadier-Generals may be appointed by the Governor, or, should he so direct, they may be chosen by the Field Officers of the Brigade and the Commanding Officers of Troops, Batteries and Companies not a part of a Regiment or Battalion, but in the Brigade. No person is eligible for appointment or election, however, as a Major or Brigadier-General, unless he has served five years in the National Guard; but service in the regular or volunteer forces of the United States shall be counted as service in the National Guard.

6. Company Officers—How Selected or Appointed—Examination of.

Company officers are chosen by written or printed votes of officers and enlisted men of their respective companies and commissioned by the Governor, after passing a satisfactory examination by a board as to their knowledge of military affairs proportionate to the office and the general knowledge and fitness for the service. They must be citizens of the United States, and not less than 18 years of age.

7. Staff Departments—Adjutant-General, Duties of—Medical Department, Duties of—Other Staff Corps, Duties of.

The staff of the Commander-in-Chief consists of one Adjutant-General, of the grade of Major-General, who shall be the Chief of Staff and is charged with the general duties pertaining to that position in the regular army. He is also the auditor of military accounts, and all claims payable from the treasury of the State for military purposes, are regularly audited by him and approved by the Governor, as Commander-in-Chief, before payment; one Inspector-General, one Commissary-General, who shall be Chief of Ordnance; one Judge-Advocate-General who shall be a counselor-at-law of the Supreme Court of at least five years' standing; one Surgeon-General who shall be a graduate of some incorporated school of medicine and of at least five years' practice; one Chief of Engineers, who shall have been educated as an engineer; one Chief of Artillery; one Quartermaster-General; one Paymaster-General; one Commissary-General of Subsistence and one General Inspector of Rifle Practice, each of the grade of Brigadier-General; six Aides-de-Camp and one Military Secretary, each of the rank of Colonel. The Inspector-General, Surgeon-General and Judge Advocate-General are charged with the duties performed by officers of like grade in the United States Army. The other Chiefs of Staff Departments have but supervisory functions in peace times.

The Chiefs of Staff Departments, the Aides-de-Camp and the Military Secretary of the Commander-in-Chief, are appointed by each Governor, and these commissions expire with the term for which the Governor appointing them shall have been elected.

8. Ambulance Corps and Hospital Corps—Organization, Equipment and Efficiency.

The Hospital Corps of the State consists of the hospital stewards of regiments, battalions and squadrons, and of the men specially enlisted for or transferred from companies to hospital corps of organizations, to the number of 12 for a regiment, eight for a squadron or a battalion not part of a regiment, and two for each separate or unattached troop, battery, company and signal corps, and is in addition to the authorized strength of the organizations; a corporal is authorized for each little squad of four men. Each corporal and private is, in active service, required to carry a canteen of water, a knife, and, except where serving as an orderly, a hospital corps pouch, whose contents are substantially the same as that used in the regular service. The State regulations governing the corps have been recently modified, and are published in General Orders No. 11, General Headquarters, State of New York, July 13, 1896, and a copy of this order marked "A" is attached to this report. A Regimental Surgeon was on duty at the Camp as medical instructor, and the several detachments of the hospital corps were drilled and instructed by him or under his supervision during their respective tours of duty. The instruction was seemingly thorough, and was both practical and theoretical, but it may be questioned whether purely professional instruction was not too much sacrificed for military drill. A detachment under a radical officer was on the field at all drills and ceremonies, prepared for casualties, and seemed to be vigilant, prompt and efficient. The members of the corps whom I had occasion to observe were intelligent men.

COLONEL HALL.

No Ambulance Corps has as yet been organized and equipped. An experimental ambulance was attached to the hospital during the Peekskill Camp. When the proper vehicle has been evolved it is proposed to furnish one to each brigade and keep one permanently at the State Camp.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

9. Signal Corps—Organization, Equipment and Efficiency.

In each brigade of the State there is a signal corps consisting of one Captain and one First Lieutenant, one Assistant Surgeon (First Lieutenant), and not exceeding 46 noncommissioned officers and privates. The chief signal officer for the Guard holds the rank of Major and exercises supervisory control over the entire force. They are equipped with all the paraphernalia in use by similar corps in the regular army. They are all properly organized and are in efficient condition. Of their capacity to perform any of the duties connected with their branch of the work with celerity and accuracy there is no possible doubt.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

Applicants for enlistment must show that they have been practical telegraphers or civil, mechanical or electrical engineers, or that in their education they have received instruction in these branches. The officers and men of the three corps on duty at the Camp seemed greatly interested in their work, which consisted in signaling by flag, heliograph lantern, field telegraph and field telephone, and they were very diligent and energetic. I frequently observed them, and found them to be a thoroughly efficient body of men in their special duties.

COLONEL HALL.

10. Regular Army Officer Attached to Headquarters.

Captain James B. Burbank, Third U. S. Artillery.

11. Military or Advisory Board—Organization and Duties.

There is none.

12. Encampment—Regimental, Brigade or Divisional—Period of Duration—Ground Owned by State—If so, Location—Regular Troops Encamped with State Troops.

All organizations of the Guard of the State are sent on alternate years to the Camp of Instruction at Peekskill-on-Hudson, as regiments, or provisional battalions of the separate companies, each command serving one week; the entire period of instruction lasting seven weeks. The camp ground is owned by the State, and, with the exception of its limited area, is a model in all respects.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

The aggregate of the 39 organizations ordered to the Camp (summer of 1896) was, according to the data furnished me, 6,726, and of this number 5,917, or about 87.97 per cent., responded to the call. Although the Camp is too limited in area for proper exemplification of the extended order drill regulations, it is in admirable condition, and provided with everything except barracks and quarters necessary for a well-equipped military post. The experience and efficiency of the staff departments are such that the troops upon arrival find their tents pitched, the kitchen and mess-hall ready for use, and all other essentials in readiness for them, so that no time is lost in beginning the course of instruction.

Troop F, Third United States Cavalry, was encamped with the State troops from August 1st, and Light Battery K, First United States Artillery, from August 8th, until the close of the Camp—August 15th. The battery accompanied the four State batteries on the march from New York city to the Camp—August 6th to 8th.

COLONEL HALL.

13. Mobilization—(a) Points of Concentration for Service in State—(b) Points of Concentration for Service out of State—(c) Time Required for Concentration for Service in and out of State—(d) Plans for Emergency—(e) Per cent. that would probably turn out for Sixty Days' Service.

(a) There are no defined points for concentration. As the State is traversed by railroads north and south, east and west (six being trunk lines), with a network of connecting branches, and as important towns of great manufacturing and commercial interests are distributed over its entire area, no points of concentration could be prearranged except as the result of immediate conditions. The organizations composing the Guard are widely and symmetrically distributed, the preponderating force (over one-half) being in New York and Brooklyn.

(b) It is believed, in the light of past experience, that the entire Guard with its field equipment could be concentrated at any point within State limits in 24 hours, if short previous notice were given, or in 48 hours if the call was unexpected. This is due to the extraordinary railroad facilities available.

(c) Same as (b).

(d) There are no plans for emergency except the general conditions of preparedness which exist in the entire force.

(e) About 80 per cent.

14. State Appropriations.

For year ending October 1, 1896, $430,000; for year ending October 1, 1897, $447,000. Expended in payment, feeding troops while en route under orders, and in camp, transportation, clothing and ordinary incidentals connected therewith.

National Appropriations.

Thirty-one thousand fifty-four dollars and five cents, which amount the State draws in military stores and equipment from the Government.

16. Armament — Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry, Character and Condition of.

Cavalry.— Remington carbines, caliber .50, and sabers.

Artillery.— First, Second and Sixth Batteries, each four 3.2-inch breech-loading rifles, with latest models of carriages, harness and equipments; Third Battery, four Gatling guns, caliber .50, and sabers, also, four brass mountain howitzers, and Remington rifles, caliber .50; Fifth Battery, two 3-inch muzzle-loading rifles, two 12-pounder Napoleons and sabers. The First, Second and Sixth Batteries are in excellent condition. The Fifth Battery has obsolete guns, for which ammunition can not be furnished, and the old type wooden carriages, which are too unserviceable through age to take into the field.

Infantry.—Remington rifles, caliber .50. These rifles might be considered serviceable for street work and drills, but unserviceable for the field. The Springfield rifle, caliber .45, would be far better in every respect until the question of small arms, both as to type and caliber, has passed the experimental stage.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

The armament of the cavalry and artillery in camp was seemingly in good condition, but that of the infantry, which I was enabled to observe more closely, was not invariably so. Very many of these pieces were dirty, even rusty, and showed lack of common care. I was advised that the duty of keeping the arms in order belongs to the armorer, who, under the law, is authorized for each armory, and that the individual soldier has no responsibility in the matter. But certainly some of the armorers have been very negligent.

COLONEL HALL.

17. Equipment—Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry—Character and Condition of.

Cavalry.—The same as in the regular army; in good condition.

Artillery.—First, Second and Sixth Batteries, new late army pattern, others obsolete types. Knapsacks, haversacks and canteens, army pattern; good.

Infantry.—Fifty caliber cartridge boxes, leather belts, and modern canteens; Merriam packs.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

18. Uniform Clothing—Character and Condition of.

Full dress is made to order; color, in most cases, similar to United States uniforms.

The field or undress, the same. A small supply of field uniforms are kept on hand to meet emergencies. No regular pattern of shoe has been adopted. No underclothing is issued by the State. The clothing generally is in good condition. Blankets furnished by the government from national appropriation to State.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

Shoes are not provided by the State. Each individual consults his own taste in such matters and, as a consequence, many of the infantry appeared on duty with shoes which, on even a short march, would inevitably cripple the wearer.

COLONEL HALL.

19. Horses, Owned or Hired.

Some officers own their own mounts and are allowed to use them. Squadron A and the Second Battery own about 33 per cent. of their own mounts.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

20. Ammunition—(a) Character and Amount of, Actually in Hands of Troops. (b) Amount that could be Supplied on Arrival at Point of Concentration.

(a) In the armories of cavalry and infantry troops 20 rounds per man. Artillery, 200 rounds of shrapnel and percussion shell each, for 3.2" breech loaders. Stored in State arsenal.

In reserve at arsenal 600,000 cartridges caliber .50 for Remington rifles and Gatling guns.

(b) Many millions of small arms ammunition could be supplied through purchase by the great cartridge making companies of New York and Connecticut, in a day.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

21. Camp and Garrison Equipage—(a) Tentage, etc. (b) Mess Outfits.

(a) The State has on hand and serviceable, 80 hospital tents, 1,100 wall tents, 700 conical wall tents, and 150 "A" tents. No shelter tents on hand.

(b) Each company, troop and battery, as well as the various headquarters, are supplied with a complete cooking outfit, with mess furniture.

22. Property Accountability—Nature of—Are Regulations in Regard to, Strictly Enforced?

Commanders of regiments, battalions, separate companies, troops, batteries and corps are responsible for all public property in the possession of their commands. The regulations governing accountability are based upon those of the regular army, and appear to be strictly enforced.

23. Subsistence—Rations—Component Parts of—How Furnished—How Prepared.

Component parts of the ration as established by the State regulations are substantially the same as the army ration, but about 25 per cent. larger. The Subsistence Department furnishes it through contracts, when practicable. In emergencies rations are purchased by immediate commanding officers under regulations. In Camp of Instruction at Peekskill troops are fed by contract at a general mess-hall, where all the facilities of a large hotel are provided for use of the contractors in supplying stated meals.

24. Pay and Allowances.

When ordered for duty by the Governor, except for inspection, muster, or rifle practice, per diem pay is allotted as follows:

Private or musician, $1.25; First Sergeant and Sergeant-Major, $2; other non-commissioned officers or those acting as such, $1.50; Lieutenant, $2.50; Captain or company commander, $3; Major or Lieutenant-Colonel, $4; Colonel or Commander of a regiment or separate battalion, $5; Brigadier-General, $6; Major-General, $8; Adjutant or Acting Adjutant, $3; all other staff officers, the pay of line officers of equal grade; enlisted men who have served a full term of enlistment shall be entitled to additional pay at the rate of 25 cents per day during the second five years of their service, and a further additional 25 cents per day for each succeeding five years of service. When on duty, or assembled therefor, in case of riot, tumult, breach of the peace, insurrection or invasion, or whenever called out in aid of the civil authorities, commissioned officers shall receive the same pay and allowances as commissioned officers of the regular army of equal grade and length of service; each officer and enlisted man, mounted and equipped, shall be paid a reasonable compensation per day for each horse actually used by him.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

I frequently visited the mess-hall at the encampment and noted that the food furnished was of excellent quality and in quantities most liberal. The mess-hall is admirably equipped and frequently provided for as many as 1,500 men per day.

COLONEL HALL.

25. Stores—(a) Purchase of. (b) Amount Required, in Addition to those now on Hand to Enable the Command to take the Field for Sixty Days. (c) Medical Supplies.

(a) Stores for the use of the Guard are purchased on contract by the Chief of Ordnance of the State on requisitions by Commanders approved by the Adjutant-General.

(b) All troops are supposed to be provided with all the necessary outfit to take the field, except food and camp equipage; the latter is kept in store at the New York arsenal. Food would be furnished by immediate purchase in the locality by the various commissaries, and the adequate camp equipage would be shipped by fast express immediately to the required points. Clothing, arms and ammunition are in the hands of the troops at their armories, with reserve supplies at call.

(c) The senior medical officer of each organization has on hand a small supply of field appliances, except ambulances. A system of complete equipment for field and hospital service, including ambulances, is now being prepared, and will undoubtedly be furnished in the near future.

In an emergency supplies would be purchased in open market by each medical officer.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

26. Drills and Ceremonies—(a) Number and Nature of. (b) Proficiency in. (c) Field Exercises.

(a) One annual inspection; five drills and parades, including inspection, muster and the week of camp duty counting as one drill. These five drills are outdoor. In addition twelve evening drills are made compulsory by law, for all officers (except general and staff) and all enlisted men. Commanders of organizations may order additional drills, parades and other forms of military instruction in their discretion (see 141 Military Code). These additional drills will average four per month through eight months of the year, for the entire Guard of the State.

CAPTAIN BURBANK.

(a) In Camp.—For the infantry there were two drills each day, one of an hour and a quarter duration shortly after reveille, and another of about two hours duration before noon. There were also daily a guard mounting in full form and a parade at retreat besides; once a week a review of the whole force by the commanding officer. I invite attention to the enclosed cards, which show the prescribed hours of service at the Camp and the drill programme of the infantry. The drill programme was prepared several months before the Camp opened, and the cards were then distributed to the organizations ordered to be present, with a view to study and preparation. It was, I thought, unfortunate that many of the officers studied these cards on the field, when they should have been engaged in drill. The programme contemplates a progressive course of instruction, and, except for some liberties taken with the commands in the regimental drill, conform to the drill regulations, whose whole scope it covers. While the artillery were in camp each battery drilled once a day, covering during the week the school of the battery.

The cavalry, while present, drilled twice a day.

(b) I was present at as many as practicable of the drills and ceremonies, and carefully observed the methods of instruction and the degree of attention given thereto by the officers and men. The State was fortunate in having on duty at the Camp several thoroughly competent inspectors of drill, who, on occasions, acted as instructors also, and who were vigilant to discover and painstaking to correct all errors that were made. In general the various organizations exhibited a desire to make the best possible use of this careful supervision, and there resulted, with only a few exceptions, a decided improvement in drill and discipline in each organization during its tour of duty. A noticeable defect in every organization was the lack of instruction or sufficient instruction in the school of the soldier. The rudimentary drill is so generally neglected that much valuable time was lost in teaching in camp, what should have been thoroughly acquired by the men at their home stations.

The leaders of squads and sections in extended order were generally hesitating in manner and without the self-confidence that comes with greater familiarity with their duties, and there resulted of course an utter lack of the alertness and snap which should characterize this drill. This hesitancy sometimes extended to even the commissioned grades, and then the drill became ridiculous. Some of the organizations were so deficient in instruction in close order that extended order drills were, with them, not even attempted. In the ceremonies there were, at first, many errors. As the close of the week approached the parades were conducted with greater accuracy, as were also the guard mountings, although in this last ceremony there was always much to be desired. The review at the close of each week was always a creditable exhibition of steadiness in ranks, and of marching. The drills of the batteries were schools of the drivers. They were not supervised with sufficient care to cause the correction of errors of intervals and distances, and even at the last the drivers were in need of much instruction. The cavalry drill was energetic and thorough. Troop C, enjoyed the advantage of the presence of Troop F, Third Cavalry, with which it was frequently drilled in the school of the squadron.

(c) There were no field exercises by the State troops during the encampment.

COLONEL HALL.

27. Personnel and Discipline.

The personnel of the State troops is generally excellent. That better results are not obtained from material usually so good is because, as already suggested, the rudimentary drill is defective, or possibly neglected. This seems particularly unfortunate when there is such general intelligence and ambition to improve.

The discipline, at first crude, improved in each organization, but much more in a few than in others.

COLONEL HALL.

28. Theoretical Instruction.

Schools of theoretical instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers, at which attendance was obligatory were conducted every afternoon by the inspectors of drills. At these schools errors and omissions, or violations of orders, regulations or customs of service, observed by those in authority were pointed out. They also covered the subject of the drills to be had on the following day.

The inspectors of guard duty also gave theoretical instruction daily to the officers and non-commissioned officers of the guard detailed for the day next succeeding.

COLONEL HALL.

29. Guard Duty—How Performed—Officers and Non-commissioned Officers Well Instructed—Sentinels Well Instructed—Any Outpost Duty.

Guard duty was never performed with absolute perfection, although better at the end of each week, than at the beginning. In this duty there seems to be no home instruction, and as each organization serves in camp but one week in two years, the soldier is instructed in the essential part of his education but one day in all that period.

Neither the officers, non-commissioned officers nor sentinels were well instructed.

There was no outpost duty during the encampment.

COLONEL HALL.

30. Target Practice—Cavalry, Artillery and Infantry—Range and Gallery—Any Held at Stations of Troops—Any Held in Camp—Quantity of Instruction, System and Classification.

(1). Previous to this year no arrangement had been made for light artillery target practice on account of the difficulty in procuring suitable ranges and the expense attending it. To enable the three Batteries equipped with the new model breech-loading guns to compete for a trophy presented by an officer of one of the Batteries, the Adjutant-General laid out a short range at the State Camp and devoted one day of artillery week to the competition. Percussion shell and shrapnel were used, and much of practical value resulted to all participating in the knowledge gained of how to prepare and handle ammunition, the study of range tables and other data necessary in such practice. The competition for this trophy thus initiated will undoubtedly provoke a much deeper interest in the subject hereafter and induce a much higher standard of efficiency for this arm.

(2). There are three regular small-arm ranges in the State and under its control, used by the organizations of cavalry and infantry, within convenient distance. The largest and most complete is at Creedmoor, Long Island, to which the troops of the First and Second Brigades resort under regulations issued by the Inspector of Rifle Practice. Another at Rensselaerwyck, near Albany, used by portions of the Third Brigade. And the third near Tonawanda, on the Niagara river, for the use of troops in that vicinity. Besides these, each Separate Company has its own range, in cases where it is inconvenient to use the above named. All armories in the State are provided with galleries with complete equipment for indoor practice. All members of the Guard are required to practice; records and qualifications of marksmen and sharpshooters are accurately kept on the Creedmoor system, and the majority are marksmen. In some regiments 100 per cent. have qualified as such. Forty rounds per man per annum is the official allowance of the State; many, however, purchase more on private account.

31. Transportation—Railroad and River.

The extraordinary railroad facilities, for which the State is noted, combined with extensive water transportation, make it feasible to transport troops and material in any direction with speed and facility, and obviate the necessity for State provisions for this purpose, except where demanded by local conditions, which can be easily met.

32. Military Code—Date of, etc.—Do State Laws Provide for State Troops Being Called into Service of United States?

The present State Code was enacted May 4, 1893.

They do not.

33. Regulations—Nature and Date of.

State regulations are in their nature the same as United States Army regulations, governing the entire business economy of the State of New York. They were published and issued May 15, 1894.

34. Maps—Scales and Character.

Each Brigade has at its headquarters maps of the cities and territory within its jurisdiction. No special map-making is required. The State survey maps are so complete and elaborate as to preclude any necessity for work of this character by the military authorities.

35. Armories—Location and Description.

The armories of the National Guard organizations are of two classes: First, those built by the State; second, those built by county authorities.

The law governing their erection and control is set forth in full in paragraphs 170, 173, 176, 177, 178 and 179 of General Order No. 9, General Headquarters State of New York, June 2, 1896, publishing amendments to the Military Code. Copy appended marked "A."

All Regiments, Battalions, Squadrons, Batteries, Signal Corps and Separate Companies throughout the State, have their own armories, varying in size to suit the necessities of the case. The regimental armories in size and completeness are splendid specimens of such structures. They are equipped with all the machinery necessary for the care of the command as to cooking, messing, bathing and general administration; rifle galleries for indoor practice are also part of their equipment. The map of the State of New York filed with last report in the military information division of the War Department, shows the stations throughout the State of all these organizations.

36. Arsenals—Location and Description.

The State has but one arsenal, located at Seventh avenue and Thirty-fifth street, New York city. From this arsenal all stores are issued to State troops and camps on orders from general headquarters.

37. Independent Commands within State.

The "Old Guard" of New York city, 100 men.

The "Albany Burgesses Corps" of Albany, N. Y., 65 men.

They receive no aid from the State, but are liable to be called into service by the Governor in case of riot or insurrection.

38. Recommendations.

In my judgment the interests of the State forces would be advanced by a more intimate association with the regular troops. If a company of each arm of the service, equipped for the field, and having its own camp equipage and field mess outfit, were kept at the Camp during the entire season, the State troops would be given an object lesson in discipline and camp economy by which they would be sure to profit. The camp, as prepared for occupancy by the State troops, bears little resemblance to the camps of actual service, but that suggested could hardly fail to impress the intelligent observers of the guard with a sense of what is now lacking. Great good would accrue to the State troops if detachments of them were to accompany regular troops on practice marches, conforming in all things to the conditions which govern the regular service. The experience would probably not be enjoyable, but it would convey lessons which might be invaluable and would assuredly be of use.

COLONEL HALL.

39. Remarks.

Apart from the willingness to promote closer affiliations between the regular service and the National Guard by bringing them together in field and camp, it is improbable that the general government can be of any especial immediate aid to the Guard. Under the stringent limitations as to time employed, the amount of work performed is worthy of strong approval and the zeal and intelligence thrown into the discharge of all military duties cannot but evoke admiration from those thrown into immediate contact with the personnel of the Guard of this State. The Adjutant-General and headquarter staff are well aware of the needs of the situation and are working intelligently and persistently toward a higher development. One emphatic want in the routine of yearly work is evident, that is some field of action for staff officers and the opportunity which they ardently desire to learn and practice those onerous and important functions which so suddenly fall on them when necessity calls the Guard for duty. However, this want is profoundly appreciated and the fact of its appreciation is sound proof that the remedy will soon follow.

ANNUAL REPORT

HEADQUARTERS FIRST NAVAL BATTALION, N. Y. }
U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE," FOOT OF EAST 28TH ST., }
NEW YORK, November 1, 1896. }

The Adjutant-General, State of New York, General Headquarters, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report for the year ending November 1, 1896: Six Battalion drills have been held, and each division has been exercised weekly during the winter season. On May 9, 1896, the Battalion held a street parade, in connection with the Battalion of the U. S. battleship "Indiana," the joint command being reviewed by the Adjutant-General and the Honorable the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, at the corner of Thirty-third street and Fifth avenue. The review was also witnessed at this point by distinguished government, State and city officials. I have the honor to express my thanks to Captain Robley D. Evans for permitting his crew to join with this command on that date. The "New Hampshire" was also inspected on that evening by the Honorable the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Brigadier-General McLewee inspected the Battalion on April 17, 1896.

I would again respectfully draw your attention to the fact that the Battalion suffers from lack of facilities for great gun drills, and would request that the State make requisition on the Navy Department for one five-inch gun and carriage. The two short, one-pounder guns referred to in my last annual report, have since been supplied.

Great interest has been taken during the past year in Creedmoor practice, but the results have not been altogether satisfactory, as the command has no armory range, and especially because the handicap against the Lee rifles still exists.

The Signal Corps has made further progress, and the addition of the Battalion signal men, allowed by headquarters, will further facilitate the work of that department. The change in the Military Code, allowing the Naval Militia a signal officer, has also been beneficial, as the State has been thus enabled to give practical recognition to Mr. F. B. Anderson, who has well deserved his promotion to junior lieutenant. The addition of an engineer officer and five machinists to the force will enable the Battalion to begin a most important branch of its duty which has been unavoidably neglected in the past.

The development of information work, as shown by the reports forwarded herewith, shows that it can be increased largely during the next few years; but to do so it is apparent that a small steamer should be provided prior to next spring. This boat should be fitted to carry two one-pounder guns, and would be most useful in case of riot. I would therefore earnestly request that the State apply at once to the Navy Department to have one of the new government torpedo boats permanently stationed in New York harbor, for the purpose of drilling the Naval Militia, with modern torpedoes, rapid fire guns, and mines, and to familiarize the men with the local surroundings and necessities for harbor defense. It is of paramount importance that the regular and State forces should jointly gain a much larger knowledge of every portion of the waters surrounding this great port, and excellent results can be accomplished at minimum expense, by combining the resources of the general government and the education of the Navy officer, with the pride, zeal and local knowledge of the Naval Militiaman. It would seem only necessary to point to the lesson of the Franco-German war, to show how essential to success an immediate formation of an observation and information corps would be. So pressing is the need of a small craft for the above purposes that I would further urge, that if the Navy will not be able to spare one of the new torpedo boats, that this State join with others in a petition to Congress, to build at least twelve second-class torpedo boats for the exclusive use of the Naval Militia.

I will submit to you at an early date a request for certain changes in the uniform of the Naval Militia, which experience has shown necessary, in order to make it more similar to that of the Navy.

I submit herewith, marked Appendix "A," a copy of Special Orders No. 67, under which the summer tour of duty was performed; also, Appendix "B," which is the report of Lieutenant-Commander George Edward Kent, who was in command during my leave of absence. Recognizing the fact that the summer cruise was to a certain extent voluntary, the esprit of the organization is shown by the large attendance and excellence of the duty performed. The thorough manner in which Lieutenant-Commander Kent carried out your orders is worthy of commendation. * * *

The close of the first five years of existence of this organization, brought with it a fear that the strength of the command might be diminished; but this fear has not been realized; the places of the men whose time has expired are being rapidly filled by a new and good class of recruits, and this in face of the fact that the city of Brooklyn is endeavoring to organize an additional Battalion.

I would respectfully ask that all legitimate assistance be given to muster in the Brooklyn Battalion, as the proper water defense of this portion of the State certainly requires a much larger force of Naval Militia than exists at present.

I am indebted to Captain Herbert Livingston Satterlee of the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, and Lieutenant A. P. Niblack, U. S. N., for much official assistance during the past year.

Your attention is respectfully called to the names of the officers and others mentioned in the report of the Lieutenant-Commander.

Respectfully,

J. W. MILLER,

Commander.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK:

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
ALBANY, April 28, 1896. }

SPECIAL ORDERS }
No 67. }

I. At the close of its first period of enlistment, the Commander-in-Chief takes occasion to express to the First Naval Battalion, New York, his appreciation of the continued progress of that organization, as exemplified by its enthusiasm and attention to duty during the past five years.

II. In view of the fact that the Battalion successfully carried out, at its own expense, during 1891, a cruise in connection with the United States men-of-war, which has received merited praise from government and State officials, and has subsequently performed four annual tours of arduous duty afloat, similar service will not be exacted during the summer of 1896. The Commander is, however, authorized to permit volunteers to continue the longshore, signal and information work as begun last year. Pay and rations will be allowed such volunteers during the months of June, July and August, under the following conditions:

Beginning not later than Saturday, June 27th, a detail of not more than 52 officers and men of the First Naval Battalion may man the cutters and cruise in Long Island Sound or New York Bay and harbor for at least two consecutive days per week until Monday, August 31st. At least one commissioned officer shall be present and in command of the cutters during the two consecutive days when they are cruising; he shall also be responsible for the safe keeping of the cutters and their equipments during such days as the cutters are not occupied in cruising, leaving a responsible person as boat-keeper in charge. The boats' crews shall be governed by the regulations and customs of the Navy Department applicable "to distance service," as well as by the regulations of the State of New York relative to "active service" (Par. 527 to 533, R. Part 1). Each of the two days' consecutive duty to be performed shall be considered independent, as far as the paragraphs concerning traveling rations are concerned, but in no event will rations or pay be allowed for a greater number of officers and men than that specified in paragraph two of this order.

III. In addition to the men serving in the cutters, the Commanding Officer of the First Naval Battalion may detail at least four petty officers or seamen of his command to perform reconnoissance and signal duty under the same conditions as to pay and rations as the boats' crews.

IV. Any of the duty mentioned in the above paragraphs may be performed on board United States men-of-war or in fortifications, provided proper official permission is obtained.

V. The Commanding Officer of the First Naval Battalion is hereby granted authority to expend an amount not to exceed $1,000 for the hire of tugs and other necessary expenses incident to the above-mentioned duty, and to facilitate the instruction of the command, during the summer, in artillery practice and in the knowledge of the defense of New York harbor and approaches. All expenses to be charged to the appropriation for the support of the Naval Militia.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST NAVAL BATTALION, N. Y.,
U. S. S. "NEW HAMPSHIRE," FOOT OF EAST 28TH STREET, }

Commanding Officer, First Naval Battalion, S. N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of duty performed by the First Naval Battalion, New York, in compliance with Special Orders No. 67, A. G. O., dated April 28, 1896:

Prior to establishing a camp in compliance with said orders, I investigated the north and south shores of Long Island Sound from Port Chester and Lloyds Neck west, and found Sands Point, Long Island, the most desirable point for a camp site. This site was selected, and permission to occupy it we received from the owner, Mr. M. C. D. Borden.

On June 12, 1896, Battalion orders No. 16 were issued. In compliance with said orders a detail established camp at Sands Point Saturday, June 27th, which was continued until August 23d. The Camp was occupied on Saturdays and Sundays by details of this command, and during the week by a detail of four Seamen.

At the request of the Honorable the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, a detail of this Battalion established camp at Gardiner's Island, N. Y., on July 11th, in conjunction with the Naval Militia of the States of Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The outfit for this Camp was transported July 10th from the U. S. S. "New Hampshire" on a Navy Yard tug, and the detail July 11th on the U. S. S. "Montgomery." On July 15th the Camp was broken at Gardiner's Island, and the detail and Camp equipments transported to New York on the U. S. S. "Montgomery."

By Special Orders No. 67, A. G. O., the number permitted in Camp at any one time was limited to 52 officers and men, which was found to be less than the number of volunteers, and upon request to the Adjutant-General the number was increased to 100 officers and men.

The following is a recapitulation of the number of officers, chief petty officers, petty officers and seamen who performed duty under Special Orders No. 67, A. G. O.:

	Men.
Battalion, staff and chief petty officers.....	54
First Division .....	294
Second Division .....	295
Third Division .....	97
Fourth Division .....	395
Total.....	1,135

During the above-mentioned tours of duty, the instruction consisted of piloting tugboats through the East river, Hell Gate and Long Island Sound; reconnoissance and information work of Long Island Sound, from Port Jefferson to Fort Schuyler, on the north shore, and from Lloyds Neck to Willetts Point, on the south shore; exercise in boats, under sails and oars, singly and in squadron; squadron evolutions by signals from the flagboat, which was a Navy Yard steam launch loaned to this command by Captain F. J. Higginson, U. S. N., by authority of the Honorable the Secretary of the Navy; signalling night and day by wig-wag of flags, torches and heliographs; subcaliber exercise with one-pound Hotchkiss and Drigg's Shroeder Guns, at distances varying from 300 to 800 yards; cooking in the field by various methods, particularly that used by the German Army, which was found to possess much merit; disassembling one-pound Hotchkiss and Drigg's Shroeder Guns; instruction in Infantry and Artillery, and routine work on board United States Men-of-War. Particular attention was given to instructing the men in handling boats, under sail, and in all kinds of weather.

While at Gardiner's Island the Honorable the Assistant Secretary of the Navy reviewed the Battalion of each of the States represented in Camp.

The work performed at both Camps by the officers and men was most satisfactory and beneficial, and it is my pleasure to call your attention to the regular attendance of, and most excellent work performed by, Lieutenant Stayton, Lieutenant Anderson and Ensign Macfarlane.

From July 22d to July 29th the commanding officer of the Fourth Division (Lieutenant Stayton), with his command, performed duty along the north shore of Long Island Sound and at Sands Point, and did excellent work in securing valuable information of the north shore.

From August 1st to August 14th Signal Officer Anderson performed duty on board the U. S. F. S. "New York," during the evolutions of the North Atlantic Squadron at sea.

Gunner's Mate R. W. Meade, Jr., with a crew of the Second Division, cruised in a cutter from Gardiner's Island to Sands Point from July 15th to July 18th.

I desire to call your attention to the many courtesies extended to this command by Mr. M. C. D. Borden, owner of the Sands Point Camp site; Mr. John W. Harper, through whose assistance the property was secured, and Mr. Gardiner, owner of Gardiner's Island.

Respectfully,

GEORGE EDWARD KENT,

Report of Commanding Officer, Second Separate Naval Division.

SECOND SEPARATE NAVAL DIVISION, N. Y., }
ROCHESTER, N. Y., December 19, 1896. }

The Adjutant-General, S. N. Y., General Headquarters, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report of duty performed by the Second Separate Naval Division, N. Y., in compliance with Special Orders No. 108, A. G. O., dated Albany, July 11, 1896.

Ensign J. J. Leary, with a detail of three men, left Charlotte on July 13, at 4 p. m., with the steam launch to select a suitable location for the Camp in the vicinity of Chaumont Bay, and to make such arrangements as were necessary. The site selected was on the north side of the isthmus leading to Point Peninsula, on a point locally known as Doctor's Point, Chaumont Bay, and bearing N. E.,  $\frac{1}{2}$  E., 93 miles from Charlotte Harbor.

Lieutenant Marbury Johnston, U. S. N., who was detailed by the Honorable the Secretary of the Navy to accompany my Command on its annual tour of duty, arrived at Rochester on the 17th of July, which gave me an opportunity to confer with him in regard to various detailed arrangements before leaving our home station.

On July 19 the Division assembled at the State Armory at 5:45 a. m., and proceeded by electric cars to Charlotte Harbor, where we embarked on the steamer "Sunbeam," which transported the Division and Camp equipage to Chaumont Bay, arriving at the Camp at 9.30 p. m.

All equipage was transferred from steamer to the shore by means of the boats and placed under shelter previous to a rain storm which continued during the night.

The following morning, Monday, July 20th, details under direction of Petty Officers set to work to put the surroundings of the Camp in proper order, and constructed a dock for the landing of the boats.

On Tuesday a reconnoiter of the shores of the isthmus was made, with a view of selecting a point for the portage of boats overland, thus shortening the sailing distance from Camp to Basin Harbor about 25 miles, and the experiment of carrying one of the cutters was successfully demonstrated.

No. 1 cutter was sailed around Point Peninsula and hauled up on the west shore of the isthmus, and was afterward used for gathering information along the lake shore.

On Wednesday details in different boats reconnoitered the bay and the waters of the lake to the eastward, to Basin Harbor and Grenadier Island. Basin Harbor, on the northeast end of Grenadier Island, affords complete shelter, and is accessible from the lake by one channel, between Grenadier and Fox Islands, having a depth of water from 10 to 14 feet. This harbor is the first point of shelter to the eastward of the American channel of the St. Lawrence river.

On Thursday the men were given subcaliber exercise with the 1-pounder Hotchkiss at a floating target, distance 500 yards; also target practice with the Lee rifle.

Friday, an invitation having been received from Colonel William J. Lyster, Ninth Infantry, U. S. A., Madison Barracks, Sackett's Harbor, to visit that post, an early start was made with the steam launch, taking one cutter in tow, which afforded transportation for about 50 officers and men, a suitable detail being left at the Camp. We arrived at Sackett's Harbor about 9 a. m., an opportunity was extended to the Division to visit the different buildings of the post and to witness the company drills, which were very interesting and instructive.

Saturday reconnoitering by boats was continued, one boat's party making the reconnoissance of Henderson Harbor. During the week signal work was practiced under direction of the Quartermasters for a considerable portion of each day, establishing various signal stations.

By means of bicycles the roads were traversed as far as Cape Vincent, and much valuable information gathered.

Considerable time during the tour of duty was given to handling boats under oars and sails, one day in particular during very rough weather.

The valuable assistance of Lieutenant Marbury Johnston, U. S. N., was fully appreciated by the officers and men, and much information was thus obtained.

Saturday morning, July 25, the steam launch started for home in charge of Quartermaster Vary and a crew of six men, but owing to heavy weather was compelled to seek shelter in Sackett's Harbor. The steam launch arrived at Sodus bay Monday, July 27, but the machinery being out of order, the men came on by rail. The week following, the necessary repairs having been made, a special detail was sent to bring the boat home.

On Sunday, July 26th, we broke camp at an early hour and embarked on the steamer "Sunbeam," which had arrived during the night, and took our departure for Charlotte Harbor, arriving about 7 p. m., and all equipage being placed ashore, we returned to the State Armory, Rochester, about 10 o'clock.

I wish to say that I consider these cruises of great benefit to the Division, and that a vast amount of information can be obtained in this way.

E. N. WALBRIDGE,

Report of Board of U. S. N. Officers on Work Performed by First Naval Battalion on Summer Tour of Duty.

---

U. S. S. "MONTGOMERY," THIRD RATE,
TOMPKINSVILLE, L. I., July, 1896. }

Sir.—1. In obedience to your order of July 3d we respectfully submit the following report on the Naval Militia of New York as observed by us during their recent tour of duty with which this ship was connected.

2. A camp was established on Gardiner's island by a small detail sent in advance. The remainder of the men who performed duty were transported to the Camp from New York city, and the entire number transported back to New York from Camp, on board this ship.

3. These men were not ordered out, but were volunteers for this tour of duty.

4. The party transported to Camp on Saturday, July 11th, consisted of three officers, three petty officers and forty seamen, under the command of Lieutenant Commander G. E. Kent, of the New York Naval Militia. The party transported from Camp on Wednesday, July 15th, consisted of three Commissioned Officers, three Chief Petty Officers, six Petty Officers, forty Seamen and twelve members of the drum corps (unenlisted) under the same commanding officer.

5. During the passages to and from Gardiner's island the militia were given such instruction as was desired by the officer in command. This consisted of an inspection and explanation of the entire ship with special attention paid to the ground tackle, watertight subdivisions and doors, appurtenances for the safety of the ship, magazines and ammunition supply, and the guns and torpedoes. Opportunity was also afforded for inspection of the engines and fire rooms. For this purpose the men were divided into small details, which were sent about in charge of leading petty officers of the ship. They were also given short drills at the battery. Instruction in their respective duties was given to Special Petty Officers and details such as the Boatswain's Mate, Yeoman, Apothecary, Chief Quartermaster and Signalmen. The officers were shown about by the officers of the ship and in addition each spent some time on the bridge or on deck observing the manner of carrying on duty and the methods used by the Navigator in coasting, taking bearings, plotting positions, etc. Instruction in the compensation of the compass was given the officers by the Navigator.

6. On the morning of Monday, July 13th, the men of the New York Militia came on board ship at Gardiner's Island. Each man was given a mate of appropriate rating from the men of the ship and was instructed by him in his individual duties at fire quarters, abandon ship and collision drill, and all of these drills were carried out, the militia men going with their mates and performing the duties with them. At abandon ship no boats were lowered, but they were completely provided in accordance with the bill. After these exercises the Militiamen were all given an opportunity for subcaliber practice at either the five-inch, six-pounder or one-pounder guns, the targets being placed about three hundred yards from the ship. Many excellent shots were found among them.

7. On the night of Monday, July 13th, a detail of men from the New York Naval Militia came on board and were given instruction in night signalling with the electric night signals, search lights, lanterns and Very's lights.

8. The professional knowledge of the force, as far as our observation gave us opportunity to form a judgment, is very creditable and quite as advanced as can be expected, though not by any means complete. Their boats were fairly well handled. Their signalling by the wig-wag code was well done. On shore their battalion presented an excellent appearance. At gun drill they were intelligent, quick to learn new points and relative to such information as they had gained in previous service with the Navy. Speaking generally, they showed a zealous spirit and a very creditable knowledge in matters in which they had opportunities for drill and instruction.

9. The uniform in which the officers and men appeared seemed serviceable and fitting. The uniform of the officers is a close copy of the service uniform of the Navy, but with gold stripes and special devices. The uniform of the men was, in blue and white, that of the enlisted men of the Navy, excepting that of the Chief Petty Officers, which approached more nearly that of Commissioned Officers than in the Navy, and the wearing of the obsolete white hat. Laxity was observed in the uniformity of headgear, some few men wearing watch caps while the majority wore white hats.

10. The proficiency of the Petty Officers in their ratings was good, in some cases excellent, and in general better than that of the enlisted men. Among the latter were a considerable number of recruits, which tended to lower the average efficiency.

11. The probable field of usefulness in time of war would be local, in such work as the manning of harbor defense vessels and torpedo boats, mining operations, establishing and keeping up lines of communication with the fleet by signals or fast vessels, and perhaps the manning of coast defense batteries. In all such work they could retain, to a considerable degree, their own organization, and serve with their own officers, even though under the direction of regular officers; and moreover, their local knowledge would be of great service. We do not believe that good results would ensue from any attempt to fill out the complement of naval vessels from the ranks of the militia by splitting up their own organization, beyond the mere gaining of recruits who have had some previous military and naval training. Should, however, it be deemed necessary to draft the militiamen into the regular service we consider that it would be the best policy to send units of not less than a division rather than individuals. Their availability would be also greater in the vicinity of their homes.

12. The other information called for in your letter of July 3d, is found in the appended letter marked B * sent by Lieutenant Commander Kent, of the New York Naval Militia, in reply to a letter from the senior member of the board, dated July 14th, of which a copy marked A * is also appended.

Report of Lieutenant Marbury Johnson, U. S. N., on Summer Work of Second Separate Naval Division.

UNITED STATES NAVAL STATION,
NEWPORT, R. I., August 3, 1896. }

Sir.— I have the honor to report that in obedience to the Department's order of July 14, 1896, I accompanied the Second Separate Division of the Naval Militia of the State of New York on its annual camp, July 19-26, inclusive.

2. The Division assembled at the Rochester Armory at 5.30 a. m. July 19th, and at 7.30 reached Charlotte, where a small steamer had been chartered to convey the Division, their camp equipage and boats to the Camp selected at Chaumont bay. The site of the Camp had been chosen during the preceding week by Ensign Leary of the Division, who, with three men, had proceeded there in the steam launch, taking with them six tents, which the Division found ready for use upon their arrival. This forethought on the part of Lieutenant Walbridge, commanding the Division, was extremely fortunate, as the Camp was reached at 9.30 p. m., and by the time the Camp equipage was ashore, a rain storm had set in.

3. The Division is fitted out extremely well. They have a steam launch, two cutters, three whale boats and a dingy, all in excellent condition, and were well provided with oars, sails, etc. The last Legislature appropriated $8,000 for a boat-house and armory, to be built at Charlotte for the use of this Division. They hope to occupy it by October 1st. They have two 3-inch B.L. howitzers, and one 1-pounder Hotchkiss, with field carriages. The latter has in addition a cone for mounting in boats. They are armed with the 45-caliber Lee Magazine rifle, and have a complete outfit of haversacks, knapsacks, canteens, etc.

4. Uniform.—The Division is well provided with uniforms. Each man has two suits of working clothes, one suit of blue dress, one suit of white dress, one pea coat, one blanket, one rubber poncho, one suit of oilskins, one blue cap, one watch cap and one white hat.

5. Attendance.—The Division consists at present of four officers and sixty-eight (68) petty officers and seamen. All of the officers and 78 per cent. of the men were in attendance. Most of the absentees had been excused for satisfactory reasons.

6. Discipline.—Excellent. I was most agreeably surprised at their ready obedience and the cheerful manner in which men unaccustomed to hard manual labor performed a most laborious work.

7. Form of organization.—The Division is organized as an infantry company, and an effort has been made to organize it into a ship's company, using as a basis the Watch Quarter and Station Bill of the United States steamship "New York," a copy of which was obtained by Lieutenant Walbridge when on board that vessel with his Division in 1894. If the Division can obtain another 1-pounder Hotchkiss, it might do excellent service as a battery of artillery.

8. Character and scope of drill and instruction.—The drill and instruction was confined almost entirely to handling the boats under oars and sails. Boat expeditions were made during the week to Grenadier Island, Henderson Bay, Sackett's Harbor, Chaumont and Three-Mile Bay. The site of the Camp was selected with a view of transporting the boats across a narrow isthmus only 40 yards wide and launching them on Lake Ontario, but the low water in the lake lengthened the portage to 200 yards. One cutter was sent around a distance of 20 miles and hauled up on the lake side of the beach, and subsequently used for expeditions to Grenadier Island and Henderson Bay. As an experiment, one cutter was hauled out on the beach, capsized, and with 38 men she was picked up and carried a distance of 40 yards without trouble. One day was spent in taking Division to Madison Barracks, Sackett's Harbor, where, through the kindness of Colonel Lyster, commanding the Ninth Infantry, the officers and men were given an opportunity to inspect the regular army at drill and in barracks.

Professional knowledge.—Generally fair. The officers are extremely well informed, considering the fact that none of them had ever been in the Naval Service.

10. Efficiency in various ratings.—Very good. The Quartermaster and six signal men were quite expert in sending and receiving messages with a Myer Code. The boatswain's mates and coxswains were very zealous, and the improvement in the latter's handling of their boats after the week's work was very marked.

11. Probable field of usefulness and availability in time of war.—All of the officers and most of the men are familiar with the river, and in case of hostilities, I think the Division would render excellent service.

12. Class of men composing the organization, and number who have served in the United States Navy.—The Division is composed of merchants, clerks and artisans in about equal proportions, with a few professional men. They are all of a high order of intelligence and excellent physique. There is no one in the Division who had had any previous naval service.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

(Signed)

OFFICE OF CHIEF OF ORDNANCE,
STATE ARSENAL, COR. THIRTY-FIFTH ST. AND SEVENTH AVE., }
NEW YORK, October 26, 1896. }

Adjutant-General, State of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.— Pursuant to Military Code 35, I have the honor to submit herewith, a detailed report of this department from July 1, 1895, to June 30, 1896, inclusive:

ABSTRACT "F."

ABSTRACT "G."

Naval Militia.— Annual return of ordnance, ordnance stores, and other naval property from July 1, 1895, to June 30, 1896, inclusive.

ABSTRACT "H."

Naval property issued to organizations of the Naval Militia from July 1, 1895, to June 30, 1896, inclusive.

ABSTRACT "I."

State property charges to organizations of the Naval Militia, June 30, 1896.

ABSTRACT "J."

Property received from the United States Navy Department from July 1, 1895, to June 30, 1896, inclusive.

In rendering this report I feel constrained to ask your attention to the property accounts of the different organizations throughout the State. In very many instances, when the property is turned over from one officer to another, there is a shortage, and sometimes to a very considerable amount. The remedy for this condition of affairs would, in my opinion, be that at least once in each year there should be a thorough inspection of all public property with which each commanding officer stands charged, the inspecting officer to be furnished an account from the books of this Department of all such property, and a report be made to General Headquarters, with all convenient speed, of all that is missing, and the condition and serviceability of such as he finds, etc., etc.

The efficiency of the troops so largely depends on their equipment and on that equipment being in a serviceable condition, that it is important that all property issued by the State be properly cared for, and be at all times available for the uses for which it is intended. These inspections and reports would doubtless tend to secure greater vigilance in the care of such property, and a better appreciation of their accountability by officers.

Respectfully,

BENJ. FLAGLER,

STATE CAMP REPORT AND ABSTRACT "A."

OFFICE OF CHIEF OF ORDNANCE,

Tent stakes and pins. . . . .	532 50
Total. . . . .	$86,857 28

The preparation of the Camp for its occupancy by troops, as required by section 559 of the Regulations, was begun as early in the season as the weather would permit. The severe storms of the past winter had done much damage to the grounds, buildings and roads. Several extensive washouts had occurred, and with a view of preventing a recurrence of these and to remedy any defects in the drainage, an examination of the Camp grounds was made by an engineer, who made plans for repairing the damage already done, perfecting the drainage, etc.

To have carried out these plans would have involved an expenditure of about $7,500, but there being no such sum available, the project was necessarily abandoned and only such repairs to sewers and roads, filling in of washouts, etc., were made as seemed absolutely necessary to carry the Camp through the season. Some grading was done on the rear or west side of the grounds, which proved to be of great benefit in carrying off the surface water. Much of this work was not of so substantial a character as it should have been, because of the want of funds, but the best that could be done under the circumstances was done.

WATER SUPPLY.

The tank through which the water for the Camp has been supplied for a number of years having become old and somewhat unreliable, and there being danger that it might give out, in which event the Camp would be without water, it was deemed advisable to put up an additional tank as a reserve, which was done, and to relieve the wells from which the drinking water is drawn, which in dry seasons heretofore have been hardly adequate to furnish a sufficient supply, a connection was made from the pump-house to the old dam, and a tank of some 9,000 gallons capacity erected at the bath-house, from which the water for the bath-house, sinks, horses and for sprinkling the Camp is now taken.

These additions to the water supply seemed absolutely necessary because of the increased number of troops ordered to camp, together with the requirements for horses of the Cavalry and Artillery.

BUILDINGS.

Additional sinks have been erected and the old ones repaired and enlarged and now ample provision has been made for headquarters, regimental hospital and general camp use.

To the mess-hall kitchen was added an extension of 24 x 50 feet, which proved a great relief to the sometimes overcrowded mess-hall, and a brick chimney 40 feet in height was erected in place of an old sheet-iron one blown down.

Three additional skeleton horse sheds were erected for the use of the Cavalry and Artillery.

Some of the buildings (erected in 1882) connected with the mess-hall, also the ice and store houses, have long since become dilapidated and insufficient for the Camp, and should be replaced by larger buildings of a more substantial character.

The increased number of horses required for use by the Field and Staff Officers imperatively demand a very considerable addition to the permanent stables. There should be at least 20 additional stalls for horses and some provision for the safe-keeping of horse equipments and harness. The loft over the stalls is needed for the storage of forage during the season of camp and at other times for storage of camp and garrison equipage.

CAMP EQUIPAGE.

After the close of the Camp each season, the tents and flies are all thoroughly overhauled and inspected, and before the opening of the next camp the needed repairs made, to put them in good order for service. Many of the tents and flies are worn out and unserviceable, past repairs, and there are needed at least 50 new hospital tents, 100 new hospital tent flies, and 200 new wall tent flies.

SUBSISTENCE OF THE TROOPS.

The contract for subsisting the troops in camp was again made with Messrs. H. C. Duncan & Co. They made some additions to the bill of fare not required by their contract, the food furnished was of first quality and was prepared and served in a manner which afforded no ground for complaint. They fulfilled their agreement to my entire satisfaction, and, so far as I have been able to ascertain, to that of the officers and men in camp, and I desire to place on record my appreciation of the manner in which these gentlemen met and discharged the obligations they had entered into and the promptness with which they responded to all demands made on them.

Very respectfully,

BENJ. FLAGLER,

Company "G," Eighth Battalion, New York city, February 14, 1896, S. O. 25, c. s., A. G. O.

The Eighth Battalion was reorganized as a regiment (eight companies), February 14, 1896, S. O. 26, c. s., A. G. O.

The following tables show in brief the result of the musters this year, and the increase in the percentage present this year (97.13) over the magnificent attendance of 1895 (94.69), which was the highest ever attained up to that time, and which was considered remarkable by all, speaks volumes for the interest and devotion of both officers and men; and this result is the more gratifying by reason of the fact that the Guard shows, likewise, a material increase in numbers.

Sixty-eight companies — including troops, signal corps, batteries, and naval divisions — paraded 100 per cent., present for muster, and are worthy of special commendation. They are as follows:

Companies "A," "B," "D," "E," "F," "H" and "K," Seventh Regiment; "B," "C," and "H," Eighth Regiment; "A," "B," "C," "D," "F," and "K," Ninth Regiment; "A," "B," and "C," Tenth Battalion; "B," "D," "E," and "G," Twelfth Regiment; "G," Thirteenth Regiment; "B," "D," and "K," Fourteenth Regiment; "C," Twenty-second Regiment; "A," "B," "F," "H," and "K," Twenty-third Regiment; "B," "F" and "I," Forty-seventh Regiment; "C," "G" and "I," Sixty-ninth Regiment; "A," "B," "C," "D," "F," "G," "H," "I" and "K," Seventy-first Regiment; the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth, Tenth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth and Forty-eighth separate companies; Troop "C," First, Second and Third Signal Corps; Second Division, First Naval Battalion; and the Second Separate Naval Division.

The record of thirty-five organizations is so excellent, there being but one absentee each in these companies, that they are also mentioned: Companies "G" and "I," Seventh Regiment; "E," Eighth Regiment; "D," Tenth Battalion; "K," Thirteenth Regiment; "C" and "F," Fourteenth Regiment; "E," "G," "H," "I" and "K," Twenty-second Regiment; "D," "E" and "I," Twenty-third Regiment; "A," "D" and "G," Forty-seventh Regiment; "A," Sixty-fifth Regiment; "K," Sixty-ninth Regiment; "B" and "E," Seventy-fourth Regiment; the Second, Eighth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-seventh, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Fortieth and Forty-third Separate Companies; Troop 1, Squadron "A;" Third Battery; and Fourth Division, First Naval Battalion.

The unparalleled record of the Seventy-first Regiment (nine companies), which paraded 100 per cent. present for muster, and all on the floor and fit for duty, deserves more than passing mention. A reference to the report on the inspection of this regiment will show that this result was not obtained by questionable methods; it shows that the regiment is larger in numbers than at the inspection of last year (a net gain of 21 in aggregate); that the record of the regiment has been one of steady advancement since 1892, when Colonel Greene assumed command; that from the list of inferior organizations it has forced its way towards the front rank, where it will soon be, if the present methods are continued. The condition of the Seventy-first Regiment is the outcome of a fixed policy inaugurated by the commanding officer when he became its colonel, and he has been loyally supported by his subordinate officers and the rank and file; and while the status of the regiment to-day must be a source of pride and satisfaction to them, it is hoped it will be likewise an incentive to still further efforts for advancement.

The Tenth Battalion also deserves commendation for the excellent showing at muster this year; the only absentee being prevented from attending by the death of his mother, which occurred on the day of inspection.

I personally inspected all of the troops of the State this year except two separate companies, which I was unable to see by reason of my other duties, and which were inspected by one of my assistants, and the results of these inspections are herewith subjoined in detail. I desire to call your attention to an innovation made this year regarding the subject of attendance. While a company is to be commended for parading 100 per cent., or nearly so, for muster, its true duty doing worth can only be estimated by taking its average percentage present for the year, or drill season, and I have, therefore, deemed it advisable to include in this report a statement of the average attendance of each organization for the current drill season up to the time of inspection.

The very high general average of the Seventh Regiment for its 10 companies, 91.36 per cent., with only two companies below 90 per cent., and one company, "B," with an average of 94.59 per cent., which is the highest in the State; Company "A," Twenty-third Regiment, with 91.97 per cent.; Fifth Separate Company with 93.95 per cent.; Twenty-first Separate Company with 92.37 per cent.; First Signal Corps with 90.34 per cent.; and the Second Signal Corps with 90.46 per cent., are standards for others to try to attain. The good results of this innovation have already been demonstrated this season at the camp of instruction, where a company reported for duty with every officer and man present, not one of whom left for his home station until the end of the tour of duty. The record of attendance of this company at the time of its annual inspection was only 69.73 per cent. present for 16 events, and its commanding officer determined to be governed by the advice given him at that time on this subject, with results not alone gratifying to this department, but to all concerned.

The inspections of Squadron "A," Troop "C," and the Second Battery were held in the field, all being mounted at the expense of the several organizations. The increased allowances granted mounted troops by the last Legislature makes it compulsory hereafter for all mounted troops to be so inspected, which is the only proper method by which their efficiency can be determined. The First Signal Corps also paraded mounted at Van Cortlandt Park, at their own expense, for a supplementary inspection in mounted drill, which was of a very satisfactory character.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

The general appearance of this regiment at inspection was excellent. Considerable improvement can be made, however, in some few details, notably in the care of and adjustment of equipments; and quite a number of uniforms are now so old as to need repairing, or replacing, wholly or in part. The criticisms on the appearance of the companies of the regiment are based upon Company "I," which is taken as a standard, everything about it being first-class, there being every evidence of hard work and perseverance to bring about such a satisfactory condition. Uniforms and equipments, without exception, and particularly the adjustment of the latter, were excellent, and far ahead of all other companies in the regiment. A little effort, such as the Seventh Regiment is always willing to make, will bring all the companies to a condition in which Company "I" was found upon this occasion.

Inspection was preceded by a review which was handsomely rendered, and, when passing, the distances, alignments and salutes were perfect. The regiment made a new record in percentage present for muster (99.424), and, in this respect, again has the honor of leading all the other regiments in the State except the Seventy-first Regiment. No better idea can be formed of this regiment than the wonderful record of attendance for the past drill season, it being (for 10 companies), 91.36, Company "B" leading with 94.59 per cent., and Company "E" lowest, with 84.18 per cent. The average percentage present for muster during the past ten years is 98.46. These figures speak for themselves. A notable record is that of Company "F," which has mustered a maximum company, all present for ten years in succession.

All headquarters books and records are in first-class condition in every respect, the errors pointed out last year having been corrected, and improvement in system, in a number of cases, having been inaugurated since that time. The books of the companies of this regiment which, at last inspection, were in a very unsatisfactory state, excepting Company "K," are now, with a very few exceptions, all that can be desired.

Armory, a model of neatness and order; quartermaster's department under an excellent system, and all State property in good condition.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN HARRY W. JANSSEN.

The general appearance of this company was good. Improvement can be made in care of and adjustment of equipments: some uniforms need repairing or replacing.

All books neatly and accurately kept; an improvement over last year. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 4, 1895, to April 26, 1896 (32 events), 90.73; excellent.

COMPANY "I," CAPTAIN FRANCIS GRISWOLD LONDON.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was excellent, and by far the best in the regiment, and it is taken as the standard upon which the criticisms of all the other companies are based. Great credit is due the officers and members of this company for the very fine appearance they made upon this occasion. All uniforms and equipments, and particularly the adjustment of the latter, were first class; no detail being overlooked to bring about this very gratifying condition.

All books are very neatly and accurately kept, showing decided improvement over last inspection. Average percentage of attendance at drills, from October 3, 1895, to May 20, 1896 (30 events), 93.82; excellent; second best in the regiment.

Percentage present at muster, 99.03.

COMPANY "K," CAPTAIN ROBERT McLEAN.

The general appearance of this company was from fair to good. Considerable improvement should take place in care of some parts of equipments, and the adjustment of the same; and many uniforms need renovating—some should be replaced with new, wholly or in part.

The books of this company show the same excellent care that was noted at last inspection. It should be mentioned that the report of last year was a mistake of the inspecting officer, as the report book was properly kept at that time. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 2, 1895, to May 21, 1896 (30 events), 92.93; excellent.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

A great improvement has taken place in this organization in general appearance, and condition of arms, uniforms and equipments since last year. The unsatisfactory condition then prevailing has disappeared, and in its place I find much to commend. Arms very much improved, but further improvement can be made; condition of uniforms and equipments, and adjustment of same, generally excellent; in this respect company "D" was perfect in every detail, and is entitled to the honor of being placed first in the regiment. At the inspection and muster held May 3, 1895, when the organization was a battalion of five companies, there were 311 officers and men present, and 24 absent; since that time three new companies have been organized, and the command increased to a regiment with an increase, in little less than a year, of 200 officers and men; a record certainly to be proud of, and accomplished only after the hardest kind of work. Great credit is due the officers and men in bringing about a marvelous change in so short a time, and with such a soldierly spirit that now prevails throughout the regiment, a bright future may be safely predicted for it.

Inspection preceded by a review in line of masses; formation only fair, and some details incorrect; passage in review fair; salutes from poor to good.

All extra property in good condition and well cared for; lockers of all companies dressed in an orderly manner, but the system is a poor one; Company "H" particularly good; armory in generally good condition, but gallery floors and chairs, and chairs in rifle range very dirty, also floors and shelves of company lockers, and lockers and contents of same, of band in a filthy condition. The county authorities should, without delay, attend to the many needed repairs of this armory. Stairs and floors of halls in very bad condition, caused by cheap construction in the first place; there are many broken chairs in drill room and galleries.

All books and records at headquarters are well kept, and an improvement over the condition of last year is noted. Average percentage of attendance at drill for past season (based on seven companies), 78.69; too low; company "E" the highest, with 90.88, excellent; company "D" lowest, with 70.72, very poor.

Blankets, ponchos and mess kits not marked as required by regulations.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN JARVIS WOOLVERTON MASON.

A handsome gain in numbers (18) since last muster is noted. The general appearance of this company at inspection was the poorest in the regiment, and far behind all the other companies, and considerable improvement must take place to bring it up to the required standard. Manual of arms poor, and men unsteady; condition of lockers was also the poorest in the regiment, and while the contents were uniformly dressed, the floors and shelves were very dirty.

The books are in a very unsatisfactory condition, particularly the descriptive book; the report book shows that there are five chronic absentees, which, for a company organized within a year, is a bad showing. Neither are the books neatly kept. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 8, 1895, to February 24, 1896 (18 events), 78.41, which should improve.

Percentage present at muster, 93.10.

COMPANY "B," FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT EDWARDS, JR.,
COMMANDING.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was very good, and a marked improvement over last year, which was called for at that time; 100 per cent. at muster; very commendable, manual of arms good; men steady.

Lockers uniformly dressed, but system poor; floors and shelves of lockers dirty.

The books of this company are only fairly well kept, no improvement being shown over last year; the errors pointed out at that inspection have not been corrected. The report book has not been signed by the first sergeant this year, and it also shows that there are 10 chronic absentees, which accounts for the small percentage of attendance at drills, which from October 10, 1895, to February 28, 1896 (18 events), was 73.12, which is unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "C," CAPTAIN ISAAC FREEMAN.

This company again paraded 100 per cent. present for inspection; a very commendable performance. While the improvement called for at last year's inspection in general appearance has, to a great extent, taken place, further effort should be put forth to bring it up to the high standard of the best in the regiment. Manual of arms at inspection good. Lockers uniformly dressed, but under a poor system; shelves and floors of lockers dirty; quarters clean.

The books are not in satisfactory condition, notwithstanding the instruction given last year no improvement is shown. The records in the descriptive book are not complete, and no record of events is kept in the report book. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 9, 1895, to February 21, 1896 (20 events), 82.92; very good.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN FRANK O. SAUVAN.

This company which stood first in general appearance at last inspection, again has the honor of that distinction; everything about it a pleasure to behold and, as pointed out before, an example for all other companies in the regiment to follow. No detail was overlooked in the endeavor to make such a creditable appearance, which is most commendable. Manual of arms fair; men very steady; company quarters clean; lockers uniformly dressed, but system poor; helmet brasses dirty, and floor and shelves of lockers dirty.

The books of this company are in a very satisfactory condition generally; a few minor errors only being noted. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 15, 1895, to February 4, 1896 (16 events), 70.72; the lowest in the regiment, and very unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 92.86.

COMPANY "E," CAPTAIN CHARLES P. STAUBACH.

The gain in numbers, eight men, since last muster is noted. The general appearance of this company was good; the adjustment of equipments was only fair; manual of arms poor; quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly dressed, but the system a poor one; floors and shelves of lockers dirty.

Books.—All in a very satisfactory condition; minor errors only being noted. Average percentage of attendance at drill from November 7, 1895 to February 21, 1896 (17 events) 90.88; excellent, and the best in the regiment. This company was mustered in October 30, 1895.

COMPANY "F," CAPTAIN ROY HARLAN HAWKES.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was from poor to excellent, and a great effort should be made to bring it up to a satisfactory and uniform condition. Men steady; manual fair; company quarters clean; lockers uniformly dressed, but the system a poor one; all contents of lockers in good condition.

Books.—All well kept; orders and dates of alterations should be given in record of events in report book. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 7, 1895, to February 24, 1896, 76.12; too low.

Percentage present at muster, 97.65.

COMPANY "G," CAPTAIN JOHN EDWARD KERBY.

This company was recently mustered in; general appearance good, but men very unsteady and poorly set up; manual very poor. All in need of much careful instruction in school of the soldier, which should be given before going to camp. Company quarters clean; lockers uniformly dressed, but the system a poor one; floors and shelves of lockers dirty.

Books only just opened.

Percentage present at muster, 82.98.

COMPANY "H," CAPTAIN JOSEPH SOLOMON.

This is one of the new companies of the regiment which was mustered in during January, 1896. With 100 per cent. present, its general appearance was excellent, and everything indicates that it will be one of the best companies in the regiment. Manual good; men steady; company quarters clean; lockers uniformly dressed.

Books.—The descriptive and report books are well kept. Average percentage of attendance at drills from January 27, 1896, to February 25, 1896 (5 events), 100 per cent; excellent, and a fine beginning.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

The appearance of this regiment at inspection was remarkable for the great improvement which has taken place since last year in condition of uniforms and equipments, steadiness of men (showing greatly improved discipline) and the attendance, which, for percentage present, was the best in its history. The criticisms of the various companies are based upon company "A" as a standard of general excellence. Companies "B," "D" and "H," also deserve special mention for their fine appearance. Six companies paraded 100 per cent. present for muster, a most gratifying performance, and the best indication of the hard work that has been going on throughout the regiment. Condition and appearance of the field musicians excellent, and a feature of this occasion. All property in good condition and as well cared for as the present quarters will permit. With the new and commodious armory about to be occupied, there is every reason to expect continued improvement in this regiment. Officers and men have every reason to feel proud of what they have accomplished during the past year.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff officers all properly uniformed and equipped, excepting the chaplain. Colors very old and worn — both National and State — and I recommend the issue of new ones, together with a garrison and a storm flag.

Books.— With the exception of the roster, which has not been kept — the headquarter's books are in very good condition. The record of events in the report book should be written up, and the alterations in the field, staff and non-commissioned staff explained therein. Average percentage of attendance at drills (10 companies), from October 1, 1895, to May 18, 1896 (about 30 events), 72.14, which is very low and unsatisfactory. Company "A" leads with 82.61 per cent., and company "F" is lowest, with 61.43 per cent.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN SAMUEL SIMBON O'CONNOR.

This company, with 100 per cent. present for muster, has the honor of making the best general appearance in the regiment, and is selected as the standard upon which the criticisms of the other companies are based. No detail had been overlooked in the endeavor to make a handsome showing. Manual of arms good, and men very steady; adjustment of equipments particularly good. A great improvement has taken place since last inspection.

The books are in very satisfactory condition generally, and are very neatly kept. Attention to the few errors pointed out will make them first class. Average percentage of attendance at drill from October 3, 1895, to May 14, 1896 (28 events), 82.61; excellent, and the highest in the regiment.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN ARTHUR MELVILLE TOMPKINS.

The general appearance of this company, which once more paraded 100 per cent. present for muster, with a gain of five in numbers since last inspection, was excellent. Manual of arms good, and men steady.

The books of this company are models of neatness, and are very accurately kept. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 7, 1895, to May 18, 1896 (31 events), 70.21; much too low, and unsatisfactory.

COMPANY "C," CAPTAIN HAROLD SHERIDAN POOLE.

In general appearance this company showed marked improvement over last year, and is rated very good. A little finish is required to bring it up to the standard of the best in the regiment. Manual of arms good; men steady.

Books.—The books of this company are very well cared for, and are particularly neat. Alterations in reports must be shown, and accounted for in the record of events. Average percentage present at drills from October 7, 1895, to May 18, 1896 (30 events), 72.86; too low.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN JOHN D. WALTON.

This company, with 100 per cent. present for muster, was the best in the First Battalion in matters of general appearance, condition of uniforms and equipments, etc., and a great improvement over last year, which was called for at that time, was shown, and the manner in which the criticism has been met is a great credit to the officers and men. Manual of arms good; men very steady.

The books are neatly kept, but more attention is required to detail. Orders must not be signed by the first sergeant; the blank forms of letters must be copied in the letter book; and the orders and dates of alterations in reports must be given in the record of events. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 2, 1895, to May 14, 1896 (31 events), 81.49; very good.

COMPANY "E," CAPTAIN HARRY LINCOLN DESSAR.

The general appearance of this company, and the condition of arms, uniforms and equipments, were good, and while rated satisfactory, considerable improvement must be made to bring it up to the high standard of company "A," upon which this criticism is based. Improvement over last year, however, is noted.

Books are well and neatly kept, except that the blank forms of letters are not copied in the letter book. The report book shows that there are eight chronic absentees. Average percentage of duty performed from October 4, 1895, to May 15, 1896 (31 events), 71.61; much too low.

Percentage present at muster, 96.00.

COMPANY "F," CAPTAIN WILLIAM WOLCOTT MARKS.

The general appearance of this company was but fair, comparatively, and while a great improvement over last year, more was expected of it in view of the fine condition of the other companies in the regiment, and much hard work is necessary to bring it up to the high standard of company "A," upon which this criticism is based; 100 per cent. for muster is a very creditable showing.

Books.—The failure to keep a letter book should be rectified at once; some records in the descriptive book are not complete; and the dates and orders of alterations in reports are not given in the record of events in the report book. There are eight chronic absentees. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 1, 1895, to May 19, 1896 (32 events), 61.48; very low and unsatisfactory, and the poorest in the regiment.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "G," CAPTAIN WASHINGTON WILLCOCKS.

The improvement called for at the last inspection of this company has taken place, and everything was found in very good condition; a little effort will bring it up to the high standard of the other companies in the regiment.

The books of this company at the time of the inspection were in a most unsatisfactory condition. No reports had been written up for the months of October, November and December, nor since the 3d of March. The descriptive book is utterly useless as a record, showing 3 quartermaster-sergeants, 10 duty sergeants, 23 corporals, etc., etc. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 1, 1895, to May 19, 1896 (32 events), 79.44; which should improve hereafter.

Percentage present at muster, 96.88.

COMPANY "H," CAPTAIN JEROME BURSLEY SILSBY.

The general appearance of this company at inspection, and the condition of uniforms and equipments, and adjustment of the same, showed a great and gratifying improvement over last year, and the company is now in excellent condition, very near the best in the regiment, where a small effort will place it. Manual of arms good; men very steady.

The books, however, are in a very unsatisfactory condition. While the report and the descriptive books were in a very fair condition at last inspection, they are valueless this year as records. The report book had not been fully written up at the time of the inspection this year, and many records in the descriptive book are incomplete; and no record of events is kept in the report book. According to the figures in the report book, the average percentage of attendance from October 4, 1895, to May 27, 1896 (33 events), is 66.52, but as many of the reports don't prove, these figures must, necessarily, be incorrect.

COMPANY "I," CAPTAIN CHARLES EDWARD KOHLBERGER.

This company, which was very poor in general appearance at last inspection, is again at the foot of the regiment in this particular. While marked improvement has taken place since then, and is noted, it has not accomplished all that was expected, and considerable remains to be done to bring it up to a satisfactory standard. Of the 13 absentees in the whole regiment, this company is responsible for more than half of that number. A general improvement is looked for.

Books.—The failure to keep a letter book should be rectified at once; the descriptive and report books are very well kept generally, a few records in the former not being complete, and no dates and orders of alterations in reports being given in the record of events in the latter. There are nine chronic absentees. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 2, 1895, to May 13, 1896 (31 events), 61.86; very low and unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 86.00.

COMPANY "K," CAPTAIN WILLIAM F. MORRIS.

With 100 per cent. present for muster and a gain in numbers since last year of eight men, the general appearance of this company was very good, and while noted as satisfactory, considerable improvement can be made, which is necessary to bring it up to the high standard of some other companies in the regiment. Manual of arms fair; men steady.

Report book was not written up to date of the inspection. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 2, 1895, to April 22, 1896 (25 events), 73.38; much too low.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE BATTALION.

The general appearance of this organization at inspection was excellent, and, in the matter of small details, an improvement over last year.

The armory was a model of cleanliness and good order, and the excellent system of dressing lockers in all the companies a strong feature, a condition in which they are kept at all times.

Inspection was preceded by a review, and this ceremony was handsomely rendered, the passage being particularly good. The battalion platoon drill, under command of Major Stacpole, which followed muster, was first-class throughout. This kind of a drill is the best test that officers and non-commissioned officers can be put to, and all demonstrated their ability on this occasion. All movements had a style and finish rarely seen, and were very instructive as well as a pleasure to behold.

All extra property well cared for.

The criticisms of the various companies are based upon Company "B" as a standard, it being much the best in the battalion.

There was but one man absent, a most creditable showing, and it is but fair to state that this absence was caused by the death of the mother of the absentee.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped except the surgeon; attention has been called to this before. The colors are of poor material, and were spoiled by rain the first time used. The old colors were used twenty years, and this did not occur.

The headquarters' books are in the same degree of excellence as at last inspection. Average percentage of attendance at drill (4 companies), 76.54; much too low, Company "A" leading, with 79.60, and Company "D" lowest, 71.69.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN FRANK ROCKWELL PALMER.

With 100 per cent. present for muster, the general appearance of this company was very good, manual excellent and men very steady.

Quarters very neat; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed.

Books.—All are well kept; a few minor errors being noted. Average percentage of attendance at drill from December 5, 1895, to June 6, 1896 (28 events), 79.60; and while the best in the battalion, a much higher figure should be attained hereafter.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN CHARLES BLEECKER STAATS.

With 100 per cent. present for muster, the general appearance of this company at inspection was excellent throughout, no detail being overlooked to bring about this very satisfactory result. It has the honor of being the best in the battalion.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed; manual of arms at inspection, excellent; men very steady.

The books of this company are still kept in a very accurate manner, the neatness being especially noticeable. Average percentage of attendance at drills from December 2, 1895, to May 30, 1896 (28 events), 78.35; too low.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "C," CAPTAIN JAMES L. HYATT.

With 100 per cent. present for muster, the general appearance of this company at inspection was very good, manual of arms excellent and men very steady.

Quarters excellent; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed.

Books show a decided improvement over last year, and are now very carefully and accurately kept, a few small errors only being noted. The neatness is a marked characteristic. Average percentage of attendance at drills from December 5, 1895, to May 30, 1896 (27 events), 76.53; too low.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN EDGAR VALOIS DENISON.

In general appearance while rated good, this company ranks lowest in the battalion, and must improve considerably to bring it up to the high standard of Company B, upon which this criticism is based. A number of packs were poorly adjusted, some brasses not polished, and spitting upon the floor of the drill-room was noticeable.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed.

Books in very satisfactory condition, and very neatly kept. There are several habitual absentees that should be gotten rid of. Average percentage of attendance at drills from December 2, 1895, to May 30, 1896 (26 events), 71.69; very low and unsatisfactory, and the lowest in the battalion.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

The general and extraordinary improvement that has taken place in this regiment since the last inspection is a fact in which all interested have reason to feel proud of, and is most commendable to the commanding officer and his associate officers in the regiment. It clearly demonstrates what can be accomplished by hard work and a little patience. The Twelfth Regiment has accomplished in one year a result that might reasonably have taken three times as long. The manual of arms at inspection was excellent and remarkable for uniformity throughout the regiment. Evidences of the highest class of discipline were observable everywhere. Arms, uniforms and equipments, and adjustment of same, were generally excellent. All extra property well cared for, but scattered around the armory for want of proper room and accommodation. This armory is too small, particularly the drill-room. Quartermaster's department system excellent. Armory a model of neatness and cleanliness. Company quarters and arrangement of uniforms and equipments in lockers throughout regiment excellent, and a great improvement over last year, showing what can be done even with small lockers.

The commanding officer paid a very high compliment to Lieutenant-Colonel McCoskry Butt by stating that the improved condition of the regiment was largely due to the untiring efforts of this very capable officer.

Formation of regiment prompt; review in line of masses; men very steady; passage in review handsomely executed; alignments and distances perfect; some officers failed to look toward reviewing point; and commanding officer Company D failed to bring his company to "port arms" when passing.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped, excepting cap ornaments of the non-commissioned staff should be of metal; the packs of the non-commissioned staff should be marked.

Books.—While the headquarters' books show an improvement over last year, they are not as good yet as they should be. The personal records of the field, staff and non-commissioned staff have not been written up in the consolidated report book; and the records of the non-commissioned staff in the register are not complete. Average percentage of duty performed (ten companies) from October 1, 1895, to March 1, 1896 (about 20 events), 76.41; much too low; Company "A" leading with 84.30 per cent., and Company "H" lowest with 68.70 per cent.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN EDWARD CHARLES SMITH.

This company was found to be in generally good condition. Manual of arms excellent. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers well dressed; empty lockers dirty.

Books.—No journal, order or letter books; descriptive book useless as a record; report book not written up for October and November at time of inspection. Average percentage of duty performed from October 14, 1895, to March 30, 1896 (24 events), 84.30; best in the regiment.

With 100 per cent. present, the general appearance of this company at inspection was very good, and satisfactory. Manual of arms excellent; quarters very clean, and arrangement of uniforms and equipments in lockers particularly good.

Books.—No journal, order or letter book kept; descriptive and report books generally well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 4, 1895, to February 24, 1896 (20 events), 78.73; too low.

Books.—No order or journal book kept; blank forms of letters not copied in the letter book; descriptive book, only minor errors; report book, record of events not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to February 26, 1896 (20 events), 71.17; very low and unsatisfactory.

Books.—Order and journal books correct; letter book shows no blank forms of letters copied therein; descriptive book generally well kept; a few minor errors; report book well kept, but no orders and dates of alterations in record of events. ## COMPANY "F," CAPTAIN JAMES WATSON GERARD, JR.

A large loss is noted since last muster, and the company is now dangerously small in numbers. Appearance at inspection generally very good; manual of arms excellent. Quarters neat and clean; lockers satisfactorily dressed; empty ones dirty.

Books.—No order, journal or letter books; descriptive book generally well kept; report book not written up for October and November at the time of inspection. A letter book should be procured at once, and more neatness observed in keeping books. With 100 per cent. present, the general appearance of this company was excellent, and most satisfactory. Manual of arms very good. Quarters neat and clean; lockers well dressed; empty ones dirty.

Books.—Except that blank forms have not been copied in the letter book, the books of this company are in a satisfactory condition, and show a great improvement over last inspection. Average percentage of duty performed from October 8, 1895, to April 14, 1896 (21 events), 84.02; very creditable.

COMPANY "H," CAPTAIN WASHINGTON CONTENT.

The condition of this company was only fair, comparatively, there being a lack of attention given to many small details. There remains much to be done to bring it up to the high standard of other companies in the regiment. Quarters neat and clean; lockers well dressed; empty ones dirty.

Books.—The descriptive and report books are in good condition this year, but the failure to keep a letter book, noted at last inspection, has not been corrected; the manner of keeping the record of events in the report book is not the proper one. Average percentage of duty performed from October 8, 1895, to February 25, 1896 (19 events), 68.70; very low and unsatisfactory, and a subject for investigation by the commanding officer of the regiment.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

This regiment, the only organization among the regiments of the Second Brigade to show an increase in numbers, has improved wonderfully since last inspection, and appeared to be a new organization throughout. The commanding officer and his associate officers and the rank and file deserve great credit for the immense amount of work they have evidently performed to so soon overcome the very unsatisfactory condition at last inspection. (This except Company "H," which has not improved). This year found them neat, clean, and steady, showing a very satisfactory appearance and greatly improved discipline. Under the new order of things, this regiment is now on the high road to success, which must be a source of gratification to the regiment, as it is to the inspecting officer.

Review in line, and passage, very good; formation 15 minutes late; appearance of field musicians excellent.

Books.—The headquarters' books, with the exception of the roster, which has not been kept, are in a very satisfactory condition, and are neatly and carefully kept. Average percentage of duty performed (10 companies) from October 1, 1895, to May 1, 1896 (32 events), 76.06; much too low. Company "B" leads, with 86.68 per cent., and company "H" lowest, with 66.84 per cent.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff correctly uniformed and equipped except caps of non-commissioned staff, which should have metal wreaths instead of embroidered ones. Lockers of N. C. S. very disorderly; band lockers same; field musicians' lockers particularly well dressed.

Armory very neat and clean except windows throughout building, which were very dirty. There is a lot of property still unmarked; extra property well cared for.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN FRANK REMINGTON WISWELL.

This company was found to be in good condition generally. Quarters neat and clean; lockers dressed uniformly.

Braid on cap and blouse of first lieutenant not correct.

Books.—Except that the blank forms are not copied in the letter book, the books of this company are very well cared for, and correction of errors noted will make them very satisfactory. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to May 11, 1896 (33 events), 75.79; too low, and should improve.

Percentage present at muster, 96.23.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN JOHN T. JENNINGS.

The appearance of this company was very good generally, showing considerable improvement over last year. Manual of arms poor; quarters neat and clean; lockers dressed.

The books of this company need more careful attention. There is no letter book; and the journal and endorsement book is for communications received, not for those sent by the company commander. Some records in the descriptive book are not complete, and the alterations in the reports are not properly shown in the record of events. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to May 6, 1896 (32 events), 86.68; the best in the regiment, and very commendable.

Percentage present at muster, 94.74.

COMPANY "C," FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN A. ANDERSON, COMMANDING.

The general appearance of this company was very good, showing a remarkable improvement over last year. Quarters neat and clean; lockers not kept as they should be.

The books are neatly and accurately kept; there are six chronic absentees who should be gotten rid of. Average percentage of duty performed from October 3, 1895, to May 4, 1896 (32 events), 69.97; very low and unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 87.27.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN SYDNEY GRANT.

This company has made a handsome gain in numbers since last muster. General appearance excellent — dividing the honors with companies "G" and "I" in this respect. A great change has taken place since last muster, when everything was found unsatisfactory. Manual at inspection very good; quarters neat and clean; lockers dressed.

The books of this company are not in a satisfactory condition. No letter book is kept; the records of the non-commissioned officers in the descriptive book are not correct; and the record of events in the report book is not properly kept, neither are the explanations of the alterations in reports properly made. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to May 6, 1896 (32 events), 71.41; much too low.

Percentage present at muster, 95.08.

COMPANY "E," CAPTAIN WASHINGTON IRVING TAYLOR.

A handsome gain in numbers since last muster is noted. The general appearance and condition of this company was very good, showing satisfactory improvement over last year. Quarters neat and clean; lockers dressed.

Books.—The descriptive book and report book are very well kept, but no letter book is used, an omission that should be immediately corrected. Average percentage of duty performed from October 4, 1895, to May 9, 1896 (31 events), 83.91; very good.

COMPANY "F," CAPTAIN GEORGE WILLIAM COWEN.

The great change for the better recommended last year has taken place, and this company was found to be in very good condition generally. Quarters neat and clean; lockers well and uniformly dressed.

Books.—An improvement is noted over last year's inspection, and a correction of the few errors pointed out will make them satisfactory in every way. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to June 9, 1896 (34 events), 69.55; very low and unsatisfactory.

COMPANY "G," CAPTAIN HARRY ADELBERT WILLIAMS.

This company once more paraded 100 per cent. present for inspection and muster, and, as usual, made a very handsome and satisfactory appearance; on this occasion dividing the honors with companies "D" and "I" for general excellence. Quarters neat and clean; lockers well dressed.

The books of this company are in good condition, and very neat. The record of events has not been kept in the report book. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to May 12, 1896 (33 events), 82.26; very good.

COMPANY "H," CAPTAIN WILLIAM KNISELY VAN O'LINDA.

This company has not progressed with the other companies in the regiment since last year, but the same unsatisfactory condition prevails. Small in numbers, and generally unsatisfactory. A thorough reorganization is necessary to save this company from disbandment. Quarters clean, and lockers fairly well dressed.

Books.—The descriptive and report books are accurately and neatly kept, but the failure to keep a letter book should be corrected at once. Average percentage of duty performed from October 3, 1895, to April 28, 1896 (31 events), 66.84; very low and unsatisfactory, and the lowest in the regiment; a subject for investigation by the commanding officer of the regiment.

Percentage present at muster, 94.44.

COMPANY "I," CAPTAIN WILLIAM ADDISON TURPIN.

This company, which was among the worst at last inspection, this year divides the honors with companies "D" and "G" for general excellence, and everything was found in the most satisfactory condition, which is very gratifying, and reflects great credit upon the officer commanding it. Manual of arms at inspection good; quarters neat and clean, and lockers particularly well dressed, and the best in the regiment.

The books require more attention to details to make them satisfactory. No blank forms are copied in letter book; records in the descriptive book are not complete in many cases; records of events in report book not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 4, 1895, to May 30, 1896 (30 events), 74.41; much too low.

COMPANY "K," CAPTAIN GEORGE WASHINGTON RODGERS.

The appearance of this company was very good, and would have been excellent but for the poor adjustment of equipments and packs. Manual of arms also poor; quarters neat and clean; lockers well dressed.

Books.— The books of this company are fairly well kept; some records in the descriptive book not complete; and the record of events and explanations of alterations in report book incorrect. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to May 13, 1896 (34 events), 79.79, which should improve.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

A very gratifying improvement has taken place in this regiment since last muster in appearance, condition of uniforms and equipments, and percentage of men present. There is still room for improvement, and much hard work is necessary to bring it up to the required standard, and, as a very correct spirit prevails among all the officers, there can be no doubt of the result, which, when accomplished, will place this regiment in a high position.

Lockers of company rooms not opened for inspection as required.

Review in line, men very steady; passage in review, excellent except first two companies passed at "right shoulder;" commanding officer Company "E" gave the salute of a non-commissioned staff officer; and a number of officers failed to look toward reviewing officer upon saluting; formation fifteen minutes late.

All extra property in good condition and well cared for.

Books.—Headquarters' books and records in a very satisfactory condition throughout, showing careful and intelligent care. The average percentage of duty performed throughout the regiment (10 companies) is 71.54; a remarkably bad showing and very unsatisfactory. Company "C" leads with 83.23 per cent., and Company "I" is the lowest, with 58.38 per cent. This condition of affairs should be the subject for prompt investigation by the commanding officer.

Lockers of the non-commissioned staff in disorderly condition; floor of the band-room stained with tobacco.

Regimental adjutant wore incorrect collar insignia, and band leader was not properly uniformed.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN WILLIAM C. NOBLE.

The appearance of this company at inspection was only fair, and much work is necessary to bring it up to the standard. Manual of arms poor; lockers should have been opened for inspection.

Books neatly and accurately kept, but the report book shows that there are 21 men whose attendance is very poor, 11 of whom have only been present on one to six occasions each. Average percentage present for duty from October 3, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (35 events), 59.94; very low and most unsatisfactory, and a subject for investigation by commanding officer of the regiment.

Percentage present at muster, 92.06.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN JOHN HENRY FOOTE.

This company paraded 100 per cent. present for muster, but a very large loss in numbers (18) is noted. The general appearance was good, but improvement can be made in condition of boxes and adjustment of equipments, both of which were poor.

Lockers in company quarters should have been opened for inspection.

Books very neatly and accurately kept. There are ten chronic absentees. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (36 events), 68.78; very low and unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "C," CAPTAIN THOMAS HEAPE AVERY.

This company was found to be in a generally excellent condition at inspection. Quarters neat and clean; lockers should have been opened for inspection.

Books.—The descriptive and report books are neatly and accurately kept, but a letter book should be procured at once and used. Average percentage present for duty from September 30, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (38 events), 83.23; best in the regiment and very creditable.

Percentage present at muster, 98.28.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN WILLIAM LEWIS GARCIA.

This company, with 100 per cent. present for muster, made a generally good appearance. Boxes can be much improved; and the adjustment of equipments was poor. A large loss is noted since last inspection and muster. Quarters clean, but lockers should have been opened for inspection.

Books.—The descriptive and report books only were presented for inspection, and were found in a very satisfactory condition, a few small errors only being noted. Average percentage present for duty from August 27, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (39 events), 79.71; very good, but should improve.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "E," CAPTAIN EDMUND H. MITCHELL.

This company shows instead of progress that it has gone back since last inspection, and its condition and appearance was only fair. The company was incorrectly formed, the non-commissioned officers not having their correct positions, for which there is no excuse. Manual of arms only fair; quarters neat and clean, but lockers were not open for inspection.

Books very neatly and accurately kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (37 events), 69.19; very low and unsatisfactory.

COMPANY "F," CAPTAIN JOHN F. CARROLL.

A very large loss in numbers since last muster is noted. With the exception of poor condition of boxes and poor adjustment of equipments, this company shows considerable improvement over last year and, as a whole, was satisfactory. With but one absentee, against 18 last year, a great change for the better is shown. Quarters clean; lockers should have been opened for inspection.

Books in generally good condition; orders should be numbered; blank forms of letters should be copied in the letter book; and dates and orders of alterations in record of events in report book should be given. Average percentage of duty performed from October 3, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (35 events), 78.12; too low.

COMPANY "G," CAPTAIN JOHN LEANDER JOHNSON HAGGSTROM.

The condition and appearance of this company at inspection was generally good. Quarters neat and clean, but lockers not open for inspection.

Books.—Except that the dates and orders of alterations in reports are not given in the record of events in report book, the books of this company are in a very satisfactory condition. Too many absentees from drill. Average percentage of duty performed from October 4, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (34 events), 69.95; much too low and unsatisfactory.

COMPANY "H," SECOND LIEUTENANT FRANK ELBRIDGE SWEET (DETAILED FROM COMPANY "B"), COMMANDING.

A large loss is noted in this company; and its condition and appearance was not as good as last year, and it needs a great stirring up at once. Too many absentees. Quarters clean, but lockers not opened for inspection.

Books.—The unsatisfactory condition of the books of this company may be accounted for by the fact that it has been without a captain for some time, and this part of the reorganization of the company should also receive immediate attention. A letter book is a very necessary part of the records of an organization. Descriptive book fairly well kept; report book shows no record of events, nor alterations in reports. Average percentage of duty performed from October 4, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (39 events), 67.41; very low and unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 84.75.

COMPANY "I," CAPTAIN JOSEPH RICHARD KENRICK BARLOW.

This company, which shows a large loss in numbers since last muster, has not made the improvement expected since last year. Its appearance was only fair; manual of arms at inspection poor; company not correctly formed,—file closers not in their correct positions, particularly the first sergeant, for which there can be no excuse. Quarters clean, but lockers not open for inspection.

The books are very neatly and accurately kept, but the list of chronic absentees is excessive. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to May 23, 1896 (36 events), 58.38; a most unsatisfactory record, and a subject for investigation by the commanding officer of the regiment.

COMPANY "K," CAPTAIN CHARLES ALLEN ANDREWS.

This company, with 100 per cent. present and a gain in numbers since last muster made an excellent appearance at inspection, the equipments being in particularly fine condition, and, in this respect, are an example for the rest of the regiment to follow. Manual of arms very good; quarters clean; lockers should have been opened for inspection.

Books.— No letter book has been kept, and one should be started at once; descriptive book shows only minor errors; dates and orders of alterations in reports must be given in the record of events in the report book. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to May 22, 1896 (37 events), 80.78; very good.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT:

The appearance of this regiment at inspection showed improvement over last year, and it is general in its character throughout all the companies. A handsome gain in numbers is noted; also a large percentage present, there being but 16 absentees. Manual of arms at inspection was only fair, showing lack of proper instruction, which is largely accountable for by the fact that the revised manual has but recently been taken up. A bad feature was the late formation, which was twenty-five minutes behind time.

Windows and gallery floors throughout armory very dirty; a disorderly condition of lockers in all company rooms; a system for the care of lockers should be established in this regiment at once.

Men very steady at review; passage in review good, but some distances poor; colors were not placed correctly at review in line of masses.

All books and records well and accurately kept, and models of neatness and system. Company books throughout regiment much improved over last year. Average percentage of duty performed by the regiment (10 companies) from October, 1895, to February 20, 1896, 79.91, which should improve.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped. New colors are recommended for this regiment.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN DANIEL JAMES MURPHY.

This company was found to be in excellent condition, presenting a very satisfactory and handsome appearance. A uniform system in care of and dressing of lockers should be established at once.

All books well kept; report book shows six chronic absentees. Average percentage of duty performed from October 14, 1895, to February 24, 1896 (20 évents), 73.15, which is very low and unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 95.38.

This company was found to be in a generally good condition. Manual of arms at inspection only fair. A uniform system in care of and dressing of lockers should be established at once.

All books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 14, 1895, to February 17, 1896 (19 events), 76.93; very low when books show no deadwood on the rolls.

With 100 per cent. present, and a handsome gain in numbers since last inspection, this company made a generally good appearance, the adjustment of equipments being particularly good.

A uniform system should be established at once in the care of and dressing of lockers.

Books well kept; minor errors noted in the descriptive and report books. Average percentage of duty performed from October 18, 1895, to February 20, 1896 (18 events), 81.21, which should show an improvement hereafter.

This company in appearance was very good, and still leads the regiment in numbers, which position it has held for years, a record which the commanding officer has reason to feel proud of. Manual of arms at inspection, poor. A uniform system should be established at once in care of and dressing of lockers.

All books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 16, 1895, to February 19, 1896 (18 events), 89.38; very creditable, and an example to other companies in the regiment.

The appearance of this company was the best in the regiment. No detail was overlooked in the endeavor to present a perfect and clean condition. To the contrary, the locker-room was found in a very disorderly condition. A uniform system should be established at once in care of and dressing of lockers.

No officer present at inspection of books; report and descriptive books the only ones shown. Average percentage of duty performed from October 15, 1895, to February 20, 1896 (18 events), 78.63, which can be improved.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

This regiment was presented for inspection in absolutely perfect condition, showing great improvement over last year. Arms, uniforms and equipments, and adjustments of same, were found to be excellent. Manual of arms at inspection was particularly good. Formations promptly made, and the review in line and passage in review was a very handsome ceremony; some officers, however, saluted too soon, and many failed to look towards the reviewing officer.

White trimmings on the uniform would greatly improve appearance of same, and the State should order it done at once. Overcoats much worn by service; they should have been rolled around the packs and not underneath. Canteens, which were delivered at the armory several days prior to the date of inspection, should have been distributed and worn in accordance with orders.

Armory a model of neatness and cleanliness; all extra property well cared for; quartermaster's department handsome in arrangement, and well systematized.

Military discipline and courtesy of a high order.

Books are models of neatness and accuracy. Average percentage of duty performed by the regiment (10 companies), from October 1, 1895, to April 1, 1896 (about 25 events), 84.98; very high and satisfactory.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

While this regiment shows marked improvement over last year, and there is evidence of hard work having been performed, still it has not progressed as much as expected, and as other regiments have improved in the Second Brigade. A much better condition is required as to cleanliness and adjustment of equipments. The arms, also, were not as clean as they should be. A little effort on the part of all will bring about the required improvement.

The criticisms of the various companies are based upon Company "A," this company making an extremely good appearance, particularly as to adjustment of equipments. Company "K" is also deserving of special mention.

Horse equipments not well cared for; blankets and ponchos not marked, and canteens still unnumbered, to which attention was called last year. Some surplus property not well cared for. Lockers in field musicians' quarters very dirty; boiler-room in disorderly condition; windows throughout armory very dirty.

Review in line of masses good; passage also good; salutes generally good.

Average percentage of attendance at drill (8 companies) 73.40; very low and unsatisfactory. Company "D" lowest, with 64.38. This covers a period from October 1, 1895, to April 25, 1896, with about 28 events.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped. Non-commissioned staff's packs very poorly adjusted.

Headquarters' books, except that the alterations in the field and staff are not noted in the record of events in the consolidated report book, the books and records of this regiment are in a very satisfactory condition throughout, and show painstaking care and attention.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN HERVEY CALKIN LYON.

The general appearance of this company was excellent, adjustment of equipment particularly good, and an example for the rest of the regiment. Manual of arms at inspection good. Quarters neat and clean; lockers very small but kept in an orderly manner.

Books.—No letter book has been kept, a mistake that should be corrected at once. Some records in the descriptive book are not complete. Report book well kept. Average percentage present for duty from October 3, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (28 events), 87.71; the best in the regiment, and very creditable.

Percentage present at muster, 98.33.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN WILLIAM LOUIS FISH.

With 100 per cent. present for muster, the condition of this company was generally fair, and, while an improvement over last year, it can do much better still. The poor manual of arms noted last year is in no way improved. Lockers small, but uniformly dressed; quarters clean.

Books.—The failure to keep a letter book should be rectified at once. The descriptive book is in an incomplete and unsatisfactory condition. Report book well kept, but shows eight chronic absentees. Average percentage present for duty from October 7, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (25 events), 76.15; too low.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN JOHN STOCKTON STROUSE.

Another large loss is noted since last muster. Appearance generally good, but considerable improvement can be made. Manual of arms at inspection, good. Quarters clean; lockers, small, but kept in orderly manner.

Books.— Except that the record of events in the report book is not properly kept, the books are very satisfactory. There are 11 chronic absentees. Average percentage of duty from October 4, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (28 events), 64.38; the lowest in the regiment and very unsatisfactory. This is a subject for investigation by the commanding officer of the regiment.

COMPANY "E," CAPTAIN DANIEL C. SULLIVAN.

The appearance of this company was very good generally. Manual good; helmet brasses particularly clean; quarters clean; lockers small, but orderly.

Books.— The letter book, although used, was not shown; descriptive book correct, except records of non-commissioned officers; report book, seven reports not signed by commanding officer, and no record of events made. Average percentage of duty from October 1, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (27 events), 80.47; very good, but should show improvement hereafter.

COMPANY "F," CAPTAIN MICHAEL J. COLLIGAN.

With 100 per cent. for muster, the appearance of this company at inspection was generally good, but there is room for considerable improvement. While there is every evidence of hard work, there is much left to be accomplished to bring this company up to the required standard. Quarters clean; lockers small, but kept in an orderly manner.

Books.— Condition of books generally very good; the alterations in report are, however, not fully explained. There are 12 chronic absentees. Some reports not signed by the commanding officer and the first sergeant. Average percentage of duty from October 7, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (27 events), 72.43; a very low figure, and unsatisfactory.

COMPANY "G," FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD JAMES OLDEN, COMMANDING.

A loss of six men is noted since last muster. General appearance of this company may be called from fair to good; considerable improvement can be made. Quarters clean; lockers small, but kept in an orderly manner.

Books.—The books of this company are in an unsatisfactory condition, for which the present commanding officer is hardly responsible, as he has only been in commission since April 20, 1896. There is no letter book; the records in the descriptive book are in many cases, incomplete; and the report book shows a large list of chronic absentees. Average percentage present for duty from October 2, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (28 events), 66.53; very low and unsatisfactory, and a subject for investigation by commanding officer of regiment.

Percentage present at muster, 98.04.

COMPANY "I," CAPTAIN HENRY CHARLES BARTHMAN.

With 100 per cent. for muster, the general appearance of this company at inspection was only fair, and there is room for considerable improvement, particularly in condition of equipments and adjustment of same. Quarters neat and clean; lockers small but kept in an orderly manner.

Books.—Well kept, except that the blank forms of letters are not copied in the letter book. The neatness is very marked. There are nine chronic absentees. Average percentage present for duty from October 1, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (27 events), 67.57; very low, and a subject for investigation by commanding officer of regiment.

COMPANY "K," CAPTAIN JOSEPH HART.

This company divides the honors with Company "A," its general appearance being excellent. A few finishing touches in matter of cleanliness, and a little more care in adjustment of equipments, will make it first class. Manual of arms at inspection good. Quarters neat and clean; lockers small, but kept in orderly manner.

Books.— A letter book should be procured at once, and used; descriptive book shows only a few minor errors; report book shows that there are five chronic absentees, and that the record of events is not properly kept. Average percentage present from October 4, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (29 events), 72.00; too low.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

A general improvement has taken place in this regiment during the past year, particularly in care of uniforms and equipments; the latter now being very clean.

Review in line good, men being very steady; passage in review poor. Manual at inspection generally very poor.

Quarters and property of band and field music in good order; lockers kept in orderly manner. Armory very clean and orderly. The company quarters of this regiment are very small and cramped, making it impossible to care for uniforms and equipments as they should be cared for. All extra property in good condition and well cared for. Overcoats in fair condition, considering seven years hard service.

* * * * *

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped, excepting non-commissioned staff should not have embroidered wreaths upon caps, and several officers wore collars much too high.

The colors are old and worn; new ones are recommended.

Hospital corps in excellent shape. Non-commissioned staff should dress their lockers uniformly.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN GEORGE J. HAFFA.

This company, generally speaking, was in excellent condition at inspection. Quarters neat and clean; lockers kept in an orderly manner, but both room and lockers are very small for the purpose intended.

Books.—Report book well kept, but more neatness desirable; descriptive book properly kept — a great improvement over last year. Average percentage of duty performed from beginning of drill season to date of inspection, 70.02; very low and unsatisfactory, and a great improvement must take place.

Percentage present at muster, 98.46.

Quarters and property in good condition; lockers as well dressed as could be in limited space afforded.

Books.—Report book well kept; descriptive book only fairly well kept, shows but one corporal. Average percentage of duty performed from beginning of drill season to date of inspection, 60.32; very low, and equally unsatisfactory; a great improvement must take place.

At inspection this company was found to be in generally good shape. Attention is called to R. 512. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers dressed as well as limited space permitted.

Books.—Report book well kept; descriptive book shows improvement in neatness and manner of keeping. Average percentage of duty performed from opening of drill season to date of inspection, 66.13; very low, and equally unsatisfactory; a great change must take place.

Percentage present at muster, 94.55.

This company at inspection was found to be in generally good condition, excepting manual of arms, which was very poor. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers as well dressed as limited space permitted.

Books.—Report book well kept; descriptive book generally well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from opening of drill season to date of inspection, 54.62; the lowest in the regiment, and a remarkably poor exhibit; a great improvement must take place.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

This regiment is now in good shape and progressing rapidly. Its condition, as to general appearance and condition of uniforms and equipments, is the best in its history, and all officers and men are commended for the fine result brought about by much hard work, patience and perseverance.

The criticisms of the various companies are based upon Company "G," which is taken as the standard of excellence. Companies "B," "C," and "I" were also in very fine condition, and the last two named, together with Company "G," deserve special mention for having 100 per cent. for muster. The regimental percentage present for muster is the best ever shown by this organization, and is another indication of its prosperous condition. The improvement over last inspection is very marked, and with a new armory, which this regiment is much in need of, and now deserves, there should be no doubt regarding its future. New colors are recommended; those now in use are very old and shabby.

Books and records of the headquarters of this regiment show an improvement over last year; a roster, however, should be preserved. All very neat. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 1, 1895, to May 15, 1896 (about 28 events), 69.52; very low and unsatisfactory. Company "K" is highest, with 75.38, and Company "D" lowest, with 60.69.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN MICHAEL LYNCH.

The condition of this company shows a great improvement over last year; the general appearance was good, but further improvement must be made to bring it up to the standard of some of the other companies of the regiment. Some unsteadiness noticeable; manual of arms fair.

Journal, descriptive and report books are accurately kept; a letter book must be procured and used. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 2, 1895, to May 14, 1896 (28 events), 69.25; much too low, but improvement promised.

Percentage present at muster, 94.29.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN EDWARD THOMAS MCCRYSTAL.

The appearance of this company was an improvement over last year, and generally excellent, and among the best in the regiment. Manual of arms good; men steady.

Books in very satisfactory condition, a few small errors only being noted in the descriptive book. There are 11 chronic absentees; such men should not be carried upon the roll. Average percentage of attendance from October 7, 1895, to April 27, 1896 (28 events), 71.76; much too low.

COMPANY "C," CAPTAIN JOHN O'CONNELL.

This company shows marked improvement over last year, and with 100 per cent. present for muster, its general appearance was excellent, and among the best in the regiment.

Books in very satisfactory condition, except that the captain has failed to sign the letters. There are 10 chronic absentees. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to April 24, 1896 (27 events), 68.32; very low and unsatisfactory.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN DANIEL JOSEPH DOWDNEY.

The appearance of this company at inspection was only fair in comparison with others; there is considerable room for improvement, and the indications are it will be forthcoming under the present commanding officer.

Order, letter and journal books correctly kept; some records in the descriptive book not complete; record of events in the report book don't show dates and orders of alterations. The general attendance of the company is very poor, with a large list of chronic absentees. Average percentage of attendance from October 2, 1895, to April 29, 1896 (30 events), 60.69; very poor and unsatisfactory, and the lowest in the regiment.

Percentage present at muster, 94.20.

COMPANY "E," CAPTAIN JOHN EMMETT O'BRIEN.

This is one of the new companies in the regiment, and it shows a handsome gain of 19 men since last muster. General appearance very good; a small but united effort will improve it greatly and place it among the best in the regiment; such an improvement is looked for.

The books are in fair condition only; there is no letter book; some records in the descriptive book are not complete; and no record of alterations is made in the report book. There are fourteen chronic absentees, which is a poor showing for a company organized only 11 months ago. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 2, 1895, to April 25, 1896 (26 events), 67.89; much too low and unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 91.07.

COMPANY "G," CAPTAIN JOHN EDWARD DUFFY.

This company shows a handsome gain of 20 since last muster, and with 100 per cent. present, the appearance made on this occasion was excellent in every detail, and a great credit to the regiment of which it forms a part, and an example for the other companies to follow, it being best of all. It was a pleasure to inspect it. If all the companies in the Sixty-ninth Regiment were like this company, it would be a perfect organization. Manual of arms good; men very steady, and of fine physique.

Books.—The journal, descriptive and other books are well and neatly kept; a letter book should be procured at once and used. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 4, 1895, to May 8, 1896 (29 events), 73.95; too low.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "I," CAPTAIN CHARLES HEALY.

This company, with 100 per cent. present for muster, and showing a gain in numbers of seven since last muster, keeps up its good reputation for general excellence, and was among the best in the regiment for general appearance, condition of uniforms and equipments, and the adjustment of the same. Manual of arms good; men very steady.

All books are accurately kept, except that no alterations are shown in the report book. The list of chronic absentees is unfortunately large. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 1, 1895, to April 27, 1896 (26 events), 68.93; much too low and unsatisfactory.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "K," CAPTAIN DANIEL MCCARTHY.

This company shows improvement over last year, and the general appearance and the condition of uniforms and equipments were good; further improvement can be made, however. Men steady during inspection; manual of arms good; 12 men without overcoats.

Books in a very satisfactory condition. The alterations in the reports must be shown in the report book and explained in the record of events. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 4, 1895, to April 27, 1896 (30 events) 75.38; and while the highest in the regiment, should show improvement hereafter.

Percentage present at muster, 98.57.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

From the reports of my predecessor, and from my own observation at inspection, both this year and last, this regiment is making remarkable and rapid strides in the right direction, which, if continued, must soon place it in the first class. With the single exception of loose belts, caused by adjusting below lower button of blouse, instead of above it, the uniforms, equipments, and the adjustment of same, were very satisfactory, general cleanliness being a strong feature, especially so with equipments.

The commanding officer, his associate officers, and the men of the regiment have reason to feel proud of the wonderful record made upon this occasion; one without a precedent; every man being present, and in the pink of condition, for muster. It is doubtful if this record will be equalled.

This regiment is in need of a large number of new blouses.

Review in line of masses, men very steady and soldiery in appearance; passage in review, some salutes poor, some given too soon.

Armory orderly and very clean; all extra property well cared for; quartermaster's department kept under good system; company quarters throughout regiment very clean, and lockers dressed in a uniform and handsome manner, which should be the custom at all times. The armory is in need of repairs, the stairways particularly, which are in a dangerous condition. County authorities should give this matter immediate attention.

Headquarter's books.— All books and records in excellent condition, showing intelligent, painstaking and systematic care. Average percentage of duty performed by the regiment during past drill season (nine companies), 82.22; very high and satisfactory; Company "G" leading with 91.56 per cent.; Company "K" lowest with 74.92 per cent.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN JOHN HENRY WHITTLE.

With 100 per cent. present, this company was found to be in good condition generally. Uniforms, arms and equipments (with the exception of many loose belts) were in a very satisfactory condition. Manual at inspection very good; men very steady. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.— Orders not properly made; they should be signed by the commanding officer, not by the first sergeant; journal, letter, descriptive and report books correct. The latter shows four chronic absentees. Average percentage of duty performed from October 4, 1895, to April 10, 1896 (28 events), 83.07.

Percentage present at muster, 100.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN WILLIAM LIVINGSTON HAZEN.

This company again paraded 100 per cent. for muster and with maximum strength, which is very commendable and an example for other companies in the regiment to follow. Everything, with the exception of belts, many of which were too loose, was found to be in very satisfactory condition. Manual at inspection very good; men very steady. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.— All accurately and neatly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to April 7, 1896 (25 events), 87.09; very good.

COMPANY "C," CAPTAIN ANDREW CHRISTIAN ZABRISKIE.

This company again paraded 100 per cent. for muster, and was in good condition; a few men spoiling the general effect and bringing the company below the standard of others in the regiment. Manual of arms only fair.

Quarters neat and clean, and lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.—No order and journal books; letter book just started; descriptive book generally well kept, a few minor errors; report book correct. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to April 10, 1896 (28 events), 79.46; which should improve.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN WILLIAM HENRY LINSON.

This company, which paraded 100 per cent. for inspection for the third year in succession, was found to be in excellent condition throughout, with the exception of some loose belts. Manual at inspection very good, and men very steady. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.—All well and neatly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 3, 1895, to April 10, 1896 (27 events), 83.32; very good.

COMPANY "F," CAPTAIN JAMES HOLLIS WELLS.

This company, with 100 per cent. present for muster, while found in good condition at inspection has not kept pace with the companies in the regiment in matters of appearance, and much improvement must take place to bring it up to regimental standard. Quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.— Order book not properly kept; journal book not properly used; letter book shows nothing but one written letter this year; descriptive book shows incomplete records; report book, alterations not recorded. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to April 7, 1896 (26 events), 81.97; very good.

COMPANY "G," CAPTAIN THOMAS WILLIAM TIMPSON.

This company, with 100 per cent. present, was only in fair condition comparatively, and considerable improvement must take place to bring it up to the high standard established in the regiment.

Manual good. Quarters neat and clean, lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.— No order book; all others well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from September 30, 1895, to April 10, 1896 (28 events), 91.56; very high, very commendable, and the best in the regiment.

This company, with 100 per cent. present, while good in general appearance, is not up to the high standard established in the regiment and must improve. Quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.— No journal or letter book; order book correct; descriptive book fairly well kept; non-commissioned officers records not complete; report book, no dates or orders of changes given in record of events. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to April 7, 1896 (25 events), 76.74; too low.

COMPANY "I," CAPTAIN CLARENCE GEER RETON.

This company, with 100 per cent. present for muster, made a very handsome appearance, equal to the best in the regiment; everything very neat and clean, and men very steady. A remarkable change for the better is noted since last inspection, at which time this was the poorest company in the regiment. A very large gain in numbers is also noted. Manual very good. Quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the condition at all times.

Books.—No orders issued; no letter book; journal correct; descriptive book, only minor errors; report book correct, except dates and orders omitted in record of events. Average percentage of duty performed from September 30, 1895, to April 10, 1896 (28 events), 81.86; good.

COMPANY "K," CAPTAIN FRANK KECK.

This company not only shows a good gain in numbers but for the third time in succession paraded 100 per cent. present for inspection and muster, which is highly creditable. The general condition and appearance were very good and highly satisfactory. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers uniformly dressed, which should be the custom at all times. Average percentage of duty performed from October 2, 1895, to April 7, 1896 (26 events), 74.92; the lowest in the regiment and not satisfactory.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE REGIMENT.

A great improvement in appearance, and in condition of uniforms and equipments, has taken place since last inspection. The regiment is in good hands and making rapid strides in the right direction. As noted last year, the armory is much too small. Quarters and property well cared for, and lockers in fairly orderly condition, but all company quarters were small and cramped, making it impossible to care for uniforms and equipments properly. All extra property well cared for. Overcoats, after seven years' hard service, in fair condition.

Formation of regiment prompt; review in line and passage in review excellent; second lieutenant of Company "F" failed to salute. Manual of arms throughout regiment at inspection only fair.

Regimental books well kept, and very neat. Average percentage of duty performed (by regiment) from October, 1895, to February, 1896 (about 14 events), 69.80, which is remarkably low and very unsatisfactory. A great improvement must take place.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped, except that some officers wear collars too high, in violation of regulations. Non-commissioned quarters well kept and lockers systematically dressed.

Armory a model of neatness.

COMPANY "A," CAPTAIN FREDERICK HENRY HOLTZ.

The condition of this company was generally good. Attention is called to R. 512. Lockers small but uniformly dressed.

Books well kept, except that the record of events in the report book is not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 14, 1895, to February 5, 1896 (15 events), 78.36; nearly as good as the best in the regiment, but far too low, and an improvement must take place.

Percentage present at muster, 94.44.

COMPANY "B," CAPTAIN WILLIAM FRANKLIN.

The appearance and condition of this company at inspection was from generally good to excellent. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers, although much too small, uniformly dressed.

Books.—No journal; order book incorrect; letter and report books correct; descriptive book only fair. Average percentage of duty performed from October 15, 1895, to February 5, 1896 (14 events), 67.90; much too low, and very unsatisfactory; a great improvement must take place in attendance.

The appearance and condition of this company at inspection was from generally good to excellent. Attention is called to R. 512. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers, although very small, uniformly dressed.

Order and letter books show no entries this year; journal correct; descriptive book, only minor errors; report book well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 14, 1895, to January 29, 1896 (13 events), 67.66; much too low; a great improvement must take place in attendance.

COMPANY "D," CAPTAIN GEORGE THOMAS BOWMAN.

This company makes another handsome gain in numbers, and its condition and appearance at inspection was excellent throughout. Quarters neat and clean, and lockers particularly well dressed; the best in the regiment.

All books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 14, 1895, to January 29, 1896 (13 events), 65.18; very low and equally unsatisfactory; a great improvement must take place in attendance.

COMPANY "E," CAPTAIN ALFRED CHARLES FAUL.

This company makes another handsome gain in numbers, and at inspection its condition and general appearance was excellent throughout, and it is one of the best in the regiment; some talking in ranks noticeable,— a reflection upon discipline.

All books well kept, excepting that dates and orders are omitted in record of events in report book, and a number of reports were not signed by the commanding officer and the first sergeant. Average percentage of duty performed from October 15, 1895, to February 5, 1896 (77.31); too low; an improvement in attendance must take place; quarters neat and clean, and lockers neatly dressed.

The condition and general appearance of this company at inspection were very fine.

Quarters neat and clean, and lockers, while cramped for room, neatly dressed.

No order, letter or journal books; descriptive book only fair; report book well kept, except that the first sergeant has not signed reports. Average percentage of duty performed from October 15, 1895, to January 28, 1896 (13 events), 78.39, which, while the best in the regiment, is much too low, and a great improvement in attendance must take place.

COMPANY "G," CAPTAIN WALTER GEORGE SMITH.

The comparative appearance and condition of this company was only fair, and far below the standard of the best companies in the regiment.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers fairly well dressed.

No orders issued this year, and no letter book shown; journal correct; descriptive book, minor errors; report book, record of events not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from beginning of drill season to date of inspection (about 14 events), 59.42; the lowest in the regiment, and very unsatisfactory. A great improvement must take place.

This company, in general condition and appearance, was only fair, comparatively, and should improve.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers fairly well dressed.

No company orders issued; no letter book; journal and descriptive books correct; report book, record of events, not kept, otherwise correct. Average percentage of duty performed from October 15, 1895, to February 5, 1896 (14 events), 64.18; very low and unsatisfactory. A great improvement in attendance must take place.

This is a very good company, and it made a very handsome appearance at inspection, but it is to be regretted that at drill it has gone backward somewhat since last year. At that time the loading and firing was a strong feature; this year it was noticeably weak. Officers and non-commissioned officers have all the necessary ability, if properly applied, to make this one of the best companies in the State.

Company quarters very neat and clean, but much too small. Lockers handsomely and uniformly dressed; extra property well cared for and kept under a good system.

The books of this company are particularly well and neatly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 28, 1895, to February 17, 1896 (17 events), 75.75; too low.

It is to be regretted that there is no rifle range in this armory, notwithstanding there is ample room for one. Necessary steps should be taken to provide this armory with a rifle range.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was excellent; men very steady and manual of arms good.

Drill following muster.— Close order movements in the school of the company, manual of arms, loadings and firings, platoon movements, all of an excellent character throughout, particularly loading and firing; platoon movements were faultlessly executed. All officers first-class. This company ranks with the best in the State and keeps up its long record for general excellence.

Armory undergoing extensive alterations, but neat and clean; quarters the same; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed; all extra property well cared for.

Books neatly and accurately kept. Average percentage of duty performed from February 15, 1896, to May 5, 1896 (17 events), 78.02; too low. The company was unable to drill prior to February 15th, owing to alterations to building.

This company has made a large gain in numbers since last muster and paraded 100 per cent., making a generally good appearance with the exception of cartridge-boxes, which can be much improved. The drill that followed was first-class in all respects, the officers and non-commissioned officers being bright and intelligent. There is every evidence of careful instruction having been given the men, which results in a fine finish to every part of the drill. Manual of arms good, and loading and firing excellent.

Armory neat and clean; extra property well cared for and in good condition; lockers uniformly dressed.

Books.—The order, descriptive and report books are neatly and accurately kept. No journal or letter book. Average percentage of attendance from November 7, 1895, to April 9, 1896 (25 events), 83.55; very good.

With 100 per cent. present for inspection and muster, this company presented an appearance remarkable to an extreme degree, everything being perfect. It is an organization excelled by none and equalled by few in the State in this particular. The drill which followed muster was excellent throughout. All officers competent, and the non-commissioned officers bright and intelligent. Loading and firing again a strong feature in this company.

All extra property in good condition and well cared for.

Books.—No journal kept; report book correct, except record of events not properly kept; letter book does not contain copies of printed blanks used, which are filed; descriptive book correct. Average percentage of duty performed from October 10, 1895, to March 1, 1896 (24 events), 76.66; which is too low.

Armory (county building) neat and clean; lockers much too small to give uniforms proper care.

This company shows great improvement over last year in every respect, commencing with a large gain in numbers (23), and mustering 100 per cent. for the first time. All officers and non-commissioned officers competent, bright and intelligent. Drill which followed muster very good; loading and firing excellent.

It is a pleasure to meet an officer like Captain Chase. Notwithstanding his long service of thirty-five years, he keeps abreast with the times and is anxious to learn and to do whatever is recommended for the improvement of his company.

All extra property well cared for; lockers handsomely and uniformly dressed,—a great improvement over last year.

Books.—No journal or letter book; order and descriptive books correct; report book not signed by the first sergeant, and record of events not kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 17, 1895, to March 25, 1896 (21 events), 93.95; excellent.

The armory is in a very bad state of repairs; all walls being saturated with rain and snow; floors in company rooms should be relaid; no rifle range in armory, and immediate steps should be taken to obtain one.

The reputation for general excellence established by this company years ago, and which has distinguished it in the National Guard, is maintained, and everything was found in first class condition. The drill following muster was excellent throughout, the manual of arms very good, and loading and firing fine. All officers and non-commissioned officers are of a high class in military efficiency. This company ranks with the best in the State.

Company quarters in excellent condition, and lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed. All extra property in best condition and kept under an excellent system. The men should clean their own equipments and roll their overcoats and not depend upon armory employes to do it for them.

Books all well kept and models of neatness and accuracy. Average percentage of duty performed from November 12, 1895, to March 3, 1896 (20 events), 82.00.

This company has paraded the maximum number of men for muster three years in succession, which is a very creditable performance. General appearance at inspection, with the exception of dirty and unsatisfactory boxes and some equipments too loosely adjusted, was very good, and an improvement over last year. Drill following muster was excellent throughout; loading and firing very good, and a big improvement over last year; a little finish will make all perfect. Officers of the first class. While under the command of the second lieutenant some unsteadiness was noticeable, which somewhat spoiled a good night's work.

Armory neat and clean; lockers not uniformly dressed; all extra property well cared for.

Books.—No journal; all blank forms should be copied in the letter book; all other books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 20, 1895, to March 30, 1896 (20 events), 88.95; which is an excellent showing.

This company was presented for inspection and muster in a very handsome condition, and showed much improvement over last year. Manual of arms at inspection particularly good; drill in company and platoon movements excellent; loading and firing does not show the improvement expected. All officers and non-commissioned officers intelligent and painstaking. A rifle range should be placed in this armory as there is plenty of room for one.

The books show great improvement over last year in the manner of keeping them, and are now very satisfactory, except that the first sergeant has failed to sign the report book since April 17, 1895. Average percentage of duty performed from October 22, 1895, to February 12, 1896 (15 events), 81.71.

With 100 per cent. present for the first time in the history of the company at inspection, and a handsome gain in numbers since last muster, the general appearance of this company was good, also the manual of arms at inspection. There was, however, talking and unsteadiness to a remarkable degree, indicating poor discipline, for which there can be no excuse. Manual of arms at drill very poor, lacking life and snap; drill poor, caused somewhat by size of drill room (30 x 60 feet), but even under this condition it can be much improved with proper attention and instruction. To make this company useful to the State and warrant the expense of maintaining it, suitable quarters should be provided. A redeeming feature of the drill was the loading and firing, which was very good.

All extra property well cared for; lockers uniformly dressed.

Books.—No journal; order book shows that three orders for 1895 are missing; letter book not complete; descriptive books show only minor errors; report book accurate with the exception of the record of events, which is not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from November 29, 1895, to April 2, 1896 (20 events), 80.17; too low. Drills should commence October 1st.

A great change for the better has taken place in this company, and there is every reason to believe that in a short time it will be restored to its old time condition, when it was among the best in the State. A very large gain in numbers (25), and 100 per cent. present for muster is noted and commended. All commissioned offices are now filled for the first time in a long period, and with competent men.

The drill was a little ragged, largely accounted for by the many recruits, but the careful instruction which is being imparted will soon overcome this condition. It is a pleasure to note that a generally satisfactory condition of affairs now prevails in this organization.

Quarters neat and clean, but more care should be given to the dressing of lockers, there being neither order or uniformity. This applies to non-commissioned officers particularly. Extra property in good condition, but scattered through the building.

Books.—No journal; all others neatly and accurately kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 14, 1895, to March 22, 1896 (24 events), 86.38; excellent.

Collars should not be worn with blouses except by officers; no decoration should be worn upon the blouse except the marksman's badge, Grand Army Republic medal, and the hospital corps badge. The State Marksman's decoration should not be polished.

All extra property well cared for; locker-room and lockers much too small.

This company was presented for inspection in perfect condition; uniforms, arms and equipments, and adjustment of the latter, being all that could be desired; the condition of the equipments was remarkably fine. It was a pleasure to inspect this company, and the commanding officer may be justly proud of the great improvement which has taken place since last year. All officers and non-commissioned officers bright and intelligent. Manual of arms only fair; same with loading and firing; drill good but lacked finish.

Books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to March 12, 1896 (23 events), 80.95; should improve.

Armory neat and clean, but it is in an unfinished condition, and much remains to be done to have it compare with others throughout the State, and steps should be taken to bring this about as soon as possible.

This company made an excellent and very satisfactory appearance at inspection, excepting boxes which were not properly cleaned. The drill that followed muster was of a high order; all officers and non-commissioned officers above the average in competency. This company is well in hand, and the commanding officer among the best in the State.

Men should clean their equipments, not alone because a much better result can be obtained, but because it is among the first and important duties of a soldier to learn how to keep all property issued to him in first-class condition at all times; this applies to the rolling of overcoats as well. Armory employes should not be depended upon to do this work.

All extra property well cared for under an excellent system; quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed.

All books very well kept and generally correct. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to March 30, 1896 (24 events), 81.42.

The appearance of this company at inspection was excellent; arms, uniforms and equipments in first-class condition. A general improvement has taken place, and the company is very near first class, where a little effort will place it. Drill very good; manual of arms, platoon movements, and close order movements in the school of the company generally well executed. Loading and firing excellent, and a great improvement over last year.

This is the third year in succession the company has paraded 100 per cent. present for muster, which is very creditable.

Armory very orderly and clean; all extra property in good condition and well cared for under an excellent system; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed.

Books.— No journal; all others accurately and well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to April 13, 1896, (28 events), 72.82; very low and unsatisfactory.

This company is still small in numbers and the expected increase has yet to take place, otherwise it shows marked improvement over last year, and there is every indication that in a short time it will be restored to its old time prosperity. The resignation of Lieutenant Terry is noted with regret, as he was a promising young officer.

Most of the blouses are in a very old and worn condition, and should be replaced with new ones as soon as possible

Armory very clean; all extra property well cared for; blankets and ponchos still unmarked.

Books.—No journal; letter book, no blank forms copied; descriptive book, some minor errors; report book, record of events not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 10, 1895, to March 12, 1896, 72.12; very low and unsatisfactory. That there were but 16 events in five months indicates something wrong; weekly drills must take place, and not be interfered with.

The armory roof still leaks, doing considerable damage. This building is in an unfinished condition, and something should be done at once. No toilet accommodations. No rifle range in armory.

This company has been thoroughly reorganized, and it made a very handsome appearance at inspection; it is in excellent condition generally, and on the high road to prosperity, and if the present policy is continued, it is safe to predict that in a short time it will be among the best companies in the State. The commanding officer is one of the best young officers in the service, and under his command the company must prosper. The drill that followed muster was excellent throughout, careful instruction was given in every movement and all errors immediately corrected. The non-commissioned officers are a particularly fine lot of young men, and very capable.

All extra property well cared for. All books correctly kept, and very neat. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to March 17, 1896, 70.97; much too low, but it does not indicate present condition of the company.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers handsomely and uniformly dressed.

General appearance at inspection not altogether satisfactory; many trousers need cleaning and pressing; equipments in fair condition only, and considerable improvement must take place in this respect. Too many absentees from muster. Drill very ragged and lacking in snap. Officers should put more life into their commands. No instruction given during drill, and many errors committed without correction. The assistant surgeon should perform his duties in a more satisfactory manner.

Lockers too small to care for uniforms properly.

Books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from September 30, 1895, to March 20, 1896 (25 events), 70.74; very low and unsatisfactory.

Armory neat and clean but in an unfinished state, and much is needed to complete it as it should be.

This company was found to be in generally good condition, excepting the large number of absentees. Drill which followed muster good, but file closers should wake up and attend to their duties.

Extra property not well cared for; blankets and mess kits still unmarked.

Books.— Order and journal books correctly kept; letter book does not contain copies of all official letters; descriptive book shows only minor errors; report book, record of events not kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to March 10, 1896 (20 events), 74.10; much too low, and an improvement must take place.

Repairs to the armory going on at the time of inspection, which accounted for untidiness, but was no excuse for dirty condition of gun racks and the spitting about halls, locker room and drill floor; this must stop.

With 100 per cent. present for inspection, the general appearance of this company was good, but the men should take care of their equipments and roll their overcoats, and not depend upon armory employes to do it for them. It is among the first duties of a soldier to personally care for all property issued to him. Manual of arms at inspection poor, and considerable unsteadiness noticeable, reflecting upon the discipline of the company. Drill very ragged. All the officers should wake up and put some life into their commands, principally the second lieutenant. No instruction was given or errors corrected, causing the drill to be generally unsatisfactory. There can be no excuse if this company does not improve very much from this time forth; it has the best armory in the State among the separate companies.

A great effort should be made to improve the personnel of the company, and there should be no trouble with such inducements as they have to offer in securing recruits from among the best young men in the town. There is some improvement in the company over last year, but there is more left to be accomplished to bring the officers, non-commissioned officers and men up to the required standard.

Loading and firing only fair.

Armory neat and clean; lockers handsomely and uniformly dressed; all property in good condition, but should be kept in room provided for that purpose. The rifle range is in frequent use.

Books.—No journal; order book correct; letter book, no blank forms copied; descriptive book correct; report book correctly kept except the record of events shows only changes. Average percentage of duty performed from November 18, 1895, to April 2, 1896 (21 events), 79.61, which should also be improved.

The general appearance of this company was good, and the unsteadiness which was so marked last year has almost disappeared; there is still room for improvement, however. Manual of arms at inspection only fair. Drill following muster was very ragged, and no corrections were made or instructions given, both of which were much needed. Alignments and distances very poor, and no finish to any of the movements. The fault for all this is with the officers; not with the men. Manual of arms poor; loading and firing, standing, good; position of men while kneeling very poor; platoon drill was full of errors in commands.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers not uniformly dressed; all extra property well cared for.

Shoulder straps of the assistant surgeon and the cap of the first lieutenant not according to regulations.

Books — No journal; order, letter, descriptive and report books correctly kept and very neat. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 10, 1895, to April 23, 1896 (24 events), 76.58; too low and should improve.

This company ranks with the best in the State; excelled by none, equaled by few. The appearance of the men at inspection was perfect, and the discipline of the best. Manual of arms at muster not correctly performed. Drill which followed muster was excellent throughout. All officers of a high class and the non-commissioned officers intelligent, competent and vigilant in the performance of their duties.

Armory neat and clean; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed; all extra property well cared for under an excellent system. Armory rifle range in frequent use.

Men should clean their own equipments and roll their overcoats; not have it done for them by armory employes.

Assembly 12 minutes late.

This company has a remarkable record; for seven years out of the past eight at the annual inspections it has paraded 100 per cent. with a maximum strength, six years of which have been successive. For the last three tours of camp duty, and at field service last year, and during the great strike at Buffalo, it has paraded the same — a maximum company, all present. Summed up briefly “it is a perfect organization, ably commanded.”

Books.— All well and accurately kept. Average percentage of duty performed from November 13, 1895, to March 26, 1896 (17 events), 92.37; very high.

At inspection the general appearance of this company was very good, and at drill a remarkable improvement has taken place since last year; all that was objectionable at that time, and regarding which criticism was justly made, has disappeared and, in its place was found a first-class organization in every particular. The work was full of life, snap and a fine finish. All officers and non-commissioned officers bright, intelligent and vigilant. There is every evidence of very hard work having been done, which has brought the company once more to a condition where it is at its best. Manual of arms very fine; loading and firing excellent. This company now ranks with the best in the State.

Books.—All well and accurately kept. Average percentage of duty performed from November 1, 1895, to April 6, 1896 (27 events), 88.50; very high.

Armory neat and clean, except garret, which is full of rubbish which should be cleaned out at once. Rifle range pit full of water, its condition for the last 18 months. All extra property well cared for; lockers well dressed.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was unsatisfactory; many parts of uniforms were dirty and in need of pressing, and the condition of equipments far below the standard required. That the armorer is obliged to clean the equipments and take care of uniforms is a great mistake, which must not be continued. Each man should be required to care for and keep clean and polished all clothing and equipments issued to him; it is among the important duties of a soldier to do this.

The drill was in strong contrast to the appearance of the men; it was excellent throughout, showing intelligence on the part of all officers and non-commissioned officers and every evidence that careful instruction had been given to the men.

All books correct and well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 8, 1895, to March 10, 1896 (20 events), 86.39; a very creditable showing.

All extra property particularly well cared for.

Armory, such as it is (long ago condemned), clean and well cared for. This company should have a new armory as soon as possible. Lockers uniformly and neatly dressed.

This company was in a good condition, generally, and showed a net gain of six in aggregate over last inspection. The drill following the inspection and muster was not as satisfactory as the abilities of the officers would lead one to expect; the principal criticism being, that attention to detail is not observed, consequently the movements are too often raggedly executed. A correction of this fault upon the part of all the officers will soon make the drill first-class. The books, likewise, require more care and attention to make them satisfactory. Average percentage present from November 12, 1895, to April 7, 1896 (19 events), 86.08, which is very commendable and shows close attention to duty upon the part of all.

Armory very clean and well cared for.

This company made an excellent appearance, and everything about uniforms and equipments was A1. Manual of arms at inspection excellent. A great improvement has taken place in this company since last inspection, both in appearance and drill, the former being perfect, and the latter full of snap and vim, so noticeably absent last year. Officers and non-commissioned officers bright, quick and intelligent.

Percentage of duty performed by company from beginning of drill season to date of inspection, 88.22; an excellent record.

Books.— Report book well kept, except that alterations are not noted in record of events; order and descriptive books correct; letter book well kept, except that all blank forms are not copied.

A new armory is now being built; present quarters very neat and clean.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was very good, showing considerable improvement over last year in condition of equipments, etc.

Armory neat and clean. Rifle-range but little used. Lockers kept in a disorderly manner, which was commented upon last year; there is no excuse for not keeping them uniformly dressed.

Men very steady, and manual of arms good; drill following muster very good; all officers and non-commissioned officers competent; loading and firing excellent, and the feature of the occasion; extended order drill by section very good.

Books.—No journal; order book, all orders not copied therein; letter book correct; descriptive book, the records of the non-commissioned officers are not complete; report book correct, but shows four chronic absentees; deadwood should not be carried on the roll. Average percentage of duty performed from October 17, 1895, to April 22, 1896 (26 events), 74.67; much too low.

This company shows remarkable improvement and is very near first class, and it requires a small effort only to place it there. With 100 per cent. present for inspection, all were found in splendid condition; all parts of uniforms and equipments, and the adjustment of the same, being very satisfactory. The drill that followed was almost faultless, and of excellent character throughout; all officers and non-commissioned officers diligently attending to their duties; the men very steady and attentive. The commanding officer deserves special commendation; although he has been in the service 30 years, he has not allowed himself to fall into a rut, but is up-to-date in every respect, and as anxious to learn and improve as an enthusiastic beginner. It is a great pleasure to inspect this company. Books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from November 11, 1895, to March 2, 1896 (18 events), 79.96, which should improve some.

Armory neat and clean, and lockers, while very neatly kept, are lacking in uniformity in some small details. All extra property well cared for under an excellent system. Ponchos still unmarked.

This is a very good company, making an excellent appearance at inspection, and it is deserving of encouragement. Officers and non-commissioned officers bright and intelligent. Considering the size of the drill room (60x30 feet), the drill was generally of an excellent character.

To make this company useful and effective, a new armory should be erected by the State as soon as possible. The lighting of the drill room, both this year and last, was miserable, and this matter must receive prompt attention.

All extra property well cared for.

Books well kept, except that the commanding officer has not signed the reports of 17 events. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to February 17, 1896, 73.47, which is unsatisfactory. No deadwood should be carried upon the rolls, but a way found to be rid of chronic absentees.

This company established a reputation many years ago for general excellence, which has been uninterruptedly maintained up to the present time. The appearance of the men at inspection this year, with 100 per cent. present, was exceedingly fine. Manual of arms at inspection and muster, excellent; men very steady; the adjustment of equipments, particularly packs and the rolling of the overcoats thereon, was the best in the State. The drill that followed was a perfect exhibition throughout, all officers and non-commissioned officers being of a high order of efficiency.

Armory rifle range now in frequent use. Company quarters neat and clean; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed; all extra property well cared for.

Books all neatly and accurately kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to April 24, 1896 (31 events), 81.37; very good.

General appearance at inspection good, and condition of equipments much improved since last year.

Great care should be taken in the selection of a first sergeant; he should at all times be a model soldier and an example for all the others.

Manual of arms at inspection good; at drill very poor; careful instruction is necessary. Close order movements very ragged, largely accountable to small drill room, which is no excuse, however, for poor manual of arms. Loading and firing excellent, and a strong redeeming feature of the night's work. Recruits should be fully equipped the same as the rest of the company at inspection.

Drills should be commenced October 1st, and continued for six months at least.

Armory neat and clean; lockers too small to dress uniformly; rifle range but little used; extra property well cared for.

Books.— No journal; order and letter books correct; descriptive book, some minor errors; report book, record of events not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from January 6, 1896, to April 27, 1896 (17 events), 66.32; very low and unsatisfactory.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was very good excepting the cartridge boxes, which were very dirty and unsatisfactory. It is among the first and important duties of a soldier to take care of the uniform and equipments issued to him, and not depend upon the armory employes to do it. This custom prevails in this company, and it must not be continued; this applies to the rolling of overcoats as well.

Drill following muster very good, some few small errors which should be corrected at once. Manual of arms very good.

Armory very clean; all extra property well cared for; lockers neatly and uniformly dressed; rifle range made proper use of, and records of practice kept. Officers and non-commissioned officers all bright and competent.

Books.—No journal or letter book; order book not correct; descriptive book poorly kept; report book not signed by the commanding officer or first sergeant since July, 1895. An improvement in care of books must take place; there is no excuse for the present poor condition in view of criticisms at last inspection and the instruction then given. Average percentage of duty performed from October 21, 1895, to March 27, 1896 (24 events), 64.76; very low, but in a manner excusable considering surrounding business conditions.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was very good; the men were steady during the ceremony, and the manual of "inspection arms" was particularly good.

Notwithstanding the company has been without the benefit of the captain's services during almost the entire drill season, he being absent on leave since November 11th, the drill that followed the inspection and muster was noticeable for its snap and finish; and reflected the highest credit upon the ability and energy of Lieutenants North and Martin.

While a large loss (15) is shown in the aggregate strength since last muster, I consider the company in a more healthy condition today than at that time, as the loss is mainly that of the "deadwood" that has been carried for some time.

The books show no improvement over last year; the errors pointed out at that time not having been corrected. Average percentage present from October 7, 1895, to April 6, 1896 (27 events), 74.52.

Armory clean and neat; part of it being occupied as a school. A new armory is in course of construction.

This company shows marked improvement over last year in every particular. It presented an exceedingly neat appearance at inspection; uniforms, equipments, and adjustment of same, being very satisfactory. Drill somewhat ragged, but all officers and non-commissioned officers fully competent; and the men attentive and steady.

All extra property well cared for under an excellent system; lockers handsomely dressed, and contents very neat and clean.

Much credit is due this company for the attention given to armory rifle practice under the supervision of Lieutenant McKay.

Books.—No journal kept; order book correct; letter book correct; descriptive book, only minor errors; report book correct, but shows 10 chronic absentees, deadwood which should be disposed of without delay. Average percentage of duty performed from beginning of drill season to February 24, 1896 (16 events), 69.73, which is very low and unsatisfactory: A great improvement must take place in this particular. There were also too many absentees at inspection, both this year and last.

Considerable improvement has taken place in the appearance of this company since last year, also in the drill, but much remains to be accomplished to bring it up to the required standard; the indications are, that this improvement will take place.

Extra property not well cared for, but scattered around armory; a great improvement can be made in this particular; lockers uniformly and neatly dressed, a great improvement over last year.

The filthy habit of spitting around armory floors and galleries still continues, which is both disgusting and inexcusable.

Books.— Journal, letter and descriptive books correct; order book not signed; report book not signed by commanding officer for a year and a half. Average percentage of duty performed from November 8, 1895, to April 2, 1896 (21 events), 77.53; too low, and should be improved. Deadwood should not be carried on the roll, and men should not be enlisted who are likely to be called to do night work as a means of livelihood.

General appearance good, an improvement over last year. Men must clean their equipments and roll their overcoats, and personally care for property issued to them, and not depend upon armory employes to do it for them. The fact that a member of the company is armorer does not excuse him from drill; he must perform his duty with the rest of the company, or be discharged from the service; it is all wrong to carry a man upon the roll under such circumstances. Weekly drills must not be curtailed or dispensed with in order to hold meetings. Drills should commence October 1st, and continue weekly until close of drill season. This company has had but 18 drills in twenty-two weeks; this will largely account for the very poor drill that followed inspection, which places the company in the line with those that have not improved since last year, or profited by the oral and written instructions given at that time. During the drill no instruction was given by the officers, neither were the many errors corrected, consequently the responsibility for the very poor work rests solely with the officers. Much unsteadiness and inattention were noticeable during inspection and muster, which was the case last year, and attention was called to it at that time; it is a severe reflection upon the discipline of the company.

Recruits were not fully equipped; in this respect there should be no distinction between them and other men in the company.

This company is far below the required standard generally.

Books.—No journal; order and letter books correct; descriptive book not in good condition, should be re-written; report book correct. Average percentage of duty performed from November 4, 1895, to March 30, 1896 (18 events), 78.12; too low.

The appearance of this company at inspection was generally good, and an improvement over last year. Ornaments on caps should be uniform in character; recruits should be fully equipped, same as the rest of the company. It is a mistake to make members of the company armory employes.

Drill very good, and a great improvement over last year, particularly in steadiness, manual of arms, and loading and firing; the latter was excellent.

Armory neat and clean, and lockers uniformly dressed; extra property well cared for. Outside wall of armory in need of immediate repair, also outside door leading to cellar.

Books.—No journal; order and report books correct; letter book correct, with the exception that letters should be addressed to heads of departments, not to the assistants. The records of the non-commissioned officers are not entered in the present descriptive book.

This company has gone back since last inspection, and is now in a condition not altogether satisfactory. The drill which followed inspection was only fair; no fault of the men, but the fault is with the officers, who have failed to profit by the instruction given last year, and which was followed by written instruction later on, and which evidently received no attention. Loading and firing, very poor; officers and non-commissioned officers must study up. All deadwood upon the roll must be disposed of at once, and a much better percentage of attendance of duty must succeed the very poor one now prevailing.

All extra property well cared for and in good condition; lockers neatly and uniformly dressed.

Books.—No journal kept; order and letter books correct; descriptive book only fairly well kept; report book has not been signed by the commanding officer since April 30, 1894, and the first sergeant omitted doing the same since September 8, 1894. This book is kept in a very untidy manner, and shows that 33 1-3 per cent. of the company is deadwood. The record of events is not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 7, 1895, to February 14, 1896 (21 events), 63.27; very bad and unsatisfactory.

This company, excelled by none in the State, keeps up its record for perfection in appearance, uniforms, equipment, drill, and care of extra property.

Drill excellent in every detail, and loading and firing perfect. In 45 minutes every movement in the school of the company, manual of arms, and loading and firing was performed in the most finished style. All officers and non-commissioned officers bright, quick and intelligent.

Attention is called to R. 512.

Books.— Report book shows no record of events; order and letter books correct; descriptive book not well kept; shows six duty sergeants, twenty-one corporals, and other errors.

Average percentage of duty performed from November 4, 1895, to February 4, 1896 (11 events), 84.05.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was excellent, and in this respect equal to any in the State. A very gratifying improvement has taken place since last year, particularly in the drill, which was generally good, only lacking finish to make it first-class. Loading and firing excellent; manual of arms good. All officers very competent.

Armory neat and clean; all extra property in good condition and well cared for under an excellent system; lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed.

Books.— No journal; order, letter and descriptive books correct; report book the same, except that record of events is not kept. Average percentage of duty performed from September 2, 1895, to April 15, 1896 (36 events), 70.75; much too low and unsatisfactory.

This company shows a large loss in numbers since last inspection, and while its well known and deserved reputation for general excellence is apparent, the drill that followed inspection was not up to the usual high standard for which it has been renowned. All officers and non-commissioned officers bright and intelligent.

Lockers handsomely dressed, and all extra property well cared for under good system.

Books well kept. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to March 6, 1896 (22 events), 81.64.

Company quarters very clean.

Note.— Since the date of inspection this company has materially increased its membership, and now (September 30th) numbers 101 officers and men.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was good, and an improvement over last year. Some further improvement can be made in condition of cartridge boxes, and men must clean and care for all property issued to them at all times, and not have it done for them by armory employes. Manual of arms at inspection and muster very poor, during which time there was considerable unsteadiness. Recruits should have been fully equipped same as the rest of the company. The drill that followed muster in close order movements in the school of the company very good; manual of arms very poor, and considerable instruction is necessary to bring it up to the standard; loading and firing excellent, except position of men when kneeling; platoon movements excellent. All officers, in point of efficiency, of a high class.

Armory neat and clean; all extra property well care for; lockers uniformly dressed, but the system a very poor one.

Books.— No journal; order book correct; letter book, no letters entered since September 5, 1895, and no blank forms copied at all; descriptive book in a very unsatisfactory condition; it is impossible to tell what non-commissioned officers now hold office according to the records; report book not signed by the first sergeant in two years, and the record of events not properly kept. One sergeant has been present for drill only three times since September 5, 1895, and one lance corporal but 10 times in 33 events. It is astonishing that such men are carried upon the roll and warranted. Average percentage of duty performed from September 5, 1895, to April 30, 1896 (33 events), 84.53; very good.

The general appearance of this company at inspection was good, but more care should be given to properly brushing all parts of uniforms and pressing and cleaning trousers. During inspection and muster some unsteadiness was noticeable. Under the circumstances, the drill that followed was very good. The company has been without a head practically for nearly six months, and under such a condition of things, the inspection, as a whole, was a satisfactory one, and there is every reason to believe that under the new order of things just established it will progress, and the State in a manner repaid for the liberality shown this command.

New armory (just completed) neat and clean; all extra property well cared for under good system; lockers not uniformly dressed, and a system must be established at once.

Books.—No journal; all other books well and accurately kept. Average percentage of duty performed from March 25th to April 15, 1896 (7 events), 75.66; much too low.

This company again paraded 100 per cent. present for inspection. It has about held its own since last year in all particulars, although the drill that followed muster was not up to the standard of last year, and was considerably marred by inattention and talking in the ranks.

All commissioned officers (four) not properly equipped, each wearing a full dress belt with fatigue uniforms.

Extra property very poorly cared for, and dirty; a good system should be established at once; lockers uniformly dressed.

Books.—No journal; orders not kept in book; letter book correct; descriptive book, a few minor errors; report book not signed by first sergeant since January 1, and no dates and orders of alterations in record of events. Average percentage of duty performed from October 1, 1895, to February 25, 1896 (22 events), 79.72; very good, considering the nature of employment of many of the members.

Armory neat and clean. There is no rifle range, which is much to be regretted.

All officers and non-commissioned officers competent and intelligent, but file closers should pay more attention to their duties.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE SQUADRON.

This organization was inspected mounted at Van Cortlandt park. The ceremony of review which preceded the inspection was rendered in fine style, and the passages at walk, trot and gallop were excellent, and the expressed opinions of experts who witnessed the ceremony were very complimentary, and that the whole performance was equal to the best of our regular troops.

The general appearance of the squadron at inspection was very satisfactory, and the drill that followed was excellent throughout, indicating careful instruction and a high order of discipline.

Armory neat and clean, and all extra property well cared for. More attention should be given to the dressing of lockers; a good system should be established and maintained at all times; this applies particularly to Troop 1.

Books.— Headquarters' books and records are all properly kept, the few errors noted last year having been corrected, except that no roster is provided, which is an omission that will be immediately rectified.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped.

Average percentage of attendance at drill (two troops) from October 1, 1895, to May 9, 1896, 89.29; excellent.

TROOP 1, CAPTAIN OLIVER B. BRIDGMAN.

A handsome gain in numbers is noted over last inspection.

The general appearance on this occasion was excellent, and an improvement over last year.

The general appearance of this troop at this, its first annual inspection, was very satisfactory; and there can be no doubt as to its future. It is certain to become one of the best organizations in the State. Officers and men are to be congratulated upon the progress made in such a short time after entering the service and becoming a part of the National Guard.

Some unsteadiness was noticeable during inspection; manual of the sabre very poor — sabres should be returned as soon as inspected — boxes need more care. Review and drill, while very ragged, may be rated good, under the present conditions and circumstances, and altogether a very creditable performance.

All books very carefully kept. Average percentage of duty performed from December 16, 1895, to May 1, 1896 (21 events), 89.79; excellent.

The appearance of this corps, which paraded 100 per cent. for inspection, was first-class in every respect; uniforms, arms and equipment in good condition, the former well fitted to the men, and the latter handsomely adjusted.

A short drill followed muster, all the movements being well executed. An exhibition was then given in the special work of a signal corps, a feature being reconnoissance work and map drawing by telegraphy.

Quarters neat and clean, and lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed under a good system. Signal apparatus all in excellent condition; also all horse equipments. Blankets and ponchos not marked.

The journal, order, letter, and descriptive books are correctly kept; the report book is correct, except the manner of recording changes. Average percentage of duty performed from October 10, 1895, to March 5, 1896 (21 events), 90.34; very satisfactory.

Supplementary to the annual inspection, which took place at the armory March 10, 1896, this corps was inspected mounted at Van Cortlandt Park on the afternoon of May 23d, making a very handsome appearance. Considering the limited opportunity which they have for mounted drill and the large number of untried horses used on this occasion, the drill was of an excellent character throughout. This affair was undertaken at the expense of the members of the corps, and they are deserving of much credit for their enterprise and devotion to the State.

One hundred per cent. present. This is an exceptionally fine organization. No officer in the National Guard can appreciate it, understand it, or realize the importance of this arm of the service unless he visits it and observes its work. The disposition, in some quarters, to overlook it is absurd.

This corps contains an exceptionally fine lot of men physically, all making a very handsome, neat and trim appearance at inspection; everything bright and clean, and uniforms well fitted.

An exhibition followed muster in marching, flag drill, manual of the pistol and sabre, signaling with flags, heliograph, telephone and telegraph, and map drawing by signaling. A signal tower was constructed, which was a very interesting and clever piece of work.

This corps has been provided with commodious quarters which are kept very clean. Horse equipments and signaling apparatus

Officers competent to a high degree; non-commissioned officers bright and intelligent.

A handsome gain in aggregate strength since last muster is noted, and with 100 per cent. present, the general appearance of this corps was very good. Arms, uniforms and equipments in excellent condition and well adjusted. Manual of the carbine, pistol and sabre at inspection very good. Foot drill, following muster, very good throughout, and manual of the carbine, pistol and sabre excellent, also the loadings and firings with carbine and pistol. An exhibition then followed in special work of the signal corps, consisting of signaling by ascending and descending ball, flash lantern, collapsing drum, semaphore, heliograph, hand lantern, flags, telephone, telegraph, whistle and Graham-Meyer torch, and map drawing by telegraphy; all of which was very interesting, and thoroughly done.

This is an excellent organization and rapidly improving; is made of good material, the personnel being first class.

The books are accurately and carefully kept. (No journal.)

Average percentage of duty performed from October 3, 1895, to May 2, 1896 (28 events), 86.98; which is excellent, and very satisfactory.

This corps was mustered into service April, 1895, and is yet without quarters, which the supervisors of Erie county have failed to furnish as required by law, therefore, the members are still ununiformed; consequently, were inspected in citizens' dress. An effort is now being made to provide them with an armory. Officers and men deserve much credit for keeping together in the face of such discouraging conditions.

An exhibition of their work was given in signaling by flags, lanterns and telegraph. A message of sixty-nine words was sent by flag in 29 minutes.

Percentage of duty performed, 69.92.

Arms, uniforms and equipments, and the adjustment of the same, were faultless. Guns and caissons, equipment and implements, battery wagon and forge and equipment, harness and horse equipments, all were in an absolutely perfect condition, indicating the great care that is given this property.

Foot drill very good; standing gun drill excellent.

The horse collars furnished by the State are all too small and can not be used; metal collars are recommended.

Armory neat and clean; all extra property in good condition and well cared for, but lockers were not uniformly dressed, and many parts of uniforms and equipments are not kept as they should be.

The general appearance of the men of this battery was excellent, and an improvement over last year.

The horse equipments have been in use nearly 25 years and are in an unserviceable condition and, in some respects, dangerous to use. I earnestly recommend that new equipment be issued before going to camp. All extra property in good condition and well cared for.

The armory is now undergoing extensive repairs and alterations which, when finished, will make it complete in all respects.

Foot movements and sabre drill excellent; standing gun drill good, but some unsteadiness noticeable, which must be overcome to make the drill first class.

Carbines, pistols, Gatling guns and howitzers all in excellent condition.

All books very neatly and accurately kept, except that the manner of recording alterations in the record of events is not the proper one; the alterations, however, are fully explained. Average percentage of attendance at drills from October 7, 1895, to May 12, 1896 (11 events), 87.51; excellent. Alterations of armory prevented a larger number of drills.

General appearance only fair; no attention to many small details in matter of cleanliness. This battery can not compare favorably in any respect with the other batteries of the State, and a general reorganization is necessary to save it from disbandment.

* * * * *

Much unsteadiness was noticeable during inspection and muster; and talking as well. In view of above facts, the drill was a gratifying surprise—foot drill, standing gun drill and sabre drill being all very good.

Quarters clean; lockers not uniformly dressed; extra property in fair condition; harness and horse equipment (very old) in good condition, with room for further improvements in its care. Guns, two Napoleons and two howitzers, in good condition. Gun carriages and caissons need painting.

Books.— Order book not correct; no journal; letter book correct; descriptive book generally well kept, but some records not complete; report book correct.

General appearance excellent, and men very steady during inspection and muster; manual of the pistol and sabre good. Guns and caissons, equipments and implements, battery wagon and forge and equipments, harness and horse equipments, all in excellent condition. All extra property particularly well cared for under an excellent system.

Foot drill excellent; non-commissioned officers very bright and quick; standing gun drill very good.

It is recommended that canvas working suits be issued to men, and steel collars for horses to replace the leather ones now in use, as the latter are too small and can not be used.

Books are all correctly kept, except that the report book has not been signed by the commanding officer and the first sergeant this season, and the record of events not properly kept. Average percentage of duty performed from November 8, 1895, to May 1, 1896 (26 events), 74.08; much too low.

Armory very neat and clean. Extensive alterations now going on. Quarters clean, and lockers uniformly and handsomely dressed.

REMARKS ON CONDITION OF THE BATTALION.

The general appearance of this battalion was a great improvement over last year, and altogether very satisfactory. The condition of arms, uniforms and equipments, and the adjustment of same, was generally excellent. The United States ship "New Hampshire," upon which this organization is quartered, was a model of cleanliness and good order. Equipment of ship throughout in first class condition; all extra property in good condition. Surgeon's department under an excellent system, and the best equipped of any organization in the National Guard.

Manual of arms at inspection generally poor; men very steady.

Books show a decided improvement over last year, and are now in a very satisfactory condition. It is evident that much care and attention are bestowed upon them. Average percentage of attendance at drills from about November 12, 1895, to May 9, 1896 (22 events each, four divisions), 84.41; excellent. Second division leads with 86.67, and the third division is lowest with 80.53.

Field, staff and non-commissioned staff all properly uniformed and equipped.

FIRST DIVISION, LIEUTENANT ROBERT PIERPONT FORSHEW.

The general appearance of this division was excellent, and a marked improvement over last year. The condition of arms, uniforms and equipments was generally satisfactory.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers much too small to dress uniformly.

Books are now correctly kept, and show a great improvement over last inspection. The record of events in the report book must explain the cause of each assemblage, not those of the battalion alone. Average percentage of attendance at drills from November 11, 1895, to May 9, 1896 (22 events), 84.96; excellent.

Percentage present at muster, 93.51.

SECOND DIVISION, LIEUTENANT EDWIN CARNES WEEKS.

With 100 per cent. present for muster, the general appearance of this division was excellent, and a great improvement over last year. Manual of arms poor; men steady.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers too small to dress uniformly.

Books neatly and, with very few exceptions, accurately kept. The alterations in the reports must be noted in the report and be fully explained in the record of events. Average percentage of attendance at drills from November 12, 1895, to May 9, 1896 (22 events), 86.67; excellent, and the highest in the battalion.

THIRD DIVISION, LIEUTENANT WILLIAM BUTLER DUNCAN, JR.

The general appearance of this division was excellent, and a great improvement over last year. The condition of arms, uniforms and equipments, and the adjustment of same, was very satisfactory.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers too small to dress uniformly. Men steady during inspection and muster.

The books are all in a very satisfactory condition, and are very neatly kept. Dates and orders of changes must be given in the record of events in the report book. Average percentage of attendance at drills from November 13, 1895, to May 9, 1896 (23 events), 80.53; good, but lowest in the battalion.

Percentage present at muster, 94.87.

FOURTH DIVISION, LIEUTENANT WILLIAM HENRY STAYTON.

The general appearance of this division and the condition of arms, uniforms and equipments, and the adjustment of same, were excellent, and a great improvement over last year. Manual of arms poor; men very steady.

Quarters neat and clean; lockers too small to dress uniformly.

Books.— The failure to use the letter book should be corrected at once; a few minor errors were noted in the descriptive book; the record of events in the report book must show the cause for every assemblage of the division — not those of the battalion only, and all alterations in reports must be explained by names, dates and orders of the changes. The books are very neatly kept. Average percentage of attendance at drills from November 14, 1895, to May 9, 1896 (22 events), 85.50; excellent.

The floor of the armory was arranged to represent the deck of a ship, and routine ship work was performed in an excellent manner as far as I am capable of judging.

All officers are very intelligent and very enthusiastic in their work. All property well cared for. Quarters very small and cramped.

Infantry drill, under command of Lieutenant Enos, excellent throughout.

Books.— No letter or journal books kept; order book correct; descriptive book shows only a few minor errors; report book well kept, except that alterations are not noted in the record of events. # Report of Colonel Goodman James Greene, Assistant Inspector-General.

STATE OF NEW YORK.

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
ALBANY, September 30, 1896. }

INSPECTOR-GENERAL, S. N. Y., Albany:

Sir.—I have the honor to submit the following report on the special duties assigned me during the current year in compliance with orders received from you:

BOOKS AND RECORDS.

As in 1895, I inspected the books and records of every organization in the State, and it is a pleasure for me to report to you that a very radical change for the better was noted in this important matter. Commanding officers have realized the necessity of giving more personal attention to this part of their duties, with the result that official books and records are now so kept that they are of value to the organization and the State. In a few rare instances only have officers failed to follow the advice and instruction given last year, and it is almost useless to state that the same unsatisfactory and unwarranted condition prevails as did at that time. In one separate company the report book had not been written up, apparently, since the previous inspection, as was indicated by the freshness of the entries; by the fact that some events were not entered at all, and that none of the totals proved; showing that no care whatever had been taken, and that the most important record of the company was utterly valueless. The reports of the annual inspections and musters also show that a number of companies have neglected to procure and use the required letter book; and that in other companies the blank forms of letters were not copied therein, although particular attention was invited to this omission at the last inspection. The report and descriptive books, as a whole, are much more accurately kept now than ever before, while the neatness called for, where lacking last year, has been shown.

As I have said before, the general improvement this year is in such marked contrast with the condition that prevailed at last inspection that it is worthy of note, and demonstrates that it is only necessary to call officers' attention to their shortcomings to have them rectified. In no organization has greater improvement been shown than in the Seventh Regiment. At last inspection but one company in this regiment kept the books required by law; this year every company presented them for inspection, and they were found to be in a very satisfactory condition, and the few errors of omission and commission were promised speedy correction. For this gratifying state of affairs much credit is due the regimental adjutant, who promptly took the matter in hand upon receipt of last year's report, and, under instructions from his commanding officer, thoroughly instructed all the first sergeants in their duties in this respect. This instruction has been followed by frequent inspections by the adjutant, and the consequence is that the books and records are now a credit to the regiment. The policy of inspecting the company books several times during the year has been inaugurated by other regimental commanders with great success; and in one regiment prizes have been bestowed for the neatest and most accurately kept set of company books; all of which tends to improve that part of important official work that has heretofore been sadly neglected; and it is a source of great satisfaction to be able to commend both officers and men who have charge of this work for the diligence and earnestness they have exhibited in carrying out instructions and suggestions made last year.

I renew the recommendation made in my last report, that company commanders insist upon their subalterns making themselves familiar with the sedentary duties of the company, and that duty sergeants be also instructed therein, so that in the absence of any one having charge of the books and records, the work will not be delayed or incorrectly performed.

An innovation made this year, and one which I believe will tend to correct what might be termed an evil, was that of publishing on the muster-rolls the average percentage of duty performed by each organization for the drill season. The evil mentioned is that of carrying the names of men on the roll who do little or no duty, and the only reason why these men are not gotten rid of is, that commanding officers fear to rid their companies of this "dead-wood," because it would reduce them in numbers below the minimum prescribed by law, and thereby possibly threaten them with disbandment; or else from a sense of pride a captain feels that he wants to maintain the strength of his command at a point it has held for a number of years, regardless of the conditions that may prevail; while in some companies men who have served their original term of enlistment are granted certain privileges in immunity from attending drills that can not but work disadvantage to the company. There is no more reason in excusing such men from their sworn duty than there is in excusing recruits or those who have not finished their terms of enlistment. In no regiment in the service is the average length of service as large as in the Seventh, and yet men who have served twenty years or more are compelled to attend every kind of duty as faithfully as the newest recruit, and when they find that they can not do so — or tire of so doing — they are requested to make way for others who will; and this is proven in the extraordinary percentage of attendance of the ten companies for the last drill season, which was 91.36. No one factor has done more towards making the Seventh Regiment what it is than this devotion to duty on the part of every man in it, and it is one that is worthy of serious consideration on the part of other commanding officers, both regimental and company.

A small company of duty-doing men is much more efficient and valuable to the State than a much larger one with from 15 to 40 per cent. of chronic absentees.

INSPECTION OF DRILLS IN THE SECOND BRIGADE.

Commencing November 11, 1895, I inspected a drill of every company in the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Twenty-third, and Forty-seventh Regiments, of the Second Brigade. These drills were conducted in the same manner as has been observed at the annual inspection of the separate companies the past two years, and, judging from the voluntary opinions expressed by the officers directly concerned, I am led to believe that this innovation has also been of practical benefit and productive of much good; and one that should not only be continued but extended in its scope. It must be borne in mind that when officers and men give their service gratuitously to the State—in fact pay for the privilege of belonging to the National Guard—that the amount of time that they can spare from their daily vocation for the study and performance of their many duties is necessarily limited, and it is a source of wonder, under the circumstances, that such a very large proportion of the officers are so truly competent. Of the balance, some are capable of and should do better work, while a very few will never be officers except in name, as they are lacking in all the essentials necessary to command men, and they should, therefore, not continue in a service to which they are not adapted.

By reason of this want of sufficient time for study on the part of the officers of the Guard, it must be apparent to the most skeptical how useful a trained corps of inspectors and instructors—men who give their entire time to such work—could be made in bettering this condition by means of supervision, instruction and advice; and the expressed wish of both field and line officers that the present system had been inaugurated years ago and the hope that it may be continued and enlarged is the best evidence of its worth and popularity. It would also seem that these officers should be given the assistance they thus desire as an encouragement for the much they sacrifice in serving the State.

One of the principal criticisms I have to make as the result of my observations at these drills is, that there is a lack of uniformity in executing a number of movements, even in companies of the same regiment. This is caused by the failure on the part of commanding officers to have frequent schools of theoretical instruction for both officers and non-commissioned officers. All men do not read and construe the same subject alike, and it is the province of the commanding officer to decide any such differences of opinion and thus secure uniformity in execution throughout his command. This can best be done at theoretical schools, which should be conducted by an officer best qualified for such work; and I mean by that not only an officer who knows his book thoroughly, but who can impart instruction in a clear, concise and interesting manner. Some people are more gifted in this way than others, and if it should happen that a junior officer is the best in the regiment for this duty he should be detailed to conduct these schools under the direction of the commanding officer. These schools should be progressive in their character and not alone cover the drill regulations and other text books, but study of the military code, regulations and all sedentary duties.

Another cause of this lack of uniformity is, that company commanders are given too much latitude in conducting their drills without proper direction and supervision by regimental headquarters. It seems to me that much better results would be attained if regimental commanders would prescribe the programme that all the companies were to follow at each drill, and also have one field officer present thereat to correct errors and give such assistance as the occasion might require. Where this system has been adopted great improvement has been shown in the entire regiment.

Some of the poor company work I witnessed was due to the fact that recruits were put in the ranks before they had been properly instructed in the recruit class—in some cases no instruction in the school of the soldier having been previously given. This is a serious mistake and one that should not be allowed to continue. The question of regimental or company recruits classes is one on which there is a wide difference of opinion. I am of the opinion, however, that the regimental class is the only proper one if uniformity of instruction is desired, and for this important work only the very best non-commissioned officers should be detailed, who should be supervised by an officer of acknowledged ability, for the reason that a soldier who has been improperly instructed at the beginning of his service is a hard man to correct in his errors when he is transferred to the ranks of his company.

The set up of many of the troops is not as good as it should be, and on this subject, also there is much argument pro and con. By many it is claimed that the few minutes that can be given each week to the setting up exercises will produce no appreciable benefit, as the men will not follow it up with daily practice; while others contend that ten or fifteen minutes devoted to the drill, if only once a week, but done in a thorough and not perfunctory manner, will give gratifying improvement. With the latter I perfectly agree, and I speak from my own experience as a former company commander. To those who have not done so I would suggest that they give this drill a fair trial, for I am sure they will be pleased with the result. Another thing developed by these inspections was, that what should be the strongest feature of instruction was by far the weakest, viz.: the fire drill. That soldiers should be taught how to use their rifles effectively is the most important part of their education, but it is no less important that they should be taught how to do so without imminent peril to their own comrades, and the manner in which some companies executed this drill made one shudder at the mere thought of their using ball cartridges, for it is no exaggeration to say that fully one third of the front rank men would have been killed by their file coverers, as the muzzles of the latter's pieces were close to their heads instead of being well in advance. This condition prevailed while firing standing and kneeling, and was caused by the rear rank men not properly stepping up in the intervals as required. Here let me remark that experience has shown that it is wise at times to tell men why they do certain things as well as how to do them. As a rule, officers were more or less unfamiliar with the proper commands of this drill—a very few only knowing them absolutely correctly—neither was the instruction as good as it should be. As I have said before, this drill is so important and there is so little subject matter to learn, that immediate attention should be devoted to it by those who are not thoroughly proficient. In some companies this drill is not taken up until near the close of the drill season, instead of being made a part of every drill from the very beginning; and as it is impossible to foretell how suddenly troops will be called for active service the folly of such a course is apparent.

In some companies I found that the captain did not give his lieutenants sufficient opportunities for drilling the company, a policy that can only work disadvantageously to all concerned. It matters not how competent an officer may be theoretically, he requires actual experience to fit him for his duties; and where this error on the part of the company commanders has prevailed heretofore it should be rectified without delay. Much of the nervousness and apparent want of ability on the part of some lieutenants witnessed at these inspections were due to this cause.

Officers should impress upon the minds of file closers that during a drill they have important duties to perform, a fact which a number I saw seemed not to know, or, if they did, failed to discharge the duties of their office. It was not infrequent to see errors committed and talking in ranks which file closers in the immediate vicinity neglected to correct and stop. Much of the success of a drill depends upon the alertness of file-closers, and they should be taught to realize it.

A subject that has been very generally overlooked by officers is the manual of the sword. It was seldom that I saw one that handled his in a perfectly correct manner, and this applies to some officers who are exceptionally correct in almost everything else they do; I doubt not it is only necessary to call attention to the defect to have it remedied.

I submit in brief the results as I found them in each regiment:

FOURTEENTH REGIMENT.

For the past two years this regiment has been undergoing a thorough reorganization and its future looks very bright and promising. A great change has taken place in the roster of its commissioned force, and the improved condition now existing must be ascribed to the fact that young and enthusiastic officers have succeeded many who had been so long in the service that they had grown careless and indifferent in the discharge of their duties. The lieutenant-colonel, both majors and three captains were commissioned in 1895; three captains within eighteen months prior to the time the inspections took place; while of the lieutenants but one had been an officer more than two years and a half; three first lieutenants and three second lieutenants (there being seven vacancies in the latter grade) were also commissioned in 1895.

The personnel of the regiment is, likewise, steadily improving, and the new and commodious armory into which the regiment moved last year will do much to attract the right kind of young men to its ranks. As this new armory is situated far from the location of its old quarters, the regiment has suffered a large loss in membership by reason of many men taking their discharges owing to the great inconvenience in attending drills; and this fact also accounts for the large percentage of absentees at the inspection of company and drills.

There is no schedule of drills presented by the regimental commander, captains being permitted to conduct theirs in such manner as they see fit. The majors are present, however, on the nights that the companies of their respective battalions drill, supervise the work performed and give such assistance as lies in their power; but their sphere of usefulness is curtailed by the failure of headquarters to prescribe and enlarge the scope of their power over their company commanders. These two majors are particularly capable and hard working officers, and to their energy and perseverance is due much of the advancement of the regiment, and were they given greater opportunities to carry out the correct ideas they possess in matters of instruction and administration, the regiment would be considerably benefited thereby.

No regimental schools of theoretical instruction for officers or non-commissioned officers are held. Neither are company schools held to any extent; in some companies being entirely omitted, except in Company "B," where they are regularly held. In view of the fact that so many officers and non-commissioned officers are so new, it would appear to me absolutely necessary that these schools should be of frequent occurrence, and I can not too strongly recommend it.

Neither is there a regimental recruit class, while the work done in the company classes, in most cases, is of the most superficial character, as evidenced by the many new men I noticed in company drill who did not know the rudiments of the school of the soldier.

Companies "C," "D" and "I" pay more attention to this important matter than do any of the others; Company "C" keeping men in the class from two to three months, drilling once a week; Company "D" drilling them twice a week for three months; and "I" twice a week from four to six months. In the other companies recruits receive but four to seven drills before being transferred to the ranks of the company, except in Company "E," where no preliminary instruction is given, and the condition of this company can, therefore, be easily imagined.

Experience has proven that a recruit can not be thoroughly taught the school of the soldier in less than three or four months' drilling at least one hour twice a week, and it is a particularly adaptable man that can qualify in the shorter period.

The appearance of the companies at inspection varied from excellent to poor. Company "K" was the only one that could be rated excellent; Companies "C" and "D" very good; "B," "F," "G" and "I," fair; "A," "E" and "H," poor. What detracted from the appearance of all the companies but one was the absence of so many cap ornaments, and in some companies men paraded with civilian trousers. The blouses are mostly old and worn, and new ones are much needed.

The discipline, judging from steadiness and attention during drills, very good in all the companies; military courtesy, except in a few cases of recruits who had had no instruction, very good.

The company officers of this regiment, as a body, are working hard and intelligently to improve their companies in an earnest endeavor to place the regiment among the best in the State, and they should be given every encouragement possible by both regimental and general headquarters to aid them in this laudable purpose; but there are several officers who, I fear, will never be able to improve, and as long as they retain their commissions their companies and the regiment will be retarded in the march of improvement; and if they unselfishly desire to assist in consummating the ambition of their brother officers, they should gracefully retire from the organization, for they have outlived their usefulness.

TWENTY-THIRD REGIMENT.

In the ability of its company officers and the personnel of its rank and file, this regiment is excelled by no other in the State, and it was a pleasure to witness the thoroughness and intelligence with which the drills were conducted. There was an apparent confidence in his own efficiency on the part of every officer that was not shaken by the fact that an inspecting officer was present to pass upon his work, with the consequent result that both officers and men were able to do themselves full justice. This self-possession is undoubtedly the outcome of longer service as officers than that enjoyed by officers in the other regiments I inspected, but it is a very necessary qualification of every officer, and one that should be cultivated, for the instant an officer loses his self-possession, just so soon does his command become demoralized. It was an oft-repeated injunction of mine to officers of other regiments to try to forget I was present, and to conduct the drills in the same manner they would if I were not there, giving instructions when necessary, correcting all errors as they occurred, and repeating such movements as were not executed to their own satisfaction; but in no organization was this direction so thoroughly observed as in the Twenty-third Regiment, and having observed more or less of the work of every organization in the National Guard during the past two years, either at their home stations or the camp of instruction, I make the opening statement of the report of this regiment in regard to its company officers with a knowledge of the facts.

Notwithstanding the general excellence of the officers of the Twenty-third Regiment, I consider it a mistake that regular schools of instruction are not held, as they would be of great value to the junior officers, particularly as there are so many ably-qualified instructors, and these schools could be made unusually interesting by an interchange of views of these officers. For the sake of uniformity of instruction should non-commissioned officers' schools likewise, be regimental instead of company, for, as I said before, all men do not construe the same subject in the same way. As this regiment never takes its officers from an outside source, but promotes them from the ranks, it is of more advantage to educate them alike.

No schedule of company drills is prescribed by regimental headquarters, captains having full liberty to exercise their own judgment in this matter. Neither are company drills supervised by the field officers.

Recruits are instructed in company classes, there being no regimental class; and in this regiment the system seems to work satisfactorily, as no captain permits a man to enter the ranks until he has been thoroughly qualified in the school of the soldier. The setting-up exercises are taught recruits, but are not used in company drill, and while the general set up of the regiment is good, it would be improved by further use of this drill each week.

The appearance of the companies was excellent, there not being an unsatisfactory one in the regiment. Brasses were polished, shoes and gloves clean, equipments well adjusted and trousers pressed. A number of blouses were in poor condition from long use, which should be replaced.

Discipline was excellent throughout, there being a few minor breaches, in the way of talking, during the fire drill, which were promptly corrected. Military courtesy was excellent in every particular.

The causes for the few criticisms made by me during the inspection of this regiment I can safely say can be corrected through the medium of the schools conducted on the lines I have suggested, and the condition is now so excellent that a very small attention to some details will make it as near perfect as can be expected of a volunteer organization.

Where all the companies did so well, it might seem invidious to draw comparisons, but the manner in which the affairs of Companies "A" and "F" are administered is so successful that these two companies and their respective commanding officers are deserving of special commendation.

THIRTEENTH REGIMENT.

The condition in which the present commanding officer found his regiment when he assumed command in May, 1895, was such that all of his energies have necessarily been devoted to reorganization, and for this reason he has been obliged to defer action on some matters of administration respecting drills and instruction until more pressing needs are disposed of; and the condition in which I found the organization at the time I inspected the company drills (January 6-15, 1896), was such a vast improvement in many ways over that prevailing at the previous annual inspection (May 7, 1895), that it was apparent that much hard work must have been done by the colonel and his subordinates to bring about such a gratifying change in so short a time. It would, therefore, be hardly just to apply the same standard of criticism to this regiment as would be used in speaking of other regiments whose affairs have been controlled by commanding officers of several years standing or longer. The suggestions made in other parts of this report are respectfully referred to as a means toward the end that I know Colonel Watson desires to attain. Frequent schools of instruction and direct supervision of drills by the field officers will do much to correct the shortcomings that came under my notice. Although company commanders, as a rule, seem to keep recruits long enough in the recruit classes, I noticed, nevertheless, quite a number of men who were not qualified for work in the ranks. Two schools for officers had been held from the beginning of the drill season, October 1, to the time of the inspection, and one for non-commissioned officers.

Like the two previous regiments, captains were given full latitude in the manner of conducting their drills, and the results varied according to the system adopted. Considering how many new men had recently been taken into the companies, it would have been better to have started at the very foundation and built up gradually and thoroughly. A well-drilled company can not be made in a day or a month, and if the officers would forbear from attempting to cover too much ground in one drill, but confine their labors to fewer movements each night, learning these few thoroughly before taking up new ones, the ultimate result would be more beneficial.

The companies were obliged to appear in dress coats, as the blouses were worn out and unfit for use, according to the colonel's statement. The chevrons were not according to regulations, being those for the undress coat. The appearance of the several companies varied from excellent to poor. Companies "B" and "G," excellent; Company "A" very good; Companies "E" and "I," good; Companies "C," "D" and "K," fair; Companies "F" and "H," poor. As Company "H" paraded less than eight files for drill the night I inspected it, it was impossible to do anything in the school of the company. This company had at the time an aggregate of 35 on the rolls, but the attendance was seldom large enough to permit of drills in the school of the company with any success, and, considering the fact that the captain had been in commission about fifteen months, I am compelled to believe that he will never be able to make the company successful. He appears to lack the quality to make a good commanding officer. There were no lieutenants. A plan for the reorganization of the company was under way at the time of inspection, and the regimental commander was in hopes that he would be able to save it by disposing of its deadwood and securing some first-class material for its ranks. It is to be hoped his efforts will be successful.

Discipline appeared to be good throughout the entire regiment, as far as I could see, and military courtesy was carefully observed by all.

If the same energy and hard work are continued as was shown between the times I have mentioned, there can be no doubt that the Thirteenth Regiment will require all its old time prestige and efficiency, and add to both for that matter, but it will require the united support of every officer to accomplish the purpose.

FORTY-SEVENTH REGIMENT.

In this regiment the colonel directs the entire system of drills, orders being issued monthly which contain schedules of the movements that are to be executed for the current period. Drills are also supervised by the battalion commanders, one of whom is always present on these occasions. Like those of the Fourteenth Regiment, they are capable and hard working officers, and are of great assistance to the commanding officer in carrying out his plans and ideas. While some of the company commanders would prefer more freedom in conducting their drills, there can be no question that the system is the correct one, and the regiment is rapidly improving under it. Setting up drills also forms part of each night's work. There is a regimental recruit class in which the new men are kept from five to six months, drilling once a week. Schools of instruction are held at irregular intervals during the drill season, but are not as numerous as they should be, two or three in the course of a season being hardly sufficient to cover the necessary ground.

The appearance of the companies was generally good, but marred in some companies by the absence of cap ornaments and many more broken and unpolished. The inside of the cartridge boxes also needed more attention to cleanliness in quite a number of instances. The adjustment of equipments was excellent throughout. Shoes should always be clean even if the weather makes it impossible to polish them.

The condition of Company "A," was the best in the regiment, and it was not excelled in this respect by any company in the brigade. It would be well for every captain in the regiment to follow the standard set by Captain Lyon in this respect. In drill, also, this command is worthy of special praise; it only lacks numbers to make it first-class in every requisite.

In appearance Companies "D" and "K," are rated as very good; Companies "B," "E," "G" and "I," good; Company "F," fair.

Next to Company "A," the most satisfactory work was done by Company "E;" all three officers being excellent instructors. The fire drill under command of the second lieutenant (but recently promoted), being especially good, and demonstrating a thorough knowledge of the subject on the part of this officer.

The discipline was not as good as it should be, there being talking in some companies after the first sergeants had given the command to fall in. Talking was also observed at times during the fire drill, particularly when lying down, and there was some inattention during drill, all of which should have been corrected by the file closers, who were there for that purpose. Military courtesy was excellent.

This is a good regiment and is working on the right lines. There are but few weak officers in the companies, and all they require is systematic instruction to make them capable and efficient, for they have both the capacity and willingness to improve if directed in the proper way.

It is not always a pleasant duty to be called upon to criticise and call attention to the errors of others, and I confess that I entered upon the performance of this special work with many misgivings as to my ability to carry it to a successful conclusion without discouraging some and wounding the susceptibilities of others, for I realized that many officers with whom I was to come in contact were older in years and in service than I and perfectly capable of instructing me, but the manner in which every one received the instruction given and the comments made rendered this duty one of the most pleasant in my military career, and I feel that I would be lacking in a plain duty to the officers of the Second Brigade did I not make acknowledgment of the fact here.

Respectfully,

Annual Report of the Surgeon-General, State of New York.

NATIONAL GUARD OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK,
SURGEON-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
UTICA, December 14, 1896. }

MAJOR-GENERAL E. A. McALPIN, Adjutant-General:

Sir.—In compliance with the regulations governing this Department I most respectfully submit the following annual report for the year 1896:

Through the considerate action of our legislative body and the wisdom of the Governor this Department was granted during the last session, as a special appropriation, $10,000 for the purpose of equipping this most important arm of the Guard.

Last year my report contained the mature judgment of the Guard in reference to its necessary equipment in order that it might effectually perform its duties when called upon by the State. It was soon found upon investigation that the existing equipment for the Medical Department of the Guard and of the Regular Army was not as we considered up to date and that it would be necessary to remodel most of the needed equipment.

I.

Litter.

The litters adopted by the government for the army were tested by this Department in the presence of Major John V. R. Hoff, Surgeon of the United States Army, Department of the East, and the Surgeon-General, during an inspection of the same held in the arsenal, Seventh avenue, New York city, and three of them bent and broke while sustaining a weight of 183 pounds.

A new litter (plate I) has been constructed which incorporates the best points of all others and, we think, excludes the weak ones. This litter is guaranteed to sustain a weight of 500 pounds and weighs only 16½ pounds. It has also an adjustable canvas pillow. This mechanical contrivance is something new in connection with litters. It can be raised into position and will drop on to the surface of the litter by an ingenious device, and, we believe, will be of great service when in practical use in transporting the injured or sick.

The following are the specifications for its construction:

SPECIFICATIONS.

Bars.—Litter bar to 7½ feet long and 1½ inches (by 1½ inches thick, turned down 9 inches from each end, to a rise sufficient to form a convenient handle without weakening the bars, to be of the best quality of second growth white ash, and to have two coats of wood filler, or as much more as may be necessary to properly fill the grain of the wood, sufficient to form a protection from ordinary exposure.

Iron work.—The iron work to consist of four malleable iron feet of same size and pattern as submitted by the Surgeon-General, S. N. Y., bolted securely to the bars 22 inches from each end. Securely riveted to the feet two malleable iron joints extending directly across the litter, reinforced by a malleable iron cap or hood extending two inches either way from the center. All iron work to be coated with copper and electro-nickel plated.

Canvas.—The canvas to be used in covering the litter to be equal in quality to that submitted in sample litter, and to be securely nailed through four thicknesses on the outside edge of each bar, to be 72 inches long and 22 inches wide when litter is spread. Two leather straps to be attached to each bar, sufficient to properly bind the litter when folded.

Slings.—To be of pattern submitted by the Surgeon-General S. N. Y., and of equal quality and strength.

PLATE II.

Pillow.—To consist of a piece of canvas 8 inches wide, attached to two iron rods, said rods are to be jointed to two other iron rods on either side of litter on one end, and fastened to either side of litter bar on other end, by bolt or pivot. The joints and pivots allowing the pillow to lie perfectly flat on litter when not in use, or to be drawn toward the head of litter a little past the perpendicular, at which point a stop is to be placed to hold it in position when in use.

II.

Ambulance.

The ambulances (plates II, III, IV) were constructed with similar care. Many of the officers of the Guard were interviewed for their opinions, and criticisms were requested. The best ambulances in use were investigated, and the attempt has been made to incorporate the most modern and practical ideas for the efficiency of this service.

Each brigade will be supplied with one of these ambulances, and one will be in use at the Camp of Instruction, at Peekskill.

The following are the specifications and a description of the ambulance:

SPECIFICATIONS.

Body.—To be built to conform to line as shown by photo. of our number, No. 149, submitted herewith, showing straight side panels, rear end, to be closed by tail gate with suitable fastenings.

Inside seats.—There are seats to be constructed running the full length of inside of body, located on each side that can be folded or let down to the sides of body, when not in use.

Water tanks.—There are to be water tanks constructed below the bottom of body line, to slide on runways, said draws or tanks to have iron fronts.

Length and width.—The length and width inside to be sufficient to accommodate two of the regulation litters, adopted by the National Guard of New York, placed one along side of the other with one inch clearance on each side to each litter. It has been suggested that inside dimensions should be not less than 92x48 inches. Body to be built of best quality ash and white wood, properly seasoned.

Gear.—A suitable platform gear to be constructed for the proper hanging of the body. Shafts and poles supplied.

Wheels.—To be of first quality stock and manufacture, height and dimensions suitable.

Springs.—To be platform and back, with auxiliary spring on rear carriage part, to be of best oil tempered steel, graded and built to sustain a load of 1,500 pounds, over and above the body weight.

Axles.—Best quality steel, with sand-box collar.

Tires.—To be of Sweets' steel, round or square edge as preferred, to extend over and beyond the felloe one-quarter inch on either side.

Trimmings.—The front, back and cushion to be upholstered in dark or brown enameled leather.* The inside seats to be upholstered in tan colored enameled duck. Curtains of heavy white cotton or colored-duck cloth to be attached securely to top rail, and so arranged as to knob or button to pillars with suitable fastners to be made to roll. Lalors or holders to be made of curtain material, to be attached to each of side pillars and at each end on each side. A double strap, also to be made of curtain material to extend from front to back on either side at suitable height, to serve for back to inside seats when in use. A large double canvas couch or pocket to be made with suitable fastenings and securely attached to front partition on the inside. Suitable straps to be placed at the top on either side to secure litters when not in use. Straps to be placed through the center of top for convenience in carrying long splints.

Painting.—All inside work to be properly filled and finished in natural wood. Outside work to be painted in best manner. Thirteen coats. Painted, striped and varnished.

Lettering.—Emblematic, cross and letters N. G. N. Y., to be painted on each side of body.

Mountings.—Shaft tips, lamps and draw polls, to be silver plated.

PLATE III.

Gong.—A suitable gong, to be furnished and attached to toe board.

Lamp.—Suitable lamps to be furnished with adjustable attachments.

Price.—Of each of the four ambulances to be built, in accord with the above specifications, to be $300.

Finale.—All stock to be first quality throughout, and workmanship of the best after the most approved and practical methods. The finished product to conform to specifications, and to be delivered to N. G. N. Y., with carriage builders' regular guarantee, approved by the Carriage Builders' National Association, U. S. A.

III.

Pouches.

The pouches for the medical officers and Hospital Corps have been greatly improved. The tin boxes have been excluded for first aid packages. These pouches, therefore, are easier to carry. Crossed-bar wire placed in rolls is used for splints. Other changes in line with those referred to have tended to perfect the pouch so that it represents the most modern ideas of military surgeons.

Chest.

Perhaps the most important improvement in equipment will be the new medical and surgical chest (plates V and VI) for regiments. It was found that the regular army chest did not represent the most modern ideas in its construction and the celebrated Senn chest, although a model chest was too small for the service of regiments. In order, therefore, to prepare the way properly a committee, composed of three of our best surgeons, namely, Major W. E. Lambert, of the Twelfth Regiment, Major Bennett S. Beach, of the Twenty-second Regiment, and Major John V. R. Hoff, of the United States Army, was selected to devise a sample medical model and surgical chest, and it has formed the basis for the new one which has been constructed under the supervision of the Surgeon-General by Chas. Truax, Green & Company. This chest will be issued to the Regiments.

The following are the specifications for its construction:

SPECIFICATIONS.

This chest consists of a steel frame with aluminum walls, the frame constructed from angle iron  $\frac{3}{8}$  inch in width and No. 14 Stubbs gauge, the frame strongly reinforced by spread braces reaching from the center of each wall to the corner of the case, where they are strongly riveted. The chest is further strengthened by strong steel bands properly hinged, each passing completely around the same.

As will be seen by the illustration the top or cover opens upward or backward and the front side opens outward or downward. These two sections are held in position by quarter circle stops, each arranged to hold the opening portion at right angles with its original position. The aluminum walls are securely fastened to the frame and braces by rivets placed one inch apart. The frame and entire steel work are tinned after construction, thus furnishing a protection against rust.

In the angles and at the corners the framework of the chest is strongly secured by suitable rivets, the whole forming a light yet strong and durable construction.

Suitable drop handles are provided at each end, and padlock is so adjusted that the case may be securely locked. A solid case or cover manufactured from heavy harness leather and held in position by suitable straps and buckles protects the case from injury, and when in the open field will thoroughly prevent the same from becoming dampened by rain. As shown in the illustration after the cover is raised a large portion of the contents are easily accessible.

Medicines are here carefully arranged in hard rubber bottles, each accurately numbered and labeled to correspond with a table of contents placed underneath the cover. The various sizes of bottles and articles contained in this portion of the chest are arranged into sections, each subdivided by aluminum partitions. In the under portion of the chest six sliding drawers are provided, each of aluminum, the handles of which, in order to economize space, are arranged to drop parallel with the face of the drawer. These drawers rest upon a steel skeleton frame securely riveted to the walls of the chest. These drawers, together with the spaces which includes them, will be numbered, that if all are removed at once each may be returned to its proper position.

Underneath the drawers, but still within the chest, a space is provided for the transportation of felt or similar substance for splinting. Underneath the chest proper and between it and the leather cover, space is arranged for three sheets of wire gauze, the latter forming an additional supply of splint material.

Badge.

The new Hospital Corps badge (plate VII) adopted by the medical officers of the National Guard and of the Naval Militia of the State of New York and approved by the Governor has been placed in the hands of the medical officers and has been distributed to such members of the Hospital Corps as are entitled to them. It is of artistic design, made of bronze, and contains the Geneva red cross, which is calculated to attract attention to this department. All of the old badges have been called in.

VI.

Hospital Corps.

The importance of the Hospital Corps has been materially augmented by the change in the regulations authorizing an increase in the number of them.

The following General Orders, No. 11, refers to the change of the regulations increasing the Hospital Corps of this State:

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK,
 ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 ALBANY, July 13, 1896. }

GENERAL ORDERS }
 No. 11. }

I. Paragraphs 149, 150, 151, 153, 154, 155, 158, 159, 160, 162, 164, 169, 170 and 738, of the Regulations, Part I, are hereby amended to read as follows:

149. The Hospital Corps of the State consists of the hospital stewards of regiments, battalions and squadrons and the men specially enlisted for, or transferred from companies to hospital corps of organizations.

150. Commanding officers may cause to be enlisted for service in their Hospital Corps, or transferred to it from companies, men suitable for such service, to the number of twelve, for a regiment, eight for a battalion or squadron, and two for each signal corps, separate troops, battery or separate company or infantry, upon the recommendation of their senior medical officer, and in cases of transfers from companies with the consent of the immediate commanding officers and the men themselves.

151. The men specially enlisted for or transferred from companies to the Hospital Corps will be in addition to the maximum number of enlisted men allowed to organizations under M. C. 15, and the proper commanding officers may appoint and warrant for and of the Hospital Corps of their respective organizations, corporals at the rate of one for each litter squad of four men.

153. Men transferred from companies to the Hospital Corps will not be returned to their companies except upon the recommendation or request of the medical officer in charge of the corps; men specially enlisted for the corps cannot be transferred to a company except upon their own request, but must be discharged from the service, as provided for others in M. C. 86, should they prove to be unfitted for their duties.

154. The senior medical officer of an organization will be in charge of the Hospital Corps of his regiment, battalion, squadron, signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry, under the orders of his commanding officer.

155. The medical officer in charge of the Hospital Corps of a regiment, battalion or squadron will provide for the members thereof in the manner an adjutant provides for the non-commissioned staff; on returns, reports, rolls and descriptive books they will be included in the field and staff. The Hospital Corps of a signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry will as far as accounting and providing is concerned, be treated as part of the organization, and on muster and pay-rolls their names will follow at the end of the roll; on form 43 the Hospital Corps should be accounted for by altering the heading "Recruits," or interlining a special column. •

158. The medical officers of an organization will, under the direction of the senior medical officer, those of signal corps, separate troops, batteries and separate companies of infantry under the direction of the respective brigade surgeons, instruct the corporals and privates of the Hospital Corps, of their organization, by means of lectures and demonstrations, in the methods of rendering first aid to the sick and wounded; in the elementary principles of anatomy, physiology, hygiene and therapeutics; in the care and use of hospital and field appliances; in the modes of ordinary cooking, and as litter bearers in accordance with the prescribed manual.

159. Attendance at instruction and drills of the Hospital Corps and ceremonies and active duties of the command it pertains to is under Military Code, 141, 143, 144 and 160, compulsory for the members of the Corps, and those absent will be reported by the Medical Officer in charge to his Commanding Officer, who, in turn, will report such as have not been properly excused, delinquent on the returns provided for such report.

160. At the close of the course of instruction, the corporals and privates of the corps shall be examined as to their proficiency by a board to be appointed for that purpose as herein provided.

Commanding Officers of Brigades will, with the approval of the Surgeon-General, appoint for their respective commands, boards of examination, which shall consist of not less than three medical officers, whose duty it shall be to examine and report to the Brigade Commander as to the proficiency of the corporals and privates of the Hospital Corps, who have attended the prescribed course of instruction. The presiding officer of each board shall notify the Commanding Officers of the organizations of his Brigade of the dates on which the board will be in session, and when they will examine the corporals and privates of the corps. These men shall then be ordered before the examining board by the Commanding Officer of the regiment, battalion, signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry, to which they belong, and those who pass the prescribed examination shall remain members of the Hospital Corps, subject to the approval of the Medical Officer in charge, and subject, also, to an annual examination by the board mentioned.

162. At ceremonies, the Hospital Corps will take position six paces to the left and in continuation of the line, or six paces to the rear of the column, of their regiments or battalions; they will be posted by the Regimental or Battalion Hospital Stewards, who will then remain in charge of them and take position as prescribed in the drill regulations for non-commissioned officers in command of troops; the Hospital Stewards of battalion or regiments acting as file closers; on practice or service marches they will follow their regiments or battalions at a distance of six paces under the charge of a Hospital Steward and a Medical Officer. In signal corps, cavalry, light artillery and separate companies of infantry not parts of battalions at the time, the corps will take position as directed by their Commanding Officers. .

164. Corporals and privates of the Hospital Corps shall, in active service, carry a canteen of water, a knife of approved pattern, and, except when serving as orderlies to Medical Officers, the Hospital Corps pouches issued to them.

169. When a member of the Hospital Corps ceases to be a member of a regiment, battalion, signal corps, troop, battery or separate company of infantry, he shall receive from the Surgeon-General of the State, upon recommendation of the Medical Officer and the Commanding Officer of his organization, as evidence of his special qualifications and ability to perform the duties of the corps, a certificate to that effect, and the owner of any such certificate, as evidence of his continued proficiency, may be examined at intervals of not more than two years, by the Surgeon-General or under his direction, and the result of such examination, if favorable, indorsed upon his certificate.

170. The Medical Officer in charge of the Hospital Corps of his organization will render a report of his command, detailing its personnel, equipment, instruction and service, on the last day of August each year through the channels to the Surgeon-General, the Brigade Surgeon and the Commanding Officer of his own organization.

738. For members of the Hospital Corps.—A lozenge of white cloth, 2 3-16 x 2 3-16 inches, containing in the center a Geneva cross of red cloth, worn above the elbow of each arm; corporals will wear the lozenge in the angle of the chevrons.

Hospital Corps Guidon.

A very neat and attractive flag, which directs in a most conspicuous manner attention to this department, has been used by the Seventh Regiment, and it is thought that it would be wise if each regiment were to adopt it.

The length of this guidon is 30 inches, width 20 inches; the red cross, 15 inches high and 15 inches wide; the arms of the cross are 5 inches wide; staff, 54 inches long and  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches thick; white bunting with cross of red bunting.

Camp of Instruction at Peekskill.

The practical instruction of the Hospital Corps at Peekskill was given marked attention during the past season. Medical Instructor Major Frank L. R. Tetamore, of the Fourteenth Regiment, Brooklyn, filled this position conscientiously and in a most painstaking manner. Early at the opening of camp a systematic course was laid out, so that it was in line with other military work. We believe the best results were obtained on account of this plan.

The following circular by the Surgeon-General indicates the system carried out in camp as well as defines the duties of the Post-Surgeon and Medical Instructor in their separate and distinct responsibilities:

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF NEW YORK,
 SURGEON-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 UTICA, N. Y., July 18, 1896. }

CIRCULAR }
 No. 2. }

The following order for duty, instruction and drill of the Medical Officers and Hospital Corps will be observed in this Camp:

1. The Post-Surgeon will have entire charge of and be responsible for the Medical Department of the command, except in matters relating to instruction.
2. He will see that the sick are properly cared for, that the hospital and dispensary are always in order, that a Medical Officer with a sufficient number of men of the Hospital Corps is on duty at the hospital and with each battalion during the hours of drill and ceremonies and that at least one non-commissioned officer is always on duty in the hospital and dispensary.
3. He will inspect and report upon the sanitary condition of the Camp. (P. 594 R.)
4. All Medical Officers, unless on other duty, will report at the hospital at surgeon's call to care for the sick.
5. Medical Officers of battalions and provisional battalions will take charge of the sick in quarters of their respective organizations and will make their daily medical reports through the battalion commanders to the Post-Surgeon who will forward them together with the consolidated morning report of the sick to Camp Headquarters before 8 a. m.
6. For purposes of instruction and drill, the Hospital Corps will be under the Medical Instructor who will follow out the prescribed course.
7. The hours for instruction and drill of the Hospital Corps will be as follows: Instruction, 8.15 to 9.15 a. m.; drill with the command, 9.30 to 11.30 a. m.; instruction, 2 to 3 p. m.
8. All Medical Officers and all men of the Hospital Corps not immediately on duty with the sick will be required to attend drill and instruction, except the Post-Surgeon who may attend if his duties permit, but he will be required to command his detachment at the weekly inspection of the Medical Department.

9. The Medical Instructor is made responsible for the surgical appliances and the ambulance. He will issue any of the surgical instruments needed in emergencies to any Medical Officer on duty in the Camp, taking his memoranda receipt for the same.

10. The ambulance will be on duty from surgeon's call until retreat and a driver and an orderly must be on duty with it. All ambulance calls will be promptly answered.

11. All orders conflicting with the provisions of this circular are hereby revoked.

Adjutant-General.

The Surgeon-General, having made an application at Washington to secure the services of Major John V. R. Hoff, in order that he might receive the benefit of his experience in Hospital Corps instruction, received the following:

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, July 3, 1896. }

38482 A. G. O.

The Commanding General, Department of the East, Governor's Island, New York:

Sir.—The Major-General Commanding the Army instructs me to inform you that upon your recommendation of the 20th ultimo the Acting Secretary of War authorizes Major John Van R. Hoff, Surgeon, to visit the Camp of the National Guard of New York, at Peekskill, New York, at such times during the period of its present encampment as his services may properly be spared from his station, for the purpose of assisting in the instruction of the Hospital Corps.

Very respectfully,
GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Adjutant-General.

(Seal)

For the Surgeon-General, of New York.

On each Saturday morning an inspection was held by the Surgeon-General assisted by Major John V. R. Hoff and Gen. F. C. McLewee, Inspector-General of the State. This inspection was really a review of the entire week's work as given by the Medical Instructor and proved exceedingly valuable to the men on account of the various suggestions offered by the officers named.

The following represents the subjects of the lectures and drills for each day:

Monday.—Sections 1 to 47 inclusive. Formations, alignments, marchings, rests, military courtesy and customs of the service. Instruction on objects of sanitary organization, sunstroke, heat exhaustion, drowning, electric stroke and their treatment.

Tuesday.—Litter drill, its object and what may be accomplished by it. Marching with litter. Sections 48 to 101.

Lectures.—Anatomy of bones, only with reference to fractures of chest, pelvis and limbs, and practice in bandaging.

Wednesday.—The loaded litter. Improvisation of litters and other methods of carrying wounded, 104 to 146.

Fractures, diagnosis and prompt methods of their treatment. Lectures and practical illustrations.

Thursday.—The travois, 157-159. The ambulance and ordinary wagons used as such, 160-173.

Lectures.—Anatomy of arteries. Hemorrhage and its treatment. The men practicing methods advised.

Friday.—Hospital tent. Sections 185 to 189-192. Collecting and dressing, stationing the field hospital. Field cooking in practical detail.

Saturday.—Battlefield work, embracing everything learned during the week.

During the tour of duty Col. Charles P. Cook, the Assistant Surgeon-General, performed the duties of the Surgeon-General, during his absence, in a very satisfactory manner.

For the first time in the history of the Camp an ambulance was brought into use and was thoroughly appreciated by the Medical Officers for emergency service. The ambulance and horse were placed in a convenient locality so that at a moment's notice any necessary assistance could be given, which was quite frequent, owing to the excessive heat of the summer.

The Hospital Corps tents and the Medical Department of the Camp were placed together. This was found to be of great convenience to all concerned.

Last year the surgical outfit at the Camp of Instruction was sad to contemplate. It was limited in quantity and inferior in quality and the arrangement of the same in Camp was as unsystematic, as it was defective in other ways. Our legislators, having considered the Medical Department in this deplorable and defective state, fortunately came to the rescue and we were enabled to purchase a surgical outfit which included a most beautiful iron and glass case for the instruments and a most substantial leather case, in which to pack them away after the season is closed, second to none in this country. This has afforded not only agreeable comment from the general officers and men, but has caused many expressions of appreciation from the Medical Department from time to time during the season.

IX.

Mess Department.

It would be inconsiderate in this report, after the observation of two summers at the State Camp, if no mention were made of the Mess Department. The excellent manner in which the service of this department was conducted, as well as the quality of the food given the men, was a matter of general comment.

X.

Sanitary.

During the latter part of the tour of the Camp of Instruction a few cases of malaria developed among the officers and steps were taken to ascertain its cause. We believe it has been properly located in the river where the sewage makes its exit, which is not at a sufficient distance from the roadway. We, therefore, strongly advise that this matter receive the earnest attention of the proper authorities and that the sewerage system be extended farther into the river before the next encampment.

XI.

Creedmoor.

What has been said of the equipment at Peekskill is equally true of Creedmoor. The whole medical and surgical supply was condemned and everything new supplied.

XII.

The Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

The Governor designated, by an artistic document, signed by himself, as delegates to the meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, held at Philadelphia in May, 1896, the Surgeon-General and the four Brigade Surgeons of this State to represent the Guard of this State. This association, which meets annually, is composed of officers of the Regular Army and members of the Militia of the entire country. Every conceivable subject bearing upon military questions is discussed during the meetings of this association, and the benefit to each member can hardly be measured by any scales we possess.

The second year of our administration has been devoted to improving the equipment of the Guard and we are just issuing it to the department. It is believed that the Medical Officers will be exceedingly gratified with the result and will feel repaid for the delay in obtaining what has been so long needed.

The thanks of the Surgeon-General are extended to the Medical Officers of the Guard for the uniform kindness and courtesy shown on every occasion and for the invaluable suggestions made for the improvement of the various equipments of the Guard.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. O. TERRY,
Surgeon-General.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS STATE OF NEW YORK, }
OFFICE OF THE PAYMASTER-GENERAL. }
ALBANY, December 31, 1896.

To the Adjutant-General:

SIR.—I have the honor to report as to the Pay Department since the date of my last report, the 2d day of November, 1896.

The only change since that report is a reduction of the amount to the credit of the general fund, owing to necessary disbursements incurred in running the office of the Department, which amount to $141.25, and are itemized in the annexed schedule, marked Schedule A.

All the property of the Department including books, papers, files, accounts, etc., will be turned over to my successor on an official request for the same.

The account of the Paymaster-General is in the Real Estate Trust Company of New York, No. 30 Nassau street, New York city, and is ready to be officially transferred.

I have the honor to state that I shall be happy at all times to explain to my successor in office anything about the system I have adopted which may not seem perfectly clear to him.

I attach hereto a summary of the receipts and payments during my term of office marked Schedule B.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES M. VARNUM,

Annual Report of the General Inspector of Rifle Practice.

DEPARTMENT OF RIFLE PRACTICE, S. N. Y., ROOM 1011
HAVEMEYER BLD'G., CORTLANDT AND CHURCH STS.,
NEW YORK, December 31, 1896. }

Adjutant-General, State of New York:

SIR.—I have the honor to forward my annual report of this Department for the year 1896.

The following table may be of interest, as it demonstrates the increase made throughout the State from year to year since 1892:

	1892.	1893.	1894.	1895.	1896.
Experts.....	.....	24	83	146	204
Sharpshooters.....	552	785	1,055	990	1,098
Marksmen.....	5,892	7,129	8,014	8,115	8,396
Total.....	6,384	7,938	9,152	9,251	9,698

Increase in 1893 over 1892.....	1,554
Increase in 1894 over 1893.....	1,214
Increase in 1895 over 1894.....	79
Increase in 1896 over 1895.....	467

The above result is extremely gratifying, as in my report for 1895 I thought that the number qualifying then could hardly be increased under present conditions.

The practice for the season was conducted under R. 492-505.

I cannot relinquish control of the Department of Rifle Practice without tendering thanks to my assistant, Lieutenant-Colonel Heywood C. Broun, and the Brigade Inspectors, Majors Charles H. Gaus, David Crocker, Theodore H. Babcock and Charles M. Ransom, for the conscientious and able manner in which they have performed the duties assigned them.

To Major N. B. Thurston, Twenty-second Regiment, Chief Clerk of the Department, I am especially indebted; the ability and soldierly qualities of this officer are well known throughout the National Guard; his experience in the Department for the past twelve years renders him well nigh invaluable, and his loyalty and assistance to me I fully appreciate.

Following are the names of those who, retaining their membership in the service, have qualified for twenty-two successive years; also the names of those winning the expert bar :

But should a regiment be reduced below the number of twelve companies, troops or batteries, by disbandment or otherwise, the Commander-in-Chief shall place on the list of supernumerary officers the major and battalion adjutant, junior in rank, and one battalion sergeant-major and one battalion quartermaster-sergeant shall be reduced to the ranks, or discharged, in the discretion of the commanding officer. To a regiment of more than five hundred enlisted men there may be appointed by the Commander-in-Chief an additional inspector of rifle practice of the grade of first lieutenant.

§ 18. Signal corps.—The Commander-in-Chief may, in his discretion, organize signal corps. A signal corps shall consist of one captain, one assistant surgeon of the grade of first lieutenant, and one first lieutenant, and not to exceed forty-six non-commissioned by the Commander-in-Chief. Major-generals, brigadier-generals and commanding officers of regiments, and battalions not a part of a regiment, may nominate candidates to fill vacancies in the staffs and signal corps of their respective divisions, brigades, regiments or battalions. § 170. Supervisors to furnish armory.—Whenever it shall appear by the certificate of the commanding officer of the regiment, or battalion not a part of a regiment, to which any troop, battery or company, organized or existing under the provisions of this chapter belongs, or in the case of a signal corps, separate troop, battery or company, by the certificate of the commanding officer of the brigade or division to which it is attached, together with the certificate of the Adjutant-General that such signal corps, troop, battery, or company, has at least the minimum number of enlisted men established by this chapter, who can legally be required to perform the duties prescribed thereby, the supervisors of the county in which such signal corps, troop, battery or company is located shall, upon the demand of the commanding officer of such signal corps, troop, battery or company, approved by the commanding officer of the battalion, regiment, brigade or division to which it belongs or is attached, as the case may be, erect or rent within the bounds of such county for the use of such signal corps, troop, battery or company, a suitable and convenient armory, drill-room, and place of deposit to be approved as to sanitability and convenience by the commanding officer of the brigade to which the organization demanding such armory is attached, for the safe-keeping of the arms, equipments, accoutrements, uniforms and other military property furnished under the provisions of this chapter. The erection, repairs and alterations of all armory buildings erected or rented at the expense of a county shall be done under the direction and supervision of the Inspector-General and an architect to be designated by the board of supervisors of the county. When the boundaries of a city and county are coterminous the duties hereby prescribed for the board of supervisors shall be performed by the board exercising the legislative power of said city and county. This section shall not apply to the city and county of New York.

§ 173. Special provisions as to armories in New York city.— In the city and county of New York the demands of commanding officers of regiments, battalions, batteries or troops, for suitable armories, or for alterations, repairs or enlargements and furnishing of armories as hereinbefore provided, shall be made to a board hereby created, consisting of the mayor, the two senior ranking officers in command of troops of the National Guard in such city and county, the president of the department of taxes and assessment and the commissioner of public works, who shall consider such applications, and if they approve, shall make their recommendations to the commissioners of the sinking fund, who, if they concur in such recommendations, shall specify the sums to be appropriated for such purchases, erection, rental, enlargement, alteration, repairing or furnishing of armories, including suitable accommodations for division and brigade headquarters, which sum shall be inserted by the comptroller in his departmental estimates; and the board of estimate and apportionment is hereby authorized and directed to include such sums in the final estimate for the tax levy for the next ensuing year; or the commissioners of the sinking fund may, from time to time, in their discretion, direct the comptroller of the city to issue bonds or stocks of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, redeemable in not less than ten nor more than twenty years from the date of issue, in such amounts as shall be necessary to provide such sums or any part thereof, and the mayor and comptroller of the city are hereby authorized to sign such bonds, which shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding three per centum per annum, and shall not be disposed of at less than the par value thereof, and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the common council of the city to countersign the same and to affix the seal of the city thereto, and the proper authorities of the city and county of New York are hereby authorized and directed to cause to be raised upon the property, subject to taxation in the city and county of New York, such sums of money as may be required to pay the in-

I. Paragraphs 149, 150, 151, 153, 154, 155, 158, 159, 160, 162, 164, 169, 170 and 738 of the Regulations, part I, are hereby amended to read as follows:

149. The hospital corps of the State consists of the hospital stewards of regiments, battalions and squadrons, and the men specially enlisted for, or transferred from companies to hospital corps of organizations.

150. Commanding officers may cause to be enlisted for service in their hospital corps, or transferred to it from companies, men suitable for such service, to the number of twelve for a regiment, of eight for a battalion or squadron, and of two for each signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry, upon the recommendation of their senior medical officer, and in cases of transfers from companies, with the consent of the immediate commanding officers and the men themselves.

151. The men specially enlisted for or transferred from companies to the hospital corps will be, in addition to the maximum number of enlisted men, allowed to organizations under the M. C. 15, and the proper commanding officers may appoint and warrant for and of the hospital corps of their respective organizations, corporals at the rate of one for each litter squad of four men.

153. Men transferred from companies to the hospital corps will not be returned to their companies except upon the recommendation or request of the medical officer in charge of the corps; men specially enlisted for the corps cannot be transferred to a company except upon their own request, but must be discharged from the service, as provided for others in M. C. 86, should they prove to be unfitted for their duties.

154. The senior medical officer of an organization will be in charge of the hospital corps of his regiment, battalion, squadron, signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry, under the orders of his commanding officer.

155. The medical officer in charge of the hospital corps of a regiment, battalion or squadron will provide for the members thereof in the manner an adjutant provides for the non-commissioned staff; on returns, reports, rolls and descriptive books they will be included in the field and staff. The hospital corps of a signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry will, as far as accounting and providing is concerned, be treated as part of the organization, and on muster and pay-rolls their names will follow at the end of the roll; on form 43 the hospital corps should be accounted for by altering the heading "Recruits" or interlining a special column.

158. The medical officers of an organization will, under the direction of the senior medical officer, those of signal corps, separate troops, batteries and separate companies of infantry under the direction of the respective brigade surgeons, instruct the corporals and privates of the hospital corps, of their organization, by means of lectures and demonstrations, in the methods of rendering first aid to the sick and wounded; in the elementary principles of anatomy, physiology, hygiene and therapeutics; in the care and use of hospital and field appliances; in the modes of ordinary cooking; and as litter bearers in accordance with the prescribed manual.

159. Attendance at instruction and drills of the hospital corps and ceremonies and active duties of the command it pertains to is under M. C. 141, 143, 144 and 160, compulsory for the members of the corps, and those absent will be reported by the medical officer in charge to his commanding officer, who in turn will report such as have not been properly excused, delinquent on the return provided for such report.

160. At the close of the course of instruction, the corporals and privates of the corps shall be examined as to their proficiency by a board to be appointed for that purpose, as herein provided.

Commanding officers of brigades will, with the approval of the Surgeon-General, appoint for their respective commands, boards of examination which shall consist of not less than three medical officers, whose duty it shall be to examine and report to the brigade commander as to the proficiency of the corporals and privates of the hospital corps, who have attended the prescribed course of instruction. The presiding officer of each board shall notify the commanding officers of the organizations of his brigade of the dates on which the board will be in session and when they will examine the corporals and privates of the corps. These men shall then be ordered before the examining board by the commanding officer of the regiment, battalion, signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry to which they belong, and those who pass the prescribed examination shall remain members of the hospital corps, subject to the approval of the medical officer in charge, and subject also to an annual examination by the board mentioned.

162. At ceremonies the hospital corps will take position six paces to the left and in continuation of the line, or six paces to the rear of the column of their regiments or battalions. They will be posted by the regimental or battalion hospital stewards, who will then remain in charge of them and take position as prescribed in the drill regulations for non-commissioned officers in command of troops, the hospital stewards of battalion of regiments acting as file closers. On practice or service marches they will follow their regiments or battalions at a distance of six paces under the charge of a hospital steward and a medical officer. In signal corps, cavalry, light artillery and separate companies of infantry, not parts of battalions at the time, the corps will take position as directed by their commanding officers.

164. Corporals and privates of the hospital corps shall, in active service, carry a canteen of water, a knife of approved pattern, and, except when serving as orderlies to medical officers, the hospital corps pouches issued to them.

169. When a member of the hospital corps ceases to be a member of a regiment, battalion, signal corps, troop, battery or separate company of infantry, he shall receive from the Surgeon-General of the State, upon recommendation of the medical officer and the commanding officer of his organization, as evidence of his special qualifications and ability to perform the duties of the corps, a certificate to that effect, and the owner of any such certificate, as evidence of his continued proficiency, may be examined at intervals of not more than two years, by the Surgeon-General, or under his direction, and the result of such examination, if favorable, indorsed upon his certificate.

170. The medical officer in charge of the hospital corps of his organization will render a report of his command, detailing its personnel, equipment, instruction and service, on the last day of August each year through the channels to the Surgeon-General, the brigade surgeon and the commanding officer of his own organization.

738. For members of the hospital corps.— A lozenge of white cloth, two and three-sixteenths inches by two and three-sixteenths inches, containing in the center a Geneva cross of red cloth, worn above the elbow of each arm. Corporals will wear the lozenge in the angle of the chevrons.

II. Requisitions for uniforms for hospital corps men, specially enlisted, will be made separately, and should be made promptly, not monthly.

{ General Orders, }
No. 11. }

I. Paragraphs 149, 150, 151, 153, 154, 155, 158, 159, 160, 162, 164, 169, 170 and 738 of the Regulations, part I, are hereby amended to read as follows:

149. The hospital corps of the State consists of the hospital stewards of regiments, battalions and squadrons, and the men specially enlisted for, or transferred from companies to hospital corps of organizations.

150. Commanding officers may cause to be enlisted for service in their hospital corps, or transferred to it from companies, men suitable for such service, to the number of twelve for a regiment, of eight for a battalion or squadron, and of two for each signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry, upon the recommendation of their senior medical officer, and in cases of transfers from companies, with the consent of the immediate commanding officers and the men themselves.

151. The men specially enlisted for or transferred from companies to the hospital corps will be, in addition to the maximum number of enlisted men, allowed to organizations under the M. C. 15, and the proper commanding officers may appoint and warrant for and of the hospital corps of their respective organizations, corporals at the rate of one for each litter squad of four men.

153. Men transferred from companies to the hospital corps will not be returned to their companies except upon the recommendation or request of the medical officer in charge of the corps; men specially enlisted for the corps cannot be transferred to a company except upon their own request, but must be discharged from the service, as provided for others in M. C. 86, should they prove to be unfitted for their duties.

154. The senior medical officer of an organization will be in charge of the hospital corps of his regiment, battalion, squadron, signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry, under the orders of his commanding officer.

155. The medical officer in charge of the hospital corps of a regiment, battalion or squadron will provide for the members thereof in the manner an adjutant provides for the non-commissioned staff; on returns, reports, rolls and descriptive books they will be included in the field and staff. The hospital corps of a signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry will, as far as accounting and providing is concerned, be treated as part of the organization, and on muster and pay-rolls their names will follow at the end of the roll; on form 43 the hospital corps should be accounted for by altering the heading "Recruits" or interlining a special column.

158. The medical officers of an organization will, under the direction of the senior medical officer, those of signal corps, separate troops, batteries and separate companies of infantry under the direction of the respective brigade surgeons, instruct the corporals and privates of the hospital corps, of their organization, by means of lectures and demonstrations, in the methods of rendering first aid to the sick and wounded; in the elementary principles of anatomy, physiology, hygiene and therapeutics; in the care and use of hospital and field appliances; in the modes of ordinary cooking; and as litter bearers in accordance with the prescribed manual.

159. Attendance at instruction and drills of the hospital corps and ceremonies and active duties of the command it pertains to is under M. C. 141, 143, 144 and 160, compulsory for the members of the corps, and those absent will be reported by the medical officer in charge to his commanding officer, who in turn will report such as have not been properly excused, delinquent on the return provided for such report.

160. At the close of the course of instruction, the corporals and privates of the corps shall be examined as to their proficiency by a board to be appointed for that purpose, as herein provided.

Commanding officers of brigades will, with the approval of the Surgeon-General, appoint for their respective commands, boards of examination which shall consist of not less than three medical officers, whose duty it shall be to examine and report to the brigade commander as to the proficiency of the corporals and privates of the hospital corps, who have attended the prescribed course of instruction. The presiding officer of each board shall notify the commanding officers of the organizations of his brigade of the dates on which the board will be in session and when they will examine the corporals and privates of the corps. These men shall then be ordered before the examining board by the commanding officer of the regiment, battalion, signal corps, separate troop, battery or separate company of infantry to which they belong, and those who pass the prescribed examination shall remain members of the hospital corps, subject to the approval of the medical officer in charge, and subject also to an annual examination by the board mentioned.

162. At ceremonies the hospital corps will take position six paces to the left and in continuation of the line, or six paces to the rear of the column of their regiments or battalions. They will be posted by the regimental or battalion hospital stewards, who will then remain in charge of them and take position as prescribed in the drill regulations for non-commissioned officers in command of troops, the hospital stewards of battalion of regiments acting as file closers. On practice or service marches they will follow their regiments or battalions at a distance of six paces under the charge of a hospital steward and a medical officer. In signal corps, cavalry, light artillery and separate companies of infantry, not parts of battalions at the time, the corps will take position as directed by their commanding officers.

164. Corporals and privates of the hospital corps shall, in active service, carry a canteen of water, a knife of approved pattern, and, except when serving as orderlies to medical officers, the hospital corps pouches issued to them.

169. When a member of the hospital corps ceases to be a member of a regiment, battalion, signal corps, troop, battery or separate company of infantry, he shall receive from the Surgeon-General of the State, upon recommendation of the medical officer and the commanding officer of his organization, as evidence of his special qualifications and ability to perform the duties of the corps, a certificate to that effect, and the owner of any such certificate, as evidence of his continued proficiency, may be examined at intervals of not more than two years, by the Surgeon-General, or under his direction, and the result of such examination, if favorable, indorsed upon his certificate.

170. The medical officer in charge of the hospital corps of his organization will render a report of his command, detailing its personnel, equipment, instruction and service, on the last day of August each year through the channels to the Surgeon-General, the brigade surgeon and the commanding officer of his own organization.

738. For members of the hospital corps.— A lozenge of white cloth, two and three-sixteenths inches by two and three-sixteenths inches, containing in the center a Geneva cross of red cloth, worn above the elbow of each arm. Corporals will wear the lozenge in the angle of the chevrons.

II. Requisitions for uniforms for hospital corps men, specially enlisted, will be made separately, and should be made promptly, not monthly.

INFANTRY.

(First Brigade.)

Companies A, B, C and D were organized during the excitement created by the firing of British at American vessels off Sandy Hook in April, 1806, as the first, second, third and fourth companies, and June 25th they were officially recognized by the State as part of the uniformed militia of the State, and attached to the battalion of artillery commanded by Major Andrew Sitcher. April 5, 1807, the battalion, in the organization of the Third Regiment of New York Artillery, became its Second Battalion. When war with England became imminent in 1807, these four companies, with other volunteers, were temporarily organized as a regiment, commanded by Colonel Peter Curtenius, and remained thus detached until April 20, 1809. In 1812 the Third became the Eleventh Regiment of Artillery, the four companies remaining the Second Battalion. August 25, 1824, the battalion was named "Battalion of National Guards" (its distinctive name until, in 1862, the Legislature appropriated it for the uniformed militia) and in December, 1824, the fifth company was organized, and Captain Stevens' company, of the Eleventh New York Artillery, transferred to it as the sixth company. In January, 1825, the battalion was transferred to the Second New York Artillery. October 1, 1825, the battalion was detached and organized as a separate and independent battalion, and during the month the seventh company was organized. May 4, 1826, the organization of the eighth company was completed, and May 6th the battalion was organized into a regiment, the Twenty-seventh Artillery. April 17, 1838, a troop of cavalry was admitted to the regiment, which, in 1861, became the ninth company. In 1843 the State furnished the regiment with arms, it having heretofore provided them itself. July 27th the designation of the regiment was changed to Seventh Regiment. In April, 1849, an engineer corps was organized, which, in 1861, became the tenth company. The regiment was frequently ordered to hold itself ready for service, and did active service for the United States, the State and New York city, as follows: In United States service from September 15 to December 15, 1812; from September 2 to December 2, 1814; from April 19 to June 3, 1861; from May 26 to September 5, 1862; from June 17 to July 21, 1863. ## SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT (Eight Companies).

(First Brigade.)

The Sixty-ninth Regiment was organized October 12, 1851. In 1858 it was reorganized as an artillery regiment, doing duty as infantry. It was mustered in the United States service May 9, 1861, at Washington, D. C., to serve three months, and mustered out August 3, 1861, during which service it took part in the actions at Blackburn's Ford and Bull Run. In August, 1861, about 800 men of this regiment joined the Sixty-ninth New York Volunteers, to serve three years. The regiment was again recruited and re-entered the service of the United States May 26, 1862, to serve three months; it was mustered out of service September 3, 1862. On the return from this service again the major part of the regiment entered the service of the United States for three years as the Sixty-ninth National Guard Artillery or One Hundred and Eighty-second New York Volunteers. The regiment having been reorganized was mustered in the service of the United States for thirty days from June 25 to July 25, 1863. July 6, 1864, it was again mustered in the United States service for three months, and mustered out October 6, 1864. The regiment has rendered the State service during the quarantine riots in 1858, the draft riots, 1863, and the quarantine disturbances in 1892. It was reduced, December 6, 1893, to a battalion of five companies, A, C, D, I and K. The battalion was on duty at Brooklyn during the motormen's strike in January, 1895. New companies were organized for the battalion as follows: Company B, June 5, 1894; Company G, June 10, 1895, and Company E, June 11 1895. The battalion was reconstituted a regiment September 4, 1895.
