

APPENDIX D

DIVISIONAL CITATIONS

- MAJOR JOHN B. SHARP, The Buffs, British Army. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As Chief of the Detachment of British Military Mission, attached to 27th Division, this able and experienced officer was an inspiration to zealous endeavor. He established and maintained a high standard of efficiency in all branches of instruction conducted by the British personnel and especially in physical and bayonet training. His personal magnetism, alert mentality and trained energy materially assisted in the development of a splendid combat efficiency in all infantry units of the division.
- CAPTAIN A. N. BRAITHWAITE, British Army. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As a member of the British Military Mission, attached to the 27th Division, this efficient officer conducted the training of units of artillery and infantry armed with trench mortars with marked skill and such ability as to impart a confidence and assurance in the value of their weapons on the part of these units and very materially contributed to their tactical and strategical employment in combat.
- CAPTAIN H. H. DEANS, Kings Own Scottish Borderers, British Army (Deceased). S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As a member of the British Military Mission, attached to the 27th Division, this gallant and accomplished officer, himself a victim during the original enemy gas attack in the first battle of Ypres, conducted the training in gas defense with such zeal and intelligence as to impress its importance on all ranks to such excellent purpose that thereafter during active operations the application of this skilled instruction served appreciably to minimize gas casualties in the division. Upon relief from such detail this officer returned to active duty in the field and was later killed in action.
- CAPTAIN ALFRED HALL, British Army. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As a member of the British Military Mission, attached to the 27th Division, this able and experienced officer conducted the training of units armed with Stokes and trench mortars with such skill and intelligence as to inspire a confidence in the use of their weapons by the units concerned, which enhanced very materially the tactical and technical employment of such units in later operations. This accomplished officer accompanied the division overseas and continued his valuable services in the development of combat efficiency during its period of training while in occupation of a British defensive sector.
- CAPTAIN ROBERT K. HANNA, Staff Captain, A. A. and Q. M. C., Staff, B. E. F. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As Liaison Officer with the Headquarters of this division, from June 1 to November 25, 1918, his services, based on the secure foundation of familiarity with precedent and procedure in higher formations of the British Army, were at the disposal of Division Headquarters, and were appreciated as being extremely valuable in connection with administrative details. Captain Hanna, in addition to his professional knowledge, possesses the attributes of an alert mentality, keen perception, instant estimate of the abilities and characteristics of individuals and units, a great capacity for work, coupled with energy, activity, zeal, cheerfulness and tact. His timely hints and suggestions were of especial value during the operations of the division while with the Second British Army, vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, and with the Fourth British Army, vicinity of Le Catelet and Le Cateau, France. That the administrative arrangements were conducted throughout, practically without a hitch, is believed to be, in part, due to the information so freely, willingly and tactfully imparted by this officer.
- CAPTAIN H. H. JOHNSON, Welsh Regiment, British Army. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service. As a member of the British Military Mission, attached to the 27th Division, he so conducted the training in sniping, observation, scouting, conduct of patrols and raids, from a broad experience, as to impart an ability for later demonstration in combat of skilled accomplishment in these branches by front line units of the division. This able and experienced officer accompanied the division overseas and continued his valuable services in the development of combat efficiency during its period of training while occupying a British defensive sector.
- CAPTAIN RAOUL G. BORDE, 35th Regiment Light Artillery, French Army. S. O. 86
For his exceptional services in making artillery reconnaissance and for his rare military attainments and pronounced ability displayed as Assistant to the Operations Officer from September 8 to November 11, 1918, which proved to be a most important factor in all brigade operations, and for the conspicuous worth of his services as Liaison Officer with the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, during its entire overseas service.
- CAPTAIN CHARLES G. VEYSSIERE, Infantry, French Army. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As Chief of the Detachment of the French Military Mission, attached to the 27th Division, this experienced officer of quiet, forceful personality, by precept and example, established and maintained a high standard of efficiency in all branches of instruction conducted by French personnel. Especially in connection with training in the use of automatic arms he devoted energetic zeal and skilled accomplishment which aided materially in the attainment of technical and tactical efficiency in units armed with such weapons.
- FIRST LIEUTENANT HENRI BERTEAUX, Heavy Artillery, French Army. S. O. 86
For the conspicuous worth of his services as the Liaison Officer with the 106th Field Artillery during its entire combatant service, September 9 to November 11, 1918.
- FIRST LIEUTENANT IVES A. BERTRAND, 33d Regiment Heavy Artillery, French Army. S. O. 86
For the conspicuous worth of his services as the Liaison Officer with the 105th Field Artillery during its entire combatant service, September 9 to November 11, 1918.
- LIEUTENANT PIERRE FORESTIER, Infantry, French Army. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As a member of the French Military Mission attached to the 27th Division, this capable and experienced officer conducted the training in the use of grenades. By precept and example, with alert intelligence, he inspired enthusiasm for the attainment of proficiency in the employment of these weapons and a desire for emulation of the skill in their use existing in the forces of the Allies together with an intense admiration for the service and army he represented. This officer of agreeable presence and magnetic personality was a strong influence for military efficiency in the training of our troops. He accompanied the division overseas and continued his valuable services in the development of combat efficiency during its training period while in occupation of a British defensive sector.

LIEUTENANT CHARLES W. SMITH, Infantry, French Army. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As a member of the French Military Mission attached to the 27th Division, he conducted the training of all units in liaison and battle communication from a wealth of experience and with a degree of tactful, zealous energy and skill, contributing substantially to the acquisition of technique by the detachments concerned, which was later demonstrated in terms of combat efficiency during their active operations in Belgium and France.

LIEUTENANT ERNEST D. VEYRET, Engineers, French Army. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service. As a member of the French Military Mission attached to the 27th Division, this officer conducted the training of engineer troops and detachments of other arms in the principles of modern fortifications and extemporized field construction. His technical skill, force of character and previous experience combined to make the services of this able and accomplished officer of the greatest value to the organizations concerned, which later demonstrated their efficiency in battle during active operations in Belgium and France. He accompanied the division overseas and continued his excellent instruction in the development of combat efficiency during the period of training in a British defensive sector.

BRIGADIER GENERAL ALBERT H. BLANDING, Infantry, U. S. A. S. O. 33

For courageous and determined qualities of leadership while in command of the 53d Infantry Brigade of this division, frequently demonstrated in the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France.

BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES W. LESTER. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious service in the training of the 54th Infantry Brigade of the 27th Division, which developed under his leadership a very high standard of skill and morale.

BRIGADIER GENERAL PALMER E. PIERCE, Commanding 54th Infantry Brigade. S. O. 33

For intelligent and determined qualities of leadership demonstrated while in command of the 54th Infantry Brigade of this division during the battles and engagements in which the division participated in Belgium and France.

BRIGADIER GENERAL GEORGE ALBERT WINGATE, 52d Field Artillery Brigade. S. O. 86

For exceptionally efficient and meritorious service as Commanding Officer, 105th Field Artillery, during its training period at Camp Wadsworth, and later as Commanding General, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, during all its operations abroad. General Wingate brought to the performance of his duties exceptional qualities of leadership, great energy and industry and a thorough knowledge of the field artillery arm. The battle efficiency of his brigade in support of the 33d and 79th Divisions during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive was officially commended by both Division Commanders.

BRIGADIER GENERAL GEORGE ALBERT WINGATE, 52d Field Artillery Brigade. S. O. 86

For great gallantry and determination in riding forward over a shell swept road under direct enemy observation for the purpose of supervising the forward batteries of his brigade. This near Gercourt, France, on October 5, 1918, while in support of the 53d Division.

COLONEL JAMES M. ANDREWS, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in leaving shelter and under heavy shell fire carrying from the open to cover a Lieutenant of his command who had been wounded and rendered helpless. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 10, 1918.

COLONEL JAMES M. ANDREWS, Commanding 105th Infantry. S. O. 33

For energetic and zealous qualities of leadership demonstrated in battle while in command of his regiment during active operations of the division in Belgium and France.

COLONEL H. H. BANDHOLTZ, Division Headquarters. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services as Chief of Staff of the division during its training period at Camp Wadsworth, S. C. His experience, demonstrated capacity and sound judgment contributed much toward the development of the high state of efficiency attained by the division.

COLONEL MORTIMER D. BRYANT, Commanding 107th Infantry. S. O. 33

For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership in battle frequently demonstrated while serving as a Major, commanding the 106th Machine Gun Battalion, and for a time as Acting Divisional Machine Gun Officer, during the active operations of the division in Belgium and France, and as well for exceptional ability as a Regimental Commander in command of the 107th Infantry.

COLONEL THOMAS CRIMMINS, 102d Engineers S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious and efficient services as an engineer officer during operations of the 27th Division in Flanders, July and August, 1918, and for coolness and courage under fire in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in August, 1918.

COLONEL CHARLES DEBEVOISE, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional qualities of leadership and extraordinary gallantry frequently exhibited under fire in all battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France. The extraordinary accomplishment of the 107th Infantry was greatly influenced by the determination and tactical skill of this accomplished officer.

COLONEL JOHN T. DELANEY, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For his exceptional military attainments displayed while in command of his regiment during its operations in support of the attack on the Ormont Wood, France, November 4 to 7, 1918, which were a most important factor in overcoming enemy resistance at that point.

COLONEL JOHN T. DELANEY, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4 to 8, 1918. This officer voluntarily maintained his P. C. in an advanced position, under heavy and constant fire of high explosives and gas shells under direct enemy observation.

COLONEL WILLARD C. FISK, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For devotion to duty and skilled leadership while commanding the 107th Infantry in the United States and in France. This officer by virtue of his great experience and extraordinary qualities of leadership developed his regiment to a remarkable degree of efficiency and maintained its high standards in France until serious illness compelled him to relinquish command.

COLONEL STANLEY H. FORD, General Staff, American E. F., France. S. O. 33

For zeal and devotion to duty while serving as Chief of Staff of the division during its operations in Belgium and in France. At all times this officer rendered loyal and intelligent support to the Division Commander, and in battle demonstrated high qualities of personal courage.

COLONEL EDGAR S. JENNINGS, Commanding 108th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For zealous and intelligent leadership of his regiment throughout the entire period of active operations of the division in Belgium and France.

COLONEL EDGAR S. JENNINGS, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage in action and for intelligent leadership of his regiment throughout the entire period of active operations of the division in Belgium and in France.

COLONEL FRANK H. NORTON, Commanding 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, zeal and devotion to duty in the initial period of organization and training of his regiment at Camp Wadsworth, S. C., during the winter of 1917-1918.

COLONEL EMERY T. SMITH, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action which was an example and inspiration to his officers and men in regimental position between Chattancourt and Le Mort Homme, September 26, 1918. While directing the operations of his regiment he visited the batteries of the three battalions of his regiment while they were under artillery fire during the enemy counter offensive and urged them to put forth every effort in their important mission.

COLONEL MERRITT H. SMITH, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the vicinity of La Claire Farm and Bois de Forges, France, September 9 to October 18, 1918, before and during the Meuse-Argonne offensive. This officer rendered conspicuous services and, although seriously ill, continued in the performance of his duties until completely prostrated.

COLONEL WILLIAM A. TAYLOR, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage in action and devotion to duty while in command of his regiment at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31 to September 2, 1918, and for courage under fire at The Knoll, Guillemont Farm, Quennemont Farm, September 27, 1918. It was the 106th Infantry under command of this officer which attacked and shattered the outer defenses of the Hindenburg system, east of Ronssoy, France.

COLONEL WILLIAM A. TAYLOR, Commanding Motor Transport. S. O. 86
 For organizing and commanding the Third Officers' Training Camp at Camp Wadsworth, S. C., January-April, 1918. The high ideals and standards of this school, its rigid discipline and the thoroughness of the instruction and training have marked the graduates of the school in their later careers as officers.

COLONEL CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As Commanding Officer of the 102d Engineers he developed in that regiment, during its training period in the United States and Belgium, a high state of efficiency and morale. His demonstrated capacity as Acting Chief of Staff of the division during part of its training period at Camp Wadsworth and as Regimental Commander in Belgium during the early engagements of his regiment resulted in his promotion to the grade of Brigadier General.

COLONEL FRANKLIN W. WARD, Commanding 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For courage, determination and thoroughness in personally supervising the ordered dispositions of his regiment under heavy enemy fire and in thick fog, in the early morning of October 17, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, France.

COLONEL DE WITT C. WELD, JR., 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4 to 8, 1918. This officer voluntarily maintained his P. C. in an advanced position, under heavy and constant fire of high explosives and gas shells under direct enemy observation.

COLONEL DE WITT C. WELD, JR., 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For his exceptional resourcefulness and rare military attainments displayed during operations of his regiment in the attack on the Bourne du Gornouiller, France, November 4 to 7, 1918, which were a most important factor in the capture of enemy positions at that point.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL HOMER B. BATTENBERG, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services, untiring energy, zeal and devotion to duty as Assistant Chief of Staff, Assistant Adjutant and finally as Division Adjutant during the entire period of mobilization and training of the division in the United States, and throughout active operations in the occupation of a British defensive sector, Ypres-Lys offensive, Belgium, and in the Somme offensive, France. This capable officer by constant and close attention to detail developed and maintained a high standard of efficiency in the Adjutant General's Department of the division.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL WALTER L. BELL, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. As Motor Transport Officer of the 27th Division his zeal, energy and intelligent employment of transport contributed materially to the efficient movement of troops during the occupation of a British defensive sector in the Ypres salient, July 8 to August 20, 1918; Ypres-Lys offensive, Belgium, August 21 to September 2, 1918, and the Somme offensive, France, September 24 to October 22, 1918.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL CHARLES W. BERRY, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and energy exhibited while in command of the 105th Infantry during operations in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch Lane sector, near Mt. Kemmel and Ypres, Belgium.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL STANLEY BULKLEY, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in continuing to advance with his battalion after having been painfully wounded, declining medical attention until completely exhausted. This during operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL MATTHEW F. CARNEY, Division Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service and untiring devotion to duty as Division Dental Surgeon during the entire service of the division in Belgium and France.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL JOSEPH J. DALY, Division Ordnance Officer. S. O. 33
 For exceptional capacity as an organizer and untiring and intelligent energy demonstrated during the period of service with the British Army in Belgium and in France, which called for the prompt adaptation of methods to meet the British system of supply.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL NICHOLAS ENGEL, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery, devotion to duty and military skill exhibited by this officer during all the battles and engagements in which the regiment participated in Belgium and France. This able officer by his energy and cooperation contributed largely to the extraordinary accomplishments of the 107th Infantry.

- LIEUTENANT COLONEL KENNETH GARDNER, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service, untiring devotion to duty, and efficiency as a machine gun instructor and in command of the 105th Machine Gun Battalion during the entire period of active operations of the division in Belgium and France during the summer and fall of 1918.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL WADE HAMPTON HAYES, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
As Captain, Commanding Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry, during the training period, he developed a high state of efficiency in his command. Later, assigned to General Staff duties, he performed valuable services in connection with the training of the division.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL J. LESLIE KINCAID, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service and untiring zeal as Division Judge Advocate during the entire service of the division in Belgium and France. This officer also made personal reconnaissances, under fire, with results of great value, during operations in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel and Ypres, Belgium, and during the battle of Le Selle River, France.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL MORRIS N. LIEBMANN, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
For skilled leadership and devotion to duty while in command of his regiment and up to the time that he was killed in action, August 5, 1918, near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL EDWARD McLEER, JR., Division Machine Gun officer. S. O. 33
For skilled leadership and great personal courage in the battle of the Hindenburg Line while serving as Divisional Machine Gun Officer, September 25-30, 1918.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL WALTER C. MONTGOMERY, Division Surgeon. S. O. 33
For exceptional capacity for organization and leadership, energy and courage under fire, providing for and supervising the effective evacuation of wounded during all the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL EDWARD OLMSTED, Assistant Chief of Staff (G-1). S. O. 42
For zeal, energy and skilled accomplishment while serving as Assistant Chief of Staff (G-1) throughout the entire period of active operations of the division in Belgium and in France.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL LUCIUS A. SALISBURY, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty and exceptional personal courage while Surgeon of his regiment at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918. This officer personally directed the evacuation of the wounded along the front line until himself wounded. He then continued his work at an advanced aid station under heavy rifle and artillery fire until his wound required his evacuation to the rear.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL THOMAS M. SHERMAN, 54th Infantry Brigade. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service as Major, Brigade Adjutant, 54th Infantry Brigade, during the critical days from October 4 to 22, 1918. To his untiring energy, trained military capacity and coolness under fire was due much of the success attained by the brigade during the serious fighting of these days. He displayed gallantry of a high order under fire at Busigny and again at Escaufourt, France, during Le Selle River operations, October 14 to 22, 1918.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL WILLIAM T. STARR, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and efficiency in maintaining liaison with divisions of our own and Allied armies in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch Lake sector, near Mt. Kemmel and Ypres, Belgium, and during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, St. Quentin Canal sector, France.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL WILLIAM T. STARR, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious services in the selection, instruction and training of the personnel of the Intelligence Section of the General Staff, which received the commendation of the British and Australian officers with whom we served, and which contributed in no small degree to the success of the operations in which the division participated.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL HENRY S. STERNBERGER, Division Quartermaster. S. O. 86
For untiring zeal and experienced judgment in the execution of his duties as Division Quartermaster during all the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France. The efficient organization and intelligent zeal of the personnel serving under the Division Quartermaster, the results of his training and years of experience, occasioned frequent favorable comment from Allied officers.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL JOHN M. TRUE, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
For courage, cheerfulness and untiring energy exhibited during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, and in the engagements in which his regiment participated subsequent thereto.
- LIEUTENANT COLONEL J. MAYHEW WAINWRIGHT, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, energy and efficiency as Division Inspector during the entire period of the division's service in France and Belgium, and particularly for exceptional courage under fire in making reconnaissances and supervising details affecting troops in front lines in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel and Ypres in Belgium, and during the battle of Le Selle River in France.
- MAJOR GEORGE W. AUGUSTIN, M. C., 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, Brabant-sur-Meuse and Crepion, France, September 25 to November 11, 1918, in his efficient care of the wounded and supervision of their evacuation from the front.
- MAJOR JAMES E. AUSTIN, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 104th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 11, 1918, when he boldly crossed the Meuse River under heavy enemy shell fire, reconnoitered a position and later brought his battalion over the river and rendered effective fire in support of the infantry, his battalion being the first American artillery to cross the Meuse north of Verdun.
- MAJOR THOMAS J. BRADY, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and extraordinary skill as Operations Officer of the 107th Infantry. This officer made frequent reconnaissances of all battle positions and by his remarkable courage and exceptional tactical skill was a potent influence in the extraordinary accomplishments of the 107th Infantry in Belgium and France.
- MAJOR STRATFORD F. CORBETT, M. C., 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918. This officer voluntarily attended and rendered aid to the wounded of a battalion of infantry suddenly subjected to heavy enemy artillery concentration, and at great personal risk, under heavy artillery fire, continued to administer to the wounded until all the injured were cared for.
- MAJOR WILLIAM J. CRANSTON, M. C., Director of Ambulance Companies. S. O. 49
For meritorious service in forward areas under heavy shell fire supervising the evacuation of wounded

during operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, and during the operations against Le Selle River and the Canal de la Sambre, October 17-20, 1918.

MAJOR SIDNEY G. DeKAY, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in battle during operations against the Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31 to September 2, 1918. This officer, although convalescing from pneumonia, insisted on rejoining his regiment, where his personal courage under fire furnished a fine example to those about him. Also for distinguished service as Chief of the Operations Section of the General Staff of the division during February and March, 1919.

MAJOR RAPHAEL A. EGAN, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous courage and exceptional ability in handling his battalion in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918, and in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, France, on September 19, 1918. This officer exhibited remarkable qualities of leadership and excellent tactical skill.

MAJOR NATHANIEL H. EGLESTON, Commanding 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

While Captain, Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion, for making personal reconnaissance under machine gun and rifle fire in the vicinity of Carre Farm, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, on September 2, 1918, for the purpose of selecting machine gun positions during the progress of our attack on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium.

MAJOR NATHANIEL H. EGLESTON, Commanding 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

While Commanding Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion, for courage and qualities of leadership in pushing his machine guns promptly across Le Selle River, France, in the face of heavy shell and machine gun fire to support the infantry attack in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

MAJOR JOSEPH W. FARRELL, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious service, zeal and devotion to duty as Assistant Division Quartermaster. He was charged with the payment of troops of the division during the entire service in Belgium and France.

MAJOR EDMUND P. FOWLER, M. C., Director of Field Hospitals. S. O. 49

For meritorious service in operating day and night under shell fire at Main Dressing Station at Villers Faucon, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, and at Premont, France, on October 11 and 12, 1918, during engagements subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, under similar conditions.

MAJOR LOUIS H. GAUS, M. C., Commanding Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 49

For meritorious service in operating at the Main Dressing Station at Busigny, France, under enemy shell fire, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

MAJOR RANSOM H. GILLET, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31

For courage and aggressive determination while in command of a battalion of his regiment in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. The qualities mentioned have characterized the entire active service of this officer.

MAJOR BRADLEY GOODYEAR, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action when one of the batteries of his battalion was under heavy artillery fire in position near Chattancourt, on the morning of September 26, 1918, when, with the battery commander, he remained in emplacements subjected to direct hits and encouraged his men to maintain the accompanying fire which was the important mission in his attack.

MAJOR BRADLEY GOODYEAR, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action near Cote des Roches and in position in Ravin de Boussieres from October 29 to November 6, 1918, when reconnaissance and occupation of position were accomplished under artillery fire.

MAJOR LEFFERTS HUTTON, M. C., Assistant Division Surgeon. S. O. 49

For exceptional energy and zeal in the performance of all duties as Assistant Division Surgeon and for courage displayed under fire in the forward areas. This throughout the service of the division in Belgium and in France.

MAJOR CHESTER H. KING, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For skilled qualities of leadership frequently displayed during the operations in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. His selection and occupation of alternative positions resulted in the maximum efficiency of his battalion and, as well, reduced his casualties to a minimum.

MAJOR NILES F. LARSEN, M. C., 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and efficiency as Regimental Surgeon during the battle of Le Selle River and subsequent engagements, October 17 to 20, 1918. This officer, although exposed to severe machine gun and shell fire, directed the establishment of aid stations, the evacuation of wounded and the maintenance of excellent liaison.

MAJOR ISAAC J. LOVELL, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86

For exceptional administrative ability and rare military attainments displayed as Chief of Staff and Operations Officer of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in performing his tasks with unremitting zeal, rendering services that were a most important factor in the success of the brigade operations in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 9 to November 11, 1918.

MAJOR CHARLES A. MacARTHUR, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49

For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership in battle, frequently demonstrated while commanding his battalion during operations against the Hindenburg Line and during the forcing of Le Selle River. Special mention is made of the ability demonstrated by this officer in leading his troops against the village of Arbre Guernon, which was successfully captured and held.

MAJOR ROBERT W. MARSHALL, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 6, 1918. He placed his battalion in position without advance reconnaissance under heavy enemy shell fire and promptly opened fire in support of advancing infantry, displaying great initiative, unusual capacity and rare military attainments.

MAJOR ROBERT R. MOLYNEUX, Commanding 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918. While a Captain, commanding Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion, on that occasion, this officer advanced his machine guns to the extreme front at a time when heavy casualties were being inflicted on the infantry and successfully aided in shattering enemy counter-attacks.

MAJOR PERCIVAL E. NAGEL, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For exceptional meritorious and conspicuous service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun,

France, during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, where by his zeal, energy and untiring attention to duty he contributed materially to the efficiency maintained by his organization.

MAJOR JAMES T. PILCHER, 108th Field Hospital Company. S. O. 86
For distinguished services in France. While chief of an operating unit, Major Pilcher formulated an antiseptic solution known as "Quino-Formol," which was extensively used in the surgical service with excellent results.

MAJOR ALLAN L. REAGAN, A. G. D. S. O. 86
As Assistant Adjutant of the division upon mobilization and charged with the preparation of orders for its reorganization, with untiring devotion to this important duty and close attention to detail, he displayed an intimate knowledge of the units and their personnel in connection with their more effective consolidation into higher formations. He performed conspicuous service which contributed materially toward the early development of the organization of units, which later demonstrated their efficiency in the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France.

MAJOR WILLIAM O. RICHARDSON, 105th Field Artillery S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, on October 3, 1918. This officer skillfully conducted his battalion to the vicinity of Cote Lemont at great personal risk, made a personal reconnaissance under heavy machine gun fire and maintained his positions throughout the night under heavy artillery fire and gas concentrations.

MAJOR FRANK W. SEARS, M. C., 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, as senior Medical Officer of his organization, in which his energy and untiring attention to duty were very largely responsible for the unusually good health of the unit.

MAJOR T. HARRY SHANTON, 27th Military Police. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service in developing the Military Police of the 27th Division to a high standard of efficiency, which resulted in that command performing its battle functions with courage and unusual effectiveness. The Military Police was commanded by Major Shanton from the time of its organization until after the Armistice.

MAJOR ARTHUR M. SMITH, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service, energy, efficiency and devotion to duty as Captain, Supply Officer of the 107th Infantry and later as assistant to the Division Quartermaster during the operations of the 27th Division against the Hindenburg Line, France, September and October, 1918.

MAJOR FRANK A. SPENCER, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Villaneuve Farm, France, November 8, 1918. This officer moved his battalion forward under heavy enemy artillery fire to an advance through the Bois de la Grande Montagne to the vicinity of Reville, occupying open positions under direct enemy observation, displaying unusual initiative, coolness and judgment.

MAJOR MOSES A. STIVERS, M. C., Commanding Field Hospital Company No. 105. S. O. 49
For meritorious service in operating day and night under shell fire at Main Dressing Station at Villers Faucon, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, and at Premont, France, on October 11 and 12, 1918, during engagements subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, under similar conditions.

MAJOR HARRY L. STRATTON, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous courage and skill in handling his company in the Dickebusch Lake Line, Belgium. August, 1918. This officer exhibited excellent qualities of leadership and tactical skill.

MAJOR ROWLAND TOMPKINS, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous courage and skill in handling his battalion in Belgium and France. This officer exhibited exceptional qualities of leadership and excellent tactical skill in all engagements and battles of the 107th Infantry in Belgium and France.

MAJOR ALBERT N. TOWNER, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, untiring zeal and efficiency as Division Veterinarian during the entire service of the division in Belgium and France. When called upon to perform his duties under fire, this officer exhibited courage and determination.

MAJOR TRISTRAM TUPPER, Division Adjutant. S. O. 33
For intelligent reconnaissance and great personal courage frequently demonstrated in battle while serving as Reconnaissance Officer and as Liaison Officer with forward units during battles and engagements in which the division participated in Belgium and France.

MAJOR RAYMOND A. TURNBULL, Regimental Surgeon, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in attending to the wounded under heavy shell and machine gun fire in the fight for the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918.

MAJOR GUIDO F. VERBECK, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For his great initiative, resourcefulness, untiring energy and unusual capacity for command displayed in moving forward his battalion from Longeville, by motor truck, September 9, 1918, and placing it in position in time to relieve French artillery units recalled from support of the 33d Division, participating in attacks in other sectors.

MAJOR GUIDO F. VERBECK, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For his great initiative and resourcefulness in establishing ground observation posts and directing the fire of his battalion on the Trench de Tetun during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the vicinity of Ravin de Raffecourt, France, and demolishing that trench. This on October 9, 1918.

MAJOR FREDERICK M. WATERBURY, Ordnance Department. S. O. 86
Assigned as Inspector of Small Arms Practice of the division in the period of training, following mobilization, he displayed executive ability and experienced judgment, by skilled supervision and prompt completion of adequate facilities for small arms firing of all units. He performed conspicuous service which contributed materially toward the effective employment of small arms in all organizations with the consequent development of their combat efficiency as later demonstrated in the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France.

MAJOR WILLIAM R. WRIGHT, Cavalry. S. O. 86
As Commanding Officer, Squadron A, Cavalry, upon its reorganization as the 105th Machine Gun Battalion following the mobilization of the division, he displayed experienced judgment and able leadership in the training of the latter command. He performed conspicuous service, which contributed materially toward the later development of combat efficiency in his command, as frequently demonstrated in the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM G. H. BALLANCE, Q. M. C. S. O. 86
For meritorious service and untiring zeal while serving as Supply Officer, 102d Sanitary Train, during service with that organization in France.

CAPTAIN HENRY A. BANCEL, Battalion Surgeon, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous courage and skill during the crossing of Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918, in rendering prompt medical aid under heavy shell fire to a number of wounded men of the 108th Infantry.

CAPTAIN J. AUGUSTUS BARNARD, Commanding Officer, 3d Battalion, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For efficiency and devotion to duty during the holding of the East Poperinghe line, Belgium, by his battalion, July, 1918.

CAPTAIN MELVIN L. BAXTER, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and determination in making personal reconnaissance under heavy shell and machine gun fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CAPTAIN MOSES C. BEAL, Dental Corps. S. O. 52
For devotion to duty and efficient service, frequently under trying conditions during the service of the division in Belgium and in France.

CAPTAIN JAMES H. BEARD, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, from November 1 to 9, 1918, in placing his battery in position and effectively conducting its fire under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations, displaying at all times initiative and sound judgment.

CAPTAIN ALBERT M. BENEDICT, M. C., 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in advancing under heavy fire to give medical treatment to the wounded.

CAPTAIN LUCIUS H. BIGLOW, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For aggressive leadership and courage in pushing the machine guns of his company forward during the battle of Le Selle River and the subsequent engagements east of Arbre Guernon, France, October 17-20, 1918.

CAPTAIN LUCIUS H. BIGLOW, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For exceptional courage and efficiency in leadership while in command of a company of his battalion in maintaining barrage fire, during which time many of his men were killed or wounded.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM E. BLAISDELL, 106th Infantry (Deceased).
For highly developed sense of responsibility, determination and thoroughness of supervision in battle. This officer commanded with skill a battalion of his regiment in the attack on The Knoll, France, September 27, 1918, and was later, on September 29, 1918, killed during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

CAPTAIN CHARLES G. BLAKESLEE, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For skilful and determined handling of his battery during the operations of the 104th Field Artillery in the vicinity of La Claire, France, September 9 to 26, 1918, until severely wounded by a machine gun bullet.

CAPTAIN GEORGE B. BRADISH, Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in organizing and carrying out a second attack against enemy machine guns on the afternoon of September 29, 1918, near Vendhuile, France.

CAPTAIN LENNOX C. BRENNAN, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For determination, qualities of leadership and courage while First Lieutenant in effectively reorganizing several companies of his regiment and thereafter effectively leading them in action during the engagement at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1-2, 1918, and for courage and determination frequently exhibited in the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, September 27, 1918.

CAPTAIN AMES T. BROWN, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
For gallantry, determination and qualities of leadership in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918. After being painfully wounded in the face by a shell fragment, this officer continued in action and later being gassed he refused to be evacuated, remaining with his battalion until his regiment was withdrawn from the line on October 20, 1918.

CAPTAIN BENJAMIN BUCKLEY, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For courage, leadership and devotion to duty during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, and in the attack on Jone de Mer Ridge, St. Souplet and Le Selle River on October 17, 18 and 19, 1918. This officer continually led his men against enemy machine gun nests; during one of these attacks on October 18th he was mortally wounded.

CAPTAIN DAVID C. BULL, M. C., 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in maintaining a first aid station at the extreme front under heavy fire for more than twenty hours, caring for and supervising the evacuation of wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CAPTAIN HOWARD H. BURKHARDT, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action near Cote des Roches from October 29 to November 8, 1918, when he maintained his battery in an exposed position under frequent artillery fire and without exception responded promptly to every mission with well directed fire.

CAPTAIN WALDEMAR BUSING, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For highly developed sense of responsibility and determination in battle. This officer, though suffering from illness on September 27, 1918, remained on duty with his regiment and performed excellent service as Battalion Intelligence Officer during the preliminary attack on the Hindenburg Line, France.

CAPTAIN JOHN D. BUTT, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous devotion to duty during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bois de Ville, Marre, Champneuville and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in supervising and coordinating administrative efforts at Regimental Headquarters and maintaining accurate casualty records through the exercise of unusual initiative, tireless energy and great resourcefulness.

CAPTAIN ALFRED F. CASSEBEER, M. C., Commanding Ambulance Company No. 106. S. O. 52
For meritorious service in forward areas under enemy shell fire in evacuating wounded during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

- CAPTAIN ROY A. CHENEY, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918. His zeal, energy and untiring service as Personnel Officer contributed materially to the efficiency of the records maintained by his organization.
- CAPTAIN JACOB S. CLINTON, 105th Infantry. S. O. 33
For qualities of leadership and conspicuous courage in organizing, occupying and holding an advanced position under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire in the vicinity of The Knoll, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.
- CAPTAIN WILLIAM J. COOGAN, M. C., 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in maintaining a first aid station at the extreme front under very heavy fire for more than twenty hours, caring for and supervising the evacuation of wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.
- CAPTAIN JAMES P. COOKE, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For meritorious service and devotion to duty during the entire service of his regiment in France and Belgium. While Personnel Adjutant at the Hindenburg Line, September 24, 1918, this officer volunteered as one of a party to reconnoiter the regimental position east of Ronsoy, France, which duty was performed under heavy shell fire and with commendable courage and thoroughness. As Regimental Adjutant, his untiring zeal was of such a character as to merit promotion, which was recommended but not received owing to the Armistice on November 11, 1918.
- CAPTAIN JAMES P. COUGHLAN, M. C., 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bras, France, September 14, 1918. This officer at great personal risk and under heavy enemy artillery fire attended to wounded soldiers in the open and carried a wounded soldier from the field.
- CAPTAIN GRISWOLD DANIEL, Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For coolness, courage and efficiency in handling his platoon in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918.
- CAPTAIN FREDERICK DE FIGANIERE, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 15, 1918. This officer displayed great initiative, resourcefulness, untiring energy and an unusual capacity in establishing the regimental P. C. and communications thereto within 1,500 yards of the enemy positions under heavy artillery fire.
- CAPTAIN ELLIS DE WOLF, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action at Le Mort Homme on September 26, 1918, and near Bois Jure from October 17-21, 1918, when as telephone officer he supervised laying telephone lines and maintained communications during heavy artillery fire.
- CAPTAIN CHARLES J. DONNOCKER, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For especially meritorious service while a First Lieutenant, in the capture of the South Guillemont trench in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.
- CAPTAIN JAMES C. DONOVAN, M. C., 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For unflinching devotion to duty and courage in caring for the wounded while under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29-30, 1918.
- CAPTAIN MARSTON E. DRAKE, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry displayed while leading his company forward in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, until he was wounded.
- CAPTAIN DAVIS T. DUNBAR, Headquarters, 54th Brigade. S. O. 44
For efficient and meritorious services during the campaigns in Belgium and in the vicinity of St. Quentin and Le Selle River while acting as Adjutant of the 53d Infantry Brigade. The services he rendered were of such a worthy character that they merited his promotion, which was recommended but not received, due to orders from the War Department prohibiting them among the forces abroad after November 11, 1918.
- CAPTAIN JAMES M. DUNN, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 52
For meritorious service in operating at the Main Dressing Station at Busigny, France, under enemy shell fire, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.
- CAPTAIN GEORGE R. DUNSPAUGH, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
For gallantry and marked qualities of leadership while a First Lieutenant, commanding a company of his regiment in the battle of Le Selle River, France, and in the engagements subsequent thereto, until wounded in action, October 10, 1918.
- CAPTAIN KNOWLTON DURHAM, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty while a First Lieutenant of his company in maintaining communications during the battles in Belgium and in France.
- CAPTAIN KNOWLTON DURHAM, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
While First Lieutenant and Battalion Intelligence and Signal Officer, for displaying exceptional courage and determination under fire in the maintenance of lines of communication during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918, and later for similar service during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17-20, 1918.
- CAPTAIN JOSEPH D. EDDY, A. D. C. to Division Commander. S. O. 33
For untiring zeal and personal courage frequently demonstrated in battle and in traversing areas under shell fire during the entire period of active operations of the division in Belgium and France.
- CAPTAIN EUSTON F. EDMONDS, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service as Assistant in the Operations Section of the General Staff, Headquarters, 27th Division, during the Ypres-Lys offensive and the battle of the Hindenburg Line. Later for marked qualities of leadership, courage and cheerfulness frequently exhibited while commanding a battalion of his regiment until seriously wounded at Busigny, France, October 13, 1918.
- CAPTAIN GEORGE A. ELLIOTT, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For untiring zeal and devotion to duty in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918, and for effective service as Operations Officer in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.
- CAPTAIN HARRY H. FARMER, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For courage and leadership in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN STEPHEN H. FIFIELD, 105th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For devotion to duty and thoroughness in the execution of orders during the period of active operations of his regiment in Belgium and France.

CAPTAIN CLINTON E. FISK, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and self-sacrifice in making personal reconnaissance of the front line east of Le Selle River, near Souplet, France, a few hours before the regiment attacked on the morning of October 18, 1918. Captain Fisk was killed while making this reconnaissance.

CAPTAIN CLINTON E. FISK, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and efficiency in so maneuvering his battalion in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, on September 29, 1918, as to successfully protect the left flank of the regiment and the entire II American Corps, and for successfully resisting two enemy counter-attacks to recapture The Knoll, which had been taken that morning by his battalion.

CAPTAIN CLINTON E. FISK, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage in handling his battalion in the Dickebusch Lake Line, Belgium, August, 1918. This officer during the entire tour of duty inspected the front line trenches and every outpost nightly in spite of heavy machine gun fire, and by his coolness and self-sacrifice was a splendid example to his men.

CAPTAIN WALTER P. FOX, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 3, 1918. This officer conducted his battery under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations to positions on the Cote de Lemont and displayed exceptional military attainments in maintaining his position until relieved.

CAPTAIN JOHN W. FROST, 105th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For exceptional energy and zeal in the performance of his duties during active operations and for courage in battle. Although suffering from gas poisoning, this officer remained on duty with his command throughout the battle of Le Selle River, France, and the engagements subsequent thereto, October 17 to 20, 1918.

CAPTAIN FRANCIS P. GALLAGHER, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Drillancourt, France, October, 1918, when under heavy enemy shell fire and direct observation he repaired and placed in action against the enemy a captured German battery of 77 mm. guns and fired them effectively against enemy positions.

CAPTAIN LEWIS H. GIBBES, 105th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For devotion to duty during the period of active operations of his regiment and for courage and determination, although suffering from gas during the battle of Le Selle River, France, and the engagements subsequent thereto, October 17-20, 1918.

CAPTAIN HARRY L. GILCHRIESE, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action on October 7, 1918, when he made reconnaissance of a forward position near Bois Jure under heavy artillery fire.

CAPTAIN HARRY L. GILCHRIESE, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action near Le Bois Rond on October 19, 1918, when he reconnoitered and established a forward observation post and continued observing fire under heavy artillery fire and gas.

CAPTAIN EDWARD O. GILMORE, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of the Bois de Sachet, France, October 5, 1918. This officer by his great initiative, resourcefulness, untiring energy and rare ability, after a forced night march under heavy enemy shell fire, placed the guns of his battery in position with great skill and promptness so that he was able to respond to calls for artillery fire before any other units of his battalion were in position.

CAPTAIN EDWARD O. GILMORE, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 3, 1918. This officer conducted his battery under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations to positions on the Cote de Lemont and displayed exceptional military attainments in maintaining his position until relieved.

CAPTAIN LOUIS R. GINDRAT, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For meritorious services and untiring zeal while serving as Assistant to the Division Quartermaster in charge of the distribution of rations at the rail heads in France.

CAPTAIN LAWRENCE J. GORMAN, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For personal courage in action at Escaufourt and St. Souplet, France, October 16-18, in maintaining wire communication.

CAPTAIN GEORGE J. GOUBEAUD, Veterinary Corps, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For efficiency and devotion to duty in and about Busigny, France, in October, 1918. This officer, as Commanding Officer of Mobile Veterinary Section 105, established an advance collecting post and maintained same under continual enemy fire.

CAPTAIN GEORGE B. GIBBONS, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and efficient services as a battery commander during active operations of his regiment in France, and for the high standard of discipline and professional skill attained by the field battery, constituted of student officers under his instruction and command during the period of the Third Officers' Training Camp at Camp Wadsworth, S. C.

CAPTAIN JOHN C. GRABAU, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action on October 7, 1918, when he made reconnaissance of a forward position near Bois Jure under heavy artillery fire.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM J. GRANGE, Divisional Personnel Adjutant. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service and untiring devotion to duty throughout the entire period of operations of the division in Belgium and France, during the occupation of a British defensive sector in the Ypres salient and in the Ypres-Lys and Somme offensives. To the zeal and energy of this officer is due much of the credit for the accurate statistical records of the division.

CAPTAIN CHARLES P. GRAY, Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty while a First Lieutenant in leaving the shelter of his aid station in the village of St. Souplet, during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, and in the face of heavy enemy fire going forward to the rescue of soldiers of the 102d Engineers who had been wounded while constructing a bridge across the river.

CAPTAIN CHAUNCEY HAMLIN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For his untiring energy and exceptional resourcefulness in the face of great obstacles, as munitions officer of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in delivering adequate supplies of ammunition at battery positions to meet all requests for fire, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, November 8 and 9, 1918.

CAPTAIN HARRY W. HAYWARD, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For exceptional energy and zeal in the performance of his duties during active operations, and for courage in battle on September 29, 1918, in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, when he advanced his company under extremely heavy shell and machine gun fire until killed.

CAPTAIN WALTER E. HEGEMAN, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For exceptional devotion to duty and conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Consenvoye and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, during October, 1918, when, with untiring effort, he personally supervised the delivery of rations to the firing batteries under heavy enemy shell fire over almost impassable roads.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH P. HENRY, JR., M. C., Ambulance Company No. 106. S. O. 52

For meritorious service in maintaining the walking wounded station under enemy shell fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN WYMAN D. HERBERT, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Damvilliers, France, November 9, 1918, in voluntarily reconnoitering the infantry outpost, to establish defensive barrage lines partly in the open and in the daytime under direct enemy observation and heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire, during which he displayed unusual courage, coolness, resourcefulness and ability.

CAPTAIN WALTER H. HERETH, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, on October 15, 1918, in bringing his battery into position under severe enemy shell fire and displaying unusual bravery, which at all times was a splendid example to the men of his command.

CAPTAIN HENRY B. HEYLMAN, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conscientious and faithful discharge of his duties while under fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CAPTAIN LESTER C. HIGBEE, Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery and marked ability in handling machine guns under heavy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM L. HODDER, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and aggressive determination in remaining in command of his company until ordered to the rear, after being wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

CAPTAIN RAYMOND F. HODGDON, 106th Infantry. S. O. 52

For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership in battle, especially during operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, when he voluntarily organized detachments of units other than his own and led them into effective combat, thereby checking an enemy counter-attack.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR W. HOFMANN, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, when after being wounded and rendered unconscious by a shell explosion, he, after medical treatment, refused to be evacuated but remained on duty adjusting the fire of his battery. This October 19, 1918.

CAPTAIN GORDON IRELAND, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious service in organizing and assisting in the completion of a regimental signal system in the defensive sector before the Scherpenberg-Ypres salient, July 18, 1918. On October 15, 1918, this officer, although under orders to return to the United States, voluntarily remained on duty with the 27th Division in order that he might participate in the battle of October 17th, on which occasion he rendered conspicuous service in and east of the village of St. Souplet, in maintaining signal communications.

CAPTAIN RUTHERFORD IRELAND, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary heroism in action in continuing to lead his battalion in attack, although suffering intense pain from a wound received two days previous. After receiving first aid and without waiting to have the shrapnel removed from his body, he returned to his battalion, where he remained in action for two days. This during the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 18-20, 1918.

CAPTAIN H. FRANCIS JAECKEL, JR., 106th Infantry. S. O. 33

For conspicuous courage under heavy fire frequently displayed while serving as Aide-de-Camp to the Division Commander and attached to front line units as Liaison Officer and while making aerial flights over the enemy's lines; this during operations of the division in Belgium and France, July-September, 1918.

CAPTAIN JACOB E. JETTER, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, where his courage and leadership in command of ammunition convoys was a splendid example to his men. During a severe conflagration which threatened to destroy the village of Belleray, he received grave and permanent injuries in saving the lives of two enlisted men.

CAPTAIN ROYAL C. JOHNSON, Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry displayed while leading his company forward in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

CAPTAIN HILL H. JONES, 52d Field Artillery, Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86

For his rare ability, initiative and untiring energy and great resourcefulness as Brigade Supply Officer and as Munitions Officer of the 52d Field Artillery from September 9 to November 11, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in which he rendered services of conspicuous worth during the entire service of the brigade.

CAPTAIN CHARLES D. KAYSER, M. C., 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For great courage, skill and devotion to duty in personally supervising the care and evacuation of killed and wounded in an area swept by enemy shell fire. This on the evening of October 16, 1918, just prior to the battle of Le Selle River, France, while the division was relieving the British in the front line.

CAPTAIN EDWARD H. KENT, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious service, energy and efficiency in the discharge of his duties as Regimental Adjutant during the entire service of the regiment in France and Belgium.

CAPTAIN CHARLES H. KING, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of the Cote de la Bois. This officer, while in command of the 2d Battalion, carried out the planned barrage for his battery in support of an infantry attack, and by his unusual ability to command and his personal example, succeeded in having 1,800 rounds of ammunition carried by hand from the ammunition dump to his battery position to enable the fire to be continued.

CAPTAIN JOHN A. KORSCHEN, Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry displayed while leading his company forward in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

CAPTAIN JEROME F. LANGER, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination exhibited under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Scherpenberg, Belgium, July 17, 1918. This officer, although himself badly wounded, aided in the evacuation of one of his men who was wounded.

CAPTAIN HAROLD LAWSON, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Bois d'Ormont, France, November 9, 1918, in completing a reconnaissance of enemy positions, although knocked down and badly bruised from the explosion of a mined dugout.

CAPTAIN CLAUDE G. LELAND, Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action while a First Lieutenant in Company I, 107th Infantry, in successfully leading his platoon against enemy machine guns, capturing them and continuing forward in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918.

CAPTAIN WALTER C. McCLURE, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty and skilful reconnaissance and occupation of positions under heavy enemy shell fire during operations in the vicinity of Dannevoux and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, during October, 1918.

CAPTAIN WILLIS R. McCROSKERY, Dental Corps. S. O. 52
 For devotion to duty and efficient service frequently under trying conditions during the service of the division in Belgium and in France.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR V. McDERMOTT, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and exceptional qualities of leadership in battle. This officer, while acting as Operations Officer, volunteered to command a company of the provisional battalion of his regiment at the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, although for three days preceding he had rendered continuous duty in connection with the previous operations of the command. While leading this company he was severely wounded.

CAPTAIN JOHN W. McKEMY, M. C., Ambulance Company No. 105. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in maintaining the walking wounded station under enemy shell fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN JOHN I. McWILLIAMS, Q. M. C. S. O. 86
 For meritorious services and untiring zeal while serving as Supply Officer, 102d Sanitary Train, during services with that organization in France.

CAPTAIN JAMES C. MACLIN, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous devotion to duty and great initiative and resourcefulness at Camp de Souge, France, July 17 to August 30, 1918, in procuring equipment for the 52d Field Artillery Brigade.

CAPTAIN ROBERT W. MALONEY, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918, in personally reconnoitering forward signal positions under enemy shell fire and in clear observation of the enemy. His energy and leadership contributed largely to the success of the communications maintained by the right regiment in this attack.

CAPTAIN HENRY MASLIN, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination. During the attack against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, this soldier showed a marked degree of leadership in leading the 1st Battalion, 105th Infantry, which he commanded, and after having been severely wounded refused to be evacuated until all the wounded enlisted men around him had been sent to the rear.

CAPTAIN THEODORE F. MEAD, M. C., 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29, 1918, in attending wounded men under heavy enemy shell fire until himself mortally wounded.

CAPTAIN JAY E. MEEKER, M. C., Ambulance Company No. 108. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in maintaining the walking wounded station under enemy shell fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN SAMUEL H. MERRILL, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage and intelligent and determined leadership while commanding a battalion of his regiment in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

CAPTAIN ERNEST V. MONCRIEFF, Adjutant, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, where he displayed unusual capacity for leadership and untiring attention to duty, and, by his zeal, energy and intelligence, contributed materially to the efficiency and discipline of his organization.

CAPTAIN RAYMOND T. MONIZ, Q. M. C., Division Headquarters. S. O. 33
 For determination, resourcefulness and personal courage in effecting the supply of battle stores to the troops during active operations of the division in Belgium and in France.

CAPTAIN CHARLES N. MORGAN, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage under fire and devotion to duty during the battle of Le Selle River, France, and engagements subsequent thereto, October 17-20, 1918.

CAPTAIN CHARLES N. MORGAN, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership exhibited during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH F. MULCAHY, D. C., 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For great courage and skill in voluntarily caring for and successfully evacuating wounded under heavy enemy shell fire. This in the battles of Le Selle River, Jonc de Mer Ridge and St. Maurice River, October 17-20, 1918.

200

CAPTAIN JOSEPH A. S. MUNDY, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptional energy and zeal in the performance of his duties as Regimental Adjutant, 106th Infantry, particularly during active operations of his regiment in the Dickebusch-Scherpenberg sector and the advance of Vierstraat Ridge, and later for meritorious service, untiring devotion to duty and efficiency as Assistant Division Adjutant.

CAPTAIN J. A. S. MUNDY, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For coolness under fire and devotion to duty during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918. During this engagement this officer, then serving as Regimental Adjutant, frequently displayed coolness and courage under fire in execution of the operations duties of a regimental staff officer.

CAPTAIN MAXWELL B. NESBITT, Commanding Officer, 2d Battalion, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, initiative and efficiency in handling his battalion in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918. Through the aggressiveness of Captain Nesbitt, this battalion on taking over the front line, secured and maintained control of no-man's land.

CAPTAIN GEORGE P. NICHOLS, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous devotion to duty and determination near Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918, after being wounded.

CAPTAIN FANCHER NICOLL, Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in leading his company forward in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, where he gave his life destroying enemy machine guns.

CAPTAIN FANCHER NICOLL, Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For coolness and heroism in resisting an enemy attack on his company in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918.

CAPTAIN SIDNEY D. PALMER, M. C., 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For efficient service in the dressing and evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN GEORGE W. PAPAN, JR., M. C., 105th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For devotion to duty, courage and resourcefulness in caring for and evacuating the wounded of his regiment during the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated.

CAPTAIN CHARLES PEARSON, JR., 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in the vicinity of Volosnes, France, October 16, 1918, in voluntarily reconnoitering an enemy supply dump under enemy observation and enemy fire at great personal risk.

CAPTAIN CHARLES PEARSON, JR., 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the vicinity of Cote Lemont near Gercourt, France, in voluntarily acting as guide to a battalion of field artillery and conducting it through heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations to a direct fire position within 1500 meters of the enemy lines.

CAPTAIN GEORGE W. PEPPARD, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious services, untiring zeal and efficiency as Assistant to the Division Quartermaster at rail heads during the entire service of the division in Belgium and France.

CAPTAIN AUGUSTE B. PETERSON, G-2, Division Headquarters. S. O. 49
 For exceptionally efficient and meritorious service as Intelligence Officer of the division during periods of operations in Belgium and in France. The work of this officer was frequently commented upon for its special value by officers of our own and British armies.

CAPTAIN FRED A. PETERSON, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of the Bois Burrus, Bois de Forges and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, during September and October, 1918, as Regimental Operations Officer, in which he displayed marked ability and efficiency.

CAPTAIN FRANK R. POTTER, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness, energy and determination while in command of his company during the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918. When the town of Arbre Guernon was captured this officer immediately disposed his troops so as to effectively break up an impending counter-attack.

CAPTAIN FRANK R. POTTER, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership in battle especially during operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, when he voluntarily organized detachments of units other than his own and led them into effective combat, thereby checking an enemy counter-attack.

CAPTAIN JOHN W. PULLEYN, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and efficient service as a battery commander during active operations of his regiment in France, and for exceptional skill as an instructor at the Third Officers Training School at Camp Wadsworth, S. C.

CAPTAIN EDWARD RALDIRIS, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 3, 1918. This officer voluntarily and at great personal risk, under heavy enemy shell fire, conducted ammunition parties during an unexpected call for artillery fire in support of a critical infantry attack, and by great initiative, resourcefulness and untiring energy, procured an additional ammunition supply to enable his regiment to provide the required support to the infantry operations.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM I. REARDON, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 105. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in operating day and night under shell fire at Main Dressing Station at Villers Faucon, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, and at Premont, France, on October 11 and 12, 1918, during engagements subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, under similar conditions.

CAPTAIN JAMES RIFFE, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For exceptionally courageous and meritorious services during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918. This officer after being wounded continued to lead his company until wounded a second time.

CAPTAIN DICK G. ROSSER, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in maintaining signal communication under heavy artillery and machine gun fire during the battle for the breaking of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-29, 1918.

CAPTAIN HERMAN C. RUSSELL, M. C., Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in forward areas under heavy shell fire supervising the evacuation of wounded during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918, and during the operations against Le Selle River and the Canal de la Sambre, October 17-20, 1918.

CAPTAIN ROBERT L. RUSSELL, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of the Bois d'Ormont, France, November 9, 1918, when, although having been knocked down by the explosion of a mined German dugout he successfully completed the reconnaissance of enemy positions.

CAPTAIN CARL B. SANCHEZ, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, where his conduct in charge of ammunition dumps and his courage and untiring efforts proved a splendid example to his men.

CAPTAIN WALTER J. SCHOELLKOPF, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For his energy and zealous efforts as Artillery Information Officer of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, which were of conspicuous worth, and were a deciding factor in the effective direction of artillery fire in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, from September 9 to November 11, 1918.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM F. SCHOHL, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action near Ravin de Raffecourt from October 7 to 10, 1918, and particularly on October 9, when though under artillery fire he remained in observation and continued the command of his battery, the fire of which materially assisted the action of the infantry.

CAPTAIN GEORGE A. SHEDDEN, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, September 28, 1918, in crawling out beyond the infantry lines at great personal risk and locating all enemy machine guns and minnenwerfer which were harassing our infantry and directing the artillery fire of his battalion until the harassing fire was silenced.

CAPTAIN GEORGE A. SHEDDEN, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Etraye, France, November 8, 1918. This officer voluntarily reconnoitered enemy front line positions and displayed rare military ability in the selection of battery positions under heavy enemy fire.

CAPTAIN SYLVESTER SIMPSON, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty and efficient handling of a battalion during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and for skilful reconnaissance of battalion position. This during October, 1918.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR T. SMITH, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage and determination under fire; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH W. SMITH, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CAPTAIN MARTIN DE FOREST SMITH, M. C., Commanding Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in forward areas under heavy enemy shell fire supervising the evacuation of wounded during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN MARTIN DE FOREST SMITH, M. C., Commanding Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage, good judgment and determination in providing for and supervising under heavy enemy fire the evacuation of wounded from Arbre Guernon to St. Souplet, during the battles of Jonc der Mer Ridge and St. Maurice River, France, October 18-20, 1918.

CAPTAIN FREDERICK SNYDER, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in operating at the Main Dressing Station at Busigny, France, under enemy shell fire, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

CAPTAIN HOWARD E. SULLIVAN, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918. This officer voluntarily reconnoitered enemy front line positions in the vicinity of Bois de Consenvoye, although subjected to heavy machine gun fire, and secured valuable information which enabled his Battalion Commander to prepare correct defensive barrage data in support of critical infantry positions.

CAPTAIN GEORGE E. TAYLOR, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 100. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in maintaining the walking wounded station under enemy shell fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

CAPTAIN HIRAM W. TAYLOR, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service, energy, efficiency and devotion to duty during the entire service of the regiment in France and Belgium and especially while Acting Supply Officer, 107th Infantry, during the action of the regiment against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 28-29, 1918. This officer exhibited exceptional courage under fire in the performance of his duties in forward areas.

CAPTAIN MURRAY TAYLOR, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For fearlessness, energy, good judgment and determination manifested during all battles and engagements of his regiment. On the morning of October 17, 1918, units of the 106th Infantry having become detached from the regiment in a heavy fog and smoke barrage, this officer succeeded in locating and placing in their proper positions the units mentioned, all of which was done under extremely heavy shell and machine gun fire.

CAPTAIN MURRAY TAYLOR, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For zeal and skill as an instructor during the training period in the United States and in Belgium and France. The excellence and forcefulness of this officer's work, particularly as a bayonet instructor, contributed materially to the aggressive spirit and skilled confidence with the bayonet of the many non-commissioned officers who came under his instruction.

CAPTAIN JOHN S. THOMPSON, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and marked qualities of leadership. When in command of the 2d Battalion, 108th Infantry, in front of St. Souplet, France, on the 17th of October, 1918, he reorganized his battalion under most difficult circumstances, and by his exposure to enemy fire, necessary at this time, inspired his officers and men to continue the advance with renewed courage after the reorganization.

CAPTAIN JOHN S. THOMPSON, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 As Commander of the 2d Battalion of that regiment his intrepidity, unflinching devotion to duty and skilled leadership were an inspiration to his command throughout the entire period of operations in Belgium and France. In the Somme offensive, though suffering from a painful injury and severely burned by mustard gas, he led his battalion under intense fire with great gallantry and determination, penetrating to and holding a position in the main defenses of the Hindenburg Line.

CAPTAIN WALTER C. TILDEN, Medical Corps, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and fearlessness during the entire period of operations of the 106th Infantry in Belgium and France. During the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, he accompanied his battalion to action and rendered efficient aid to the wounded until severely gassed and evacuated.

CAPTAIN GEORGE TOOMEY, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action near Gercourt on September 27th to September 30th, when he manned a captured German 77-mm. battery and delivered an effective gas saturation on enemy positions while under artillery fire.

CAPTAIN CHANNING R. TOY, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of the Bois Burrus, Bois de Forges and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, during September and October, 1918, as Regimental Intelligence Officer, in which he displayed marked efficiency.

CAPTAIN ROBERT H. TRASK, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
For courage and qualities of leadership displayed while commanding a battalion of his regiment near Arbre Guernon, France, October 18-20, 1918.

CAPTAIN ROSCOE B. TRUMBLE, 105th Infantry. S. O. 31
For devotion to duty and energetic action in issuing rations and forage to the units of his regiment under heavy enemy fire and adverse road conditions during the battles and engagements in which the regiment participated.

CAPTAIN FRANK C. VINCENT, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage, determination and energy frequently displayed while a First Lieutenant commanding Company F of his regiment, in the battle of Le Selle River, France, and in the engagements subsequent thereto, until wounded in action, October 19, 1918.

CAPTAIN JAMES S. WADSWORTH, Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious services in supervising supplies during the battles and minor engagements of the division and for energetic and efficient services in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch Lake sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium.

CAPTAIN WINSLOW B. WATSON, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
For courage and determination in making personal reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire; this near the St. Maurice River, October 20, 1918.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR C. WEBB, Dental Corps. S. O. 52
For devotion to duty and efficient service, frequently under trying conditions during the service of the division in Belgium and France.

CAPTAIN STANTON WHITNEY, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, skill and qualities of leadership displayed in all the battles and engagements in which this division participated in Belgium and in France. Captain Whitney's personal courage and great devotion to duty set an inspiring example to those under his command.

CAPTAIN STANTON WHITNEY, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 39
For courage and determination under fire and for qualities of skilled leadership frequently demonstrated in battles and engagements in which his battalion participated in Belgium and in France.

CAPTAIN KENNETH G. WILSON, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For initiative and conspicuous courage in advancing his three one pounders with the assaulting waves of the regiment and directing effective fire on enemy machine gun nests in the attack on the Hindenburg Line near Vendhuile, France, on September 29, 1918.

CAPTAIN MATTHEW A. WILSON, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For exceptionally meritorious service while in command of Company D, 106th Infantry, during the period July 26-August 6, 1918. This in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch Lake sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium.

CAPTAIN EDWIN G. ZIEGLER, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For exceptionally meritorious service characterized by untiring zeal and intelligent grasp of his duties demonstrated in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918, and in other engagements in which his regiment participated.

CHAPLAIN ARCHER B. BASS, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and devotion to duty repeatedly demonstrated throughout the service of the battalion to which he was assigned, in both Belgium and France.

CHAPLAIN DAVID T. BURGH, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For extraordinary gallantry and untiring devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918, in caring for the wounded and supervising the burying of the dead under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire.

CHAPLAIN GEORGE C. EILERS, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty and personal courage in caring for the wounded and dead of his regiment in all the battles and engagements in which it participated in Belgium and France. This officer performed his duties with commendable zeal and efficiency during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918, and for many days following until the arduous task of identifying and burying the dead of the division was completed.

CHAPLAIN HORACE R. FELL, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary gallantry and untiring devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, and the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 13 to 20, 1918, in caring for the wounded and supervising the burying of the dead under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire.

CHAPLAIN FRANK L. HANSCOM, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty and personal courage in caring for the wounded and dead of his regiment in all the battles and engagements in which it participated in Belgium and France. This officer performed his duties with commendable zeal and efficiency during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918, and for many days following until the arduous task of identifying and burying the dead of the division was completed.

CHAPLAIN EMILE S. HARPER, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity

of Cote de Lemont, France, in voluntarily accompanying a battalion assigned to occupy an exposed direct fire position in support of the attack on Briuelles, France, and by his exceptional bravery and soldierly demeanor under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations setting an example to the men of the battalion, which had a most inspiring effect upon their morale.

CHAPLAIN PETER E. HOEY, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For inspiring courage while under fire and faithful devotion in the discharge of his duties attending the burial of the dead after the operations in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918, and the battles of the Hindenburg Line and Le Selle River, France, September and October, 1918.

CHAPLAIN EDWIN F. KEEVER, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For inspiring courage while under fire and faithful devotion in the discharge of his duties attending the burial of the dead after the operations in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918, and the Battles of the Hindenburg Line and Le Selle River, France, September and October, 1918.

CHAPLAIN FRANCIS A. KELLY, Division Headquarters. S. O. 86

For extraordinary gallantry and untiring devotion to duty during the Battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, and the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 13 to 20, 1918, in caring for the wounded and supervising the burying of the dead under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire.

CHAPLAIN HUGH W. STEWART, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For inspiring courage while under fire and faithful devotion in the discharge of his duties attending the burial of the dead after the operations in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918, and the battles of the Hindenburg Line and Le Selle River, France, September and October, 1918.

CHAPLAIN ROYAL K. TUCKER, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary gallantry and untiring devotion to duty during the Battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, and the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 13 to 20, 1918, in caring for the wounded and supervising the burying of the dead under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire.

CAPTAIN ROYAL E. TUCKER (Chaplain), 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service during the operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, where by his untiring efforts for the welfare and comfort of the members of his command, he contributed materially to its efficiency.

CHAPLAIN JOHN C. WARD, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, in voluntarily going and remaining on the field under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire to care for the wounded and search for the dead after having been twice warned that it was death to remain.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ARTHUR ATCHESON, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Dannevaux and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October, 1918, in ably commanding his battery in action in the absence of his battery commander, displaying meritorious conduct under fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOSEPH E. ADAMS, M. C., 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and untiring devotion to duty during the battle of Le Selle River and subsequent engagements, October 17-20, 1918. This officer with complete disregard for personal safety established an aid station within a few yards of the front line of his battalion and promptly dressed and evacuated wounded men in the face of heavy machine gun and artillery fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HARRY F. ALLEN, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For devotion to duty and untiring service as Commander of the Stokes-Mortar platoon and in the fighting at Le Selle River near St. Souplet, France, October 11 to 22, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THOMAS H. S. ANDREWS, 52d Field Artillery, Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86

For his exceptional services in making artillery reconnaissance during advances, as Assistant Artillery Information Officer of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive from September 26 to November 11, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CLARENCE T. BALDWIN, Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and efficiency in handling his platoon under heavy fire in the Dickebusch Lake sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in July, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALWYN BALL, 3D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in making personal reconnaissance under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALWYN BALL, 3D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 39

For determined courage and qualities of skilled leadership frequently demonstrated under fire in the battles and engagements in which his battalion took part, and more particularly in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM C. BARTHMAN, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage, aggressiveness and qualities of leadership displayed during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, near Dickebusch, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918, and in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918. On both occasions Lieutenant Barthman's disregard for personal safety set an inspiring example to the soldiers of his command.

FIRST LIEUTENANT SIMEON D. BASHORE, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 86

For meritorious service in operating at the Main Dressing Station at Busigny, France, under enemy shell fire, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT SIMEON D. BASHORE, Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 86

For zeal and devotion to duty near Longavesnes, France, during period September 26-28, 1918, until gassed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRANK L. BAYLES, 102d Ammunition Train (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action and extraordinary courage in the vicinity of the Bois des Forges, France, in delivering ammunition to battery positions over congested roads under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration. As a result of his exposure he contracted pneumonia and subsequently died, this on September 27, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT BENNETT, Salvage Company No. 16. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious services, energy, efficiency and devotion to duty as Commanding Officer of the Salvage Company. This officer exhibited exceptional courage under fire in the performance of his duties in forward areas.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HARRY B. BENTLEY, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39

For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD C. BERNIUS, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bois des Sartes, France, September 12, 1918. This officer conducted an ammunition combat train under heavy artillery fire to the artillery dump and back to battery positions at great personal risk.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ERDMANN BRANDT, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For courage and skill exhibited while commanding the one-pounder platoon of his regiment during the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, September 27-28, 1918, and during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918. This officer succeeded in silencing important enemy machine gun posts in both battles and continued in action until wounded September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ERDMANN BRANDT, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For courage and skilled leadership while commanding the one-pounder platoon of his regiment during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918. This officer by his tactical skill succeeded in destroying a number of enemy machine gun nests, at the same time avoiding enemy artillery fire constantly seeking the destruction of his command.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD L. BRENNAN, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 10, 1918. This officer, at great personal risk, conducted ammunition parties and throughout the night under heavy enemy shell fire displayed great initiative and energy in bringing forward adequate supplies of ammunition to battery positions.

FIRST LIEUTENANT YORK W. BRENNAN, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in leading his company effectively into action against the enemy after his Captain had been killed. This in the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, France, September 27, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RALPH P. BUELL, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary heroism and conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life, above and beyond the call of duty in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, between St. Quentin and Cambrai, France, September 29, 1918. This officer while in command of Company C of his regiment pressed forward in the attack upon the German position on the right of Vendhuile, under heavy shell and machine gun fire, which entailed heavy losses upon his company, and at a critical moment when the survivors had reached the enemy wire and were fired at with machine guns at short range, charged through the wire, calling upon the survivors to follow him, which they did, he falling badly wounded about thirty yards in advance of them at the edge of the enemy trench. His extraordinary heroism, sacrifice of self and inspiring example enabled his command to gain and hold the position assaulted and subsequently to continue the advance.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN JEROME CALLAHAN, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and qualities of leadership while in command of his company. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 25-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THOMAS G. CARLIN, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the operations in Dickebusch sector, this officer displayed exceptional qualities of leadership and coolness under severe shell and machine gun fire, particularly in handling his platoon during relief under severe gas shelling on Dickebusch front line and in personally going forward to the assistance of wounded and excavating same. His courage and example were an inspiration to all ranks.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THOMAS G. CARLIN, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action frequently displayed during the period of operations of his regiment in Belgium and France, and particularly on October 19-20, during the battle of Le Selle River, when he took command of his company, after the commanding officer had been wounded and led it forward in the attack with great determination until very severely gassed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WHEELER C. CASE, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courageous and efficient handling of the transport of his battalion, repeatedly demonstrated during the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated.

FIRST LIEUTENANT MILES W. CASTEEL, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in rescuing two badly wounded comrades under heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT A. WALLACE CHAUNCEY, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cuisy, France, October 14, 1918, in voluntarily reconnoitering enemy front line positions under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire, and displaying unusual military attainments in securing valuable information which was of material assistance in the effective carrying out of the operations then being conducted.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN C. CIPPERLY, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and determination in battle frequently exhibited in engagements in which his regiment took part, particularly in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, during the battle of Le Selle River, in which battle he was wounded, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ARCHIBALD B. CLARK, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and exceptionally meritorious service in the vicinity of Malbrouck Hill, France, October 31 to November 11, 1918, in establishing and maintaining telephone communication between Regimental Headquarters and a forward observation post under heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT LAWRENCE P. CLARKE, Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in conducting a patrol and making a reconnaissance of Jonc de Mer Ridge, returning with valuable information before the advance of the troops on the morning of October 19, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT C. CLEAVER, M. C., 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and untiring devotion to duty during the battle of Le Selle River and subsequent engagements, October 17 to 20, 1918. This officer with complete disregard for personal safety, and practically no rest, ably treated and speedily evacuated wounded men. In spite of the rapid advance he was the first to establish an aid station at Arbre Guernon under heavy machine gun and artillery fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALBERT CLEMENTS, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination exhibited under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Scherpenberg, Belgium, July 17, 1918. This officer, although wounded, aided in the evacuation of one of the men of his detachment, who was wounded.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RICHARD F. CLOAK, 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Bois de Dannevaux,

France, October 16 to 21, 1918, in supervising the preparation of emplacements and establishing guns in position under intermittent enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FREDERICK D. CONKLIN, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For personal courage and leadership in successfully handling his platoon in the Dickebusch line, Belgium, August, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HARRY CONWAY, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For extraordinary heroism under heavy shell fire. On August 25, 1918, while holding the reserve line in front of Mt. Kemmel, this officer, acting as Adjutant for the 2d Battalion, 105th Infantry, showed great coolness when the enemy shelled his headquarters in ordering his Sergeant Major, runners, etc., to safety and himself standing his ground, the result being that a shell struck a few feet from him and wounded him severely, from the effects of which he died. His coolness and bravery under heavy shell fire were a fine example to his men.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOSEPH F. COOK, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, determination and qualities of leadership displayed throughout all the operations of the division in Belgium and France, particularly during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-29, 1918, and in making personal reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-20, 1918.

160 FIRST LIEUTENANT ARTHUR G. COOKE, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 105. S. O. 52
For meritorious service in operating day and night under shell fire at Main Dressing Station at Villers Faucon, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, and at Premont, France, on October 11 and 12, 1918, during engagements subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, under similar conditions.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM S. COURT, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bois des Forges, France, in making personal reconnaissances for forward positions under heavy enemy shell fire, during which he was severely wounded.

FIRST LIEUTENANT MURRAY CRAMER, Company M, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For leadership and courage in successfully leading his company forward in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, where he gave his life in the performance of his duty.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THEODORE CRANE, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For conspicuous service in action as a machine gun officer during the Ypres-Lys Offensive in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 31 to September 2, 1918, and in the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 24 to 30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HARRY B. CROSBY, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT SAMUEL CRUMP, JR., 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in successfully leading his company forward in the assault on the Hindenburg Line near Vendhuile, France, on September 29, 1918, where he was killed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GRISWOLD B. DANIELL, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
For exceptional courage and leadership in battle near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, in assisting in the reorganization of the battalion after the battalion commander was wounded and second in command was killed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROLAND D. DAVIS, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33
For qualities of leadership and courage under fire while commanding a platoon of his company at Vaux and Igny, in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 16-17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROLAND J. EASTON, Aide, Headquarters 54th Brigade. S. O. 44
For faithful and efficient services rendered during the campaigns in Belgium and in the vicinity of St. Quentin and Le Selle River, while acting as Aide to the Commanding General, 54th Infantry Brigade. Arduous duties, often under dangerous enemy fire, were always performed cheerfully and efficiently.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GEORGE F. EVANS, Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery and resourcefulness in reorganizing his platoon under heavy enemy fire. This at St. Souplet, France, during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT MAURICE EXINER, M. C., 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For unflinching devotion to duty and courage in caring for the wounded while under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD S. FLASH, Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
For courage and qualities of leadership in making personal reconnaissance under heavy fire on the night of September 26, 1918, in preparation for the attack on the Hindenburg Line the following morning, and throughout the battle in spite of heavy losses, effectively holding his position and helping to shatter enemy counter attacks.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CHARLES H. FLOYD, Adjutant, Third Battalion, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For untiring effort and conspicuous gallantry in action, in advancing with his battalion, in spite of a severe wound, on the morning of September 29, 1918, in the attack on the Hindenburg Line near Vendhuile, France.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HERBERT C. FORSCH, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 31
For coolness and courage exhibited on the morning of September 27, 1918, during the preliminary attack on the Hindenburg Line in going forward and examining under fire, a large number of prisoners. This officer, with little or no rest, continued this work throughout the period of September 27-October 1, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN H. FREEMAN, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For indefatigable work and untiring devotion to duty during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, and the fighting at Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 11 to 22, 1918, in maintaining communication between the various units of the regiment by means of telephone, visual signals, wireless and runners.

FIRST LIEUTENANT PAUL H. GADEBUSCH, Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
For exceptionally courageous and meritorious service in making preliminary reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire, September 27, 1918, in preparation for the attack on the Hindenburg Line, France.

FIRST LIEUTENANT PAUL H. GADEBUSCH, Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and exceptional qualities of leadership displayed in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun and artillery fire and for coolness, courage and inspiring example to his men, after being severely wounded in that battle.

FIRST LIEUTENANT SHERMAN A. GEER, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service as Lines Officer, Signal Corps, 27th Division, reconnoitering the forward area and supervising various observation groups, serving in the front line of the sector held by the XIXth British Corps, Ypres salient, particularly on July 22, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT LEO F. GIBLYN, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, and also for gallantry in action and skilled leadership during the assault on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31 to September 2, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALEXANDER GRANAT, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary gallantry, determination and marked qualities of leadership in leading his men in a successful attack against an enemy strong point, although suffering severely from gas. This during the battle of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, France, October 18, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN F. GREANEY, Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty under heavy shell fire as a platoon commander in the Dickebusch Lake line, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in July, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT PEYTON R. GREAVES, M. C., Field Hospital Company, No. 105. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in operating day and night under shell fire at Main Dressing Station at Villers Faucon, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, and at Premont, France, on October 11 and 12, 1918, during engagements subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, under similar conditions.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EARL GRIMM, Intelligence Officer, Second Battalion, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness, courage and aggressiveness in leading patrols through no man's land and maintaining possession of this land during the tour of duty of his battalion in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EARL D. GRIMM, 54th Infantry, Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in making personal reconnaissance under heavy shell and machine gun fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT LEE A. HADLEY, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For fearlessness and unremitting attention to the wounded of his regiment during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT LEE A. HADLEY, M. C., 106th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For courage and zealous attention to duty in operating an aid station under heavy fire. This at Arbre Guernon, France, in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, and the engagement subsequent thereto, October 18-20, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT BENJAMIN T. HAMMOND, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and aggressive determination while in command of the company during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, when he effectively held this position under extremely heavy shell and machine gun fire until killed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CLARENCE E. HANCOCK, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous qualities of leadership and courage in the battle of Jonc Der Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918, in making personal reconnaissance, successfully placing his machine guns and establishing and maintaining liaison with adjoining units under heavy enemy fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CARL C. HARVEY, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 105. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in operating day and night under shell fire at Main Dressing Station at Villers Faucon, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, and at Premont, France, on October 11 and 12, 1918, during engagements subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River under similar conditions.

FIRST LIEUTENANT OSCAR HELLQUIST, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in leading patrols nightly into no man's land at Vaux Andigny, France, October, 1918, and obtaining important information. Lieutenant Hellquist was killed a few days after the crossing of Le Selle River.

FIRST LIEUTENANT OSCAR HELLQUIST, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage in making daily reconnaissance of the front line and outposts in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWIN L. HOLLOWAY, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For good judgment and skill in obtaining and forwarding valuable information to Regimental Headquarters while on duty as Liaison Officer with the 108th Infantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28-29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALFRED J. HOOK, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination in taping the start line of his battalion under heavy enemy fire during the morning of September 27, 1918, in preparation for the attack on The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, France. This officer was killed later the same morning.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALBERT H. HOOKER, Jr., Chemical Warfare Service, Headquarters 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in making personal reconnaissance under heavy shell and machine gun fire in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRANKLIN J. JACKSON, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 31
 For courage, skill and determination repeatedly exhibited in battle while commanding a Stokes mortar platoon of his regiment and for making personal reconnaissance to the extreme front during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. This officer was killed while completing the reconnaissance mentioned.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN B. JESSUP, Intelligence Officer, 3d Battalion, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and fearlessness in leading patrols forward in no man's land and obtaining valuable information of the enemy's position in the fighting at Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 15 and 16, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ARTHUR E. KAEPPEL, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Bois de Forges and Consenvoye,

France, during October, 1918, when his battery commander having been wounded, he ably commanded his battery in action, frequently with no other officer to assist him.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HOWARD M. KARR, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage and qualities of leadership near St. Souplet, France, October 12, 1918, in reorganizing his company after the company commander had been wounded and many other casualties had been inflicted, and effectively continuing the mission of his command, and for similar qualities demonstrated in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD B. KING, Q.M.C. S. O. 86

As Assistant to Chief of Administration (G-1) Section, General Staff, and charged with many important duties in connection with communication and evacuation, he displayed sound judgment, decision and coolness under fire, performing valuable and efficient service during operations of the 27th Division in the Ypres-Lys Offensive in Belgium and the Somme Offensive, in France.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RUFUS F. KING, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of the Bois de Sachet, France, October 5, 1918. This officer being suddenly placed in command of his battery by the evacuation of his Captain, displayed great initiative, energy and unusual military ability in placing his battery in position, establishing communication and liaison, and opening effective fire on enemy positions.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES A. KIPP, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage, determination and inspiring example in promptly assuming command of his company after the Company Commander had been wounded, and effectively leading the company in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT OSWALD W. KNAUTH, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action near Chattancourt on the night of September 25, 1918, when as munitions officer he remained at his post under heavy artillery fire checking and directing the supply of ammunition for the regiment.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HENRY W. LARKIN, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 3, 1918, in making reconnaissance of position to be occupied by his battalion and directing the distribution of ammunition under severe gas and shell fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT H. LEAKE, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49

For courage and qualities of leadership demonstrated while in command of his company at a time when the company had sustained heavy casualties from enemy shell fire. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM G. LE COMPTE, Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and efficiency in handling his platoon under heavy fire in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM V. LESSELS, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious service as Signal Supply Officer in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, and for voluntarily remaining on duty with his battalion several days after receiving orders to return to the United States, in order that he might participate in the battle of October 17, 1918, at St. Souplet.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM K. LEUFER, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Marre, France, September 9 to 15, 1918. This officer displayed rare ability, initiative, untiring energy and great resourcefulness in procuring and delivering food and supplies to battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire and without regard to personal risk.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES R. LISA, M. C., 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For unflinching devotion to duty and courage in caring for the wounded while under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire during the attack of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CHARLES P. LOESER, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86

For meritorious services and courage under shell fire while in charge of a forward ration dump at Busigny, France, October, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FREDERICK K. LONG, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and determination during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-20, 1918. This officer on the morning of October 17, 1918, while acting as Battalion Adjutant, collected a number of men who had become lost in the fog and with great dash led them successfully forward under hostile fire on the heights of St. Martin Riviere. He crossed Le Selle River notwithstanding there was a company of another division held up at the same point.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RALPH W. LOUGHLIN, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39

For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ARTHUR C. LUMLEY, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For coolness and efficiency in handling his company in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD M. McCABE, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For inspiring courage and example frequently demonstrated until severely wounded; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RUSSELL J. McGRAW, M. C., 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 31, 1918. This officer, during an enemy aerial bombing attack, without regard to personal risk, attended to wounded soldiers, exposing himself with great bravery until all the wounded were removed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RICHARD H. McINTYRE, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For fearlessness and devotion to duty in advancing his Stokes-Mortars with the assaulting waves of the regiment in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HAROLD M. McKAY, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39

For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ARTHUR J. McKENNA, Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 28, 1918, this officer with utter disregard for personal safety, led his company with conspicuous bravery and coolness until so severely wounded that he was unable to proceed. Repeatedly refusing first aid he continued to direct his men forward, and thus proved an inspiration to his command.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RAYMOND A. McLEER, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious services and untiring devotion to duty as Supply Officer during the entire period of operations of the 27th Division in Belgium and France.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT E. McMANAMY, JR., 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, where his courageous leadership, energy and zeal in conducting ammunition to forward positions was a splendid example to the men of his command.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES F. McSWEENEY, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse and Reville, France, from October 28 to November 11, 1918. This officer, under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration, without regard to personal risk, established a gas alarm system for the regiment and by reason of his foresight, initiative and excellent judgment reduced the number of gas casualties to the minimum, although severely gassed himself.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GEORGE W. MARTIN, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29, 1918, in supervising the placing of his battery in position under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GEORGE MATTHEWS, JR., Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For marked ability and leadership displayed as Second Lieutenant in all combat operations, particularly in the advancing of his guns in the attack on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31 and September 1, 1918, while supporting the infantry and for qualities of bravery and skilled leadership while advancing over and beyond Le Selle River, October 17 and 18, 1918, particularly in the action about Advantage Farm, where, though wounded, he refused surgical attention until his guns were properly disposed and the wounded men of his command properly cared for.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HARRY MERZ, Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
On August 27, 1918, while the company was holding a front line position in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, suffering casualties from a nearby enemy sniper, this officer, locating the sniper, left shelter at great personal peril, and by his gallantry, skill and determination succeeded in destroying the sniper with hand grenades. Again on September 29, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, although severely wounded, he continued to direct the operations of his command at a critical time.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HARRY MERZ, Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and leadership. About 9 A. M. September 29, 1918, this officer was ordered to attack and capture a German trench. He led his company, charged the trench, cleared it and captured one officer and about twenty-nine men of the 184th German Infantry Regiment. He was always an example to his men under fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT BENTON M. MONTGOMERY, M. C., Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 52
For meritorious service in forward areas under enemy shell fire in evacuating wounded during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT H. A. MORRIS, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
As Assistant to Chief of Administration (G-1) Section, General Staff, and charged with many important duties in connection with transportation and supply, he displayed judgment, tact and decision, performing valuable and efficient service, frequently under difficult conditions during operations of the 27th Division in the Ypres-Lys Offensive in Belgium.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EUGENE L. MULLANEY, Regimental Intelligence Officer, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous courage and devotion to duty in making personal reconnaissance of the front line under heavy fire on the night of September 27, 1918, preparatory to the 107th Infantry relieving the 106th Infantry in the line near Ronssoy, France.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GEORGE A. MULLARKY, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
For energy and determination in transporting hot food to troops in the front line over roads subjected to heavy machine gun and shell fire and gas bombardment. This during the battles of Le Selle River and Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 17-19, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWIN S. MUNSON, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For fearlessness and courage during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when in addition to his regular duties as Regimental Gas Officer he voluntarily assisted in rendering medical aid to the wounded while under fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOSEPH H. MURPHY, M. C., Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 52
For meritorious service in forward areas under enemy shell fire in evacuating wounded during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM F. NEALON, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 52
For meritorious service in operating at the Main Dressing Station at Busigny, France, under enemy shell fire during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CLARENCE C. NESBITT, M. C., Ambulance Company No. 106. S. O. 52
For meritorious service in forward areas under enemy shell fire in evacuating wounded during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT KEVNEY O'CONNOR, Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry, determination and qualities of leadership exhibited in battle during operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT E. HARRISON O'ROURKE, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in successfully leading his company in the attack after its Commanding Officer was killed and although himself wounded. This during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29 and 30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES F. OAKLEAF, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For courageous and effective service as Intelligence Officer of his regiment in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918, and in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN ORGILL, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 52
For exceptional courage and gallantry in leading his battalion signal detail under heavy shell fire through a gassed area to establish communication with the advanced positions and in continuing the work, although wounded, until it was successfully completed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CHARLES G. OSTBERG, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination during attack on outer defenses of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, when after being mortally wounded, he refused to be evacuated and continued to direct his men until he lost consciousness.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALEXANDER OSTRANDER, Supply Officer, Second Battalion, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For devotion to duty and tireless effort in supplying rations to the 2d Battalion, 107th Infantry, during the fighting east of the Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17 to 22, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GORDON PARKER, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cumieres, France, on September 10, 1918, in delivering small arms ammunition to the infantry line under direct observation of the enemy infantry, and under heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GEORGE W. PEPPARD, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For meritorious services and courage under fire while in charge of forward ration dump at Goedewaersvelde, Belgium, July, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRED J. PIERCE, Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, leadership and determination under fire, this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EMIL M. PODEYN, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 3, 1918, in making reconnaissance of position to be occupied by his battalion and directing the distribution of ammunition under severe gas and shell fire.

LIEUTENANT BEN M. RAMBO, Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and fearlessness in leading his platoon forward in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, where he gave his life in the performance of his duty.

FIRST LIEUTENANT RICHARD M. RAVEN, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and skilled leadership exhibited while in command of the Company from October 12 to 18, 1918. On the morning of October 17, the company having become detached from the rest of the battalion in a heavy fog and smoke barrage, this officer succeeded in leading his company to its objective and locating the rest of the battalion. On October 18 he again exhibited great courage and skill in an attack under heavy fire in advancing his company successfully until killed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ALLEN F. REAGAN, Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry, courage and success in resisting an enemy attack on his platoon in the Dickebusch Lake line, Belgium, August, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THEODORE D. REED, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 49
 For zeal and devotion to duty in giving medical relief to civilians when the division advanced to Busigny, France, during the period October 10-21, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THEODORE D. REED, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in operating at the Main Dressing Station at Busigny, France, under enemy shell fire, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN REYNOLDS, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 52
 For courageous reconnaissance of enemy lines along Le Selle River, October 16, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRANK H. RICHARDSON, M. C., 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For fearlessness and unremitting attention to the wounded of his regiment during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-20, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HERBERT G. ROSBORO, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For energy and determination in transporting hot food to troops in the front line, over roads subjected to heavy machine gun and shell fire and gas bombardment. This during the battles of Le Selle River and Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 17-19, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JAMES J. ROSS, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example until killed in Le Selle River operations, France, October 14-20, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT OGDEN J. ROSS, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and determination in continuing in the performance of his duty after being wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 25-30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WATSON S. ROWAN, M. C., 106th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For courage and zealous attention to duty in operating an aid station under heavy fire; this at Arbre Guernon, France, in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge and the engagement subsequent thereto October 18-20, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT GILBERT RUDKIN, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination during attack on the outer defenses of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, and particularly during a charge he led upon an enemy machine gun nest, during the progress of which he was killed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD L. RYAN, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courage and qualities of leadership in assuming command of his company after his Captain had been wounded and effectively leading it to its objective and there successfully repelling an enemy counter attack; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD L. RYAN, 108th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courage and qualities of leadership in commanding a detachment of 106th Infantry under extremely heavy enemy fire until seriously wounded; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT STEPHEN M. SCHWAB, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For fearlessness, skill, good judgment and determination manifested during his entire active service, and for courage in battle on September 29, 1918, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, when he effectively held his position under heavy enemy fire until killed.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CHARLES F. SCUDDER, M. C., Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 52
 For meritorious service in operating at the Main Dressing Station at Busigny, France, under enemy shell fire, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

400

FIRST LIEUTENANT HERBERT F. SHAVER, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For indefatigable work as transport officer of the 1st Battalion, 107th Infantry, during its entire tour of duty in France and Belgium.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM R. SHELLEY, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For courage and skill as a Scout Officer in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918, and in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRANK L. SIMES, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
For courage and determination constantly demonstrated under heavy enemy fire until killed in action, this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT F. SMITH, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Vacherauville, France, November 1, 1918, in proceeding to the forward position of his battery from the echelon through heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HENRY O. SOMMER, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM E. STONEBRIDGE, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 16, 1918. This officer, by great initiative and resourcefulness, secured at great personal risk and under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, sufficient enemy telephone equipment and established and maintained an advanced telephone communication which largely contributed to the success of the operations then being carried on.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HAROLD A. STORMS, M. C., 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, September 26 to November 11, 1918, in temporarily acting as line officer and conducting ammunition trains to forward dumps under heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD E. STREETER, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery on September 26, 1918, in the vicinity of Bois des Forges, France, in accompanying advancing infantry during an attack under heavy enemy machine gun, artillery and infantry fire, reconnoitering and locating front lines as established and promptly transmitting information as to the progress of the action and the results of the artillery fire, thereby contributing in large measure to the success of the operation.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HOMER K. SWEET, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service. His untiring attention to duty and care for the men under his command contributed materially to the efficient functioning of this train during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France (Meuse-Argonne), September 6 to November 11, 1918. His courage and coolness under enemy fire was a splendid example to those serving with him.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM EDWARD TAGGART, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and meritorious services exhibited in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This officer rendered valuable service and was wounded in both legs. His devotion to duty was an inspiration and example to the men of his command.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ARTHUR TALBOT, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in the fighting east of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 19, 1918. This officer volunteered to lead a patrol into no man's land to locate enemy machine guns. This he did in broad daylight and secured important information for his commanding officer.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FORD M. TERRY, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in refusing to be evacuated after he was wounded in the fight for the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918. This officer by his devotion to duty was a splendid example to his men. He remained in command of his company until he was again badly wounded in the fighting at Vaux Andigny, France, October 15, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD C. O. THOMAS, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry in voluntarily leading a patrol of eight British soldiers on the hazardous mission of laying guide wires to enemy trenches, during which all other members of the patrol were killed. In spite of this Lieutenant Thomas continued to work under heavy enemy fire for a period of over four hours. This while attached to a British unit as observer near Albert, France, on June 25, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THOMAS H. F. THOMAS, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Malbrouck Hill, near Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 28 to 31, 1918, in reconnoitering the entire enemy front line and establishing an observation post in an abandoned French tank in the Ormont Wood under heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT HECTOR TURNBULL, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
For his military attainments and pronounced ability as Assistant Operations' Officer of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, from October 29 to November 11, 1918, which proved to be an important factor in the success of the brigade, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ERNEST R. ULLRICH, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptional devotion to duty during the operation of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, from October 28 to November 11, 1918. This officer displayed marked ability as artillery liaison officer with the 152d Infantry Brigade, and by his intelligent co-operation with the Infantry Brigade Commander and prompt transmission of information to his regimental commander rendered services of conspicuous worth.

FIRST LIEUTENANT KENNARD UNDERWOOD, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courageous and efficient services in supervising supplies for his regiment during the battles and engagements in which it participated.

FIRST LIEUTENANT MAX VAN NORDEN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action on November 8 and 9, 1918, in reconnoitering and establishing forward telephone central stations under fire, to connect the artillery net with forward infantry positions in the attack on Reville, Etraye and Crepion and the attack on Hills 328 and 319 during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive.

FIRST LIEUTENANT MAX VAN NORDEN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in promptly extending the telephonic communications between supporting artillery stations and advancing positions of infantry commands under artillery and machine gun fire after the advance through the Bois de Forges, September 26 and 27, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive.

FIRST LIEUTENANT MAX VAN NORDEN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For his energy and zealous efforts as communications officer of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in promptly establishing the artillery net under fire during advances and maintaining it at all times when all other communication failed, enabling communications to be maintained on the front lines, which were a deciding factor in the success of the operations of the division which the brigade supported throughout the Meuse-Argonne Offensive from September 9 to November 11, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JESSE I. VARNEY, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in remaining on duty with his company after being wounded and until wounded a second time. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28 to 30, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT G. VICKERY, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, skill and determination exhibited while in command of a working party at Fermoy Farm, Belgium. Lieutenant Vickery, when his party was suddenly subjected to heavy artillery fire, scattered his platoon to places of cover. When two of his men were buried by the explosion of a high explosive shell near them, Lieutenant Vickery, with the aid of one other, rescued one of the men whose hip had been broken, successfully evacuating him. His prompt action prevented further casualties in his platoon. This on the night of August 15-16, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT DOUGLAS P. WALKER, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action near Chattancourt on September 26 and near Cote des Roches from October 29 to November 11, 1918, when as regimental telephone officer he repeatedly repaired telephone lines and maintained communication under heavy artillery and machine gun fire.

FIRST LIEUTENANT CAREY J. WALRATH, Company M, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in leading his platoon forward in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, and personally putting out of action two enemy machine guns. Lieutenant Walrath was killed in accomplishing this act.

FIRST LIEUTENANT THOMAS F. WARD, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and aggressive determination repeatedly exhibited during the service of his regiment in Belgium and France, and for coolness and inspiring example to his men. This officer was seriously wounded while leading his company during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, and remained in a shell hole 48 hours to care for a fellow officer more severely wounded than himself until both were removed by advancing troops.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD WARSHAUER, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary bravery in leading his platoon under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. After the company commander had been killed, this officer took command of the company and showed courage and coolness in reorganizing his men regardless of personal danger. He was killed by a machine gun bullet while leading an attack on an enemy's machine gun post. His leadership and coolness were a fine example to the men of his command.

FIRST LIEUTENANT JOHN J. WELSH, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDGAR M. WHITLOCK, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional technical skill and courage in successfully staking and taping the infantry start line for the attack on the outer-defenses of the Hindenburg Line under heavy enemy fire on the night of September 25-26, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FREDERICK A. WILLIS, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, and devotion to duty in voluntarily carrying a message to the forward lines through heavy shell and machine gun fire and in evacuating a wounded soldier of his regiment. This during the operations of his regiment near Etraye, France, November 11, 1918.

FIRST LIEUTENANT BRANNION S. WOODARD, Company C, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For gallantry and inspiring example in refusing medical aid after being wounded and gassed until two of his men more seriously wounded had been given first aid and evacuated.

FIRST LIEUTENANT ROBERT D. WILLIAMSON, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and efficient performance of duty during operations of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

FIRST LIEUTENANT EDWARD F. WINNEK, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For great courage frequently exhibited until killed; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT ROY E. ADAMS, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership frequently demonstrated while in command of his company during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT BERT R. ANDERSON, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 39
 For courage under fire and qualities of leadership displayed in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JAMES ANDREWS, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of Bois de Forges and Bois de Septsarges, France, September 26 to November 11, 1918, in supervising the hauling of ammunition to forward battery positions, traveling day and night under great fatigue and with short rations, until badly injured and evacuated.

SECOND LIEUTENANT GEORGE ARCHER, JR., 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For inspiring example and marked qualities of leadership during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT EDWARD J. BONNEY, Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and qualities of leadership repeatedly demonstrated during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, August 31-September 2, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FRANK H. BREITBECK, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example until killed in Le Selle River operations, France, October 14-20, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT WESLEY L. BRYDE, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 17, 1918, in laying and maintaining a telephone line to the forward observation post north of Dannevoux, a distance of seven kilometers, under severe mustard gas and shell fire concentrations, without food or relief, enabling the maintenance of a battalion fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT CHARLES L. BUBBS, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For meritorious services and untiring devotion to duty while acting both as Chief Clerk and Assistant to the Disbursing Quartermaster of the division during operations in Belgium and France.

SECOND LIEUTENANT ARMSTRONG CRAWFORD, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29, 1918, in constantly patrolling his battery column while enroute to position under heavy enemy shell fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT SUMMERFIELD S. CURTISS, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry under fire and for devotion to duty while charged with the burial of the dead of the 27th Division during all battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France. This officer at all times carried on his duties on the battlefields with disregard to his own safety.

SECOND LIEUTENANT EDWIN L. DALE, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For meritorious services and untiring energy as Assistant to the Division Quartermaster at rail heads in Belgium and France.

SECOND LIEUTENANT LLEWELYN H. DAVIS, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and devotion to duty as Intelligence Officer of the 2d Battalion of his regiment. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HAROLD C. DE LOISELLE, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and exceptionally meritorious service. This officer while acting as Battalion Intelligence Officer, in the preliminary attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, volunteered on two occasions to make, and did make, personal reconnaissances under heavy fire of the terrain between Guillemont Farm and Duncan Post. On September 29, 1918, he volunteered to take part in the battle with a provisional battalion of his regiment and was wounded.

SECOND LIEUTENANT ROE M. DENNIS, Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry displayed while leading his Company forward in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, until he was wounded.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HAROLD L. DOWNEY, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, aggressiveness and qualities of leadership displayed throughout all the operations of the division in Belgium and France, and by his disregard for personal safety, setting an inspiring example to the soldiers under his command.

SECOND LIEUTENANT WALTER V. FARLEY, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as Corporal, Company L, 107th Infantry, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. After being wounded in the leg and rendering himself first aid he went to the assistance of other wounded men under heavy machine gun fire. After remaining on the field for some time rendering first aid to others he assisted First Lieutenant R. A. Byrne, who had been wounded, back to a dressing station, utterly disregarding his own wound, which was quite painful.

SECOND LIEUTENANT RALPH REGAN FINNEY, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary heroism in action in the vicinity of La Claire Farm, France, October 8, 1918, when two cases of hand grenades dropped from a runaway limber and exploded, causing about twelve casualties, he, disregarding the bursting grenades, rushed to the aid of the wounded, directing and helping their removal from danger and rendering first aid at great personal risk.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JOSEPH A. FLOERSHEIMER, Assistant Quartermaster. S. O. 33
 For exceptional zeal and capacity for effective accomplishment and for conspicuous courage under fire in getting rations and other supplies to troops in the line during the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France.

SECOND LIEUTENANT BENJAMIN W. FULLER, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT ROBERT J. GIES, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination. On October 18, 1918, in the vicinity of Jone de Mer Ridge, east of St. Souplet, France, this officer volunteered to carry, and did deliver, a message to Regimental Headquarters although wounded at the time.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JAMES H. GILES, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For his unusual capacity for command and administration as Commander of the Headquarters Company of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 26 to November 11, 1918, during which he performed his tasks with pronounced ability.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FRANK H. GRACE, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 39
 For coolness, courage and qualities of leadership demonstrated under fire when casualties were being inflicted. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT ARCHIE B. GWATHMEY, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty, resourcefulness and determination while serving as Transport Officer of his regiment. During the battle of Jone De Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918, this officer finding that one of the companies of his regiment then engaged in action had not secured hot food, due to heavy shelling of the approaches to their position, personally conducted a carrying party to the company's position in the line and delivered needed cooked rations. He repeated this the following night under heavy enemy fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT CLARENCE E. HALL, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For personal courage and bravery in successfully leading his company forward in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, on September 29, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT RUSSELL W. HALLOCK, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership while commanding Company K of his regiment during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918. After being gassed, this officer remained with his company until forced to leave the lines on account of blindness.

SECOND LIEUTENANT RUSSELL W. HALLOCK, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 Lieutenant Hallock, although almost totally blinded by gas, remained with his command and directed their advance during the battle of Le Selle River. Although ordered to the rear, he refused to leave his company until his successor took over command.

SECOND LIEUTENANT OSCAR E. HELLQUIST, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership exhibited in battle in laying the infantry starting line under heavy enemy fire. This on the morning of September 29, 1918, near The Knoll, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

SECOND LIEUTENANT OSCAR E. HELLQUIST, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courageous reconnaissance of enemy's position under heavy fire. This at Vaux-Andigny, France, October 15, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT WALTER N. HORSBURGH, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For effective reconnaissance under heavy fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HOWARD HUMPHREY, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in personally repairing a broken telephone wire to Battalion Headquarters under heavy enemy shell fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JAMES ISHERWOOD, Gas Officer, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For exceptional gallantry when serving as a Gas Officer. When the front line trench of his company had come under heavy fire and suffered a number of casualties, he jumped out of his dugout in the rear and advanced over the open to supervise the evacuation of the wounded and to reorganize the trench, remaining throughout the barrage and until the advance was completely reorganized. This in the trench system near Mt. Kemmel, July 31, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HARRY B. JENNINGS, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership displayed throughout all the operations of the division in Belgium and France, September 27-29, 1918, and in making personal reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-20, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HORACE C. JOHNSON, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For exceptional qualities of leadership, courage and determination in effectively assuming command of his company after all the officers thereof had been killed or wounded, and leading the company into effective action. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT GEORGE H. JONES, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action at Le Mort Homme on September 26, 1918, when the battalion P. C. was under heavy artillery fire and his radio aerial was twice shot down he twice made the repairs that maintained communication.

SECOND LIEUTENANT THOMAS T. KERR, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HARRY G. KETTNER, Veterinary Corps, 27th Division.
 As Brigade Veterinarian of the 53d Infantry Brigade during the operations in Belgium and France, this officer exhibited marked ability in maintaining a high percentage of serviceable animals under the most trying climatic and road conditions.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JOHN F. LATHROP, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example repeatedly shown until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT CLAUDE G. LELAND, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership in battle near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, in promptly reorganizing his battalion with great initiative and firmness when his battalion commander was wounded and his own Captain and First Lieutenant killed.

SECOND LIEUTENANT MARSH S. LOCKYEAR, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in leading patrols into the enemy lines, on October 15, 17 and 18, during the battle of Le Selle River. This officer was killed while engaged in this hazardous duty on the last mentioned date.

SECOND LIEUTENANT RICHARD LYON, Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For qualities of courage and leadership displayed as a platoon commander in advancing his guns in support of the infantry during the advance across Le Selle River on the morning of October 17, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT McALLISTER MARSHALL, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, where, as Artillery Liaison Officer with infantry units, he rendered services of conspicuous worth. This on September 20 to November 11, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JOHN McANERNY, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the fight for the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, on September 29, 1918. He successively led his platoon against enemy machine guns until he was severely wounded.

SECOND LIEUTENANT R. B. McCASKEY, Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For qualities of courage and leadership displayed as a platoon commander during the advance across Le Selle River on the morning of October 17, 1918, and the action beyond Advantage Farm, October 18, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT WILLIAM N. McCLUNG, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in rescuing wounded men, clearing away debris and maintaining the fire efficiency of his battery while subjected to a concentration of enemy artillery fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JAMES L. MALOY, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For gallantry and exceptional qualities of leadership in continuing in command of his platoon after being wounded. After reaching his objective, it was found that this officer had been wounded five times. These wounds caused his death. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT MARTIN M. MASON, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 2, 1918. This officer, at great personal risk and under heavy enemy fire of artillery, machine guns and hand arms, reconnoitered enemy front line positions in advance of the infantry lines and secured valuable information which contributed largely to the success of the operations in progress.

SECOND LIEUTENANT WILLIAM H. MERRICK, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Montzeville, La Claire, Farm, Forges, Bethincourt, Casenoye and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, September 26 to November 11, 1918, in conducting caissons loaded with ammunition to forward battery positions over congested roads under heavy enemy shell fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT WILLIAM NORTH, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For his great initiative and resourcefulness, untiring energy and rare ability, as Assistant

Communications Officer of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive from September 26 to November 11, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT TIMOTHY O'CONNOR, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39

For great personal courage and inspiring qualities of leadership while in command of his company. Even after being mortally wounded this officer's last words were for the men to continue their attack. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HOWARD C. PORTER, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918. This officer, then a Corporal, volunteered to accompany the Operations Officer on a reconnaissance of the front line just before zero hour and rendered valuable aid to a battalion of the 105th Infantry in locating its position. He also voluntarily accompanied the Operations Officer on a reconnaissance of the front line under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire and rendered great aid and assistance in locating the enemy after he had been driven out of Guillemont Farm and The Knoll.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JOHN H. POTTS, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action and exceptionally meritorious service at the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 19, 1918. This officer led a combat patrol of six men against two hostile machine gun nests. Finding their fire too heavy to subdue, he returned to his Battalion Commander and requested permission to take out a platoon, with which he reduced the nests and cleared the ground for the subsequent advance.

SECOND LIEUTENANT SIDNEY N. RIGGS, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Chaume, near Consenvoye, France, September 26, 1918, in continuing on duty as Liaison Officer with the infantry front line under heavy enemy shell fire, although severely gassed, until properly relieved and evacuated.

SECOND LIEUTENANT SIDNEY N. RIGGS, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Boie de Forges, France, September 26, 1918, in advancing with the first infantry line and maintaining telephonic communication back to Artillery and Division Headquarters under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HARRY W. ROBINSON, Intelligence Officer, 3d Battalion, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For courage and fearlessness in laying the tape for the 3d Battalion, 107th Infantry, in spite of heavy enemy fire, preparatory to the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918. This officer was killed a few minutes after completing his work.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FREDERICK W. ROSECK, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 44

For exceptional gallantry and determination in continuing in command of his platoon and refusing to be evacuated after being wounded, and later when again wounded he lay in a shell hole firing his pistol and inspiring his men until struck a third time, when he was killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FREDERICK W. ROSECK, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42

For skilled leadership and courage in leading patrols into the enemy's lines in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JOHN RUDIN, Co. M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and courage in personally reconnoitering in no man's land in the Dickebusch Lake sector, near Ypres and Mt. Kemmel.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HORACE B. SCANLAN, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 33

For exceptional gallantry and inspiring example in the organization of the most advanced units of his company and the shattering of an enemy counter attack under heavy machine gun fire in the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, September 27, 1918. After being mortally wounded this officer exhorted his men by saying, "Go on fighting, never mind what happens to me."

SECOND LIEUTENANT ADAM J. SCHAENZER, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage and determination while in command of his company in assuming an advanced position and repelling an enemy counter-attack although suffering from gas at the time. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT GASTON F. M. SCHREIBER, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29, 1918, in constantly patrolling his battery column while enroute to position under heavy enemy shell fire.

SECOND LIEUTENANT DICK D. SMITH, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39

For courage and inspiring example until killed in Le Selle River operations, France, October 14-20, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FREDERICK SNARE, JR., 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For courage, skill and devotion to duty as Battalion Transport Officer in supplying hot rations to the companies of his battalion in the line and personally directing and supervising the evacuation of killed and wounded from the forward areas. This under heavy enemy shell fire during the battles of Le Selle River, Jonc de Mer Ridge and St. Maurice River, France, October 16-20, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HENRY K. STECKELS, V. C., 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious service and devotion to duty displayed on several occasions during the service of his organization in Belgium and France, in exposing himself to enemy fire in order that animals gassed and wounded might be saved.

SECOND LIEUTENANT HUGH DE Y. STILLMAN, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49

For aggressive courage and determination frequently demonstrated under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT CARL J. STOCK, Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry displayed while leading his company forward in the battle of the Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, until he received wounds from which he died later.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FRANCIS W. SUTHERLAND, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For exceptional devotion to duty and efficiency in assembling and conducting the combined bands of the division at Spartanburg, S. C., and during the review by the Commander in Chief of the A. E. F. at Montfort, France.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JOHN TABETSHOFER, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination while commanding a platoon of his regiment at St. Souplet, France, October 17-18, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River.

✓
SECOND LIEUTENANT CLEMENT V. TILLION, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and determination under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Scherpenberg, Belgium, July 17, 1918. This officer, although himself wounded, aided in the evacuation of one of the men of his detachment who was wounded.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FRED H. TROLINGER, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery, in the vicinity of Etraye, France, November 10 and 11, 1918, in reconnoitering and locating enemy lines under heavy machine gun fire at great personal risk.

500
SECOND LIEUTENANT GEORGE W. TURNER, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
For gallantry and determination during the battles of The Knoll, Guillemont Farm, Quinnemont Farm and the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918. This officer upon learning of the proposed attack left the hospital where he was a patient and immediately rejoined his command, participating with courage throughout both battles. During the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-20, 1918, he commanded a company with courage and distinction.

SECOND LIEUTENANT WHITNEY A. WAGNER, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action and devotion to his duty near Ravin de Raffecourt from October 1 to 9, 1918, when he acted as executive officer of his battery, often exposed to artillery fire, while suffering from severe sickness, until ordered to a hospital by a Medical Officer.

SECOND LIEUTENANT JAMES A. WALSH, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious services, untiring devotion to duty and efficiency while an Army Field Clerk and Chief Clerk of the division during its service in the United States and Belgium and later as Second Lieutenant, Assistant Division Adjutant, during the service of the division in France.

✓
SECOND LIEUTENANT CHARLES WATKINS, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in placing his platoon under cover when it came under heavy enemy artillery fire and returning alone under fire and carrying to cover Private O'Hare of his company, who was severely wounded and who later died. This on the northeast slope of Scherpenberg, Belgium, on the night of July 27-28, during the occupation of a British defensive sector.

SECOND LIEUTENANT LOUIS G. WEBBER, Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
Lieutenant Webber, although severely wounded, refused to be taken from the field and lay exposed to severe fire for ten hours in order that the enlisted men might be taken from the field first; this in front of Bony, France, on the morning of September 29, 1918.

SECOND LIEUTENANT ELISHA K. WETHERILL, Infantry. S. O. 86
As Billeting Officer, and later in charge of Replacement Camp of 27th Division, he devoted judgment and decision to the performance of important duties, rendering valuable services, frequently under unfavorable conditions, with vigor, zeal and efficiency, during operations of the division in the Ypres-Lys offensive in Belgium and the Somme offensive in France.

506
SECOND LIEUTENANT GEORGE E. WOLFE, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, October 2, 1918, in remaining at his post under heavy enemy shell fire, supervising the distribution of rations until he was severely wounded.

ARMY FIELD CLERK HARRY M. ELLSWORTH, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service, zeal and untiring devotion to duty as a non-commissioned officer and later as Army Field Clerk in the Division Adjutant's Section during the entire operations of the division in Belgium and France.

ARMY FIELD CLERK MARVIN S. FINNEY, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service, zeal and untiring devotion to duty as a non-commissioned officer and later as Army Field Clerk in the Division Adjutants Section during the entire operations of the division in Belgium and France.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR JOHN H. BAYER, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptional devotion to duty during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bois des Sartelles, Marre and Champneuville, France, from September 26 to November 11, 1918, in his untiring energy, exceptional resourcefulness and his zealous efforts and in his dependability and soldierly qualities displayed in efficiently maintaining and administering the Regimental Headquarters at maximum efficiency without supervision, performing all his tasks with pronounced ability.

SERGEANT MAJOR ALBERT A. BRUENIG (1200007), Division Headquarters. S. O. 31
For exceptionally meritorious service as secretary and stenographer to the Division Commander throughout the entire period of active operations of the division in Belgium and France. At all times the services of this soldier were characterized by intelligence, loyalty and a zeal that was untiring in the performance of his duties, to continue which he gave up the opportunity to become a commissioned officer through attendance at the Officers' Training Camp.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR JOHN J. CURRY (1205880), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For zeal and devotion to duty during all battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR GURNEY DAVENPORT (1202690), Headquarters, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
For courage and devotion to duty under fire, frequently demonstrated during the battles and engagements in which his regiment took part in Belgium and in France.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR JOHN P. DRISCOLL, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty during operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in the vicinity of Verdun, France, from September 9 to November 11, 1918, in his unflagging industry, exceptional zeal and unusual ability and helpfulness, which were a large factor in the success of such operations.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR WILLIAM E. HEADY (1231740), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service, zeal and untiring devotion to duty while a non-commissioned officer in the Division Adjutant's Section during the entire operations of the division in Belgium and France.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR WILLIAM W. HOBERT (1212253), Headquarters Company 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty and courage in directing ration parties under heavy shell fire to the front line on the nights of September 29 and 30 during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR CHARLES M. HOFFMAN, Division Headquarters Detachment.
For voluntarily delivering messages in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918, while that town was under heavy bombardment.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR CHARLES M. HOFFMAN (1200002), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service and zealous performance of duty as assistant to the Division Judge Advocate, and for gallant conduct under fire while voluntarily serving as an observer in the front line in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch Lake sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR EDWARD J. KERN (1203204), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service and untiring devotion to duty in the office of the Division Personnel Adjutant, throughout the entire period of operations in Belgium and France, during the occupation of a British defensive sector, in the Ypres salient and in the Ypres-Lys and Somme offensives. To the zeal and energy of this soldier is due much of the credit for the accurate record of casualties in the division.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR HOWARD McLELLAN, Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service during all operations of the division in Belgium and France as assistant to the Division Intelligence Officer.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR ROBERT POLLOCK (656543), Headquarters, 54th Brigade. S. O. 44
While acting as stenographer and clerk at Brigade Headquarters, he performed his duties most efficiently under most unusual circumstances. During the battle at Ronssoy, the shelter he was working in was partially destroyed, and it was only after several hours' work that he was released. Even under these circumstances, he retained his cheerfulness, coolness and ability to perform his duties efficiently.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR EDWARD J. ROESSLER, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For efficiency and courage while in charge of battle stores at forward ration dumps, and particularly at Busigny, France, in October, 1918.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR HENRY C. SWENTZEL, JR. (1221086), 102d Train Headquarters. S. O. 49
For exceptional devotion to duty in the performance of his duties during the active operations of the division in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 26-30, 1918.

REGIMENTAL SERGEANT MAJOR JOSEPH A. WALSH (1231823), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service and devotion to duty, during all operations of the division in Belgium and France, as assistant to the Division Inspector, and for gallant conduct and courage under fire while voluntarily serving in a front line wiring party in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch Lake sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, on the night of July 14, 1918.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT EDWIN W. BRODIE, Supply Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Chattancourt, France, in maintaining an advanced supply station under heavy enemy shell fire. This from October 20 to 26, 1918.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT HARRY J. BRUCE, Supply Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, September 1 to November 11, 1918, in bringing rations and supplies over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations to forward battery positions.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT JOHN HOCK, JR., Headquarters, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Thierville, France, September 28, 1918, in procuring and delivering supplies of gasoline under heavy enemy shell fire.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT JOHN HOCK, JR., Headquarters, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action on October 7, 1918, in delivering supplies to forward positions in the vicinity of Charny, Marre, Chattancourt and Cumieres, France, under heavy enemy shell fire and aerial attack.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT GERALD F. JACOBSON (1212770), 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous devotion to duty and exceptional ability. This non-commissioned officer exhibited exceptional qualities of energy and capacity during all the service of the regiment in Belgium and France.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT WILLIAM B. LOVE, Supply Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Chattancourt, France, in maintaining an advanced supply station under heavy enemy shell fire. This on October 20 to 26, 1918.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT JOHN S. MURPHY, Supply Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, September 1 to November 11, 1918, in bringing rations and supplies over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations to forward battery positions.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT JAMES E. OSTERHOUT (1213121), Supply Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For devotion to duty and zeal in getting hot food up to the front lines of his regiment during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28-30, 1918.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT FRANCIS J. REILLY (1202959), Supply Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
For courage and determination frequently demonstrated under fire while in performance of his duties during the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT HAL V. SALMON, Headquarters, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in delivering supplies to forward positions in the vicinity of Charny, Marre, Chattancourt and Cumieres, France, October 7, 1918, under heavy shell fire and aerial attack.

REGIMENTAL SUPPLY SERGEANT HAL V. SALMON, Headquarters, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Thierville, France, September 28, 1918, in procuring and delivering supplies of gasoline under heavy enemy shell fire.

COLOR SERGEANT ABE LEVINE, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in voluntarily carrying an important message to the Regimental P. C. under heavy enemy artillery fire, during which duty he was wounded. This on November 1, 1918.

COLOR SERGEANT VINCENT A. O'NEIL, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, from October 31 to November 9, 1918, in establishing and operating a regimental headquarters office in a captured dugout and for efficiency in maintaining it under heavy gas concentrations and enemy shell fire.

MASTER ENGINEER BENJAMIN WHITE (1201175), Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 29
For coolness, courage and determination in carrying on construction work under heavy enemy fire; this in the vicinity of Ronsoy, France, September 26 and 29, 1918.

MASTER SIGNAL ELECTRICIAN FRANCIS A. CAREY (1200094), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in repairing telephone lines under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

MASTER SIGNAL ELECTRICIAN HERBERT L. HEART (1200900), Company A, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership displayed on October 19, 1918, in holding his radio section together and taking it through a heavy enemy barrage to La Jonquiere Farm, which was the most advanced position in the division line. Also for untiring devotion to duty on October 17, in establishing a radio station at Arbre Guernon, France, during the battle of Le Selle River.

MASTER SIGNAL ELECTRICIAN MERRILL B. LUPOLD, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion (Deceased). (Serial number not given.) S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service in organizing and installing a system of machine gun signal intercommunication in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 30, 1918. This soldier subsequently died in France of spinal meningitis. His conduct at all times was a splendid example to his associates.

MASTER SIGNAL ELECTRICIAN RONALD S. WISHART, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. (Serial number not given.) S. O. 86
For conspicuous services while acting in charge of the signals for the 107th Infantry in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August, 1918. Subsequently on September 29, 1918, this soldier exhibited unusual bravery at Guillemont Farm, France. Although severely wounded by machine gun bullets in the shoulder and arm at 6:00 A. M. he refused to go to the rear and worked forward with the attacking infantry until 11:00 A. M., inspiring the men of his detachment. He was then evacuated to the hospital.

ORDNANCE SERGEANT JAMES R. AYER (1212666), 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
During the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, and the actions in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 11-21, 1918, this soldier twice voluntarily went forward to take charge of advance ammunition dumps under heavy shell fire. While in the performance of that duty he was gassed, but insisted on remaining on duty.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR THOMAS J. AHEARN, JR. (1200009), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service and zealous performance of duty as assistant to the Division Judge Advocate, and while serving in numerous capacities in connection with the work of the Division Staff.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR JOHN W. BOYD (1202751), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
As Chief Clerk, Administrative (G-1) Section, General Staff, he performed arduous duties, frequently under unfavorable conditions, with zeal, energy, application and judgment, rendering highly important service with intelligence, accuracy and efficiency during operations of the 27th Division in the Ypres-Lys offensive in Belgium and the Somme offensive in France.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR STEPHEN H. GORDON (1212256), Headquarters, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and devotion to duty through all the battles in which the 2d Battalion participated, and especially for supervision of the distribution of rations under heavy shell fire while the battalion was holding the line south of St. Souplet, France, in the operations against Le Selle River, October 11-16, 1918.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR JOHN J. LYONS (1200784), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service and devotion to duty, while a non-commissioned officer on duty in the office of the Assistant Chief of Staff (G-3) during the entire period of divisional operations in Belgium and France.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR JOSEPH P. McCANN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in voluntarily carrying important messages between regimental headquarters and advanced infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR HAROLD M. McCUNN, 1st Battalion, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action near Dannvoux from October 18 to 20, 1918, when he occupied a forward observation post and reported effect of our fire on enemy positions while frequently subjected to artillery and small arms fire and gas.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR LESTER S. TIMMINS (1231775), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service, zeal and untiring devotion to duty while a non-commissioned officer in the Division Adjutant's Section during the entire operations of the division in Belgium and France.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR JOHN H. TINGLE (1212255), Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For fearlessness and devotion to duty while accompanying the Battalion Commander under heavy fire in a personal reconnaissance of the front line on the night of September 29, 1918, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France.

BATTALION SERGEANT MAJOR WILDES W. VEAZIE, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de Lemont, France, October 3, 1918, in reconnoitering for advanced battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration without regard to personal risk.

FIRST SERGEANT JOHN A. BARNHART (1215865), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For qualities of leadership, courage and caring at all times, and particularly when in the front line near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium.

FIRST SERGEANT JAMES J. BEALIN, JR., Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in effectively maintaining the fire of his machine gun in the face of heavy artillery bombardment during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT FREDERICK S. BENSON (1209844), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious conduct in attack on the Hindenburg Line near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. When a part of the attacking force had become demoralized through casualties, he reorganized a detachment and directed them in holding a sector of trench in a particularly difficult and dangerous part of the terrain, and continued in action until unconscious from wounds. He had been ordered to Officers' Training Camp, but requested permission to remain with company until after the attack.

FIRST SERGEANT FRANK BROWN, Company C, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in leading an ammunition train under severe enemy shell fire, near Brabant, France, November 4, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT WILLIAM J. CARNEY, Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry, determination and marked qualities of leadership in the operations of Le Selle River in assuming command of his company after all its officers had been wounded and continuing in command until October 20th, when the company was relieved.

FIRST SERGEANT CHARLES W. COLSON (1215408), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership in the performance of his duties when his company came under heavy enemy artillery fire on approaching Le Selle River, France, October 10, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT FRANK CONEFREY, Company H, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 This soldier, on September 2, 1918, the third day of the engagement at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, conducted a reconnaissance of the enemy positions in advance of his company line and by his gallantry and skill secured valuable information.

FIRST SERGEANT CLARK M. DEAN (1211640), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier with seven of his comrades having advanced to a position about fifty yards from the main German trench in front of the canal, withstood the counter-attack of the enemy, who were in great numbers, refusing to surrender until all ammunition was expended, when they were surrounded and captured.

FIRST SERGEANT WILLIAM J. DOHERTY (1208476), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and qualities of leadership while commanding a platoon of his company in the Dickebusch Sector near Mt. Kemmel, July 28, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT JOHN T. FRANKE, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 28, 1918, in conducting his section along heavily shelled roads and by his fearlessness and exceptional bravery setting an admirable example to the men under his command.

FIRST SERGEANT JOHN W. GRIMMER (1204943), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry and determination. On September 29, 1918, in the vicinity of Ronssoy, France, this soldier left cover of a shell hole to go to the relief of a wounded man in the face of heavy machine gun fire and dragged him to cover. This act resulted in his being severely wounded by machine gun bullets, three of which lodged in his body.

FIRST SERGEANT THEODORE J. GROTHE, Company F, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, in handling and distributing ammunition with unusual intelligence and ability, part of the time under direct enemy observation and shell fire.

FIRST SERGEANT HENRY W. A. HELFRICH (1206436), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in effectively commanding a detachment of his company after the Commanding Officer had been wounded. This in the front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 30, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT MICHAEL J. HENNESSY, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance. This on October 2 and 3, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT AMBROSE F. HICKEY (1201716), Company C, 102 Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

FIRST SERGEANT EDWARD R. HUMAN, JR. (1208468), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in assisting in the evacuation of a wounded officer, under heavy fire, near La Clytte, Belgium, July 17, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT ADRIAN J. JACQUES, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and devotion to duty in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in bringing urgently needed rations to forward positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST SERGEANT RUPERT C. KUHN (1209321), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For gallantry in leaving shelter and rescuing two wounded soldiers under heavy fire; this on September 27, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

FIRST SERGEANT MAURICE J. LYONS (1203681), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and bravery in action during the attack on the Hindenburg Line near Bony, France, on September 29, 1918. When all officers of his company had been wounded this soldier took command and continued the advance during which he was wounded, but refused to go to the rear. When the advance was halted by the enemy, this soldier secured a Lewis gun and directed its fire from an advanced position until again wounded and so weakened from loss of blood he was forced to be evacuated.

FIRST SERGEANT EDWARD H. McCULLY, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in effectively commanding a platoon under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT JAMES McGRATH (1221728), Company E, 102 Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For devotion to duty and exceptionally high performance of his functions as First Sergeant of his company during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, September 11 to November 6, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT JOHN J. MILES (1207055), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For courage, determination and qualities of leadership exhibited during the battles of Le Selle

River and Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 17-19, 1918. This soldier, after being wounded, remained in action with his command.

FIRST SERGEANT JOHN J. MILES (1207055), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 52
For exceptional courage and determination during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in remaining with his company although severely wounded.

FIRST SERGEANT ARTHUR M. MONARCH, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in the vicinity of Verdun, France, from September 9 to November 11, 1918, at all times conducting himself in a manner to inspire the men of his company.

FIRST SERGEANT JOHN R. MONTGOMERY (1209457), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, determination and qualities of leadership demonstrated when as Sergeant of the 3d Platoon of his company, he led his platoon with boldness and excellent judgment. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-29, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT GEORGE J. PARKER (1207103), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
For courage and qualities of leadership in battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT ELLIOT ROSS PFLOMM (1210967), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
In the attack on the Hindenburg Line near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, this soldier displayed exceptional qualities of leadership, courage and determination in effectively assuming command of his company after the commanding officer thereof had been severely wounded, and led the company on into effective action.

FIRST SERGEANT ARTHUR J. RITTER, Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For energy and determination in transporting hot food to troops in the front line, over roads subjected to heavy machine gun and shell fire and gas bombardment. This when he was acting as Mess Sergeant during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918, and during the battles of Le Selle River and Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 17-18, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT RAYMOND A. RORKE, Company D, 192d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2, 1918, in directing the carrying of ammunition from French dugouts to the battery positions of the 105th Field Artillery under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following morning, in order to enable these batteries to maintain a barrage for the advancement of the infantry of the 29th Division.

FIRST SERGEANT ARTHUR E. SALISBURY (1207116), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
For courage and initiative in silencing enemy snipers in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT ROBERT H. SMITH (1210735), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For marked executive ability in reorganizing his command after his officers had been wounded on September 29, 1918, and for bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 12, 1918. Sergeant Smith was wounded on the latter date and died after reaching the hospital at Rouen, France.

FIRST SERGEANT ALBERT G. SNOVER, Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in commanding and fearlessly leading his company after all the officers had become casualties. This near Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT A. M. STEWART, Company A, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For constant and unceasing devotion to duty during the entire period of active service in France in the setting of the highest example to the men of the company in neatness, military etiquette and obedience and the efficient manner in which all details were carried out under his direction, both routine and field service duty.

FIRST SERGEANT THEODORE W. TODD (1211828), Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For qualities of leadership, courage and determination. This gallant soldier was killed in action while defending his post against an enemy raid. This in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 22, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT JAMES H. TOMLINSON (1224480), Company C, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
For exceptional courage and fine qualities of leadership in single handed destroying an enemy machine gun post of two men and later, when wounded, continuing to inspire his men by his words and example. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

FIRST SERGEANT CHARLES W. VEITCH (1212526), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, devotion to duty and qualities of leadership exhibited during all battles and engagements in which his company participated in Belgium and France.

FIRST SERGEANT DILL H. WERLEY (1211418), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT ARCHIBALD ANDERSON, Headquarters Detail, Q. M. C., 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service and devotion to duty while attached to the Division Ordnance Officer.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT CHARLES W. ARMONDI (1200935), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
For bravery and disregard of his personal safety while stringing telephone lines for the 108th Infantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, in the face of severe enemy shell and machine gun fire.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT FREDERICK BERTSCH, JR. (1201481), Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 29
For coolness and qualities of leadership under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT GUSTAV R. BOLIN (1222667), Ambulance Company 107. S. O. 49
For efficiency in establishing a post for the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 26-30, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT PATRICK J. COMPTON (1200930), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
For courage and resourcefulness in providing wire communication for the 106th Infantry on the night of September 25, 1918, east of Ronssoy, France.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT JOHN A. DOUGHERTY, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion (no serial number). S. O. 86

For gallantry and exemplary conduct as non-commissioned officer in charge of signals for 105th Infantry in action in the Dickebusch sector, Ypres salient, September 1, 1918, and subsequently when he took charge after his commanding officer was wounded, he won the strong commendation of the Regimental Commander for the excellence of the signal service rendered.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT THOMAS GALLAGHER (12018), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT THOMAS GALLAGHER (12018), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in engineering and water reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT ERNEST M. GRAU (1201480), Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 29

For gallantry after being severely wounded, in insisting that other wounded men of his command receive medical treatment before he was cared for; this near La Clytte, Belgium, July 31, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT CHARLES S. KEAN (1200823), Company B, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52

For exceptional courage under fire while in charge of two sections of cable wagons laying wire from Ronssoy to Duncan Post. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT MERRIL KNIGHT (2439558), Company C, 102d U. S. Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT WALTER LONGNECKER (1218398), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courageous and meritorious service during the battles in which the 106th Infantry participated. By his determination and disregard of danger, he set a worthy example to his comrades.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT EDWARD S. MADDEN (1201795), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT EDWARD S. MADDEN (1201793), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward on engineering and water reconnaissance to our own front line, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT STARR A. MILLER (1201086), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52

For bravery under fire October 18, 1918, on which occasion he strung a telephone line from Arbre Guernon to the advance positions under observation near Jonc de Mer Farm. Sergeant Miller by fearlessly exposing himself made possible the prompt telephone service furnished to the 106th Infantry.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT RICHARD A. MULCAHEY, Headquarters Detail, Q. M. C., 27th Division. S. O. 86

For meritorious service and devotion to duty while attached to the Division Ordnance Officer.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT HENRY A. MUND, Sanitary Detachment, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT HAROLD S. OSGOOD (1200764), Company A, 102d Field Signal Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous and meritorious service in organizing and supervising the forward radio service in the advance regimental zone under fire at Hague Farm and Mersey Cross, Belgium, as well as for devotedly serving his radio stations in battle at St. Souplet, October 17, 1918. This soldier was evacuated to hospital following this battle and died. His death forestalled his promotion to Lieutenant.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT CHARLES E. PASCO (1222664), Ambulance Company 107. S. O. 49

For efficient supervision of evacuation of wounded by ambulance from advance dressing station during battle of Le Selle River and engagements subsequent thereto, October 16-20, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT WALTER RETTKER, Headquarters Detail, Q. M. C., 27th Division. S. O. 86

For determination and courage while on duty at rail-heads in Belgium and France.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT JOSEPH M. SABATER, Headquarters, 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious services and untiring devotion to duty, coupled with efficiency, as Supply Sergeant of the 102d Sanitary Train, during the entire period of its service in the United States and in France.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT SOLOMON E. SCHIFF, Sanitary Detachment, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT BRYANT W. SEAMAN (1200923), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52

For resourcefulness and a high standard of courage exhibited during the battles and engagements of the division in Belgium and France.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT RAINER G. SEINER, Q. M. C. Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86

For efficiency and courage while on duty at forward ration dumps in Belgium and France.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT JOHN H. SHEEHAN, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. (No serial number given.) S. O. 86

For gallantry and conspicuous service as non-commissioned officer in charge of regimental signals in the Dickebusch sector, Ypres salient, with the 107th Infantry, and subsequently in battle on September 29, 1918. His action in each engagement was characterized by the highest standards of soldierly conduct.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT JOHN H. SHERMAN, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and conspicuous service as non-commissioned officer in charge of regimental signals in the Dickebusch sector, Ypres salient, with the 107th Infantry, and subsequently in battle on September 29, 1918. His action in each engagement was characterized by the highest standards of soldierly conduct.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT MAURICE SULLIVAN, Salvage Company No. 16, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service and devotion to duty as First Sergeant of this Salvage Company.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT ROLAND SUTHERLAND, Sanitary Detachment, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29 to November 11, 1918, in repeatedly and with great coolness evacuating casualties from areas almost constantly under heavy enemy shell fire.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT FRANK A. TAYLOR (1201491), Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 29
 For coolness and leadership under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT WILLIAM J. THOMPSON (1200841), Company B, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and efficient devotion to duty while restoring a damaged telephone line under heavy shell fire near Mersey Cross, Belgium, August 25, 1918. This soldier's subsequent service in battle was marked by the highest standards. He was recommended for a commission.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT TRUMAN L. WHITE (1200909), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For courage and initiative in successfully carrying forward telephone communication from St. Souplet to Arbre Guernon during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

FIRST CLASS SERGEANT FLOYD W. YOUNG (1212800), Sanitary Detail, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in voluntarily administering first aid to the wounded under shell and machine gun fire during the attack against the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918.

CHIEF MECHANIC WILLIAM A. HOFFMAN, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

SERGEANT FREDERICK A. ADLER (1209212), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For leadership, zeal and courage while acting as Platoon Sergeant in the Dickebusch Sector in Belgium, August, 1918, and during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September, 1918.

SERGEANT C. A. ADREAN (1209634), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery and fearlessness in the face of the enemy, at Dickebusch, Belgium, August, 1918. This soldier by his example and inspiring leadership maintained the morale of his platoon during their first period in the front line trenches. During this tour he refused to leave his post for rest, and continually exposed himself in the successful attempt to quiet the enemy snipers and machine gunners.

SERGEANT BERTRAM J. AGNE, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Chattancourt, France, in voluntarily carrying an important message to brigade Headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire.

SERGEANT GEORGE ALBRICH (1207559), Company F, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed while in command of a platoon of his company until killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT HARRY ALEKE (1209588), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage and determination in evacuating wounded under fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT MORTON D. ALLAN (1209213), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line while in command of a gun team. Although gassed on September 26, he remained at his gun until he collapsed on September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT EDGAR ANDERSON, Headquarters Detachment, 53d Brigade. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry under heavy enemy fire in voluntarily leaving his trench on two occasions to rescue wounded men caught in wire. This near Scherpenberg, Belgium, while temporarily attached to Company B, Royal Fusileers, 41st British Division, during the occupation of a defensive sector.

SERGEANT JOSEPH J. ANDERSON (1210531), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination during operations of Le Selle River, October 17-18, 1918. On October 17, near St. Souplet, France, while in the midst of a dense smoke screen which caused his company to be temporarily separated from the remainder of the battalion, this soldier showed remarkable coolness under fire in his efforts to keep the company together. On October 18, after his commanding officer had been killed, he showed inspiring example to his comrades by again exposing himself to intense fire in order to administer to his wounded comrades until he was himself severely wounded.

SERGEANT ALBERT F. ANSCOMBE (1221748), Company E, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and devotion to duty on October 8, 1918, during operations of his command in France. While on the Bethincourt-Forges road, a limber containing grenades having exploded and thrown a number of grenades along the road, this soldier, with the assistance of another soldier, promptly and voluntarily removed the unexploded grenades from the road, so as to enable the resumption of traffic.

SERGEANT JOHN E. ARMSTRONG (1201740), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

SERGEANT JOHN E. ARMSTRONG (1201740), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward on engineering and water reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

SERGEANT FRANK ARMSTRONG, Battery E, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 14, 1918, in repairing and maintaining telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT HOWARD AULICK (1210733), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery and marked qualities of leadership in assuming command of his company and leading it to the attack after both his company officers had been wounded, on the morning of September 29, 1918, in the vicinity of Bony, France. While leading his company Sergeant Aulick received two wounds, one of which proved fatal a few hours later.

SERGEANT THEOBALD D. AVENIUS (1203461), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary bravery in action when he took command of his company after all officers had been incapacitated and led the company successfully for the three succeeding days. This soldier's exceptional coolness under heavy fire and his devotion to duty set a fine example to the entire company. This during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, and subsequent engagements.

SERGEANT MAXIMILIAN AVERBACK, 27th Military Police Company. S. O. 86
 For skilful controlling of traffic and handling of prisoners of war under heavy enemy fire east of Ronssoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT VICTOR J. AYETTE (1214348), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For personal courage and qualities of leadership demonstrated while commanding a platoon in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918, and while acting as First Sergeant of his company, until blinded by gas near St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

SERGEANT WINIFRED BAKER (1212685), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination repeatedly demonstrated while acting as Transport Sergeant of the 2d Battalion of his regiment. This during operations in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT JOHN BALANDIS, Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great determination and courage in helping reorganize his company after all its officers had been killed or wounded and later for splendid work in attacks on machine gun posts. His coolness had a great moral effect upon the men. This near Arbre Guernon, France, October 17-21, 1918.

SERGEANT GEORGE A. BARNARD (1209856), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious conduct on patrol near Ronssoy, France, September 28, 1918. This patrol succeeded in capturing an enemy machine gun and bringing it back to the position held by their company. While in hospital from wound received in attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier voluntarily gave a pint of blood for transfusion to another wounded soldier.

SERGEANT THEODORE G. BARNES (1215656), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership while in command of a platoon of his company during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT RICHARD K. BARNEY (1215900), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 He acted as a compass guide on the 29th day of September, 1918, advancing in front of his platoon and directing its course through extremely damaging enemy fire. Though wounded he showed a splendid devotion to duty, continuing with his work until compelled to stop from exhaustion caused by wounds.

SERGEANT ROBERT BARNFATHER (1222868), Ambulance Company 107. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally efficient condition of the horse transport of his command while in his charge during active operations of the division in France.

SERGEANT WILLIAM G. BARR (1206878), Company C, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and qualities of leadership demonstrated while commanding a platoon of his company in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, in which battle he was wounded three times.

SERGEANT CARL BARTH (1208706), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and courage in carrying wounded soldiers of his platoon from an isolated post in advance of the front line under heavy fire. This east of Ronssoy, September 25, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM BARTHOLOMEW, Company B, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service. His high technical skill and untiring attention to duty were of invaluable assistance in organizing the motor battalion of this train, and, as well, in making repairs and delivering ammunition during active operations against the enemy, in the vicinity of Verdun, France (Meuse-Argonne), September 6-November 11, 1918. His courage and coolness under enemy fire were a splendid example to those serving with him.

SERGEANT FRANCIS A. BEAN (1209669), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For exceptional courage and conspicuous qualities of leadership displayed while in command of a small patrol which worked its way into Jonc de Mer Farm and after several encounters with the enemy succeeded in capturing three German officers and a detachment of enlisted men; this in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

SERGEANT JOSEPH W. BEATTY (1208491), Company K, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 44
 For gallantry and devotion to duty in leaving the rear where he was sick in quarters and joining his company in battle, being later killed by shell fire while giving first aid to another Sergeant of his company. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, September 1, 1918.

SERGEANT WILL R. BEAUMEL, Company C, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary valor, determination and qualities of leadership in commanding his platoon. Although wounded himself, together with several others of his platoon, this gallant soldier maintained excellent discipline and provided for the wounded until relieved by a commissioned officer and ordered back for medical treatment. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, July 31, 1918.

SERGEANT HERBERT W. BEAUMONT (1212536), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For exceptional zeal and devotion to duty repeatedly demonstrated during active service of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT ALBERT BEHRENDT (1209643), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and inspiring leadership. During an enemy attack on the front line trenches in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, this soldier by coolness and fortitude greatly strengthened the morale of his organization. He was killed during this action.

SERGEANT LOUIS J. BELL, Medical Detachment, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty near Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 28, 1918, in extinguishing a fire in a sectional ammunition dump caused by an exploding shell.

SERGEANT ALCIDE BERNADIN (1203469), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and zeal frequently demonstrated while in command of patrols. On one occasion, although wounded, he performed his mission before returning to his company. This during the battles and engagements of his company.

SERGEANT ARTHUR R. BEYER (1212537), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 42
For exceptional zeal and devotion to duty repeatedly demonstrated during active service of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT RANDOLPH M. BIGELOW (1206105), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

SERGEANT CLIFTON H. BISHOP (1204743), Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in gallantly leading his company in action after all the officers had become casualties. This in the attack on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

SERGEANT CLARENCE E. BLAKELOBB (1207556), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For exceptional courage, determination and qualities of leadership displayed both in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, and in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, continuing in the latter engagement after being gassed.

SERGEANT GEORGE F. BLEWETT (1222872), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
For courage and determination while in charge of his squad engaged in evacuating wounded under heavy fire. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918.

SERGEANT THOMAS J. BOARDMAN, Battery A, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, in making reconnaissances and maintaining communication with the elements of the battery under heavy shell fire.

SERGEANT NATHAN W. BOLLES (1203263), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and resourcefulness in crawling into no man's land under machine gun fire and by rifle action silencing an enemy sniper. This before Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, July 27, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANK H. BOLZNER, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de Lemont, France, in carrying important messages back and forth to forward battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire and at great personal risk, requiring thirty-six hours of uninterrupted effort. This on October 3, 1918.

SERGEANT THOMAS A. BONNER, Company F, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious services during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, and distributing ammunition with unusual intelligence and ability, part of the time under direct enemy observation and shell fire.

SERGEANT ELMER BRAKE (1211625), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For courage and skill displayed while on daylight patrol before Guillemont Farm, France, September 28, 1918. Caught by enemy fire this soldier salvaged and repaired a broken Lewis Gun and used it effectively to cover return of his comrades.

SERGEANT CONRAD O. BREIBY (1200921), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, determination and qualities of leadership in leading a detachment of infantry as well as his own signalers into effective action against the enemy during the battle of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, France, October 18, 1918.

SERGEANT STANLEY BRINKERHOFF (1211423), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For extraordinary gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed when leading the forward elements of his platoon against an enemy position near Guillemont Farm and for exceptional marksmanship, courage and determination in stopping an enemy local counter-attack by the accurate fire of his rifle, when many of those about him had been killed or wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT STANLEY BRINKERHOFF (1211423), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage, determination and great skill in successfully making a reconnaissance at night in order to establish communication with troops on the left of his company, upon the completion of which he was badly wounded by enemy trench mortar bomb. This near Vaux Andigny, France, on or about October 15, 1918.

SERGEANT STANLEY BRINKERHOFF (1211423), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty in refusing to leave his company when it was in the line and much depleted, in order to accept a detail to attend an Officers' Training School to qualify for a commission. This near Vaux Andigny, France, on or about October 15, 1918.

SERGEANT VICTOR BRINKMAN (1200132), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty on night of October 16, 1918, in locating under heavy shell fire and gas concentration the units of his battalion for the purpose of delivering important message in connection with the attack for the following morning.

SERGEANT VICTOR BRINKMAN (1200132), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
For courageous example to his men in maintaining the position of machine guns under heavy enemy gun fire. This on October 17, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, France.

SERGEANT WILLIAM H. BRODERICK, JR. (1209888), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 35
For courage and determination in removing wounded to the rear across areas swept by shell and machine gun fire, after fighting all day with his company. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES A. BROWN (1209733), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and exceptional fearlessness in volunteering and crossing an open field through enemy fire in daylight, during which he was severely wounded and forced to crawl in order to direct the advance of a platoon from the support to the front line over open country. This in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 4, 1918.

SERGEANT RALPH BROWN (1209132), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For extraordinary heroism in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918. This soldier accompanied his battalion to action and efficiently and courageously rendered first aid to the wounded until severely wounded and ordered to the rear.

SERGEANT TRACEY BROWN (1205440), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in aiding in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 20, 1918.

SERGEANT WARD O. BROWN, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in voluntarily repairing broken telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT PAUL M. BRUNIG (1209836), Company B, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty in attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. Upon receipt of orders to attend the Officers' Training Camp, this soldier requested permission to remain with his company until after the attack, in which action he was seen advancing alone against an enemy machine gun nest firing his pistol. He was later found dead on the field.

SERGEANT GEORGE R. BRYAN (1200181), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For carrying an important message under heavy fire. This on October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, France.

SERGEANT WILLIAM H. BURKE (1215872), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination. Having received four shrapnel wounds this soldier insisted on returning to his company and took part with great gallantry in the assault on the Hindenburg Line, receiving a fifth wound, which incapacitated him. This on September 29, 1918, near Bony, France.

SERGEANT EUGENE J. BURNER (1212274), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in advancing with three Australians and attacking and putting out of action an enemy machine gun nest with its crew, which was holding up the advance of our line, and for bringing up rations under very heavy machine gun and shell fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN ELMER BURNS (1212276), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional leadership and conduct under fire while commanding a specially organized mopping up platoon, to mop up the enemy trenches directly in our front at the start of the battle of the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES E. BURTON (1209666), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier while in command of a half company on the extreme left flank of the advance was struck by an explosive bullet. In spite of this he advanced though faint from the loss of blood, gathered together men who had become detached from other companies, took possession of a trench which had been deserted by the enemy and personally led a party of four to the left until they had encountered the enemy and forced them to retire.

SERGEANT CHARLES E. BURTON (1209666), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For disregard of danger in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight, and the men covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

SERGEANT GEORGE E. BUSCHMAN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de Lemont, France, in carrying important messages back and forth to forward battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire and at great personal risk, requiring thirty-six hours of uninterrupted effort. This on October 3, 1918.

SERGEANT CLAUDIUS D. BUSH, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in the sector northeast of Brabant, France, October 30 to November 6, 1918, in constantly maintaining the regiment's liaison line under heavy fire and direct observation by the enemy.

SERGEANT HARRY BUTT (1207754), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in continuing in the attack of his company after being gassed. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN F. BYRNES, Supply Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, when, although wounded himself, he refused medical attention and conducted a detachment from the Bois de Forges to Cumieres, secured rations and forage and returned under heavy enemy shell fire to the gun positions near Chattancourt. This on October 12, 1918.

SERGEANT GEORGE CAMPBELL (1212520), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For untiring zeal and devotion to duty as an instructor and a platoon commander during the period of training and throughout the active service of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT JOSEPH P. CANTWELL (1212766), Supply Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and fearlessness in leading a ration party into the front line trenches under heavy machine gun and shell fire on the night of September 28 and 29, 1918, and distributing rations in preparation for the attack on the enemy positions in the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France.

SERGEANT EDWARD C. CARRIGAN (1211623), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier displayed unusual leadership and courage in the face of severe enemy machine gun fire and was killed going forward.

SERGEANT RICHARD M. CARVER (1209387), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in conducting ration limbers to advance positions during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 24 to 29, 1918, and during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT MATTHEW F. CASEY (1209460), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For gallantry on September 27, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line. This Sergeant, although wounded and suffering from shell shock, successfully led a Corporal, who had been blinded by shell fire, over ground swept by shell and machine gun fire to a place of safety.

SERGEANT HAROLD H. CASSIDY (1210084), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership, courage and devotion to duty during the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918, in leading a patrol 500 yards in advance of his company on a midnight attack for the purpose of reaching the final objective. On the morning of the same day this Sergeant displayed excellent judgment in effecting the reorganization of his platoon when its advance was held up by hostile machine gun fire. On August 21, 1918, in the Dickebusch sector, he erected a camouflage screen under shell and machine gun fire to cut off visibility of a path which his comrades were frequently forced to use.

SERGEANT JOSEPH A. CASSIDY, Supply Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For zeal and devotion to duty during the active service of the regiment in France and Belgium and for the exhibition of high courage under heavy shell fire when accompanying the transport close to the front line on the night of September 28-29, 1918, just before the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France.

SERGEANT WALTER B. CATLIN, Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and determination in locating enemy machine gun positions and listening posts under heavy fire near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 26 to 28, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM CAVANAUGH, Company G, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination while commanding a Lewis gun post in successfully driving off a strong enemy raiding party which had entered his trench from his left. This on the night of August 8-9, 1918, during the occupation of a British defensive sector in the Ypres salient, Belgium.

SERGEANT LYMAN CEELY (1208685), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
After all officers of his company had become casualties, this non-commissioned officer reorganized the company and effectively shattered an enemy counter-attack. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT WALTER CHADWICK, Battery F, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in November, 1918, on the Samogneux Road, between Samogneux and Cote des Roches, particularly on November 4, when, with other men, he repaired the line of communication between the battery and battalion, which had been cut off twice by a heavy enemy shell fire during a heavy enemy bombardment.

SERGEANT THOMAS F. CHAMBERS (1211218), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 28, 1918, this soldier with the utmost bravery and coolness continued to skillfully direct his automatic rifle section in its work against enemy machine gun positions until he was killed. His splendid example of courage and gallantry proved an inspiration to his comrades.

SERGEANT SAMUEL E. CHASIN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in voluntarily carrying important messages from the advanced infantry positions to battalion headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire. This on November 3, 1918.

SERGEANT FREDERICK CHERRY (1210989), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery and exceptional qualities of leadership in assuming command of his platoon after the platoon commander had been severely wounded and continuing on in the attack until he himself was severely wounded, which resulted in the loss of his arm. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT DECATUR W. CHILSON (1215703), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT FLETCHER CLARK (1212943), Headquarters Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For courage and determination in remaining on duty in the maintenance of wire communication after being wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT W. IRVING CLAYTON (1211425), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and qualities of leadership displayed in battle while commanding a platoon of his company, being severely wounded while leading an assault against an enemy machine gun position. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN M. CLEARY (1212529), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 42
For exceptional zeal and devotion to duty repeatedly demonstrated during active service of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT T. J. CLEMENT, Company A, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and determination in assisting in the construction of a foot bridge across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918, in the face of heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire from the opposite bank, which inflicted numerous casualties on his detachment.

SERGEANT THOMAS CLIBBORN (1222881), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

SERGEANT JAMES J. COLLINS, JR., Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on October 17, 1918, in serving the guns of his battery during heavy enemy shelling and gas concentrations and carrying ammunition under fire without regard to personal risk.

208 SERGEANT JOHN J. COLLINS (1206528), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage, determination and devotion to duty in pressing the attack of his platoon in spite of heavy enemy fire until on the morning of September 29 he collapsed from exhaustion.

SERGEANT RAYMOND N. COLLINS (1212140), Company M, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in assaulting and capturing an enemy machine gun post. This near Guillemont Farm, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT THOMAS J. COMISKY, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in effectively commanding a platoon under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANK A. CONATY (1216502), Company C, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 29
For coolness and inspiring example in looking after wounded under heavy enemy fire. This near Bethune Farm in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, on July 31, 1918.

SERGEANT HAROLD E. CONNERS, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous courage, coolness and determination in commanding and leading his platoon under heavy shell and machine gun fire in operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT JOSEPH A. COOK (1207561), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For exceptional courage and qualities of leadership displayed in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918. On two occasions when his company was stopped by hostile machine gun fire he went forward and bombed the enemy machine gun nests, enabling his company to resume its advance.

SERGEANT DUDLEY D. CONROY (1207551), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For great gallantry and skilled leadership during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918. His company having been stopped by machine gun fire in their immediate front, this Sergeant crawled forward and, reaching the flank of the machine gun nest, attacked and killed the two enemy soldiers who were operating the machine gun, making it possible for his company to again advance.

SERGEANT CHARLES A. COX (1209334), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage and determination in successfully conducting an ammunition carrying party for a distance of more than a mile over ground swept by heavy fire to furnish ammunition to machine guns located at Doleful Post, during the attack on the outer defenses of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN A. COYLE (1201727), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

SERGEANT WALTER H. CRAGER (1207776), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and initiative in successfully leading a combat patrol in the destruction of an enemy machine gun nest. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT HENRY B. CRAWFORD (1216683), Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 26
 For accompanying the 132d Infantry on the occasion of the assault against Forges Wood, France, September 26, 1918, and establishing wire communication with his regiment. This under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

SERGEANT MATTHEW J. CRAWLEY (1200024), Division Headquarters Detachment. S. O. 86
 For meritorious services and devotion to duty while serving in the Division Surgeon's Office during the entire service of the division in Belgium and France, during the summer and fall of 1918.

SERGEANT NICHOLAS F. CREAN (1204967), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination. On August 23, 1918, in the vicinity of Scottish Woods, near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, although slightly wounded himself, this soldier helped to remove several severely wounded men to places of shelter. Again on October 18, 1918, in the vicinity of Jonc de Mer Ridge, east of St. Souplet, France, while acting Supply Sergeant, he successfully brought up cooked rations for his company in the face of enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT SAMUEL F. CROSBIE (1210091), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For leadership, courage and determination in reorganizing the left flank of his company under heavy shell fire. As this Sergeant was about to lead the line forward he was killed.

SERGEANT JOSEPH F. CROWLEY (1209893), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious conduct in leading a patrol in reconnaissance of an occupied enemy trench near Vaux-Andigny, France, October 14, 1918. This trench was situated in a difficult and dangerous part of the terrain and the information required was obtained and reported promptly.

SERGEANT WILLIAM G. CRUMMEY (1200341), Headquarters, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service, zeal and untiring devotion to duty while a non-commissioned officer in the Division Adjutant's Section during the entire operations of the division in Belgium and France.

SERGEANT THOMAS CURRY, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For skilled leadership in battle. On October 17, 1918, this soldier, after being wounded, led his platoon against a strong position on Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, taking the position. He remained in command until relieved by supporting troops.

SERGEANT ARTHUR R. CUTTINGS (1214995), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For coolness and qualities of leadership under fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM A. DAHL, Company C, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in aiding the wounded although wounded himself and in refusing treatment until others more seriously wounded had been cared for. This near Germonville, France, October 8, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN W. DALY, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, on October 16, 1918, in accompanying an officer's reconnaissance of artillery positions under enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT E. P. DAMES (1224720), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in organizing detachments consolidating his company position and capturing a number of prisoners.

SERGEANT JOSEPH W. DAVIS (1200186), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying important messages under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 30, 1918.

SERGEANT ROBERT B. DAY (1200959), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For initiative and courage under fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT EDWARD DE GORTER (1208696), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For carrying an important message under enemy observation and fire, although badly burned at the time by mustard gas. This in the Dickebusch-Mt. Kemmel sector, Belgium, August 28, 1918.

SERGEANT ALLEN DE NIKE, Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and marked qualities of leadership in leading his platoon along the road to the attack line, placing his men in position for the attack and leading and encouraging them during the assault until wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT EDWARD T. DONAHUE (1209638), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional tenacity and fearlessness. This soldier made the greatest advance on the left of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918, and remained at this post for two days until relieved by Australian troops.

SERGEANT JOHN J. DONAHUE (1207582), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and devotion to duty in continuing in the attack of his company after being gassed. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918.

SERGEANT JOSEPH R. DOUGLAS (1203698), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and leadership during the battle of Le Selle River on October 17, 1918. This soldier with the aid of another man of the same company took command of their company after all officers had been made casualties, organized their line and continued to advance against strong enemy resistance until the objective was reached.

SERGEANT ELMER DRAKE (1211625), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and skill displayed while on daylight patrol before Guillemont Farm, France, September 29, 1918. Caught by enemy fire, this soldier salvaged and repaired a broken Lewis gun and used it effectively to cover return of his comrades.

SERGEANT PAUL S. DREUX, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on October 17, 1918, in serving the guns of his battery during heavy enemy shelling and gas concentrations and carrying ammunition under fire without regard to personal risk.

SERGEANT EDSSELLE M. DRURY (1212808), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallant and courageous service in connection with evacuation of wounded during the battle of Le Selle River.

SERGEANT FRANCIS H. DUANE, JR. (1210124), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. After his Platoon Sergeant had been wounded this Sergeant reorganized the platoon during a dense smoke barrage and led it into effective combat against the enemy.

SERGEANT GEORGE M. DUNN (1210968), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery and exceptional qualities of leadership in commanding his platoon in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918, and assisting in capturing Guillemont Farm, at which place he was severely wounded by enemy machine gun fire.

SERGEANT JOHN T. DURKIN, Company F, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, in handling and distributing ammunition with unusual intelligence and ability, part of the time under direct enemy observation and shell fire.

SERGEANT EDWARD M. EDGETT, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery.
 For exceptional courage and determination in reconnoitering an entire day for an advanced observation station, under constant enemy fire. This during the operations of his regiment near Brabant, France, October 30, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANK M. EELLS (1210729), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery in leading his platoon on through a smoke screen on the morning of September 29, 1918, in the vicinity of Bony, France, while under terrific machine gun fire. Sergeant Eells was killed before reaching his objective.

SERGEANT HARRY P. EGELING (1215926), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in handling Lewis gun in actions in which his company participated in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT HARRY EHRENBERG (1207086), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Scherpenberg, Belgium, July 17, 1918, in aiding in the evacuation of wounded comrades of his detachment although himself wounded.

SERGEANT GEORGE W. ELY, 2D (1211642), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 On September 28, 1918, prior to the attack upon the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, a patrol from Company K, sent out to develop the strength of enemy machine guns, suffered considerable casualties. Sergeant Ely, with a detachment under heavy enemy machine gun fire, directed and assisted in the removal of the wounded.

SERGEANT HAROLD EVANS (1201730), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

SERGEANT JAMES H. EVANS (1208265), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty in continuing in action after having been seriously wounded in the right shoulder and maintaining the fire of his rifle with his left hand until overcome and captured by the enemy. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANK D. FALKNER (1210127), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in commanding a volunteer party which successfully bombed out a trench of hostile grenadiers.

SERGEANT ERNEST FANCHER (1212611), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For exceptional qualities of leadership, courage and determination in promptly reorganizing his platoon after it had sustained heavy casualties and continuing the effective advance against the enemy, during which time he was badly gassed. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT ERNEST FANCHER (1212611), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For coolness, courage and resourcefulness in effectively directing the fire of his machine gun against a low flying enemy plane, which immediately thereafter crashed to the ground. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT ANTHONY P. FARINA, Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry in action near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 16, 1918, in successfully placing a listening post in no man's land under heavy fire, although severely wounded in the attempt.

SERGEANT FRANCIS J. FARRELLY, Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great gallantry and determination in advancing under heavy fire to secure a Lewis gun and continuing to advance with it against an enemy trench, which he took and held. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES FELDMAN (1201774), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

SERGEANT JAMES J. FINN (1208015), Company H, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and determination in leading his platoon in the attack, finally gaining and holding with nine men an advanced position and, after five of these men had been killed or wounded, continued to hold such position under heavy fire until he himself was wounded a second time.

SERGEANT HERBERT W. FISCHER, Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry and determination in maintaining the machine gun fire of his platoon in the face of heavy artillery fire which inflicted several casualties among his men. This during the preliminary attack against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT GLENN W. FISHBAUGH, Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in effectively commanding a platoon under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT ALLEN D. FITZGERALD, Company A, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in assisting in the construction of a foot bridge across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918, in the face of heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire from the opposite bank, which inflicted numerous casualties on his detachment.

SERGEANT JOSEPH L. FITZGERALD (1203942), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed near Ridgewood in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, in August, 1918, in rallying a detachment of men temporarily disorganized by enemy fire and returning them to their position in the line. Again on September 1 this soldier, during the engagement at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, carried important messages to his Battalion Headquarters under heavy fire.

SERGEANT JAMES F. FITZPATRICK (1204119), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT ASHLEY FLYNNE, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For marked courage in rescuing a wounded comrade under heavy shell fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT PERCY FLYNNE, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in leading a patrol on September 1, 1918, near Vierstraat Ridge, to search for the body of a member of his company who was killed during the advance.

SERGEANT THOMAS B. FOWLER (1200880), Company B, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in maintaining wire communication under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT JACOB J. FOWLEY (1212615), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For exceptional zeal and devotion to duty repeatedly demonstrated during active service of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT HAROLD V. FREDRICKSON (1224738), Company M, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918, in obtaining valuable information under heavy shell fire by advancing into enemy territory.

SERGEANT HARRY E. FRESHLER (1208067), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN J. GALLAGHER (1215929), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 While a Corporal in charge of a squad of men on September 29, 1918, at the Hindenburg Line, he had the extremely dangerous task of commanding an advance combat patrol which destroyed an enemy machine gun nest of four guns and operators. Corporal Gallagher was the first man of his party to jump into this enemy nest, thereby setting a splendid example to his men.

SERGEANT FREDERICK L. GEORGENS, JR., Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty while acting as orderly to his Regimental Commander during operations in Belgium on August 30, 1918, in leaving his bomb-proof dugout and exposing himself to heavy bombing to assure himself of the safety of his commanding officer and to report for any duty which might be assigned to him.

SERGEANT JOHN A. GEHWEILER (1207328), Company E, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery and leadership exhibited while in charge of a platoon of his company at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 28 and 29, 1918. Upon the withdrawal of his detachment from its position this soldier went forward alone to bring in some fallen comrades and returned with a fellow Sergeant who was dying.

SERGEANT WILLIAM O. GERDES (1203462), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For leading patrols continuously and rendering exceptionally meritorious services under severe fire at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 26, 1918.

SERGEANT GEORGE J. GINGERICH, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in Verdun sector, France, from September 26 to November 11, 1918, in conducting accurate fire of his piece under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT HENRY W. GINITHEN, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in Verdun sector, France, from September 26 to November 11, 1918, in conducting accurate fire of his piece under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT WALDO E. GOODRICH (1203275), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional performance of duty as Regimental Gas Non-Commissioned Officer during the battles and engagements in which his regiment took part in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT MINTHORNE T. GORDON (1209477), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 While a Corporal, for gallantry in driving a limber under heavy fire to a place where several of his comrades had been wounded and successfully feeding them.

SERGEANT BERNARD C. GOULD (1213618), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For determined leadership while commanding a platoon of his company in the front line. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

SERGEANT WALTER GRAHAM (1206476), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in evacuation of a wounded officer during the battle of St. Maurice River, October 19, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANK GRANT (1203499), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and progressiveness when (as a Corporal) in command of a squad in an advanced position he successfully repulsed an attack by a superior force of the enemy, taking many prisoners. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT HENRY W. GREEN (1210066), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, in advancing under heavy fire to carry back a wounded soldier to a place of safety.

SERGEANT GEORGE S. GREENLEAF (1215658), Headquarters Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership in assuming command of his company and continuing in the attack after the officers had been killed or wounded. This in the battle of Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT JEAN A. GRIFFITHS (1208244), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination in rendering first aid to wounded under heavy enemy shell fire. This in the East Poperinghe Line, near Renninghelst, Belgium, July 31, 1918.

SERGEANT FREDERICK C. GUDEBROD (1210966), Company G, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery and exceptional qualities of leadership in commanding his platoon in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, and assisting in capturing Guillemont Farm, at which place he was killed by enemy machine gun fire.

SERGEANT EDWARD C. HACKETT (1221394), Motor Transport Corps, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious services as Sergeant in charge of Motor Transport of the division and for conspicuous bravery under fire during the entire service of the division in Belgium and France.

SERGEANT RICHARD G. HALL (1209659), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and fearlessness. This soldier, while far in advance of his organization during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, successfully led a number of his comrades to safety and to a position which they succeeded in holding until consolidated with their command.

SERGEANT JOHN H. HALPIN (1209184), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For leadership, zeal and courage while acting as Platoon Sergeant in the Dickebusch Sector in Belgium, August, 1918, and during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September, 1918. In the latter operation when wounded he refused to be evacuated till wounded the second time.

SERGEANT STEPHEN W. HALTON, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous service in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, September 29 and October 3, 1918, as a member of a gun crew in repairing and operating against the enemy a group of captured enemy 77 m.m. field guns.

SERGEANT JOHN C. HAMPTON (1212563), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and devotion to duty while Range Finder Sergeant during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918, and as Liaison Agent of his company in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918. In recognition of his conduct on these occasions he was sent to the last Officers' Training Camp, from which he graduated.

SERGEANT DENNIS J. HANLON (1203202), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in leading his section and in organizing and leading forward infantry without leaders. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT PERCY S. HANSEN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing an advance telephone central at Mollville Farm in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, November 6, 1918.

SERGEANT LLOYD W. HARRIS, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in securing firing data for his battery under heavy enemy shell fire without regard to personal risk. This on October 29, 1918.

SERGEANT EDWARD J. HASS (1200572), Company B, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership and courage while commanding a platoon of his company in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANK HASSELBERGER (1212278), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional leadership and conduct under fire, while commanding a platoon of D Company in the front line at Dickebusch, Belgium, August, 1918.

SERGEANT WARREN T. HATTER (1209125), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in the evacuation of wounded under enemy fire and gas concentration; this in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT PAUL H. HAWKINS (1213630), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage and determination in leading a patrol effectively against an enemy detachment near St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

SERGEANT THOMAS A. HEGARTY, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious services as Signal Sergeant in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 31, 1918, and devotion to duty in battle, October 17, 1918, at which time he was gassed, resulting in his death a few days later. This soldier's entire service was an inspiration at all times to his associates.

SERGEANT FRED E. HEGEMAN, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in directing the carrying of ammunition by hand a distance of 1000 metres from a French dugout to a truck and thence proceeding to the battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire, in which fire casualties resulted in another train engaged in similar work, in order to enable the 2d Battalion of 105th Field Artillery to fire an effective barrage in support of an infantry advance.

SERGEANT CARL HENDERSHOT, 27th Military Police Company. S. O. 86
 For skillful controlling of traffic and handling of prisoners of war under heavy enemy fire east of Ronssoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT ANDREW HENRIKSEN (1200197), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courageous action in clearing road of dead and wounded so that his company might continue its advance, this under heavy enemy shell fire on the night of October 16-17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, France.

SERGEANT EDWARD K. HILL (1209444), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For leaving the trench of his company and placing aiming posts for the firing of the machine gun barrage, this under heavy enemy fire on September 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

SERGEANT WILLIAM HOGATH (1207569), Company F, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed while in command of a platoon of his company until killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT HAROLD B. HOLT (1211633), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. On the morning of September 29, 1918, while forming on the line before zero hour, this soldier reorganized his platoon when it was thrown into confusion due to casualties suddenly inflicted by heavy enemy machine gun and artillery fire.

SERGEANT GRANVILLE L. HOWE (2485126), Photo. Detachment, 27th Division. S. O. 52
 For bravery under fire at Walker Farm, Belgium, August 31, 1918, taking moving pictures of shells bursting within 200 yards of his position. On October 17, 1918, Sergeant Howe was severely wounded while taking photographs of the action in which this division crossed Le Selle River, France.

SERGEANT MECHANIC LOUIS D. HOWE, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service. His high technical skill and untiring attention to duty was of invaluable assistance in organizing the Motor Battalion of this train, and, as well, in making repairs during active operation in the vicinity of Verdun, France (Meuse-Argonne), September 6 to November 11, 1918. His courage and coolness under enemy fire were a splendid example to those serving with him.

SERGEANT GEORGE A. HUDSON, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 2, 1918, in displaying exceptional devotion to duty, and by his soldierly example inspiring the members of his battery under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration.

SERGEANT CHARLES HULL, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in voluntarily repairing broken telephone wires under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT DONALD PHILLIPS HUNNEWELL (1211860), Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This sergeant assisted in forming his company for the assault under heavy enemy fire, coolly aided the wounded and led in the assault until wounded, when he sat up and urged his men on. He was later killed by shell fire.

SERGEANT LE ROY HUNT (1209484), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For skilled leadership, determination and courage exhibited on September 27, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in maintaining the barrage fire of his gun, although his own gun emplacement was caved in by hostile shell fire and later in the same battle successfully shattering by the effectiveness of his fire a local enemy counter attack.

SERGEANT LAWRENCE M. HUNTER (1209190), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination while acting as company range finder during operations in Belgium and France, and in evacuating the wounded under heavy fire, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line.

SERGEANT KING T. HUTCHINSON (1207782), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and qualities of leadership displayed under heavy fire even after he himself was wounded. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN JACKSON, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

SERGEANT MILNER JARVIS (1208473), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination in making a personal reconnaissance and securing important information, under heavy machine gun fire; this near Arbre Guernon, France, October 19, 1918.

SERGEANT JAMES F. JOHNSON (1203693), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and leadership in action near Bony, France, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918. This soldier took command of a composite company, organized a line and resisted the attack of the enemy on his position and held the position against all attacks.

SERGEANT EDMUND C. HUDSON (1215873), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courageous leadership involving the capture of a number of prisoners in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT PARK B. JOHNS, Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For continued examples of coolness and courage under heavy fire during the operations of his regiment against the main defenses of the Hindenburg Line, in the vicinity of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES L. JOHNSTON, Headquarters Horse Battalion, 102d Ammunition Train, S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918. By his untiring attention to duty, courage and coolness, he set a splendid example to the men of his command.

SERGEANT GEORGE F. JOHNSTON (1210272), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional leadership and conduct under fire, while commanding a platoon of D Company in the front line at Dickebusch, Belgium, August, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN JOHNSTON (1203477), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage in action in commanding a Lewis gun squad in advance of the front line. During a counter-attack he successfully repulsed the enemy and safely conducted his men to their lines under heavy enemy fire. This soldier was Corporal at the time. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT THOMAS S. JOHNSTON (1231738), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 44
 For devotion to duty and courage under shell fire frequently demonstrated while driving the Division Commander's car during the battles and engagements of this division in Belgium and in France.

SERGEANT GEORGE JONES (1204325), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership demonstrated in the battle of Le Selle River and engagements subsequent thereto, October 16-20, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN T. JONES, Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in continuing in command of his platoon after being wounded and furnishing inspiring example to those about him, until he had to be evacuated. This in the battle of Le Selle River east of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT ROGER JONES, Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty when under heavy shell and machine gun fire. He made, on the morning of September 27, 1918, at the Hindenburg Line, personal reconnaissance to select machine gun positions.

SERGEANT CARL J. JUCHATZ (1206964), Company C, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership displayed while commanding a platoon in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918, in which battle he was wounded.

SERGEANT FRANCIS M. JUSTIS, Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, zeal and devotion to duty in aiding in the evacuation of the wounded during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT BERNARD J. KELLEY (1201730), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in Engineering and Water Reconnaissance to our own front lines, being within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

SERGEANT BERNARD J. KELLEY (1201730), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

SERGEANT FRANK E. KELLY (1209232), Headquarters 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service, zeal and untiring devotion to duty while a non-commissioned officer in the Division Adjutant's Section during the entire operations of the division in Belgium and France.

X SERGEANT HARRY C. KELLY (1201631), Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 29
 For courage and qualities of leadership under heavy enemy shell fire, near East Poperinghe Line, Belgium, August, 1918.

SERGEANT PETER F. KELLY, Battery E, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery in action during operations in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, September 29, 1918, in voluntarily cleaning out a recently evacuated mined dugout during the performance of which duty he was seriously wounded by an explosion and later died.

SERGEANT LAWRENCE J. KITCHING (1209324), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For quality of leadership and courage in leading a machine gun squad to a position in front of the infantry line under shell fire and in making personal reconnaissance for gun position during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

SERGEANT EARLE B. KITTS (1210130), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in bombing the enemy out of a sunken road and evacuating wounded under fire.

SERGEANT JESSE G. KNIPSHILD (1211447), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed while successfully commanding the advanced elements of his platoon in attack against enemy machine gun positions near Guillemont Farm, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier was severely wounded the same day.

SERGEANT CORNELIUS C. KOERT (1203139), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery and resourcefulness in taking his platoon through heavy shell fire at which time he was gassed and knocked down by a shell fragment. This at battle of Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT LOUIS KUNTZ, Headquarters Detachment, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For untiring zeal and efficiency in the performance of his duties as a staff motor car driver during all operations in which the division was engaged in Belgium and France. This soldier displayed great courage in the performance of missions which repeatedly exposed him to enemy fire.

SERGEANT WILLIAM I. LANDER (1210324), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional leadership in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 15, 16 and 17, 1918, conducting many ration and working parties to and from the front lines in a most courageous and fearless manner.

SERGEANT JAMES E. LANE (1211650), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. On September 28, 1918, this soldier commanded and led a patrol of twenty-one men in daylight to ascertain the strength of enemy machine guns. This patrol suffered severe casualties but the work under his leadership proved of great value. He was subsequently wounded in the attack the following day.

SERGEANT PAUL A. LANE (1215940), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For determined leadership and courage under fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 30, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANCIS L. LARKIN (1208256), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For great gallantry and qualities of leadership in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918, particularly in going forward alone with a Lewis gun and silencing an enemy machine gun nest which had stopped the advance of his company.

SERGEANT THOMAS K. LARKIN, 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Cumieres Hill, France, September 24 and 25, 1918, in hauling guns into firing positions with motor trucks and supplying ammunition to battery positions under hazardous conditions.

SERGEANT HAROLD M. LATHROP, Company K, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, in saving the life of a wounded comrade under heavy shell fire.

SERGEANT WILLIAM H. LATTIMER (1215895), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 He was an inspiration to the men in the platoon which he commanded at the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. In the face of heavy enemy fire he made two personal reconnaissances before advancing with his platoon, reducing the casualties which would otherwise have resulted from the advance.

SERGEANT ARTHUR E. LAWSON (1210096), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership and courage during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when he led his platoon to the attack in the face of heavy fire until killed.

SERGEANT HERMAN J. LAWSON (1211194), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier led his platoon against enemy machine gun positions with conspicuous gallantry and coolness. After all four of his sections were wiped out and he was left alone with his platoon runner he persisted in pushing on until killed by a burst of machine gun fire.

SERGEANT JOHN LEACH, Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and exceptional courage. During an enemy raid on the front line trenches in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, this soldier by his example, indefatigable endeavor and utter disregard for safety, did much to inspire the men of his section and to strengthen their morale.

SERGEANT EVERETT D. LEE (1205388), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in assisting in the evacuation of wounded under heavy shell fire. This in the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT ROBERT S. LEE (1200983), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For exceptional bravery while accompanying a party of signallers over the top with the 108th Infantry to form the advance regimental signal party in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. Of this party, the officer in charge and three privates were wounded, two sergeants, two corporals and two runners were killed. Sergeant Lee fearlessly continued forward and completed his mission. His conduct was an inspiration to those serving with him and to the following relief.

SERGEANT ROBERT S. LEE (1200983), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, while a member of the advance signal party which went over the top with the third wave, in establishing and maintaining telephone lines under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

SERGEANT CHAUNCEY D. LEFLOUR (1210090), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, in voluntarily taking rations forward to the 105th Infantry under fire.

SERGEANT JAMES M. LEONARD (1200206), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courageously aiding in the clearing of the road of dead and wounded during the advance of his company under heavy shell fire, this on October 17, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, France.

SERGEANT CHARLES LEVY, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 14, 1918, in laying a telephone cable across the Meuse River under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT HARRY LIDDELL (1205908), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in handling his 37 m.m. gun while in action at Duncan Post, east of Ronssoy, France. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT JAMES R. LIGHTHALL (1203141), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For determination and gallantry in battle while leading his men and in rescuing the wounded until he was wounded himself. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, and on Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT GEORGE B. LILLY (1210085), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918, in voluntarily leaving shelter and bringing a wounded comrade to a place of safety under heavy fire.

SERGEANT WILLIAM LOGAN (1222870), 107th Ambulance Company. S. O. 33
 For zealous attention to duty and courage under fire while driving an ambulance in forward areas during the battle of Le Selle River, France, and the engagements subsequent thereto, October 15-20, 1918.

SERGEANT CLARENCE E. LUCKEY, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918. This soldier, although wounded early in the advance, continued in the action until the regiment was relieved, exhibiting an inspiring disregard for his own safety in standing off counter attacks upon Willow Trench and in aiding the wounded.

SERGEANT HARRY E. LYNK, Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage, determination and qualities of leadership in continuing to command his platoon after he had been wounded and until wounded a second time, thereby furnishing inspiring example to those about him. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, Guillemont Farm, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN D. McCANN (1200948), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For bravery in voluntarily patrolling telephone lines between St. Souplet and Arbres Guernon in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, under heavy shell fire. The success of the communication was due in no small measure to his courage in leading his detachment through gas and the shelled area.

SERGEANT JERROLD D. McCARTHY, Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in aiding in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT JAMES J. McCONVILLE (1212276), Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, energy and devotion to duty while supervising the distribution of rations in the front line on the nights of September 29 and 30, in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France.

SERGEANT WILLIAM M. McCREIDIE (1200275), Company D, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 29
 For courage and qualities of leadership exhibited when shell fire inflicted casualties in his platoon at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT EDMOND McDONNELL, Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great determination and courage in helping reorganize his company after all the officers had been killed or wounded and later for splendid work in attacks on machine gun posts. His coolness had a great moral effect upon the men. This near Arbres Guernon, France, October 17-21, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM F. McDONOUGH (1200272), Company D, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 42
 For initiative and courage in commanding a detached machine gun section of his company during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT HENRY McFADDEN, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

SERGEANT JOSEPH J. MCGROUTY (1224787), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and skilled leadership frequently demonstrated during battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France, but more particularly during the battle of Junc Der Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918, while leading a reconnaissance patrol to the enemy lines and successfully returning with the information desired.

SERGEANT WILLIAM J. MCKENNA (1206711), Company B, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and qualities of leadership throughout the battle of his regiment in Belgium and in France until killed in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT LESTER K. MACDONALD, Company A, 102d Field Signal Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious services with a radio section in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 31, 1918, and for gallantry in action at St. Souplet, October 17, 1917, while serving with the signal detachment, 107th Infantry, on which date he received wounds resulting in his death.

SERGEANT JOHN L. MACDONNELL (1212145), Company M, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary valor and skilled leadership during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 28, 1918. This Sergeant, while commanding a platoon of his company, successfully assaulted and captured an enemy machine gun nest, thereby relieving his company from further casualties from its fire.

SERGEANT LYNNE F. MACNEILL, Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward, under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

SERGEANT LEFFERTS L. MABIE (1209137), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For conspicuous devotion to duty and courage in caring for and evacuating wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT DONALD D. MAGRUDER (1209424), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage, coolness and determination, in holding his command against a determined enemy counter attack in the vicinity of the Knoll during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 27, 1918, and assisting in shattering the attack.

SERGEANT DONALD D. MAGRUDER (1209424), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For qualities of leadership and courage displayed on the morning of October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River.

SERGEANT RALPH R. MALCOLM, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 metres from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

SERGEANT THOMAS MALONEY (1207809), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and qualities of leadership in assuming command of his company and leading it forward after all officers were killed or wounded and until he himself was seriously wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN G. MANSON (1208911), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and determination in carrying an important artillery message to the rear and returning under heavy fire. This in Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 27, 1918.

SERGEANT DAVID E. MARCUS (1206662), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courage, determination and inspiring example in continuing in action after being wounded in the chest and until again wounded during an enemy counter attack. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT RICHARD S. MARTIN (1212527), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, devotion to duty and qualities of leadership displayed while a Section Sergeant of his company and throughout his entire service with his company until sent to the last Officers' Training Camp from which he graduated.

SERGEANT IRVING R. MATHEWS (1209463), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage and qualities of leadership displayed on October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, and for gallantry on the same occasion in refusing to ride on a limber after being wounded in order to make place for another more seriously wounded.

SERGEANT HARRY R. MATSON, Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry, determination and marked qualities of leadership during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in commanding his company after all its officers had become casualties. Later during Le Selle River operations, this soldier, when designated to attend the Officers' Training School, refused to leave his company in the line.

SERGEANT LEON R. MATSON (1224735), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in commanding and fearlessly leading his company after all the officers and the First Sergeant had been killed or wounded. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT IRVING R. MATTHEWS (1209643), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage, coolness and determination, in holding his command against a determined enemy counter attack in the vicinity of the Knoll during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, on September 27, 1918, and assisting in shattering the attack.

SERGEANT CHARLES W. MATTSON (1207562), Company F, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed while in command of a platoon of his company until killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT HARRY J. MEBUS, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in maintaining the ammunition supply at the gun positions at all times with unusual ability, from September 9 to November 11, 1918.

SERGEANT CHESTER M. MENENDEZ (1200107), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For leadership, courage and determination while acting as platoon sergeant during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM L. MEYER (1211284), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the occupation of a section of the line in front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in the Dickebusch sector, July 11, 1918, this soldier proved an inspiration to his comrades by his cool and courageous action in that together with another volunteer he exposed himself under light of a full moon to enemy machine guns and trench mortars for one hour while he cleared from in front of his trench a mass of high grass that would have proven an aid to an enemy raid.

SERGEANT HAROLD D. MILLER (1202322), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in maintaining telephone communication under heavy fire in the vicinity of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

SERGEANT JAMES MINOR, Headquarters Co., 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Ormont Wood, France, November 2, 1918, in laying a telephone wire from the Battery Commander's station to a forward observation post in an abandoned French tank in the Ormont Wood, and maintaining it intact for several days under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT HAROLD I. MOLES (1211276), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For gallantry and determination in continuing in action with his company after receiving a shrapnel wound in the right side; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT HAROLD I. MOLES (1211276), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage, determination and skill in continuing in action with his company after being gassed and in successfully neutralizing enemy sniper and machine gun fire; this in the battle of Jonc De Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES V. MONAHAN (1208615), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed before and after being wounded in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, August 31, 1918.

SERGEANT FRANK E. MONTY (1200216), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courageous and effective work in removing wounded of his company under heavy shell fire on October 17, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, France.

SERGEANT GORDAN H. MOORE (1215867), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership displayed while commanding a platoon of his company in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT WALTER L. MORGAN (1203109), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and leadership in handling his section under heavy fire, setting a fine example of bravery to his men. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1921.

SERGEANT WALTER E. MOSHER (1215884), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership, courage and determination as a platoon leader during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

SERGEANT GERHARD MOSS (1201795), Company C, 102d U. S. Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

SERGEANT HOWARD MURPHY, Company H, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 This soldier, on September 2, 1918, the third day of the engagement at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, succeeded to command of Company H, 106th Infantry, after the company had reached its first objective. He displayed gallantry and marked qualities of leadership while in the command of his company and in the organization of the position taken.

SERGEANT JOHN D. MURPHY, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on October 17, 1918, in repeatedly bringing supplies to the firing battery under heavy enemy shell fire, the animals of his transport being killed by shell fragments.

SERGEANT JOSEPH C. MURPHY, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in serving the guns of his battery during heavy enemy shelling and gas concentrations and carrying ammunition under fire without regard to personal risk. This on October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT MICHAEL J. MURPHY, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 metres from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

SERGEANT PERCY J. MURPHY, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in reorganizing a platoon of the 108th Infantry to which organization he had been attached, after same had been heavily shelled and gassed while advancing near Ronssoy, France, on September 27, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line. He was later severely gassed near St. Souplet, during Le Selle River operations, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT ELMER MURRAY (1213841), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage and determination in evacuating gassed men under heavy enemy fire near St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

SERGEANT ALFRED J. MUTTELL (1206438), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional bravery and leadership in leading a platoon to its objective after all officers and senior non-commissioned officers had been killed or wounded.

SERGEANT FREDERICK J. NAUGHTON (1209363), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For leadership and courage while acting as platoon sergeant during all operations in which the company was engaged in Belgium and France.

SERGEANT JOHN J. NEALIS (1200192), 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 39
 For inspiring courage and devotion to duty in continuing in action after being wounded and until wounded again; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

SERGEANT FLOYD S. NEELY, JR. (1211426), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine

gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT BERNHARD E. NEHEMIAS (1210078), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 19, 1918, in administering aid to the wounded when a direct hit was made on a party carrying ammunition to the front line, and in leading the remainder of the party to its destination.

SERGEANT CHARLES H. NORDIKE (1210101), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For repeated demonstrations of leadership and courage during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, and during operations at Le Selle River, October 16, 1918. On September 29, this Sergeant commanded a daylight patrol which effectively disposed of hostile snipers and on October 16, 1918, under heavy fire, obtained valuable information as to the exact location of hostile machine gun nests which engaged in a night patrol.

SERGEANT EDWARD I. O'BRIEN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Damvillers, France, November 9, 1918, in making a reconnaissance across heavily shelled areas into the village of Damvillers immediately after its evacuation by the enemy and while it was under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire, and without regard to personal risk secured information which was of great value to the conduct of the operations then in progress.

SERGEANT JOHN O'BRIEN, Headquarters Detachment, Q.M.C., 27th Division. S. O. 91

For meritorious service and devotion to duty while acting as chief checker at the Division Rail-heads in France.

SERGEANT GEORGE A. O'BRIEN (1201736), Company C, 102d U. S. Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

400 SERGEANT TERENCE J. O'BRIEN (1204432), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courageous leadership in commanding a platoon of his company until wounded. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT THOMAS W. O'CONNOR (1210079), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For leadership and courage during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in leading a party under heavy fire to bring back the body of a deceased comrade.

SERGEANT PERCY J. O'GORMAN (1212268), Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For skill and determination in battle. In the vicinity of Arbre Guernon, this soldier led a patrol to the left front of the infantry and alone reconnoitered a fire swept field, locating the enemy and obtaining valuable information. This east of Le Selle River, France, October, 1918.

SERGEANT PERCY J. O'GORMAN (1212268), Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary heroism and leadership during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918. This soldier led his 37 m.m. gun squad forward until enemy resistance was encountered from Lone Tree Trench. Under heavy machine gun fire he occupied Willow Trench and arming his men with captured rifles and grenades, organized the position, and directed its defense until reinforcements arrived, personally taking part in three bombing parties. His courage and example inspired all ranks. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN P. O'KEEFE (1225221), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For qualities of leadership, zeal and courage while acting platoon sergeant during all operations in which the battalion was engaged in Belgium and France.

SERGEANT LEWIS F. ORR (1208987), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44

For courage, skill and determination in occupying an advanced position of a detachment of his company during an enemy counter attack in which the enemy was driven back.

SERGEANT JAMES W. PAGE (1212460), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional leadership in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 15, 16 and 17, 1918, conducting many ration and working parties to and from the front lines in a most courageous and fearless manner.

SERGEANT JOHN B. PARK (1214973), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

In assuming command of his platoon after his Lieutenant had been wounded and leading them with great courage and skill; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT ELBERT N. PATTEN (1210962), Company G, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

In action near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in August, 1918, this soldier displayed fearlessness and resourcefulness in commanding a patrol in no man's land, inspiring his men and furnishing an example for all. In the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, he displayed exceptional courage and leadership, commanding his platoon in the attack up to the time that he was severely wounded, which resulted in his death several days later.

SERGEANT G. A. PEARSON (1208628), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44

For gallantry and determination while patrolling the advance of his company under heavy enemy fire and later in remaining with his company throughout the attack after being wounded. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918.

SERGEANT ROBERT L. PEEK (1211648), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 26

For aiding a wounded officer and wounded soldier to places of safety regardless of self, this in the battle of Jone Der Mer Ridge, France, October 20, 1918.

SERGEANT GEORGE PETERSEN (1207118), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42

For commanding a platoon of his company with courage and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM C. PETIT, 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Bois de Dannevaux, France, October 17 and 18, 1918, in maintaining telephone communication from gun positions to superior headquarters under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT CLARK R. PHIFFER, Company A, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For exceptional gallantry and determination in assisting in the construction of a foot bridge across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918, in the face of heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire from the opposite bank, which inflicted numerous casualties on his detachment.

SERGEANT EDWIN M. PHILLIPS (1210291), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of the Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT RICHARD M. PHILLIPS (1203695), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and leadership during Le Selle River operations, France, on October 18, 1918. This soldier with the aid of another man of the same company, took command of the company after all officers had been made casualties, organized the line and continued the advance against strong resistance until the objective was reached.

SERGEANT EDWIN J. RAFTER (1205410), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and qualities of leadership frequently demonstrated during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France. In the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, this soldier, after his superiors had become casualties, assumed command of his company and led it in satisfactory manner throughout the remainder of the battle.

SERGEANT GEORGE RAPPORT, Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great determination and courage in helping reorganize his company after all its officers had been killed or wounded and later for splendid work in attacks on machine gun posts. His coolness had a great moral effect upon the men. This near Arbre Guernon, France, October 17-21, 1918.

SERGEANT DIETRICH G. REIMERS, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in supplying ammunition to the guns of his battery under heavy enemy gas concentrations and heavy enemy shell fire that was causing explosions of the artillery ammunition dumps and by his exceptional bravery and soldierly conduct, maintaining a high degree of morale in his detail. This on November 1 to 8, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES O. RICHARDSON (1209320), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership, courage and determination in leading his men to a position in front of the infantry line under shell fire and in making personal reconnaissance for gun position during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM H. ROACH, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, October 8 and 9, 1918, establishing a forward observation post in a tree and maintaining same throughout the night under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

SERGEANT ALEXANDER M. ROBB (1204122), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in making a reconnaissance of the area in front of his company position in an effort to locate enemy machine gun nests, returning with valuable information. This near the Knoll during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM ROBBINS (1203696), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and bravery in action near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, on July 31, 1918. This soldier went forward into no man's land to rescue a wounded comrade in broad daylight and under full observation of the enemy. During this trip this soldier was seriously wounded.

SERGEANT HARTWELL E. ROGERS (1210068), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 27-28, 1918, while commanding a liaison patrol under fire, and in aiding wounded although wounded himself.

SERGEANT GEORGE A. ROLANDELLI (1204315), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For devotion to duty in supplying rations to his company during the battles and engagements in which his unit participated in Belgium and France.

SERGEANT DURANT ROSE (1209369), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in voluntarily repairing broken telephone wire under heavy shell fire and maintaining communications during operations at Dickebusch, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

SERGEANT ALBERT J. ROSS (1215886), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 Killed in action while leading his platoon against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. This Sergeant displayed great courage and determination in the attack until killed. This near Bony, France.

SERGEANT EDWIN D. ROSS (1209462), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage, coolness and determination in holding his command against a determined enemy counter attack in the vicinity of the Knoll, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 27, 1918, and assisting in shattering the attack.

SERGEANT ROSCOE ROYS (1211614), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and exceptional devotion to duty. On October 16, 1918, while holding a front line position this soldier, notified that he was selected to attend an Officers' Training Camp, requested to be allowed to remain with his company until it was relieved from front line duty. The following night he was killed.

SERGEANT FRANK RYAN (1204332), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This sergeant when his platoon was held up by enemy fire, led a detachment and cleared the enemy post opposing them.

SERGEANT CHARLES D. SABIN, JR. (1209493), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, coolness and devotion to duty in advancing his machine guns under heavy enemy shell fire and maintaining throughout the action a steady fire against the enemy despite severe losses, and by his disregard for personal safety setting a good example to the men under his command. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-29, 1918.

SERGEANT PERLEY B. SANCOMB (1204594), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in commanding and fearlessly leading his platoon after the Lieutenant commanding had been killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near the Knoll, France, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT J. BURTON SCANLON (1208991), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 While acting as Sergeant in charge of Railroad Detachment displayed notable qualities of leadership and by his efficiency and untiring devotion to duty aided materially in the prompt and adequate movement of essential supplies to the division throughout the entire period of active service in Belgium and France.

SERGEANT ALFRED T. SCHERMERHORN, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity

of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 1, 1918, in maintaining the ammunition supply of his battery under continual enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT FRANK L. SCHIPS (1203501), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great bravery and devotion to duty demonstrated in commanding all ration parties under heavy enemy fire. This at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 26, 1918.

SERGEANT ELIAS SCHLANK (1212802), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in rendering first aid to the wounded under heavy enemy fire. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August, 1918, and in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

SERGEANT ELIAS SCHLANK (1212802), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty in leaving the shelter of the aid station to which he had been assigned, going forward with another soldier and establishing and maintaining for seven hours under heavy enemy fire a collecting and dressing station in the trenches in the vicinity of Duncan Post. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT FRED G. SCHMITT (1211587), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in voluntarily rejoining his company with his rifle and grenades on the morning of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, after having been detailed to clerical duty at Battalion Headquarters. This gallant soldier fought his way to Guillemont Farm and there was shot down.

SERGEANT CLIFTON W. SCHNACK (1224729), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For leadership, courage and determination in leading a platoon. Though wounded in the arm, he continued with his platoon throughout the entire day until forced to retire, when wounded a second time in the leg. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN F. SCHNEPF (1208671), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For courage and qualities of leadership displayed while commanding a platoon of his company during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

SERGEANT DAVID S. SCOTT (1205390), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage, determination and qualities of leadership demonstrated while in command of a platoon of his company during the battles of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT LUDWIG L. SEGEL, Company C, 102d U. S. Engineers (1201809). S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

SERGEANT GILBERT R. SHARP (1203269), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action and determined leadership in the conduct of patrols during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31 to September 2, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM SHEARER (2005052), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 25, 1918.

SERGEANT EARL F. SHERMAN (1209719), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

SERGEANT FREDERICK SHERRY (1210989), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery and exceptional qualities of leadership in assuming command of his platoon after the platoon commander had been severely wounded and continuing on in the attack until he himself was severely wounded, which resulted in the loss of his arm. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT MATTHEW J. SHEVLIN (1209198), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For leadership, courage and determination while acting as section sergeant during all operations in which the battalion was engaged in Belgium and France.

SERGEANT RAYNOR I. SHIPMAN, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, on October 17, 1918, in delivering ammunition to the batteries of the 1st and 2d Battalions of the 105th Field Artillery throughout the night under heavy enemy shell fire. The enemy had located crossroads over which it was necessary for the trains to pass, and through the resourcefulness, initiative and courage of this Sergeant the required ammunition was safely delivered without casualties to detail.

SERGEANT PAUL T. SIMPSON (1203194), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For leadership, zeal and courage while acting as a platoon leader during all battles and engagements in which his platoon took part.

SERGEANT ARTHUR L. SINGER (1211225), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, on September 29, 1918, this soldier took command of his platoon after the senior Sergeant had been wounded and with the utmost coolness and skill in leadership succeeded in putting out of action several enemy machine gun positions and advancing his command toward its objective. His exhibition of bravery and initiative proved an inspiration to his comrades.

SERGEANT WARREN SINGER (1207880), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For courage and skill in making a reconnaissance in advance of his company under heavy machine gun fire during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918.

SERGEANT EDMUND SINGLETON (1203482), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and inspiring example displayed at Ronssoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when in command of a bombing squad. This soldier (a Corporal at the time), single handed and alone, entered a dug-out and took ten enemy prisoners. His exceptional coolness and devotion to duty were an inspiration to his comrades.

SERGEANT ESLEY C. SITZER (1215967), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and determined leadership while in command of a platoon of his company in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, and at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM F. SMIDT (1211198), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and determination in the leadership of his platoon during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. Although suffering from a painful wound this soldier refused to be evacuated but continued to lead his platoon against enemy machine gun nests until put out of action by a second wound.

SERGEANT WILLIAM FRANKLYN SMITH (1214539), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 89

For great courage, determined leadership and inspiring example in continuing in command of his platoon after being wounded five times and until exhausted. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

SERGEANT ERIC W. SPENCER, Machine Gun Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary gallantry and determination in advancing alone against a nest of enemy snipers and killing four of them with his rifle. This in the battle of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT JOHN J. STALL, Headquarters Company, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action near Consenvoye from November 1 to 6, 1918, when he carried a telephone line under artillery fire to an open position and reported enemy movement and gave observations leading to effective fire.

SERGEANT RICHARD STANBROOK, Company A, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious services in the maintenance of the motor equipment of the company and making emergency repairs and doing salvage work on trucks while in action during September, October and November, 1918.

SERGEANT WILLIAM O. STRONG (1210098), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in voluntarily taking rations through heavy shell fire to the 105th Infantry, whose exact location at the time was unknown.

SERGEANT RAYMOND S. SUMMERS, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 18, 1918, in delivering ammunition to battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT BUGLER CHARLES F. SWARTHOUT (1212311), Headquarters Co., 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty while distributing rations to the front line under heavy fire on the nights of September 29 and 30, 1918, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France.

SERGEANT HAROLD E. SUTTON, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 metres from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

SERGEANT HARRY SWART, Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in locating enemy troops and preventing them from reaching their machine guns during the forcing of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

SERGEANT EDWARD J. SWEENEY, Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in rendering special services under heavy machine gun fire in front of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES TAYLOR, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in voluntarily carrying important messages between regimental headquarters and advanced infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT FRANK TAYLOR (1203491), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary heroism at Ronssoy on September 29, 1918, in the attack on the Hindenburg Line while in a shell hole in advance of the front line. This soldier (a Corporal at the time), with two men of a Lewis gun team, showed unusual courage and skill in successfully repulsing the attack when attacked by a superior force of the enemy. The daring and determination displayed by this soldier constituted an inspiration to all who saw him.

SERGEANT WILLIAM TAYLOR (1210513), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional gallantry, determination and devotion to duty in returning to the line from hospital before his previous wounds had properly healed and advancing with his company under heavy enemy fire until the company was finally relieved. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 8, 1918.

SERGEANT HERBERT J. TERRY (1203161), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in leading his squad in organizing and leading forward infantry without leaders. This in the battle of Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT RALPH C. TOBIN, Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For displaying exceptional qualities of leadership, coolness and devotion to duty, when on or about the night of August 10, 1918, at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, as platoon Sergeant, he, though severely gassed, remained with his platoon, making the rounds of his gun position under heavy shell fire and successfully effected the relief of his platoon.

SERGEANT STEPHEN B. TOMPKINS, Company G, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For exceptionally meritorious service during the operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, September 6 to November 11, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, where, by his exceptional conduct and devotion to duty, he at all times set an example to the men of his company.

SERGEANT FRANK E. TORNABENE (1225481), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Scherpenberg, Belgium, July 17, 1918, in aiding in the evacuation of wounded comrades of his detachment, although himself wounded.

SERGEANT JOSEPH A. TOWLE, 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Bois de Jure, near Dannevaux, France, October 17 and 18, 1918, in remaining at his post during a heavy gas attack and rescuing comrades sleeping in dugouts, although himself gassed.

SERGEANT JOSEPH J. TRACEY (1206860), Company C, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49

On September 27, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this Sergeant worked his way close to an enemy machine gun nest then engaged in firing on his company. Single handed and alone Sergeant Tracey took the two men composing the enemy detachment in a personal encounter, bayonetting one and then the other, enabling the prompt advance of his company.

SERGEANT HAROLD B. TUTHILL (1211498), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in bringing a Lewis gun into action against an enemy machine gun nest single-handed, after other members of the gun section had been killed or wounded.

SERGEANT HAROLD B. TUTHILL (1211498), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination frequently displayed in all the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France, during the summer and fall of 1918. In Flanders in the operations against the Hindenburg Line, and in Le Selle River engagements this soldier at all times exhibited exceptional courage, fortitude and determination.

SERGEANT BUSSEY H. VANCE (1204544), Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, in successfully leading his company after the commanding officer was wounded.

SERGEANT BURTIS W. VAN HENNICK (1209644), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and inspiring leadership. During an enemy attack on the front line trenches in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, this soldier by coolness and fortitude greatly strengthened the morale of his organization. He was killed during this action.

SERGEANT JOSEPH H. VAN INGEN (1208532), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and qualities of leadership displayed in continuing in action with his company after being wounded. This in the battle of the Vierstraat Ridge, August 31, 1918.

SERGEANT EDWARD P. VANDERBOSCH (1215973), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill while leading combat patrols near Duncan Post. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28-30, 1918.

SERGEANT ARTHUR VANDERVOORT, Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty when under heavy shell and machine gun fire he made, on the morning of September 27, 1918, at the Hindenburg Line, personal reconnaissance to select machine gun positions.

SERGEANT RUDOLPH VEISIK, Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in successfully leading his platoon through heavy fire and holding the position taken until wounded. This near Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

SERGEANT H. F. VERSEN (1209633), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For inspiring leadership and energy in carrying out his duties and for maintaining the morale of the men in battle when suffering from fatigue and heavy losses. He gained the admiration of all he came in contact with by his courage and untiring service. This in Le Selle River operations, France, October, 1918.

SERGEANT HOWARD AMES VON DOHLEN (1209372), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For exceptional courage and leadership frequently displayed both in Belgium and France. In action near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in August and September, 1918, this soldier displayed fearlessness and resourcefulness. In the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, he personally rescued numbers of wounded men in the face of heavy shell and machine gun fire.

SERGEANT PHILIP D. VOSBURGH (1211621), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in action. On September 28, 1918, while in the trenches previous to the attack on September 29, 1918, this soldier was directing from his trench the course to be taken by two stretcher bearers who were carrying a severely wounded officer of the 108th Infantry. An enemy machine gun was trained on these stretcher bearers, one of whom fell wounded. In the face of this fire, this soldier immediately jumped out of the trench, taking one end of the stretcher, threw himself with the wounded officer into the trench, but by so doing received a machine gun burst, which finally was the cause of his leg having to be amputated.

SERGEANT FREDERICK WAITE, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 metres from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance. This on October 2 and 3, 1918.

SERGEANT HERBERT E. WALSH (1208032), Company H, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and determination and qualities of leadership while a Corporal in assuming command of his company after all officers and Sergeants had been killed or wounded, in leading them forward and consolidating an advance position. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-28, 1918.

SERGEANT DE FOREST WALTER, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and marked qualities of leadership in leading his platoon in an attack upon the enemy. Later after being relieved and returning to reserve under heavy shell fire he showed extraordinary bravery and presence of mind in keeping his men in formation. He was killed by a direct hit of an enemy shell. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 30 to September 2, 1918.

SERGEANT CARL H. WALTY (1208251), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in fearlessly exposing himself to enemy fire in transmitting orders to the squad leaders of his platoon and in skillfully leading his platoon in a successful flank attack on an enemy machine gun nest. This during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

SERGEANT HARRY H. WARD, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Haraumont, France, November 8, 1918, in making a hazardous reconnaissance of battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT LEWIS J. WARD, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de Lemont, France, on October 3, 1918, in reconnoitering and locating the battery positions and establishing telephone communication under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

SERGEANT ALFRED B. WARWICK (1210827), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, where he voluntarily exposed himself to a heavy fire to force four Germans to carry a wounded comrade back to a place of safety.

SERGEANT CHARLES J. WATTERS (1212817), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in rendering first aid to the wounded under heavy enemy fire. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August, 1918, and in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

SERGEANT CHARLES J. WATTERS (1212817), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty in leaving the shelter of the aid station to which he had been assigned, going forward with another soldier and establishing and maintaining for seven hours under heavy enemy fire a collecting and dressing station in the trenches in the vicinity of Duncan Post. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT LYNN S. WEBB (1215412), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and qualities of leadership in remaining in action after being wounded.

SERGEANT FREDERICK H. WERLEMANN (1209453), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
For courage, coolness and determination, in holding his command against a determined enemy counter attack in the vicinity of the Knoll during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 27, 1918, and assisting in shattering the attack.

SERGEANT MILTON J. WHITELEY (1227955), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
During the occupation of a section of the line in front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in the Dickebusch sector, July 11, 1918, this soldier performed an exceptionally dangerous but important task in clearing from in front of his trench to a depth of 25 yards a mass of high grass that might have proven an aid to an enemy raiding party. While thus engaged this soldier was exposed under the light of a full moon for a period of one hour to enemy machine gun fire and trench mortars.

SERGEANT ELMER H. WILLIAMS, Company A, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and determination in assisting in the construction of a foot bridge across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918, in the face of heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire from the opposite bank, which inflicted numerous casualties on his detachment.

SERGEANT GUY F. WILLIAMSON, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and determination in remaining at his post during heavy shell fire and gas concentration while acting battery non-commissioned gas officer, near Brabant, France, November 2, 1918.

SERGEANT LEONARD M. WILSON (1204107), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

SERGEANT FREDERICK W. WITZKE (1215417), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in rescuing a wounded comrade and carrying him under heavy shell fire to a sunken road, where he gave him first aid. This on August 12, 1918, near Dickebusch, Belgium.

SERGEANT EDWIN WORKS, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination near Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 28, 1918, in a sectional ammunition dump caused by an exploding shell.

SERGEANT LOUIS B. WRIGHT, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in Verdun sector, France, from September 26 to November 11, 1918, in conducting accurate fire of his piece under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT JOHN T. ZABRISKIE (1211201), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, although wounded severely, refused evacuation, but continued to skillfully direct his platoon against the enemy until he was put out of action by a second wound.

SERGEANT GEORGE D. ZETT, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, on October 18, 1918, in delivering ammunition to battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

SERGEANT GEORGE ZIMMERMAN (1222753), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
For courage and devotion to duty in connection with the evacuation of wounded during the battles of the Hindenburg Line and Le Selle River, France, September-October, 1918.

SUPPLY SERGEANT HENRY ALTMAN, 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Vilosnes, France, October 19, 1918, in procuring dry clothing and issuing it to men suffering from exposure at gun positions during action.

SUPPLY SERGEANT ARTHUR A. BANCKER (1210549), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and gallantry in volunteering to go into action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 29, when it was not in the line of his duties as Supply Sergeant to do so and for his courageous attention to wounded of his company during the battle until severely wounded.

SUPPLY SERGEANT JAMES W. BANNON, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Ormont Farm, France, November 10, 1918, in bringing his detachment to forward battery positions over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell fire.

SUPPLY SERGEANT LEON A. CURRY (1213644), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in collecting a carrying party and evacuating wounded to dressing station and then taking charge of transferring the rations of two companies from damaged limbers under shell fire. This on August 27, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys Offensive, Belgium.

SUPPLY SERGEANT LOUIS J. DEAN (1215866), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For efficiency and devotion to duty in getting rations to his company throughout the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

SUPPLY SERGEANT WESLEY D. KARKER (1204887), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courageous devotion to duty in securing rations for his company and bringing them to the front line, where he was killed by hostile artillery fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918.

SUPPLY SERGEANT EDWARD J. REILLY (1207097), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
For gallantry and determination in bringing ration limbers up to his company under heavy fire. This near The Scherpenberg, Belgium, August 25, 1918.

SUPPLY SERGEANT WILLIAM V. STOVOLD (1210310), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courageous and efficient performance of duty in all engagements in which his company participated.

SUPPLY SERGEANT PHILIP TATTERSALL, Battery E, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Ormont Farm, France, November 10, 1918, in bringing his detachment to forward battery positions over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell fire.

STABLE SERGEANT WILLIAM C. DEACON, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and devotion to duty in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in bringing urgently needed rations to forward positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

STABLE SERGEANT THOMAS JULIAN (1209481), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For great courage and perseverance in personally bringing ration limbers to his company in the forward trenches under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28-29, 1920.

STABLE SERGEANT BENJAMIN F. O'BRIEN, Supply Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For zeal and devotion to duty during active service of the regiment in France and Belgium, 1918-1919. Sergeant O'Brien maintained the regimental transport in a continuous state of efficiency.

STABLE SERGEANT CHARLES E. PAINE (1209301), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage, determination and leadership repeatedly demonstrated in battle both in Belgium and in France. This soldier always commanded the transport of his company without regard to fatigue or enemy fire. His resourcefulness overcame all obstacles and the transport, even under most difficult battle conditions, maintained connection with the company.

STABLE SERGEANT HARRY M. WOOD (1200171), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For repeated demonstration of courage and determination in commanding company transport under heavy enemy fire during the engagements in which his command participated.

MESS SERGEANT STANLEY G. BARR (1215865), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For efficiency and devotion to duty in getting rations to his company throughout the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

MESS SERGEANT DANIEL W. ENGEL, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in bringing rations to the advanced regimental P. C. under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations. This on November 3, 1918.

MESS SERGEANT EDWARD FERRETER, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 17, 1918, in volunteering to deliver ammunition to the batteries of the 1st Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads under heavy enemy shell fire.

MESS SERGEANT FRANK A. GRACE (1216484), Headquarters Detachment, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 52
 For gallantry and determination while acting as Chief Agent and Signalman for this battalion, in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire, during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-October 1, 1918.

MESS SERGEANT RUDOLPH W. HEBIG (1210308), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For efficient and courageous performance of duty during operations of his company in Belgium and France.

MESS SERGEANT WALTER C. McALLISTER, Company A, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For great courage and devotion to duty in taking his field kitchen forward to the line under heavy fire after being wounded. This during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

MESS SERGEANT CHARLES J. ROBOLD (1207083), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courageously getting rations to his company under heavy enemy fire in Belgium and in France.

MESS SERGEANT CHARLES E. STEIMER, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29 to November 8, 1918, in organizing and operating a battery kitchen in an open trench, and by great resourcefulness and unusual initiative in overcoming difficulties, successfully feeding the members of his battery without revealing his position to enemy observations.

MESS SERGEANT HARMON B. VEDDER (1211613), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 26
 For the efficient distribution of hot food to the men of his company shortly before the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronsoy, France, on September 29, 1918, which work was performed under severe fire.

MESS SERGEANT HENDRICUS WIPPRECHT (1207817), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and skill in operation of a Lewis machine gun against a low flying enemy aeroplane. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL RONALD G. ACKEN (1210359), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 In spite of painful wounds received in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier continued to assist in evacuating the wounded to the rear.

CORPORAL EDWARD O. ACKER (1205437), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and marked skill while in command of his squad during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France.

CORPORAL SAMUEL S. ACKERLY (1206102), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and determination during the attack of September 27, 1918, on the out-works of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France. This soldier went gallantly forward into the enemy works with others of his command and when they were heavily counter-attacked held his ground and continued to fight until he fell badly wounded.

CORPORAL KENNETH F. ADAMS, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in rescuing two badly wounded comrades under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL HAROLD F. AITKEN (1205937), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated in maintaining communication during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

CORPORAL HARRY W. ALDREN (1214316), Company E, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example in the attack on an enemy machine gun post during which he was killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL WHITMAN E. ALLEN (1200595), Company B, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in successfully conducting a ration party at night through heavy enemy fire to the forward position of his company. This on the night of August 16, 1918, in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium.

CORPORAL JOHN G. ANDERSON, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 metres from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL WILLIAM H. ANGOVE (1214338), Company E, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For courage and inspiring example in the attack on an enemy machine gun post, during which he was killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANCIS X. ARNOLD (1209214), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For leadership, courage and determination as squad leader and in aiding in the rescue of two men from a burning tank during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL RONALD P. BABCOCK (1215429), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty as a patrol during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, and for maintaining an advanced observation post under heavy enemy fire in the vicinity of Le Selle River, France, October 10-14, 1918.

CORPORAL GAYLORD BAILEY, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

CORPORAL THEODORE BAKER, Battery C, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in laying a new telephone line from the battery position at Cote des Roches to Ravin de Boussieres on the afternoon of November 4, under constant shell fire and patrolling the line during a heavy enemy bombardment, thereby keeping communication open between the battery and its advance platoon position.

CORPORAL FRANK V. BALDWIN, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 17, 1918, in volunteering to deliver ammunition to the batteries of the 1st Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL WILLIAM E. BALL (1203166), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in battle. This soldier set an example of extraordinary bravery and devotion to duty in an enemy barrage in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 11, 1918.

CORPORAL PERCY BARTLE (1215434), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and devotion to duty during all battles and engagements in which his regiment took part and particularly in the battle of Le Selle River, when although gassed, he continued to lead his platoon until severely wounded.

CORPORAL HENRY B. BARTLETT (1205486), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

CORPORAL JOSEPH E. BATH (1203170), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in handling his gun in action in the face of heavy enemy grenade and rifle fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL HERMAN D. BECKMAN, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in laying a telephone line in the Bois de Consenvoye, France, a distance of two kilometers, under extremely heavy shell fire on October 28, 1918.

CORPORAL CHESTER C. BEEBE (1222763), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For exceptional courage and determination in leaving the shelter of a dugout and proceeding a distance of about 200 yards to dig out and rescue a soldier buried in a dugout destroyed by enemy shell fire, this work being performed in the day time under enemy observation and fire. This in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL FREDERICK R. BELDING (1211639), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in battle. During the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier displayed unusual leadership and courage in the face of severe enemy machine gun fire and was killed going forward.

CORPORAL MEYER M. BERGER (1205462), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery under heavy fire at Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, July 30, 1918, in making four successful trips to rescue men lying in the field seriously wounded.

CORPORAL RAYMOND W. BLANK (1222766), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For gallantry in crawling forward under heavy enemy fire from a first aid post to a shell hole and carrying therefrom to a place of shelter, a wounded officer; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL LLOYD BLOOD (1209887), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery and persistent devotion to duty in attack on the Hindenburg Line near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. After being wounded, he refused to retire and disregarding his personal danger, continued to advance until wounded a second and third time.

CORPORAL WILLIAM H. BLOOMER, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in voluntarily carrying important messages from the advance infantry positions to battalion headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire.

CORPORAL HARRY BORETZ (1211226), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and inspiring example throughout the engagements of his regiment including a personal reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire in the East Poperinghe Line, Belgium, August, 1918; and in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, in refusing to go to the rear after being wounded by a shell fragment.

CORPORAL HARRY BORETZ (1211226), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage and effective leadership in rushing an enemy machine gun nest and taking four prisoners after the Lieutenant in charge had been killed; this in the battle of Jonc Der Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES S. BOSWORTH, Headquarters Company, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in establishing the advanced battalion observation post under constant shell fire and remaining on constant duty in repairing breaks in the line and assisting the officer in charge in observation without relief, for 72 hours, as a result of which it was possible to keep the fire of both batteries in the battalion under constant observation. This at Bois Jure, October 15-17, 1918.

COOK E. J. BOUCHER (1205397), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, after being severely gassed and blinded, this soldier refused to be evacuated but continued at his duties throughout the battle and subsequent engagements.

CORPORAL EDWARD T. BRADT (1204361), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and determination while serving as a bugler of his company in carrying important messages under heavy fire in the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated.

CORPORAL SAMUEL P. BRECK (1211303), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

During the operations before the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed chiefly of strongly fortified machine gun nests until killed.

CORPORAL ALBERT D. BROWN (1210515), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional gallantry and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Ronssoy, France, September 28, 1918, in refusing to go to the rear after having been wounded and continuing to advance with his company. Later during the operations of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, on October 17-18, 1918, he displayed exceptional coolness and determined leadership.

CORPORAL WALLACE H. BROWN (1203736), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier constantly exposed himself in daylight to enemy fire in order to signal by semaphore to the rear and by maintaining communication between his company and battalion commanders.

CORPORAL WILFRED K. BROWN, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in voluntarily exposing himself to heavy enemy shell fire in front of his gun position and re-erecting the aiming post to enable his gun to continue in action.

CORPORAL PARKER J. BROWNELL (1210116), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 21, 1918. This soldier voluntarily went forward to an abandoned communication trench in no man's land to rescue a British comrade. Upon finding it was impossible to bring the body back through the trench, with total disregard for his own safety he carried the body across no man's land to our own front line with the assistance of a comrade.

CORPORAL VERNON BUDD (1204366), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and initiative demonstrated while in command of a detachment of his company, holding its left flank at Arbre Guernon. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK S. BURKE (1207198), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42

For gallantry and inspiring example during the attack of his company on the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918, during which he was wounded.

CORPORAL HARRY A. BURKE (1211309), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

During the battle of Jonc Der Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, this soldier distinguished himself with exceptional bravery and skillful leadership until objectives had been reached, when he left a shell hole of comparative safety to cross a shell and machine gun swept field and give aid to a badly wounded comrade, whom he helped to carry a distance of two and a half miles through a heavily shelled area.

CORPORAL MARTIN L. BURKE (1203792), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and bravery in action near Bony, France, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918. This soldier with no regard for personal safety, continually went forward over exposed ground to administer first aid to the wounded.

CORPORAL WALTER V. BURKE (1210630), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

When a Private, First Class, for devotion to duty and exceptional courage and determination, in volunteering to go out on a patrol to locate the enemy's line on October 15, 1918, near St. Souplet, France, and for repeated acts of gallantry during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918.

CORPORAL ALONZO P. BURNETT (1210382), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For his courage in action in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. This soldier continually disregarded his own personal safety.

CORPORAL FRANCIS E. BURNS (1215876), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when in charge of a detail which successfully delivered rations to the company under heavy shell fire.

CORPORAL PATRICK D. BURNS (1205414), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and marked skill while in command of his squad during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France.

CORPORAL ADOLP BUSH (Deceased) (1211628), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. On September 29, 1918, in the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, this soldier displayed unusual bravery in leading his squad against machine gun fire and was killed while advancing.

CORPORAL JOHN BUSH, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For extraordinary heroism in action in the vicinity of the La Claire Farm, France, October 8, 1918, when two cases of hand grenades dropped from a runaway limber and exploded, causing about twelve casualties, he, disregarding the bursting grenades, rushed to the aid of the wounded, directing and helping their removal from danger and rendering first aid at great personal risk.

CORPORAL WILLIAM F. BUTTEL, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL JOHN CAHILL, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2d and 3d, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL JOSEPH M. CAHILL (1204549), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery in covering the retirement of the 3d Battalion, 105th Infantry, by staying at his machine gun post while the battalion established itself in a stronger position. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWARD B. CALLENS (1213432), Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in rescuing two wounded comrades under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

CORPORAL JAMES FRED CAMMANN (1201138), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For characteristically uniform high standard of devotion to duty and disregard for his personal safety in his endeavors to establish and maintain telephone communication for the regiment with which he was working, in the operations forward of Ronssoy, France, at which time he was on duty almost constantly for four days and nights. His disregard for shelling and machine gun fire and conscientious and continuous work made it possible for the reports of the front line units to be transmitted.

CORPORAL BERNARD J. CARDINAL (1210286), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional leadership while commanding a platoon during the advance on Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK L. CASACELLI (1210074), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in evacuating wounded from the front line under enemy observation and shell fire in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 21, 1918.

CORPORAL ALEXANDER CASSIDY, Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in rendering special services under heavy machine gun fire in front of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES CASSIDY (1206526), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty repeatedly shown in battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

CORPORAL JAMES A. CAVANAUGH (1202061), Company D, 102d Engineers. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination in carrying an important message through heavy enemy fire; this in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL CHESTER CELLAR, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

CORPORAL FRED CHRISTENSON, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on October 17, 1918, in making reconnaissance and erecting camouflage nets at gun positions under heavy enemy shell fire and at great personal risk.

CORPORAL ARTHUR B. CHURCH (1209667), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and exceptional fearlessness in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918. This soldier inspired the men of his platoon to coolness and courage during an enemy raid upon the front line trenches and sacrificed his sleep and rest to remain at his post. This soldier was later killed in action.

CORPORAL FRANCIS W. CLANCY (1200135), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For exceptional and repeated acts of bravery in carrying battle messages under heavy enemy fire.

CORPORAL HENRY CLARENCE (Deceased), Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in refusing to go to the rear after being wounded and advancing with his company. He was later in the day killed by a sniper. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL LEVI P. M. CLARKE (1215877), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership and initiative during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, in successfully guiding his squad back to the platoon from which it had become separated during a smoke barrage, without casualties.

CORPORAL JAMES J. CLARKIN (1201841), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL WILLIAM CLEATOR (1211516), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and skill in making a personal reconnaissance of the enemy position in front of his company. This on the night of October 11, 1918, near Vaux Andigny, France.

CORPORAL HARRY L. CLOSE, Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in surprising thirteen of the enemy, killing three and capturing and taking to the rear the remainder under heavy fire. This soldier was wounded by machine gun fire while returning to the front. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Guillemont Farm, France, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL WILMOT S. CLOSE (1210385), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For his excellent work as Battalion Runner in delivering messages between the front lines and battalion headquarters in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL LE ROY F. CLUNE, Battery B, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in saving the life of a wounded comrade during heavy gas concentration by the enemy. This near Chattancourt, France, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM B. COBB (1200103), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For gallantry and determination in shattering a local enemy counter attack by the effectiveness of his machine gun fire, this on September 27th, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

CORPORAL WILLIAM COBURN, Company G, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918, in assisting the Veterinarian in the care of the animals of the organization.

CORPORAL JOSEPH J. COLLINS (1210323), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL PETER COLLINS (1210325), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 52
 For great courage and skilled leadership while commanding a Lewis gun squad in circling an enemy trench and effectively silencing the enemy fire which had stopped the advance of his company, he being killed in completing his work. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM J. COLLINS (1210301), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional gallantry in crawling under heavy fire to an exposed position and carrying a wounded comrade to a nearby shell hole. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL LEONARD S. COLYER, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, France, September 28, 1918, in laying telephone lines between battery and Regimental Headquarters and infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL WILLIAM T. COONEY (1210540), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry, determination and devotion to duty in voluntarily assisting in the evacuation of wounded comrades although himself wounded. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM T. COONEY (1210640), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For coolness and gallantry in action and for soldierly qualities of leadership frequently displayed during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918.

CORPORAL JOSEPH H. CORBETT (1211316), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage, zeal and determination in remaining in action with his company after being gassed and in rendering effective service as a patrol in clearing enemy machine gunners from hedges, being evacuated after the action was over; this in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918.

CORPORAL RICHARD M. COTT, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of La Claire Farm, Bois de Forges and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, September 26 to November 11, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in preparing and maintaining with great accuracy the regimental battle map under difficult and adverse conditions.

CORPORAL WILLIAM J. COURTER (1203128), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and initiative in leading his squad under heavy shell fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier was killed October 17, 1918, while leading a squad.

CORPORAL HUGH J. COX, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in serving the guns of his battery during heavy enemy shelling and gas concentrations and carrying ammunition under fire without regard to personal risk. This on October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN J. CROTTY, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

CORPORAL THOMAS H. CROWNE (1200106), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, determination and qualities of leadership in successfully directing the fire of his machine gun under heavy enemy shell fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOSEPH R. CUSHMAN (1211632), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. On September 29, 1918, in the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, this soldier displayed unusual bravery in leading his squad against machine gun fire and was killed while advancing.

CORPORAL LUKE DALEY (1203495), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary heroism in taking command of a patrol and successfully clearing an enemy machine gun nest, capturing five prisoners. His exceptional coolness under heavy fire was an inspiration to all who saw him. This during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN DALY, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous service in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, September 28 to October 3, 1918, as a member of a gun crew in repairing and operating against the enemy a group of captured enemy 77 mm. field guns.

CORPORAL ERNEST E. DAMES (1224762), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage under heavy fire in attempting to establish communications with the 30th Division during the battle of Junc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANKLIN S. DAVIS, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in voluntarily carrying important messages from the advanced infantry positions to battalion headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire.

CORPORAL FRED H. DAVIS (1211522), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL BROWNING D. DAY (1211024), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary gallantry and determination and inspiring example in reconnoitering the enemy's line alone on the night of October 11, 1918, near the village of Vaux Andigny, France, and obtaining very valuable information regarding the location of the enemy troops in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN F. DECKER (1222884), Ambulance Company, No. 107. S. O. 49
For courageous evacuation of wounded under fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

CORPORAL HOWARD E. DEGNAN (1210123), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when, although wounded in the leg, he continued to carry ammunition for a Lewis gun and using his rifle effectively against the enemy until he fell exhausted.

CORPORAL SAMUEL DELAHUNT (1210185), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, on August 21, 1918, in rescuing two comrades under heavy shell fire who had been buried by the explosion of a shell which destroyed a section of a trench in which they were stationed.

CORPORAL JOSEPH DEMBROWSKI (1208284), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, coolness and devotion to duty under fire in administering first aid to a wounded comrade and carrying him back to the battalion aid station under heavy enemy fire, although himself suffering intense pain from a bad wound. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL HOWARD P. DE RUM (1200961), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
Killed in action, September 29, 1918, at Guillemont Farm. For conspicuous gallantry in patrolling and repairing Company telephone lines under heavy fire while on duty with Company I, 105th Infantry, at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 23, 1918. He was recommended for the Medal of Honor for gallantry in action east of Guillemont Farm, France, resulting in his death on September 29, 1918. His conduct marked him as a soldier of unusual bravery and intelligence.

CORPORAL WILLIAM M. DE VITALIS (1209851), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in aiding in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL WALTER DEVLIN (1203703), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918. This soldier in company with three others volunteered to bring up water and rations to the men of his company then in an exposed position at the extreme front. This was successfully accomplished in daylight under intensive enemy fire.

CORPORAL CYRIL L. DE YOUNG (1205965), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated while serving as a runner in the various battles and engagements in which his regiment took part in Belgium and in France.

CORPORAL CLARENCE B. DICKINSON (1211524), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE D. DICKSON (1210521), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and courage in volunteering to go into action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, when it was not in the line of his duties as Company Clerk to do so, and for his courageous attention to wounded of his company during the battle until severely wounded himself.

CORPORAL THOMAS A. DILLON (1210392), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and devotion to duty displayed during the advance on St. Souplet, October 17, 1918, when after receiving severe and painful internal injuries from the concussion of an exploding shell he continued to advance with his squad until overcome from exhaustion and suffering caused by his injuries.

CORPORAL HENRY P. DITMARS (1210990), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
For zeal and devotion to duty in participating in operations of his company in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 8, 1918, although at the time not fully recovered from a wound received in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES DONAHUE, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in assisting in mopping up about five hundred yards of enemy trench under heavy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES L. DOURIS (1215889), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For organizing a small party of men separated from their companies in a heavy smoke screen and successfully destroying an enemy machine gun post; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918, during which he was severely wounded.

CORPORAL WILLIAM DOROUSCHIE, Company G, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in assisting in mopping up about five hundred yards of enemy trench under heavy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL AARON W. DOOLITTLE (1211439), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL CORNELIUS F. DOYLE (1203699), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier at the risk of his own life went to the aid of a wounded officer and rendered first aid. Although wounded in the attempt he succeeded in carrying the officer to shelter.

CORPORAL PHILLIP M. DRABBLE (1209329), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 86
For skill, courage and determination in quickly repairing two damaged locks and continuing to fire his gun during the 42 minutes of barrage on the morning of October 17, 1918, at the battle of Le Selle River.

CORPORAL SAMUEL R. DRABBLE (1210563), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM E. DUNN, JR. (1206886), Company C, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional personal courage while Acting Sergeant Major during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918. His devotion to duty in endeavoring to secure information for the Battalion Commander was conspicuous.

CORPORAL STANLEY S. EARL (1207673), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in making a reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire and carrying an important message through similar fire. This in the battle of the Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL HOWARD M. EARLY (1211323), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, on September 29, 1918, although painfully wounded, this soldier continued in action and, together with Sergeant Arthur L. Singer, succeeded in holding off a party of the enemy that numbered between fifteen and twenty men.

CORPORAL GEORGE H. EBELING, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action, when, as a battery agent, he went through heavy shell fire and gas on several occasions, carrying important orders to and from Battalion Headquarters. This in the Verdun sector, France, September 6 to November 11, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE H. EDENHOLM, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry at Rossignol Wood, near Kemmel Village, Belgium, on September 1, 1918, in voluntarily running a telephone wire between Battalion Headquarters and a forward observation post under heavy enemy shell fire and fire of enemy snipers.

CORPORAL FRANK EDWARDS, Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery in covering the retirement of the 3d Battalion, 105th Infantry, by staying at his machine gun post until battalion established itself in a stronger position. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier was wounded later, but refused to go to the rear until the company was relieved.

CORPORAL FLOYD ELLIS (1210190), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of Le Selle River, October 14-16, 1918, in obtaining valuable information as a member of a night patrol and in dealing effectively with enemy snipers.

CORPORAL FRANK ELLIS (1209354), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage and skill in guiding a carrying party near Dickebusch Lake Belgium to the gun positions of his company over an area swept by shell and machine gun fire. This during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, August 30 to September 2, 1918.

CORPORAL ARMANDO ELLROY, Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying messages under heavy shell and machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOSEPH C. ESSEL (1212610), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For coolness and gallantry in action and for soldierly qualities of leadership frequently displayed in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL WALTER FAIST, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2d and 3d, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL NICHOLAS FARINA (1210523), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier, after having had his leg shot away while leading his squad against the enemy, refused to be evacuated until other members of his squad had been removed and continued to urge and encourage the men about him.

CORPORAL WILLIAM L. B. FARRELL, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action and devotion to duty throughout the night of October 8-9, 1918, in a forward observation post in a tree in the Bois de Forges, France, under heavy shell fire and gas, observing for barrage signals and reporting accurately by telephone to Battalion Headquarters.

CORPORAL CHARLES McD. FICKEISEN (1210861), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

CORPORAL WILLIAM F. FIEDLER (1204965), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated under fire during the battles and engagements in which his regiment took part in Belgium and in France.

CORPORAL NORBERT I. FILAN, Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES H. FITZGERALD (1200191), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination under heavy enemy shell fire during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL PHILIP J. FITZPATRICK (1211688), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination on September 29, 1918, during the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, this soldier was separated from his platoon in the smoke barrage. He attached himself to Company I, 107th Infantry, and advanced with them until they were greatly depleted in numbers. When the Australians, who were in support, passed through, he continued the advance with them.

CORPORAL JAMES O. FLAHERTY, Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOSEPH FLYNN (1201775), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

CORPORAL RICHARD FLYNN, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action, when as a battery agent he went through heavy shell fire and gas, carrying important orders to and from Battalion Headquarters, France, September 26 to November 11, 1918.

CORPORAL CHARLES I. FOSTER (1211437), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES L. FOTTRELL (1211470), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL ARTHUR B. FOX (1204379), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in leading a patrol which destroyed an enemy machine gun nest near a railroad embankment near St. Souplet. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL CHARLES FOX, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

CORPORAL MATTHEW S. FOX, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in rescuing the bodies of two comrades from a gun emplacement hit by an enemy shell, extinguishing the burning camouflage and arousing the remainder of the gun crew while about two hundred fuses and rounds of shell were exploding at a nearby ammunition dump.

CORPORAL LOUIS A. FRANK (1211329), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased).
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests until killed.

CORPORAL BENJAMIN A. FRANKLIN, Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and exceptional courage. During an enemy raid on the front line trenches in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, this soldier by his example, indefatigable endeavor and utter disregard for safety did much to inspire the men of his section and to strengthen their morale.

CORPORAL NELSON E. FRANKLIN (1210088), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership and daring during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. This Corporal displayed the highest soldierly qualities and was killed while leading his squad and encouraging them in the attack.

CORPORAL ALBERT W. FROEHDE (1211259), Headquarters, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and skill as a runner for Battalion Headquarters through all the battles and engagements in which the 2d Battalion participated. Although wounded on the morning of October 18, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, France (vicinity of St. Souplet), Corporal Froehde continued at his post, carrying messages and guiding parties with great determination, until the battalion was relieved on October 21, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN G. FRUIN (1209357), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership and courage while acting as a squad leader during all operations in which the battalion was engaged in Belgium and France.

CORPORAL RICHARDS C. FULTON, Company M, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in going to the assistance of a wounded comrade and aiding in carrying him a distance of about two miles under heavy enemy shell fire, after having himself been severely wounded. This near Vaux Andigny, France, October 12-13, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN F. GALVIN (1206545), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For zeal and devotion to duty during all battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

CORPORAL THOMAS F. GALWEY (1209696), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and exceptional bravery during the occupation of the village of Vaux Andigny, vicinity of St. Souplet, France, in October, 1918. This soldier remained on observation in the open during an enemy artillery bombardment, which resulted in his death.

CORPORAL MARTIN E. GANNON, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in responding to an emergency call for special ammunition and conducting an ammunition detail to the battery positions of the 2d Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell and gas concentrations.

CORPORAL CARL P. GASSER (1200967), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in voluntarily remaining on duty without rest for almost four days and in advancing with an infantry battalion from St. Souplet to Arbre Guernon on the morning of October 17, 1918, laying lines under heavy shell fire and remaining in charge of same until the morning of October 19th, when he advanced to La Jonquiere Farm in charge of a detail laying lines, remaining there until relieved on the night of October 20th.

CORPORAL JOHN J. GAST (1204380), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and efficiency displayed in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. Expecting a counter attack, this non-commissioned officer salvaged and placed in action against the enemy a German machine gun. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL THOMAS J. GERRITY (1210294), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery in carrying a wounded comrade from The Knoll to the shelter of a sunken road at the right of The Knoll while under heavy enemy shell fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL MICHAEL GETTINS (1201850), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine

gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL JOHN D. GIBBONS (1203702), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and skill in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. When his company was suddenly attacked from the rear by an enemy machine gun nest this soldier rushed his Lewis gun to a slight ridge in full view of the enemy and by the suddenness and accuracy of his fire neutralized that of the enemy detachment, thus enabling his comrades to reach positions of shelter.

CORPORAL JOHN H. GILL (1201778), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL ALFRED J. GLYNN, Company E, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination exhibited during the battle of The Knoll, Guillemont Farm, Quinumont Farm and the Hindenburg Line, France. During the advance on September 27, 1918, when several members of his squad were killed or wounded, this soldier, having become separated from his command in the heavy smoke barrage, continued in action with his detachment until the night of September 28, 1918, when he joined a company of the 105th Infantry, with which he remained during the assault of September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL CHARLES O. GOETZ (1209653), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry and exceptional bravery during the occupation of the village of Vaux Andigny, vicinity of St. Souplet, France, in October, 1918. This soldier remained on observation in the open, during an enemy artillery bombardment, which resulted in his death.

CORPORAL ROBERT GORMLEY (1203483), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage demonstrated when in command of an outpost under heavy enemy fire. This during the operation against La Jonquiere Farm, France, October 19, 1918.

CORPORAL CHARLES P. GOULD, Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK C. GRACE, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL JOHN McCLAVE GRANGER (1212111), Company M, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination exhibited near Bony, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. This Corporal, while in the act of delivering an important message to his commanding officer, had his left leg blown off at the knee by a high explosive shell. He refused assistance from his comrades and directed them to continue their assault, shouting words of encouragement to them even while being carried from the field.

CORPORAL HENRY C. GRAZIER (1210104), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line. This soldier evacuated wounded under heavy fire and on October 18, 1918, during operations near St. Souplet, France, he advanced his Lewis automatic rifle in broad daylight against hostile machine guns.

CORPORAL ADRAIN J. GROBSMITH, Company A, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For zealous and effective work as gas non-commissioned officer of his company during operations in France.

CORPORAL STEPHEN E. GRUNEWALD (1203022), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For cheerfulness, bravery and devotion to duty under heavy fire and great hardship, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, and again near St. Souplet, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN W. GUNTHER (1209860), Company B, 170th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For meritorious conduct on patrol near Ronssoy, France, September 28, 1918. This patrol succeeded in capturing an enemy machine gun and bringing it back to the position held by their company. Wounded in attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29th and killed by shell fire September 30, 1918.

CORPORAL ALBERT A. HAAG (1210077), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in laying the "jumping off" tape line and carrying rations to the front line under heavy fire.

CORPORAL LELAND B. HALL, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Germonville, France, September 25, 1918, in bringing down a German aeroplane by the fire of a machine gun with which he was guarding an ammunition dump, being later wounded himself.

CORPORAL RAYMOND B. HALLIGAN (1216553), Company C, 106th Machine Gun Battalion (Posthumous). S. O. 29

For exceptional coolness and determination in replacing his machine gun and continuing its barrage fire after the explosion of an enemy shell had upset him and the machine gun and thrown them into a trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL M. A. HART (385701), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 33

For zealous devotion to duty while serving as orderly to the Division Commander throughout the entire period of active service of the Division in Belgium and France, and for prompt and effective removal of wounded under shell fire at Division Headquarters, Busigny, France, October 13, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM A. HAYES, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, September 28, 1918, in laying telephone lines between battery and Regimental Headquarters and infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL HAROLD HELDT (1201862), Company C, 102d U. S. Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine

gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL CHARLES R. HENDERSON (1211852), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and determination in successfully driving off strong enemy attacks upon his post, although all in his squad but one had been killed or wounded. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 22, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive.

CORPORAL HERBERT DeL. HENRIQUES (1211644), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in battle. On September 29, 1918, at the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, this soldier at great risk to himself and in the face of heavy fire rushed an enemy machine gun nest which had been executing considerable damage to our flank. Although Corporal Henriques did not reach his objective, he was severely wounded and was the means through which the nest was located and subsequently put out of action.

CORPORAL ALBERT R. HENRY (1203317), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and devotion to duty. This non-commissioned officer after being wounded crawled some distance in order to deliver company records in his possession to a comrade in order to prevent the possibility of their falling into the hands of the enemy. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bellicourt Tunnel, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWARD W. HEYDE, Headquarters Company, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action near Bois Jure from October 1 to 20, 1918, when, as Telephone Corporal, he repaired telephone lines under artillery fire.

CORPORAL DREW V. HILL (1209854), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For bravery and persistent devotion to duty in attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918. While one of a detachment holding a sector of captured enemy trench, this soldier went forward to a shell-hole and assisted in carrying a wounded man, thereafter aiding in holding the position and caring for wounded.

CORPORAL DREW V. HILL (1209854), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For meritorious conduct on patrol in reconnaissance of occupied enemy trench near Vaux-Andigny, France, October 14, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM K. HOAG (1209522), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion S. O. 86

For courage and determination while Acting Corporal of a machine gun detachment in advancing his gun under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire to Doleful Post in time to participate in the machine gun barrage. This in the battle for the breaking of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWARD A. HOLMBERG, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in establishing and maintaining telephone communication from Brigade Headquarters to and in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, under shell fire, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, from September 29 to October 5, 1918.

CORPORAL LEWIS M. HOM, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and determination in the sector northeast of Brabant, France, October 30 and November 6, 1918, in constantly maintaining the regiment's liaison line under heavy fire, and direct observation by the enemy.

CORPORAL LOUIS HORN, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry and extraordinary heroism in action in the vicinity of Samogneux, France, November 2, 1918, in repairing telephone lines between Regimental Headquarters and forward infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire, although repeatedly knocked down by high explosive shells.

CORPORAL ALONZO HOULDEN (1224848), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and resourcefulness while in command of a Lewis gun squad in seizing a captured enemy machine gun and placing it in action with this Lewis gun, contributing materially to the repulse of an enemy counter attack. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL CYRUS O. HOUSE (1204331), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courageous devotion to duty in assisting in the transportation of rations to the extreme front line, resulting in his being severely wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL EARL F. HOUTALING (1209917), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 13, 1918. While a Private, acting as stretcher-bearer, he went over exposed ground to the front line shell holes to rescue men wounded by shell fire.

CORPORAL JESSE W. HOWARD, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in voluntarily repairing broken telephone wires under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL DE LAU HUGHES (1214597), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For carrying a wounded soldier under heavy fire to shelter in the rear and promptly returning to effectively engage in the attack of his company. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL CLARENCE A. HUNT (1212711), Supply Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918. This soldier, while driving a ration limber to the front line under heavy shell fire, had one of his team of mules killed by a shell. He unharnessed the dead mule and proceeded to the front with the rations in the half limber which was not destroyed.

CORPORAL WILLIAM HYDE (1215897), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in assuming command of a combat patrol after its Sergeant had been seriously wounded, and continuing to lead the attack until killed.

CORPORAL EDWARD HYNES (1206669), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42

For courage and determination demonstrated while in command of his squad until killed by enemy machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL EARL IRWIN (1200155), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

For exceptional and repeatedly bringing rations under heavy enemy fire during the battles in which the company was engaged.

CORPORAL FRANK J. IRWIN (1210102), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination during operations near Mt. Kemmel, August 17, 1918, in aiding in evacuating the wounded under heavy shell fire.

CORPORAL SAMUEL JACOBS, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great bravery and presence of mind in leading his men to a place of safety when the billets of his company were heavily shelled. In doing so he exposed himself and was severely wounded and later died. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWARD J. JACOT (1215683), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination. When company had been confused in a heavy smoke barrage and several of his superior officers had been killed, Corporal Jacot reorganized the line. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK W. JEFFERS, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, in directing the carrying of ammunition by hand a distance of 1,000 meters from a French dugout to a truck and thence proceeding to the battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire, in order to enable the 2d Battalion of the 105th Field Artillery to fire an effective barrage in support of an Infantry advance.

CORPORAL FRANK JEFFERSON (1209200), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For leadership and courage while acting as Section Sergeant during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 27-28, 1918.

CORPORAL RODNEY JEWETT, Headquarters, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service and devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, September 6 to November 5, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in carrying important messages as motorcycle courier with unusual dependability, regardless of hours, weather or traffic conditions.

CORPORAL JAMES H. JOHNSON (1210135), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For leadership, courage and determination during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918. When a surprise attack was made against him by 12 Germans, this Corporal quickly organized his squad and successfully bombed the enemy out of the trench they occupied. On the following morning he was killed while leading his squad into action.

CORPORAL PAUL LEE JOHNSON (1214770), Company G, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in assisting in mopping up about five hundred yards of enemy trench under heavy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL LEO J. KEEFE (1215939), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle, and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2d, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

CORPORAL RAYMOND E. KEEFE (1215996), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2d, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

CORPORAL JACK KARKER (1210137), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in voluntarily placing his body between a wounded man whom he was assisting and the enemy's fire. While so engaged, this Corporal was killed.

CORPORAL EDMUND W. KELLS (1210209), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. This Corporal displayed the highest soldierly qualities and was killed while leading his squad and encouraging them in the attack.

CORPORAL HAROLD L. KENNEDY (1213648), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage, determination and inspiring example in holding his Lewis gun post alone in the extreme front after all others of his detachment had been wounded or gassed.

CORPORAL JOSEPH A. KENNEDY (1211270), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 During the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, this soldier led his squad against enemy machine gun posts with conspicuous gallantry and skill. After his objective had been reached he left a shell hole of comparative safety to engage a machine gun position and was killed by a burst of machine gun bullets in this operation.

CORPORAL EDGAR T. KERIN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For devotion to duty at La Hutte, in the vicinity of La Claire Farms, France, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in performing his work as stenographer in an exposed and unsheltered position with indefatigable energy and unusual dependability.

CORPORAL RAYMOND J. KICK (1216032), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, and continued with the advance until October 2d, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

CORPORAL ALEXANDER A. KIN (1211442), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 This Corporal declined an important technical detail to duty in Paris in order to remain with his company and take part in the assault on the Hindenburg Line. With inspiring courage and leadership he commanded his men and was killed at their head September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES P. KING (1211231), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier was Acting Sergeant and led his platoon with great skill and bravery. He succeeded in penetrating the third line of enemy trenches before he was killed. His wonderful display of courage and gallantry proved an inspiration to his comrades.

CORPORAL LEON KINGSBURY (1201874), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL ARTHUR LOUIS KINKEL (1212627), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination frequently exhibited during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated. In the attack on the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, this soldier, acting as a runner, with disregard of his own safety delivered important messages under heavy machine gun and artillery fire. In the engagements beyond Le Selle River, France, October 17-20, 1918, he rendered similar service and by his coolness and devotion to duty contributed materially to the maintenance of liaison.

CORPORAL WILLIAM KINZLY, Battery F, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in November, 1918, on the Samogneux Road, between Samogneux and Cote des Roches and on November 4th, when with other men he repaired the line of communication between the battery and battalion, which had been cut off twice by a heavy enemy shell fire, during a heavy enemy bombardment.

CORPORAL JAMES M. KLAH (1210262), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action on October 18th in the vicinity of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France. He aided Sergeant Hefflin of Company B, 107th Infantry, who was badly wounded, to reach our lines from out in front of our position.

CORPORAL CHARLES KLETT (1207156), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For initiative and courage in seeking and repairing under heavy fire, a break in an important telephone line caused by enemy fire. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL LAUICHLAN T. KNIGHT, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of the Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL WILLIAM D. KNIPE (1211266), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, although severely wounded this soldier refused medical attention, but continued in action with courage and such good cheer that he proved an inspiration to the other members of his company.

CORPORAL LELAND K. KNOWLSON (1203321), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary valor and determination in laying and repairing cables under terrific bombardment, thus maintaining communication. This during the occupation of a British defensive sector in the Ypres salient, Belgium, during the month of July, 1918.

CORPORAL ANDREW C. KOPF, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on November 1 to 8, 1918, in repairing battery telephone wires under heavy enemy shell fire and maintaining runner service between battalion and battery headquarters.

CORPORAL SOLOMON KOPF, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great bravery and presence of mind in leading his men to a place of safety when the billets of his company were heavily shelled. In doing so he exposed himself and was severely wounded and later died. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL THEODORE B. KORONY (1211238), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, although wounded with enemy hand grenade refused to be evacuated but continued to lead his squad against enemy position until killed.

CORPORAL MAURICE KRANT (1210526), Company E, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and courage in volunteering to guide the tanks during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, when subjected to extremely heavy enemy fire and for devotion to duty on that date until killed.

CORPORAL OTTO G. A. KRAUSE (1203379), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire, while a member of a patrol sent out to connect with the 106th Infantry on the right. This in the attack on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

CORPORAL FREDERICK KRUGER, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL EARL L. LAIRD (1215727), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For devotion to duty and determination in the evacuation of wounded under fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28-30, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM H. LAMBERTON (1203137), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For cheerfulness, bravery and devotion to duty under heavy fire. This at the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, and near St. Souplet, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK C. LAMSON (1210807), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

CORPORAL LEO T. LANE, Battery C, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in maintaining the battery telephone lines over extremely dangerous ground during a heavy enemy bombardment, refusing needed relief in order that the few available men might be used for necessary duty elsewhere. This at Cote des Roches, France, November 4-5, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWARD T. LANGFORD (1211631), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great gallantry and determination in battle. On the night of October 17, 1918, while occupying a small house in which ten or twelve men were billeted previous to the attack on the following morning, an enemy shell demolished the house, killing or wounding ten men. This soldier, then the acting First Sergeant of the company, was buried beneath the debris. When finally dug out he immediately took command of the situation and directed the rescue of the wounded. Though badly shaken by the explosion and practically deafened, he continued with his company into the attack the following morning and was in all subsequent actions of his command.

CORPORAL TILFORD LARSEN (1206482), Company A, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For courage and inspiring example frequently demonstrated during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France. Under the heaviest fire this soldier performed all duties with greatest coolness and disregard of danger, even after being stunned by shells bursting near him. While leading his squad past Guillemont Farm on the morning of September 29th, he was killed.

CORPORAL WILLIAM V. LAWDER (1211436), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES J. LAWLOR, JR., Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Dannevoux, France. While acting as a machine gun corporal attached to infantry units, he rendered exceptional services in the performance of difficult and dangerous duties under fire.

CORPORAL JOHN C. LEEDER (1209336), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in bringing rations to the advanced positions during all operations while the company was in the front line.

CORPORAL DIEDRICH F. LEHNERT (1208515), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and determination in carrying an important message to the artillery from the front lines under heavy fire. This in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 30, 1918.

CORPORAL LAWRENCE C. LEONARD (1200116), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For skill and courage in dispersing by machine gun fire, a local enemy counter attack, this on September 27, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

CORPORAL WILLIAM T. LESLEY (1210185), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in carrying a wounded comrade a long distance under heavy fire in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 12, 1918.

CORPORAL ARTHUR J. LINDON (1210430), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by Company D on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL ALBERT LIPTAK, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of La Claire Farm, Bois de Forges and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in preparing and maintaining with great accuracy the regimental battle map under difficult and adverse conditions.

CORPORAL JAMES H. LOCKWOOD (1205542), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and marked skill while in command of his squad during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France.

CORPORAL MERRILL F. LONG (1222762), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For exceptionally meritorious and courageous service in the evacuation of wounded from forward areas during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM S. LOVE (1213041), Headquarters Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For repeated demonstration of courage and devotion to duty during the battles and engagements in which his regiment took part in Belgium and in France.

CORPORAL HENRY P. LYNCH (1204251), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL ANTHONY LYONS (1208384), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in the leadership of his squad during operations of his regiment in Flanders and in the preliminary attack on the Hindenburg Line in which latter action he was killed.

CORPORAL GEORGE MacKENZIE (1203542), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and courage demonstrated in action, when this soldier carried a wounded officer from an advanced position to the rear under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES D. MacNAUGHTON, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2, 1918, in repairing an ammunition truck under heavy enemy shell fire, and, by his initiative, resourcefulness and courage, delivering the ammunition to its destination.

CORPORAL JAMES E. McCABE, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, on October 17, 1918, in laying and maintaining a telephone line to the forward observation post north of Dannevoux, a distance of seven kilometers, under severe mustard gas and shell fire concentrations, without food or relief, enabling the maintenance of a battalion fire.

CORPORAL JOHN C. McCABE (1211271), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

CORPORAL KENNETH M. McCANN (1201080), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For bravery and devotion to duty on August 22, 1918, at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium. Although gassed, Corporal McCann remained on duty for 72 hours and before being evacuated, directed the running of a new telephone line from Company back to battalion headquarters, under heavy fire.

CORPORAL JOHN E. McCARTHY (1206016), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated in maintaining communication during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

CORPORAL ROBERT J. McCARTHY (1222949), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWARD McCaULEY (1209862), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conduct above and beyond the line of duty in attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy,

France, September 29, 1918. While Company Clerk, he asked permission to join in attack with his company and by great bravery and coolness materially assisted in overcoming the resistance met by his platoon. He was killed by enemy fire while engaged in this work.

CORPORAL RAYMOND M. McCONNACK (1209062), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44

For courageous and effective reconnaissance beyond our front lines as a member of a patrol for the purpose of locating an enemy machine gun nest, which was put out of action as a result of the information obtained. This in Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 25, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN K. McCORMICK, Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For courage and determination in effecting the capture of enemy prisoners in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918.

CORPORAL RAYMOND McCREESH, Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in successfully carrying messages to Battalion headquarters under heavy shell and machine gun fire, regardless of personal safety. This near Arbre Guernon, France, October 17-21, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN P. McCULLOUGH (1206880), Company C, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49

For gallantry and determination during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918, in approaching and cutting through enemy barbed wire under heavy machine gun fire, during which he received a wound which later resulted in his death.

CORPORAL GEORGE W. McDONALD (1206573), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and determination in effectively making a reconnaissance through fog and under heavy enemy fire in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL GRANT McDONALD (1200615), Company B, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35

For conspicuous courage and determination in successfully maintaining a machine gun position for a period of six days in the extreme front line under heavy enemy fire; this in the front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL THOMAS F. McDONOUGH (1213661), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage as a Liaison Agent in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE McGINNIS (1203635), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For bravery and heroism in action when he took command of a reconnaissance patrol, and although wounded, carried out his mission and returned to the front line with valuable information. This during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL CHARLES McGOVERN (1204472), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and skill during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918. When his company was stopped by an enemy machine gun nest, this soldier circled about and with hand grenades destroyed the nest, killing two of the enemy and capturing the remainder, thus enabling his company to advance.

CORPORAL HENRY J. McKAY (1212036), Company M, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action. This soldier sacrificed his life helping to destroy enemy machine guns on the night of September 28th, preparatory to the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France.

CORPORAL JOHN W. McKENZIE, Machine Gun Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in effectively commanding a platoon under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE McLEISH (1206103), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great personal courage and inspiring example to his comrades during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-28, 1918. This soldier having participated in the preliminary attack volunteered for duty with the Provisional Battalion. He was wounded during the advance, but refused to retire until he fell to the ground from loss of blood.

CORPORAL GERALD P. McMURRAY (1209649), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry and exceptional bravery during the occupation of the village of Vaux Andigny, vicinity of St. Souplet, France, in October, 1918. This soldier remained on observation in the open, during an enemy artillery bombardment, which resulted in his death.

CORPORAL PATRICK J. McMURROUGH, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 6, 1918, in carrying important messages between his battery and Battalion Headquarters throughout the night, and, although wounded three times, declining to be relieved.

CORPORAL CHARLES McTIERNAN (1208081), Company H, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44

For gallantry and determination in going forward between the lines and successfully carrying a wounded soldier to the rear, and then returning although suffering at the time from the effects of enemy gas.

CORPORAL JOHN A. MAGUIRE (1207108), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42

For initiative and courage in effective use of rifle grenades and for effective patrol work into enemy lines in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL FRED MAHONEY, JR., Company A, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and determination in continuing in the performance of his duty after having received a severe wound which resulted in his death. This at Dickebusch, Belgium, July 27, 1918.

CORPORAL FRED MAHONEY, JR., Company A, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action near Dickebusch, Belgium, July 27, 1918. This soldier while moving a Lewis gun from one position to another was severely wounded, but continued in the performance of his duty and gave directions concerning his gun while lying on a stretcher awaiting evacuation. He died as a result of his wound.

CORPORAL CHRISTOPHER MALONE (1211652), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. On September 28, 1918, while on combat patrol in daylight, this soldier under heavy machine gun fire, rendered valuable assistance in combat until killed.

CORPORAL WILLIAM C. MARTENS (1209236), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For courage and determination as platoon runner in carrying messages under heavy fire in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, and at Jonc de Mer Farm, October 19-20, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE M. MARTIN (1210310), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and skill in operating a Lewis gun and holding an advanced machine gun post at Vaux Andigny, France, October 14, 1918, under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire, the position being highly illuminated by the burning of surrounding buildings.

CORPORAL AUGUST MAUER, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage in carrying rations to his company in the front line under heavy machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France. September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL HAROLD E. MAXON (1211490), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL CLYDE S. MEAD (1215881), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry and soldierly qualities delivered during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, while under heavy shell fire at Duncan Post.

CORPORAL HOWARD J. MEMMER, Battery D, 105th Field Battery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 17, 1918, in serving the guns of his battery during heavy enemy shelling and gas concentrations and carrying ammunition under fire without regard to personal risk.

CORPORAL GEORGE I. MESSINGER (1209536), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and determination in successfully operating his machine gun under heavy enemy shell fire and maintaining a steady fire against the enemy. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-29, 1918.

CORPORAL HERBERT B. MEYERS (1207279), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42

For courageous and effective work with a Lewis gun in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANCIS G. MILLER (1210688), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For repeated acts of courage, gallantry and determination in operating his machine gun against the enemy under heavy shell and machine gun fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 29th and during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918.

CORPORAL RUSSEL D. MILLER (1211559), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL CLARENCE T. MITCHELL (1215424), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage, initiative and determination in assuming command of his platoon after the platoon commander and all Sergeants had become casualties, and in effectively leading the platoon in battle for the two succeeding days; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-October 3, 1918.

CORPORAL RICHARD MOELLER (1206043), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and skill in maintaining liaison between 37 mm. gun sections of his regiment during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918, and in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM S. MONAGHAN, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and coolness under heavy fire, continuously displayed east of Ronsoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN D. MONELL, Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional gallantry and determination in action against the enemy at Mount Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This soldier, although severely wounded, refused evacuation and continued the fire of his machine gun until compelled by his Commanding Officer to go to the rear.

CORPORAL WALTER MONSEES (1209711), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and fearlessness in volunteering and repeatedly carrying wounded from an open field to the dressing station through intense enemy machine gun and artillery fire. This during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN J. MORAN (1211212), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests. He later died as a result of wounds received in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL LENNIE J. MOSCOW (1210233), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. While acting as advance scout for his platoon, this Corporal rushed an enemy trench and at the point of his rifle, captured 12 of the enemy.

CORPORAL WILLIAM F. MOSES (1215952), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage and determination while a member of the Intelligence Section of his regiment, including reconnaissance to the extreme front; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWARD H. MURPHY (1210448), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional leadership in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 15, 16 and 17, 1918, conducting many ration and working parties to and from the front lines in a most courageous and fearless manner.

CORPORAL EDWARD J. MURPHY (1204397), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated in battle. This soldier, after being wounded, during the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, remained in charge of his squad until ordered to the rear to have his wounds dressed.

CORPORAL JOHN P. MURPHY (1210234), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in voluntarily leaving shelter and advancing under heavy fire to carry his wounded brother back to a place of safety.

CORPORAL RICHARD W. MURRAY (1210355), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For repeated demonstrations of courage, leadership and determination during the battle of Le

Selle River, October 17, 1918, while in charge of scouting patrols, in caring for the wounded under heavy shell fire.

CORPORAL ALOIZY NAGOWSKI (1215123), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For coolness and courage in rendering first aid under heavy shell fire and until badly wounded; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES P. NEARY (1204740), Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry, determination and devotion to duty near Scottish Wood, Belgium, on August 31, 1918. This soldier, although wounded early in the action, refused medical attention and continued with his platoon to the objective until it was relieved the next morning.

CORPORAL JOHN NEISEL (1210099), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in successfully leading a platoon to the attack after his superiors had been either killed or wounded.

CORPORAL JOHN B. NOONE, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2d and 3d, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL MATTHEW J. O'BREIN, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in displaying exceptional bravery and faithfulness to duty during heavy enemy gas attacks on his battery position.

CORPORAL JAMES L. O'BRIEN, JR. (1209488), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For gallantry in successfully assisting in the removal of a wounded soldier from a burning shelter alongside an ammunition dump then in flames. This in the vicinity of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, September 1st, all under heavy enemy fire.

CORPORAL JAMES L. O'BRIEN, JR. (1209488), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, determination and qualities of leadership in successfully directing the fire of his machine gun under heavy enemy shell fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN J. O'CONNELL, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in voluntarily repairing broken telephone wires under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL JOHN J. O'DONNELL (1211374), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and marked qualities of leadership during the operations of Le Selle River, France, October 18, 1918. Although suffering from gas this soldier refused evacuation and continued in action, successfully putting out of action an enemy machine gun and capturing twenty-four men.

CORPORAL JOHN A. O'HEA (1203223), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination. While badly gassed, he followed his unit until wounded by shrapnel. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE O'NEIL (1210910), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

CORPORAL HARVEY M. OAKS (2222709), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and gallantry in carrying his badly wounded Sergeant from an exposed position to a place of shelter, although he himself was wounded. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL ELMO E. OATHOUT (1203410), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in securing the evacuation of wounded comrades under heavy artillery fire. This in the vicinity of Guillemont Farm, September 27, 1918, during the attack of his regiment against the outer works of the Hindenburg Line.

CORPORAL GEORGE H. OLDHAUSEN (1203327), Company A, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For courage and determination under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire while a member of a patrol sent out to connect with the 106th Infantry on the right. This in the attack on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

CORPORAL CARNEY OLES (1201802), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in Engineering and Water Reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

CORPORAL CARNEY OLES (1201802), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

CORPORAL HAROLD E. OLSON, Signal Platoon, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
For voluntarily running a telephone line from Regimental Headquarters to the Regimental forward Command Post in the battle of September 29, 1918, near Guillemont Farm, France, having to pass through a heavy artillery and machine gun fire. Again in action east of St. Souplet, France, October 18, 1918, Corporal Olson displayed great personal bravery in the face of the enemy shelling and, although suffering from exposure to gas, remained at work until relieved October 22, 1918, when it was necessary to send him to a hospital.

CORPORAL PHILIP OSMERS (1201895), Company C, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL CLEMENCE L. PAGE (1210999), Company G, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
For courage and determination in making personal reconnaissance in advance of his company during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, and for courage frequently demonstrated until killed near Arbre Guernon, France, during the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL JOSEPH P. PALMER (1211569), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWIN E. PAUL (1212002), Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronssoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. When his commanding officer fell wounded and a tank was about to run over him, this soldier, under intense machine gun fire and at the risk of his own life, rushed to the officer and with the assistance of one other man dragged him out of the way of the tank. Later he was seriously wounded, but went to the assistance of his Corporal, who was wounded and, while in the act of bandaging the Corporal's leg, was struck by a shell fragment and instantly killed.

CORPORAL WILLIAM O. PEARSON, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in repeatedly repairing broken telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire, although his clothing was torn by shell splinters.

CORPORAL R. J. PELLINGTON (1211493), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL HOWARD E. PETERSON (1203505), Company B, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and skill demonstrated while in command of a patrol making a reconnaissance. He came upon an enemy machine gun post and, although outnumbered, succeeded in destroying the nest and taking prisoners. He was later killed in a similar exploit. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL THEODORE C. PHELPS (1210149), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 21, 1918, in successfully delivering a needed message under heavy fire at a time when he was suffering from gas.

CORPORAL RALPH PHILLIPS (1201901), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL JAMES L. POTTRELL (1211470), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM PRESCOTT (1203558), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional heroism in the evacuation of wounded under extremely heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL THOMAS C. PRESS, Jr., Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in voluntarily carrying important messages between Regimental Headquarters and advanced infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire. This on November 3, 1918.

CORPORAL ALFRED G. PRESTON, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in responding to an emergency call for special ammunition and conducting an ammunition detail to the battery positions of the 2d Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell and gas concentrations.

CORPORAL MILTON R. PULFORD (2671654), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage and determination in evacuating wounded under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANCIS PUTZ (1205248), Company K, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determined leadership of his Lewis gun squad in covering the consolidation of units of his regiment during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, northwest of Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918. This soldier was compelled during this time to expose himself to enemy machine gun and sniper fire and was killed in the performance of this gallant act.

CORPORAL EDWIN L. RADER (1211144), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For great gallantry in rescuing wounded comrades under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL MYRON A. RAESLER (1215879), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 Killed in action at Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, while attempting to find cover for his squad of men. This action on the part of Corporal Raesler cost him his own life, but saved the lives of his companions.

CORPORAL WILLIAM D. RAIL (1215502), Company I, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying messages under fire in the vicinity of Le Selle River, France, October 10-15, 1918.

CORPORAL CHARLES A. RANCIER (1216072), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For coolness, determination and skilled marksmanship, in crawling to an exposed position and effectively sniping the enemy. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

CORPORAL OLIVER O. RANF (1215893), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

CORPORAL LOUIS E. RATCHICK (2671553), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded over an area swept by shell and machine gun fire in the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL ROBERT S. RAVEN (1211647), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 On September 28, 1918, while occupying trenches prior to the attack upon the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, east of Ronssoy, France, this soldier went out with a patrol to find and develop strength of enemy machine guns. Work was well and fearlessly done under heavy fire and the information required was sent back to Battalion Headquarters shortly before he was killed.

CORPORAL CECIL R. REDNER, Company G, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in installing signal lines and maintaining communication under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL ALFRED A. REEVES (1210064), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage and determination in assuming an advanced position for his Lewis gun and with its fire enabling troops of his platoon to reorganize, continuing in this work even after being severely wounded. This in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK REILLY, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action and devotion to duty, when he remained on duty throughout the night of October 8 and 9, 1918, in a forward observation post in a tree in the Bois de Forges, France, under heavy shell fire and gas, observing for barrage signals and reporting accurately by telephone to Battalion Headquarters.

CORPORAL HAROLD V. REILLY (1208721), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier, in an endeavor to aid a wounded comrade, left shelter and ran through an area swept by enemy machine gun fire, being himself severely wounded in the attempt.

CORPORAL HAROLD V. REILLY (1208721), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918. This soldier in company with three others volunteered to bring up water and rations to the men of his company, then in an exposed position at the extreme front. This was successfully accomplished in daylight under intensive enemy fire.

CORPORAL GERALD T. RICE (1211626), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, this soldier displayed unusual leadership and courage in the face of severe enemy machine gun fire and was killed going forward.

CORPORAL RAYMOND J. RICK (1216032), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, and continued with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

CORPORAL FRANK G. RILEY (1206589), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill while serving as guide and runner for his company during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 26 and 27, 1918, and in conducting a British tank to its objective.

CORPORAL ROSSARIO RIZZOTTO, Headquarters, Motor Battalion, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For untiring devotion to duty, courage and coolness during active service in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, September 6 to November 11, 1918.

CORPORAL KENNETH E. ROBB, Company A, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination exhibited when an enemy shell dismantled his machine gun. Corporal Robb promptly repaired and remounted the gun under heavy enemy fire. This on the night of August 13, 1918, in the vicinity of Mount Kemmel, Belgium.

CORPORAL MARTIN H. ROBERTS (1210995), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and devotion to duty during the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918. This soldier was later wounded in that battle, and having been ordered to the rear received another wound.

CORPORAL THEIS ROBERTS (1209662), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For disregard to danger in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight, and this soldier covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

CORPORAL JAMES ROBINSON (405138), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

CORPORAL FRED G. RODE, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in reorganizing a platoon of his company after being wounded and leading it forward to a position which he held until relieved. This near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL CARL ROEDELSPERGER (1209661), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and inspiring leadership. During an enemy attack on the front line trenches in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, this soldier by coolness and fortitude greatly strengthened the morale of his organization. He was killed during this action.

CORPORAL CONSTANTINE C. ROEDER (1210024), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious conduct in attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. While serving as Company Signaller, this soldier joined the line as a rifleman when the attacking force was reduced in numbers by heavy casualties and later was one of a detachment holding a sector of captured enemy trench for twenty-four hours until relieved.

CORPORAL JOHN E. ROLAND (1222899), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWIN RONK (1211495), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL TONEY ROTOLLO (1208408), Company L, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in voluntarily leaving his position to locate the source of intense enemy machine gun fire, which was holding up the advance of his platoon, during the performance of which act he was killed. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

CORPORAL AMBLER C. ROWLAND (1205403), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and marked skill while in command of his squad during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France.

CORPORAL GUY ANGUS RUSSEL (1213646), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty in voluntarily removing from exposed positions and in the face of hostile artillery and machine gun fire, wounded comrades of his organization. This on the night of September 29, 1918, in the vicinity of St. Quentin Canal, France, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line.

CORPORAL GEORGE P. RYAN (1205035), Company I, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry and conspicuous efficiency. This soldier on the night of August 31, 1918, near the Brasserie in front of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, located in a small enemy machine gun post and by carefully planning the attack succeeded with the assistance of the balance of the squad in dislodging the gun and gaining the position, which eventually resulted in establishing the entire line for his company. This act and other soldierly qualities later gained for him the recommendation of his Commanding Officer as a candidate for a commission at the Officers Training School, and but for his death in action September 29, 1918, would have been appointed to attend the school.

CORPORAL CLIFFORD W. SAMPSON, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Ormont Hill, France, October 28, 1918, in reconnoitering enemy front line positions under heavy enemy shell fire October 28, 1918.

CORPORAL ALBERT H. SANTELL, Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty, when, under heavy shell fire, he constructed emergency machine gun position during the night of August 9, 1918, at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium.

CORPORAL IRVING SAVAGE (1211389), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier exhibited exceptional skill and bravery in leading his squad against an enemy machine gun nest that was holding up the left flank of his platoon. Although the rest of his squad were either killed or wounded and he himself suffering from wounds in his hand and hip, he continued to advance against the position until put out of action.

CORPORAL ALBERT H. SAWTELL, Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty, when, under heavy shell fire, he constructed emergency machine gun position during the night of August 9, 1918, at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium.

CORPORAL HENRY L. SCANNELL (1211654), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For courage and determination in battle. On September 29, while on patrol, sent out to ascertain the position of enemy machine guns, was mortally wounded. This patrol suffered heavy casualties and the number of stretchers available was inadequate. This soldier, realizing that he was mortally wounded, begged that the stretchers be used for men with slighter wounds. He died shortly after.

CORPORAL CLARENCE SCHNEIDER (1206125), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated in maintaining communication during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

CORPORAL JAMES A. SCHNEIDER (1209805), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and exceptional bravery during the occupation of the village of Vaux Andigny, vicinity of St. Souplet, France, in October, 1918. This soldier remained on observation in the open during an enemy artillery bombardment, which resulted in the loss of his leg.

CORPORAL GEORGE O. SCHOONOVER, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Ravin du Rapilleux and Le Mort Homme, France, September and October, 1918, in serving as a runner between Battalion Headquarters and battery positions under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire.

CORPORAL EDWIN S. SCHRIENER (1215888), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. After his Platoon Sergeant had been killed, this Corporal took command and accomplished splendid results in wiping out enemy snipers and machine gun nests.

CORPORAL GEORGE E. SCHUESSLER, Company M, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great courage and resourcefulness while in command of a Lewis gun squad, in seizing a captured enemy machine gun and placing it in action with great gallantry, repelling an enemy counter attack. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL NICHOLAS SCHULTES (1211448), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE E. SEARLES (1200998), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
For exceptional bravery in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, while serving with the 107th Infantry near Guillemont Farm. Corporal Searles displayed similar characteristics in every action in which he participated.

CORPORAL FRANK SEMRAD, Jr. (1206112), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
For voluntarily running a telephone line from Regimental Headquarters to Regimental Advance Post of Command in the face of enemy counter attack barrage, which had destroyed for the time being all telephone communication from the advance station, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. Corporal Semrad voluntarily went outside of the requirements of his orders without waiting for instructions and successfully established communication.

CORPORAL ISADORE SENTER, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For exceptional courage in volunteering to carry a message from the company commander to platoon leader under heavy machine gun fire. He was killed while in the performance of this act. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 30 to September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL CLARENCE P. SEPTZ (1214317), Company E, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
For courage and inspiring example in the attack on an enemy machine gun post during which he was killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN J. SHARPE (1204088), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company, numbering in all 28 men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL PERCIVAL SHAW (1205255), Company K, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determined leadership of his squad during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, August 31, 1918. This soldier advanced with his machine gun squad under heavy machine gun and artillery fire to a position which enabled him to cover a large gap which had been left open between units of the 27th and 30th Divisions.

CORPORAL MARTIN N. SHEEHAN (1209494), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

For courage and determination in rescuing wounded soldiers from a burning shelter, which rescue involved great danger from a burning small arms ammunition dump which had been set aflame by enemy shell fire. This in the vicinity of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, on September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL MORRIS SHERMAN (1200274), Company D, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 42

For gallantry and devotion to duty in voluntarily leaving shelter to collect wounded under heavy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE F. SHORT (1211438), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOSEPH SILEO (1208318), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional gallantry and determination in voluntarily leaving his position to locate the source of intense enemy machine gun fire which was holding up the advance of his platoon, during the performance of which act he was wounded. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

CORPORAL HOWARD SLAWSON, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in handling his squad while under heavy shell fire. He was killed while leading his men to a place of safety. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL CHARLES SMITH (1201918), Company G, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

CORPORAL GEORGE H. SMITH (1203250), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great coolness and bravery under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN B. SMITH (1211006), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy shell fire during operations in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918, and during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918. His apparent disregard for personal safety was an inspiring example for all.

CORPORAL ARTHUR B. SORRENSEN, Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in rescuing with the assistance of two comrades a brother soldier who had been seriously wounded in a listening post beyond the front line trench, the rescue being made under heavy enemy machine gun, rifle grenade and trench mortar fire. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 20, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWIN D. SPERRY (1210157), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For leadership and courage during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, in commanding a patrol under heavy fire.

CORPORAL EDWARD J. STACK, (1211595), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL SYLVESTER B. STACK (1214385), Company E, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39

For courage and inspiring example in the attack on an enemy machine gun post during which he was killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANCIS S. STAHL (1204150), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL EDWIN STANDRING (1210251), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry and exceptional devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in continuing to effectively fire his Lewis gun, when almost surrounded by superior numbers of the enemy and remaining at his post until killed.

CORPORAL JAMES STEOAT, Company C, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in successfully completing a reconnaissance under a continuous enemy bombardment. This near Germonville, France, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL MAX W. STICKER, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in voluntarily carrying important messages between Regimental Headquarters and advanced infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL JOHN F. STIER (1205473), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and marked skill while in command of his squad during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France.

CORPORAL NORMAN D. STONE (1215969), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

CORPORAL MAURICE STURGES (1210763), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

CORPORAL RICHARD M. SULZER (1209579), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in delivering messages under heavy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL RICHARD M. SULZER (1209579), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For exceptional efficiency and courageous service as signalman of his battalion during operations in Belgium, August 22-September 3, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN A. SWAN (1211007), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in refusing to be evacuated and continuing with the attack of his company after being wounded, until ordered to the rear. This in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL ALWIN SWENSON (1208749), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and determination while commanding a Lewis gun squad of his company in occupying and successfully holding against counter attacks an important position in the line, although he himself was seriously wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN G. TAYLOR (1210931), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and coolness in operating his Lewis gun in the vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918, until struck by a shell which both wounded and gassed him, from the effects of which he died the following day.

CORPORAL JOHN E. TEVLIN (1203271), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and determination in performance of his duties, particularly in carrying ammunition forward to Arbre Guernon, during the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL ARTHUR R. THERON, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the care and evacuation of wounded during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, and the forcing of Le Selle River from September 27 to October 20, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANCIS W. THOM (1209819), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and fearlessness in volunteering and repeatedly carrying wounded from an open field to the dressing station through intense enemy machine gun and artillery fire. This during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL FRED G. THURBER (1211651), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination displayed on daylight patrol October 19, 1918, near Jonc de Mer Ridge, France. This soldier gave his life by staying to fight off superior numbers of the enemy while his comrade, Private Cook, returned to the company with the required information which they had gained.

CORPORAL HENRY T. TIBERG, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing and maintaining telephone communication from Brigade Headquarters to and in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, under shell fire, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, from September 29 to October 5, 1918.

CORPORAL HENRY T. TIBERG, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in maintaining an intermediate telephone central and the lines extending therefrom, at Samogneux, France, under heavy shell fire and adverse conditions during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in Meuse-Argonne Offensive, on October 28 to November 5, 1918.

CORPORAL HENRY T. TIBERG, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing an advance telephone central at Mollville Farm in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, November 6, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN W. TIERNEY (1209342), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage and determination as well as soldierly example in the battle of Le Selle River, France, on October 17, 1918, in refusing to be evacuated and remaining on duty with his company after he had been wounded.

CORPORAL FRANK W. S. TILTON (1209830), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For disregard to danger in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight and this soldier covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

CORPORAL TRUMAN C. TOBEY (1210752), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and coolness in action during attack in vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier commanded a Lewis gun squad and until killed operated his gun with great effectiveness.

CORPORAL FERMON R. TOMPKINS (1210603), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 While a Private, First Class, acting as Corporal in charge of a gun squad on October 16-17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, for exceptional gallantry and inspiring qualities of leadership maintained until wounded.

CORPORAL JAMES J. TOOLE (1216099), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For great courage in attacking enemy machine gun nests until killed in action; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK TURNER, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in the repairing broken telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL W. F. TURSCHMID (1205039), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty as Company Clerk. On August 23, 1918, in the vicinity of Scottish Wood near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, this soldier assisted in the removal of wounded and preserved the company records from destruction when shell fire resulted in casualties and destruction of a part of company headquarters.

CORPORAL BUCHANAN TYSON (1211656), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and gallantry in successfully conducting a patrol in the early dawn of September 28, 1918, whose difficult mission was to locate and silence enemy machine gun nests east of Duncan Post near Guillemont Farm, France, and as a result was seriously wounded.

CORPORAL ALBERT A. URGAN (1213727), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination in the evacuation of civilians in the village of St. Souplet, France, during enemy bombardment, October 14-17, 1918.

CORPORAL VICTOR J. VALLES (1211723), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle on September 28, 1918, near Ronssoy, France. While on combat patrol in daylight this soldier rendered valuable assistance in the face of heavy machine gun fire and was severely wounded.

CORPORAL CHARLES VANECEK (1203669), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary bravery in action during the attack on St. Martin River, October 17, 1918, when as a private, unassisted and alone, this soldier entered a house occupied by the enemy and successfully cleared the same.

CORPORAL JOSEPH E. VAN CURA, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 metres from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL ELMER E. VAN ETTEN, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in repeatedly repairing broken telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire although his clothing was torn by shell splinters, until finally seriously wounded.

CORPORAL NICHOLAS VAN PEER (1211455), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in action. This soldier, a Lewis gunner, after being painfully wounded, continued to advance and assist in the operation of his gun. He also efficiently aided in breaking up enemy counter attack with grenades and Lewis gun.

CORPORAL LEWIS S. VAN WAGENER, Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and exceptional courage. During an enemy raid on the front line trenches in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, this soldier by his example, indefatigable endeavor, and utter disregard for safety, did much to inspire the men of his section and to strengthen their morale.

CORPORAL ALBERT VAN ZANDT (1211291), 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

CORPORAL FRED W. VOGELL, JR. (1210257), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, when, with two other soldiers, he successfully held a trench against repeated attacks by superior numbers of the enemy, by effective use of his Lewis automatic rifle.

CORPORAL JEROME D. VOLK (1211646), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier with seven of his comrades, having advanced to a position about fifty yards from the main German trench, in front of the Canal, withstood the counter attack of the enemy who were in great numbers, refusing to surrender until all ammunition was expended, when he was surrounded and captured after having been severely wounded.

CORPORAL EDWARD F. WALDEN (1200937), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For courage and devotion to duty in continuing at his work after being gassed in action with the 3d Battalion, 106th Infantry, while attacking the enemy at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANCIS V. WALLACE, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bois des Forges, France, in moving forward with the advancing infantry lines in attack under heavy artillery and infantry fire, and furnishing valuable information of enemy positions. This on September 26, 1918.

CORPORAL LEONARD L. WALLACE, Battery F, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in November, 1918, on the Samogneux Road, between Samogneux and Cote des Roches and on November 4 when with other men he repaired the line of communication between the battery battalion which had been cut off twice by a heavy enemy shell fire during a heavy enemy bombardment.

CORPORAL JOHN R. WALSH (1204185), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For devotion to duty while acting as a runner near St. Souplet, France, continually passing through areas under heavy enemy fire. This soldier volunteered for this work with full knowledge of the face of other runners of this company. This during the battles of Le Selle River, October 17, and Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM M. WALTHER, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in voluntarily carrying important messages between regimental headquarters and advanced infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL THOMAS PATRICK WARD (1217970), Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 33
 For gallantry and determination while serving as a member of a liaison detail near Forges, France, September 26, 1918.

CORPORAL WILLIAM WARD, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 8, 1918, in laying telephone wires between battalion and regimental headquarters for 250 meters under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

CORPORAL GEORGE WARREN, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in voluntarily repairing broken telephone wires under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL WILLIAM T. WARREN, Headquarters Detachment, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty while acting as a Division Observer and carrying important messages from the observation post to Headquarters, 107th Infantry, under heavy fire. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 28-29, 1918.

CORPORAL FRANK A. WATERS (1211649), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier with seven of his comrades having advanced to a position about fifty yards from the main German trench in front of the canal, withstood the counter attack of the enemy who were in great numbers, refusing to surrender until all ammunition was expended, when they were surrounded and captured.

CORPORAL CHARLES T. WEBER (1208936), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For courage and determination in establishing liaison between his company and the unit on the right. This during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

CORPORAL SYLVESTER M. WEEKS (1209375), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty while acting as a runner in conducting ration parties to advanced positions under heavy fire during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 27 to 29, 1918.

CORPORAL SAMUEL WEINSTEIN (1212658), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 42
For courage and determination in maintaining an advanced machine gun post during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL JOHN J. WEIR, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 metres from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

CORPORAL ALFRED A. WELCH (1210163), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in continuing to use his rifle effectively against the enemy after he had been wounded in the right arm.

CORPORAL ALBERT A. WETMORE, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in handling his squad while under heavy shell fire. He was killed while leading his men to a place of safety. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

CORPORAL ARTHUR N. WIEDERMAN (1212504), Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918. This soldier with an inspiring disregard for his own safety, continually exposed himself to enemy machine gun and grenade fire in the action at Willow Trench and aided in bringing in the wounded crew of a disabled tank.

CORPORAL ROLAND WIGGINS (1209826), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional fearlessness and courage in searching for the wounded under enemy observation and fire. This in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918.

CORPORAL RUSSEL WILCOX (1746166), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL ALBERT D. WILLIAMS, 107th Ambulance Company. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in aiding in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL BAILEY WILLIAMS (1200238), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
For gallantly continuing at his post after being wounded in the head, this on October 17, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, France.

CORPORAL JAMES G. WILLS (1215975), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in delivering important operative messages under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

CORPORAL GEORGE W. WINSLOW (1211503), Company I, 107th Infantry. (Killed in action October 1, 1918.) S. O. 31
For courage and determination in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. During the battle this non-commissioned officer displayed coolness and qualities of leadership in organizing and directing groups of men in a heavy smoke barrage, continuing in action after being wounded in the wrist, and until killed.

CORPORAL HERBERT L. WINSLOW, Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry, determination and skilled leadership in repulsing an enemy counter attack in the vicinity of Dickebusch, Belgium, August 12, 1918. Although British detachments about him retired, this soldier held his position and was killed in a second attack on his post.

CORPORAL WALLACE J. WOODWARD (1204414), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and determination in the evacuation of wounded until exhausted. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL RAYMOND L. WORDEMANN, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry while serving with the 124th British Infantry Brigade at the Scherpenberg-Ypres salient, Belgium, on July 31, 1918, this soldier voluntarily attempted to pass through a heavy enemy fire in an effort to supply batteries urgently needed for the operation of telephones. Although mortally wounded, he insisted that other wounded soldiers brought to the dressing station after his arrival, should be treated before himself. His actions marked him as a soldier of the highest type of courage and fortitude.

CORPORAL EDGAR W. WORMELL, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, from October 30 to November 11, 1918, in carrying messages to forward infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

CORPORAL KENNETH WOTHERSPOON (1211295), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line east of Ronsoy on September 29, 1918, this soldier although severely wounded at 6:30 in the morning continued in action with conspicuous gallantry and bravery until 1 P. M. that same day. During this period this soldier was successful in putting out of action two enemy machine gun nests, one of them single handed.

CORPORAL CHARLES W. YETTO (1203283), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty in collecting men who were lost in the smoke barrage and advancing with them against enemy machine gun nests. This in the vicinity of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

CORPORAL JOSEPH B. ZINKARD, Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For most extraordinary courage and inspiring example in immediately taking over command of a machine gun when his brother was killed and effectively firing the gun against the enemy. This during the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

HORSESHOER PHILIP P. GREY, Company B, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
For exceptionally meritorious service and devotion to duty in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, July 22, 1918.

HORSESHOER CLAUDE SNYDER (1212673), Supply Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and determination in acting as a mounted guide for the transport of his battalion under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

MUSICIAN WALTER BOYLING (1206107), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

MUSICIAN JOSEPH CURRAN (1208059), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

MUSICIAN CHARLES EHRENGART (1206114), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

MUSICIAN MARTIN LENNON (1206118), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

BUGLER GORDON M. BABCOCK (1207132), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
For courage and determination under fire in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

BUGLER JAMES M. BURKHART (1215457), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and determination in carrying messages under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, and in the vicinity of Le Selle River, October 10-15, 1918.

BUGLER JOHN R. CONNOR (1210318), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery at Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, in the face of severe enemy shell fire, helping to carry in Sergeant Hefin, who had been fatally wounded, to the forward dressing station.

BUGLER EDWARD J. DOLAN (1203298), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty while serving as a company runner during the engagements of his command, more particularly on September 27, 1918, for the attack of his battalion on The Knoll, near the St. Quentin Canal, France.

BUGLER WARD B. GEDNEY, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
For gallantry while operating a signal corps buzzer in an exposed position east of Mic Mac Farm, Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 27, 1918, and subsequently on September 27, 1918, while advancing with the attacking wave against the outer works of the Hindenburg Line, he received two bullet wounds in the head during the early stage of the attack; later, about 7 A. M. he was again shot through the stomach and thigh and lay unconscious in an advanced shell hole until rescued by the enemy and confined in German prison hospital until December 8, 1918.

BUGLER HENRY GEIGERICH, Battery E, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Consenvoye, Brabant and Etrave, France, in carrying important messages between Battalion and Regimental Headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire. This from September 9 to November 11, 1918.

BUGLER WALTER N. HAMILTON, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2d and 3d, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

BUGLER CLAUDE JOHNSON, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

BUGLER PATSY LAMANNA (238034), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than 1,000 yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

BUGLER JOHN F. O'HEIR, Battery E, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Consenvoye, Brabant and Etrave, France, September 9 to November 11, 1918, in carrying important messages between Battalion and Regimental Headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire.

BUGLER DAVID O. OLSON (1215913), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty during the battle of Le Selle River, in carrying messages under heavy machine gun fire until completely exhausted from wounds.

BUGLER THEODORE L. SAMUELS, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de Lemont, France, on October 2, 1918, in accompanying his Battalion Commander under heavy enemy shell fire during the attack on the Cote de Lemont without regard to personal risk and resulting in his receiving a serious wound.

COOK LE GRAND J. BARRELL (1215915), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in carrying rations to forward positions under fire during active operations of his regiment in France and Belgium.

COOK ROBERT T. COOPER (1210776), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in action during attack in vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918. Cook Cooper pleaded with his commanding officer to be relieved of his work in the kitchen, so that he might take part in the attack. He was struck by a machine gun bullet and his last message as his companions went on was "Tell the boys I died fighting."

COOK HARRY C. HARTER (1215911), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying rations to forward positions under fire during active operations of his regiment in France and Belgium.

COOK DANIEL HOHENRATH, JR., Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination during the battle of Le Selle River, October 16, 1918, in voluntarily taking a hot meal to a company in a forward position over an area continually under shell fire.

COOK FRANK HOWARD (1208942), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and zeal in applying for leave to accompany his unit in the main attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, after the regiment had suffered heavy casualties during the two preceding days, and in accompanying his unit during the battle.

COOK JOHN F. KENNY, 102d Trench Mortar Battery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of the Bois de Jure, near Dannevaux, France, October 14 to 21, 1918, in maintaining an uninterrupted supply of hot rations to the gun positions under enemy shell fire and gas concentrations, during which his field range was partially wrecked by a shell.

COOK JAMES R. MADILL (1210106), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in voluntarily carrying a hot meal to his company over an area continually under hostile shell fire.

COOK PETER MANNS (1209780), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

COOK HURD MILLER (1215054), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying rations to forward positions under fire during active operations of his regiment in France and Belgium.

COOK ARNOLD J. PACHE, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in maintaining his battery kitchen in an advanced position under heavy enemy artillery fire and, when the kitchen was destroyed by shell fire, by great initiative and resourcefulness re-establishing it and preparing and serving adequate meals for his detachment. This on October 31, 1918.

COOK EDWARD J. RAMSAY (1215912), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying rations to forward positions under fire during active operations of his regiment in France and Belgium.

COOK BERNARD ROGERS (2670260), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For devotion to duty and resourcefulness repeatedly demonstrated, including service as a gunner in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

COOK EDWARD ZETTLER (1209116), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and zeal in applying for leave to accompany his unit in the main attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, after the regiment had suffered heavy casualties during the two preceding days, and in accompanying his unit during battle.

MECHANIC GEORGE F. AMMERMAN (1211236), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed chiefly of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

MECHANIC MAURICE F. BALLAENGER, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2d and 3d, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

MECHANIC FRANK A. BIDWELL (1203296), Company A, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in carrying a message to company headquarters through heavy machine gun fire. This on October 16, 1918, in the vicinity of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France.

MECHANIC ELMER M. BLEKELEY (1215452), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For gallantry and inspiring example in remaining in charge of his Lewis gun in an exposed position after being shot through the leg and hand; this in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

MECHANIC MELVIN CAMPBELL (1203954), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination exhibited in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. About seven o'clock in the morning this soldier was wounded in the leg and directed to go to the rear, but insisted on remaining in action with his battalion until about noon when he collapsed and was evacuated.

MECHANIC RAYMOND F. CANFIELD (1215700), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courageous and effective evacuation of wounded under fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

MECHANIC ALBERT L. CHINDGREN (1214417), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage beyond the call of duty in voluntarily evacuating wounded under heavy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

MECHANIC CHARLES CHITUK (1208271), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and aggressiveness demonstrated in battle both in Belgium and in France.

MECHANIC FRANCIS T. COPELAND, Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in advancing under heavy fire to rescue a wounded comrade.

MECHANIC WILLIAM F. DECKELMAN (1204372), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in aiding in the destruction of enemy machine gun nests. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918.

MECHANIC NOEL DUPRA (1211662), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine

gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

MECHANIC EDWARD J. DURNEY (1200142), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
For gallantly evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire. This on October 17, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, France.

MECHANIC ROBERT B. FARRELL (1209693), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For disregard to danger in successively advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight and this soldier covered a distance of about 800 yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

MECHANIC JOSEPH GORDON (1204789), Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and courage in connection with the evacuation of wounded at the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge.

MECHANIC CHARLES L. JACOBI (1210772), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

MECHANIC JENS A. JENSEN (1206680), Company B, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
For courage and effective use of a Lewis gun until killed by hostile machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

MECHANIC WILLIAM F. KENNEDY (1211237), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and determination in voluntarily clearing from in front of his company sector a mass of high grass, under heavy enemy machine gun and trench mortar fire. This in the Dickebusch sector in front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, July 11, 1918.

MECHANIC JAMES F. KEITH, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bras, France, on October 17, 1918, in moving the guns of his battery out of position by hand over a distance of 200 yards during an attack of enemy shrapnel fire, displaying exceptional bravery, and by his example helping up the morale of the men of his detachment.

MECHANIC FRANK H. KUNZ (1215100), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For coolness and determination while serving as a company runner until gassed; this near St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

MECHANIC JOSEPH A. LYNDAKER (1210312), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918, in crawling out in front of The Knoll, to carry in Private Petrie (1210359), who had been wounded.

MECHANIC ROBERT P. MAGUIRE (1204995), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty; on September 1, 1918, while stationed at Battalion Headquarters in the vicinity of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, this soldier extinguished flames which were destroying ammunition and other supplies, as a result of a grenade dump being struck by enemy shell, which killed two men and severely wounded others whom he helped to remove.

MECHANIC JOHN P. MAYER (1209203), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in aiding in the rescue of two men from a burning tank during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

MECHANIC WILLIAM W. MEAD (Deceased) (1210811), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

MECHANIC HENRY C. MILLER (1203632), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courageous and effective service as a patrol although under observation from Ridge Wood, while attached to the Intelligence Section of his company. This at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 26, 1918.

MECHANIC MERTON L. MURPHY (1211135), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
For great gallantry in rescuing wounded comrades under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

MECHANIC HUBERT C. NORRIS (1215907), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry on September 29, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, in courageously advancing ahead of a combat patrol under the fire of enemy snipers and obtaining valuable information for his commanding officer.

MECHANIC HUMPHREY J. O'LEARY (1203727), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during the engagements in the Dickebusch Lake sector, and at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 25 to September 2, 1918, as well as during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier, a company runner, with complete disregard for his own safety, maintained communication between his company and battalion commander. Also for courage and skill when acting as a stretcher bearer under intense enemy fire during the same engagement.

MECHANIC LE ROY RAND (1210311), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great gallantry, determination and inspiring example in voluntarily serving with a Lewis gun squad, and when the squad was held up in front of the enemy's wire under heavy fire dashing forward single handed and alone until wounded by enemy grenades, and continuing to fire his Lewis gun until exhausted. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

MECHANIC HORACE R. RIGGS (1231907), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August, 1918, while serving as Signal Corps motorcycle despatch rider and mechanic in charge of motorcycle equipment. This soldier was wounded by shell fire on October 13, 1918, resulting in the loss of his leg.

MECHANIC LEO F. ROURKE, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous service in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, September 28 to October 3, 1918, as a member of a gun crew in repairing and operating against the enemy a group of captured enemy 77 mm. field guns.

MECHANIC GEORGE J. SCHNEIDER (1210570), Company E, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For repeated demonstrations of courage and gallantry in carrying messages under heavy shell and machine gun fire, and for courageous service in the operation of his machine gun until killed on October 18, 1918. All this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

MECHANIC GETCHIL A. THOMAS (1215629), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For gallantry in leaving a shell hole and dressing the wounds of his sergeant under heavy enemy machine gun fire.

MECHANIC MARION L. TITUS (1216084), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For exceptional courage and initiative while serving as a company runner and for capturing six enemy soldiers in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

MECHANIC ROY S. WOOD (1215852), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage in carrying messages under heavy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

WAGONER LOUIS M. BEDELL, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2, 1918, in repairing an ammunition truck under heavy enemy shell fire, and, by his initiative, resourcefulness and courage, delivering the ammunition to its destination.

WAGONER HAROLD L. BENNETT, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918. When his truck overturned while proceeding under heavy enemy artillery fire, he, although subjected to continued enemy shell and gas concentrations, succeeded in making temporary repairs, reloading the truck, and proceeding 1200 meters to Battery F and unloading the ammunition.

WAGONER PERCY R. BILLINGTON, Company C, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, October 8, 1918, in extricating stalled ammunition trucks and bringing them to battery positions in time to replace an exhausted ammunition supply, under direct enemy observation.

WAGONER ELLIOTT F. BROCKELBANK (1222805), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

WAGONER GEORGE H. BRUSH (1222909), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

WAGONER JOHN P. BUIST (1222911), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

WAGONER EVERETT H. CAMPBELL (1231782), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty in Dickebusch sector, Belgium, while serving as Signal Corps motorcycle despatch rider, and subsequently during the entire service of the 27th Division in France. His untiring devotion to the interests of his division was a splendid example to his fellow soldiers.

WAGONER ROBERT S. CARPENTER (1216407), Headquarters Detachment, 106th Machine Gun Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 52
For gallantry and determination in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-October 1, 1918.

WAGONER JOHN A. COLMEY (1222810), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 86
For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of the Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

WAGONER VAN BUSKIRK DEMAREST (1231785), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 52
For untiring devotion to duty as driver of a staff car in Belgium and France, his car having been struck on two occasions by enemy shell fire. Also for personal courage under fire on other occasions, particularly at Arbre Guernon, France, October 18, 1918.

WAGONER GEORGE DE MEUR (1209617), Headquarters 54th Brigade. S. O. 44
For untiring devotion to duty under all circumstances while acting as chauffeur to the Commanding General, 54th Infantry Brigade. He continually displayed exceptional coolness under artillery fire.

WAGONER RAYMOND J. GANNON, Supply Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-Sur-Meuse, France, in driving his team loaded with supplies over a heavily shelled road, and when one of the wagons of the train was hit, he dismounted, caught and held his horses, succeeded in quieting them and proceeded on his route, delivering his supplies at the appointed place on time. This on October 28, 1918.

WAGONER FRANK H. GIEFER (1231753), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty while serving as motorcycle rider during service of the division in the Dickebusch Lake Sector, Belgium, and later during the battle of the Hindenburg Line and until wounded by shell fire at Busigny, France, on October 13, 1918.

WAGONER F. B. GLOVER (1215168), Supply Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 52
For exceptional heroism in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in successfully delivering ammunition under heavy shell fire after his team had been knocked down and pinned underneath the limber by a shell explosion.

WAGONER ALFRED R. HANDY (1222874), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

WAGONER ARCHIE D. HANDY, Company C, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, October 8, 1918, in extricating stalled ammunition trucks and bringing them to battery positions in time to replace an exhausted ammunition supply, under direct enemy observation.

WAGONER RUDOLPH HENNING (1213174), Supply Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 52
For exceptional heroism in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in successfully delivering ammunition under heavy shell fire after his team had been knocked down and pinned underneath the limber by a shell explosion.

WAGONER CHARLES E. HILL (1222827), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

WAGONER JAMES F. HOBBS (1222780), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

WAGONER LESLIE HUNT (1231753), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and devotion to duty during the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 19, 1918. This soldier accompanied the Division Commander in a mounted reconnaissance from St. Souplet to the position in the line held by the 3d Battalion, 108th Infantry, same being made under enemy artillery and machine gun fire.

WAGONER GEORGE R. IVES (1222930), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 33
 For courage and determination in driving his ambulance under heavy fire in forward areas for the purpose of evacuating wounded during the battle of Le Selle River, France, and engagements subsequent thereto, October 15-20, 1918.

WAGONER GEORGE R. IVES (1222930), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 33
 For courage and determination in the performance of his duties before and after being wounded in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

WAGONER PERCY S. JONES, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2, 1918. When his truck, loaded with rations, was struck by a shell, he, although under continued heavy enemy gas and shell concentrations, endeavored repeatedly to make repairs and finally succeeded, without regard to personal risk.

WAGONER MARTIN JOYCE (1222932), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

WAGONER JOHN L. KELLY (1222746), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

WAGONER JOHN KNOX, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on November 4, 1918, in responding to an emergency call for special ammunition and conducting an ammunition detail to the battery positions of the 2d Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell and gas concentrations.

WAGONER ANTHONY C. KRAFT (1222938), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 16-20, 1918.

WAGONER RAYMOND P. LAPPES, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2, 1918, in repairing an ammunition truck under heavy shell fire, and, by his initiative, resourcefulness and courage, delivering the ammunition to its destination.

WAGONER JOHN LEWIS, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action November 4, 1918, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in responding to an emergency call for special ammunition and conducting an ammunition detail to the battery positions of the 2d Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell and gas concentrations.

WAGONER CARL LYNCH, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in responding to an emergency call for special ammunition and conducting an ammunition detail to the battery positions of the 2d Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell and gas concentrations.

WAGONER FRANK C. McGUIRE, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2, 1918. When his truck, loaded with rations, was struck by a shell, he, although under continued heavy enemy gas and shell concentrations, endeavored repeatedly in assisting successfully to make repairs without regard to personal risk.

WAGONER HENRY W. MILLER (1222787), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 33
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

WAGONER JAMES J. MILLET (408228), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in evacuating wounded under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 16-20, 1918.

WAGONER JAMES A. MILLS, Supply Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 28, 1918, in driving his team loaded with supplies over a heavily shelled road, and when one of the wagons in the train was hit, he dismounted, caught and held his horses, succeeded in quieting them and proceeded on his route, delivering his supplies at the appointed place on time.

WAGONER MICHAEL MORRISSEY, Headquarters Horse Battalion, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For untiring devotion to duty in caring for the men serving under him and for courage and coolness during the period of active service in the vicinity of Verdun, France, September 6 to November 11, 1918.

WAGONER RALPH S. MULFORD (1205461), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and devotion to duty in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, while serving as Signal Corps motorcycle despatch rider, and subsequently during the entire service of the 27th Division in France, his untiring devotion to the interests of his division was a splendid example to his fellow soldiers.

WAGONER WILLIAM O'LOUGHLIN, Supply Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For zeal and devotion to duty during the active service of the regiment in France and Belgium and for the exhibition of high courage under heavy shell fire when accompanying the transport close to the front line on the night of September 28 and 29, 1918, just before the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France.

WAGONER ARTHUR H. PURDY (1223250), Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 49
 For locating and removing under heavy fire a seriously wounded soldier. This near Busigny, France, October 14, 1918.

WAGONER JAMES F. REILLY, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in responding to an emergency call for special ammunition and conducting an ammunition detail to the battery positions of the 2d Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell and gas concentrations.

WAGONER JOHN K. SHOOK, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in driving a truck of ammunition over a cross-road leading to the battery, subjected to heavy shell fire throughout the night and the following morning in order that this ammunition could be delivered to the battery positions of the 105th Field Artillery to enable these batteries to maintain an offensive barrage to cover the advance of the 29th Division Infantry.

WAGONER AUGUSTUS B. SPARBORO (1231770), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and devotion to duty in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, while serving as Signal Corps motorcycle despatch rider and subsequently during the entire service of the 27th Division in France, his untiring devotion to the interests of his division was a splendid example to his fellow soldiers.

WAGONER FRANCIS A. TRIANO, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2, 1918, in repairing an ammunition truck under heavy enemy shell fire and by his initiative, resourcefulness and courage, delivering the ammunition to its destination.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWIN H. ANGELL (1211248), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918, this soldier, although badly wounded, continued in action with conspicuous gallantry until loss of blood put him out of action.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN W. ARMANN (1204362), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and qualities of leadership displayed while a non-commissioned officer of his company during the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge, and engagements subsequent thereto. This soldier was promoted to be sergeant, but at his own request was reduced to the ranks so that another sergeant might hold his grade.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ERNEST K. ARNOLD (1203106), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination. Although gassed this soldier continued with his squad for three days. This at St. Souplet, France, during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOSEPH A. ASHI (1214400), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For exceptional gallantry and determination repeatedly demonstrated while serving as a company runner until he received wounds which resulted in the loss of both legs and a part of the right hand. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ANTHONY BABINSKI (2451010), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in crossing a shell swept area to reach his gun position during the night following the taking over of the position in the East Poperinghe line, in July, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK BAKER (1205406), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty at Bony, France, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, and during the attack on Jone de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918. During these attacks this soldier showed exceptional devotion to duty and bravery in caring for the wounded and although wounded refused to be evacuated until all the wounded in his charge had been cared for.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROBERT F. BALLUS (1209131), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For courage and zeal in attending and evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire after the two other men of his team had become casualties and until he himself became badly gassed; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MORRIS A. BANISTER, Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying ammunition to forward units under heavy shell and machine gun fire, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK BARVINSKI (1202052), Company D, 102d Engineers. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination displayed on the night of September 26, 1918, in taping infantry start line for the attack on the outer defenses of the Hindenburg system, all of which was done under heavy enemy machine gun fire and resulted in this soldier being wounded.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE A. BATES (1205593), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For unswerving and unselfish attention to wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 30, 1918. He crawled to shell holes under heavy machine gun and shell fire and cared for the wounded irrespective of his own safety. He was later found dead on the field of battle, in a shell hole with a partly used bandage in his hand, being in the act of bandaging a comrade.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE K. BAXTER (1210168), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when he, single-handed, put out of action 20 of the enemy by the effective use of his Lewis automatic rifle.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CONEY A. BECKNER, Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, when the truck on which he was riding overturned while proceeding under heavy enemy artillery fire; he, although subjected to continued enemy shell and gas concentrations, assisted in making temporary repairs, reloading the truck and proceeding 1200 metres to Battery F and unloading the ammunition.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, W. BENDER, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty carrying in wounded comrades in front of the lines under heavy shell fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line near Ronsoy, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, LOUIS J. BENEDETTO (1200774), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For courage and determination demonstrated in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, in volunteering to repair line of communication which had become cut during the battle. This work was accomplished in an area heavily bombarded by enemy shell fire and gas concentration.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROBERT P. BENEDICT, Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE M. BERRY (1209141), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For gallantry and determination in the evacuation of wounded from Arbre Guernon, until he himself was seriously wounded; this in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, and the engagements subsequent thereto, October 18-20, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MARSHALL E. BIRKINS, JR. (1209381), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For skill and courage in repeatedly repairing his machine gun under heavy fire during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FREDERICK J. BLEIR (1218978), Mobile Veterinary Section No. 105. S. O. 31
 For voluntarily carrying an important message through heavy enemy fire in the extreme front in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, on August 8, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD G. BRADFORD (1211206), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, on September 29, 1918, although severely wounded, this soldier refused to be evacuated, but continued in action as platoon runner and rendered conspicuous and valuable service in face of exceptionally heavy artillery and machine gun fire, until the further loss of blood put him out of action.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALBERT BRANDOW (1210372), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For able handling of the Lewis gun in action September 29, 1918, and his untiring energy in keeping it in action during the attack on The Knoll.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN J. BRIDGE (1215465), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For exceptional courage in remaining in an advanced observation post under heavy enemy fire in order to gain information of value to our artillery. This in the vicinity of Le Selle River, October 10-14, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HERMAN J. BRITTON (1211305), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions, composed chiefly of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HENRY A. BROWN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing and maintaining telephone communication from Brigade Headquarters to and in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, under shell fire, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, from September 29 to October 5, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HENRY A. BROWN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing an advance telephone central at Mollville Farm, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, November 6, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RUSSEL A. BROWN (1209742), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

1150
 PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RUSSEL A. BROWN (1209742), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For conspicuous gallantry and determination in advancing with two other soldiers of his company into Jonc de Mer Farm, then occupied by the enemy, and after personal encounter, capturing three German officers and a detachment of enlisted men; this in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, THOMAS A. BROWNE (1216265), Headquarters Detachment, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 52
 For gallantry and determination in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-October 1, 1918, and during the battle of Le Selle River, France, and engagements subsequent thereto, October 17-20, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN BUCHAN (2037333), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PAUL H. BURGENDORF, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Chattancourt, Forges, Gercourt, Dannevoux, and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, September 26 to November 2, 1918, in carrying important messages through heavy enemy shell fire over unfamiliar ground between battery and battalion headquarters.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWIN F. BURNS (1222771), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For exceptional courage and determination in leaving the shelter of a dugout and proceeding a distance of about 200 yards to dig out and rescue a soldier buried in a dugout destroyed by enemy shell fire; this work being performed in the day time under heavy enemy observation and fire. This in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HUGH J. BURNS (1211253), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage, determination and skill as a member of a combat patrol frequently demonstrated until severely wounded. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRED BUSHLOW (1210243), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. When his platoon was held up by hostile grenade fire, this soldier bombed out or killed, single handed, a group of Germans in a nearby trench, who were checking the advance of the platoon.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK CALIMERI (1215987), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in carrying a message over fire swept areas and successfully delivering it to his commanding officer.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JUDSON W. CARD (1211673), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and exceptional devotion to duty. This soldier was severely wounded in the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, and when discharged from hospital, while still suffering, rejoined his company, then occupying the front line near St. Souplet, France, where he rendered conspicuous service during the battle of Le Selle River until again severely wounded, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE S. CARHART (408612), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
For courage and devotion to duty in caring for wounded. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD J. CARR (1210121), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. In the face of heavy fire from an enemy trench this soldier rushed the trench alone by the effective use of his Lewis automatic rifle, and materially assisted the advance of his platoon.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARTHUR F. CAVANAUGH (1215918), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, as first gunner in the machine gun squad. This soldier displayed great courage in advancing his gun repeatedly in an attempt to wipe out enemy machine gun nests.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD CAYPLISS (1215911), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry on September 29, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line. Although wounded, this soldier continued to fight and captured several prisoners single handed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARRY M. CHAPIN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade, Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in establishing and maintaining telephone communication from Brigade Headquarters to and in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, under shell fire, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, from September 29 to October 5, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARVEY B. CHRISTIAN, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in rescuing two badly wounded comrades under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALBERT W. CLEMENT (1203185), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great bravery and resourcefulness in carrying messages under heavy fire. This soldier showed great initiative and bravery in obtaining information concerning neighboring units under heavy shell fire until killed. This September 29-October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JAMES T. CLUNE, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in repairing broken telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK J. COLE (1215995), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, while serving as a member of a ration party under heavy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE A. COLE (1214348), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For holding an important advanced post with his Lewis gun for a period of twenty-four hours; this under heavy fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM H. COLLINS (1201509), Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 29
For rendering first aid to wounded under heavy artillery fire; this on Reninghelst-La Clytte Road in Belgium, July 31, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARTHUR A. CONKLIN (1210624), Company E, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918, until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROSCOE CONKLIN (1211344), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
For gallantry and disregard of self in dashing forward to the side of Lieutenant Marsh S. Lockyear to render first aid when the latter was hit, well knowing that he was placing himself in range of the guns which caused the officer's death.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GUISSSEPI CONSTANTINO (1204426), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in all the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated, during which he served as a stretcher bearer.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILTON J. COPPINGER (1200097), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty in delivering important messages under heavy enemy fire during operations in Belgium in the Dickebusch Lake and Scherpenberg sectors, August 22-September 3, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FREDERIC H. COUCH, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 1 to 8, 1918, in repairing telephone lines and carrying messages between battery and battalion headquarters under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWIN B. COURTNEY (1215954), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, when he displayed the highest soldierly qualities at all times until killed on September 28, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, LEONARD COYLE (1210179), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in assisting to hold a trench against large numbers of the enemy in the face of hostile grenade fire after all his officers and non-commissioned officers had either been killed or wounded.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, AARON J. CUFFEE, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry and extraordinary heroism in action in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 14, 1918, in voluntarily swimming the Meuse River with a telephone cable under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOSEPH H. CULLEN (1215995), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD F. DANIELS, Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in the evacuation of wounded from the extreme front at Arbre Guernon, France. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, LOUIS A. DE HAYES (1209581), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty on the night of October 16, 1918, in locating under heavy shell fire and gas concentration the units of his battalion for the purpose of delivering important message in connection with the attack for the following morning.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHRISTY DEL GUIDICE (1205499), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination frequently demonstrated in battles and engagements of his regiment. Wounded on September 29, 1918, this soldier returned from the dressing station in order to participate with his company in the great attack on the Hindenburg Line, France, on September 29, 1918, going to the hospital only after his company was relieved.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MAX DIETZMAN, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in rescuing two badly wounded comrades under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RAYMOND DOUGLAS (1211005), Company G, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry repeatedly displayed and determination while acting as runner in carrying important messages under heavy enemy shell fire and over machine gun swept ground between Battalion Headquarters and the front line during the operations in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 12 and 16, 1918, and during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, during which he was killed by shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RENO J. DRACK, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in repairing broken telephone wires and carrying important messages between battery and battalion headquarters under heavy concentrations of enemy shell fire and gas. This on November 1 to 8, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES L. DRAPER (1210189), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in rushing a hostile machine gun nest, single-handed, and killing its two occupants and capturing the gun.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRED DRURY (1210564), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For coolness and gallantry in action and repeated demonstrations of courage displayed in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, until severely wounded.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JAMES M. DUFFY (1205451), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in rescuing a wounded comrade from a water filled shell hole under enemy shell fire and gas concentration. This in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August, 1918. In subsequent engagements this soldier demonstrated qualities of courage and determination.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM J. DUFFY (1207384), Company E, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For evacuating wounded under heavy fire. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, DAVID DUNN (1216000), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918. This soldier displayed great courage during the advance of a combat patrol, when, single handed, he captured seven of the enemy and partially destroyed a machine gun.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES C. EATON, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in remaining with his company after being severely wounded and advancing with it until the objective was taken. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALLEN L. EGGLESTON (1214987), Company H, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39
 For great gallantry and inspiring example frequently demonstrated until killed in action. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, DONALD EMERY (1213809), Medical Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary valor under fire. During local attack by enemy forces near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, from August 22 to 26, this soldier constantly rendered first aid to wounded, and by his courage, coolness and cheerfulness showed an inspiring example to those about him.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOSEPH M. EPSTEIN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 6, 1918, in voluntarily advancing beyond the infantry front line into no man's land and reconnoitering enemy front line positions, during which he, by fearlessly exposing himself to enemy fire, saved the life of the officer whom he was accompanying and returned with valuable information.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK B. EULL (1201772), Company C, 102d U. S. Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, NORMAN K. EYPPER (1209222), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For great courage and determination in carrying important battle messages under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARTHUR L. FICKEY (1219192), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in requesting permission to go over the top with his unit, although weak from a recent illness, and in fighting valiantly as a member of a Lewis automatic rifle squad in the face of terrific enemy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MARTIN G. FINCH, Battery A, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de Lemont, France, October 3 and 4, 1918, in insisting on driving the team of a seriously wounded comrade under heavy enemy shell fire, although himself wounded, and continuing until ordered by his Sergeant to report to a dressing station.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JAMES E. FINNEGAN (1208964), Company H, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For courage and determination in battle while acting as a scout near Jonquiere Farm, France, October 19, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, STEPHEN L. FINNEGAN (1212810), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in administering first aid to the wounded under heavy enemy fire during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 28-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARRY M. FISHER, JR. (1209355), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For great courage and determination in carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN W. FLEET, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, France, September 28, 1918, in laying telephone lines between battery and Regimental Headquarters and infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PAUL M. FLETCHER (1209133), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For gallantry and determination in carrying two soldiers from a damaged tank to places of shelter. This under heavy fire in the battle of The Knoll, Guillemont Farm, Quennemont Farm, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EARL S. FONDA, Company C, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and bravery in action near Bony, France, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918. While advancing to the attack his company came under heavy machine gun fire. This soldier set his Lewis gun in an advanced position and continued to fire on the enemy until mortally wounded.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GLEN E. FOSTER (1222778), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts. This during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANZ FRIEDLANDER (1209695), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For disregard to danger in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight and this soldier covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANZ FRIEDLANDER (1209695), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 87
 For courage, determination and devotion to duty in maintaining a continuous fire with his Lewis gun on an enemy machine gun nest and forcing the enemy to retreat therefrom, continuing to fire his Lewis gun at the retreating Germans until he himself was killed by a machine gun bullet. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, AAGE W. FRITSCH (1200146), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courageous delivery of an important message under heavy enemy artillery fire to forward units of his battalion. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HAROLD FULLER, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty near Brabant-sur-Meuse, October 29, 1918, in carrying a message to the battalion post of command, a distance of two kilometers, through an enemy barrage and heavy gas concentration.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARRY F. GARRITY (1209586), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courageous and skillful aid to wounded soldiers of his command rendered under heavy fire on the night of October 16, 1918, near Le Selle River, France.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, SECONDO GERBI (2670349), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courageous devotion to duty while acting as stretcher bearer under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918, and during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN J. GIBBONS (1211334), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For gallantry and determination as a member of a patrol which rushed an enemy machine gun nest and captured four prisoners after the patrol leader, Lieutenant Lockyear, had been killed, and thereafter in voluntarily carrying an important message under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN J. GLYNN (1203972), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company, numbering in all 28 men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, BENJAMIN H. GORMAN (1209594), Ordnance Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courageously maintaining an ammunition dump under heavy shell fire and gas concentration until evacuated, suffering from gas poisoning. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM T. GRANGER (1209582), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty on the night of October 16, 1918, in locating under heavy shell fire and gas concentration the units of his battalion for the purpose of delivering important message in connection with the attack for the following morning.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN GRANT (1210336), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For valor and determination frequently exhibited during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier advanced with his platoon into the enemy trenches and with two others bombed dugouts and captured a number of prisoners.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HAROLD E. GREENE (1203199), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, great resourcefulness and devotion to duty in carrying messages under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RICHARD GRIFFITHS (1210131), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in continuing to use his rifle effectively as a protection to the left flank of his platoon after having been wounded in both legs.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALFRED R. GUTHRIE (1209151), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For devotion to duty and inspiring example during the operations of his regiment in Belgium and France. With personal disregard to safety, this soldier frequently went forward from front line trenches in order to render aid to wounded men of the advanced elements.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARTHUR C. HABERLY (1216020), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For determination and gallantry in action in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when, as a Lewis Gunner, he wiped out enemy sniper and machine gun nests in advance of the front line, and remained at his post until forced to retreat by reason of his wounds.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, DAVID HANKE (1209036), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage, skill and determination in occupying an advanced position of a detachment of his company during an enemy counter attack in which the enemy was driven back.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HAROLD C. HANSON (1201551), Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 29
 For rendering first aid to wounded under heavy artillery fire. This on Reninghelst-La Clytte Road, in Belgium, July 31, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RHEINHARDT P. HANSON (1222892), Ambulance Company 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALFRED C. HARRISON, Sanitary Detachment, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HENRY M. HARVEY (1216024), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in advancing with a Lewis gun and, unaided, wiping out a German machine gun nest, killing several Germans and capturing the guns. This during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD J. HASSDENTEUFEL, Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in establishing contact between other units of his company and battalion under heavy enemy fire during the operations of Le Selle River in the vicinity of Busigny, France, October 12, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK B. HAYES (1210410), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For valor and determination frequently exhibited during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier advanced with his platoon into the enemy trenches, and with two others bombed dugouts and captured a number of prisoners.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PAUL G. HAYNER (1210132), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, and during the battle of Le Selle River. This soldier volunteered to act as a Lewis automatic rifleman at a dangerous post near Vaux Andigny, France, on October 13, 1918, where he was killed during a heavy bombardment.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, SYLVESTER HEDBERG (1209135), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry repeatedly exhibited in the evacuation of wounded from the extreme front during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 1, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, SYLVESTER E. HEDBERG (1209135), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For constant devotion to duty and courage under fire in rendering first aid and evacuating wounded while units of his regiment were in the line in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES HENNINGSEN (1211341), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the occupation of a section of the line in front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in the Dickebusch sector, July 11, 1918, this soldier volunteered to assist his Corporal upon an exceptionally dangerous mission which required him to work one hour in front of his trench clearing for a depth of 25 yards a mass of high grass which might have proven an aid to an enemy raiding party. While thus engaged enemy was active with trench mortars and machine gun fire aided by the light of a full moon.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, STANLEY J. HICKS (1222858), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 86
 For devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded over roads heavily shelled in the operations preceding the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 14-17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES C. HINDT (1222779), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For exceptional courage and determination in leaving the shelter of a dugout and proceeding a distance of about 200 yards to dig out and rescue a soldier buried in a dugout destroyed by enemy shell fire, this work being performed in the day time under enemy observation and fire. This in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILFRED HOLLAND (1209479), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, determination and devotion to duty in carrying ammunition under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire to his machine gun team preparatory to firing a barrage. This in the battle for the breaking of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 26, 1918, and until severely wounded on the morning of September 27, 1918, during an enemy counter attack.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PETER A. HOLOHAN (1216026), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle, and was commended for bravery by the Australian commander.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PERCY HOPWOOD, Company C, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, October 8, 1918, in extricating stalled ammunition trucks and bringing them to battery positions in time to replace an exhausted ammunition supply under direct enemy observation.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EUGENE E. HOWARD (1213478), Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in rescuing two wounded comrades under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PHILIP E. HUBBARD (1215565), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courageous and efficient use of Lewis gun after being severely wounded. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALEXANDER HUTTON, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing an advance telephone central at Mollville Farm, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, November 6, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOB V. JACKSON (1205599), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For faithful attention to duty in the care of wounded during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918, in crawling beyond the lines with one other and bringing back and caring for severely wounded men under heavy enemy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOB V. JACKSON (1205599), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery and devotion to duty in performing his duties in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, LOUIS E. JACOBI, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in maintaining an advance telephone central in the former German front line trench and lines therefrom to advanced headquarters, at Bois de Forges, France, under heavy shell fire, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, from September 29, 1918, and succeeding days.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, LOUIS E. JACOBI, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing an advance telephone central at Mollville Farm, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, November 6, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, STEPHEN J. JANKURA (1210664), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in carrying important messages through heavy enemy fire and maintaining communication between units of his command in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, BERNARD F. JASNEISKI (1215938), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the engagement at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, in carrying messages under heavy fire until overcome by gas.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM H. JORDON (1210136), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and fearlessness in carrying messages under constant enemy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALBON KEARNEY (1201871), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JAMES A. KEATING (1211352), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier, although so severely wounded that he could not move out of the shell hole where he had fallen, continued in action by engaging an enemy machine gunner with his rifle. He refused medical attention until this action was over.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM J. KELLY (1209768), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For disregard to danger, in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight and this soldier covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALTER J. KENT (1222924), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty in administering to wounded comrades under heavy enemy fire during the battle of Le Selle River, in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

1260 PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GUY E. KENYON (1210211), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 21, 1918. This soldier voluntarily went forward to an abandoned communication trench in no man's land to rescue a British comrade. Upon finding it was impossible to bring the body back through the trench, with total disregard of his own safety, he carried the body across no man's land to our own front line with the assistance of a comrade.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EARL KESSLER, Battery F, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in October, 1918, near Forges Woods, and on or about October 14 in repairing a telephone line connecting the observation post with the battery when without any assistance he worked all night on a telephone line and kept the same in repair so communication might be maintained during a heavy enemy bombardment.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALTER H. KETCHUM, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing an advanced telephone central at Mollville Farm, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, November 6, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALTER H. KETCHUM, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in maintaining an advance telephone central in the former German front line trench and lines therefrom to advanced headquarters at Bois de Forges, France, under heavy shell fire, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive from September 29, 1918, and succeeding days.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILTON E. KILMER (1216455), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in evacuating wounded under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. The following day this soldier suffered the loss of his right leg.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, KARL KITCHELT, Sanitary Detachment, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Malbrouk Hill, France, October 29, 1918, in carrying a message to Bras, a distance of five kilometres, to secure an ambulance for the evacuation of casualties, under heavy enemy shell fire, during which he was knocked down several times by shell explosions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MILTON E. KLEIN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing and maintaining telephone communication from Brigade Headquarters to and in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, under shell fire during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, from September 29 to October 5, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MILTON E. KLEIN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in establishing an advance telephone central at Mollville Farm, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, November 6, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MILTON E. KLEIN, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in maintaining an intermediate telephone central and the lines extending therefrom at Samogneux, France, under heavy shell fire and adverse conditions during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROBERT B. KNIFFEN (1211901), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage and determination in holding off and driving back an enemy attack on the post held by his squad until wounded. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 22, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM KNIGHT (1216036), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage and determination in attacking an enemy machine gun nest, using a Lewis gun as an automatic rifle. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WASYL KOLPNAESYK (1210213), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of Le Selle River, October 13, 1918, in rejoining his company in order to be in time to go over the top after he had been badly gassed and shocked by a shell which exploded within six feet of him.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MICHAEL J. KUBINAK, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 1 to 8, 1918, in repairing telephone lines and carrying messages between battery and battalion headquarters under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EMERSON LAMBERT (1200960), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For personal bravery in stringing telephone lines under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in an exposed sector with the 106th Infantry, near Dickebusch, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROBERT LAVERTY, Company E, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Ronsoy, France, September 28, 1918, in refusing to go to the rear after having been wounded and continuing to advance with his company.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, LOWELL W. LEE (1222784), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For devotion to duty in the removal of wounded from the forward battle areas during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, NATHAN LEVY (1202108), Company D, 102d Engineers. S. O. 31
 For coolness and courage in removing detonators from mines. This under heavy enemy fire near Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARRY A. LINDAHL (1216038), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOSEPH C. LOUGHLIN (1204795), Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in rendering special services under heavy machine gun fire in front of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDGAR B. LOWERRE (1211360), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, September 29, 1918, although painfully wounded in his leg this soldier refused to be evacuated, but continued in action until mortally wounded within the enemy lines.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARTHUR LOYD (1210680), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and inspiring example when having been badly gassed he refused to be evacuated, but continued on with the attack of his company until severely wounded. This in the battle of the Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE A. LYNCH (1203143), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For cheerfulness and great courage under enemy fire during operations near St. Souplet during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-21, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JEREMIAH C. LYONS (1210141), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For repeated demonstrations of bravery and determination displayed during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, in carrying messages over fire swept areas.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE E. LYSTER (1209463), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For great courage and determination in carrying important battle messages under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANCIS J. McANANLY (1200858), Company B, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52

For personal bravery while assisting in the completion of two circuits of wire communication from Ronsoy to Duncan Post on the morning of September 9, during the battle for the breaking of the Hindenburg Line, France, under heavy shell and machine gun fire which necessitated sending cable wagons to the rear and completing work by hand.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALTER McAVINNE, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and devotion to duty near Consenvoye, France, in evacuating wounded under heavy shell fire and gas concentration. This on October 19, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES E. McCAFFREY (972037), Company B, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in maintaining wire communication under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROBERT McCAULERY, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For extraordinary heroism in action in the vicinity of the La Claire Farm, France, October 8, 1918. When two cases of hand grenades dropped from a runaway limber and exploded, causing about twelve casualties, he, disregarding the bursting grenades, rushed to the aid of the wounded, directing and helping their removal from danger and rendering first aid at great personal risk.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN J. McCOOL (1211301), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier distinguished himself with his exceptional bravery and initiative and proved of great assistance in guiding his half platoon over the difficult terrain toward the enemy. With his accurate rifle fire, this soldier accounted for several of the enemy before he received a mortal wound.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM McDONALD (1201883), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES McGINTY, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in rescuing two badly wounded comrades under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN R. McGLUE, Company B, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in advancing under heavy fire to rescue a wounded comrade. While so engaged he was killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALFRED McGUINNESS, Battery E, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For exceptional bravery in action in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, France, September 29, 1918, in voluntarily helping to clean out a recently evacuated mined enemy dugout, in the performance of which duty he was wounded by an explosion.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JAMES B. McGUIRE (1210222), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in rescuing two wounded comrades under direct enemy rifle fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE C. McKENZIE (1211363), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

During the operations before Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in the Dickebusch sector, July 11, 1918, this soldier volunteered to carry messages over heavily shelled areas, and by his splendid display of gallantry and courage proved an inspiration to his comrades.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM H. McLEOD (1209778), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, THOMAS J. McCARRELL (1209486), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

While acting as Corporal in charge of a gun squad on September 27, 1918, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, for exceptional gallantry and inspiring qualities of leadership, maintained even after receiving severe wounds.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN R. McDONALD (1209411), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

For successfully carrying a message over fire swept ground from his company headquarters to Yak Post, where others had tried and failed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN R. McDONALD (1209411), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26

For fearlessness and determination in delivering messages across ground swept by shell and machine gun fire during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FREDERICK M. McGUIRK, Headquarters Company, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action near Bois Jure from October 18 to 20, 1918, when as telephone lineman he repaired telephone lines under artillery fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALOYSIUS B. McMICKLE (1205601), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For faithful attention to duty in the care of wounded during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918, with one other having crawled beyond the lines and brought back and cared for severely wounded men under heavy enemy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, DAVID L. MacDONALD, Company B, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in maintaining wire communication under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM J. MAHONEY, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action in maintaining an intermediate telephone central and the lines extending therefrom, at Samogneux, France, under heavy shell fire and adverse conditions during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, October 28 to November 5, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM J. MAHONEY, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in establishing an advance telephone central at Mollville Farm, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, and advance lines therefrom, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, November 6, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HAROLD E. MANNERS (1211369), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions, composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, SOLL MARENSTEIN (1216043), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty and determination in sending first aid to comrades under heavy enemy fire. This during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RALPH D. MARTIN, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD C. MARTINEAU, Sanitary Detachment, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EUGENE M. MASTERSON (1211274), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions, composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE A. MATTISON (1203212), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty in voluntarily giving first aid and supplies under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALTER A. MEADE, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, France, on September 26, 1918, in accompanying infantry advanced lines under heavy artillery, machine gun and infantry fire, and procuring and transmitting valuable artillery information to his battery commander.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, DANIEL H. MERRITT (1209238), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
For courage and determination in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918, in maintaining communication under heavy fire between units of his command.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, DANIEL H. MERRITT (1209238), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
For gallantry in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, in refusing aid after being wounded until two other soldiers more seriously wounded had been cared for.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOSEPH A. MILLER (1211131), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in twice volunteering to carry an important message across an area swept by heavy shell and machine gun fire to Battalion Headquarters and twice recrossing this area under the same conditions to rejoin his company in the front lines. This near Arbres Guernon, France, in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, VICTOR MITCHELL (1211275), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOSEPH MOGLIA (2778508), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courageous devotion to duty while acting as stretcher bearer under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918, and during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOSEPH L. MONTMARQUET (1212832), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, in aiding and evacuating wounded under heavy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN T. MOORHEAD, Company C, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 83
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, France, October 8, 1918, in extricating stalled ammunition trucks and bringing them to battery positions in time to replace an exhausted ammunition supply, under direct enemy observation.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, NELSON D. MORROW (1215951), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his regiment.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, BERNARD F. MURNAGHAN (1203764), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
(Deceased).
For courage and bravery during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, on September 29, 1918. This soldier administered first aid to the wounded under heavy machine gun fire with no regard for personal safety, until he was mortally wounded.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARCHIBALD R. MURRAY (1204572), Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
For gallantry and determination frequently demonstrated while acting as a regimental runner during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM NACHMAN (1209077), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For courage, skill and determination in occupying an advanced position of a detachment of his company during an enemy counter attack in which the enemy was driven back.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN E. NEARY (1222788), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
For devotion to duty in the removal of wounded from the forward battle areas during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FREDERICK B. NIDD (1209789), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MAX N. NIDUS (2670244), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and the greatest spirit of willingness and self-sacrifice in volunteering to cross open country while under enemy machine gun fire to bring aid to the front line during a raid, and for bandaging the wounded under shell fire; also for extreme bravery and devotion to duty. This in the Dickebusch sector and in the battle of the Hindenburg Line.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN NOLAND, Battery E, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 18, 1918, in delivering ammunition to battery positions under enemy shell fire and gas concentrations, in the performance of which duty he was so seriously wounded as to necessitate the amputation of one limb.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HERBERT E. NYHART (1216062), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918. This soldier displayed great courage in advancing with his machine gun after several of its crew had been either killed or wounded.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HOWARD J. O'CONNOR (1210236), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the operations at Le Selle River, October 16, 1918, in repeatedly sniping hostile machine gunners from advanced positions in no man's land and thus protecting his own front line from their fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, VINCENT A. O'CONNOR (1209138), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 83
 For exceptional devotion to duty and courage under fire in the evacuation of wounded in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, and for similar conduct at Arbre Guernon, France, October 18, 1918, until gassed and evacuated.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN J. O'DONNELL, Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For coolness and initiative during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, in assuming charge of a Lewis gun after the gunner was wounded and in effectively directing its fire against the enemy in his immediate front until the gun was destroyed by enemy shell fire, when he immediately salvaged another gun and resumed fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, LAWRENCE J. O'HARA, 52d Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in maintaining an intermediate telephone central and the lines extending therefrom, at Samogneux, France, under heavy shell fire and adverse conditions, during the operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, October 28 to November 5, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN A. O'LEARY (1203224), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination. Although gassed and twice wounded he continued to fight with great bravery until compelled to stop from loss of blood. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALTER ODYMALA (1216064), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CLARENCE H. OWENS (1206490), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination as Lewis gunner until wounded and taken prisoner. This during the attack on the outer defenses of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, SAMUEL D. OWINGS (1210147), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in bombing out of action a hostile machine gun which was delaying the advance of his company.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MICHAEL PANTUSO (1211278), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 Although detailed to a burial party and not expected to take part in the action, this soldier joined his company during the forcing of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, France, on October 17, 1918. He was shortly afterward painfully wounded with shrapnel, but insisted upon carrying up ammunition until he dropped from loss of blood.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, STEWARD L. PATON (1210148), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and fearlessness in carrying messages under constant enemy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HAROLD I. PAUL (1215736), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage in carrying messages under heavy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANCIS A. PEARCE, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty near Consenvoye, France, October 19, 1918, in evacuating the wounded under heavy shell fire and gas concentration.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES E. PECKENS (1215001), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courageous example and devotion to duty in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918, and at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROBERT L. PEOPLES, Sanitary Detachment, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry in carrying a wounded comrade from the front line to a dressing station under heavy enemy machine gun fire. This near La Clytte, Belgium, August 4, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARTHUR J. PETERSON (1215028), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage in maintaining communication under heavy fire and until wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD A. PIERCE (1210158), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in continuing to advance, although severely wounded, and effectively using his rifle against the enemy until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM C. PINCHIN, JR., Company D, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in responding to a call for ammunition and conducting an ammunition detail to the battery positions of the 1st Battalion, 105th Field Artillery, over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell and gas concentrations.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM L. POLLEY (1202129), Company D, 102d Engineers. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination in laying tape under heavy enemy fire, to establish the infantry start line for the attack against the outer defenses of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARRY H. PRATT, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de Lemont, France, in refusing to go to a dressing station and resuming charge of his team after having been blown from his horse by the concussion of a bursting shell and rendered unconscious. This on October 3, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PAUL PROKOP, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in laying and repairing telephone lines near Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, under extremely heavy shell fire on October 30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN PULLIS (1211142), Company G, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy shell fire during the operations in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918, and the attack on the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, during which he was killed by machine gun fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CHARLES B. PURDY (1215821), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage in carrying messages under heavy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ROBERT A. QUINN (1211381), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier, after unusually courageous and effective work against the enemy, was badly wounded in both hands but insisted upon carrying Private James Byrnes, Company H, 107th Infantry, a badly wounded comrade, through a heavily shelled sector to the first aid section.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ISAAC RABINOWITZ (2671573), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For conspicuous gallantry and determination in advancing with two other soldiers of his company into Jonc de Mer Farm, then occupied by the enemy, and after personal encounter, capturing three German officers and a detachment of enlisted men. This in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HENRY F. REEVES (2222118), Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage and determination in holding off and driving back an enemy attack on the post held by his squad until killed. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 22, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD REILLY (2671571), Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great gallantry and heroism during the battle of the Hindenburg Line while acting as a runner.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FREDERICK L. REYNOLDS (1211149), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty repeatedly demonstrated during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, and during the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, until wounded near La Roux Farm, during the latter battle.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ARLIE M. RIGEL (1950996), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courageous action in helping clear the road of dead and wounded during the advance of his company in the early morning of October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, France.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALFRED E. RILEY (1209367), Headquarters Detachment, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 29
 While a member of Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion, for courage and determination in making a reconnaissance, on the extreme front during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, STANLEY ROCKWELL (1211386), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier, with great gallantry and determination, advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, C. ROSS, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in repairing broken telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRED RUSHLAW (1210245), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 20, 1918. When his platoon was held up by hostile grenade fire, this soldier bombed out or killed, single handed, a group of Germans in a nearby trench, who were checking the advance of the platoon.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, DAVID J. RUSSEL (1211388), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 Although offered the opportunity of evacuation to a hospital because of a severely painful injury to his knee, this soldier insisted upon remaining in action with his comrades and during the forcing of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, on October 17 and 18, rendered unusually effective and courageous service, and thus proving an inspiration to his comrades.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ERIC H. RUSSELL, Company C, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, MICHAEL F. RYAN (1205120), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty while acting as a company runner in ascertaining the location of flank support and guiding additional men to the assistance of attacking troops who were in a dangerous position by reason of supporting troops being held up. This in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, east of St. Souplet, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK B. SCHERER (1210597), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 When Sergeant, for exceptional qualities of leadership, courage and determination in promptly reorganizing his platoon after it had sustained heavy casualties, and effectively holding his position under extremely heavy shell and machine gun fire, and for gallantry in evacuating wounded. All of this during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN SCHNARR (2037333), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN J. SCHNEIDER (1201917), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRED W. SCHWENK (1222960), 107th Ambulance Company. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying in wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HENRY C. SCOTT (1216080), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For qualities of leadership and daring displayed in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in commanding a squad after its corporal had been killed and continuing, although wounded, until exhausted.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, REMINGTON H. SCOTT (1210156), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in the Scherpenberg-Dickebusch sector, August 19, 1918, in aiding and evacuating the wounded during a particularly heavy bombardment when a direct hit was made on the dugout in which he was.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, THOMAS A. SCULLY (1215962), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE SEIDEL, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 1, 1918, when, having been ordered to report without loss of time to forward gun positions, he rode through heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JACOB SEMBERG, Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action and meritorious service in all the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and France. This soldier during the action at Vierstraat Ridge, August 24, 1918, advanced alone to within 30 yards of the enemy and brought back a wounded man. On September 27, 1918, during the advance on the Hindenburg Line he advanced to the objective with Company B and led a number of wounded men to an aid station during the day. At the battle of Le Selle River, October 17-20, 1918, his example of courage in repeatedly giving first aid to wounded inspired confidence in the men of his company.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALTER SHIELDS, Medical Detachment, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action near the Samogneux-Brabant road on November 3, 1918, when under heavy artillery fire he gave first aid to wounded soldiers and although wounded himself continued his work until all were in a place of safety.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, BUCKNER P. SHOLL (1212841), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, in aiding and evacuating wounded under heavy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, NICHOLAS SIMON (1204707), Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and fearlessness during the battle of Le Selle River, where he acted as a runner until seriously wounded.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARRY S. SIMONSON (1209247), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty on the night of October 16, 1918, in locating under heavy shell fire and gas concentration the units of his battalion for the purpose of delivering important message in connection with the attack for the following morning.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM SIEVEN, Battery E, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 19, 1918, in delivering ammunition to battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration, in the performance of which duty he received a wound, which caused his death.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, BASIL L. SMITH (1203237), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in holding his gun in action in the face of enemy grenade and rifle fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HARRY A. SMITH (1215510), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry in leaving a shell hole and dressing the wounds of wounded comrades under heavy enemy machine gun fire. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, CARMON F. SOLO (1215512), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry in dressing the wounds of soldiers of his company under heavy hostile artillery fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, ALEXANDER F. SOMMERVILLE (1209810), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, SILAS SPITZER, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in carrying messages and rations under heavy shell fire and over territory under observation by enemy fire. This at Forges, France, October 4, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PAUL STEVENSON, Sanitary Detachment, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29 to November 11, 1918, in repeatedly and with great coolness evacuating casualties from areas almost constantly under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN H. STEWART (1211283), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier proved an inspiration to the men around him through his example and exceptional bravery. When one of his comrades had become entangled in the enemy's barbed wire he went immediately to his assistance, although subjecting himself to intense machine gun fire. After succeeding in extricating his comrade he resumed the advance with his squad and further distinguished himself with effective work against several enemy machine gun nests.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HENRY C. STOTT (1216080), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For qualities of leadership and daring displayed in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in commanding a squad after its corporals had been killed, and continuing, although wounded, until exhausted.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, PHILIP W. SULZER, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in repairing telephone lines and carrying messages between battery and battalion headquarters under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations. This from November 1 to 8, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK SYPNIEWSKI (3034526), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FREDERICK H. THIBODEAU (1203162), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and determination in twice rescuing a wounded comrade under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, THOMAS F. TIERNEY, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in bringing rations to battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire and by great coolness, initiative and without regard to personal risk, saving animals and material from destruction.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, J. J. TOWER, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage, determination and marked qualities of leadership in taking command of his Lewis Gun Squad after the corporal had been killed and leading it forward to an advanced position and gathering together men of different squads, organizing a small detachment and effecting a further advance.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM TULLY (1211287), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests until killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, GEORGE DWYER VIRDEN (1212816), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and determination in voluntarily going to the rescue of a wounded comrade in the face of a storm of hand grenades, dressing his wounds, dragging him to a place of greater safety and later evacuating him. This during a local raid by the enemy on the sector occupied by his platoon in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 21, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK W. VOGEL (1201924), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in Engineering and Water Reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, HAROLD H. WALKER (1209140), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 33
For exceptional devotion to duty and courage when, although ill with fever, he refused to be evacuated, in order to engage with his regiment in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, and continued in action, rendering efficient aid to the wounded until he himself was evacuated on October 24, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RICHARD WALSH (1203781), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918, in remaining several hours with his captain, who had been wounded, and then creeping back unarmed under heavy machine gun fire in order to bring him medical assistance. This soldier reached his company and brought up a rescue party, which after repeated efforts, under heavy fire, finally evacuated the captain the following day.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FRANK J. WALTERS (1205143), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and determination in battle. This soldier on September 29, 1918, east of Ronssoy, France, in the face of heavy machine gun fire efficiently served his Lewis gun.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN WARD (1204410), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
For courage and initiative in securing and maintaining a Lewis gun position in the attic of a house at Arbre Guernon, France, thereby preventing the occupation of an enemy machine gun post. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, VINCENT M. WHITE, Battery C, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Chattancourt, Forges, Gercourt, Dannevoux, and Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, September 26 to November 2, 1918, in carrying important messages through heavy enemy shell fire over unfamiliar ground between battery and battalion headquarters.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WILLIAM P. WHITE, Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional gallantry in voluntarily bringing in three wounded comrades under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire during the operations of his regiment near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 16, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN R. WHITTLE (1210166), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. After being mortally wounded this soldier carried ammunition to the front line trenches under heavy fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RUFUS A. WILLIAMS (1211401), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line on September 29, 1918, east of Ronssoy, France, this soldier displayed exceptional courage and tenacity by holding off against hopeless odds, a number of the enemy until his ammunition was exhausted and he was killed.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, NORMAN W. WILSON (1200387), Company D, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 42
 For exceptional devotion to duty and determination in carrying messages under fire although suffering from effects of gas. This in the battle of Le Selle River and subsequent engagements, October 17-20, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, EDWARD C. WOODRUFF (1210368), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For his excellent work as company runner in delivering messages through shell and machine gun fire, refusing to be evacuated sick when he was in no condition to continue, until ordered to the rear for treatment by his company commander. This at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WESLEY YOUNG (1206604), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For rendering first aid and evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire during which time he was wounded. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, JOHN J. YUDE (1216089), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. After having his rifle blown from his hands, leaving him unarmed, this soldier immediately assumed the work of carrying wounded to places of safety.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, FREDERICK H. ZACCARIA (1206091), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated in maintaining communication during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALDO ZAGAT (1200241), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying important messages under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 26-30, 1918.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, WALDO ZAGAT (1200241), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty on the night of October 16, 1918, in locating under heavy shell fire and gas concentration the units of his battalion for the purpose of delivering important message in connection with the attack for the following morning.

PRIVATE SALVATORE ABBATE (1204007), Company D, 105th Artillery. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and great determination in the accurate use of his rifle on August 30, 1918, during the assault on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, in hitting two enemy snipers. About five minutes later he himself was wounded and evacuated. This soldier also showed great devotion to duty in leaving hospital before his wound was healed in order to take part in subsequent operations of the division and was again wounded during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE BUFORD ABBOTT (2037776), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE ALFRED ABRAMS (2671209), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Squadron. S. O. 26
 For courage and determination in coolly holding in place the animals and limber in his charge under heavy shell and machine gun fire which inflicted many casualties among men and animals about him, and in removing wounded under heavy enemy fire. This on October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River.

PRIVATE BENJAMIN ABRAMOWITZ (1208998), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and determination in leaving shelter and going forward to a shell hole to give first aid to a wounded soldier and attempting his evacuation, during which he was seriously wounded. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 21, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN M. AGRESTA, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, on October 17, 1918, in laying and maintaining a telephone line to the forward observation post north of Dannevoux, a distance of seven kilometers, under severe mustard gas and shell fire concentrations, without food or relief, enabling the maintenance of a battalion fire.

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS, RAYMOND ALBRECHT (1211461), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ALFRED E. ALLEN (1203732), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier, a company runner, constantly exposed himself in daylight to enemy fire in maintaining communication between his company and battalion commanders.

PRIVATE JOE AMENDOLA (2672782), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 33
 For untiring zeal and courage under fire in carrying supplies to and evacuating wounded civilians from the towns of La Haie Menneresse and St. Souplet during the progress of our advance through these towns; this immediately prior to the battle of Le Selle River, and on October 16, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWIN P. ANDERSON (1672357), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in effectively bombing hostile machine gunners. While so engaged he was killed.

PRIVATE ROY A. ANDERSON (2670749), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For determination and untiring devotion to duty during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 27 to 29, 1918.

PRIVATE SEYMOUR ANDERSON (1211504), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. The body of this soldier was found surrounded by four dead enemy soldiers in positions indicating that he had shot them down after his own corporal and squad had become casualties.

PRIVATE LESLIE ANDRES (1213953), Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE PHILLIP ANGELLOTI (2451818), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For exceptional courage and determination in assaulting enemy machine gun nests and capturing or killing their occupants; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANK H. ARNOLD, Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in laying lateral telephone communication between two battalions of the 106th Infantry, in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August, 1918. This soldier was later killed in advancing with a telephone line in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE DONALD M. ASPDEN (1210873), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry at Vaux Andigny, October 14, 1918, in going out under heavy enemy machine gun fire to carry the body of a fatally wounded comrade to the shelter of a nearby building.

PRIVATE OLIVER AULT, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in attending to wounded soldiers during an aerial bombing attack without regard to personal risk and exposing himself with great bravery until all the wounded were removed. This on October 31, 1918.

PRIVATE ROY AUSTIN, Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery in covering the retirement of the 3d Battalion, 105th Infantry, by staying at his machine gun post until the battalion established itself in a stronger position. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier was later wounded at Arbre Guernon, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES B. AYERS (1207626), Headquarters Troop, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 As a dispatch rider and driver of staff cars, he performed important duties frequently under conditions of danger and difficulty, showing zeal, energy, resourcefulness and coolness under fire, rendering valuable and faithful service with intelligence and skill during operations of the 27th Division in the Ypres-Lys offensive in Belgium and the Somme offensive in France.

PRIVATE JOSEPH G. BABIN (1209215), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying an important message under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 30, 1918.

PRIVATE LEROY BACON (1212595), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For voluntarily carrying badly wounded men from shell holes to places of shelter, all under heavy shell and machine gun fire; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ALBERT BAGDAZARIAN (406101), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE ARTHUR L. BALDWIN (2450058), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE PRESCOTT E. BARKER (1211482), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 This gallant young soldier, of slender physique, conquered the hardships of campaign by spirit and determination. An expert Lewis gunner, he rendered most effective service in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, and was killed the same day while advancing against the enemy.

PRIVATE JAMES A. BARRY, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Chattancourt, France, in voluntarily carrying important messages to the Battalion Commander through areas under heavy enemy artillery fire. This on October 3, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE C. BARTLE (1201826), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying messages under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the engagements in the vicinity of St. Souplet and Arbre Guernon, France, October 17 and 18, 1918.

PRIVATE ARSENE J. BASSETTE (1202775), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 While acting as a runner this soldier discovered a fire in an ammunition dump and departing from the scope of his work succeeded in extinguishing the fire although two shells exploded while he was doing so and other soldiers had run away, calling to him to do likewise. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 30, 1918.

PRIVATE CONRAD BASTEDENBECK (2672525), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination in evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ARTHUR BATES (1210832), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE GEORGE BATES, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE RAYMOND BATES, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous service in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Forges, France, September 28 to October 3, 1918, as a member of a gun crew in repairing and operating against the enemy a group of captured enemy 77 m.m. field guns.

PRIVATE MICHAEL BAUMANN (1201928), Company C, 102d United States Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE CECIL BEALL (1211014), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE VINCENT E. BEATTIE (1212834), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in rendering first aid to the wounded under heavy enemy fire. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August, 1918, and in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT R. BEAVER (1231779), Division Headquarters Troop (Deceased). S. O. 33
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and gallantry as a dispatch rider in carrying messages across heavily shelled areas. This soldier was killed September 27, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line.

PRIVATE ADOLPHUS BENNETT (1215983), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For great gallantry and determination in evacuating wounded, continuing after being himself wounded; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ALBERT BENSICO (1214527), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE GUSTAVE BENSON (1203512), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and inspiring example in action when under an officer and two sergeants, he occupied an outpost in advance of his company, which was attacked by a superior force of the enemy. This soldier assisted in repulsing the attack, killing a number of the enemy and taking five prisoners and three machine guns. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES S. BERRY (1218459), Battery B, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 33
 For courage and determination displayed as a member of a liaison detail of his regiment accompanying the infantry in advance near Forges, France, September 26, 1918.

PRIVATE WALTER BEST, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination near Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 28, 1918, in laying telephone line for a distance of two kilometers under extremely heavy shell fire.

PRIVATE MATHEW D. BINGHAM (1210169), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in repeatedly carrying messages under heavy fire; while so engaged he was killed.

PRIVATE G. E. BLANCHETTE (1203513), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE RAYMOND O. BLAUVELT (1211251), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918, although suffering from a most painful wound in his side, this soldier refused to go to the rear, but continued to advance against the enemy with great coolness and gallantry until killed.

PRIVATE FRANCIS W. BLEWITT (1209143), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in the evacuation of wounded under heavy enemy fire and gas concentration; this in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE ERNEST W. BLOMGREN (1209144), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry repeatedly displayed in the evacuation of wounded under heavy artillery and machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE A. BOAG (1210782), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE VIRGIL H. BOGARDUS (2451321), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed chiefly of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE WALTER J. BONK (1200025), M. C., Division Headquarters (Deceased). S. O. 33
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and gallantry as a dispatch rider in carrying messages across heavily shelled areas. This soldier was killed September 27, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line.

PRIVATE EDWARD C. BONNELL (363899), Company L, 107th Infantry. (Died of wounds received in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, October 2, 1918.) S. O. 31
 For courage and inspiring example during the repulse of a German raid on trenches held by his company in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE HUGO BONSAING, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, when, in response to a barrage call, he fired his piece accurately and unaided for twenty-four rounds in the absence of the other members of the gun crew.

PRIVATE ELWOOD F. BOOTH, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in repairing telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire and voluntarily again repairing said lines at night under heavy artillery shell concentrations without regard to personal risk, repairing fifty breaks.

PRIVATE HARRY V. BORDEN (1211463), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GROVER BOSTWICK, Headquarters Company, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in remaining on constant duty for forty-eight hours maintaining telephone connection between battalion headquarters and the advanced observation post of the battalion. This during the attack of September 26, 1918, at Chattancourt, France.

PRIVATE JAMES BOUGIR, Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and devotion to duty in rendering first aid and evacuating wounded under heavy fire after being wounded himself. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

1460
PRIVATE CHARLES E. BOUTEILLER, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 1 to 11, 1918, in maintaining radio communication between regimental and battalion headquarters in an unsheltered position under heavy enemy gas concentration.

PRIVATE HAROLD P. BOWANIZER (409595), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
For devotion to duty, zeal and untiring energy in the evacuation of wounded in all the battles in Belgium and France in which his unit participated, August-October, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE BRADLEY (1201831), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE ERNEST BRAGG, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River, in the face of heavy enemy fire, and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE MICHAEL P. BRANLEY (1203582), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES K. BRODER, Sanitary Detachment, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For bravery in evacuating wounded under heavy shell and machine gun fire, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD J. BRODERICK (1203177), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in holding his gun in action in the face of heavy enemy grenade and rifle fire. This in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 11, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD BRODIGAN, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE HERBERT BROMLEY (1210380), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and skill in operating a Lewis gun and holding an advanced machine gun post at Vaux Andigny, France, October 14, 1918, under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire, the position being highly illuminated by the burning of surrounding buildings.

PRIVATE EDWARD B. BROOKS (1206738), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
For devotion to duty in rendering first aid to and evacuating wounded under heavy fire during attack on Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE LESLIE BROOKS, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE CARL P. BROSTROM (1209218), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For courage and devotion to duty on the night of October 16, 1918, in locating under heavy shell fire and gas concentration the units of his battalion for the purpose of delivering important message in connection with the attack for the following morning.

PRIVATE JAMES P. BROW, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous service in action in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, France, September 28 to October 3, 1918, as a member of a gun crew in repairing and operating against the enemy a group of captured enemy 77 m.m. field guns.

PRIVATE WILLIAM BROWN, Company G, 102d Ammunition Train (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry and devotion to duty on October 8, 1918, during operations of his command in France. While driving an ammunition limber along the Bethincourt-Forges Road, this soldier conducted himself with great gallantry when the contents of the limber exploded, resulting in injuries which later caused his death.

PRIVATE WILLIAM BURKE (1604013), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE EVERETT BURKMAN (1200610), Company B, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35
For repeated demonstrations of conspicuous zeal and courage under heavy enemy fire in making reconnaissance and carrying messages during operations east of Arbre Guernon, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE DANIEL BURNS (1215315), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE SAMUEL J. BURNS (2451339), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty under heavy fire during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE GUSTAVUS W. BURTON (1222806), 102d Sanitary Train (Deceased). S. O. 31
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of the Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

PRIVATE AUGUST BUSH (1214191), Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE WARREN BUSH (1203586), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary heroism and coolness under heavy enemy fire when he succeeded in capturing an enemy outpost, taking three prisoners. This during the battle of the Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS J. BYRNE (1207894), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and determination in caring for wounded under fire. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM P. BYRNES, JR. (1209006), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in the evacuation of wounded under heavy enemy fire and gas concentration; this in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN A. CADMUS (1210785), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE ALFRED CADY, Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE E. CADY (1215986), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle, and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE EDWARD CAHILL (1204196), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. CAIRNS (1212411), Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage and determination as a runner during operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. Having penetrated the enemy lines he and his Lieutenant met two enemy soldiers, one of whom they captured after driving the other away. Later he with three shots of his rifle killed one and wounded two other Germans who resisted, although knowing he was out of touch with the regiment, and well within the German position. Later with his Lieutenant he attempted to release a group of Americans who were prisoners, although by so doing he disclosed his own place of concealment and destroyed his last opportunity to await friendly troops. Under direct machine gun fire he made an unsuccessful attempt to cross the German line of trenches and only surrendered rather than be killed, on his Lieutenant's directions.

PRIVATE ARTHUR J. CALLAHAN (1205443), Company I, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE WILLIAM D. CALLAHAN (1222912), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT V. CAMPBELL (1203515), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery demonstrated in carrying messages and evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANK CAMPO (2451231), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery and devotion to duty demonstrated as a runner under heavy enemy machine gun and trench mortar fire. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, August 26, 1918.

PRIVATE LUIGI CAPABIANCO, Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN J. CAREY (1205884), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great gallantry in action and determination during the assault against the outworks of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918. This gallant soldier went forward with his command into the enemy works and during the progress of a heavy counter attack personally held up and killed with his rifle a number of the enemy, until he was killed.

PRIVATE VICTOR E. CARLSON (1210384), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For his splendid work in Lone Tree Trench and Macquincourt Trench in mopping up these trenches and assisting the crew of the tank, which had been placed out of action, to escape. In doing this he was severely wounded and lay out in a shell hole for some time before he could be brought in.

PRIVATE ALFRED J. CARON (1692487), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges, to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE HARRY CARPENTER, Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in rendering special services under heavy machine gun fire in front of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT S. CARPENTER (1201030), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage in the face of violent enemy shell and machine gun fire in patrolling and repairing telephone lines in the battle of Guillemont Farm, France, September 29, 1918, with the 107th Infantry.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. CARROLL, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in attending to wounded soldiers during an aerial bombing attack without regard to personal risk and exposing himself with great bravery until all the wounded were removed. This on October 31, 1918.

PRIVATE FLOYD M. CARTER (1211515), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. CARTER (1204367), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For gallantry and determination frequently demonstrated while acting as a regimental runner during battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

PRIVATE ARTHUR CASTELINE, Sanitary Detachment, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29 to November 11, 1918, in repeatedly and with great coolness evacuating casualties from areas almost constantly under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE PAUL B. CAVANAGH (1210322), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For excellent work as company runner at Dickebusch, Belgium, August, 1918, continually carrying messages to and from company headquarters, under heavy rifle and shell fire from the enemy lines.

PRIVATE DOMINICK CERONI, Medical Detachment, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action near the Samogneux-Brabant road on November 3, 1918, when under heavy artillery fire he gave first aid to wounded soldiers and although wounded himself continued his work until all were in a place of safety.

PRIVATE A. J. CERVINI (2671747), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY E. CHALLENGER, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of the Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE JOHN CHAMBERLAIN (1211466), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE C. CHARD (1210848), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and devotion to duty on August 15, 1918, when under shell fire opposite Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, he attempted to get a message through to Battalion Headquarters and was struck by a bursting shell. Private Chard died from wounds two days later.

PRIVATE HAROLD E. CHASMAR, Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE NICOLA CHEARAYALLE (2541819), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. This soldier advanced far ahead of the regiment during the smoke barrage, joined the Australians, and continued to fight until killed.

PRIVATE SPENCER CHRISTMAN (1204369), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For gallantry and determination frequently demonstrated while acting as a regimental runner during the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

PRIVATE ALBERT CICCOTRELLI (1214418), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. CICOTTE, Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in Engineering and Water Reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

PRIVATE LOUIS CIROLLA, Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in voluntarily laying wires over a heavily shelled and gassed area and establishing communication with forward units. This in the battle of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWIN M. CLARK (1210176), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918, in carrying messages from Regimental Headquarters to companies in the front line under continuous shell fire.

PRIVATE GEORGE CLARK, Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH A. CLARK (1207206), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courage and initiative in escaping from enemy lines with useful information after having been captured. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE URBAN CLARK (1214684), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE REGINALD A. CLARKE, 27th Military Police Company. S. O. 86
 For skillful controlling of traffic and handling of prisoners of war under heavy enemy fire east of Ronsoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES M. CLEARY (1206527), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For rendering first aid and evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire during which time he was wounded. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES M. CLEARY (1206527), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, when he advanced against machine gun nests single handed, although wounded, destroying the same with hand grenades.

PRIVATE JOSEPH B. CLEMENT (1203180), Machine Gun Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, great resourcefulness and devotion to duty in carrying messages under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE IRVING C. CLEVERLY, Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN E. CLOSS (1210790), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE ROBERT E. COBURN (1209683), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE CODY, Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE MEYER COHEN (2672472), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company numbering in all twenty-eight men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE THEODORE L. COHEN (1200339), Company D, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 29
 For gallantry and determination in delivering an important message after being badly gassed; this in the vicinity of Busigny, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE HARVEY COLE (1210849), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and courage in voluntarily making a reconnoissance under heavy fire during the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE CARROLL COLL (1211468), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE EUGENE R. COLLINS (1231783), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying messages by day and night with little rest over shell swept woods. This during the engagements in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 16 to 18, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN COMINSKY (408104), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company numbering in all 28 men which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE EARLE W. CONLEY (1222811), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

PRIVATE J. L. CONNELL (1211518), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES G. CONNOLLY, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1,200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE LEWIS CONOR, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in repairing telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire until killed.

PRIVATE WALTER T. CONRAD (1211255), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918, this soldier distinguished himself by refusing the opportunity to surrender in face of hopeless odds, but continued to hold off enemy until his ammunition was exhausted. He was killed while endeavoring to aid a wounded comrade.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. CONROY (1205496), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE BERNARD L. CONWAY (1216760), Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 26
For accompanying the 132d Infantry on the occasion of the assault against Forges Wood, France, September 26, 1918, and establishing wire communication with his regiment, this under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE EDWARD S. CONWAY, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE PETER COOMBS (1209741), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For inspiring example of fearlessness and courage in volunteering and carrying wounded men in daylight under machine gun and sniper fire from the front line; this in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH COONE, Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in front of Guillemont Farm, September 29, 1918. First Lieutenant R. A. Byrns, who had been wounded, would have been run over by a large tank except for the presence of mind and bravery of this man who rushed over and pulled him out of the way, although in so doing he was exposed to heavy machine gun fire.

PRIVATE CHARLES F. CORDES, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in carrying important messages between battalion and regimental headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire. This from November 1 to 11, 1918.

PRIVATE A. H. CORRIGAN (1211519), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE MICHAEL P. COSTELLO (1216539), Company C, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 29
For going forward under heavy fire and rescuing two wounded comrades; this in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE D. COUGLAR (1210386), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES F. COUGHLIN (1405340), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE EDWARD CRAWFORD (1209058), 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE DAVID CREW, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action and exceptional devotion to duty in the vicinity of Forges, France, October 3, 1918, when, having been sent to secure the fire of a heavy battery against an enemy position causing great loss, and finding the fire could not be executed, he proceeded a distance of five kilometers under heavy enemy shell fire and induced another battery to execute the mission.

PRIVATE WILLIAM D. CRISE (1950940), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For exceptional courage and inspiring example frequently demonstrated in battle, particularly in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, when all but two of his squad were killed or wounded.

PRIVATE JOHN CUYLER CRIST (1212803), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33
For conspicuous gallantry in advancing to a shell hole under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire to dress the wounds of an officer and after dusk successfully removing the officer to shelter; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN CUYLER CRIST (1212806), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33
For conspicuous gallantry and determination in procuring a pistol and joining the depleted ranks of a detachment of his regiment and assisting in the repulse of an enemy counter-attack. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 30, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES L. CROVAT (1227532), Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 26
For accompanying the 132d Infantry on the occasion of the assault against Forges Wood, France, September 28, 1918, and establishing wire communication with his regiment, this under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE HARRY CROWE, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH CUCCIA (2672786), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE J. CUDDY (1210851), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For exceptional valor and inspiring example during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier was shot through the throat and both cheeks by machine gun bullets when his company entered the enemy machine gun barrage during its advance. He was ordered to the rear. Unable to speak, he shook his head and immediately started forward, furnishing to his company an inspiring example of determination at a critical moment. Shortly thereafter he received a third and fatal wound.

PRIVATE JOHN P. CULLEN (1208901), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For gallantry and determination in the evacuation of wounded under fire. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE HERBERT B. CUMMING, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Haraumont, France, in voluntarily carrying an important message from his regimental commander to the advanced accompanying battery positions at Villaneuve Farm, under heavy enemy artillery fire. This on November 8, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN B. CUMMINGS (1210852), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE HARRY CUNDY (1208496), Company K, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
For gallantry in holding an advanced Lewis gun post of his company until killed. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918.

1500 PRIVATE FRANCIS E. CURTIN (1201744), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE GLENN CURTIS (1214422), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE AUGUSTUS W. CUTLER, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on October 17, 1918, in repeatedly repairing broken telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire although his clothing was torn by shell splinters.

PRIVATE ALBERT A. DALBERT, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois de Chaume, France, October 13 to 16, 1918, in carrying messages to and from Battalion Headquarters, frequently under heavy enemy shell and machine gun fire and continuing although seriously affected by gas.

PRIVATE FRANK A. DALY (1209146), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and determination repeatedly exhibited in the establishment of aid stations and the dressing of wounded under heavy fire at the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, and at Le Selle River, October 17 and 18, 1918. In the latter battle he was wounded while aiding wounded comrades under shell fire.

PRIVATE HARVEY DANNER (2038908), Company C, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE GILBERT M. DARLING (1211319), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE NAPOLEON DASHNAW (1210388), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918, in crawling out in front of The Knoll to carry in Private Petrie (1210359), who had been wounded.

PRIVATE TONEY DAUSKI (1210389), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery in crawling out under enemy rifle fire and carrying in the body of Private Salisbury (1210474), who had just been killed in attempting to silence an enemy sniper at Vaux Andigny, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE NORMAN DAVIDSON (404360), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronsoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE GEORGE DAVIS (1205498), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE NATHAN DAVIS (2672302), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and bravery as battalion runner of the 1st Battalion, 107th Infantry, in carrying messages at Vaux Andigny, France, during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT M. DAVIS (1209745), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry and determination in advancing over an open field under heavy fire at the time of a raid on the front line trenches, for which he and his comrades were commended by the British commander. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD A. DAY (1209270), Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 33
For conspicuous courage and disregard of self in conducting a wounded comrade to the rear under heavy enemy fire and promptly returning to his position in the belt filling station, at which place he was killed by shell fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD H. DEAN (1215624), Company L, 108th Infantry. S. O. 52
For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in evacuating the wounded and leading stragglers back to the line.

PRIVATE HENRY DE BAUN (1210855), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE WILLIAM E. DE BEVOISE (1209328), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying important messages under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration until evacuated as a casualty. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 26-30, 1918.

PRIVATE GUISEPI DEBIANO (2672323), Company F, 105th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty while acting as stretcher bearer under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918, and during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17-18, 1918.

PRIVATE AMOS DE BOTT (1213687), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE LOUIS A. DE HAYES (1209581), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For exceptional efficiency and courageous service as signalman of his battalion during operations in Belgium, August 22-September 3, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM DEHM (1222916), 107th Ambulance Company. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying in wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE DELAHAY (1211857), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in successfully driving off strong enemy attacks upon his post, although all in his squad but his Corporal had been killed or wounded. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 22, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive.

PRIVATE THOMAS O. DELANCEY (1215670), Headquarters Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination in carrying important messages under heavy fire in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 12-15, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE DELATOS (1214651), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in rescuing a wounded comrade under heavy machine gun fire during the forcing of Le Selle River, in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN T. DEMPSEY, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE FRANK DEPZYNSKI, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM DE TROY (1204212), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For devotion to duty while acting as runner near St. Souplet, France, continually passing through areas under heavy enemy fire. This soldier volunteered for this work with full knowledge of the fate of other runners of this company. This during the battles of Le Selle River, October 17, and Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES A. DEVLIN (1209474), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying important messages under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentration until evacuated as a casualty. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 26-30, 1918.

PRIVATE FREDERICK H. DEWEY (1222817), 106th Ambulance Company. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage, determination and devotion to duty in rendering first aid to and evacuating wounded at the extreme front. This in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, and during the battles of Le Selle River, Jonc de Mer Ridge and the St. Maurice River, France, October 17-20, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY L. DILLMAN (1205502), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty repeatedly demonstrated throughout the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

PRIVATE BARTHOLOMEW E. DILLON (1200123), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courage and determination in the handling of limbers under heavy enemy artillery fire. This on October 19, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, France.

PRIVATE VINCENT A. DILLON (1211525), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HENRY DI MARTINO (1205503), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE EDWARD S. DIMICK (1208500), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination in remaining in action with his Lewis gun until too weak to continue. This after being wounded in three places in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918.

PRIVATE WILBUR H. DOLSON (1211958), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage and determination in holding off and driving back an enemy attack on the post held by his squad until wounded. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 22, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive.

PRIVATE PETER P. DONNELLY (1204028), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company, numbering in all twenty-eight men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE ALFRED DOUGLAS (1206756), Company B, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49

For exceptional gallantry and determination frequently demonstrated. This soldier, having been wounded near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, in August, 1918, was returned to his regiment from the hospital in time to engage in the attack on the outer defenses of the Hindenburg Line. In this battle he was wounded again, and while lying in a shell hole saw his Lieutenant fall wounded. He immediately left the shell hole and while trying to get the wounded officer to the rear was once more hit and instantly killed.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. DOWLING (1210394), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional bravery in carrying a wounded comrade from The Knoll to the shelter of a sunken road at the right of The Knoll while under heavy enemy shell fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE AMBROSE P. DOYLE (1208787), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in maintaining an advanced post and in repulsing enemy patrols. This east of Ronssoy, France, September 26, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN DOYLE, Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE RUDOLPH DREPER, JR., Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in carrying ammunition to forward units under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM H. DRISCOLL, 52d Field Artillery, Brigade Headquarters Company. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during operations of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade in the vicinity of Fromerville, La Hutte, Bois de Forges, Gercourt, Cumieres, Brabant and Consenvoye, France, in driving his automobile day and night during reconnaissances over roads exposed to enemy artillery fire and through gas concentrations from September 9 to November 11, 1918.

PRIVATE STANLEY DRIVINSKI (1208961), Company M, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49

For courage and initiative in making a reconnaissance to locate an enemy machine gun nest in the vicinity of Jonquiery Farm, France. In returning he was killed. This in the battle of the St. Maurice River, October 20, 1918.

PRIVATE ALEXANDER G. DUANE (1209898), Company B, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For meritorious service and determination in attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. After being wounded this soldier continued in the attack and received further wounds, which resulted in his death on the field.

PRIVATE THOMAS E. DUGAN (1205061), Company I, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination; on September 29, 1918, east of Ronssoy, France, this soldier in the face of heavy shell and machine gun fire carried an important message to Battalion Commander, in the performance of which duty he was severely wounded and eventually died from wounds received.

PRIVATE CHRISTOPHER J. DUNN (1222917), Ambulance Company 107. S. O. 49

For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD E. DUNN, 107th Ambulance Company. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in carrying in wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY C. DUPREE, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, September 26 to November 11, 1918, in carrying messages to battery positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE DENIS J. DWYER, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 11 and 12, 1918, in rescuing a wounded comrade under heavy enemy shell fire and carrying him to a dressing station in time to save his life.

PRIVATE MILTON E. DYE (1211322), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

During the battle of Junc de Mer Ridge, October 17, 1918, this soldier advanced with great skill and conspicuous bravery against strong enemy machine gun positions until killed.

PRIVATE CHARLES A. EDWARDS (1207456), Company E, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86

For bravery under heavy fire at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 28 and 29. While carrying a wounded soldier on a stretcher his partner was wounded. Placing the stretcher down, he bandaged his partner's wound, and alone carried the stretcher case to a trench one hundred yards distant.

PRIVATE CYRIL EGGLESTON (1205293), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and gallantry during the battles in Belgium and France while acting as battalion runner.

PRIVATE HARRY W. ELWORTHY, JR. (1211532), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THEODORE EMERY (1211626), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. On September 29, 1918, during the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, this soldier was severely wounded in the face, but refused to go to the rear for some time, continuing to go forward and encouraging others by his cool and courageous attitude.

PRIVATE CHARLES ENDRES, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters, from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE FRANCIS J. ENGEL (1211324), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, although badly wounded early in the action this soldier continued to advance with great courage and gallantry until unable to proceed further because of a second wound. However, although unable to move from a shell hole, where he had taken cover, he was able to kill and wound a number of an enemy attacking party by the skillful throwing of his remaining hand grenades. His exceptional bravery proved an inspiration to his comrades.

PRIVATE H. W. ENGEL (2038805), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM ENKLER (2450037), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and determination in remaining at an advanced post under heavy rifle grenade fire, although wounded earlier in action. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE SAMUEL ENTIN (2451779), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For repeated demonstrations of courage and fearlessness at all times and particularly at the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, when he was killed.

PRIVATE FREDERICK F. ERIKSEN (1209690), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For disregard to danger in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight and this soldier covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

PRIVATE GILBERT L. ETHIER (1210395), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM EWING (1203521), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For bravery and heroism in action at St. Souplet on October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River. This soldier while making a reconnaissance was wounded, but fulfilled his mission and returned to the front line with the rest of the patrol.

PRIVATE ERICK W. EXLEY (1210191), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 21, 1918, in successfully delivering a needed message under heavy fire at a time when he was suffering from gas.

PRIVATE MICHAEL FAEHNRICH, Company C, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE JAMES R. FALLON (1200129), 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE THOMAS J. FARNAN (1205507), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE EDWARD FELAX (2040987), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE ROBERT FENNELL, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of the Bois d'Ormont, France, November 1, 1918, in driving his automobile over roads subjected to heavy enemy shell fire in an attempt to conduct liaison officers to forward infantry positions, continuing his work until killed.

PRIVATE PETER A. FERINGA (1212823), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 28, 1918. A high explosive shell having burst among the platoon to which he was assigned, killed six and wounded sixteen, among the latter being Private Feringa. He, upon regaining consciousness, in total disregard of self and although painfully wounded, remained and dressed the wounds of his comrades, later being himself evacuated to a hospital in the rear.

PRIVATE GEORGE L. FETHEROLF (1211533), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN FINAN, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in continuing to serve his gun under heavy enemy shell fire until killed at his post.

PRIVATE JOHN FINNERAN (1214657), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage and determination in aiding in the destruction of an enemy machine gun nest, during which operation this soldier was twice wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ALEXANDER A. FISCHER (1211536), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH A. FITZPATRICK, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters, from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE WILLIAM A. FITZPATRICK, Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in rendering special services under heavy machine gun fire in front of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE MILLAN W. FLICK (1216132), Sanitary Detachment, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 52
 For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in giving first aid and evacuating the wounded under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE NICHOLAS J. FLOCK (1201190), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE JOHN J. FLYNN (1211964), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in assuming command of his squad after the Corporal had been killed and successfully repulsing an enemy raid. This in the vicinity of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, in July, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS A. FLYNN, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on October 17, 1917, in rescuing a wounded comrade under heavy enemy shell fire at great personal risk.

PRIVATE GEORGE J. FOGARTY (1206667), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination in continuing in action and successfully silencing an enemy machine gun nest by effectiveness of his fire, after being wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE RICHARD J. FOLEY (12223156), 105th Field Hospital Company. S. O. 33
 For untiring zeal and courage under fire in carrying supplies to and evacuating wounded civilians from the towns of La Haie Menneresse and St. Souplet during the progress of our advance through these towns. This immediately prior to the battle of Le Selle River on October 16, 1918.

PRIVATE LEONARD J. FOSTER (1210399), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 On October 14 at Vaux Andigny, he succeeded in putting out of action a hostile machine gun that had been giving us enfilading fire up the railroad track. At night time he took up a position with a Lewis machine gun that prevented the enemy from taking his old position. This soldier was killed while on patrol near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY FREDERICKS (1206765), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courage, determination and inspiring example in continuing in action after being wounded and until again wounded during an enemy counter attack. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE DANIEL FRIEDLANDER (2670819), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE FRY (1204255), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and skill, when, although severely wounded, he engaged an enemy machine gun nest with rifle fire until same had been outflanked. This man's action was such as to inspire his comrades with a great zeal for the accomplishment of the task set for them. This during the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES R. FUHRI (1210864), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE RICHARD E. FUNK (2451917), Company A, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35
 For gallantry on the night of August 14, 1918, in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium. After being severely wounded, this soldier refused attention until other wounded about him had been cared for.

PRIVATE SIGMUND GACZEWSKI, Medical Detachment, 106 Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action near the Samogneux-Brabant road on November 3, 1918, when under heavy artillery fire he gave first aid to wounded soldiers and, although wounded himself, continued his work until all were in a place of safety.

PRIVATE ANTHONY GALGANO (1211471), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HAROLD D. GARDINER, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional valor in delivering messages to tanks under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS GARRY (1209754), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For disregard to danger in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight, and this soldier covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

PRIVATE PETER P. GAYNOR (1208462), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action at the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918. After being wounded by a shell fragment and evacuated, he voluntarily returned to the battlefield and continued first aid work for thirty-two hours until his battalion was relieved.

PRIVATE PRIMME GAZAILLE (1211472), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For determination and devotion to duty in refusing to leave his post in the line after being wounded. This near Vaux Andigny, France, October 15, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN GEARY (1201733), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE LOUIS GEIER, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE M. GERRISH (1687915), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE JOSEPH GIBSON (1208358), Company I, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination in administering first aid to a wounded comrade in carrying him to an aid station, although wounded himself and despite the fact that he was a second time wounded while performing the last mentioned act.

PRIVATE ARTHUR F. GILL (1211538), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN O. GILSON, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Montzeville, France, September 9, 1918, in voluntarily repairing broken telephone wires under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE JAMES F. GLEASON (1211474), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

1650 ✓
 PRIVATE JULIUS GOLDBERG (1208359), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry in exposing himself to heavy enemy fire in maintaining the fire of his Lewis gun in an attempt to rescue a group of his comrades, which had been trapped in an enemy trench. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Ronsoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JACOB GOLDSTEIN, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE JOHN F. GOODWIN (2671201), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE LUKE A. GORDON (2671322), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE R. C. GORDON, Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 87
 For courage and qualities of leadership exhibited when acting as Corporal in his company during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS J. GOREY, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in voluntarily carrying important messages from the advanced infantry positions to battalion headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire.

PRIVATE JOHN M. GORING, JR. (409680), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES GOSDEK, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured 23 prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE HERBERT GOULD (1210870), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE HARRY G. GRACE (1950957), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 26
 For courageous delivery of battle messages under heavy enemy fire, this on October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, France.

PRIVATE WILLIAM GRANGER (1209582), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
 For exceptional efficiency and courageous service as signalman of his battalion during operations in Belgium, August 22-September 3, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE A. GREEN, Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in voluntarily laying wires over a heavily shelled and gassed area and establishing communication with forward units. This in the battle of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE HYMAN GREENBERG (2452780), Company A, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in aiding in the evacuation of wounded although suffering at the time from gas burns. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 26-27, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY W. GRIBBLE (1216109), Company C, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE JAMES J. GRIBRIN (1216017), Company M, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and initiative during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, advancing alone against an enemy machine gun, destroying the gun and killing three Germans operating it, with bombs, after he had become separated from the bombing squad of which he was a member.

PRIVATE MICHAEL J. GRIMES (2671386), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN E. GUARDIA (1203749), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918. This soldier, in company with three others, volunteered to bring up water and rations to the men of his company in an exposed position at the extreme front. This was successfully accomplished in daylight under intensive enemy fire.

PRIVATE RICHARD E. GUCKER (405670), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty in attack on the Hindenburg Line near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. After being wounded during the advance, he refused to retire, but continued with the attacking force until wounded a second time.

PRIVATE EDWARD A. GUIDISE (1211755), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier, with seven of his comrades, having advanced to a position about fifty yards from the main German trench in front of the canal, withstood the counter-attack of the enemy, who were in great numbers, refusing to surrender until all ammunition was expended, when he was surrounded and captured after having been severely wounded.

PRIVATE RAYMOND J. GUILFOYLE (1200636), Company B, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35
 For zeal and determination after being knocked down and slightly gassed by shell fire in continuing to serve his machine gun during a repulse of an enemy raid; this in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 16, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM GUILFOILE, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, devotion to duty and untiring energy while assisting the operations' officer in a reconnaissance of the front line on October 14, 1918, at Vaux Andigny, France.

PRIVATE ROSARIO GULLATTO (1211756), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. Caught with six of his comrades in a shell hole, September 29, 1918, in advance of his company, he displayed exceptional bravery by holding off superior numbers with his Lewis gun after being wounded in the arm. This soldier was finally taken prisoner after his ammunition was exhausted.

PRIVATE RAYMOND L. HAILE (1215931), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For making a personal reconnaissance to the enemy lines under heavy fire in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE EARL HALPIN, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great bravery while acting as a company runner in keeping platoons in contact with company headquarters. He was later killed while delivering a message. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE BURTON HAMILTON (1216264), Company A, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE RICHARD D. HAMILTON, JR. (1212524), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery displayed in the battle for the breaking of the Hindenburg Line near Ronssoy, France, until killed in action, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS F. HAMILTON (1207234), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in saving the lives of three comrades by quickly killing two Germans about to attack them from the rear. This during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE ROLAND E. HAMMOND (1209697), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun and sniper fire. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWIN HANEKE, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 17, 1918, in laying and maintaining a telephone line to the forward observation post north of Dannevoux, a distance of seven kilometers, under severe mustard gas and shell fire concentrations, without food or relief, enabling the maintenance of a battalion fire.

PRIVATE CHARLES D. HANNER (1209699), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For inspiring example of fearlessness and courage in volunteering and carrying wounded men in daylight under machine gun and sniper fire from the front line; this in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE MARTIN A. HANNON (1214889), Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in assisting in mopping up about five hundred yards of enemy trench under heavy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES J. HARKINS (2451270), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire during the operations in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANK A. HARLOW (1210801), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE ROBERT J. HARRISON (1202762), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage, determination and devotion to duty while serving as a runner at Battalion Headquarters of his regiment. This during battles and engagements in which his regiment took part in Belgium and in France.

PRIVATE JOSEPH HART (1204228), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WAVEL HART (1204229), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE EMIL HARTERT (1212564), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and coolness in carrying important orders under heavy fire and for attention to wounded without thought of self; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN HAYDEN (1209760), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in advancing over an open field under heavy fire at the time of a raid on the front line trenches, for which he and his comrades were commended by the British Commander. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY HAYES (1203531), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery and devotion to duty demonstrated as a runner under heavy enemy machine gun and trench mortar fire. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, August 26, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH A. HAYES (1207237), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For gallant rescue of wounded under fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM W. HAYWARD (1210415), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For the fearless manner in which he carried messages to and from the Battalion Commander, during the advance on Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, being fatally wounded in the discharge of his duties.

PRIVATE JOHN J. HEALY (1211284), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier although painfully wounded, continued in action with exceptional skill and conspicuous bravery until put out of action by second wound.

PRIVATE SYLVESTER E. HEDBERG (1209135), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and devotion to duty in the evacuation under heavy fire, this in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANK E. HEFFERMAN, Sanitary Detachment, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE LEON S. HEIGHT, Headquarters, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86
 For exceptionally meritorious service and devotion to duty during operations in the vicinity of Verdun, France, September 6 to November 5, 1918, in carrying important messages as motorcycle courier with unusual dependability regardless of hours, weather or traffic conditions.

PRIVATE CONRAD A. HEITMAN (1208243), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and determination while a member of a contact patrol during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31, 1918, in killing two of the enemy by the fire of his rifle and making it possible for his group to advance.

PRIVATE HARRY G. HELLER (1215715), Headquarters Co., 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and determination in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE EARL W. HEMINGWAY, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage in carrying rations to his company in the front line under heavy machine gun fire, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS HENNESSY (2671356), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For extraordinary heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in evacuating wounded under heavy shell and machine gun fire although wounded himself.

PRIVATE JOHN M. HENWOOD (1201061), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and coolness in action at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August, 1918, while serving with 2d Battalion, 107th Infantry, in sending two S. O. S. messages with the enemy attacking in close proximity. This soldier was recommended for gallantry on October 14, 1918; while serving as S. O. S. observer in an exposed position, he was severely wounded in seven places while his associate of the Intelligence Section was killed.

PRIVATE JOHN M. HENWOOD (1201061), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For coolness and devotion to duty in action on October 14, 1918, in the operations against Le Selle River, France, while working on a broken telephone line under shell fire for several hours, remaining at his post as operator in the cellar of a house that was completely destroyed and during the night acting as S. O. S. observer at an exposed position, where he was severely wounded, while his associate was killed.

PRIVATE HENRY M. HERRERA, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 31 to November 11, 1918, in continually carrying messages from Regimental P. C. to Brigade Headquarters under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE JOHN F. HESSION (2869630), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For disregard to danger in successfully advancing from the support to the front line, Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918. This action occurred in broad daylight, and this soldier covered a distance of about eight hundred yards over open ground, being fully exposed to enemy observation, machine gun and artillery fire.

PRIVATE CHARLES E. HEYDT (1222826), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For repeated demonstrations of courage and determination in driving ambulances over roads swept by enemy fire, for the purpose of evacuating wounded from the forward aid posts; this during and subsequent to the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 12-20, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS HICK, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANCIS A. HILL, JR. (406187), Division Headquarters Troop (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and devotion to duty while serving as Signal Corps Motorcycle Despatch Rider in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August, 1918. This zealous young volunteer, of less than 21 years of age, received wounds in action on October 13, 1918, resulting in his death.

PRIVATE EDWARD HIRSCHFELD (2671258), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire. This in the Dickebusch-Mt. Kemmel sector, Belgium, August 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD HOAGLAND, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES W. HOBLITZELL (1211894), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, determination and devotion to duty in voluntarily delivering a message to Battalion Headquarters under heavy enemy fire after the wires had been cut. This in front of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 21, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive. This soldier was severely wounded in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE FRED HODGSON (1212622), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For extraordinary heroism in action in driving a limber within a short distance of the advanced lines to bring back a wounded officer, this east of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE CARL HOFFMAN, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN J. HOGAN, Company B, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in carrying an important message under heavy shell fire in the battle of Le Selle River, in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN H. HOLMES (1211542), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS HOPEWELL, Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty while acting as orderly to his Regimental Commander during operations in Belgium on August 30, 1918, in leaving his bomb-proof dugout and exposing himself to heavy bombing to assure himself of the safety of his Commanding Officer and to report for any duty which might be assigned to him.

PRIVATE GEORGE F. HORN, Battery B, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in rescuing the body of a comrade from a fire in the midst of burning cartridge boxes and in preventing the explosion of the ammunition. This near Brabant, France, October 30, 1918.

PRIVATE BENJAMIN J. HOYT (1216729), Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 26
 For accompanying the 132d Infantry, on the occasion of the assault against Forges Wood, France, September 26, 1918, and establishing wire communication with his regiment, this under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE RICHARD J. HOYT (1211343), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE MARCUS P. H. HUBBARD (120970), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional fearlessness and courage in searching for the wounded under enemy observation and fire. This in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ROGER HUGHES (1203964), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company, numbering in all twenty-eight men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE STANLEY HUGHES (1200128), 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE JAMES H. HURLBUT, Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying messages under heavy shell and machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HERBERT INGRAM, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery, in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE JOHN ISHERWOOD (1211349), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier, with great gallantry and determination, advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE ERNEST M. IZAN (1209136), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For courage and initiative while attached to a British raiding party in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, July 29, 1918. Becoming separated from the rest of the detachment, this soldier crawled forward to the enemy wire, avoided capture by the sentinel who challenged him and secured the effects from the body of a dead enemy soldier for the purpose of identification, returning to our own lines.

PRIVATE ERNEST M. IZAN (1209136), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35
 For gallantry and determination in continuing in the effective removal of wounded after all but two of the eight stretcher bearers of his party had been killed or wounded; this in the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE CASSIAN J. JACOB, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3 in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE SAMUEL JACODI (406953), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE JOHN JARMOSKA (1210414), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For excellent work as company runner at Dickebusch, Belgium, August, 1918, continually carrying messages to and from company headquarters under heavy rifle and shell fire from the enemy lines.

PRIVATE ROBERT JARVIE (1210879), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE WILLIAM D. JENKINS (1210881), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE GEORGE H. JENSEN (1211977), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage and determination in holding off and driving back an enemy attack on the post held by his squad until wounded. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 22, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive.

PRIVATE CHARLES T. JEWELL (1201069), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 21, 1918, with the 105th Infantry. This soldier went beyond the requirements of his orders and exposed himself to heavy barrage fire of the enemy in repairing company lines of communication on his own initiative. On September 29, 1918, this soldier again distinguished himself by similar conduct at Guillemont Farm, France, and was severely wounded.

PRIVATE GEORGE J. JEWETT (1211765), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 On the afternoon of September 28, 1918, this soldier and three other soldiers voluntarily carried a severely wounded comrade almost a thousand yards to a dressing station across an area which was under direct observation and heavy artillery and machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

PRIVATE JOHN JOHANNES (1211262), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE JOSEPH A. JOHNSIS, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For bravery in evacuating wounded under heavy shell and machine gun fire, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HOMER H. JOHNSON (1212479), Headquarters Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and determination in carrying important messages under heavy fire in the various battles and engagements in which his regiment participated in Belgium and in France.

PRIVATE LEWIS E. JOHNSON (1204237), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage in carrying a message to battalion headquarters over an area which was continually under heavy enemy machine gun fire. This, east of Ronssoy, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE SAMUEL E. JOHNSON, 27th Military Police Company. S. O. 86
 For skillful controlling of traffic and handling of prisoners of war under heavy enemy fire east of Ronssoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE JONES, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE R. JONES (1210416), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For his excellent work as Company Runner, carrying messages to and from Battalion Headquarters, under severe enemy fire, during the attack on St. Souplet, October 17, 1918, and Jone de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN H. L. JONES (1210206), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For repeated demonstrations of bravery in carrying messages over shell swept areas in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, and in voluntarily administering aid and evacuating wounded under fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, when he was killed.

PRIVATE PHILLIP JUARENO (1207246), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For gallantry in assisting a wounded officer although himself wounded, and then returning to help others. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE PETER KALAPODIS (2671452), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the forcing of Le Selle River and the capture of the heights beyond, October 17 to 21, 1918, in evacuating the wounded under heavy fire.

PRIVATE JOHN KAMURA (1203616), Company B, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary bravery in action, in going forward under heavy machine gun fire to dress a wounded comrade. He was killed returning to his lines. This during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES T. KAYE (2038582), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courageous and zealous performance of duty as runner in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 25-30, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES H. KAYSER (1209156), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For gallantry and devotion to duty in giving first aid to wounded at extreme front during the night of September 26, 1918, and in performance of similar service during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, the following morning, during which attack, he, with two wounded men, whom he was aiding at the time, were killed by shell fire.

1600

PRIVATE JOHN T. KEEGAN (1203617), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For bravery and heroism in action, during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918. This soldier went forward as one of a patrol and although severely wounded, carried out his mission and returned to the front line with valuable information.

PRIVATE PETER J. KEENAN (1205531), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE CHARLES B. KEHOE (1216752), Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 26
 For accompanying the 132d Infantry on the occasion of the assault against Forges Wood, France, September 26, 1918, and establishing wire communication with his regiment, this under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE ARTHUR O. KEIPER (1211353), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 56
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE FRANCIS O. KELLEY (1207249), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courageous service as company runner in battle of Vierstraat Ridge, August 31-September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE PAUL A. KELLEY (1216030), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle, and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE EUGENE L. KELLINGTON, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Germonville, France, in leaving the security of his dugout and proceeding to the horse lines during a heavy enemy shell fire, and, without regard to personal risk, remaining with the horses until the firing ceased, thereby preventing a stampede.

PRIVATE FRANK KELLY (1214228), Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT F. KELLY (404525), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in carrying a wounded comrade a long distance under heavy fire in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 12, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM A. KENNA (2672333), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty while in the line at Dickebusch, Belgium, August, 1918, where he gave his life endeavoring to locate the positions of the enemy machine guns.

PRIVATE EDWARD J. KENNEDY (1201872), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE JOSEPH M. KENNEDY (1211354), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier, with great gallantry and determination, advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. KENNEDY (1211365), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918, this soldier proved an inspiration to his comrades because of his extreme courage and gallantry. By a skillful maneuver upon a machine gun position this soldier, single-handed, was able to rush the enemy position, kill two men of the crew and, together with a comrade, put the whole nest out of action. This soldier was killed in this same action, while advancing against strong enemy position.

PRIVATE STEWART KENT (1211698), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in battle. On September 28, 1918, while on patrol sent out to ascertain the position of enemy machine guns, he was mortally wounded. This patrol suffered heavy casualties and the number of stretchers available was inadequate. This soldier, realizing that he was mortally wounded, begged that the stretchers be used for men with slighter wounds. He died shortly after.

PRIVATE ARTHUR G. KERR (1208274), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage, determination and initiative while acting as battalion runner during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918, when he successfully led several ammunition and ration parties to the line without the loss of a man.

PRIVATE JOHN J. KESSLER (408503), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE AUGUSTINE R. KIERNAN, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in attending to wounded soldiers during an aerial bombing attack without regard to personal risk, and exposing himself with great bravery until all the wounded were removed.

PRIVATE CHARLES KILBOURNE, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River, France, on October 14, 1918, and in the face of heavy enemy fire, capturing twenty-three prisoners.

PRIVATE WALTER F. KILEY (1216769), Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 26
 For accompanying the 132d infantry on the occasion of the assault against Forges Wood, France, September 26, 1918, and establishing wire communication with his regiment, this under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE FREDERICK KING (1214684), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ARTHUR L. KIRCHGESSNER, Headquarters Company, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in voluntarily carrying messages under heavy shell fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29 and 30, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANCIS J. KIRKLAND (1210419), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ALEXANDER KOSLUK, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ERIC KREBS (1216563), Company C, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE WERNER A. KREGER (2037615), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courageous and zealous performance of duty as runner in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 25-30, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN G. KUHN (2761145), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company numbering in all twenty-eight men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left, in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE CASPER KULIKOWSKI (1209769), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and fearlessness. This soldier continually, without thought of his own safety, exposed himself to enemy fire to successfully quiet enemy attacks both in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, and in the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France. In this last action this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE ANDREW KUNKELL (2036512), Company C, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River, ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE FRANK LA POINTE (4019402), Company C, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE CHARLES S. LACEY, Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For zeal and devotion to duty during the active service of the regiment in France and Belgium and for the exhibition of high courage under heavy shell fire when accompanying the transport close to the front line on the nights of September 28 and 29, 1918, just before the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France.

PRIVATE JOHN R. LAEDLEIN (2472056), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and courage in repeatedly volunteering to carry messages through heavy enemy fire during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-18, 1918, and for maintaining communication between the units of his command until severely wounded on October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE VERNON LAMPHEAR (2671248), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry in fording Le Selle River, France, with an ammunition limber after the bridge by which he was to cross had been destroyed by shell fire and in successfully delivering the ammunition to an advanced position. This in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE ANTHONY LANDOLPHI (2672698), Company G, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in assisting in mopping up about five hundred yards of enemy trench under heavy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE RAYMOND W. LANE (1210426), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and skill while advancing on Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, destroying an enemy machine gun nest which had been seriously impeding the advance of our troops.

PRIVATE ANTHONY LAPETINA (2872169), Medical Detachment, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For gallantry and determination while attached to Company E, 108th Infantry, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918. This soldier having been shocked by the explosion of a shell, nevertheless effectively rendered first aid to the wounded for more than twelve hours thereafter.

PRIVATE WILMER N. LAPINE (1211703), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in battle. During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier was attached to the 3d Battalion Headquarters and rendered valuable assistance to the Intelligence Section. During the attack the Battalion Commander and the Adjutant were wounded and the Intelligence Officer killed. This soldier attached himself to an Infantry Company, went forward in the attack and was killed.

PRIVATE JOHN LAVERY, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry on September 28 during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, in leaving his trench and advancing against heavy machine gun and sniper fire and bringing back wounded of the 106th Infantry.

PRIVATE HAROLD T. LAY, Company I, 106th Infantry (Deceased).
 For gallantry in action and devotion to duty during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918, in exposing himself to severe sniping fire in carrying wounded from the field and for bringing to his regimental commander an intelligent and comprehensive report of front line conditions. This soldier was evacuated to the rear and died in hospital September 29, 1918, as a result of his exertions and exposure.

PRIVATE THOMAS F. LAYMAN (1204245), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For zeal and devotion to duty demonstrated when, as a company runner, accompanied by another soldier, he furnished liaison on the flanks of his company. This at Vaux Andigny, France, October 13, 1918.

PRIVATE RUSSEL E. LEACH (1214037), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle, and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, 1918, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE ARTHUR L. B. LEADER (1209992), Company B, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For exceptional conduct in attack on the Hindenburg Line near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. While acting as runner this soldier carried a message from a captured enemy trench across a half mile of open ground under artillery and sniping fire for the entire distance. He was later killed in action near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE HUNTER LEAF (1209708), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and skill in bandaging wounded men under heavy machine gun and shell fire, this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHRISTIAN LEANDER (406872), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE THEODORE J. LECHLEIDER (2371430), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

After the forcing of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, October 18, 1918, this soldier, although wounded by shrapnel in the leg early in this action and sent to the rear with a number of enemy prisoners, refused to remain in the rear, but after receiving first aid returned to the advancing line and proved an inspiration to his comrades because of his coolness and exceptional courage.

PRIVATE JAMES A. LEE (1210429), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 44

For exceptional courage and initiative in the attack on Bandival Farm, France, during the battle of the Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, in going forward with several others and forcing the surrender of two officers and more than thirty enlisted men of the enemy and then, single handed and alone, entering a stable, where after shooting one of the enemy, he compelled an additional party of fifteen to surrender.

PRIVATE JOSEPH LEE, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in continuing to serve his gun under heavy enemy shell fire until killed at his post.

PRIVATE DANIEL W. LE FEVOR, Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HENRY LEHMAN (2671800), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

During operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, although wounded by a defective bomb which had exploded in his pocket, this soldier refused to be evacuated but continued in action until killed.

PRIVATE FRANCIS L. LENEHAN (1210340), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For extraordinary valor and determination frequently exhibited during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier advanced into the enemy's trenches with his platoon and aided in the capture of a number of prisoners. Later, with two other soldiers, he continued the advance, bombing trenches and dugouts. Seeing a party of the enemy in another trench prepared to bomb them, this soldier advanced over the top, shooting as he went, scattering the enemy. Still later at the extreme front of the advance, he was killed, his continued acts until killed furnishing inspiring example to his company.

PRIVATE CLARENCE LEONARD (1214368), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE SYDNEY LEONARD, Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and devotion to duty in rescuing medical supplies and records and in bringing supplies under heavy shell fire to an advanced dressing station during action near the St. Maurice River, France, October 20, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES LETTARIS (1204169), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT M. LEVERIDGE (1200446), Company A, 104th Machine Gun Battalion (Deceased). S. O. 35

For gallantry in returning under heavy shell fire to locate two men of his section who had become separated therefrom during the relief. Having returned with the men, this soldier was shortly thereafter fatally wounded, but protested against receiving attention until other wounded had received first aid.

PRIVATE ROSS B. LEVIS (1222837), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31

For devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded over roads heavily shelled in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ALCAN H. LEVY (1200207), Company D, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49

For exceptional courage and inspiring example frequently demonstrated in battle, particularly in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918, when after all but two of his squad were killed or wounded, this soldier continued in action with his company until killed later in the engagement.

PRIVATE WILLIAM LINDSAY, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN J. LINDSEY, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Gercourt, France, October 17, 1918, in laying and maintaining a telephone line to the forward observation post north of Dannevoux, a distance of seven kilometers, under severe mustard gas and shell fire concentrations, without food or relief, enabling the maintenance of a battalion fire.

PRIVATE GERALD LINZEY (120905), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and determination in making reconnaissance at night into the enemy's lines. This in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 27, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN L. LIVINGSTON (1211210), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased).
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE GEORGE L. LOEFFLER (2038684), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire for more than one thousand yards previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE ARTHUR J. LOMAN (1210432), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and skill in operating a Lewis gun and holding an advanced machine gun post at Vaux Andigny, France, October 14, 1918, under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire, the position being highly illuminated by the burning of surrounding buildings.

PRIVATE JOSEPH LOMBARDO (1210219), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in advancing ahead of his Lewis gun squad to select points of vantage and in carrying messages from Regimental Headquarters to companies in the front line under continuous shell fire.

PRIVATE A. J. LOUCKS (1211549), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE DOUGLAS W. LUTZ, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery, in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance. This on October 2 and 3, 1918.

PRIVATE ERBE L. LUTZ (1215492), Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and skill in making reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire. This in the vicinity of Le Selle River, October 10, 1918.

PRIVATE BERNARD J. LYNCH (1216733), Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 26
 For accompanying the 132d Infantry on the occasion of the assault against Forges Wood, France, September 26, 1918, and establishing wire communication with his regiment, this under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE THOMAS J. LYNSKEY (1210489), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For excellent work as a platoon runner in delivering messages between his platoon and the company commander on September 29, 1918, under shell fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line.

PRIVATE SCOTT H. LYTLE, Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier continued to advance, although wounded, with great courage and coolness until killed by a burst of machine gun fire. His wonderful display of fearlessness proved an inspiration to his comrades.

PRIVATE GLENN S. McBRATNEY (1210344), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and skill while advancing on Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, destroying an enemy machine gun nest which had been seriously impeding the advance of our troops.

PRIVATE JOHN J. McBRIDE (1211551), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE McCANN (2036560), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courageous and zealous performance of duty as runner in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 25-30, 1918.

PRIVATE PATRICK A. McCOLGAN (1215947), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his regiment.

PRIVATE DAVID C. McCORMICK (1203462), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and courage during engagement at Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 27, 1918, in rendering first aid to a comrade and carrying him under direct observation of the enemy to a dressing station.

PRIVATE ADELBERT McCROSSEN (1205547), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE ROBERT W. McDOWELL (1207265), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courageous service as company runner during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, August 31 to September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE J. F. McGRATH (1211553), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN J. McGRATH (1214705), Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in voluntarily placing his squad in an isolated shell hole under heavy fire to protect the left flank of his company. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, in the vicinity of St. Souplet, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN J. McGRATH (1214705), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage and determination in aiding in the destruction of an enemy machine gun nest; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD McGUIRE (1213577), Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES McKAY (1214698), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 In assuming charge of a ration party after the corporal had been wounded and effectively leading them forward under heavy shell fire; this near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 7, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES J. McKENNA (1222950), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE LOUIS E. McKINNEY (3488428), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty while laying a telephone line from the 107th Infantry under heavy shell fire in the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918. Also on the 16th and 17th October, 1918, in the battle of Le Selle River, he, with a partner, ran a line from Regimental Headquarters to 2d Battalion Headquarters of the 107th Infantry under heavy shell fire and through gas laden woods.

PRIVATE NORMAN McKURTH, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN McLAUGHLIN (2452181), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company, numbering in all twenty-eight men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left, in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE ALOYSIUS B. McMICHAEL (1205601), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery and devotion to duty in performing his duties in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE ALAN MERRIAM McNAIER (1211991), Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry in rescuing with the assistance of two comrades a brother soldier who had been seriously wounded in a listening post beyond the front line trench, the rescue being made under heavy enemy machine gun, rifle, grenade and trench mortar fire. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 20, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH McPHILLIPS (1208739), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and devotion to duty while serving as a mess orderly at battalion headquarters, in volunteering and serving with a battalion of his regiment after its heavy losses of September 27, 1918, and in accompanying the battalion in the main attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in which battle this soldier was wounded.

PRIVATE MATTHEW R. McSHERRY (1210346), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry at Vaux Andigny, October 14, 1918, in going out under heavy enemy machine gun fire to carry the body of a fatally wounded comrade to the shelter of a nearby building.

PRIVATE AUSTIN MADDEN (1206713), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For devotion to duty in evacuating wounded for a period of more than twenty-four hours under continuous heavy fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANK MADDEN, Company G, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in successfully carrying messages to Battalion Headquarters under heavy shell and machine gun fire, regardless of personal safety. This near Arbre Guernon, France, October 17-21, 1918.

PRIVATE MAX P. MADSON, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 2, 1918, in voluntarily carrying a message to Brigade Headquarters and guiding a truck loaded with supplies over roads and fields under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE MAX P. MADSON, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in the sector northeast of Brabant, France, October 30 to November 8, 1918, in constantly maintaining the regiment's liaison line under heavy fire and direct observation of the enemy.

PRIVATE FULGENZE MAGALETTI (2725043), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE WILLARD H. MAGUIRE (1210348), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN F. MAHONEY (1216302), Company A, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE EDWARD MAKE (1203628), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great bravery and devotion to duty demonstrated as a runner under heavy enemy machine gun and trench mortar fire. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, August 26, 1918.

PRIVATE RAYMOND MALLON (1210350), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 After the Corporal of the Lewis gun squad to which this soldier was attached was killed, he assumed command of the squad and led it throughout the day with great success. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CORNELIUS F. MANN (1211489), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES J. MANNING (1224789), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage in pushing forward with his platoon by hand to hand fighting over three lines of enemy trench and continuing until he was but one of four survivors, members of the platoon, who were surrounded on all sides by the enemy and captured. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line.

PRIVATE LOUIS MARCHIANTI (1204253), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ANGELO MARINO (1207127), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For courage and leadership under heavy enemy fire near Scherpenberg, Belgium, July 26, 1918.

PRIVATE SIDNEY MARION (1200214), 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE CHESTER MARK, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JACOB MARKS (1204062), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great determination and devotion to duty in remaining for nineteen hours in a shell hole with his Corporal, who was wounded, and after dark getting a patrol to take in the wounded soldier, all under heavy fire. This in the assault on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

1700
 PRIVATE BERT L. MARTIN (1210441), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and skill while advancing on Jonc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, destroying an enemy machine gun nest which had been seriously impeding the advance of our troops.

PRIVATE JOSEPH MARTIN (1209781), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and fearlessness in volunteering and repeatedly carrying wounded from an open field to the dressing station through intense enemy machine gun and artillery fire. This during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS F. MARTIN (1231796), Motor Transport Detachment. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination under fire as driver of a Division Headquarters motor car during the Ypres-Lys offensive, Belgium, August 21-September 2, 1918, and the Somme offensive, France, September 24-October 22, 1918. His conduct was a splendid example to those about him.

PRIVATE CHARLES R. MASON (1210893), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary valor frequently exhibited during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, in evacuating wounded from forward positions under heavy enemy fire and with total disregard for his own safety. This soldier continued to exhibit the same standards of extraordinary gallantry in subsequent engagements until killed in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, on October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE LEO MAVILLE (1210281), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in carrying a wounded comrade a long distance under heavy fire in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 12, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES MAXWELL, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE LOUIS F. MAZUCCA (1211557), Company I, 107th Infantry.
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS J. MEACIE, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE EDWARD J. MEADE (1211331), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE AMHERST WIGHT MEEKER (641527), Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry in rescuing with the assistance of two comrades a brother soldier who had been seriously wounded in a listening post beyond the front line trench, the rescue being made under heavy enemy machine gun, rifle grenade and trench mortar fire. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 20, 1918.

PRIVATE DOMINICK MELE (1204260), Company E, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE DOMINICK MELE (1204260), Company E, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination while acting as a runner for his company until killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JESSE L. MERRIOTT (1211558), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 This soldier, who was killed in the attack on Guillemont Farm, France, September 29, 1918, was one of the best Lewis gun men in his company. No one of his squad survived to tell of his heroism. but the fact that his body was found well within the enemy line in advance of his squad with his gun beside him demonstrated his great courage and determination.

PRIVATE FREDERICK MEYERS, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN T. MIEBAUM (1211620), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in battle. On September 29, 1918, during the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, this soldier was separated from his platoon in the smoke barrage. He attached himself to Company I, 107th Infantry, and advanced with them until they were greatly depleted in numbers. When the Australians, who were in support, passed through he continued to advance with them and rendered valuable assistance.

PRIVATE EDWARD S. MILLER (1210901), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE ROY A. MILLER (1209552), Headquarters Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49

For zeal and devotion to duty under fire in handling the transport of the battalion entrusted to his charge. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM W. MILLER (2361942), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary gallantry and determination displayed while a member of a Lewis gun squad of his company. This soldier, having been knocked down and buried by the explosion of a large shell, dug himself out, refused to go to the rear and in a half dazed condition, continued forward and into the enemy lines, where he was later captured. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE VAN STRYCKER MILLS (1211707), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

On the afternoon of September 20, 1918, in action against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, this soldier and three other soldiers voluntarily carried a severely wounded comrade almost a thousand yards to a dressing station across an area which was under direct observation and heavy artillery and machine gun fire. After covering one half the distance this soldier suddenly became very ill, but nevertheless continued, despite the fact that he was in great distress and physical discomfort, as the result of dysentery and a severe gassing.

PRIVATE JOSEPH MINAREK (1211491), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE PHILIP K. MINDIL (1209925), Company B, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For meritorious conduct in operating a Lewis gun to repel an enemy bombing raid near Ronssoy, France, September 28, 1918. This soldier placed his gun on a high place on the parapet and continued to operate it without regard to his personal danger. He was killed in attack on the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE RALPH E. MINER (1216056), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination. This soldier, after first and second gunners had been wounded, placed a Lewis gun in a forward position and effectively used it. This during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE E. MIX, Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ROGER A. MONTGOMERY (1211708), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. On September 29, 1918, during the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, this soldier while in personal contact with the enemy observed a wounded German about to shoot one of his comrades. He immediately turned, and with no thought of personal safety killed the above-mentioned German, but in so doing lost his own life.

PRIVATE CLAYTON C. MOORE (1214476), Company E, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 39

For courage and inspiring example in the attack on an enemy machine gun post, during which he was killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JONATHAN MOORE (1210005), Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and determination in delivering important messages under heavy enemy fire. This at Vaux Andigny, France, October 15, 1918.

PRIVATE W. S. MOORE (1211362), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM MORAN (1231686), Company G, 102d Ammunition Train. S. O. 86

For gallantry and devotion to duty on October 8, 1918, during operations of his command in France. While on the Bethincourt-Forges Road, a limber containing grenades, having exploded and thrown a number of grenades along the road, this soldier, with the assistance of another soldier, promptly and voluntarily removed the unexploded grenades from the road, so as to enable the resumption of traffic.

PRIVATE GEORGE MORGAN (1204402), Company A, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire, while a member of a patrol sent out to connect with the 106th Infantry on the right. This in the attack on Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES M. MORGAN (2249774), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44

For courageous and effective reconnaissance beyond our front lines as a member of a patrol for the purpose of locating an enemy machine gun nest which was put out of action as a result of the information obtained. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 25, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES T. MOREY (1222951), 107th Ambulance Company. S. O. 86

For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE LOUIS M. MORRISON (1210447), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional bravery in crawling out under enemy rifle fire and carrying in the body of Private Salisbury (1210474), who had just been killed in attempting to silence an enemy sniper at Vaux Andigny, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE WALKER E. MORRISON (2669957), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918. This soldier in company with three others volunteered to bring up water and rations to the men of his company, then in an exposed position at the extreme front. This was successfully accomplished in daylight under intensive enemy fire.

PRIVATE PHILLIP F. MORRISSEY (1211563), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ARCHIBALD L. MOTZ (2670855), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ARTHUR J. MURPHY (2672264), Company C, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination in rushing an enemy machine gun nest while a member of a Lewis gun squad. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HERBERT T. MURPHY (1209785), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in advancing over an open field under heavy fire at the time of a raid on the front line trenches, for which he and his comrades were commended by the British Commander. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE HUGH C. MURPHY (1210353), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS F. MURPHY (1209075), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courageous and effective reconnaissance beyond our front lines as a member of a patrol for the purpose of locating an enemy machine gun nest, which was put out of action as a result of the information obtained. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 25, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. MURPHY (1211995), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous courage and determination in holding off and driving back an enemy attack on the post held by his squad until wounded. This near Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, August 22, 1918, during the Ypres-Lys offensive.

PRIVATE EDWARD J. MURRAY (1203760), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and devotion to duty in caring for wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE MURRAY, Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE RAYMOND L. MURRAY (1201800), Company C, 102d Engineers (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward, under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE CLAUDE MURWIN, Sanitary Detachment, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29 to November 11, 1918 in repeatedly and with great coolness evacuating casualties from areas almost constantly under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE ANGELO ANTHONY MUSTICO (1211996), Company L, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination frequently displayed when his command was in the front line in the vicinity of Dickebusch Lake, Belgium, in August, 1918. This gallant soldier was killed in action on September 29, 1918, while advancing with his company against the Hindenburg Line, in the vicinity of Bony, France.

PRIVATE FRANK MYERS, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE HARRY MYERS (3173261), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE HARRY MYERS (3173261), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in engineering and water reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

PRIVATE STANLEY MYERS (1205911), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated in maintaining communication during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE GUSTAVE NADLER (1209712), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For the greatest coolness, courage and devotion to duty in effectively operating his machine gun under the heaviest direct and enfilading fire for several hours at a machine gun post at the extreme left flank of our line, when all contact with the other elements of the command was lost. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ARTHUR NAILOR (1203638), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 While acting as runner on the morning of October 17, 1918, this soldier showed great bravery and devotion to duty in carrying messages during heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France.

PRIVATE CHARLES NELSON (1211540), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH NEVIN (1210449), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry at Vaux Andigny, October 14, 1918, in going out under heavy enemy machine gun fire to carry the body of a fatally wounded comrade to the shelter of a nearby building.

PRIVATE JOSEPH A. NEVINS (1202450), Company F, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in driving rations forward under heavy shell fire. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17-20, 1918.

PRIVATE ERNEST NEVITT (1207281), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
 For effective patrol work at Dickebusch Lake, August, 1918.

PRIVATE SEVERIN G. NEWBAUER, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE DENIS J. NEWMAN, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in rendering assistance to a gun crew whose ammunition dump was set on fire by enemy shells.

PRIVATE SAMUEL NEWMAN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For exceptional devotion to duty during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 31 to November 11, 1918, by his faithfulness and unremitting zeal in the performance of all duties assigned to him, setting an example which was an inspiration to the other men of the detachment.

PRIVATE FRANK H. NEWMANN (1208313), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in assisting the evacuation of a wounded officer under heavy fire near La Clytte, Belgium, July 17, 1918.

PRIVATE F. W. NICHOLS (1211565), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM C. NICKEL (1201093), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For courage and devotion to duty during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918. Private Nickel performed his signal duties under fire with fearlessness and disregard to personal safety.

PRIVATE WILLIAM C. NICKEL (1201093), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty in action with the 3d Battalion, 106th Infantry, at Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31-September 2, 1918. Private Nickel volunteered to go forward to the front line with batteries necessary for the continuance of buzzer communication under a heavy machine gun and sniper fire from close range in clear observation of the enemy. In spite of this he succeeded in carrying out his mission.

PRIVATE LAWRENCE NOLAN (1201893), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously erected foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. NOLAN (1211566), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE C. NOONAN (1211787), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle. During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier with seven of his comrades, having advanced to a position about fifty yards from the main German trench in front of the canal, withstood the counter-attack of the enemy, who were in great numbers, refusing to surrender until all ammunition was expended, when they were surrounded and captured.

PRIVATE LYAL A. NORTHRUP (1210454), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE RALPH N. NORTHRUP (1210456), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and devotion to duty on the morning of October 16, 1918, at Imberfayt Farm, being very painfully wounded in the jaw, and refusing to be sent back for medical treatment, advancing with his squad during the hard fighting of the three succeeding days.

PRIVATE EDWARD P. O'BRIEN, JR. (1208396), Company I, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty in voluntarily bringing in a wounded comrade under heavy enemy fire and in repeatedly assisting in the evacuation of wounded members of his regiment. This during the battle of the Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, August 31 to September 2, 1918. This soldier was later killed during the advance against the outposts of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE NICHOLAS J. O'BRIEN, Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For exceptional bravery during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in front of Guillemont Farm, September 29, 1918. First Lieutenant R. A. Byrns, who had been wounded, would have been run over by a large tank except for the presence of mind and bravery of this man, who rushed over and pulled him out of the way, although in so doing he was exposed to heavy machine gun fire.

PRIVATE VINCENT E. O'BRIEN (1212833), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33
For conspicuous gallantry and untiring zeal in the evacuation of wounded under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-October 2, 1918.

PRIVATE VINCENT O'CONNOR (1209138), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42
For repeated acts of courage and zeal in the care and evacuation of wounded during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and in France.

PRIVATE ELLIOTT D. ODELL, Headquarters Troop, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For meritorious service and devotion to duty as assistant to the Division Inspector during the entire operations of the division in Belgium and France. During the battle of the Le Selle River this soldier voluntarily assisted in the care and evacuation of wounded under shell fire at advanced dressing stations.

PRIVATE JOHN J. O'DELL (1210909), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE JOHN R. O'DONNELL (1210453), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in carrying a wounded comrade a long distance under heavy fire in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 12, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES O'DONOVAN, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE MARTIN O'HARA, Company E, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded under heavy fire near Kemmel Hill, Belgium, August 28, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT O'LEARY, Company E, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed the Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANK O'NEILL, Battery F, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in repairing telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire until killed.

PRIVATE TIMOTHY O'NEILL (1214022), Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT B. O'REILLY, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE MILTON OKIN (1201594), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in engineering and water reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

PRIVATE ELLIS OLMSTEAD, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed the Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ORMOND G. OLSEN (1208272), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For gallantry and determination in the removal of a wounded soldier to the rear under heavy enemy fire. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE ANTHONY ORLICK (1200586), Company B, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35
For qualities of leadership, zeal and courage in effectively reorganizing a ration party and conducting it forward to the command after it had come under enemy artillery fire. This on the night of August 16, 1918, in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium.

PRIVATE HOWARD PAGE (1204268), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For devotion to duty while acting as runner near St. Souplet, France, continually passing through areas under heavy enemy fire. This soldier volunteered for this work with full knowledge of the fate of other runners of this company. This during the battles of Le Selle River, October 17, and Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES J. PAGE (106025), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For gallantry and determination in battle. On September 28, 1918, while on a combat patrol in daylight, this soldier rendered valuable assistance in combat in the face of heavy enemy machine gun fire. He was killed going forward.

PRIVATE GILBERT M. PAINE (811651), Division Headquarters Detachment. S. O. 86
For meritorious services and devotion to duty while serving in the Division Surgeon's Office during the entire service of the division in Belgium and France during the summer and fall of 1918.

PRIVATE W. N. PAPE (1211571), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through

the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE BENNIE PARDI (1209793), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For supreme courage and self sacrifice. In an endeavor to save his comrades this soldier attempted to pick up and return an enemy hand grenade, which exploded in his hand, causing the loss of his life.

PRIVATE OSCAR PARENTI, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 1 to 11, 1918, in carrying important messages between battalion and regimental headquarters under heavy enemy artillery fire.

PRIVATE MALVIN A. PARTELLO (1210013), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For meritorious conduct in repelling an enemy bombing raid near Ronssoy, France, September 28, 1918. After being wounded by fragments of a grenade, he refused to retire until the end of the action, thereby giving valuable service in holding the position.

PRIVATE WILLIAM PATRICK (2246393), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE RAYMOND S. PATTE (1222845), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
For devotion to duty in the removal of wounded from the forward battle areas during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT E. PATTERSON (1211572), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM C. PAULY (1220336), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE LEON PEARCE (1209490), Company C, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE LAWRENCE E. PERKINS (1210461), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For valor displayed after he had been seriously wounded by shell fire near Ronssoy, France, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in giving encouragement to his comrades who had also been injured by shell fire.

PRIVATE EDWARD R. PETERSON (1211386), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
During the occupation of the front line, just west of the Le Selle River, France, he showed great skill and conspicuous bravery as a member of the Battalion Intelligence until he was killed, October, 1918.

PRIVATE HAROLD E. PETERSON, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, in continuing carrying messages back and forth from his regimental commander to the commander of the infantry advance during the attack on the Bois de Grande Montagne, under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire at great personal risk.

PRIVATE JOHN PETERSON (1211573), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

1800 PRIVATE A. M. PETRO (1201900), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 33
For untiring zeal and courage under fire in carrying supplies to and evacuating wounded civilians from the towns of La Haie, Menneresse and St. Souplet during the progress of our advance through these towns. This immediately prior to the battle of the Le Selle River and on October 16, 1918.

PRIVATE VICTOR PETTENGILL, Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward, under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River at St. Souplet, France, October 17-18. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE ARTHUR E. PETZON (1213808), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For courage and determination in holding his Lewis gun post in the advanced line after other members of his detachment had been gassed. This near St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE HERBERT A. POLLARD (1210466), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For his excellent work as platoon runner, continually carrying messages to and from his platoon commander under heavy enemy fire, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE IRA POOLE (2232205), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For courageous and effective reconnaissance beyond our front lines as a member of a patrol for the purpose of locating an enemy machine gun nest, which was put out of action as a result of the information obtained. This in the Dickebusch Lake sector, Belgium, August 25, 1918.

PRIVATE LEO B. PRATT (1210921), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE HAROLD PRINTZ (1209633), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE JAMES PUXTON, Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN J. QUICK, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters, from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire, throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE ALBERT W. QUINLAN, Company E, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in making reconnaissance in company with two other soldiers under heavy enemy fire, returning with a message and again going forward with orders for the Sergeant in charge of the patrol. This near St. Souplet, France, in the battle of the Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE J. H. RAWLINSON (2246030), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry, resourcefulness and determination in effecting with one other soldier, the capture of a strong detachment of enemy machine gunners in the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, September 28, 1918.

PRIVATE J. W. RAWLINSON (2246030), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 71
 For gallantry in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, in attacking a strongly manned enemy trench with one other soldier and capturing a large number of prisoners.

PRIVATE CHARLES J. REDMOND, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance. This on October 2 and 3, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT REDMOND (1201903), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE RICHARD REED (1207055), Company C, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For gallantry and inspiring example during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918, in continuing to operate his Lewis gun after being wounded until he received three additional machine gun wounds.

PRIVATE JOHN J. REGAN (2450747), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE SELIG REICH (2245712), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and fearlessness in pushing forward with his platoon by hand to hand fighting over three lines of enemy trench and continuing until he was but one of four survivors, members of the platoon, who were surrounded on all sides by the enemy and captured. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, on the morning of September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANK L. REINBOTH (1222955), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49
 For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE EUGENE REYNOLDS (2669321), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918, in attacking a strongly manned enemy trench with one other soldier and capturing a large number of prisoners.

PRIVATE EUGENE REYNOLDS (2569321), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry, resourcefulness and determination in effecting, with one other soldier, the capture a strong detachment of enemy machine gunners in the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, September 28, 1918.

PRIVATE HAROLD RHINEHART (1206061), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courageous and zealous performance of duty as runner in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28-30, 1918.

PRIVATE THOMAS J. O. RHINELANDER (1211715), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, this soldier was attached to 3d Battalion Headquarters and rendered valuable assistance to the Intelligence Section. During the attack the Battalion Commander and the Adjutant were wounded, the Intelligence Officer killed. This soldier attached himself to an infantry company and went forward in the attack, being severely wounded by machine gun fire and shrapnel, from which wounds he later died in the hospital.

PRIVATE ROCCO RICCI, Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE EDWARD RIELLY, Company G, 105th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great bravery while acting as a company runner in keeping platoons in contact with company headquarters. He was later killed while delivering a message. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE LEON E. RITCHIE (1210362), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE R. L. RIVERA (1211494), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through

the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHRISTIAN P. ROBERTSON, JR. (2671878), Company D, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 29

For gallantry and determination in continuing effectively to serve his machine gun until the completion of the barrage fire, after he had been wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE W. D. ROBERTSON (2006276), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JESSE ROBINSON (1222957), 107th Ambulance Company. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in carrying in wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN C. ROCHE (1216117), Sanitary Detachment, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE HARRY RODRIGUEZ (1210473), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and skill in operating a Lewis gun and holding an advanced machine gun post at Vaux Andigny, France, October 14, 1918, under heavy enemy machine gun and shell fire, the position being highly illuminated by the burning of surrounding buildings.

PRIVATE GUSTAVE ROESLER, JR. (1208194), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 35

For courage and determination in the evacuation of wounded from extreme front at Arbre Guernon, France. This in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD ROMAINE (1211793), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. On September 28, 1918, this soldier, having just returned from a patrol sent out to ascertain the positions of enemy machine guns, discovered that a combat patrol, consisting of a platoon of which he was a member, was about to go out, voluntarily attached himself to it and was killed.

PRIVATE DANIEL ARGYLE ROONEY (1212838), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 33

For gallantry and determination in carrying an important message over an area swept by enemy shell and machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE R. RUSSELL, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and determination in the sector northeast of Brabant, France, October 30 to November 6, 1918, in constantly maintaining the regiment's liaison line under heavy fire and direct observation by the enemy.

PRIVATE GEORGE R. RUSSELL, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For gallantry and extraordinary heroism in action during the operations of the 104th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Samogneux, France, November 2, 1918, in repairing telephone lines between Regimental Headquarters and forward infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire, although repeatedly knocked down by high explosive shells.

PRIVATE JOHN B. J. RYAN (1207164), Company D, 106th Infantry. S. O. 42

For effective work as company runner under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH RYAN (1211155), Company G, 107th Infantry. S. O. 49

For gallantry and courage in remaining on duty with his company, although suffering from gas poisoning, and accompanying his company to the lines, where he rendered valuable services as a runner until killed, near Arbre Guernon, in the battle of Jonc de Mer Ridge, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE LOUIS F. RYAN (1632613), Company C, 102d Field Signal Battalion. S. O. 52

For courage and devotion to duty near St. Souplet, France, in the operations against Le Selle River, October 16-17, 1918, while laying and maintaining a telephone line between Regimental Headquarters of the 107th Infantry and the 2d Battalion of that regiment. Private Ryan and his assistant patrolled the line under heavy shell fire and in a woods heavily laden with gas.

PRIVATE ROBERT R. RYAN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, in repairing telephone lines under heavy enemy shell fire and voluntarily again repairing said lines at night under heavy artillery shell concentrations without regard to personal risk, repairing fifty breaks. This on November 3, 1918.

PRIVATE LLOYD H. F. SALISBURY (1205569), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For skill, courage and determination in lying out in "no man's land" and fighting enemy snipers. This in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August, 1918. In subsequent actions this soldier as a battalion runner frequently demonstrated the highest qualities of zeal, courage and determination.

PRIVATE STEPHEN SALISBURY (1210474), Company D, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For his undaunted courage and utter disregard for personal safety at Vaux Andigny, October 14, 1918, when he volunteered to locate an enemy sniper, being instantly killed in the effort.

PRIVATE FREDERICK SALZMAN (1207631), Company F, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49

For gallantry and determination in the performance of his duties and in remaining in a shell hole to care for a wounded officer after he, himself, had been wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 26-27, 1918.

PRIVATE A. SANCHEZ (2219059), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE SMITH D. SANDERS (1214727), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For courage and inspiring example in continuing in the attack of his company after being twice wounded. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM P. SAVAGE, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE FREDERICK D. SCANDLING (1222849), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31

For gallantry in crawling forward under heavy enemy fire from a first aid post to a shell hole and carrying therefrom to a place of shelter, a wounded officer. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE SALVATORE SCARPATI (1208753), Company L, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49

For exceptional courage and determination in holding an advanced Lewis gun position against enemy counter-attack until killed. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE ANTHONY SCELZO (1208414), Company I, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For exceptional gallantry and determination in voluntarily leaving his position to locate the source of intense enemy machine gun fire which was holding up the advance of his platoon, during the performance of which act he was killed. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 2, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY SCHAEFER (2670984), Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM F. SCHATZ (2670630), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For marked coolness and courage in voluntarily carrying wounded men from the front line in daylight at Dickebusch, Belgium, August, 1918, under heavy machine gun and sniping fire, and for determination in carrying messages during every engagement and battle of his company.

PRIVATE FRANK J. SCHELL, JR. (1216078), Company M, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in battle. After fighting with his own unit September 28 and 29, 1918, in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, this soldier went forward with the Australians, who were our supports in this battle and who relieved us after we had gained our objective, continuing with the advance until October 2, when he was ordered to return to his own regiment.

PRIVATE FRANK H. SCHIAFFO (2671907), Medical Detachment, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39

For gallantry and determination while attached to Company E, 108th Infantry, during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918. This soldier, having been shocked by the explosion of a shell, nevertheless effectively rendered first aid to the wounded for more than twelve hours thereafter.

PRIVATE A. SCHLACHTER, JR. (1211586), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE AUGUST SCHMIDT (1212058), Company M, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE OSCAR SCHMIED, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For devotion to duty and conspicuous courage during the operations at Vaux Andigny and Le Selle River, October, 1918. Although badly gassed, this soldier remained with the 1st Battalion Signal Detachment, which had been depleted by casualties until only three signal men remained—all private soldiers—until he was completely exhausted and was evacuated to a hospital, where he died from the effects of mustard gas.

PRIVATE MARTIN SCHNEIDER, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery (Deceased). S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Dannevoux, France, October 19, 1918, in remaining at his observation post at night through continuous heavy enemy shell fire with only improvised protection until killed.

PRIVATE JOSEPH SCHOLIN (1210364), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ARCHIE SCHOONMAKER (1209103), Company M, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44

For courage and determination in making reconnaissance at night into the enemy's lines. This in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 27, 1918.

PRIVATE FRED SCHROEDER (1221862), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 33

For gallantry and determination in delivering rations to front line units under heavy enemy shell fire. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

PRIVATE OTTO P. SCHULZ (2036459), Company L, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in battle in continuing to advance after all the men of his squad had been killed or wounded except the Corporal, with whom he continued until badly wounded. This in the assault on the Hindenburg Line, near Guillemont Farm, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HERMAN H. SCHULZE, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE WILLIAM SCHUREN, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE HENRY J. SCHUURMANN (1203888), Company C, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry in action during the engagement in the Dickebusch sector, Belgium, August 27, 1918. When his company was greatly endangered by the British supporting artillery barrage falling short, this soldier, with complete disregard for his own safety, left shelter, and running over the top through enemy machine gun and sniper fire succeeded in communicating with the artillery unit, thereby preventing casualties in his company.

PRIVATE ADOLPH SCHWARTZ, Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 86
For voluntarily delivering a message from Battalion to Regimental Headquarters of the 106th Infantry under heavy machine gun and artillery fire during the preliminary attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918.

PRIVATE ROBERT SCOTT (2037290), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in engineering and water reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

PRIVATE ROBERT SCOTT (2037290), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE LAWRENCE P. SCOVILLE (1215138), Company H, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
For courage and determination as a company runner in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, and at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE J. E. SEAMAN (1211590), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE E. A. SEDPEC (1211592), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN W. SEERY (1210924), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE ALBERT SEGUIN (1201913), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
For extraordinary courage and determination under heavy enemy artillery and machine gun fire in carrying forward and stretching across Le Selle River ropes to assist the first wave of the infantry to cross the river in the attack of October 17, 1918, near St. Souplet, France.

PRIVATE NATHAN SELDON (2670187), Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE DAVID SHEAN (1205571), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness, and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE JOHN J. SHEEKEY, Headquarters Detachment, 27th Division. S. O. 86
For exceptional courage and devotion to duty while acting as a Division Observer and carrying important messages from the observation post to Headquarters, 107th Infantry, under shell fire. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 28 to 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HAROLD F. SHERIDAN (1209555), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 49
For exceptional efficiency and courageous service as signal man of his battalion during operations in Belgium, August 22-September 3, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN C. SHERMAN (1208418), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
For gallantry and determination in the removal of a wounded soldier under heavy enemy fire to the rear. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE VALENTINE SHICK (1204176), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WALTER J. SILICK (1210365), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE SITTERLEE, Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWARD J. SKELLIE (1224805), Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
For courage and gallantry during battles in Belgium and France while acting as a battalion runner.

PRIVATE WALTER W. SKINNER (1210709), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For gallantry and determination in evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE E. A. SKOPEC (1211592), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES SMALL, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in relaying firing data, as telephone operator, to a platoon of his battery under heavy enemy shell fire, thereby enabling the guns to remain in action.

PRIVATE ALVIN SMITH, Company A, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE M. SMITH (1659659), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage and determination in carrying forward under heavy artillery and machine gun fire, for more than one thousand yards, previously prepared foot bridges to be erected across the Le Selle River, at St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918. These bridges went forward with the first skirmish line of our attacking infantry and required the display of unusual physical strength and endurance under exceptionally dangerous conditions.

PRIVATE HARRY G. SMITH (1211800), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 26
 For continuing in action with his company after being severely wounded in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 19, 1918.

PRIVATE JESSE E. SMITH (1210252), Company C, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 28, 1918, in voluntarily evacuating the wounded under heavy shell fire and during the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918, while serving as a Liaison Scout until killed.

PRIVATE LEO SMITH (1231812), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 33
 For gallantry and determination in delivering rations to front line units under heavy enemy shell fire; this in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

PRIVATE LEO SMITH (1231812), Division Headquarters Troop. S. O. 33
 For untiring zeal and courage under fire in carrying supplies to and evacuating wounded civilians from the towns of La Haie Menneresse and St. Souplet during the progress of our advance through these towns; this immediately prior to the battle of Le Selle River and on October 16, 1918.

PRIVATE NORMAN SMITH, Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE SCHUYLER R. SMITH, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Dannevoux, France, October 19, 1918, in remaining on duty in an exposed observation post without protection under heavy enemy shell fire, until mortally wounded.

PRIVATE MATTHEW SOLINSKI, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous service in action in the vicinity of Bois de Forges, France, as a member of a gun crew in repairing and operating against the enemy a group of captured enemy 77 mm. field guns. This September 28 to October 3, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH B. SPEAR (2243715), Company E, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination and devotion to duty on October 17, 1918, during the battle of Le Selle River, in maintaining communication under heavy fire between units of his command, and for inspiring example in continuing forward with his company after having been badly gassed on October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE GILBERT SPERLING (1205573), Company L, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous zeal, fearlessness and devotion to duty continuously exhibited during the battles and engagements of his regiment in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE MARCUS B. SPIRO (2767972), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For resourceful attention to wounded under fire near Escaufourt, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE BURTON G. SPRAGUE (1209597), Ordnance Detachment, 105th Machine Gun Battalion S. O. 49
 For courageously maintaining an ammunition dump under heavy shell fire and gas concentration, until evacuated suffering from gas poisoning. This in the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE RICHARD F. SPURR (409850), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31
 For devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded over roads heavily shelled in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM STALTER (1211594), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE W. STANDISH (1211397), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination, advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

1960 PRIVATE HUGH S. STANGE, Headquarters Detachment, 27th Division. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and devotion to duty while acting as a Division Observer and carrying important messages from the observation post to Headquarters, 107th Infantry, under shell fire. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, September 28-29, 1918.

PRIVATE HAROLD STANLEY, Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN F. STARKEY (2248578), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For repeated demonstrations of conspicuous zeal and courage while acting as a scout and in volunteering for extra hazardous undertaking during the battles of the Hindenburg Line, September 28-29, 1918, and Le Selle River, October 18-20, 1918. Although wounded on October 17, he refused medical attention and continued to fight with his company until it was relieved.

PRIVATE RALPH L. STARRETT (1212734), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For courage and skilled marksmanship in crawling forward to an advanced position and killing four of the enemy with his rifle, this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE RALPH L. STARRETT (1212734), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31
 For gallantry and determination in the rescue of a Corporal of another company who lay helplessly wounded sixty yards in front of the position occupied by his company at that time. In the face of extremely heavy enemy fire at short range, this soldier dashed forward and succeeded in carrying the Corporal back to shelter.

PRIVATE RALPH L. STARRETT (1212734), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 31

For courage and skilled marksmanship in crawling forward to an advanced position and killing four of the enemy with his rifle, this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE BERNARD STEGAR (2219319), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For extraordinary gallantry and inspiring example near La Roux Farm, France, during the battle of Jone de Mer Ridge, October 19, 1918. On that occasion, with full knowledge of the danger, and without hesitation, this soldier crawled from his shell hole to an exposed position swept by enemy machine gun fire in order to render assistance to a comrade, Private Robert Jarvie, who had fallen with a burst of machine gun bullets in his shoulder. Half way to his objective, Private Stegar was struck by an enemy machine gun bullet, but continued on and had just reached his comrade's side when he was hit and instantly killed.

PRIVATE WILLIAM W. STEPHENSON (1204288), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For zeal and devotion to duty demonstrated when, as a company runner, accompanied by another soldier, he furnished liaison on the flanks of his company. This at Vaux Andigny, France, October 13, 1918.

PRIVATE CLARENCE R. STEWART (2450239), Company B, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in remaining on duty with his platoon although wounded during the battle of Le Selle River, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE STANLEY I. STILES, Sanitary Detachment, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 29 to November 11, 1918, in repeatedly and with great coolness evacuating casualties from areas almost constantly under heavy enemy fire.

PRIVATE WEAVER STOREY (2241508), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased).

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE V. J. STORY (1224884), Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and fearlessness in pushing forward with his platoon by hand to hand fighting over three lines of enemy trench and continuing until he was but one of four survivors, members of the platoon, who were surrounded on all sides by the enemy and captured. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, on the morning of September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE MATTHEW J. STOTTHARD, Battery D, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Consenvoye, France, October 13, 1918, in going for and returning with his battery kitchen across the Consenvoye Bridge under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations.

PRIVATE E. A. STRAIT (1215620), Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM STREOWSKA (2040871), Ambulance Company No. 107. S. O. 49

For courage and efficient work in the evacuation of wounded under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ROY STROENING, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE JAMES V. STRUGNELL (1204229), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE EARLE STUCKER (2220606), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in evacuating wounded under heavy fire during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17-20, 1918.

PRIVATE HARRY STURGIS (2040615), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For gallantry during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, on the morning of September 29, 1918, for successfully advancing under heavy fire and putting out of action a German Bery Light operator, thus preventing the detection by illumination of a portion of our line.

PRIVATE EDMUND J. SULLIVAN (1210481), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional skill while occupying a sniper's post in front of the front line occupied by D Company, August 16, 1918, in the Dickebusch Line, Belgium, successfully silencing an enemy machine gun which had been severely harrassing our lines.

PRIVATE JEREMIAH SULLIVAN (1204291), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in inspiring his comrades to continue their attack after their company commander was killed. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE FREDERICK SULZBOCH, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE URIO SWAIN (3257895), Field Hospital Company No. 106. S. O. 49

For locating and removing under heavy fire a seriously wounded soldier. This near Busigny, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE PERCY SWEET (1216589), Headquarters Detachment, 106th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 52

For gallantry and determination in repeatedly carrying important messages under heavy enemy fire during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-October 1, 1918.

PRIVATE PATRICK SYNOTT (1214545), Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ODELL TAGGART, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed the Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES D. TANNER (1209189), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For inspiring example of fearlessness and courage in volunteering and carrying wounded men in daylight under machine gun and sniper fire from the front line; this in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE SAMUEL TARREVELLA, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN TERWILLIGER (1211429), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE BENJAMIN THACKRAH, JR. (1204933), Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For courage and devotion to duty in the delivery of messages in the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918, in which battle he was wounded.

PRIVATE GLENFORD TEETSEL (1207989), Company G, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For courage and determination as a company runner in delivering messages under fire. This near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE FRED THIEL, Battery C, 106th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in voluntarily carrying messages from Ravin de Roussiers to battery on march on the Samogneux-Haraumont road during a heavy enemy bombardment, November 5, 1918, after runner previously despatched had failed and was believed to be cut off by shell fire on the road.

PRIVATE FRANK THOMAS (1200537), Company A, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35
 For courage and determination in rescuing wounded under heavy enemy fire, this in the vicinity of the Scherpenberg, Belgium, August 17, 1918.

PRIVATE VINCENT THOMPSON, Battery A, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 4, 1918, when during an attack by his battery a high explosive shell with instantaneous fuse became wedged in the bore of his piece, and a wooden rammer staff broke in the bore against the nose of the projectile, he forced the cartridge case into the breech, closed the block and fired the piece, clearing the bore and restoring the gun to action at great personal risk.

PRIVATE FRANCIS L. THUON (1205618), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For valor and devotion to duty during the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918. Although severely wounded in the leg, this soldier continued on duty at the front until all wounded of his battalion had been evacuated.

PRIVATE FREDERICK A. TIEMAN (1211399), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in operating a Lewis gun against the enemy single handed during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918, and in continuing to fight after being seriously gassed near St. Souplet, France, October 15, 1918.

PRIVATE EDWIN J. TIERNEY, Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For zeal and devotion to duty during the active service of the regiment in France and Belgium, and for the exhibition of high courage under heavy shell fire when accompanying the transport close to the front line on the night of September 28 and 29, 1918, just before the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. TIERNEY (1210932), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For bravery and determination in action under heavy enemy machine gun fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, on September 29, 1918, in which this soldier lost his life.

PRIVATE LEO F. TILLMAN, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the care and treatment of wounded under fire during operations against the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE PETER K. TILLMEN (1210366), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in the sunken road to the right of The Knoll, which was occupied by D Company on the afternoon of the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, in administering first aid to several wounded comrades, while under heavy enemy shell fire, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE FREDERICK R. TOOMBS, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and courage in carrying the tape to the front line on the night of September 28, 1918, near Ronssoy, France. A shell having struck the men accompanying Private Toombs on this mission, he bound up their wounds and although severely shaken by the force of the explosion, continued on his mission and delivered the tape to the Battalion Intelligence Officer.

PRIVATE JACON TOPOLSKI, Company I, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM J. TOWART, Battery D, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery, in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, on October 17, 1918, in serving the guns of his battery during heavy enemy shelling and gas concentrations and carrying ammunition under fire without regard to personal risk.

PRIVATE EUGENE J. TRAINOR (1201815), Company C, 102d Engineers. S. O. 86
 For exceptional qualities of courage and endurance in pushing forward in engineering and water reconnaissance to our own front lines, being at times within view and under artillery and machine gun fire of the enemy.

PRIVATE JOSEPH L. TRAUNSTEIN, Headquarters Company, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3 to November 8, 1918, in maintaining an advanced telephone central in an exposed unsheltered position under heavy enemy shell fire and gas concentrations with unflagging zeal and unusual capacity, responding without demur to all calls for service made upon him.

PRIVATE ALBERT TRIPP, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ULLBURT T. TROST, Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying messages under heavy shell and machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CLYDE M. TROWBRIDGE (1211408), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the battle of Junc de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918, this soldier advanced with great skill and conspicuous bravery against strong enemy machine gun positions until killed.

PRIVATE THEODORE H. TULIP (1210255), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in continuing to carry machine gun ammunition forward after he had been badly wounded.

PRIVATE JARVIS F. TURNER, Headquarters Company, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action in the vicinity of Chattancourt, France, October 26, 1918, in establishing and maintaining telephone communication between Regimental Headquarters and forward infantry positions under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE PERRY W. TURNER (2241570), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For inspiring example of fearlessness and courage in volunteering and carrying wounded men in daylight under machine gun and sniper fire from the front line; this in the Dickebusch sector near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE SAMUEL R. TURNER, Company C, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE REGINALD H. TUTHILL (1207046), Headquarters Company, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49
 For courage and devotion to duty frequently demonstrated in maintaining communication during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE JAMES TYLER, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE HENRY M. UNDERWOOD, Company I, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in maintaining communication between platoons of his company under heavy shell and machine gun fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE HAROLD UNGER (1211288), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE VICTOR J. VALLES (1211723), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in battle on September 28, 1918, near Ronssoy, France. While on combat patrol in daylight this soldier rendered valuable assistance in the face of heavy machine gun fire and was severely wounded.

PRIVATE CARL R. VAN DEUSEN (1210256), Company C, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage, determination and devotion to duty during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, continuing to carry messages under fire although wounded.

PRIVATE MAYNARD K. VAN DEUSEN (1205620), Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For extraordinary courage, initiative and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 30, 1918. This soldier, finding that he was the only man of his detachment fit for duty with the battalion, immediately organized a collecting station and provided for the wounded of his battalion, refusing to leave his post until the following day when relieved by a detachment of sanitary personnel, thereby exhibiting extraordinary devotion to duty.

PRIVATE JOSEPH VAN DUSEN (1204097), Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination as a member of the left platoon of his company numbering in all twenty-eight men, which had been cut off from the other platoon and from the company on the left in advancing against heavy enemy fire and in effecting the capture of a substantial number of enemy prisoners. This in the battle of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN A. VAN DYNE (1283136), Company B, 108th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For exceptional heroism in action during operations against the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918, in carrying messages through heavy artillery and machine gun fire while acting as a runner.

PRIVATE ALBERT D. VAN VARICK, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE JAMES O. VEDDER (1211727), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For courage and skill in action. On September 28, 1918, near Ronssoy, France, this soldier, while a member of a Lewis Gun Squad of a patrol under heavy enemy machine gun fire, assumed command of the squad after his corporal was wounded and rendered valuable assistance during the retirement of the patrol.

PRIVATE RICHARD T. VERDIN, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon, in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE DOUGLAS D. VERNOOY (364308), Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 33

For exceptional gallantry and determination in the rescue of a wounded British soldier from an exposed position close to an enemy machine gun position after several other litter bearers had become casualties; this in the battle of The Knoll-Guillemont Farm-Quennemont Farm, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE D. VIRDEN (1212816), Sanitary Detachment, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and devotion to duty in aiding and evacuating the wounded during all battles and engagements in which the regiment took part in Belgium and France.

PRIVATE WALTER F. VOLKERT (1211499), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in the assault on Guillemont Farm, France, September 29, 1918. This soldier, a Lewis gunner, when the rest of his squad were killed or wounded, took the gun from the hands of Private C. H. Walsh, as the latter fell wounded a second time, and went on alone to his death in front of Lone Tree Trench, from enfilading fire from Vendhuile.

PRIVATE JOSE VOLPE (1204182), Company E, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty while acting as a company runner. With disregard for his personal safety, he delivered important messages. This during the battle of Le Selle River, France, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE MILTON VOORHIS, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE PERRY P. WADE (1206846), Company B, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49

For courage and inspiring example before and after being wounded and particularly during the progress of the German counter-attack. This during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE WALTER WAGEMAKER (1222854), 102d Sanitary Train. S. O. 31

For devotion to duty in the removal of wounded from the forward battle areas during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

PRIVATE PHILIP WAINMAN, Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, 1918, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE RANDOLPH ST. G. WALKER, JR. (1211813), Company K, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For gallantry and determination in action. On September 29, 1918, during the attack upon the Hindenburg Line, Private Walker coming in contact with a number of enemy soldiers endeavored to take them prisoners, but was killed in the endeavor. He displayed great bravery and lack of self-protection in attempting to accomplish this act.

PRIVATE CHARLES H. WALSH, Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary valor and determination in battle. This soldier, a Lewis gunner, after being painfully wounded and after all but two of his squad had been killed or wounded, continued to advance in the face of heavy enemy fire, gaining the enemy trench. While engaged in firing at that place, the remaining member of his squad was killed and he was wounded a second time. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JOHN J. WALSH (1203572), Company B, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For extraordinary courage in action in carrying messages and evacuating wounded under heavy enemy fire, until killed. This during the battle of Le Selle River, October 17, 1918.

PRIVATE ALBERT WALTERS (1211601), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ARTHUR V. WARD (1200534), Company A, 104th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 35

For zeal and courage and determination in promptly resuming and continuing on duty at his machine gun post after the explosion of an enemy shell had destroyed the tripod of the gun and rendered him temporarily unconscious. This in the vicinity of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August 14, 1918.

PRIVATE ANDREW T. WARREN (1208438), Company I, 106th Infantry. S. O. 49

For gallantry and initiative in battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 27, 1918. This soldier, while one of a party engaged in mopping up a trench, saw a German soldier about to throw a grenade at a lieutenant of his company. He jumped in front of the lieutenant and shot the German before he was able to throw the grenade.

PRIVATE FRANK WATSON, Company D, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage and devotion to duty while acting as a stretcher bearer in carrying a wounded member of his company to the rear in broad daylight, exposing himself to machine gun and artillery fire. This near Purgatory Farm, Belgium, September 1, 1918.

PRIVATE HERSCHELL WATSON, Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86

For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE JOSEPH P. WAVERLA, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For courage and determination in effecting the capture of an enemy sniper in front of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES WEAVER, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86

For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in entering a gun emplacement under heavy enemy shell fire and assisting in carrying a wounded comrade to safety.

PRIVATE CLARENCE H. WEAVER, Company K, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in carrying messages under heavy shell and machine gun fire. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES P. WEINBEER, Sanitary Detachment, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, October 31, 1918, in voluntarily assisting in the establishment of the advanced kitchen under heavy enemy artillery fire, and when the kitchen was destroyed by shell fire, with great devotion to duty, assisting in its re-establishment and carrying rations to the detachment under fire without regard to personal risk.

PRIVATE SOLLY WEINTRAUB, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE HUGH WEIR, JR., Battery F, 105th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action during the operations of the 105th Field Artillery in the vicinity of Cote de l'Oie, France, on October 2 and 3, in carrying ammunition by hand a distance of 1200 meters from the ammunition dump to the battery position, under heavy enemy shell fire throughout the night and the following afternoon in order to enable the battery to fire an offensive barrage in support of the infantry advance.

PRIVATE SAMUEL WEISSMAN, Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in rendering effective first aid under heavy shell fire, furnishing inspiring example to his comrades. This near Arbre Guernon, France, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM F. WELSCH (1209825), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For gallantry and determination in advancing over an open field under heavy fire at the time of a raid on the front line trenches, for which he and his comrades were commended by the British Commander. This during the operations in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE FRANCIS M. WHITE (1210940), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE JOHN WHITE (1211407), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 While holding a section of trench in the Dickebusch sector in front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, July 11, 1918, this soldier proved an inspiration to his comrades through his display of exceptional bravery in refusing to be evacuated when suffering from injured ear drums and shock caused by the explosion of a large shell within five feet of his position, causing his rifle to be broken and himself to be buried under the collapsed trench. After the forcing of Le Selle River, east of St. Souplet, October 18, 1918, this same soldier was again wounded, but continued to advance until put out of action by a further wound in his legs.

PRIVATE LEO F. WHITE, Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and determination in forcing the surrender of a large number of the enemy during the operations against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 27, 1918.

PRIVATE GEORGE WHITNEY, Company F, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in voluntarily serving as a member of a small raiding party which crossed Le Selle River in the face of heavy enemy fire and captured twenty-three prisoners. This at St. Souplet, France, October 14, 1918.

PRIVATE EARL C. WIEDE, Company C, 108th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For exceptional courage and determination during the battle of the Hindenburg Line in the vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918, in exposing himself to enemy fire in order to signal tanks for assistance. This soldier was instantly killed by the fire of the enemy while performing this act.

PRIVATE A. C. WILBUR, Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE W. J. WILCHEK, Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES WILLIAMS (401326), Company D, 102d Engineers. S. O. 31
 For coolness and courage in removing detonators from mines; this under heavy enemy fire near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE EARL WILS, Battery C, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For conspicuous gallantry in action in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 3, 1918, in entering a gun emplacement under heavy enemy shell fire and assisting in carrying a wounded comrade to safety.

PRIVATE CECIL ST. L. WILSON (1210948), Company F, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For conspicuous bravery in action in the vicinity of St. Souplet, France, on October 14, 17 and 18, 1918, during which advance this soldier was killed.

PRIVATE LANCELOT A. WILSON (1211924), Company H, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 On September 28, 1918, while en route to the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, this soldier was painfully wounded in chest and legs by shrapnel, but refused to be evacuated and continued forward until he fell a second time, but with extraordinary courage and determination he again pushed forward into action.

PRIVATE GEORGE WIMMER (1208656), Company K, 106th Infantry. S. O. 44
 For gallantry and zeal, when, although wounded himself, he helped three other wounded men to the rear under heavy enemy fire. This in the battle of Vierstraat Ridge, August 31, 1918.

PRIVATE EARL N. WINNER (1211502), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE L. C. WINTLER, Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES H. WINTZEL, Sanitary Detachment, 106th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For gallantry displayed near Vierstraat Ridge, Belgium, September 1, 1918, when he crawled two hundred yards in advance of the front line under heavy sniper and machine gun fire; gave first aid and brought back a wounded soldier.

PRIVATE WILLIAM G. WITHERS (1210487), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For excellent work as a scout for his Lewis Gun Squad during the attack on St. Souplet, October 17, 1918, and Jone de Mer Ridge, October 18, 1918.

PRIVATE CHANDLER P. WITHINGTON (2667889), Company D, 108th Infantry. S. O. 39
 For courage in carrying messages under heavy enemy fire in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29-30, 1918.

PRIVATE ANDERS J. G. WITTLOCK (1209828), Company A, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For inspiring example of fearlessness and courage in volunteering and carrying wounded men in daylight under machine gun and sniper fire from the front line; this in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM WITTMAN (1210830), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE ARTHUR WOHLKE, Headquarters Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For fearlessness and courage in carrying messages under heavy fire during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Vendhuile, France, September 29, 1918, and in the fighting east of Le Selle River, near St. Souplet, France, October 22, 1918.

PRIVATE WILLIAM H. WOLF, Company G, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE JERRY WOLFE (2670994), Company H, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 During the operations before the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, September 29, 1918, this soldier with great gallantry and determination advanced against unusually difficult enemy positions composed of strongly fortified machine gun nests, until killed.

PRIVATE J. C. WOOD, Company I, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE STANLEY G. WOOD (1209313), 105th Machine Gun Battalion. S. O. 86
 For meritorious service, courage and devotion to duty in administering aid to wounded in first aid stations and casualty clearing stations, during the operations of the division in France.

PRIVATE STEPHEN WOOD (2221605), Company A, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For inspiring example of fearlessness and courage in volunteering and carrying wounded men in daylight under machine gun and sniper fire from the front line; this in the Dickebusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

PRIVATE CLYDE W. WOODARD (1210047), Company B, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For exceptional conduct in attack on the Hindenburg Line, near Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918. While acting as runner this soldier carried a message from a captured enemy trench across a half mile of open ground, under artillery and sniping fire for entire distance.

PRIVATE IVAN D. WOODARD (1210951), Company F, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For determination and courage during the attack against the Hindenburg Line, on September 29, 1918, in refusing to be evacuated when wounded.

PRIVATE LEE F. WOODS, Battery B, 104th Field Artillery. S. O. 86
 For gallantry in action during operations in the vicinity of Brabant-sur-Meuse, France, November 5, 1918, in rescuing a wounded comrade under heavy enemy shell fire.

PRIVATE GEORGE T. WOODWARD, Company G, 108th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For courage and devotion to duty in evacuating wounded men under heavy fire during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE EDMUND WRIGHT (1204752), Company H, 105th Infantry. S. O. 52
 For gallantry and devotion to duty while serving as a runner at Battalion Headquarters of his regiment. This during the battles and engagements in which his regiment participated.

PRIVATE ORA M. WRIGHT (1210488), Company D, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For his courageous work in administering first aid to several wounded comrades while under heavy shell fire, to the right of The Knoll, during the attack on the Hindenburg Line, vicinity of Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ALEXANDER M. WULFF (1206500), Company A, 106th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 49
 For gallantry and devotion to duty in refusing to be evacuated after being burned by mustard gas on the morning of September 27, 1918, and although nearly blinded continuing in command of a squad until killed in action, September 29, 1918. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France.

PRIVATE GRENVILLE K. WYATT (1211608), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86
 For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE CHARLES J. YETZER (2450108), Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 For repeated acts of gallantry, courage and determination, including the assault of enemy machine gun nests; this in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE MICHAEL YOUNGER (1211819), Company K, 107th Infantry. S. O. 86
 On the afternoon of September 28, 1918, in action against the Hindenburg Line, east of Ronssoy, France, this soldier and three other soldiers voluntarily carried a severely wounded comrade almost a thousand yards to a dressing station across an area which was under direct observation and heavy artillery and machine gun fire.

PRIVATE ESTANISLAE ZAPATA (2222084), Company I, 107th Infantry (Deceased). S. O. 86

For great courage and determination in action. This soldier, in the face of terrific enemy machine gun fire, which inflicted heavy casualties on his company, pushed forward with great resolution through the enemy wire in front of Willow Trench and into the enemy trench. This in the battle of the Hindenburg Line, near Bony, France, September 29, 1918.

PRIVATE ABRAHAM ZIRT (1224815) Company M, 105th Infantry. S. O. 86

For exceptional courage in pushing forward with his platoon by hand to hand fighting over three lines of enemy trench and continuing until he was but one of four survivors, members of the platoon, who were surrounded on all sides by the enemy and captured. This during the attack against the Hindenburg Line on the morning of September 27, 1918.

CAPTAIN STEPHEN N. BOBO, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For personal courage and great devotion to duty frequently demonstrated during battles and engagements in which this division participated and for exceptional capacity for work and energetic action in all that related to the activities of the American Red Cross.

CAPTAIN O. G. BRIGHT, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

LIEUTENANT AUSTEN T. SACKETT, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

LIEUTENANT WALTER H. WEAVER, American Red Cross (Deceased). S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918, and for exceptional devotion to duty and untiring effort which resulted in his death. This during the operations on Le Selle River, France, October 20, 1918.

DRIVER LEO A. BYRNES, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER J. A. COUGHLIN, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER N. E. DAGGETT, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER ALBERT E. ESRAY, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER HOWARD FAWCETT, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER C. F. GRIFFIN, JR., American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER ROY LUCAS, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER G. E. McKENNEY, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

DRIVER ALBIN P. SWANSON, American Red Cross. S. O. 52

For courage under fire and devotion to duty in the evacuation of wounded during the battle of the Hindenburg Line, France, September 27-30, 1918.

NOTE:—

Although the foregoing list of divisional citations contains all information available at Division Headquarters, it is realized that in some details it may be incomplete. Notification of any error or omission should be made to the Division Adjutant, Headquarters, 27th Division, Municipal Building, New York City, in order that the records may be completed.

2025
13
25-14

