

was attached to a Provisional Brigade in Brigadier General Casey's Division—the brigade being under command of Colonel Pratt, who immediately commenced making the brigade fit for active duty by continuous severe drills. Although in command of a brigade, Col. Pratt wished to have his regiment in the front, even if it placed him in a subordinate position, and accordingly opened negotiations to that effect. Early in November the regiment crossed the Potomac, at Chain Bridge, and marched to Upton's Mill, (Va.,) where it went into winter quarters, being attached to Gen. Wadsworth's Brigade, Gen. McDowell's Division. From that time until March, 1862, the regiment was engaged in picket duty, occasionally in a foraging or reconnoitering expedition, drill, and the usual routine of camp life. In February the army was divided in Corps d' Armee—Gen. McDowell being assigned to the command of the Corps to which the regiment was attached, Gen. Rufus King succeeding him as commander of the Division: Gen. Wadsworth retaining command of the Brigade. On the 10th of March, 1862, the regiment marched with the Army of the Potomac to near Centreville, where it remained until the 15th, when it returned to Upton's Hill; two days afterwards it marched to Bailey's Cross Roads and encamped. (Gen. Wadsworth was appointed Military Governor of Washington while the regiment was at Centreville, and left to assume his new station.) While here Brig. Gen. M. K. Patrick assumed command of the Brigade. The regiment remained in this camp until the 4th of April, when it again marched through Annandale, Fairfax Court House, Centreville and Manassas Junction, to Bristoe Station on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, which place it reached on the 6th, and where it remained until the 16th, when it proceeded to Cattlett's Station. On the 18th it marched for Fredericksburgh, and, passing through Falmouth, encamped opposite the former place on the 19th. On the 5th of May a portion of the regiment, under command of Lieut.-Col. Gates, crossed the river and occupied a portion of the city, being the first United States troops that had ever been there. On the 10th the rest of the brigade crossed and encamped on what was called the Telegraph Road, at the point where, during the late battle of Fredericksburgh, the rebels had their strongest works. On the 11th the brigade was ordered out on the Bowling Green Road, to check the enemy who were advancing toward the city in strong force.—Some slight skirmishing took place, resulting in killing the horse of one of Gen. Patrick's orderlies, when the enemy retired. The enemy lost 13 men and three horses, captured by a squad of cavalry un-

not till March.

Gen. Patrick, was assigned to the Command of the Brigade, while Gen. Wadsworth was made Military Governor of Washington der command of Lieut. Col. Gates. From this until May 26, the regiment was employed on picket duty back of the city, having occasional skirmishes with the enemy. On the 26th it marched some eight miles across the Massaponix River on the Richmond and Fredericksburgh Telegraph Road, and, on the 29th, returned, crossed the river and marched through Cattlett's Station, Greenwich and Hay Market, to intercept the retreat of Stonewall Jackson down the Shenandoah Valley. On the 6th of June it marched from Hay Market, and, passing through Warrenton, Warrenton Junction and Cattlett's Station, encamped on its old ground opposite Fredericksburgh on the 24th. On the 28th of July it again crossed the Rappahannock to Fredericksburgh, where the regiment was divided—six companies being posted below the city on the Bowling Green Road, and four companies above the city on the Orange Court House Road, and were employed on the duty of preventing any communication between the city and surrounding country. While stationed here, frequent reconnaissances under the command of Col. Pratt were made. On the 5th of August the regiment was united at the lower post. On the 9th it marched to join Pope's army, crossing the Rapidan River at Ely's Ford; reached the Army of Virginia at Cedar Mountain on the 11th, and bivouacked in line of battle with orders to attack the enemy at daylight, but he retreated during the night. On the 18th began the movement now historically known as Pope's Retreat. The Twentieth crossed the Rappahannock on the railroad bridge, at Rappahannock Station, the morning of the Twentieth at six o'clock.

CAPT. W. W. BECKWITH.—Capt. Beckwith has recently been commissioned as Captain in 20th N. Y. M., now 80th N. Y. Volunteers. The three years' men of the 35th Regiment were consolidated with the 80th Regiment, and Capt. Beckwith was credited and commissioned for them. There was no officer of the 35th Regiment more highly respected than Capt. Beckwith.

LOCAL RECORD.

MANUSCRIPT PAPERS.

Col. Pratt and His Command.

No. 6.

The insurgents had turned nineteen batteries on a United States fort, dishonored the Stars and Stripes and insulted the Government. Charleston was triumphal over the success of perjured traitors. The incendiary spirit was spreading like prairie fire over the South; vast forces were concentrating to strike the Union fatal blows; Washington was in danger; national death hovered almost in the very sight of the people; the vital air seemed dark with threatening evils and thick with direst dangers. The people of Ulster and Greene, like the people everywhere thro'out the North, were horror stricken. All were in panic. The Community lost, for a season, its interest in private affairs, its regard for social pleasures and its care for the ordinary concerns of life; even the calm and prudent felt delirium stealing over their senses, swaying their minds and affecting their judgment. Then were seen, then were felt and realized the issues of a great life. That the District must send men to support the nation, and that the Twentieth must be speedily filled and put in the field, was the unanimous sentiment of the people. All were ready to do their part; fathers and mothers gave sons; wives gave husbands; young men gave themselves; the rich gave their thousands, and others gave what they could. Money was freely offered, volunteers came flocking in, but excitement and passion ruled the day. How important, then, that the leader of the war movement be a man of true greatness, and one whose acts were the outgrowths of deep thought and a noble purpose. The occasion did not produce such a leader for us, but the career of one in our midst for years previous, had ripened him for the emergency. In Col. Pratt we instinctively placed our trust, and in him we were not deceived. We needed a man who could feel and appreciate the fearfulness of the crisis, but who would not be unnerved when that crisis most terribly lashed the public mind. And such a man we found in the accomplished scholar and refined and courteous gentlemen who commanded the Ulster Guard. *

---

LOCAL RECORD.

---

MANUSCRIPT PAPERS.

Col. Pratt and His Command.

No. 7.

There is a class in every free American community who decide the popular standing of all prominent citizens. It is composed of men whose aspirations are governed by correct principles—men who have no personal hates to becloud their judgment, nor bitter party prejudices to warp their reason. * They are men who, for the most part, know neither poverty nor riches; who live respectably and independently by honest labor; and who think their own thoughts and act out their own individualities. They are the real conservative element of the nationality—promoting every work of true progress, and resisting the assaults of disorganizers upon those old, established institutions which the present should bequeath to the future.

By such men was Col. PRATT's name first brought out conspicuously before the public. They had well read his character; they had discovered his rare ability both as a thinker and as a worker, and they knew that either in affairs of honor or in great undertakings he would never fail.— They made for him this high distinction, not because he came from sound stock and was of the best American blood, not because he was a son of a business prince, and he himself possessed the eminent advantages of learning and wealth; but because they were assured that he was above base purposes, and was endowed with power of mind and with executive force in proportion to the integrity of his soul.

When he was a candidate for State Senator they rallied to his support with an unanimity never before known in the District. An influential politician went out to make a stumping and electioneering tour, a few days before the election in 1857. His own confessions made to a confidential friend on his return, showed the inutility of all attempts at weakening the Colonel in the estimation of the masses: "I saw our main men, and did all I could to stir them up to a vigorous prosecution of the canvass. Our party politicians are doing all they can, and for the most of our candidates I have made a good many votes outside of our organization; but the more I said about defeating Pratt the stronger public favor manifested itself. Even many of the best men on our side will hear nothing against him. Trying to work against him only injures our ticket. We had better do what we can for the rest of the ticket and let State Senator alone."

And let it be remembered that the heavy majority given him at that election, was not in any sense a disparagement to the reputation of the opposing candidate who was one of Ulster's solid men, or who always had hosts of fast and friends; it was simply because Col. Pratt's popularity extended far beyond party lines, and was independent of party influences. *

Our Gallant Twentieth.

Ulster may well be proud of the record of her veteran regiment, the glorious old 20th. The flag of the "Ulster Guard" has been in the forefront of the fiercest battles of the army of the Potomac. It has sealed its devotion to the country by the blood of its brave men in many conflicts, and in the last and fiercest fight of the war, it has given a new and most disproportionate contribution to the list of the killed and wounded in that glorious victory. The following special order of the commander of the Division in which the 20th fought, is one of their hard won testimonials of a gallantry never exceeded:—

HEADQUARTERS, 3rd Division 1st Corps,
July 6, 1863.

The Major General commanding the division desires to return his thanks to the Vermont brigade, the One Hundred and Fifty-first Pennsylvania volunteers, and the Twentieth New York State Militia, for their gallant conduct in resisting in the front line the main attack of the enemy upon this position, after sustaining a terrific fire from seventy-five to one hundred pieces of artillery. He congratulates them upon contributing so essentially to the glorious and it is to be hoped final victory of yesterday.

By command of Major-General DOUBLEDAY.

EDWARD C. BAIRD, Capt. and A. A. G.

OUR WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

Losses of the 20th N. Y. Militia at Gettysburg—Charles Keegan, of Cazenovia, and Other Former Members of the 35th Among Them.

Camp 20th N. Y. STATE MILITIA,
Near Boonesboro, July 12, 1863.

To the Editor of the Cazenovia Republican:

I send you a list of the casualties of our regiment, and have the honor to request that you will publish the same for the benefit of the 35th N. Y. Volunteers, as they were in the same brigade with our regiment.

I was recently commissioned Assistant Surgeon in the 20th N. Y. S. M., and am from Old Madison Co., and a reader of your excellent little paper, which my parents send me each week.

You will excuse all errors, &c., &c., as this was written behind the works thrown up last night by our boys, without table, or tent to cover us; and besides, I had a scanty supply of paper. You may use my name, &c.

Very respectfully, yours,

WM. TAYLOR, M. D.,
Asst. Surgeon 20th N. Y. S. M.

The 20th N. Y. S. M., the only remaining regiment of Patrick's Brigade, to which the 35th N. Y. Vols. were attached during their term of service, was among the regiments engaged at the late battle near Gettysburg. It will be remembered that a number of three years' men from the 35th were transferred to this regiment on the expiration of the time of service of the remainder of that regiment. The 20th had been doing provost duty at Aquia Creek, and covered the evacuation of that place on the 18th ult. On the 30th they reported to the 1st Army Corps, and joined the 8d Division just in time to be engaged with it at Gettysburg on the 1st inst. They shared the severe fighting and hard handling which that corps received that day from the enemy, and were forced to retreat from the town with a loss of over one-half their number killed and wounded. They were under fire on the night of the 2d, and all day of the 3d, and aided so materially in repulsing the attack of Longstreet's corps on the center of our position that day, as to win the thanks of Maj. Gen. Doubleday, in General Orders, for their good conduct and success.

Annexed will be found a list of the casualties, from which it will be seen that of 277 officers and men engaged, 176 are killed, wounded, or prisoners, and among the number 17 officers.

Some of the late members of the 35th are on the list.

List of the casualties in the 20th N. F. S. M. in the late action of Gettysburg, July 1st, 2d, and 3d.

Maj. Walter A. Van Rensselaer, wounded;
Adj. John M. Schoonmaker, do.

COMPANY A—Corporal Theodore Wheeler, killed; Charles C. Babcock, Henry Belcher, Duane S. Burk, Francis Lee, do; Corporal Franklin Hermance, wounded, and prisoner; John Donnelly, head; James E. Doxie, arm; Dewitt Hamlin; Daniel Meader, wounded, and prisoner; Wm. Baker; Franklin Slight; Wm. A. Stocking, flesh wound; 1st Serg't Asa C. Howard, prisoner; Jacob Cook, Wm. Bishop; George E. Jones; John W. Ferris; David Ackert, do; Serg't John Ridings, missing; Abram Warner, Michael Killroy, Harvey Ackert, do.

COMPANY B—Capt. John R. Leslie, wounded; Ephraim Roostic, killed; Thos. Garrison, do; Serg't W. Bloxham, wounded; Serg't Isaac Buswall, do; John Knighton; James Kegan, do; Serg't Yaple, do; Wm. Risingburger, John H. Swast, Adam Moore; James Wescott, Charles McNiff, Frank Bowman, Silers Pryne, Jacob Teele, do; James Ellsworth, prisoner; Rob't McCarrick, do; Henry Van Buren, missing, M. Druryan, do.

COMPANY C—1st Lieut. A. S. Scott, wounded, (slight); 2d Lieut. Jas. Fleming, wounded; Sergeant James Craig, do (since died); Corp'l Walter Tyler, killed; G. Van Sternburgh, Edward Crogan, do; Corporal G. W. Pardee, wounded, and prisoner; John Dunn; Geo. A. Ackert; John Boyle, wounded, and prisoner; John Ellorman, (slightly); J. Kerrigan; Frederick Smith, wounded, and prisoner; Joseph Shelightner, (face); Jonathan Dubois, wounded and prisoner; Thos. Wells, Abram Van Buskirk, do; Benjamin J. Hasbrouck; George G. Lowe, prisoner; Chas. A. Simmons, wounded, and prisoner; Theron Archmoedy, missing; James Gannon, prisoner; Wm. Crum, missing.

COMPANY D—Captain Daniel McMahon, wounded, (leg, &c., amputated); Lieut. Geo. B. Wolcott, do, leg and face; Serg't Luther McClellan, killed; Eben Higgins, Reuben C. Van Luren, Albert Collier, Samson Eggenbergh, Amos C. Treat, do; Charles Kniffins, mortally wounded; Serg't Asa Bishop, wounded; Asa Jones, slightly; Dewitt Rose, shoulder; Ira B. Taft; Corp'l John Cudney, prisoner; Dan'l A. Bainhart, Ephraim Bush, do.

COMPANY E—Lieut. Geo. W. Brankstone, killed; Lieut. Abram Merritt, wounded, (arm and chest); Alexander Tice, killed; George Babcock, Leonard Van Gorder, do; Lewis Snyder, side; Henry Irwin, mortally; James Harsfall, badly; Wm. Tetterman, wounded; Corp'l John Johnson, do; Lorenzo B. Headly, Samuel Norfolk, Wm. S. Van Kenson, Enos B. Vail, do; Serg't Louis Champeane do; Serg't Stephen, L. Kearney, do; Jessie Kidney, prisoner; John Dunn, I. Waite, do; 1st Serg't Isiah S. Decker, missing; Corporal Jacob Fister, do.

COMPANY F—Captain Joseph S. Corbin, killed; Lieut. John Delacroy, wounded, (both thighs); Joseph Tuft, killed; Serg't Edward Beckett, wounded, and prisoner; Serg't A. Mullin, wounded; Corp'l John Burns, do; Wm. J. Miller, Michael McCusky, do; Geo. Pells, side; John Gray, Edw. Ashley; Thos. Crooks, prisoner; Thomas Doyle, do; Geo. McMichael, missing.

COMPANY G—Captain Wm. Cunniff, do; wounded; Lieut. Geo. B. Mullin, do; Lucian Decker, killed; James Decker, do; Serg't James Higgins, wounded, hand; James Bonstead, leg; Peter Van Wagoner, ankle; John C. Parks, arm; Wm. Snaffer, leg; Nicholas Van Valkenburgh, breast.

COMPANY H—Captain Thomas Alexander, wounded, (leg); Lieut. E. A. Ross, prisoner; Lieut. Alfred Tamer, wounded; Corp'l Eli De Groff, killed; Ansel S. Pierce, do; Gibbon, wounded; Corp'l John G. Adorf, do; Corp'l Jas. C. Angeline, do; Thos. Keegan, both legs, (badly); Morris Deane, leg; Aaron Nichols; Wm. L. Snyder, do; Serg't George A. Capman, prisoner; Wm. T. Graves, Joseph Stickler, do; John Sullivan, missing; Sam'l Graves, do.

COMPANY I—Corp'l Joseph Leonard, killed; John Tracy, do; Thos. Hyatt, wounded, (probably killed); Squire Sanders, do; 1st Serg't Michael Farrell, wounded, and prisoner; Moses Whittaker, side; William Tuller, arm; George Rossmann; Corporal Abram W. Swart, leg, (severely); James Laran; John W. Plimley; Harry Thompkins; Emerson Scott, arm; S. Strong; David Post; Barney Fitch, arm, broken; Alexander Van Aken, arm; Wm. S. Hanson, arm, (badly); Nicholas Rossmann; Wm. Parkinson, foot; Edward Wright, wounded, and prisoner; Francis Demorse, prisoner; Lyman G. Waters, do.

COMPANY K—Capt. D. N. Baldwin, killed; Lieut. J. M. Young, wounded; Serg't Moses Decker, killed; N. Southard, do; 1st Serg't Jehiel G. Judd, wounded; Serg't Joseph Hill, leg, (badly); Corp'l John Chandler; Addison S. Hays, arm; Gould P. Austin, prisoner.

KINGSTON, N.

Casualties of the Twentieth.

Col. Gates has sent to the Journal a list of the late casualties in the 20th Regiment, from which it makes the following corrections in, and additions to, the previous statement:

COMPANY A. ●

Corporal F. Hermance, wounded and prisoner.

John Donnelly, wounded in head.
James E. Doxie, wounded in arm.
Daniel Meader, wounded and prisoner.
Serg't Asa C. Howard, prisoner.
Jacob Cook, prisoner.
Wm. Bishop, do.
George C. Jones, do.
John W. Ferris, do.
David Ackert, do.
Serg't John Ridings, missing.
Harvey Eckert, do.

COMPANY B.

John Knighton, wounded in leg.
James Ellsworth, prisoner.
Reuben Carrick, prisoner.

Robert M...
Henry Van Buren, wounded in leg.

COMPANY C.

Serg't James Craig, wounded on the 3d, and died on the 4th.
John Boyle, wounded and prisoner.
Fred. Smith, do. do.
Abram A. Van Buskirk, wounded in back and prisoner.
Benjamin L. Hasbrouck, wounded.
George G. Low, prisoner.
Charles A. Simmons, wounded and prisoner.
James Gannon, prisoner.

COMPANY D.

Samson Eggenburgh, killed.
Charles Kniffin, leg amputated.
Serg't Asa Bishop, wounded.
Corporal John Cudney, prisoner.
Daniel A. Barnhart, prisoner.
Ephraim Bush, prisoner.

COMPANY E.

George Babcock, killed.
Henry Irvine, mortally wounded.
Louis Snyder, wounded in side.
James Hausfall, thigh, flesh wound.
William Fetterman, right leg.
Jesse Kidney, prisoner and wounded.
John Dunn, prisoner.
J. Waite, do.
Serg't Isaiah S. Decker, missing.

COMPANY F.

Sergeant Edward Beckett, wounded
prisoner.
George Pells, wounded in side.
John Grey, wounded.
Thomas Crooks, prisoner.
Thomas Doyle, do.

COMPANY G.

Peter Van Wae

A. J. Gibbs
Corp. Jas. ... unded.
William S... shou...
Serg't Geo. A. Cap... prisoner and wounded.
William T. G... ves, prisoner.
Joseph Sickle... prisoner.
John Sullivan, missing

COMPANY H.

Thomas Hyatt, wounded, since died.
Squire Flanders, wounded, supposed killed.
Sergeant Michael Farrell, wounded and
prisoner.
S. Strong, wounded.
David S. Post, wounded.
Edward Wright, breast, and prisoner.
Francis Demorse, prisoner.
Lyman O. Waters, do.

COMPANY I.

Gould P. Austin, prisoner.

Capt. Joseph S. Corbin.

Among the slain at Gettysburg, is Capt. Jos.
S. Corbin of Co. F, 20th Regiment N. Y. S.
M. This is Roundout's especial company, and Capt. Corbin was one of our best known citizens. He was from Roxbury, Delaware Co.,
originally, and for some years prior to the war, was at the head of District School No. 7. He went out with the 20th on its first three months service, as a Sergeant in the company at whose head he has now fallen. On the reorganization for three years service, he took the command.—
He was a most energetic and efficient officer.—
Nothing brings more vividly to view the havoc or war, than to recall the vigorous and manly person of one like Capt. Corbin moving among us so brief a time since, and now among the fallen. He was in his 34th year.—Rondout Courier.

From the Gallant Old Twentieth.

The latest special news we have from the Ulster Guard, is in a letter from Daniel Treat to his father Alfred A. Treat of this village. It is dated Boonsboro, Md., July 9th.

He says the regiment is reduced to 97 men fit for duty, and had then just received orders to join the First Army Corps, to which it is now attached.

Daniel is a drummer in Co. D. His brother Amos C. Treat, a private in Co. D., aged 23, was killed July 1st, by balls through his breast and head. His last words were, "stick to the colors, boys!" Just before going into battle he said to his brother, "Tell father if I fall, I won't die a coward." And, poor fellow! he bravely kept his word.

Capt. McMahon of Co. D., was wounded in four places, and has a leg amputated. There are only 9 effective men of his company left.

Daniel, who is but 19 years of age, very touchingly complains of his lonely feeling, for nearly all his comrades are dead or wounded. Mr. Treat has another son, William, in the 20th, but now detached and doing duty as an Orderly at Annapolis. The drummer boy, like his brothers, has a brave heart, and we wish that everybody could emulate him in "looking on the bright side," as he urges his father to do under the most disastrous auspices.

- 20th Regiment, N. Y. S. M.
- Major Van Rensselaer, wounded.
- Adjt. J. M. Schoonmaker, do.
- COMPANY A.
- John Donnelly, killed; Duane S. Bush, killed; James E. Doxey, killed; Henry Belcher, killed; Chas. C. Babcock, killed; Jacob Cook, killed; Corp. Theo. Wheeler, killed; Philip Cookingham, wounded; Francis Lee, killed; DeWitt Hamlin, killed; Daniel Meader, wounded; Wm. Baker, wounded; Franklin Sleight, wounded; Wm. A. Stocking, wounded; Sergt. Asa C. Howard, missing; Wm. Bishop, missing; George C. James, missing; Corp. Franklin Hermance, missing; Abram Warner, missing; John W. Ferris, missing; Michae Kilroy, wounded; Daniel Ackert, wounded; Harry Eckert, wounded; Karner Cookingham, wounded.

COMPANY B.

Capt. J. R. Leslie, wounded; Ephraim Roosa, killed; Theodore Garrison, killed; John Knighton, killed; Sergt. W. Bloxham, wounded; Sergt. I. C. Buswell, wounded; James Keegan, wounded; Sergt. Andrew Yapple, wounded; Corp'l Wm. Risebergber, wounded; Corp'l John H. Swar, wounded; Adam Moore, wounded; James Westcott, wounded; Corp'l C. K. Macni, wounded; F. Boman, wounded; Silas Perrine, wounded; H. C. Van Beuren, missing; J. H. Ellsworth, missing; M. Dene gar, missing; Jacob Teal, wounded.

COMPANY C.

Lieut. A. S. Schutt, wounded; Lieut. James Flemming, wounded; Corp'l W. S. Tyler, killed; Constantine Van Steenburg, killed; Edward Coogan, killed; Serg't Craig, wounded; Corp'l G. W. Pardee, do; Corp'l J. Dunn, Jr., do; Geo. A. Acker, do; John Boyle, do; S. A. Boneasteel, do; John Eddleman, do; Jerry Harrigan, do; Fred. Smith, do; Chas. A. Simmons, do; Joseph Shelightner, do; Jon. Dubois, do; Thomas Wells, do; Abram A. Vanbuskirk, do; Theron Auchmoo, missing; James Gannon, do; B. L. F. brouck, do; Wm. F. Krum, do.

COMPANY D.

Capt. McMahon, wounded, lost leg; Lieut. George B. Wolcott, wounded; Serg't Luther McClellan, killed; Eben Higgins, killed; Reuben C. Van Leuven, killed; Albert Collier, killed; Serg't A. D. Miller, wounded; Serg't Chas. Kniffins, do; Serg't Asa Jones, do; Corporal John Cudney, do; De Witt Rose, do; Ira B. Taft, do; S. Egenburgh, do; Wm. H. Howart, missing; Amos C. Treat, killed; D. H. Larnhart, wounded; Ephraim Bush, wounded; Harmon Collier, missing.

COMPANY E.

Lieut. G. W. Brankstone, killed; Lieut. Abram Merritt, wounded; Alex. Tice, killed; James Hausfall, do; Wm. Fetterman, do; Lewis Snyder, do; Leonard Vangorder, do; Henry Irwin, wounded; Serg't Dewitt, do; Corp'l John Johnson, do; Lorenzo B. Healey, do; Samuel Norfolk, do; Wm. S. Van Keuren, do; Enos B. Vail, do; Serg't Isaiah S. Decker, do; Serg't Lewis Champagne, do; Serg't Stephen L. Carney, do; Corp'l Jacob Fister, missing; Jesse Kidney, wounded; Geo. Babcock, do.

COMPANY F.

Capt. J. S. Corbin, killed; Lieut. Delacroy, wounded; Geo. Pells, killed; John Luft, do; Serg't A. Mullen, wounded; Serg't Edward Beckett, do; Corp'l John Burns, do; Wm. J. Miller, do; M. McCluskey, do; Thomas Conlon, do; John Guy, do; Edward Ashley, do; Thomas Croaks, missing; George McMichael, do; Thomas Doyle, do.

COMPANY G.

Captain Cunningham, wounded; Lieut. George B. Mulks, do; Serg't L. Decker, killed; Serg't Higgins, wounded; Serg't Bonesteel, do; James Hallock, killed; John C. Parks, wounded; William Schaffer, do; N. Van Valkenbergh, do; Jacob O. [unclear], missing; S. D. Howard, do; Robert [unclear], missing.

COMPANY H.

Captain Alexander, wounded; Lieut E. A. Ross, prisoner; Lieut A. Tanner, wounded; Anson S. Pierce, killed; Serg't Geo. A. Mann, wounded; Serg't George A. Capron, do; Corp'l John Orendorf, do; Corp'l James E. Angevine, killed; William T. Greaves, wounded; Morris Hein, do; Corp. E. A. Degraff, killed; John Sullivan, wounded; Samuel Greaves, missing; Charles Keegan, wounded; William L. Snyder, missing; Aaron Nichols, wounded; Joseph Sickler, missing; A. J. Gibbons, killed.

COMPANY I.

Corp'l Joseph Leonard, killed; Serg't M. Farrell, wounded; Serg't M. Whittaker, do; Serg't William Fuller, do; Serg't Geo. Roseman, do; William L. Henson, do; Thomas Hyatt, killed; James Larin, wounded; John W. Plimley, do; Harry Tompkins, do; Emerson Scott, do; S. Flanders, do; Edward Wright, do; N. Rossman, do; A. Van Aken, do; Corp'l Abram Swart, do; Barney Fitch, do; Peter Kelly, do; John Tracy, killed; L. O. Waters, missing; F. Demarte, wounded; W. Parkinson, do.

COMPANY K.

Captain Baldwin, killed; Lieutenant J. M. Young, wounded; Serg't M. Decker, killed; N. Southard, do; Serg't Jehiel J. Judd, wounded; Corp'l John Chandler, do; Andrew Maben, do; Addison S. Hayes, do; Sergeant Hill, do; Gould P. Austin, missing.

Capt. Joseph S. Corbin.

Among the slain at Gettysburg, is Capt. Joseph S. Corbin, of Co. F, 20th Regiment N. Y. S. M. This is Roundout's especial company, and Capt. Corbin was one of our best known citizens. He was from Delaware Co. originally, and for some years prior to the war, was at the head of District School No. 7. He went out with the 20th on its first three months service, as a Sergeant in the company at whose head he has now fallen. On the reorganization for three years service, he took the command. He was a most energetic and efficient officer, and possessed in the highest degree the confidence of his men.

Captain Corbin leaves a wife and several children, who have been residing here since he took the field. On receiv-